"Now," he explained to the stalwart groom, "you just give me the fee you have arranged for the minister and I'll have it in my vest pocket ready to hand to him."

The rustic giant shook with laughter. "You won't be getting it into your vest pocket!" he chuckled. "It's a little pig I've been fattening for the parson!"—Youth's Companion.

Woman Her Home, Her Interests.

REPLIES TO QUERIES

HINTS AND ADVICE ON ALL KINDS OF SOCIAL FORMS.

Mme. Merri, Most Noted Authority on Such Subjects, Also Furnishes Helping Ideas for Varieties of Home Entertainments.

A Sad Condition.

I am a girl of fifteen years. I am not high tempered or stubborn, as some are, but no one likes me. I cannot make friends. I go to high school, and would like to have some one to walk around the town with at noontime, as I take my lunch. But I can find no one who seems to care for my company. Please tell me how to gain friends and be friendly. How is my writing, and my punctuation?—Bashful.

Your writing and punctuation are unusually good and I cannot imagine a girl your age not having friends. Just try being interested in whatever is going on, don't think of yourself, and be as lively as possible. The Good Book says: "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly." Try it.

A Musical Pastime.

I read your suggestions on entertainment with much interest and I am looking for a musical contest of some kind, a guessing game with musical terms for answers, or something of the kind. I am sure you will be able to give me the desired assistance.—Edna.

There seems to be no end of musical games. Perhaps our young readers do not remember this one, as it was printed many years ago. On cards write the following questions:

1 Wh[illegible] is the comet?
2 [illegible] friend?
3 W[illegible] weary most?
4 A[illegible]
5 [illegible]
6 [illegible]
7 [illegible] put [illegible] a letter?
8 [illegible] men
9 What [illegible] public speaker [illegible] some times?
10 Not served in barrooms.
11 The most popular style of music with debutantes?
12 What locks the stable when the horse is gone?
13 The one who guesses the most answers?

ANSWERS.

1 In space
2 Staff
3 Rest
4 Measure
5 Bars
6 Scale
7 Signature
8 Major
9 Repeat
10 Minors
11 Hymns
12 Key

Questions From Nora.

Will you please answer my questions in the Sunday paper? How are plate doilies used? Are high-top shoes worn this winter? In passing out of church or any public place, who takes the lead, the lady or gentleman? What colors are worn this winter?

Plate doilies are placed under the plate when the table is bare, no cloth used. High shoes are always worn by people of good sense in the winter time for outdoor use. Some persons prefer low ones with spats, but they are not conducive to perfect health. The man takes the lead always in a public place, making room for the lady who follows him. All colors are worn, perhaps all shades of blue and brown taking the lead.

Reception Etiquette.

Is it customary in social circles to take leave of the hostess when she is receiving ladies at a large afternoon reception or tea?

What does the inclosure of visiting cards with the invitation card signify?

When a reception is given in honor of one or more ladies, should cards also be left for those in whose honor the tea or reception is being given, as well as for the hostess?

Would it be proper for an elderly lady, who still wears her widow's bonnet, with veil, to wear such a bonnet to an afternoon reception?

Is it customary to acknowledge invitations to receptions or afternoon teas?—Holly.

It is not necessary to take leave of your hostess, but if she happens to be free when you are ready to depart it is pleasant to tell her how much you have enjoyed the affair and say goodby. A visiting card enclosed with an invitation means that the hostess could not make a call in person. Cards should be left for all those in whose honor the reception is given. A widow may with perfect propriety wear her mourning, for some widows never take off their veil and it is no reason they should be debarred from social events. If one goes to the reception no acknowledgment is required, but if not able to go a card is sent to arrive upon the day of the affair.

Announcing an Engagement.

Please let me know if it is proper to announce an engagement at a formal dinner party, and if so what is the proper manner of announcing it?—A. C.

It is perfectly proper to announce an engagement at a dinner party, and it may be done by the father of the bride or her nearest man relative or her mother if there is no man in the family. It is quite customary to have the place cards and favors indicative of the happy occasion. All that is necessary to say is the fact that it is with pleasure the news of the engagement of Miss Brown to Mr. Gray is announced.

MADAME MERRI.

Long Shoe Horn.

Everything is made so easy these days that one may almost dress without thinking about it at all. The latest luxury of the toilet is a shoe horn with a handle nearly a yard long, and one may step into one's new shoes without bending the back at all. These new shoe horns look very much like golf sticks, with their long wooden handles and copper ends. There is a leather loop at the top of the handle, by means of which the shoe horn may be hung up.

QUAINT LITTLE PEN-WIPER

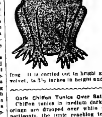
Original Design Made to Represent a Frog and Carried Out in Green Velvet.

A very quaint and original little pen-wiper this, made to represent a frog. It is carried out in bright green velvet, is 3½ inches in height and 2¼ inches across the broadest part.



For the top of the pen-wiper a piece of velvet is cut out in the shape shown in the diagram on the right hand side, and upon it the legs and mouth are worked in yellow silk at the points indicated by the dotted line. Then a number of pieces of material (almost any kind of thick material will do) are cut out exactly the same size, and with the top piece sewn together at the edges with button-hole stitching.

The feet are not sown together, as it is at this part of the pen-wiper that the pens may be inserted to be cleansed. On the head of the frog two small pearl buttons are sewn to represent the eyes, and complete this little novelty.

The best way to obtain the shape in which the material should be cut out is to sketch it first upon a piece of paper and then lay the paper upon the velvet and cut that out.

Millinery Race.

In Paris the large hats of white silk beaver faced with black velvet, are running a race for favor with the small hats of tiger skin.

Dark Chiffon Tunics Over Satin.

Chiffon tunics in medium dark colorings are drooped over white satin petticoats, the tunic reaching to the knee in front and sloping down toward the back.

Three such gowns were recently observed at a "coming-out" tea. In one the white satin skirt was half veiled with a tunic of charming old blue chiffon, which formed the bodice also. Another had a cherry red chiffon tunic and bodice over the trailing white satin skirt.

The third gown, more elaborate, showed a taupe brown chiffon, cut in cutaway style, edged around with fringe and opening over a cream satin petticoat on which were flounces of lace. The cutaway coat was belted at the high waist line with a girdle of hammered gold set with topazes.

Combination Well Liked.

Serge, velvet, liberty, cachmire de soie, mousseline de soie, some shot taffeta with trimmings of lace, fringe and fur, are being used separately and together for tailor mades and visiting dresses.

IN SILK BEAVER

Clipped silk beaver hat edged with white ostrich pattern trimming, and with a black osprey.

The fellow on the toboggan of joy does not realize it until he strikes bottom.

AKED EQUAL TO SITUATION

Example of the Soft Answer That Turneth Away Wrath—Also the Truth.

One of Dr. Aked's most ardent supporters when that divine was pastor of Mr. John D. Rockefeller's church is fond of telling what he considers a striking example of Dr. Aked's wit.

Dr. Aked was fond of taking long country walks, and one day, being far in the country and wandering through a field, he and his friend noticed a sign nailed in a tree, "No trespassing here."

Hurrying to get out of the forbidden ground they met a farmer who assailed them grimly with the remark:

"Trespassers in this field are prosecuted."

Dr. Aked smiled at the irate farmer.

"But we are not trespassers, my good man," said he.

"What be you then?" demanded the farmer.

"We are Presbyterians, my dear sir," replied Dr. Aked and walked away.

CHILD'S HEAD A MASS OF HUMOR

"I think the Cuticura remedies are the best remedies for eczema I have ever heard of. My mother had a child who had a rash on its head when it was real young. Doctor called it baby rash. He gave us medicine, but it did no good. In a few days the head was a solid mass, a running sore. It was awful; the child cried continually. We had to hold him and watch him to keep him from scratching the sore. His suffering was dreadful. At last we remembered Cuticura Remedies. We got a dollar bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, a box of Cuticura Ointment, and a bar of Cuticura Soap. We gave the Resolvent as directed, washed the head with the Cuticura Soap, and applied the Cuticura Ointment. We had not used half before the child's head was clear and free from eczema, and it has never come back again. His head was healthy and he had a beautiful head of hair. I think the Cuticura Ointment very good for the hair. It makes the hair grow and prevents falling hair." (Signed) Mrs. Francis Lund, Plain City, Utah, Sept. 19, 1910.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston.

Certainly Not.

Mrs. Styles—Don't you think this new hat improves my looks, dear?

Mr. Styles—I suppose so.

"But what makes you look so cross?"

"I'm thinking of the bill for that hat. You can't expect that to improve my looks."—Yonkers Statesman.

Didn't Wait to Choose.

"I presume Hobster applied some choice expletives to his automobile when it broke down yesterday 50 miles from a garage."

"No indeed. He just cut loose and said the first strong words that came into his mind."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take. Do not gripe.

Temperance is reason's girdle and passion's bridle, the strength of the soul, and the foundation of virtue.—Jeremy Taylor.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS
Your druggist will refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

Many a flowery speech has been nipped in the bud by a non-appreciative audience.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle.

We often wonder what lawyers would do for a living if there actually was a foul killer.

Hoxsie's Croup Remedy. The old reliable life saver of children; prevents Pneumonia. No opium—no nausea. Guaranteed by A. P. Hoxsie. 50 cents.

Many a high flyer has no knowledge of aerial navigation.

Few people would jump at conclusions if they could see their finish.

Act Well!
And that you may, profit by the health-restoring, strength-giving properties of the time-tested famous family remedy
BEECHAM'S PILLS
Sold everywhere. In boxes 10c., 25c.

KOW-KURE
MAKES HEALTHY COWS
This great cow medicine is the only doctor the herd needs for most of the ailments peculiar to cows. KOW KURE is not a food; it is a specific remedy for diseases of cows—the only one in the world for cows only. A positive cure and preventive for BARRENNESS, ABORTION, RED WATER, SCOURS, BUNCHES, LOST APPETITE, MILK FEVER, GARGET AND BLOATING.
Write For Free Book
"More Money From Your Cows."
DAIRY ASSOCIATION CO., MFRS.
Lyndonville, Vt., U. S. A.

Brown's Bronchial Troches
Coughs and Bronchial Troubles Relieved. No opiates. Sample free. JOHN I. BROWN & SON, Boston, Mass.

DETECTIVES Earn large salaries. Most fascinating profession. [illegible] Write WARNER DETECTIVE BUREAU, [illegible]

PATENTS Watson E. Coleman, Washington, D.C. Books free. High-est references. Best results.

FOR SALE—[illegible]

UNCLE SAM'S FARM IN PANAMA

SCENE NEAR CANAL

UNCLE SAM has found time to look into the agricultural possibilities of the canal zone, and he proposes to turn the five-mile strip of land on each side of the canal into one big vegetable garden. He intends to see that the thousands of vessels from all over the world passing through the canal will be able to replenish their stock of fresh meats and vegetables when they reach the Isthmus without the loss of a minute in traveling time. At present vessels leaving New York for a trip down the coast any great distance must stop at one or two places for fresh meat and vegetables before reaching their final destination.

Uncle Sam had his explorers examine every foot of ground within the ten-mile limit of the zone, from the Pacific to the Atlantic, including a portion of Costa Rica on one side, and Panama on the other. The investigation has now reached the stage where it can be safely asserted there are exceedingly bright prospects for the building up of a lucrative agricultural and stock raising industry along the Panama canal.

In addition to the great quantities of fresh meats and vegetables required for steamers passing through the canal, it must be remembered there will always be a great number of canal employes living along the line of the canal. The majority of these employes will undoubtedly be married, with families and children, and all these mouths will require vegetables to fill them. Also a number of minor industries may be built up along the canal, which will require its quota of human beings, who will also require feeding. But aside from these minor considerations are the vast number of ships expected to pass through the waterway—some authorities claiming the traffic will be so heavy as to be one continuous line of ships from one end of the canal to the other during the entire 24 hours.

About a year ago the investigation was started by the Bureau of Soils and the Bureau of Plant Industry working together. Hugh H. Bennett and William A. Taylor, two of Uncle Sam's scientific explorers in the department, were the men detailed to make the investigation. In speaking of the farming on the canal and its possibilities in the future, Mr. Taylor said:

"Though the Isthmus of Panama has been for four centuries the most important portage of the western hemisphere the lands through which successive routes of travel have passed across it show little agricultural development. Man's impress on the country, except in the immediate vicinity of the Panama railroad—completed in 1851—and the canal route, which lies close to the railroad through most of its length, is chiefly apparent through the destruction of practically all the more valuable timber trees that made up the original forest."

Hugh H. Bennett, who assisted in the investigation, said the most promising line of attack upon agricultural problems of the canal zone will be to develop a permanent mixed tropical agriculture with a distinct horticultural trend, in which hand labor of tropical origin will be the main dependence for tillage. In this way existing and prospective conditions would favor the production of high-priced products requiring regular and frequent transportation service, such as will doubtless be available promptly after the opening of the canal for use.

"One important feature," continued Mr. Bennett, "will be the early working out of a method of mixed cropping in which soil maintaining and improving leguminous intercrops can be continuously used to replace the wild and intractable native vegetation of the present slash-farm agriculture.

"Agricultural operations in the canal zone are now confined mainly to the meager efforts of the native and West Indian population and are restricted to patch farming. The production of local staple products, principally tropical vegetables and fruits, rice and corn, is little in excess of actual food requirements of the operators. The greater number of these farms although occupying the smoother slopes of the larger valleys and never distant more than five miles in a direct line from the canal, are isolated and inaccessible, owing to the broken topography and absence of good highways. They are reached only by narrow, winding trails, at no time passable for vehicles and often well nigh or quite impassable for horses.

"There is plenty of room for extension and improvement of the stock-raising industry. Upon a large proportion of steep-hill land suited only for forestry and perhaps the production of certain fruits, such as pineapples, mangoes, etc., good grazing can be secured through the establishment of guinea grass pastures. A number of native grasses, such as those which flourish upon the savanna lands, afford good grazing, while Para and Bermuda grass, cowpeas, velvet beans, corn, the sorghum known as "Guinea corn," sugar cane, and peanuts do well upon the lower slope soils and constitute excellent forage crops. Another good stock food is cassava, a crop that gives large yield with a minimum of attention. It might be well to say here that fine cattle, particularly the large, strong oxen as draft animals in portions of Costa Rica, are fed almost exclusively upon chopped stalks of plantian, banana and sugar cane.

"In the latter part of the dry season the grasses of the canal zone are generally so parched that very little sustenance can be secured from cleared pastures. But stored forage and crops like cassava, sugar cane, sorghum, banana stalks, etc., could be depended upon to carry stock through the dry months to the rainy season—the season of green grass and other tender vegetation. With such possibilities for the local production of forage crops there is no necessity for the present relatively large importations at high prices of grain, hay and other feeds by the few who are operating stock and dairy farms. At the time of this survey the price of shelled native corn was $2 gold per 80 pound sack, while bran was bringing $2.50 per 100 pounds. It is not at all surprising under such conditions that the demand for milk is so much greater than the supply and that the prices are exceptionally high. Milk from dairy farms of the savannah section is sold in the city of Panama at 25 cents per bottle containing one-fifth of a gallon, less than a quart.

"Very few hogs and goats are raised in the canal zone. A considerable number of hogs and goats are imported from points along the Pacific coast, and hogs principally from the Province of Chiriqui, in the high northern portions of the Republic of Panama. Some poultry is raised by native and canal employes. In view of the ruling high prices there is unquestionably a good opening for raising both pork and poultry. Away from the noisy activities of canal construction the depredations of wild animals such as the tiger cat and jaguar would likely entail some loss to these industries.

"Small farming, including the production of vegetables and choice tropical fruits, such as the avocado, mango, papaya, pineapple, orange, guava, annona, etc., can be carried on profitably with the application of intensive methods, coupled with proper care in the selection of crop varieties and soil.

"Such a variety of ornamental plants thrive on this soil that there seems little doubt that many of these could be extensively and profitably grown for shipment to the United States and other northern countries."

SHOWING FORCE OF EXAMPLE

Female George Washington Is Abroad in the Land, and Cherry Trees Suffer.

Probably no other American legend ever appealed to the national imagination more powerfully than the cherry tree story. Certainly none has so completely captivated the fancy of Mrs. John Gowen of Hickory Ridge, Pa.

Several weeks ago a resident of Hickory Ridge discovered that several fine cherry trees on his property had been ruthlessly chopped down. There was no conceivable reason why the trees should have been destroyed, and the identity of the offender remained a mystery until Mrs. Gowen voluntarily acknowledged that she had done the chopping.

In the prosecution that followed it developed that Mrs. Gowen had no substantial reason for felling the trees. It appeared, however, that she had a consuming hatred of falsehood and had chopped down the cherry trees merely in order to gain an opportunity to prove that she could not tell a lie.

For Violent Transit.

A recent book by Mr. Edwin J. Dingle, entitled "Across China on Foot," contains a bit of practical advice about the manner in which American goods should be packed for transportation in the interior of China.

Conditions are such that the packing should be thoroughly done. The Germans and the Japanese understand this. British and American manufacturers are either careless in this respect or ignorant of what is demanded by the conditions of transportation over roads that are mainly sight-lines tracks along the face of precipices.

One of Mr. Dingle's friends, needing a typewriter—and knowing the country—wrote home explicit directions as to the packing.

"Pack it ready to ship," he wrote, "then take it to the top of your office stairs, throw it downstairs, take the machine out and inspect, and if it is undamaged, send it to me.

"If damaged, pack another machine and subject it to the same treatment until you are convinced that you have one that can stand being thus handled and escape injury."—Youth's Companion.

PRODUCTION OF SUGAR BEETS DOES NOT NEAR MEET DEMAND

Manufacture of Article in United States, Despite Wonderful Progress of Culture in Past Few Years, Has Not Even Kept Pace With Increased Rate of Consumption.

(By S. C. CLINTON, Iowa.)

The first refined beet-root sugar produced in commercial quantity was made about 100 years ago, at a cost of approximately 50 cents a pound. The cost of producing cane sugar was then somewhat higher than that of beet sugar.

The amount of raw sugar extracted from the beet at that time varied from 4 to 6 per cent, and the amount of refined sugar obtained was from 1 to 2 per cent of the weight of the beet.

Women Weeding Beets.

The cost of producing an acre of beets was estimated at approximately $35, while the yield was from 6 to 25 tons per acre.

The advances that have been made in cultural methods have been offset to a very great extent by the increased cost of labor in the United States, so that the actual reduction in the cost of producing beet sugar has been due to the improvement of the beet or to less expensive operations in extracting and refining the product.

Thorough cultivation is another factor in producing good sugar beets.

In no time of its life should a sugar beet be allowed to stop growing, for if it once becomes stunted it is doubtful whether it will ever make as good a beet as it would have been under conditions of continuous growth.

Another way the beet has been improved is by increasing its sugar content. This has been done without increasing the size of the beet.

If a largely increased yield of beets is combined with a much higher sugar content it is entirely possible to obtain three times as much sugar per acre as is produced on an average at the present time.

Cultivating Beets With Electric Hoes.

The present average yield of beets per acre in this country is about 10 tons, and the percentage of sugar actually extracted and refined does not exceed 12, making the average yield of sugar per acre approximately 2,400 pounds.

Yields of more than 30 tons of beets per acre are sometimes obtained, and yields of more than 20 tons are common.

From 20 to 25 per cent of the sugar in the beet has been reported so frequently that it is safe to assume that an average sugar content of 18 per cent is within the limits of possibility.

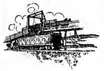
If an average yield of 30 tons per acre and an average sugar content of 18 per cent could be reached, we would have an average yield of 7,200 pounds of sugar per acre.

Clay loams are very satisfactory for sugar beet production, provided other conditions are favorable, but more depends upon the physical condition of the soil and upon methods of cultivation than upon the particular kind or variety of soil used. The soil, however, should be well supplied with humus and well drained.

During the past few years there has been a remarkable advance in the price of farm lands, especially in those localities where beet-sugar factories are in successful operation.

The production of single-germ beet seed is a method of thinning beets before the seed is planted. Commercial beet-seed consists for the most part of from two to seven individual seeds welded by nature into one mass.

It is evident that plants produced from such a mass of seeds must of necessity be very close together, and thus far no mechanism has been devised whereby the plants can be properly thinned. Thus hand labor has to be resorted to.



Unloading Beets.

Repeated efforts have been made to break up the seed balls by passing them through various forms of rollers, but the seed coats are so hard that any device that has been tried not only breaks the coats but likewise the seed balls, thus destroying the germ.

The department of agriculture has been more successful in this line by its effort to produce a single germ seed, and its scientists have within the past year increased the production of single-germ seed from 3 to 25 per cent.

The yearly consumption per capita has increased 8 pounds during the past ten years, that is, approximately 645,000,000 pounds or 330,000 tons more sugar was consumed last year than would have been consumed ten years ago had the population at that time been the same as it is today.

This goes to show that the manufacture of beet sugar in the United States, in spite of its wonderful progress during the past few years, has not even kept pace with the increased rate of consumption.

RUINED BY RAIN, SNOW AND SUN

A great many farmers are like the Timber Jack who, after working hard all winter in the woods without seeing the face of any human being except his fellow workmen, came out in the spring with his season's wages intact in his pocket.

After two weeks of drunkenness and debauchery he woke up one morning with 25 cents in his pocket, the last cent he had. Walking into a saloon, he threw the coin on the bar, ordered two drinks and quickly disposed of them.

"All in?" said the barkeeper.

"Yis, yis," said Jack, "no matter, aisy come, aisy go," and he walked out to join a gang back to the woods.

Many farmers operate on Jack's plan in regard to the use of their valuable machinery. They work hard to get the money to buy plows, reapers and other labor-savers, and then deliberately squander their savings by leaving their machinery to be destroyed by the weather.

On one farm the writer saw at least $400 worth of machinery which had been rendered practically useless within two years by exposure to the weather. A fine reaper which was only three and a half years old was left standing after the last wheat cutting, and is already so rusted and warped and weather-beaten that it can never again be used.

ALWAYS DEMAND FOR DRAFT MARE

Span of High-Class Animals Will Give Greater Returns Than Geldings on the Farm.

A span of mares will give greater returns on the farm than geldings and the better bred they are the more satisfactory the returns. A few farmers realize this and are seeking high grade, and in some cases registered mares of draft type to use on the farm, and from which to rear colts which will meet the market requirements. Even during the past season, when the horse market fell off in certain classes, the demand for high grade draft stuff remained steady. It is not easy to produce real draft stock. A "chunk" can be obtained from such breeding stock, but this class is not in demand to the extent that real draft is. A span of draft brood mares need not be out of service on the farm except a few days or weeks at most when rearing colts. The slow, plodding work of the farm, though heavy, will not injure a brood mare even when she may be well along in the period of gestation. It is even better for the dam and her offspring than too much leisure with little exercise. In the old country, the home of our draft breeds, it is the custom to put breeding stock of both sexes to work with sufficient exercise to keep up bodily vigor to its highest pitch.

Glazing the Poultry House.

In replacing glass in poultry house windows it pays to use putty. Without it the panes cannot be made tight and are much more likely to be broken. I remove all old putty with a thin knife, scraping the wood well where any has fallen out. For holding the glass in the frame I use slim, headless tacks—shoe tacks are good, says a writer in an exchange. I then take a small portion of putty, roll it between the hands until it forms a long, slender rope, press up against the sash with the thumb, and smooth down with a putty or blunt-pointed kitchen knife.

INCREASE IN NUMBER OF AMERICANS GOING TO CANADA

Although Western Canada suffered, as did many other portions of the west, from untoward conditions, which turned one of the most promising crops ever seen in that country, into but little more than an average yield of all grains, there is left in the farmers' hands, a big margin of profit. Of course there were many farmers who were fortunate enough to harvest and market a big yield, and with the prices that were secured made handsome returns. From wheat, oats, barley and flax marketed to the 1st of January, 1912, there was a gross revenue of $75,364,000. The cattle, hogs, poultry and dairy proceeds brought this up to $101,620,000 or 21 million dollars in excess of 1910. There was still in the farmers' hands at that time about 95 million bushels of wheat worth at least another sixty-five million dollars (allowing for inferior grades), besides about 160 million bushels of oats to say nothing of barley and flax, which would run into several million of dollars.

There is a great inrush of settlers to occupy the vacant lands throughout Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. The reports from the Government show that during the past year upwards of 131,000 Americans crossed the border into Canada. A great many of these took up farms, over ten thousand having homesteaded, in fact the records show that every state in the Union contributed. A larger number, not caring to go so far away as the homesteading area, have purchased lands at from fifteen dollars an acre to twenty-five dollars an acre. The prospects for a good crop for 1912 are as satisfactory as for many years. The land has had sufficient moisture, and with a reasonably early spring, it is safe to predict a record crop.

Those who have not had the latest literature sent out by the Government agents should send to the one nearest, and secure a copy.

THE REASON.

Dinks—I saw your boss today.

Winks—Who? Old Closefist?

Dinks—Yes, and it seemed to me he looked miserable.

Winks—He always is miserable in February. He pays all us fellows by the month, you know.

No True Friend.

There's a Hugh Ford and a Harry Ford at the new theater. The similarity of initials sometimes makes trouble. The other day a perfumed note came for "H. Ford," and Hugh Ford, opening it, found it was from a woman. The next day Harry Ford opened a letter addressed to "H. Ford." Then he passed over to Hugh the bill marked "due and payable," which it contained.

"You're no true friend," said Hugh Ford. "You might have paid my bill for me. I kept your date."—New York Letter to the Cincinnati Times-Star.

Back in Good Old Bowl Days.

A man of apparent means brought two boys into a barber shop for a hair-cut. While waiting for the completion of the job he said:

"I never sat in a barber's chair when I was a kid. My brother used to go over to the engine house and borrow the horse clippers. Then my mother would put a bowl on my head and cut around it. Until I was 12 years old I always looked like a window washer's brush."

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY
Take LAXATIVE BROMO Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box. 25c.

Some married men look upon home as a place to rest—and some others get anything but a rest while there.

He is a brave man who will face the parson with a short haired woman.

900 DROPS
CASTORIA
ALCOHOL—3 PER CENT
A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of INFANTS & CHILDREN
Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC
Recipe of Old Dr. SAMUEL PITCHER
Pumpkin Seed
Alx. Senna
Rochelle Salts
Anise Seed
Peppermint
Bi Carbonate Soda
Worm Seed
Clarified Sugar
Wintergreen Flavor
A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.
Fac Simile Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK.
At 6 months old
35 DOSES—35 CENTS
Guaranteed under the Food and
Exact Copy of Wrapper.

BETTER THAN MANY FROWNS

Right Kind of Smile Stands Always for the Best Things There Are in This Life.

At the door of a hospital is the sign: "If you can't smile, don't go in." There are smiles and smiles, but of course this means the smile which stands for the best things in life, not the kind that irritates, but the kind which cheers and inspires and stimulates and nourishes. Whoever conceived of that sign was not far from being a good physician, though he may have been serving as janitor. Better than medicine is the smile of friendship to those who are set apart by their infirmities. And the smile of cheer and hopefulness is not only the passport to the hospital, but to all the world, if we but knew it. Someone remarks: "Who is beyond the ministry of a kindly smile? It is a tonic to the discouraged. It helps the little child for whom the world holds so much that makes afraid, and it cheers the aged who find life unspeakably lonely. As King Arthur's court was built by music, so the happier life we all hunger for here upon earth is built in large part by the cheerful faces we see as we bear the load appointed for us."—Universalist Leader.

When Mamma Failed to Beam.

A little girl, who attracted all the passengers on the tram car with her singular sweetness, was asked by a lady who sat next to her: "And did Santa Claus bring you a dolly at Christmas?"

"Yes indeed," said the little girl, and all the passengers smiled, while the mother beamed at the attention her child was receiving.

"He brought me two dolls," continued the child to the strange lady, "and, do you know, the hair on one of my dolls' heads comes right off—just like mamma's."

And every one smiled again, but the mother did not beam.

Evil of Idleness.

Work develops all the good there is in a man; idleness all the evil. Work sharpens all his faculties and makes him thrifty; idleness makes him lazy and a spendthrift. Work surrounds a man with those whose habits are industrious and honest, in such society a weak man develops strength and a strong man is made stronger. Idleness, on the other hand, is apt to throw a man into the company of men whose object in life is usually the pursuit of unwholesome and demoralizing diversions.—Darius Ogden Mills.

A One Ringed Circus.

"There's a ring around the moon."

"I guess the man in it is having a circus."

An engaged couple prefer a lip to lip silence rather than a heart to heart talk.

Strong Healthy Women
If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the many women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism and are unfitted for motherhood. This can be remedied.
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription
Cures the weaknesses and disorders of women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in motherhood, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic.
"Favorite Prescription" banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits.
It Makes Weak Women Strong. It Makes Sick Women Well.
Honest druggists do not offer substitutes, and urge them upon you as "just as good." Accept no secret nostrum in place of this non-secret remedy. It contains not a drop of alcohol and not a grain of habit-forming or injurious drugs. Is a pure glyceric extract of healing, native American roots.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
In Use For Over Thirty Years
CASTORIA
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

WANTED AT ONCE A MAN
To Make $100 Per Month Above Expenses
About 2000 Men are now making big money with our Medicines, Extracts, Spices, Soaps, Perfumes, Toilet Articles, Stock and Poultry Preparations, Polishes, Etc. Our Company fastest growing, most progressive, most successful. Established over 17 years. Capital and surplus over $2,000,000. Big Branch Warehouses at Memphis, Tenn. and Chester, Pa. make low freight rates and quick service. Total floor space in factories and warehouses, over 10 acres.
We Now Want one man in each unoccupied locality to take full charge of all deliveries to farmers and others from a wagon [illegible]
$100 Per Month Clear Profit above expenses the first year, $1600 the second year, and $2400 the third year. [illegible]
W. T. Rawleigh Co. Freeport, Ill., 34 Liberty St.

44 Bu. to the Acre
is a heavy yield, but that's what John Kennedy of Edmonton, Alberta, Western Canada, got from 40 acres of Spring Wheat in 1910. Reports from other districts in that province showed other excellent results [illegible]
160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE
The Silver Cup at the recent Spokane Fair was awarded to the Alberta Government for its exhibit of grains, grasses and vegetables. Reports of excellent yields for 1910 come also from Saskatchewan and Manitoba in Western Canada.
Free homesteads of 160 acres, and adjoining preemptions of 160 acres (at $3 per acre) are to be had in the choicest districts. Schools convenient, climate excellent, soil the very best, railways close at hand, building lumber cheap, fuel easy to get and reasonable in price, water easily procured, mixed farming a success. Write as to best place for settlement, settlers' low railway rates, descriptive illustrated "Last Best West" (sent free on application) and other information, to Sup't of Immigration, Ottawa, Can., or to the Canadian Government Agent.
H. M. WILLIAMS
413 Gardner Bldg., Toledo, Ohio
Please write to the agent nearest you.

WANTED, AGENTS
to sell "White House Gallery" of Official Portraits of the Presidents. Originals painted by greatest American Artists for the Government at Government expense. [illegible] An exceptional opportunity for salesmen and canvassers. [illegible] BUREAU OF NATIONAL LITERATURE, [illegible] Washington, D. C.

FRUIT TREES
Direct from Grower. Wholesale Prices
Apple $15.00 per 100 Plum $18.00 per 100
Peach 6.00 100 Cherry 8.00 100
Pear 12.00 100 Grapes 5.00 100
Send for Our Free Book No. 6
WE PREPAY FREIGHT
WOODLAWN NURSERIES, ROCHESTER, N.Y.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. [illegible]

THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY. No.1. No.2. No.3.
THERAPION [illegible]

W. N. U., CLEVELAND, NO. 9-1912.

CHEW MAIL POUCH SMOKE
IT'S WORTH YOUR WHILE—TO GIVE IT A TRIAL

YOU have a right to buy clothes wherever you please; this is a free country, and it's your money. The reason for buying them here is:

Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes
Our kind of service

two advantages you'll not get anywhere else; both worth getting

THE GAIL G. GRANT CO.
Service and Value Givers

This store is the home of Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes

ABOUT PEOPLE AND PLACES

Speak to your councilman about it

—o—

Anything else you want Mr Jordan Come down and take what's left

—o—

Two petitions are being circulated asking the council to pave Liberty street

—o—

Councilmen Leland, of the Fourth Ward voted "NO" to the franchise grab ordinance

—o—

Some mean republicans in this town are after Elmer Murphy's scalp, but the old Sea Dog is still in the ring and the best bantam weight scrapper in town for money, marbles or peanuts.

—o—

We wonder if the Telegraph-Republican is for Taft or for Teddy, or is the Telegraph on the fence?

—o—

M Horowitz, one of the leading merchants of Wickliffe, was in Painesville Tuesday of this week

—o—

If a presidential primary is held in Lake county by the republicans there will be some things a doin', and "Good Bye, Mr Taft"

—o—

Ralph Mills of Stockwell street was injured last Monday at the Soda Ash plant His injuries while very painful are not considered serious

—o—

Under the old ordinance the street car service to the Nickel Plate depot was regulated by the city, now the C P & E will do its own regulating

—o—

Of course the Shore Club stock holders and realty owners near Linden Beach want that extension, but why should Painesville buy it for them?

—o—

If "Teddy" does come back, Jimmy Garfield will also have another chance to help out his Lake county friends and the next time Jimmy will look after them

—o—

Judge J B Burrows, E F Blakely and Judge A G Reynolds were among the speakers at the Republican Club of Geauga county last Friday evening at Chardon

—o—

Probably no one was more surprised at the action of the council Monday night than the directors of the C. P. & E. Windfalls like that don't come as easy, often

—o—

At the meeting of the council Monday night President Blakely ruled the Murphy resolution out of order, and then advised the council to appeal from his decision, saying his sympathy was with the resolution.

—o—

The C. P. & E. had no franchise rights around the city park, it had none on Railroad street and none to the spurs and proposed switches of the new ordinance. von Beseler just threw them in for good measure

—o—

It is a great wonder that Tailor McLeod didn't throw in a suit of clothes with the franchise grant he was in such haste to give The little tailor of Painesville has the three tailors of Tooley street beat a mile when he comes to managing a franchise deal

—o—

A C Grover is an original fellow in many of his ideas A short time ago he was mailing a pair of peas in a small package to his friends and on the outside of the package was the words "Harmon and Taft," illustrating the well known proverb of "Two peas in a pod"

—o—

The Up-to-Date Department store management showed a commendable disregard for trade advantage by closing their store last Saturday from 8 30 to 10 30 a m, and by the members of the firm and their employees attending the funeral of Mary J Kilcawley, a former respected employe

Miss Mary Kerr, the daughter of the late Levi and Emily Kerr, and a resident of Painesville since the Civil War, passed away at the Kerr home on Richmond street on Sunday morning, after a long illness The immediate cause of her death was a fall on Thursday, which fractured her hip

—o—

Councilman McLeod, who was so anxious to hasten the passage of the franchise grab ordinance was, in the former administration, also favorable to the plan to buy electric lighting from the C. P. & E. Does Mr. McLeod believe that the sun rises and sets in the offices of the C. P. & E. company?

—o—

E. C. Witemen, Richmond street, has resigned his position as master carpenter of the Storrs & Harrison Co., after a long and faithful service of forty-one years. Mr. Witeman will be treasurer of the Painesville Garden & Greenhouse Co., a new industry that will build a large plant on West Jackson street.

—o—

Every time a franchise ordinance has been passed in this city, heretofore the beneficiary of the franchise paid the costs of legal publication. In case the "franchise grab" ordinance, passed Monday night, is published, the city will have to pay the costs amounting to a couple of hundred dollars, to go with the $50,000 franchise gift as a "chromo."

—o—

The Township Park Commission is certainly helping us to pay the price for that Township Park, and all because the Commissioners were so stubborn in the selection of the most out-of-the-way place they could find. The township park should have been located at Fairport, and then there wouldn't have been any franchise grants, and also no necessity for our solicitor to confer with Supt. Jordan and the C. P. & E Attorneys to obtain advice on legal procedure. But such is fate.

—o—

Madison is ablaze with progressive sentiment, and the sentiment in Madison is a fair index of the temper of the people all over the county The people generally may not understand the intricate problems of government or the devious workings of the courts but they do demand that under the law no man be given an advantage over his fellow man, and that the dignity of the courts shall be maintained by the courts granting justice, and by the courts being closed forever to men who wish to defeat justice for selfish reasons

—o—

Did City Solicitor von Beseler fix up an ordinance to prevent Mentor people from coming to Painesville to do their trading. A five cent fare from Stop 73 probably means a 15 cent fare from Mentor "O," von says, "but Mr. Jordan tells me he won't do this and he won't do that" Well suppose that Mr Jordan should die or "get the hooks" or change his mind Twenty-five years is a long time and even Mr von Beseler will be old and ugly within that time A lawyer ought to know, at least that verbal contracts don't go with franchise grants

—o—

Under the new ordinance the C P & E now has a franchise on the north and SOUTH sides of the public park This south side right is a new grant not a renewal, and the same is also true of Railroad street where the Company has never had a franchise And this is what the City Solicitor calls a "RENEWAL" ordinance Look in Webster's dictionary, Von Beseler. It is a standard work on the definition of words just as "Cline, Tolles & Morley" is the standard corporation law firm of Ohio, and from whom you take your legal opinions

—o—

The Herald probably has not pointed out the sleepers and worst features of the franchise grab the C P & E. Ry Co pulled off Monday night at the council meeting and a genuine lawyer ought to find a great many more objections But the Herald points out enough in this issue to give the people some idea of the talent they have employed in the office of the city solicitor May Heaven preserve us during the remainder of his two year term if this first attempt at drawing an ordinance is not improved upon It may become even necessary for members of the council to exercise common sense

WOLLPERT'S
OF WICKLIFFE

"S.&H."

If You Know

That you need Rubber Boots
That we carry Ball Band
That they are Snag Proof
That they are a Finished Rubber
That they have the Wearing Quality
That they have stood the Test of Time

Why Not Stop In

at Wollpert's and have them fit you with a BALL BAND BOOT or STRAIGHT LINE RUBBER and be prepared for the coming wet weather.

WOLLPERT'S
GENERAL STORE
WICKLIFFE, OHIO
Cuyahoga Phone 4-R

HOW A WAGE-EARNER'S ACCOUNT with this bank accumulated more than $3,000 in a little over six years is graphically shown by a reproduction of his passbook. It is a powerful illustration of the worth of systematic saving. Ask for a copy at any of our fifteen offices.

PAINESVILLE OFFICE
The Cleveland Trust Company
SAVINGS BANK
W R RADCLIFFE, Mgr
W C TISDEL, Chairman

SORROW

Caused by the Death of Miss Josephine Kilcawley.

The death of Miss Josephine Kilcawley was not unexpected, and still when the sad message was passed from one to another, many of the young lady's friends realized that they had been nurturing a hope that she would recover Expressions of the deepest sorrow were heard on all sides

Miss Kilcawley was born in Painesville, she graduated from the high school in 1896, and here, known to almost every one, she had held many responsible positions, the last of which was bookkeeper at the Up to Date Department store Her kindly ways, her genial, happy disposition had won the friendship of all who knew her

Her mother died a number of years ago, her devoted father passed away quite recently and while she fatally ill was being treated in a Cleveland hospital Of her immediate family, one sister, Mrs E. J Walsh, survives

Miss Kilcawley died at her home on North St Clair street Thursday evening The funeral was held Saturday morning from St Mary's church The service, High Mass, was largely attended, and hundreds who could not attend had a kind word and expressions of sorrow for the departed because in life she had won the respect and love of all

HOW IT PAYS

Municipal Plant at Ashtabula is Paying Well.

Last year the net gain of the municipal electric lighting plant was $5,724.66 The total income for the year was $40,750 39 Disbursements were $26,424.39; discounts allowed, $1,408.96, interest on bonds, $546; depreciation of 7½ per cent, $5,437.40, making a total of $35,015.74, which deducted from the total income of $40,750.39, leaves the net gain of $5,794.09. The bank account of the concern December 31, 1910, was $32,697.01. December 31, 1911, the amount in bank was $29,948.03.—Ashtabula Standard.

FOR SALE—Stove wood, seasoned hickory. Home phone 3071L3, Painesville, Ohio.

Farmer's Column

FOR RENT—Fine suite of 5 rooms for housekeeping Steam heat R N Whitcomb, Mentor, Ohio.

1000 Chestnut fence posts for sale at 8c each F. L. McConnell, R F D. No 3, Painesville.

148 acre farm to rent; 14 acres good wheat; will sell or exchange dairy, young stock, and tools, for good renting property in city or town. F. L. McConnell, R. F. D. No. 3, Painesville.

FOR SALE—Chunks and stove wood, seasoned hickory; also two fresh cows with calves. Home phone 3071L3, Painesville, Ohio.

FOR SALE—50 shocks of corn at 40 cents. Roy Harrison, Concord. Home Phone, Main [illegible]

A CORRECTION

THE STORY OF CAPT. EATON AND THE "CRUEL ABDUCTION" SET RIGHT.

Mary E. Truax of Unionville, Tells An Indian Story and Dispels Reflections Upon Her Grandfather.

Editor of the Herald: A long time after it was printed in a Painesville paper, an article was cut out and sent to me about a story of an Indian boy being abducted by Capt Robert Eaton and commented on the cruelty of it.

Captain Eaton was my grandfather, and I always have had it in my heart to write and tell the story as my mother had always told it to me Capt Eaton and Capt Whalen were warm friends Capt Whalen settled among the Indians and married an Indian girl and had several children, the oldest, a boy about the age of grandfather's youngest son, Robert The Indian boy was a bright little fellow, and Capt. Whalen asked grandfather to bring him back to civilization and educate him, and so it came about that while my grandfather, Capt Eaton, on board his vessel "Rachel," was on one of his trading trips with the Indians, he took the Indian boy (or "half-breed," more properly speaking) and brought him to Painesville This was done with the full knowledge and consent of the boy's father

Here at Painesville the boy was sent to school and Capt Eaton gave him every advantage that he gave his own son

The boy learned easily, but disliking the confinement and loss of freedom of his free and easy life of the wilderness, the routine of school every day was distasteful to him and he ran away so often that he was finally sent back home

This is the story of the "cruel abduction" as it was told me many times by my mother, Sophia Eaton who used also to tell of many of the pranks and mischief that he and uncle Robert would get into He taught the white boy many of his Indian ways and they were pleasant comrades for each other

Mary E Truax,
Unionville, Ohio

Feb 22 1912

WHO WANTS HARMON AND WHY?

"Progression, published at Detroit, Mich, gives democrats something to think about seriously when it says Have you heard any of the out-and-out progressives calling for Harmon?

Have you heard any of the "horny-handed sons of toil" hurrahing for Harmon?

Well, then, who is it that wants Harmon and why?

When the rank and file of the people are for Wilson and other progressive candidates, how does it happen that Harmon is considered one of the most formidable candidates for the democratic nomination for the presidency?

What is back of this Harmon boom?

I don't know—absolutely know, but I think I am a fairly good guesser when I say that Wall street and conscienceless, soulless, and portyless organized greed is the power behind the Harmon candidacy.

And why does big business want Harmon?

Because Harmon is in sympathy with big business or is at least supposed to be Harmon is considered a "safe" man

At the same time, I do not wish to say anything derogatory to the personal character of Mr Harmon I presume he is a good and upright citizen So is Mr Taft So is Judge Parker and he was the choice a few years ago of the money faction of the democracy So are many of the men in big business

When the interests that make a business of exploiting the people, want Harmon, it is reason enough for the people to want another candidate And let me warn you, progressive democrats, and remind you that Judge Parker was nominated by the bosses in spite of the popular will of the party to the contrary

The bosses, controlled by the money power, will nominate Harmon if you don't watch out and you'd better get strenuously busy.

Eternal vigilance is the price of progression

Proof Positive.

"The people next door seem anxious to be friendly. "How did you get that idea?" "They have busted their phonograph."—Houston Post

Saws Without Teeth.

The development of circular disks of iron, turning with great velocity, but possessing no teeth on the edge, for sawing material, is common in many workshops.

Too Busy for Serious Things.

The growing indifference of the age is appalling; men are too busy with their pleasures, their money-making, their politics, and a thousand things.—Exchange.

PLANT TREES

ADD VALUE TO HOMES BY TAKING CARE OF YARDS AND GARDENS

Painesville Noted as a Beautiful City Can Be Made More Beautiful by Concert of Action.

We have not the slightest pecuniary interest in the sale of nursery or ornamental stock of trees, shrubs or vines, but we do have a common interest with others in wishing to see pleasant home places in this county, and just at this time of the year is the time when home owners should ask themselves, "What are we going to plant this year?" If one lives on a farm, the question may be an important one, as it might involve the question of a new orchard. But to every one who may own a few acres or even a part of an acre, the question is a pertinent one Can you find a place for an apple tree or a few peach trees? Will a dozen current brush growing out to one side, or say twenty grape vines, or possibly a few raspberries in the garden, make the place a little more valuable? Home grown strawberries are worth all the trouble it takes to produce them. And now is the time to think the matters over and make arrangements before it is too late

Plenty of fruit fresh from tree or vine makes the home place seem a little dearer, and if the place is for sale fruit trees in bearing often makes a sale easy and helps to augment the amount that can be secured

Another thing, that adds to value of a place, is the selection and careful planting of shrubbery vines and flowering plants in the yard near the house To be sure these things take time and attention, so does every thing that is worth having

No other single thing that can be secured with a moderate outlay of money adds so much to the beauty of a place as nicely arranged yard and garden with trees, vines and shrubbery All trees and plants are "living things" and should be carefully attended

We speak of these growing, living attractions as a proposition for the individual to consider, but there should grow up here in Painesville a "community of interest," a public spirited pride in making the whole city and the home in the vicinity of Painesville noted for their general attractiveness Let every one do his part

NORTH MADISON

L S Miller of Painesville was a guest Tuesday of his parents E C Miller

Miss Alma Graves was at home over Sunday from Cleveland

Mrs Crippen of Cleveland has been a recent guest of her daughter, Mrs James Hill Mrs Crippen of Madison accompanied her mother to the city Saturday

Mr and Mrs Carl Mericle of Ashtabula are soon to move to this place and occupy the Zimmerly house on the N. Ridge near the high school

George Harris of Geneva was a Sunday guest of his brother, Eugene

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Vesey have been recent guests of relatives in Huntsburg and Middlefield

Miss Cora Vesey who has been at the home of Rev. Goldner and family in Cleveland, for several weeks, is now at home and Miss Martha Davis is taking her place.

Miss Marion Chapman of Cleveland who has been a guest of her grandfather, Mr. John Chapman and uncle and family, returned home Sunday.

Miss Ina Miller was at home from Willoughby Sunday.

Miss Nina Graves, after an extended visit in the city returned home Tuesday.

Harry Brakeman and James Davis Jr., were Cleveland guests the week end.

Prof. J. R. Williams of Painesville and two children were over Sunday guests of his parents at Pine Tree farm

One of our N. Madison friends has attractions in town nearly every day now, it is rumored he intends to live here in the near future

Mr and Mrs Wheelock of the Bennett Road left for Big Prairie Wednesday, where they will make their home

This is the season of the year when mother feel very much concerned over the frequent colds contracted by their children, and have abundant reason for it as every cold weakens the lungs, lowers the vitality, and paves the way for the more serious diseases that so often follow Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures, and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

UNIONVILLE

Miss Mary Barnes was at home from Lake Erie college, and Alden Johnson from Case, over Sunday.

Eva Freeman of Madison was a Sunday guest of her aunt, Mrs Tryon

Emily Pathol was a week-end guest of her friend, Marjorie Martin.

Frank Harper has purchased a farm in Wayne county near the one which he formerly owned and sold to Mr. Vrooman. Mr. Harper intends to put in a large acreage of onions the coming season.

Mrs. Lawrence Truax was last week a guest of friends and relatives in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Udell and little son of Ashtabula, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kelly.

Mrs. Frank Peck is again quite ill.

Last Sunday p. m. a small pig belonging to O. S. Martin which was one of a drove which had been running at large through the neighborhood, and a collie dog of George Warner's, were both missed. Mr. Martin searched more or less for the pig for two days, then went to an old abandoned well on the Pettiplace farm Looking down in it he discovered both pig and dog The well was about twenty feet deep but dry Ropes were obtained and both animals hauled safely to the top

Mrs Reed is confined to the house with a spinal injury An osteopath physician from Cleveland is attending her.

Mrs Chas Olive is very low Dr Dickson of Ashtabula was called on Monday in consultation with Dr Quayle

While Chas Ludwig was crossing the railroad tracks at Madison on Friday night, he waited for a freight train to pass, when not seeing a passenger train he attempted to cross, and his rig was struck killing the horse and demolishing the buggy, but he escaped unhurt

Mrs. Otto Warner of Conneaut died in Lakeside hospital Sunday p m., following an operation Mrs. Warner was a daughter-in-law of E N Warner and sister of Capt. Harry Lyons. Mr Lyons spent the most of last week with his sister Mrs. Warner leaves two young daughters

Mrs O. J. Barnes returned from Columbus on Tuesday evening.

Little Arthur Goddard is confined to the house with tonsilitis

Relief From Express Companies

A charge of 25 cents, instead of $1.32, for the delivery of a 11 pound package on rural free delivery routes is in prospect, as the result of the action of Democratic members of the house committee on post offices and post roads in incorporating in the appropriations bill provisions for a tentative parcels post system. The committee members also agreed upon a general domestic rate of 12 cents and a maximum package of 11 pounds This is the present international parcels post rate

DON'T BE BLINDFOLDED

Councilman McLeod said at the council meeting, and will tell you also, that the C. P. & E. Co. was not asking for a new franchise, but that all this work connected with the new grab was done to please the Township Park Commissioners. Now Mr. McLeod is very poorly informed about the manner in which corporations go after legislation they desire, or else he was trying to pull the wool over the eyes of his associates on the council. At the council meeting Monday night he kept up a continual chatter about how the Park Commissioners needed the votes of the council, and spoke about fifty different times upon the subject.

But if the C. P & E. is not anxious for a renewal of its franchise in Painesville, let us inquire why, during the past year, did it ask and obtain a 25 year renewal in Willoughby? and didn't the C P & E offer and actually do a great deal in return for the Willoughby franchise?

Let us ask Mr. McLeod if he knows that there is also an application before the village council of Fairport for a 25 year extension of its franchise.

Does Mr. McLeod know that the extension of all these franchises to Lake county is worth hundreds of thousands of dollars to the Company, and that the company will capitalize these privileges for all of that?

Now to get this legislation the C. P. & E. Co. would gladly make valuable concessions to Painesville if they could not get them more easily by cajoling such easy going, liberal minded fellows as McLeod.

Mr. McLeod you were elected to serve Painesville, not the C. P. & E., nor the Township Park Commissioners. You made a very cheap bargain for Painesville and you are not fooling very many people, as you, perhaps, think you are doing

SPRING STYLES ARE NOW READY FOR YOUR INSPECTION

Our beautiful and enlarged Ladies' Suit and Cloak Department is now in blaze of style Splendor, showing Dame Fashion's newest creations in ready-to-wear apparel. Including all the last hour styles from New York and Cleveland, America's centers of fashion.

THE UP-TO-DATE
Painesville's Leading Department Store

At "The Old Fortress"

WE have finished inventory and find a good many lines with assortments broken. We are going to price these goods without regard to cost—for instance, a lot of 10½-inch Skates costing from $1.20 to $1.83 while they last, your choice for 90c We also have some nice odd pieces of Anti Rust Tin-ware, and Enameled-ware that we are going to sacrifice on. Keep your eye on our east window. Come in and see for yourself.

The Doolittle Bros. Co.
Reliable Hardware

RUBBER WEEK
At M. HOROWITZ, Wickliffe, Ohio

We carry a full line of Rubber Foot-Wear. We have them in the best brands

Candee, Woonsocket, Federal and Diamond

Every pair guaranteed by me, which does not give satisfaction, will be made right, by a new pair.

M. HOROWITZ
WICKLIFFE, O. In Steven's Old Stand

John S. Lockwood

GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS INCLUDING

"Elgin" Shirts, Gloves, Hosiery, Neckwear, Collars, Gents' Jewelry, Boys' Blouses, Garters, Men's Work Shirts, Nightshirts, Umbrellas, Overalls, Ladies', Men's and Children's Shoes, Rubbers, Rubber Boots, Wall Trunks, Suit Cases, Marion Shoe Co.'s Work Shoes, Boys' School Shoes, Children's Suits, Rain Coats.

---

The Lake County Weekly Herald

Volume XIII. No. 52 PAINESVILLE, OHIO, MARCH 7, 1912 One Dollar Per Year

MAYOR VETOES FRANCHISE GRAB

ALL MEMBERS OF THE CITY COUNCIL VOTE TO SUSTAIN MAYOR'S VETO

Franchise Grab is Lost and a New Ordinance Will be Drawn Up and the Matter Will be Considered Carefully Before It is Passed by the City Council.

THE MAYOR'S VETO

To the Council of the City of Painesville:

After careful consideration I have vetoed Ordinance No. 863, entitled "An ordinance granting a renewal of the street railway grants of The Cleveland, Painesville & Eastern Railroad company, fixing the terms and conditions of such renewal grants, and terminating existing grants."

In taking this action let me first say that I am passing no criticism upon the solicitor or the members of the council, but that my desire is rather to assist them in securing an agreement more favorable to the people of Painesville and vicinity.

The question of renewing the existing street railroad franchise has been brought up at this time, by the request of the township park commission for the construction of a line from the city to the park, and the offer of the railroad company to build such a line, if the council of this city would renew their present franchise as an inducement. I believe that a large number of our citizens desire the construction of this line to the park, and I hope that reasonable terms for the construction of such a line can be arranged between the railroad company, the proper authorities of the city and county.

There are, however, several other matters of importance to the city and the street railroad company, upon which an agreement should be reached, at the same time. We know by experience that the best time to secure concessions for ourselves is when the other party to the contract wants something. The street railroad company wants a new franchise covering all its lines in this city. We know that such a franchise will be of great value to that company. Consequently our duty to the people of this city plainly requires us to secure from the company concessions which will be valuable to the public, and commensurate with the value of the franchise granted.

I wish to direct your attention to some of these important matters and to suggest some things which should be clearly specified in any new grant that is to be made to the street car company, and also to point out some things in this ordinance which I have vetoed, that seem to me proper points for criticism.

However, in the first place in order that we may intelligently grasp the present situation, and decide upon our proper position as officials of the city, let us briefly review the franchise grants that have been made to street railroad companies in the past.

Tells of Franchises.

Three street railroad franchises have been heretofore granted by the council of Painesville. The first was passed May 6, 1882, for a term of twenty years. It provided for a line on South St. Clair street from the Nickel Plate to Main street, on Main street from St. Clair street to State and on State street from Main to the corporation line.

The second was passed November 2, 1893, for a term of twenty-five years. It provided for a line on Main street west of St. Clair, on North Park Place, on Mentor avenue to the west line of the corporation, on Sanford street from State to St. Clair and on St. Clair to the corporation line.

These grants were both made to The Painesville, Fairport and Richmond Street Railway company, a corporation which had been organized by Mr. I. K. Pierson. By assignment these franchises some years later, came into the possession of The Cleveland, Painesville & Eastern Railroad company, and it was under them that this company first came to Painesville.

On May 6, 1901, a franchise ordinance was passed, extending and renewing these two franchises to The Cleveland, Painesville & Eastern Railroad company [illegible] five years from that date, and also providing for a line on Walnut avenue from St. Clair to State street and on State from Walnut to the N. Y. C. & St. L. R. R. and on Erie street from State street easterly to the corporation line. This renewal franchise was made expressly "Subject in all respects to the terms and conditions of said ordinances hereinbefore referred to."

Of Great Value.

These franchises contain many conditions and regulations of great value to the Painesville people. They are all in force and by their terms will remain in force until May 8th, 1926.

Bearing these facts in mind, let us consider what should be the manner and terms of any new grant.

1. As to the character of the grant.

I do not believe that any condition or stipulation contained in the existing franchises which preserves a right or privilege to the people of Painesville, should be relinquished. I do not believe it good policy to attempt to terminate the existing grants and substitute for them a new grant, and it seems to me that the legality of such a proposition is very doubtful. Sec. 9102 of the General Code reads as follows:

"After such grant or the renewal of any grant has been made, by general or special ordinance, or the order of county commissioners, neither the municipality nor commissioners shall release a grantee from any obligations or liabilities imposed by the terms of the grant, or renewal of any grant, during the term for which such grant or renewal was made."

In the face of this statute it seems to me that the proposed grant should be simply a renewal of the outstanding grants, and that like the former renewal ordinance, it should be made expressly "Subject in all respects to the terms and conditions of said ordinances hereinbefore referred to."

Rates of Fare.

2. As to rates of fare.

The former renewal ordinance stipulated "That the rate of fare for the transportation of passengers shall not exceed five cents from any point in the city to any other point therein over the line of railroad owned or controlled by grantee or over the line of any other persons or company with whom they have an exchange transfer agreement.

The rate of fare from any point in the corporation east to the Storrs & Harrison Nursery company and to the car stop maintained by said railroad which shall be next nearest to main office of said nursery company shall be not to exceed five cents."

This existing ordinance contains no other stipulation as to rate of fare. The absence of a stipulated five cent limit west of the city is one of the weak points in that ordinance. The present request for a renewal grant furnishes the first opportunity to remedy that omission. The railroad company has for more than ten years carried passengers to the Heisley road in Mentor for five cents. Any new grant should specify a five cent limit. The company can not complain, if we fix that limit, where they have in practice put it, viz: at the Heisley road.

The five cent limit east of the city is too short. As a condition of its franchise in Madison village, the railroad company makes a fare of five cents clear across Madison township, we should have the same rate across Painesville township. The company has in practice fixed the five cent fare limit at the Bowhall road, so called. As a matter of right it should be extended to the Park road, and so specified in any new grant. The proposed line to the township park will serve not only that park and the vicinity, but also the Shore club, the Shorelands allotment and the plant of The Diamond Alkali company, [illegible] whether this line will run through Fairport village or not. The people of Painesville have expected much benefit from the location of The Diamond Alkali company here. If we are to insure the full benefit of it to Painesville, we must insist upon a five cent fare to the stop nearest the principal buildings of that company. Ten cents has been proposed as the rate of fare to the township park. This is too high, when we consider that the grant is for twenty-five years. Ten cents may be agreed to for fare one way, but there should be a provision for an unlimited round trip for fifteen cents, tickets to be sold on the cars.

The existing provision for a five cent fare between any two points within the city should be retained and made to include any territory that may be hereafter annexed to the city and also any point within Fairport village as now or hereafter bounded.

The railroad company is now charging a rate of fifteen cents from Painesville to Perry and vice versa, although its rate from Perry to Madison, practically the same distance, is only ten cents. This is a discrimination against Painesville and Painesville merchants which ought not to be permitted. The fare from Painesville to Perry and vice versa should not exceed ten cents.

The Feed Wires.

3. The feed wires.

For years the railroad company has maintained a bare feed wire through this city, carrying a current of large voltage. At the time it was first erected, an effort was made to require its insulation, but without success. Several times since, the company has been requested to substitute an insulated wire. They have declined to do so. This bare feed wire constitutes a menace to the lives and property of our people. Any proposed renewal grant must provide for the early removal of this dangerous wire, and that no other bare feed wire shall be strung within the city limits.

4. Service to be furnished.

The existing grants stipulates in substance (1) that said railroad company "shall run cars on the entire route therein granted on such schedules of time as shall be satisfactory to the village." (2) That cars on Erie street shall not be required oftener than they are run through eastward to the east-line of the county of Lake; and (3) that cars on the St. Clair street line shall be run as often as once every thirty minutes, unless released from so doing by resolution of council."

In the proposed new grant the first and third provisions above quoted should be preserved in clear language, the second one should be wholly eliminated, so as to leave it within the power of the council to require local service over the whole system within the city. This service may not be needed at present but long before the expiration of 25 years, it probably will be, and we should leave the hands of the future councils free to do as the future conditions require.

The proposed line to the township park will be entirely without the city, so that the city council will hereafter have no control of it under the first general provision above mentioned. I believe that the minimum schedule to the park should be a condition of this proposed renewal grant, but I will not attempt to state at present what the schedule should be.

5. Package, Express and Freight Service.

The existing franchises authorize passenger service only. I observe that the franchise reported by your committee also authorized the railroad company to carry packages, express matter, mail, baggage and light freight. This business has been carried on for several years by The Electric Package company, a corporation affiliated with The Cleveland, Painesville & Eastern Railroad company and other suburban lines of Northern Ohio. This is a branch of public service which is rapidly increasing in volume and importance, and contains large possibilities for the future. We have no desire to hamper it in the least, but the manner in which this package freight has been received and discharged in this city has been somewhat of a public nuisance for several years. If the railroad company now desires to have this class of service directly authorized by franchise, it should be entirely willing to provide a suitable central station off from our streets where such packages and light freight can be conveniently handled by shippers and the public not be inconvenienced by the obstruction of our principal streets. In connection with this package and freight business, the baggage of passengers should also be cared for. As one of the considerations for the renewal of its franchises in Willoughby village, the railroad company enlarged its yards and built the fine new suburban station and other improvements which they have there. Must Painesville wait another 25 years for such improvements? It seems to me that before this renewal grant is passed, we should consider our needs in this direction, and be sure that we are to get something of this kind in the near future, if not now.

Some of our citizens advocate a public shelter house upon the public park instead of a suburban station. If a majority of the people want this, they should have it. If it is built, it will be of great advantage to the railroad company and that company should contribute liberally towards its construction and maintenance. The time to stipulate for any assistance from the railroad company in this matter, is now, if it is to be done at all. These several propositions should receive your careful consideration.

I have so far touched upon five important matters that should be embodied in any new grant of rights to the street railroad company either at this time or in the future. There are a number of matters of less importance which I have not mentioned, but which will undoubtedly come to your committee, when it takes up the revision of this ordinance, or the preparation of a substitute. I can see no necessity for haste in this matter. The ordinance presented at your last meeting gave the railroad company until May 1st, 1913, to complete the line to the township park. The actual work of constructing such a line will not take very long. We can take plenty of time to thresh out all the details with the railroad company and still have the line ready for the summer of 1913; but, if it is difficult to secure the concessions which we ought to have, let us take the time necessary to get them. Better that we go without a line to the park for awhile then that we lose our only opportunity to gain the other concessions to which we are clearly entitled in consideration of a renewal of the city franchise.

In closing I ask you to accept this communication in the spirit in which it is given, and to join with me in an earnest effort to secure a new agreement with the railroad company which shall embody in substance the propositions which I have here laid down. I ask you to take the people into your confidence, and make public in full the terms of your proposed grant before it comes up for passage, so that the cry of snap judgment may not be again raised.

I am confident that our local press will gladly assist us in this matter. When we have finished our work and done the best we can with this franchise proposition, if the people of the city desire a referendum upon it, let us welcome the suggestion, and leave to them the responsibility of deciding this important question.

Respectfully yours,
WYNNE S. SMITH,
Mayor.

BAKER ADVOCATES REFORMS

Mayor of Cleveland Talks on 'Practical Humanity.'

Cincinnati, Feb. 25.—Practical humanity applied to the moral questions of the municipality as a remedy for civic evils was, in short, the message brought to Cincinnati by Mayor Newton D. Baker of Cleveland in his address before the People's church, at the Grand opera house this afternoon.

Mayor Baker advocated the adoption of the initiative and referendum and recall, woman suffrage and home rule for cities, and the establishment of more playgrounds. He also said he believed that within the next decade the United States would take over all the steam railroads of the country.

THE MAYOR'S VETO

In another column we publish the veto message of Mayor Wynne S. Smith, upon the passage of the so-called Franchise Grab Ordinance.

The people may congratulate themselves that they have the veto power upon hasty and ill advised legislation by the city council, and also that they have in the office of Mayor a man of courage to exercise the veto in the face of an organized attempt to rush through legislation favorable to a street railroad company and very unfavorable, in all its aspects, to the citizens of this community.

There is not a suggestion nor a demand made by the mayor in his veto message, that should be omitted from a renewal of the C. P. & E. franchises. The message should be read carefully by every voter, and the influence of the citizenship should be brought to bear upon every member of the city council, advising them that there is no need for haste in this matter, and that the new ordinance which shall be drafted, shall be given the opportunity of consideration and discussion by the public as well as by the council before a second attempt at its passage.

THE TOWNSHIP PARK

Supt. Jordan, of the C. P. & E. Ry. Co. was present at the meeting of the City Council Monday night, and in his remarks at that meeting and also repeated in a later newspaper interview, he says that he is quite sure that his Company will make no concessions in the rate of fare to and from the township park and also that the Company will not agree to continue to carry passengers on the main line for a five cent fare to the limits now fixed by the Company.

The Herald wishes to say that IF the C. P. & E. Ry. Company is DETERMINED upon this point of agreement that it would be better to drop the franchise legislation at once.

The people of this township had better drop the idea of street railroad to the Township Park if the rate of fare to and from the Park is to be practically prohibitive, and a twenty cent round trip rate from Painesville and a thirty cent round trip rate from the east and west portions of the township does make it prohibitive as a popular Township Park.

The first mistake in all this matter was the undue haste and bad judgment of the Township Park Commission in selecting the present location of the Township Park. They acted in the face of public criticism and in opposition to a public vote of expression upon the matter at the time. And the only thing that prevented more serious criticism of the Township Park Commission was the promise of that Board to get a railroad connection with the Park.

But the Park Commission did not tell us that the rate of fare was to be 20 and 30 cents round trip to the park. They did not tell us that this rate was to be upheld for 25 years. They did not tell us that the rate of fare was to be increased on the main line of the interurban railroad. Nor did they tell us that in order to get a railroad to a $20,000 Park the people would be compelled to give up a $50,000 franchise.

This is the tail wagging the dog to a finish, and the people should repudiate any such agreement, if there is such an agreement, between the Railroad Company and the Township Park Commission.

It would, in our opinion, be wise to drop the extension of the C. P. & E. franchise altogether. If we cannot get a five cent fare to and from our township park, let the park be changed to a better location, where it will be available to all the people of the Township. The present location, with a high rate of fare to and from the park, will never permit of it becoming a popular place for all the people of the Township.

Painesville Township has a population, according to the last census of 9601, and during the next twenty-five years, we all confidently believe it will be doubled or increased to 20,000. Now with a Township Park centrally located and made available by low transportation rates, this Township Park could rival such resorts as Willoughbeach or other well known summer resorts on the Lake. If we cannot get what we want just now, let us wait a few years; big things are happening in electrical transportation; changes are being made in our state constitution this year, in giving to cities home rule, and enlarged possibilities in the way of municipal and township ownership.

GIVING AWAY FRANCHISES is going rapidly out of date.

Let us own ourselves the railroads we build, in the future, and there is nothing that the C. P & E. can do for the people of this township that we cannot do for ourselves and do it considerably cheaper too.

Let us remember that "haste makes waste" and that we do not need that township park railroad half as badly as the C. P. & E. Ry. Co. needs a renewal of its franchises, in this county and the cities and villages of this county, notwithstanding the "seeming" indifference of Supt. Jordan.

If the present city council may renew a franchise fourteen years before the expiration of the old franchise what is to prevent a renewal, every five or ten years by another council, or the grant of a PERPETUAL FRANCHISE!

ABOUT PEOPLE AND PLACES

A lot of pennants are being won in the spring training camps.

—o—

Fairport citizens are looking for the smoke of that big steel plant.

—o—

Uncle Jud isn't likely to become wildly enthusiastic over the plan to give Ohio a presidential preference primary.

—o—

A Maryland editor remarks of Theodore Roosevelt that "at a funeral he would want to be the corpse."

—o—

There is just one fault to be found with the cub reporter of the Telegraph-Republican; he has too much ego in his cosmos.

—o—

There appears to be three sides to the liquor question in the Constitutional Convention. The wets, the drys and the middle-of-the-roadsters.

—o—

The voters of Sandusky county rolled up a majority of 1,602 for the return of the open saloon, reversing the result three years ago, when the county went dry.

—o—

Ding! Ding! Ding! Three bells! Back up Mr. Telegraph-Republican. Your front trucks are on the switch, your back trucks on the main line. Three bells! Ding! Ding! Ding!

The funeral services for the late William B. Clayton were held on Friday afternoon from the residence of W. C. Tisdel. The services were conducted by Rev. Robert E. Freeborn assisted by Rev. E. Lee Howard.

—o—

An eastern editor evolves this dialogue:

Mrs. Outlate—"I thought you said 'never again.'"

Mr. Outlate—"M'dear, I meant consecutive drinks."

—o—

Orange C. Farr passed away at his home on Jackson street, after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Farr moved to Painesville from Mayfield about four months ago and has been ill since he reached Painesville. He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Susan Worthington Farr. Mr. Farr was born in [illegible] about 61 years ago.

—o—

A delegation representing the anti-saloon voters of this county called upon F. D. Malin, representative in the Constitutional Convention, last Sunday and urged him to vote against the License bill proposed by the wets. Mr. Malin favors the submission of a license for the saloon with restrictions and favors regulation rather than prohibition.

—o—

The announcement that the expenditures of the United States war department, chiefly for the army, have been $1,500,000,000 in 13 years may serve as a useful reminder of the actual cost of conquering and owning the Philippine islands. At least two-thirds of the whole vast sum, or a thousand millions of dollars of this expenditure, would not have been possible if Mr. McKinley had not insisted on taking over those Asiatic islands in 1899.

—o—

The Painesville Dry Cleaning Company moved its offices and work rooms this week from its former location on Main street to 108 S. St. Clair street, the store formerly occupied by R. E. Yeoman. The move was made necessary by the demand of the growing business for more floor space. The Company has leased the entire building into which it has moved and will occupy both first and second floors. The first floor will be fitted up as a show room and office, the work rooms occupying the upper floor. The finest of fixtures are being installed in the new store which will make it one of the most attractive.

—o—

The attitude of the Telegraph-Republican on the question of extending the franchise to the C. P. & E. railway has been a great disappointment to many of Painesville's leading business men. It does seem incomprehensible, that a daily paper receiving a liberal pecuniary support from the business men of this city, should show by word and by apparent lack of interest a total disregard of the people's interests. We think it is but simple justice to the T.-R. to state that Editor Burrows is or has been away and the management of the paper has of necessity fallen upon the shoulders of the cub reporter, who undoubtedly, in his good natured credulity, has been lead to believe that the granting of franchises is but a prelude to a political campaign between democrats and republicans. The Mixer's time, as nearly every one knows, is fully occupied by his jokes, puns and rhymes.

—o—

Mr. James E. Farron appeared before the members of the city council Monday night to protest against a 99 year franchise to the C. P. & E. Ry. Mr. Farron said he was only one of the plain, working people of the city, but that he was a taxpayer and a citizen. He claimed that in a former agreement with the workingmen at Fairport the C. P. & E. had violated a promise made to the car riders. He thought the use of a $40,000 bridge for 94 years in addition to the time already used was enough already donated to the Company, to say nothing of the use of our streets and public highways. Mr. Farron says we build these railroads by franchise grants and then pay for the privilege of riding over the roads we build ourselves. Mr. Farron told a Herald reporter that he never made a public speech before in his life, but that when he read about the franchise grab as pulled off at the Council meeting a week ago, he was so d— mad that he couldn't stand for it and so he was making his protest just as strong as possible.

Use of the Horse.

Owing to the advancement of science it would be possible to get along without horses now, if it were not for the necessity of having a few of them at the annual horse shows.

All Too Frequent Mistake.

The soul is intended to guide the body in the journey through life; the chief mistake which man makes is that he permits the body to guide the soul.—London Truth.

Much Harder Question.

"What," said an interviewer to a candidate, "do you intend to do if you are elected?" "My [illegible]," said the [illegible] "[illegible] I'm not elected."

LAKE COUNTY HERALD
[illegible] & TUTTLE, Proprietors
PAINESVILLE, OHIO

DAVIS CALLED OFF THE BET

Editor Had the Best of Author in One Way, but Victory Was Not Altogether Complete.

John Kendrick Bangs tells this story of an attempt he made to get the better of Richard Harding Davis, according to the New York Evening Post:

"Davis and I were talking one day of his Van Bibber stories, and incidentally, I asked him how long it had taken him to write them.

"'O, about ten days' each,' he replied.

"I ventured to express the opinion that such a story could well be written in a couple of hours, and the result was that we made a bet of a dinner based on my ability to write a story similar in style to the Van Bibbers, and to have it accepted by a New York editor.

"When I reached my home in Yonkers that night I wrote the story, the work occupying the time from eight until ten o'clock, at ten the next morning I reached my office in Franklin square; at 10:30 I submitted my story to myself; by 10:45 I had read it, my warm regard for the author leading me to expedite the matter as much as possible; at eleven o'clock I accepted the manuscript, and at 11:15 I drew an order on the cashier for $100 in payment, which I at once cashed. Then I went out to find Davis. Meeting him, I told him of what I had done, detailing the various steps, and at the end held out in my hand the cash to prove that the transaction really had been consummated.

"Davis looked at me, then at the bills.

"'Well,' I said, 'what of that dinner, Davis?'

"'Huh,' grunted Davis, 'if you have all that money you can afford to buy your own dinner.'"

When She Grows Up.

The latest addition to the prize compositions from children of the public schools now rests at the Franklin building, the headquarters of the local school system, and is a most naive dissertation on "When I Grow Up." The author of the composition is an eight-year-old girl, who plays with dolls and is in the third grade. The teachers all believe she has the correct idea of leap year, for she has announced in her composition that she intends to marry the little boy who sits across the aisle from her.

"When I am 19," begins this work of art, "I am going to be a school teacher. When I am 25 I am going to get married to——"

Here follows the name of the fortunate lad of 8½ years.

"If the first child is a girl it will be named Freida Egbert. If it is a boy it will be named Lucullus."

And then the concluding line brings a sadly prophetic vision.

"Maybe I will be an old maid."—Washington Star.

The English in Shakespeare's Day.

"The English are good sailors, and better pirates, cunning, treacherous and thievish; about 300 are said to be hanged annually at London. . . . They are powerful in the field, successful against their enemies, impatient of anything like slavery; vastly fond of great noises that fill the ear, such as the firing of cannon, drums and the ringing of bells, so that in London it is common for a number of them, that have got a glass in their heads, to go up into some belfry, and ring the bells for hours together, for the sake of exercise. If they see a foreigner, very well made or particularly handsome, they will say: 'It is a pity he is not an Englishman!'"—Quoted in "Life in Shakespeare's England."

Felt He Had a Safe Risk.

H. A. Harris, the champion pistol shot, told a shooting story at a supper in San Francisco. "There was a party of amateurs here," he said, "who thought they'd do some live pigeon shooting; so they ordered thirty birds from a suburban dealer. The shoot came off duly. It was a wonder. To give you a correct idea of it, I must quote from a letter sent by the dealer to the amateurs the next day. The letter ran: 'Gentlemen: I thank you for your order, and beg to state that I will be only too happy to supply you with birds for all future shoots. The entire thirty pigeons, for which you paid me fifteen cents a head, returned home safely, and moreover, brought two strays with them. My price to you hereafter will be one cent per pigeon.'"

Impossible, Though.

"You are going to inherit all my money," said the rich old man.

"Yes," sobbed the youth.

"I wish to goodness I could fix it so that you could also inherit my ability to take care of it," was the old man's last expression.

Stunned.

"Your case is nolle prossed," said Police Judge Church White of Atchison to a prisoner the other morning.

"I don't know what that is," replied the prisoner, "but I think I ought to have a chance to consult an attorney before being handed a bunch like that."

Hoodo Ahead.

Bacon—The superstitious people will see no happiness in 1912.

Egbert—Why so?

"Oh, just add up the figures."

New Year Reverses It.

She—Sir, I wish to propose——

He—I am sorry, my dear young lady, but I can only be a brother to you.

She—I was going to propose, sir, that if you engage me as a stenographer I want only to be a sister to you.

Cutting Him Short.

Bornleigh—Ah! good morning, Crusty. How do I find you this morning?

Crusty—Your finding me this morning is purely accidental, I assure you.

MRS. TAFT HEARS CRUELTY TALES

FIRST LADY OF LAND HORRIFIED AFTER LISTENING HOW WOMEN WERE TREATED.

PRESIDENT'S WIFE PETS CHILD

Stories Told Before House Committee on Rules by Witnesses From Lawrence, Mass., Are Almost Unbelievable.

Washington, D. C.—Mrs. William Howard Taft, wife of the president of the United States, came to the hearings of the Lawrence mill workers before the house committee on rules. She heard Tina Committa tell how women and children had been herded together in police wagons during the strike. She heard of the rough words, of the clubbings, of the almost unbelievable brutalities, which the narrator described quietly and in an even voice that lent more horror to her story. But when Miss Committa, looking directly at the committee members, told how a woman about to become a mother had been kicked by a ruffian who had been set over her, the wife of the president, with a white face, hurriedly left the room, accompanied by the two women companions who had come with her to the hearing. As she passed the door her hand fell in a caress on the shoulder of a little dirty boy who looked up at her with a cheerful smile, never suspecting who it was who touched him.

Tale of Brutalities.

John Knebel of Philadelphia, describing the scene at the Lawrence, Mass., railroad station, February 24, said: "I even saw a great brute of a policeman draw his club and strike a woman soon to become a mother across the abdomen."

The dramatic recital of the treatment of women and children given by Knebel, whose emotion made it difficult for him to speak at times, caused a scene such as probably never before was witnessed in a congressional committee room.

Knebel told of children torn from their mothers' arms to be sent to the Lawrence poor farm, after the authorities had prevented the sending of the children from the strike ridden town.

Children Emaciated.

Miss Margaret Sangler, a New York trained nurse, described the two shipments of children who had been taken from Lawrence to New York.

"These children were emaciated and malnutritious," she said. "A majority of them suffered from adenoids and enlarged tonsils. In the first shipment to New York there were 119 children. Four of them wore underwear, and the weather was bitter cold. About 20 had overcoats. When they were given a supper on their arrival in New York they grabbed the meat from the table."

Youngsters Clubbed.

The committee was much impressed with the testimony of June Bock, a member of the committee sent to Lawrence from Philadelphia to take charge of the children. She declared flatly that she saw policemen use their clubs on little children at the station, and no amount of cross-examination could shake that statement.

"Do you mean to say that these policemen deliberately struck down these little children?" demanded Representative Hardwick.

"I saw them do it," answered the woman emphatically.

UNEARTH SHOPS IN POMPEII

Explorers Excavating Old Ruins of Ancient City Make Interesting Discoveries.

Naples.—Very interesting discoveries have been made in connection with the excavation of the ruins of Pompeii.

A street leading to the Forum, which was closed at both ends by stone pillars to exclude carriages, now proves to have been one of the chief thoroughfares of the city. It is lined with shops, the walls of which show inscriptions and marble tablets well preserved.

PUT OUT CHRISTIANS' EYES

Imperial Troops in China First Torture Victims and Slaughter Converts One by One.

Pekin, China.—Forty Christian converts have been barbarously put to death by imperial troops at Hwang Hsien near Chi Fu, according to a letter from a missionary at that place just received.

The Christians were dragged into the open and slaughtered one by one while the others were forced to look on. The troops first put out their victims' eyes and then beheaded them.

Slayer of Woman Is Hanged.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Joseph A. Stoll, aged [illegible], was hanged here for the murder of Blanche Taylor in this city last June. Stoll shot down the woman on the street because she had refused to become his wife. Stoll left a confession.

Stoll's mother had done washing to raise funds to have him buried at his home in Syracuse, N. Y. The mother and Stoll's brothers and sister came here from Syracuse to bid him good-by, and at his request refrained from an effort to obtain a respite.

Baptist Minister Kills Self.

Baltimore, Md.—Rev. Walter R. Rhodes, pastor of the Onancock (Va.) Baptist church, a pulpit orator and lecturer, committed suicide by shooting in a hotel here.

In an unfinished letter he wrote that he had been in ill health and was suffering from melancholia. He was 41 years old and leaves a widow and two children.

Rhodes was a direct descendant of Zachariah Rhodes, who, with Roger Williams, established the first Baptist church in America.

TO CUT DUTY ON WOOL

CHAIRMAN UNDERWOOD WILL FRAME NEW MEASURE.

Ways and Means Committee Makes Careful Analysis of Report Made by Taft's Commission.

Washington, D. C.—A bill providing for a tariff on wool of not more than five cents per pound will be presented to congress within the next 30 days. The bill will be drawn personally by Oscar W. Underwood, chairman of the house committee on ways and means. If the Democratic members of the house are convinced that the income tax bill recently agreed upon by the Democratic caucuses will pass in the senate, the proposed new bill will provide for free wool.

A careful analysis of the wool report made by President Taft's tariff commission is now complete and in the hands of the committee. From an authoritative source it is learned that the analysis shows that a duty of 9½ cents per pound affords a complete and effective tariff wall around the wool industry.

The Payne-Aldrich tariff law carries a duty of 11 cents per pound, or 1½ cents per pound greater than even the president's own tariff board will admit to be justified under the existing cost of production.

It is the purpose of Mr. Underwood and his committee to create a tariff for revenue only on wool. A rate of five cents per pound will pour $30,000,000 per year into the national treasury. A more careful study of the proposed income tax law reveals the fact that it will produce $100,000,000 per year, instead of the $50,000,000 at first estimated.

Responsibility for the schedule has been put up to Mr. Underwood personally by the ways and means committee. His decision is to be final. As a basis for the new bill, Mr. Underwood will use the bill reported by himself last June. It carried a duty of 20 per cent ad valorem or about five cents per pound on the wool of sheep, hair of camel, goat, alpaca and other like animals and on all wools and hairs on the skin of such animals. Other duties fixed in this bill will be slightly reduced with free raw wool.

CLOTHES COST HER $49,930

Woman Who Startled Society by Wearing Diamonds in Heels of Slippers Makes Out List.

Washington, D. C.—In a discussion on how much a well dressed American woman is obliged to spend for clothes Mrs. C. H. Anthony of Muncie, Ind., who recently startled Washington society by wearing diamonds in the heels of her slippers, gave the following list of her purchases made within a year:

| | |
|---|---|
| 200 pairs of silk stockings | $ 100 |
| 30 pairs of gloves | 175 |
| 50 pairs of shoes | 750 |
| 6 pairs diamond shoes | 7,200 |
| 1 pair ruby shoes | 400 |
| 3 pairs rhinestone heeled shoes | 450 |
| 24 silk petticoats | 240 |
| 750 lace petticoats | 1,875 |
| 15 fans | 225 |
| 30 afternoon gowns | 7,200 |
| 1 black velvet gown | 240 |
| 2,000 yards ribbons | 1,000 |
| 25 evening gowns | 10,000 |
| 6 beaded bags | 100 |
| 15 negligees and kimonas | 975 |
| 4 permanent sets of furs | 7,000 |
| 20 tailored gowns | 3,000 |
| 40 hats at $125 average | 5,000 |
| Lingerie | 2,000 |
| Other lingerie | 2,000 |
| Total | $49,930 |

5,000 DIE DURING MUTINY

Property Loss Will Amount to More Than $14,000,000—Missionaries Reported Safe.

Pekin, China.—Yuan Shi Kai's official statement, just issued, places the number killed during the mutiny here at 5,000. The property loss will amount to more than $14,000,000. The city is quiet as the result of the presence of 3,000 foreign soldiers, 2,000 of whom are Americans.

Tientsin.—Although quiet ruled here the restlessness of both the inhabitants and the troops led to the issuance of an edict prohibiting the natives from going abroad after eight o'clock at night. The buildings connected with the railroad and the warehouses belonging to foreign firms are being guarded by strong detachments of foreign troops.

New York City.—A cable was received by the Methodist board of foreign missions here stating that both foreigners and foreign concessions in Tientsin were safe, though a large part of the city had been destroyed by fire. The dispatch further stated that the mission stations at Pekin, Chaigli and Taranfu have also been reported safe.

Buckeye Families Are Large.

Columbus, O.—That there are in Ohio some families that preserve to the last degree the traditions of Roosevelt and Napoleon regarding large families is shown by figures of the state bureau of vital statistics.

It appears that three families during the last year have reported their nineteenth child. Eight families have reported the seventeenth child, 15 families have their sixteenth, and 30 families have their fifteenth. When it gets down to ten and 12 the number runs into the hundreds.

Sun Worship Temple Raided.

Chicago, Ill.—"Dr." J. Ottoman Zar Adusht Hanish, head of the Mazdazan sun worshippers cult, was arrested by the United States authorities in a raid on the Mazdaznan temple here.

The occasion against the cult leader was sending improper literature by express, which is prohibited by a recently enacted law. The matter objected to by the federal authorities is said to have been contained in Hanish's book outlining the basis of the religion taught by Hanish.

WILL START FIGHT ON WHITE SLAVERY

AMERICAN VIGILANCE ASSOCIATION PLANS EXTENSIVE CAMPAIGN AGAINST TRAFFIC.

BACKED BY PLENTY OF CASH

Bankers, Merchants, Philanthropists, Educators and Other Leaders of National Reputation Organize to Combat Evil.

Washington, D. C.—Organized with the greatest secrecy and backed by unlimited capital, the biggest campaign ever undertaken against white slavery is about to be launched by the business interests of the United States, working in co-operation with the department of justice. Within the past few weeks, bankers, merchants, philanthropists, educators and other leaders of national reputation have met in New York and Chicago and completed a merger of all the principal organizations fighting the white slave traffic into the American Vigilance association. The officers of the association, whose identity was disclosed simultaneously with the discovery that the organization had been effected, are: President, David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford university; vice presidents, Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore, the Very Rev. Dean Sumner of Chicago and Charles W. Eliot, former president of Harvard university; treasurer, Charles L. Hutchinson, president of the Corn Exchange National bank of Chicago; executive secretary and general counsel, Clifford G. Roe of Chicago; chairman executive committee, Clifford Barnes, capitalist of Chicago.

Associated with the movement are some of the wealthiest men in this country, whose names are at present withheld. It is understood that they have pledged themselves to furnish the money for the support of the organization. The work of the American Vigilance association will be conducted through a number of departments. Headquarters are already in readiness in New York and Chicago and offices will soon be opened in San Francisco. The headquarters in New York will direct the work in the eastern section of the country; Chicago will direct the central portion, and the work on the coast will be conducted by the San Francisco office. The plan of operation of the association is simple but complete. Attached to each headquarters will be lawyers, detectives and educators. Among the investigators already employed is George Kneeland, recently chief investigator for the Chicago Vice commission and prior to that work employed by a number of organizations throughout the country engaged in similar activities.

Whenever a city or town wants to start a crusade against the white slave traffic the association will supply it with detectives who will investigate conditions and lawyers who will prepare the evidence. The evidence will then be turned over to the state or federal authorities and the influence of the association will be exerted to bring about effective prosecution.

LUNN ADDRESSES MINISTERS

Socialist Mayor Asserts J. P. Morgan Runs City of Schenectady in Industrial Lines.

New York City.—George R. Lunn, Socialist mayor of Schenectady, declared before the meeting of Methodist ministers in the Book concern building that J. P. Morgan runs the city of Schenectady in industrial lines, and to get political favors there it is necessary to go to Charles F. Murphy in New York, not to Gov. John A. Dix at Albany. Mr. Lunn, who used to be a Methodist minister himself, was heartily applauded by his former colleagues.

REV. DR. GEORGE R. LUNN.

Noted Actress Passes Away.

New York City.—Mrs. Annie Yeamans, known as America's "grand old woman of the stage," died here after suffering recently a stroke of paralysis. Since the age of 10 she had been on the stage and appeared before audiences in all parts of the world. She celebrated her seventy-sixth birthday November 19.

Mrs. Yeamans, when in Australia, made her first appearance behind the footlights as Julia in "The Farmer's Daughter." She married Edward Yeamans, a circus clown, who died in 1866.

Pays Back Forty-seven-Year Loan.

Yonkers, N. Y.—Forty-seven years ago Elmer Bowen of East View, then a Union soldier, loaned Howard Ross, a Confederate of Corinth, Miss., $50, after General Lee's surrender at Appomattox.

Bowen has just received payment of the debt with 47 years' interest at 6 per cent, amounting to $191 all together. The check came from Homer, La., where Ross is now living. Ross originally borrowed the money to buy a horse and get back to farming. He located Bowen recently.

SUFFRAGETS ON WARPATH

HURL STONES AND DESTROY PROPERTY IN LONDON.

One Hundred and Forty-eight Women, Including Mrs. Pankhurst, Are Lodged in Jail.

London, England.—Amid scenes of unprecedented disorder and a panic a mob of infuriated Amazons swept through the fashionable shopping district wrecking the great plate glass show windows, dodging in and out among the traffic to escape arrest and making their way steadily toward the homes of Premier Asquith and his associates in parliament, where they vented their fury with cries for "equal suffrage," interspersed with flying stones, balls and vegetables. The demonstration was the most violent in the annals of the suffrage campaign and before quiet was restored a pistol ball had crashed through a window in the colonial office and over 148 frenzied women, among whom are Mrs. Pankhurst, were lodged behind bars of jails.

The raid came like a bolt from a clear sky and followed a stormy mass meeting of the militant suffragettes, where the dilatory tactics of Premier Asquith relative to the suffrage question in parliament were attacked with fiery speeches. By a preconcerted plan the women left the hall in twos and threes, taking taxicabs and street cars to the chosen point of attack, the fashionable West End, near the Haymarket, Oxford Circus and Bond street, where they stepped from their vehicles and began a galling fire upon the expensive show windows of the shops.

Police for a moment were at a loss to single out the marauders from the crowd of fear crazed shoppers and the suffragettes, producing hammers from their muffs and opening large bags containing weights, darted here and there in the confusion while the roar of shattered windows mingled with the cries of the women and the curses of the shopkeepers added to the general excitement. More reserves were called out and the police charged the disheveled crowd, clearing the streets and arresting every female on whom they found missiles of destruction.

Many single acts of aggressiveness marked the onslaught. Mrs. Pankhurst kept hurling stones even after her arrest and when she was arraigned at the police station still had three unused missiles in her handbag. Other women drove up to the shops in cabs and when ushered up to the entrance by uniformed employes, suddenly drew hammers from their muffs and attacked the windows.

MINERS' STRIKE IS NOW ON

Over One Million Workers in Mines of Great Britain Lay Down Their Tools and Quit Work.

London, England.—All negotiations for settlement of the coal strike are off. The unbending attitude of the miners have brought negotiations to an end. They have flatly refused to consider the government's proposals, leaving the premier and his cabinet in a quandary inasmuch as paralysis among the trades is beginning everywhere with the prospect of prices in food stuffs going up.

On barricaded pit premises the mine officials are working hard to keep the pumping machinery going, while absolute quietude in the streets is a feature of hundreds of towns throughout the country. Over one million miners have laid down their tools.

TENDERED CHICKEN SHOWER

Woman Who Loses Stock in Barn Fire Is Helped by Her Sympathetic Neighbors.

Danville, Pa.—When lightning destroyed the barn of John Robbins, in Liberty township, chickens that made their roosting place in the barn were suffocated. The chickens were the especial property of Mrs. Robbins, who most keenly felt her loss.

The news of Mrs. Robbins' sorrow over the loss of her chickens reached Mrs. W. C. Mainzer, a neighbor, who started on a round of the neighbors to solicit chicken contributions to restore Mrs. Robbins' stock. So generous were the responses that before long she had 60 chickens.

La Follette Says He'll Stick.

Madison, Wis.—"I shall continue in the contest as a candidate for well-defined principles and for a definite program of legislation which, once enacted into law, will break the hold of privilege on the industrial life of the people and free them from the burden imposed by thousands of millions of fictitious capitalization."

This is the gist of a published statement made by Senator Robert M. La Follette.

Franklin Is Fined $4,000.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Bert Franklin, who confessed to bribery of a McNamara juror, was fined $4,000. The amount of the fine imposed by the court was exactly the amount taken from him by agents of District Attorney Fredericks when Franklin was arrested while talking to prospective juror Lockwood. As soon as sentence was pronounced Assistant District Attorney Ford turned over to Franklin the money taken from him, and with this Franklin immediately paid the fine.

Admitted to Bar at Age of 56.

Boston, Mass.—Ten years ago Moses H. Steuer could not read or write. Today, at the age of 56, he was admitted to the Massachusetts bar. Steuer came to this country a little more than a decade ago. To earn a living and support his family he traveled from house to house selling small wares. Then he became involved in a lawsuit. He conducted his own case and recovered goods which a deputy sheriff had replevined. The court proceedings gave him an inspiration to study English and law.

LECTURE ON THE BLIND

STATE BLIND COMMISSION IS CONDUCTING FREE LECTURES.

Discourses Introduced to Show Progress of the Sightless in All Lines.

Columbus.—The Ohio Commission for the Blind, in its campaign of prevention for blindness and in caring for those who have already lost their sight, have put in vogue a scheme whereby every resident of the state may hear a graduate of the State School for the Blind tell of the workings of the commission.

Claron L. Shafer is the man chosen for the work and he is delivering a series of lectures in every county of the state. He carries with him a wonderful picture machine which he also operates himself. Mr. Shafer is totally blind, and has proven what even a sightless person can do when they devote their energies in the proper channel. The commission is sending Mr. Shafer throughout the state and his lectures are all free, the entire expense being bore by the state of Ohio. The pictures shown by Mr. Shafer show the workings of the commission and the students' lives from the time they enter until they graduate in the State School for the Blind. The work of the state commission is unique in many ways, and while other states are talking about helping the blind Ohio is acting.

They are not only trying to prevent blindness, but are furnishing work and teaching trades to those who are compelled to go through life sightless. Blind home teachers are employed who visit the homes of the blind and teach them there work to do which is helping to make them more independent and getting some of the pleasures of life. It is the most charitable work that the state has undertaken, and they are meeting with encouragement and success in every branch of their work.

Ohio Towns Washed by Floods.

Toledo.—Through traffic on the Toledo, Bowling Green & Southern electric line was tied up by flood conditions at Cygnet, midway between Bowling Green and Findley.

Water in a branch of the Portage river has overflowed its banks and submerged the tracks so that cars are not able to get across. Passengers were transferred in buses.

At Mermill, five miles north of Cygnet, suspension of cars is also expected, as water from the river is within a few inches of covering the tracks.

At Portage the water has left the river banks and overflowed the road leading to the wagon bridge.

The entire business section of Wapakoneta is in danger on account of high water. Many families were driven from their homes late today and the water is reported rising.

In Toledo the sudden drop in temperature from 48 to 19 degrees above put a stop to the rise of the river.

Hurled Brick Through Window.

Granville.—During the middle of the night a brick was hurled through the window of the jewelry store of Fred Buxton on Main street. A few minutes later yeggs followed the brick through the window and carried off the decorations of jewels that were on display. The crash of the window aroused some of the residents who lived near the store, but when they arrived the mischief had all been done and the burglars made their escape. The loss estimated by Mr. Buxton was between $200 and 2,000. The police are investigating, but have no clew.

Drys Carry Dresden.

Dresden.—This town has voted dry by 55 majority. The wets cast 153 and the drys 208 votes. Dresden has voted four times under the Beal law. May 6, 1907, the town voted dry by 61 majority. Dresden first voted wet by 18 votes, and two years later by 36, then in two years came the reversal to the dry column.

Couldn't Marry Negress.

East Liverpool.—Probate Judge L. T. Farr refused to issue a marriage license to John Henry Evans, 60 years old, of the North Side, Pittsburgh, and a negress, Mrs. Amanda Wilson, a widow, 55 years old, who gave the same address. Evans is a Methodist minister and owns valuable property on the North Side and has considerable money in the bank. The woman said she had been employed as a housekeeper by Evans for some time.

Urges Law Protect Girls.

Canton.—That girls under 16 years should be protected to the full extent of the law was the opinion expressed by Judge Day in common pleas court in sentencing those concerned in the cases of Bessie Minks, 13, and Daisy Marks, 24, of Massillon. Tom Moore, 30, and Lewis Rider, 19, of Massillon, were sent to Mansfield reformatory.

Blames Card Players.

Crooksville.—Fire that originated in a boxcar standing on the side track at the Star pottery caused a loss of $50,000 to the plant. Poker players who had occupied the car during the night ignited the material in the car with their cigarettes.

Killed as Wedding Day Nears.

Canton.—The body of Clarence S. Hahn, 26, bricklayer, was found covered with snow on the Wheeling & Lake Erie tracks. Hahn was to have married Miss Hazel Oyer of this city.

Was Probably Murdered.

Gallipolis.—Investigation into the death of Peter Serrier, whose charred remains were found in the ruins of the house in which he lived alone, developed that he was brutally murdered and that the house was fired to cover up the crime. Two negroes, Milton and Elias Smith, who live in the vicinity, have been arrested and will be held pending a thorough inquiry into the crime, though there is nothing but minor circumstantial evidence against them upon which to found the case.

WHERE DOCTORS FAILED TO HELP

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Mrs. Green's Health—Her Own Statement.

Covington, Mo.—"Your medicine has done me more good than all the doctor's medicines. At every monthly period I had to stay in bed four days because of hemorrhages, and my back was so weak I could hardly walk. I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I can stay up and do my work. I think it is the best medicine on earth for women."—Mrs. JENNIE GREEN, Covington, Mo.

How Mrs. Cline Avoided Operation.

Brownsville, Ind.—"I can say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me more good than anything else. One doctor said I must be operated upon for a serious female trouble and that nothing could help me but an operation.

"I had hemorrhages and at times could not get any medicine to stop them. I got in such a weak condition that I would have died if I had not got relief soon.

"Several women who had taken your Compound, told me to try it and I did and found it to be the right medicine to build up the system and overcome female troubles.

"I am now in great deal better health than I ever expected to be, so I think I ought to thank you for it."—Mrs. O. M. CLINE, S. Main St., Brownsville, Ind.

PROTECT YOUR HOME

Insurance

A good Lightning Rod properly constructed is the cheapest form of insurance. Government statistics show this. Insurance reports throughout the state plainly indicate that wherever lightning rods are demanded by them, loss from lightning is reduced to a minimum. For full particulars as to the Lightning Rod business write:

Write for free booklet
Hum & Leatherman, Inc., Pittsburgh or Reyburn Hunter & Co., Phila. & Chicago

THEN ALL WILL PRAISE

Scribbler—What's the best way to become a great poet?

Buyler—Write a bunch of junk that no one can understand.

Papa's Pest.

Little Helen's mamma was discussing the drink question with a visitor and the child listened gravely to the conversation.

"Papa used to drink," she volunteered suddenly.

The visitor turned her head to conceal a smile, and mamma frowned and shook her head at the little one.

"Well, then," demanded Helen, "what was it he used to do?"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Positively Brilliant.

"Did you hear young Pounders playing on the piano just now?"

"Yes. I consider him a remarkable performer."

"How is that?"

"He can hit more wrong keys in less time than any other person I ever saw."

A WOMAN DOCTOR

Was Quick to See That Coffee-Poison Was Doing the Mischief.

A lady tells of a bad case of coffee poisoning, and tells it in a way so simple and straightforward that literary skill could not improve it.

"I had neuralgic headaches for 12 years," she says, "and have suffered untold agony. When I first began to have them I weighed 140 pounds, but they brought me down to 110.

"I went to many doctors and they gave me only temporary relief. So I suffered on, till one day, a woman doctor advised me to drink Postum. She said I looked like I was coffee poisoned.

"So I began to drink Postum, and gained 15 pounds in the first few weeks and am still gaining, but not so fast as at first. My headaches began to leave me after I had used Postum about two weeks—long enough, I expect, to get the coffee poison out of my system.

"Now that a few months have passed since I began to use Postum, I can gladly say that I never know what a neuralgic headache is like any more, and it was nothing but Postum that relieved me.

"Before I used Postum I never went out alone; I would get bewildered and would not know which way to turn. Now I go alone and my head is as clear as a bell. My brain and nerves are stronger than they have been for years." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a Reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

---

JOHNSON TALK ON RADICAL LINES

WARMLY INDORSES I. AND R.—CALIFORNIAN MADE GOOD IMPRESSION.

FAVORS RECALL OF JUDICIARY

Tells Incidents of California's Fight to Throw Off Thrall of Monopoly—Says Woman Suffrage Has Proved Success in His State.

Columbus — Direct administration by the people, in its most fundamental form, was advocated before the constitutional convention by Governor Hiram W. Johnson of California—the man who has obtained a nation-wide reputation for his progressive work in the west.

Governor Johnson advocated not only the initiative and referendum and direct primary elections, but consumed most of his time in earnestly advocating the recall of the judiciary. His declaration that judges were no better or worse than other men and should not be worshiped was loudly applauded. His repeated declaration that the government must go back to the people were received with spirited hand-clapping from the delegation and the galleries. His declaration that woman's suffrage had proven thus far in California that women take even greater interest in elections than men also was heartily applauded.

Is Good Speaker.

Governor Johnson talked rapidly and his enunciation was clear and concise. He spoke for nearly an hour.

Introduced by President Bigelow as one entitled to the respect of all because of his leadership in good citizenship, Governor Johnson plunged at once into the body of his speech with only the preliminary remark that it might seem incongruous for one to come from the rim of the continent to give counsel to the people of Ohio, regarding the work in hand by the constitutional convention, especially after the words of advice to which the delegates listened last week. "But out of the west," said he, "has come a new race that has found it necessary to find new processes by which government may be restored to those government may be restored to those out of the west, we humble exponents of that movement, are glad to come to preach the faith that is in us at any time."

Recall of Judges.

Governor Johnson's advocacy of the recall of judges was intensely ardent and spirited. The recall, he said, was not aimed at the honest judge, but at the corrupt one, and the honest judge, he insisted, never would be recalled. He said in part:

"Judges are but men after all. When we begin to whittle away human frailties and try to make them something more than men, we come to a species of worship, and the American people can never tolerate that.

"There are two kinds of judges. The one is ruled by his conscience and guided by the law and by the facts. The second is he who listens to the power in the litigant who advances to his desk. The first kind never will be recalled. The second will be recalled instantly and should be recalled without delay. Impeachment is not, and never has been, an effective remedy to prevent judicial corruption. In no state has it ever been effective. It is a mere scarecrow that does not even frighten."

Columbus Bank Closes.

Following steady withdrawals of deposits since the first of December, P. E. Baxter, state superintendent of banks and banking, has taken charge of the Columbus Savings and Trust company, at Long and High streets, and its affairs.

The high rate of interest paid on deposits, which it was found impossible to change, is held largely responsible for the suspension.

It is stated by the state superintendent and by officials of the closed institution that, while a goodly proportion of the stock may be absorbed in the process of liquidation, depositors and other creditors of the institution will be paid in full. However, under the state banking law, no dividend can be paid to depositors until 90 days have elapsed from the date of closing.

The institution was placed in charge of George Walters, deputy superintendent of banks and banking, and of C. S. Baxter of the state department, who will look after its affairs until the appointment of a deputy to supervise the liquidation is made. Notice of the suspension of the institution was posted upon the doors of the bank last evening.

May Adjourn Soon.

The constitutional convention, after considering various matters again took up the discussion of liquor license. Both the initiative and referendum and woman's suffrage bills are pressing to the front for consideration after the liquor fight, and it is still uncertain which will have prior action. The delegates expect this week to take some formal action as to final adjournment. The idea of submitting to the people nothing but separate amendments is to be pushed.

Governor Harmon Robbed.

Statements were made that two checks worth $8,115 were either lost or stolen from Governor Harmon's pocket in Cincinnati while he walked from the First National Bank building, Fourth and Walnut, to the Provident bank, at Seventh and Vine of that city. While at the First National, the governor received from A. V. King a certificate of deposit issued by the Commercial Bank and Savings company of Findlay for $3,150. King also gave Governor Harmon a check for [illegible]

CLARON L. SHAFER

Mr. Shafer has been selected by the Ohio State Commission for the Blind and is now delivering a series of lectures, illustrated by stereopticon views, showing the wonderful progress made along many lines by the inmates of the blind institutions in the state.

A Revived Romance.

The fire of an old love flamed up afresh, after an interval of 45 years, when Oscar Underwood, a farmer living near Alger, Hardin county, Ohio, and Mrs. Jennie Kilbury of Columbus met again last summer and the culmination was a wedding at the home of Mrs. Kilbury, 780 Park street. Each had lived the greater part of their lives with other life companions and raised families, all the members of which are now married, excepting one daughter of Mr. Underwood, who will be married in the spring. It was over a trivial matter that the early break came and each refused to make advances. The result was that the girl married and came to Columbus, and soon after Mr. Underwood married and settled down on the old farm at home. Eight years ago Mr. Kilbury died and two years ago death came to Mrs. Underwood, leaving the old-time lovers free to love again. The meeting came unexpectedly last summer. Mr. Underwood was in Columbus on business, and the old affection sprang up at first sight, after 45 years.

Near Seat of Italian-Turkish War.

A girl from Columbus is at present in the city of Beirut, Syria, and in danger of the shells from the Italian flotilla, which has been bombarding that city. She is Miss Ottora M. Horne, a former Columbus school teacher.

Miss Horne has been in Syria since 1902 teaching in the American schools, and trying to make the Turkish and Syrian youths and maidens understand something of the Christian religion and the English language. She was for 16 years a teacher in the Ohio schools, her last place here being with the Hubbard Avenue school, of Columbus, and she severed her connection with that school to go as a missionary teacher to Syria.

Miss Horne was born in Somerset, O., and part of her education was obtained in the Columbus schools. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elijah J. Horne, live at 1159 Harrison avenue, and she has many friends in this city, who are anxiously awaiting news from the besieged city.

Another Pennsylvania Flyer Wreck.

Three Pennsylvania trains were wrecked at Union Center, 20 miles northwest of here and two passenger coaches and an engine were thrown into the ditch nobody was hurt. Two freight trains collided rear-end and the baggage was thrown on to the westbound track just as No. 31, a fast flyer to Chicago, hove into sight. The passenger train was running at 60 miles an hour and the engineer was unable to stop in time to prevent running into the wreck. The engine and two forward coaches toppled over into the ditch, already filled with splintered freight cars, and, settling gradually, permitted the passengers to escape uninjured.

Salty Sentence for White Slaver.

R. D. Allen, West Virginia, charged with bringing a girl, Ellen Long, aged 16, from Colloden, W. Va., and placing her in a disorderly house, was given one year in the workhouse and a $1,000 fine by Judge Black of the juvenile court, for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Ruggles Admits Bribery.

George L. Ruggles, president of the old Ruggles-Gale stationery firm, pleaded guilty in the criminal court before Judge E. B. Dillon, Thursday, to a charge of bribery and was fined $500 and the costs of the prosecution. The specific charge to which Ruggles pleaded was that of having, through John T. Paine, one of the salesmen of the firm, loaned $100 to William Ball, a clerk in the state fire marshal's office. The offense was alleged to have occurred on October 17, 1904.

Akron Board of Control.

The board of control of Akron, namely, Mayor F. W. Rockwell, Service Director R. M. Pilmore and Safety Director D. P. Stein, filed a petition with the Public Service commission complaining regarding the alleged unjust practices and inadequate transportation of the Northern Ohio Traction and Light company, which furnishes street car service to their city. The city officials allege that street cars are running upon which there are no conductors, and that the cars are too small.

Meeting Called.

In order that the assessors of the personal property shall be encouraged to make an accurate return of values in the annual assessment, which begins on the day preceding the third Monday in April, and shall see that every statement of value is duly sworn, the state tax commission has invited all of the county auditors of the state and at least one representative from the city boards of review to meet in Columbus Tuesday, March 19, to discuss such assessments.

Official American League Schedule for 1912

| | AT CHICAGO | AT ST. LOUIS | AT DETROIT | AT CLEVELAND | AT WASHINGTON | AT PHILADELPHIA | AT NEW YORK | AT BOSTON |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| CHICAGO........ | ALL OF | April 18 19 20 21July 1 2 3Sept. 25 26 27 28 | April 27 28 29 30June 28 29 30Oct. 3 3 5 6 | April 23 24 25 26May 28 29 30 30Aug. 12Aug. 30 31 | May 7 8 9 10July 13 15 16Aug. 13 14 15 16 | May 11 13 14 15July 9 10 11 12Aug. 17 19 20 | May 21 22 23July 22 23 24 25Aug. 21 22 23 24 | May 16 17 18 20July 17 18 19 20Aug. 26 27 28 |
| ST. LOUIS........ | April 11 12 13 14June 18 19 20 22June 25 26Sept. 29 | THE REAL | May 2 3 4 5July 4 4Aug. 30 31Sept. 6 7 8 | April 15 16 17May 25 26 27July 6 7Sept. 1 2 3 | May 16 17 18 20July 17 18 19 20Aug. 26 27 28 | May 21 22 23July 23 23 24 25Aug. 21 22 23 24 | May 7 8 9 10July 12 13 15 16Aug. 17 19 20 | May 11 13 14 15July 9 10 11Aug. 14 15 16 |
| DETROIT........ | April 15 16 17May 25 26July 6 6 7Sept. 1 2 2 | April 22 23 24 25 26May 28 29 30 30 31June 23 | LIVE | April 11 12 13 14June 25 26 27Sept. 26 27 28 29 | May 21 22 23July 22 23 24 25Aug. 21 22 23 24 | May 16 17 18 20July 17 18 19 20Aug. 26 27 28 | May 11 13 14 15July 9 10 11Aug. 13 14 15 16 | May 7 8 9 10July 12 13 15 16Aug. 17 19 20 |
| CLEVELAND.... | May 2 3 4 5June 23July 4 4Sept. 6 6 7 8 | April 27 28 29 30June 28 29 30Oct. 6 3 5 6 | April 18 19 20 21June 18 19 20 22July 1 2 3 | SPORTING | May 11 13 14 15July 9 10 11 12Aug. 17 19 20 | May 7 8 9 10July 8July 13 15 16Aug. 14 15 16 | May 16 17 18 20July 17 18 19 20Aug. 26 27 28 | May 21 22 23July 22 23 24 25Aug. 21 22 23 24 |
| WASHINGTON | June 5 6 7 8Aug. 4 5 6 7Sept. 20 21 22 | June 1 2 3 4Aug. 8 9 10 11Sept. 17 18 19 | June 9 10 11 12July 31 Aug. 1 2 3Sept. 13 14 15 | June 13 14 15 16July 27 28 29 30Sept. 10 11 12 | NEWS | April 11 12 13May 6June 19 20 21 22Sept. 25 26 27 | April 15 16 17May 24 25 27 28July 8Oct. 3 4 5 | April 22 23 24 25May 29 30 30Sept. 4 5 6 7 |
| PHILADELPHIA | June 1 2 3 4Aug. 8 9 10 11Sept. 17 18 19 | June 5 6 7 8Aug. 4 5 6 7Sept. 20 21 22 | June 13 14 15 16July 27 28 29 30Sept. 10 11 12 | June 9 10 11 12July 31 Aug. 1 2 3Sept. 13 14 15 | April 18 19 20June 18June 28 29 July 1 2Sept. 2 2 3 | PRINTED | April 22 23 24 26May 29 30 30Sept. 4 5 6 7 | April 26 27 29 30May 24 25 27 28Aug. 29 30 31 |
| NEW YORK..... | June 9 10 11 12July 31 Aug. 1 2 3Sept. 13 14 15 | June 13 14 15 16July 27 28 29 30Sept. 10 11 12 | June 1 2 3 4Aug. 4 5 6 7Sept. 17 18 19 | June 5 6 7 8Aug. 8 9 10 11Sept. 20 21 22 | April 26 27 29 30July 3 4 4 6Aug. 29 30 31 | May 1 2 3 4June 24 25 26 27Sept. 28 30 Oct. 1 | IN THESE | April 18 19 19 20June 28 29 July 1 2Sept. 24 25 26 |
| BOSTON........... | June 13 14 15 16July 27 28 29 30Sept. 10 11 12 | June 9 10 11 12July 31 Aug. 1 2 3Sept. 13 14 15 | June 5 6 7 8Aug. 8 9 10 11Sept. 20 21 22 | June 1 2 3 4Aug. 4 5 6 7Sept. 17 18 19 | May 1 2 3 4June 24 25 26 27Sept. 28 30 Oct. 1 | April 15 16 17July 3 4 4 5 6Oct. 3 4 5 | April 11 12 13May 6June 19 20 21 22Sept. 2 2 3 | COLUMNS. |

FORD'S NEW SPITTER

Yankee's Star Twirler Adds Another Variety to Collection.

Champion Spitball Artist Unearths Another Slant That Is Expected to Puzzle the Heavy Sluggers of American League.

"Just discovered a new spitter that is the best ever."

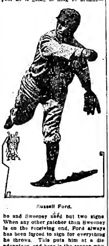
Russell Ford, the New York Yankees' star flinger and champion spitball pitcher of the country, sent a postal to a friend in New York that bore the above message.

Russ had fourteen different assortments last season and now he has discovered another. What chance will the poor batters—T. Cobb, S. Crawford, N. Lajoie, T. Speaker and J. Jackson—have when they face Ford this year? If Izzy Ham were laying odds it's a cinch he would use the sponge quickly. But Yankee rooters don't care a rap about all the clouters that belong to any other team, and if Ford has unearthed a spitter that has even a shade on the bear he worked all last season, then there are hopes of the pennant going to New York after all.

Ford won twenty-six and lost six games in 1909, and won twenty-two and lost eleven last season with a most slipshop aggregation behind him last year. Now, if he can do that well with one spitter, what can we expect of him with two spitters?

But Ed Sweeney, the only catcher who has been able to receive Ford's slants properly, is in for a hard season, and he probably won't greet the announcement of Ford's new wet fling with any too much pleasure. Russ' spitter has never failed to put Sweeney's hand on the blink at one time or another during the season, and with two of 'em working it is doubtful if "Big Eddie" performs more than 50 or 60 times.

Although Ford pitched 14 different kinds of balls last season—and this year he is going to fling 15 brands—



Russell Ford.

he and Sweeney used but two signs. When any other catcher than Sweeney is on the receiving end, Ford always has been forced to sign for everything he throws. This puts him at a disadvantage, and here is the reason why. He holds the ball in his hand the same for every delivery, no matter whether it is going to be sharp-breaking spitter or a raising hop ball. It all depends upon the position of the batter at the plate with Ford, and as he winds up, the man with the willow is likely to shift slightly from the attitude he struck before he sets himself in motion.

It is then that Ford may be forced to shift from an "in" breaking spitter to an "out" breaking one, or something else. He is forced to shift on the instant, and, of course, has no time to stop and resignal his backstop. If he did, it would be a deliberate balk. Therefore, it is up to Sweeney, like the batter, to guess what kind of a ball Ford is going to dish up.

CHAMPION SKI JUMPER WINNING TITLE.

Copyright, Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.

Lars Haugen.

The recent National Professional Ski Jumping Championship contest, held at Cary, Ill., a few miles from Chicago, attracted much attention from lovers of that sport. The illustration shows Lars Haugen, winner of the contest, at ease and while he was in the air.

KING PIN OF ALL LEFT-HANDERS.

Nap Rucker, Brooklyn Southpaw, Is Good Because He Goes About Work in Businesslike Way.

Admiration and praise is the life blood for some ball players, while others love the game for the game's sake. Among the latter is Nap Rucker, the star left-hander of the Brooklyn team, and one of the best southpaw twirlers who ever drew on a glove. This is the player President Ebbets once said he would not trade for a whole ball team of good men.

"I've always wished we had Rucker," said President Murphy of the Cubs the other day, "and I'll tell you one of the reasons. Every day that Brooklyn is in Chicago and Rucker is scheduled to pitch you'll find him out at the ball park at 12 o'clock, dressed in his uniform, and taking light work in preparation for the afternoon's struggle. He bats a little, catches a few balls and tries his arm with anybody who is willing to catch him.

"As a result he is always in condition when the bell rings. He is so conscientious that he doesn't leave a stone unturned to win that ball game. Moreover, he keeps out of sight as much as possible, not caring for the grand hurrah that others seem to be seeking all the time."

GOSSIP AMONG SPORTS

Emil Thiry is one of the most adept fight handlers in the business.

"Home Run" Baker has ordered nine new bats. Some authorities put it at twelve.

Connie Mack denies that there is any chance of Baltimore getting Pitcher Danforth.

Ty Cobb says shorter spikes would spoil baseball. Well, it might slow Cobb up a bit and that would make the game slower.

Every club manager in the American league is optimistic except Bobby Wallace of the St. Louis Browns, who is making no rash promises.

Yussif Mahmout made a big hit with the Boston fans, who had rather soured on the wrestling game. They marveled at the wonderful ability shown by Gotch's protege.

Ad Wolgast says Joe Rivers will be his next opponent. Ad has been out of the game quite awhile and knows just where he wants to begin to come back.

Abe Attell is not mourning in sack cloth and ashes because he has been slapped and kicked out of New York. The foxy Abe has taken Horace Greeley's advice and gone west.

CHANGES IN FOOTBALL RULES

Predicted That Game Will Be Faster, Better and More Open—Brief Review of Revision.

Football men all over the country, while they have had only a hasty glimpse of the decisive changes made by the rules committee, predict that the game has been opened up, and that next year, under this new code, the football-loving public will see a faster, better and more open game.

Briefly, the changes include allowing the forward pass to cross the goal line for a distance of ten yards; the length of the gridiron is shortened from 110 yards to 100 yards; a team is allowed four trials to gain ten yards, instead of three trials; the onside kick is eliminated; the 20-yard zone, which now restricts the forward pass, was eliminated, and the ball may be thrown for any distance; the kickoff at the beginning of the halves will be from the offensive side's 40-yard line, instead of the middle of the field; the loser of the toss of the coin is entitled to the same privilege at the beginning of the second half as the winner is entitled to at the beginning of the first half; after a touchback, the ball will be put into play at the 20 yard line, instead of the 25 yard line; the position of field judge was eliminated, and there will be but three officials for each game—referee, umpire and head linesman, who will also keep time; a touchdown to count six points instead of five; only one representative allowed on the side lines during a game, instead of three, and finally a drop kick which first touches the ground and bounds over the goal posts does not count.

Record for "Beaning."

Harry Wolverton, the Highland's new manager, holds the record for being hit on the head with pitched balls during one game. He was "beaned" three times, but kept on playing.

Noisy as Ever.

Hughie Jennings announces that he will be able to make as much noise and chew as much grass as he ever did in his life, in spite of his recent auto accident.

VETERAN DRIVER IS ACTIVE

Oldest Trainer in Country Claims He Is Good for Ten Years More—Is 81 Years Old.

Lucien M. Lindsey of Spokane, contemporary of Doble and Splan in their palmiest days, and oldest active driver in the world, is at work preparing his campaigner, Padishah, to cover the western circuit in 1912. He is 81 years of age, and has handled trotting and pacing horses for more than a half century in various parts of America. He holds several records.

Lucien is a native of Illinois, born in Cook county in 1830. When nine years of age his parents moved to Iowa, where he remained ten years, going to the Oregon country in 1849, during the gold excitement on the California coast. Twelve years afterward he moved to Boise, which was then part of Washington.

Eph Maynard, driven by Lindsey at Walla Walla, Wash., in 1862, made followers of the trotting world sit up when the animal stepped a mile in 2:42, afterwards going a mile in 2:40, equalling the mark set by Dexter at Dexter Park in the stock yards district of Chicago, following the fire in 1871. Eph Maynard made the mark in 1872, and the time was a record in Oregon for years. Lindsey also drove Parrot a mile in 2:30, a new record for Oregon, which was made in the ninth heat of a four-horse race.

The veteran had charge of the Reed and Ladd stock farm at Reedville for a number of years and raised Jane L., a trotter that cleaned up everything on the coast and set a mark of 2:19¼ in 1884. He has been on the circuit every year since then, and despite his age he declares he is good for from 10 or 15 years.

Lindsey is in good health, and is as active as a man half his age. He ascribes his strength to keeping regular hours and clean living and following the teachings of the Golden Rule.

The New York Giants released Outfielder Hugh High to the Hartford club of the Connecticut league. He was with the Hartford team last season.

SWEDES TURN SHREWD TRICK

Schedule Prevents American Runners From Competing in Long and Short Running Contests.

According to the announcement which the Swedish Olympic committee has made concerning the order of events at the international games which are to be held at Stockholm, in July, the Swedes have played rather a sharp trick on the rest of the athletic world. In the arrangement of their program they have scheduled nearly all the dashes and hurdle races within a day or two, and the distance races they have grouped in a similar manner. In other words they have declined to follow the procedure which is common in arrangement of games of this importance by stringing out the events so that the greatest number of men can compete in the greatest number of events.

The direct result of this arrangement of the schedule will make it practically impossible for any of the American distance runners to double up in such events as the mile and half mile and it will likewise be hard on even those sprinters who wish to compete in the 100 and 200-yard dashes. The statement applies equally to the various hurdle races.

The strongest objection to this plan has come from England, though even here it is not likely that there will be any formal protest against the action of the Swedes. It would be strictly within the province of the athletic authorities of any of the countries which will send teams, either to protest or, in more polite terms, to make suggestions looking toward a rearrangement of this schedule. The Englishmen, while they have voiced their disapproval in the newspapers, have not lodged any formal objection, and probably will not do so.

BIG PARK FOR CHICAGO CUBS.

President Murphy Insists New Structure Will Be Peer of Them All—Many Novel Features.

President C. W. Murphy, of the Chicago Nationals, is the latest club owner to announce plans for a new grand stand.

Murphy said that he proposes a home for his baseball club, which will be a unification of all of the best ideas in modern grand stand architecture. This he says will naturally make it the greatest of its kind and will also make his park one of the beauty spots of the city.

Private Italian marble boxes, a fine restaurant, barber shop, a few sleeping rooms, a souvenir room, an incline automobile drive to the boxes and a garage on top of a beautiful concrete grand stand are some of the features mentioned in connection with the plans.

It has not been announced when the work will start, but Murphy says if it is necessary to spend $1,000,000 it will be spent.

Ole Olsen Is Captain.

Ole Olsen will be made captain of the Cleveland team for next season by Harry Davis. He believes that a captain should be an infielder and Olsen is the only one besides Lajoie sure of his job. Lajoie refused the captaincy.

Del Howard Quits Game.

Del Howard, recently deposed as manager of the Louisville American Association team, has quit the game. He has purchased a farm in Oregon and says that from now on he will devote his time to farming and will let baseball take care of itself.

Another City Closed to Fighters.

Public boxing and sparring exhibitions of every kind were prohibited by an ordinance of the city commissioners of Ogden, Utah, this week.

$3.50 Recipe Free For Weak Kidneys.

Relieves Urinary and Kidney Troubles, Backache, Straining, Swelling, Etc.

Stops Pain in the Bladder, Kidneys and Back.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say good-bye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; the stitches and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles, leg cramps; unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, K-2058 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has great healing and pain-conquering power.

It will quickly show its power once you use it, so I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home.

Conclusive Proof.

"That expression, a 'human dynamo,' fascinates me."

"It is very apt and vivid when applied to a man of boundless energy."

"Tackbitters must be a 'human dynamo.'"

"Why do you think so?"

"No matter how cold the morning is, he leaps out of bed without ever stopping to think the matter over."

For liver and kidney troubles, nothing is quite so mild, pleasant and effective as Garfield Tea.

Many a girl repents at leisure because she didn't marry in haste.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle.

When a man does things he hasn't much time to talk about them.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS
Your druggist will refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

If love is really blind how is it that love can always find a way?

Save the baby from the ravages of Croup, Whooping Cough or Pneumonia, with Hoxsie's Croup Remedy. Guaranteed by A. P. Hoxsie. 50 cents.

An excellet can do nothing for a man who is blind to his own interests.

Garfield Tea will keep the whole system in perfect condition.

Many a man has bumped into trouble while trying to dodge his duty.

MUNYON'S PAW-PAW PILLS

FREE

I want every person who is bilious, constipated or has any stomach or liver ailment to send for a free package of my Paw-Paw Pills. I want to prove that they positively cure Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Belching, Wind, Headache, Nervousness, Sleeplessness and are an infallible cure for Constipation. To do this I am willing to give millions of free packages. I take all the risk. Sold by druggists for 25 cents a vial. For free package address, Prof. Munyon, 53rd & Jefferson Sts., Philadelphia, Pa.

Great Northern Ry Makes Low Fares West

Colonist Tickets on sale daily March 1st to April 15th.

The Great Northern Railway will place in effect on March 1st, a special One Way Colonist fare of $33.00, from Chicago to points in the Great Northwest, and continue same daily to April 15th.

This fare will enable everybody who has been convinced of the great opportunities awaiting them in the Golden Great Northern States to reach the goal of his desires economically and quickly.

Three daily trains will carry the Colonists west—from the principal gateways—St. Paul, Minneapolis, Chicago, and Kansas City—and special preparations are being made for the comfort and accommodation of passengers.

The fare from St. Paul, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Duluth and Superior will be $25.00.

Tickets will be sold to nearly all points in Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and British Columbia, including Helena, Butte, Great Falls, Havre and Kalispell, Montana; Spokane, Seattle, Tacoma, Everett, Bellingham, Vancouver, Victoria and Portland.

Every town in the east will enjoy the benefit of this rate, and through tickets can be purchased at low figures. In planning your trip to the Golden Great Northern States, write for free copy of Colonist Folder and cost of through ticket from your town to,

Great Northern Railway
W. E. HUNT, Gen. Agent,
411 Traction Building,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Army of Constipation

Is Growing Smaller Every Day.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are responsible — they not only give relief — they permanently cure Constipation. Millions use them for Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Sallow Skin.

SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE.

Genuine must bear Signature

Brent Good

USE ABSORBINE, JR. LINIMENT FOR IT

Swollen Varicose Veins, Painful, Knotted, Tortuous, Ulcerated, Ruptured, Bad Legs, Milk Leg, Thrombosis, Elephantiasis. It takes out the inflammation, soreness and discoloration; relieves the pain and tiredness; reduces the swelling, gradually restoring part to normal strength and appearance. ABSORBINE, JR., is a mild, safe, pleasant antiseptic liniment, healing and soothing. Severe cases where veins have ulcerated and broken have been completely and permanently cured. Fifty-four applications of ABSORBINE, JR., will give relief and prove its merit. $1.00 and $2.00 per bottle at druggists or delivered. Detailed directions, reports on recent cases and Book 5 G free on request. W. F. YOUNG, P. D. F., 310 Temple Street, Springfield, Mass.

Brown's Bronchial Troches

Unexcelled for relieving Throat Troubles. Sample free. John I. Brown & Son, Boston, Mass.

AGENTS [illegible]

Lake County Herald

PAINESVILLE, OHIO

A DEMOCRATIC NEWSPAPER

TELEPHONE NO. 75

PUBLISHED THURSDAY OF EACH WEEK

Entered in the Postoffice at Painesville, Ohio, as Second-Class Mail Matter.

Advertising Rates

| DISPLAY | |
|---|---|
| Per Inch—First Insertion | 20c |
| Per Inch—Each Additional Insertion | 10c |
| LOCALS | |
| Per Line—First Insertion | 10c |
| Per Line—Each Additional Insertion | 05c |
| Want Column—Three Lines, three weeks | 25c |

M. L. Harter
R. A. Tuttle } Editors and Proprietors

SIX OHIO REASONS.

Following is a special dispatch to the Columbus (Ohio) Citizen: Kenton, O., Feb. 2.—The attack of organized and anti-Harmon men of Ohio against the presidential boom of Governor Judson Harmon was renewed today by the announcement of "six reasons" by William W. Durbin, chief organizer of the Ohio democratic Progressive League, as to "why Harmon should not be president," according to the wording of the statement.

Durbin, who is a Kenton manufacturer, and well known in the state as a politician, is secretary of the Progressive League, was former chairman of the state central committee, and four years ago was a candidate for state auditor.

"First," said Durbin in his statement, "the democratic party to be successful, must nominate a progressive, and Governor Harmon's whole life has been that of a reactionary. His claim to be a progressive has been made only under the whip and spur of political ambition.

"Second. His service under J. Pierpont Morgan and the fact that Wall street interests are championing his cause is enough to drive any progressive away from him. The democratic party is in no mood to follow any suspect of the present or deserter in the past, nor do they want one who pleads the cause of the common people on the hustings while representing the privileged-interests in the courts.

"Third. The fact that Governor Harmon bolted the nomination of Bryan and stabbed him in the back in 1896, betrayed him in Ohio in 1908 in his own home county, and since his election as governor has appointed to office practically all the leaders of the gold democrat movement, shows where his sympathies are now and foreshadows what will happen should he be elected president.

"Fourth. Harmon was elected by the liquor interests in 1908 and in 1910 also received their support. He promised to modify the Rose county local option law, but then threw his pledges to the winds by defeating the Dean bill to amend the law, with the result that the German-American alliance of over 100,000 liberal voters denounced his duplicity and hypocrisy and swore vengeance. Thereupon the Governor had a liberal measure named the Fulton bill introduced to appease the liquor people, and this resulted in the temperance people's getting busy and defeating it. By playing both ends against the middle he lost the respect of both elements. This is no time to inject a wet and dry fight into a presidential campaign, but Harmon's nomination would make this an issue in every precinct in the country.

"Fifth. Governor is opposed to the initiative and referendum, also the recall, two things in which progressive democracy believes, and his specific stand in this matter counts one reason in itself.

"Sixth. The trust question will be an issue, probably a paramount issue, in the next campaign. President Taft will attempt to lay claim for enforcing the Sherman anti-trust law. Harmon, when attorney general, not only failed to prosecute the trusts, but gave it as his opinion that the anti-trust law was a piece of worthless legislation."

The statement ends with the following: "If Harmon should be nominated, the party would lose more states, districts, counties, townships, and precincts than it has ever lost in its history, not excepting 1904. We want no more Wall street candidates such as we had in 1904.

"It is a well known fact that Francis J. Lynde Stetson, who drew J. Pierpont Morgan's contract with government in the infamous bond deal in 1896, when Morgan got $10,000,000 over eight off of this government, is one of the most ardent supporters of the Harmon boom throughout the east. The democratic party cannot afford to have J. Pierpont Morgan as one of the issues of the campaign against them. If Mr. Morgan is to be the issue, why not make him the candidate?

"Mr. Harmon's tongue, pen, ability and energy have given the interests long and devoted service, and that is why Morgan and Wall street are for him.

"Personally, I feel like the Irishman who was driving a mule hitched to a buggy, and who, when the mule kicked over the dashboard and stuck his hoof alongside the Irishman's head, exclaimed: 'Be jabers! If you are a-going to get in I am going to get out.'"

MR. ROOSEVELT'S SPEECH

Ex-President Roosevelt's Columbus speech will stand out as the strongest he has yet delivered. The dominant note is "Trust the People." In taking this position he is on solid ground. While he advocates little in the way of reform that democrats have not advocated for years, still it is gratifying to have his influence thrown into the balance in favor of the direct election of senators, the initiative and the referendum. These reforms are distinctly and emphatically democratic. The proposition to submit to the people judicial decision on constitutional questions is of democratic origin and is sound but his attitude on the trust question is reactionary. The REGULATION OF PRIVATE MONOPOLIES WILL NOT WORK. It has been "weighed in the balance and found wanting." He tried the plan for seven years and a half and there were more trusts at the end of the time than at the beginning. He even allowed the steel trust to frighten him into permitting still further consolidation.

THE ATTEMPT TO REGULATE PRIVATE MONOPOLIES RESULTS FINALLY IN GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP. This is legitimate in the case of NATURAL monopolies but industrial monopolies are neither natural nor necessary—they should be prevented. Mr Roosevelt's plan for dealing with the trusts leads directly to socialism.

The democratic anti-trust plan contemplates the restoration of competition—this is the only plan that appeals to individualists.

But the country is to be congratulated upon the delivery of the speech—it helps to mould public opinion in favor of several good measures and even he can not lead the public to the dangerous doctrine that we can rely on regulation as a cure for trust evils.—Bryan's Commoner.

ON THE HIGH ROAD

Woman Suffrage was given a decided impetus, not alone in Ohio, but throughout the country as well, when the Resolutions Committee of the constitutional convention now in session at Columbus, by an almost unanimous vote reported in favor of equal suffrage. There is significance in the fact that these constitution makers, without any of the pressure that results from a state wide campaign, almost, indeed, as a matter of course, accept votes for women. The convention has not yet passed upon this provision, but the action of the Resolutions Committee leaves little room for doubt that equal suffrage will be left in the final draft of the new constitution, and if this instrument of government is made as genuinely democratic and enlightened in other respects as it promises to be in the way of suffrage reforms, there should be no question as to its endorsement by the voters. Nowhere have we seen a truer indication of the inevitable coming of equal suffrage. Ohio is on the high road to a government by all the people.

---

Governor Harmon of Ohio made a vain attempt to save plutocratic interests from the menace of the initiative and referendum. If it was not clear before, it certainly is now that these are the interests he will serve should he ever become President.

---

In his address before the Ohio Constitutional Convention, Governor Harmon said that the initiative and referendum are only experiments. Evidently the Governor must lack the reasoning power to determine whether or not a proposed measure is right in principle. If it is, one may be sure before any practical experiment with it has been made, that it is a good thing to put in practice. So even if it were true that the initiative and referendum, have not been in effect long enough to demonstrate their worth, that would not be a valid argument against them. But it is not true. Switzerland has had these measures for forty years. Oregon adopted them ten years ago. The laws which Oregon has obtained through them are serving as models for other States. Thus the Oregon Direct Primary law was adopted in Ohio at the last session of the legislature. No legislature in Oregon would have enacted such a law, but the people themselves, through the initiative and referendum, adopted it. Its success in Oregon was so plain that in other States legislatures were forced to pass similar laws or tacitly admit the charge that they were not as competent to legislate as the people. Governor Harmon recently had a pamphlet printed in which he endeavored to claim credit for a number of progressive measures adopted in Ohio. Among others was the primary law which he described as the Oregon law. He must either have been insincere when he claimed credit for this law or when he referred to the initiative and referendum as an experiment which Ohio must not yet follow. In either case he is unworthy of trust.

A WORD TO THE WISE.

The people should not take the pleadings of the Telegraph-Republican in behalf of the C. P. & E. Ry. Co too seriously. Remember that some of the directors of the C. P. & E. Ry. Co and some of the directors of the Telegraph-Republican Co. are identical, serving both corporations alike and both are usually against the best interests of the people, when either the Railroad Company or the Publishing Company has a dollar at stake. Remember that a director directs, and that the directors of the C. P. & E. Ry. Co. direct some of the vaporings that appear in the news and editorial columns of the Telegraph-Republican. That is the reason the T-R opposed the municipal light plant and the Citizens' ticket favoring that undertaking; that is the reason that that newspaper favors a renewal franchise of the C. P. & E. Ry. Co. Please remember this, and when the Herald is denounced and its editor called a liar and a politician, don't imagine that the local editor and the "cub" reporter are unfriendly to the Herald, but know that they are serving their bosses.

Murdering the Souls of Men.

Worse than all the dynamite outrages ever perpetrated—worse for the victims, worse for their families, worse for society—are those cases of soul-murder by rich and respectable beneficiaries of special privileges of which Senator La Follette tells in the March installment of his autobiography in the American Magazine. Here is one of the instances he gives of this wicked and cruel dynamiting of the morals of public men.

Assemblyman E. was a fine young fellow, and regarded as thoroughly reliable. He was often in the executive office and I trusted him absolutely. . . . He was one of the most enthusiastic men we had, and being a high-spirited, energetic young fellow, he was of great assistance in our fights. Whenever we gathered a little group of the members in the Executive office to talk over any critical situation in the legislature, E. was always with us. He was an active young manufacturer. He often talked with us about his business. I think he had some special machine which enabled him to make his product more cheaply than other manufacturers. One day E. Ray Stevens came into my office and said, "Governor, I wish you would send up and ask E. to come down here. I don't just like the way he talks." "Why," I said, "Ray, there can't be anything wrong with E." Then I began to think that he had not been in to see me for three or four days. "Well," I said, I will send up." When he came through the door he did not meet me with his characteristic frankness. But I greeted him exactly as usual and said, "E, I want to have a little talk with you." I moved my chair right up to his, placed my hands on his knees and looked him in the eye a moment before I spoke. Then I asked, "E, what's the matter?" The tears started in his eyes and the response came at once: "Governor, I can't help it. I've got to vote against the railroad taxation bill." After a moment he added, "I haven't slept any for two or three nights. I have walked the floor. I have thought of resigning and going home."

"Tell me all about it, E," I said.

"Well," he replied, "you know that all I have in the world I have put into that factory of mine. I have told you about how proud I was of the thing. Now," he said, "this railroad lobby tells me that if I vote for that railroad taxation bill they will ruin me in business. They can take away everything I've got. They have threatened to give my competitors advantages over me in railroad rates that will offset any advantages I have with my new machinery. Now, I can't beggar my family. I have a wife and babies."

I said, "E, you can't do this wrong. You can't violate your conscience." I talked to him quite a bit. He got up and walked the floor. He said he would always be for our measures, but he could not risk being driven to the wall. And then he left the office.

A few minutes before the roll call on the bill, E, who sat next to Lenroot, turned to him and said, "Lenroot, in five minutes I am going to violate my oath of office."

Lenroot was shocked and said, "What do you mean?"

He replied: "It is a question between my honor and my bread and butter, and I propose to vote for my bread and butter."

And he voted against the bill.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

By Tom, Dick and Harry.

Mayor Arthur Turnbull of Canton was recently converted by Billy Sunday, and was admitted to membership in one of the churches of that city. He told a representative of the press that Sunday had convinced him that it was possible to be a Christian and a man at the same time. The particular statement made by Sunday which wrought conviction was this: "If a man smites you on the cheek, prepare for action." The language ascribed to Sunday may not be exact, but the sentiment is, and this may be the reason why Sunday is popular and Christ is not. Christ said: "If a man smite you on one cheek turn him also the other." The writer may be prejudiced, but it seems that it would require a good deal more of a man to refrain from striking back, than it would to sail in and knock the lights out of the assailant. "He that overcometh himself is greater than he that taketh a city." No deeper truth is contained in the Bible than that, and Billy Sunday might ponder it with profit to himself and his audiences.

---

"Craziest that ever emanated from a man whose judgment was entitled to any respect. * * * If this was the fulmination of an ordinary agitator or anarchist, we would not need to worry, but coming from the source it does, it is a matter of grave national concern. * * * I had hoped that outbreaks like these were over when Mr. Roosevelt abdicated his place a few years ago and started upon his restful and harmless expedition to the jungles of Africa to slaughter animals that Providence never created."—Senator Rayner of Maryland.

These and other equally pungent not to say odoriferous remarks were passed upon our late strenuous president by the Senator from Maryland in a dissection of Mr Roosevelt's speech before the Ohio Constitutional Convention. Going some, eh? What do you think about "slaughtering animals Providence never created." Who did create 'em? Surely they were not figments of Veracious Teddy's brain! Senator Rayner also said it would take either a lunatic or a lawyer to understand some of the doctrines laid down by the Strenuous One. "Lawyer or a lunatic?" No analogy, we hope? But still—and then—some of the laws we now have—at least needed "interpretation" by the supreme court. The Sherman anti-trust law for one.

---

As Josiah Allen said to the old maid: "Was you ever a parient?" If you were and your blessings happened to be boys, and they came to be of an age when they was down on their upper lip, you probably know the worries connected with furnishing them with amusement. In this day of the world, when raising a family is a more expensive operation than formerly it was to finance a factory, it is a problem to interest a boy in any form of amusement fit for a boy with red blood in his veins, which is not at the same time more expensive than running a motor boat. Football, baseball, etc. in summer; skating, sleigh rides, and snowballing (the latter tabooed) for outdoors in winter. For indoors—nothing, absolutely nothing more strenuous than parties, unless he takes to bowling, basket ball, or pool, and like a woman writing a letter I have got to the nub of the thing that worries most. Pool. That's it. A game harmless in itself, requiring good eyes, judgment, and steady nerves—and money—oodles of it. Only 5 cents a cue, but about 20 cents an hour (more than dad earns, usually) if he plays much at it. Nor is the expense the worst feature of it. We'll suppose the boy learned to play in the Y. M. C. A. parlors. He becomes proficient, and we next find him in a so-called parlor, where the associations are exactly what you have been trying all along to keep him away from. He can see no harm, and tells you the fellows are the same ones he played with in the Y. M. C. A. But the tone is different, and he is too young to know exactly what is meant by "tone," and does not believe you when you say the pool parlor is not a good place for him. Says (or thinks) you are a fogy. What would you do about it?

---

The Lawrence, Mass., strike situation needs a John Brown, even though the mill men have, under the stress of pressure brought by the state and national governments, agreed to advance wages not less than 5%. This, of course, on a basis of 54 hours instead of 60 for a week's work, which is still a reduction from the rate paid for 60 hours. Conditions there are now worse than they ever were when the loyal Brown made his vain attempt to overthrow slavery. Then the revolt was against chattel slavery, but now it would be against an infinitely worse thralldom. Then the master was bound to nourish and protect his slave, but now he needs have no care for his condition, physical, mental or moral. Then the slaves were of a benighted race, and now they are from peoples claiming the highest civilization the world has known. Men are shot down in the streets, women beaten with clubs, children thrown into jail, and cruelties unspeakable perpetrated in the name of the majesty of a great state. Recently the labor committee issued the following statement: "These men and women cannot suffer much longer; they may be compelled to rise in armed revolt against their oppressors if the present state of affairs is allowed to continue." Who shall blame them if that happens?

---

Why don't these wise political leaders see to it that Taft and Harmon are put on one ticket and Roosevelt and Wilson on the other? Then change the name of the parties to Conservative and Radical and go to it. It's the remedy for the political muddle. Next fall we would know how big a thing "Big Business" really is and the common people would know what they have to do. It will be an everlasting shame if they don't hit the right combination at the coming conventions.

---

The owl isn't such a darn wise bird altho he is always touted as being the Soloman of the feathered kingdom. As a matter of fact he isn't one, two, three with the crow, but the crow is never mentioned in the wise class. The secret of it all is that the owl keeps mum and the crow chatters or caws or bellows or whatever he does. The owl is a silent, dignified, old chap, so enjoys an excellent reputation. It's hard to tell how dumb a man is if he don't talk. The looks of a fellow won't convict him—it's the chatter.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

By C. H. Tavenner

Washington, Feb.—The woolen trust, having found that bayonets would not compel its $6, $7 and $8 a week workers to call off their strike, is now utilizing the hunger of little children as a club to force the parents to return to work at a reduced wage.

Here is how the trust is working its new scheme.

Many charitable organizations in cities adjacent to Lawrence, where the strike is in progress, after reading of the desperate straits to which the strikers' children had been reduced, made arrangements to have hundreds of these children cared for in private homes outside of Lawrence until the strike ended. Under this plan, many children were sent away, some to New York and Boston, and some as far away as Philadelphia.

With the knowledge that their children were being cared for tenderly, the mothers and fathers back in Lawrence gained courage to carry on the fight. Freed from hearing their own children crying for bread, the strikers took renewed hope.

What happened? The trust magnates, realizing that if all the little children were sent away from Lawrence the strikers could longer endure the struggle, at once issued orders to the servile police and militia commanders to put a stop to the deportation of children. They knew that where bayonets, persecution, unlawful imprisonment, and all other ordinary weapons of big corporations in fighting the unions might fail, there remained one thing which the strikers could not long resist, and that was; the cry of their own children for food. These millionaires knew that where strong men and women could suffer in silence themselves, they could not long bear to see their children suffer.

Accordingly, there was issued an edict against sending the children away where they could obtain food. Immediately a squad of state soldiers was sent to each railroad station, and when the strikers arrived with their children many of them were seized and thrown into jail.

Diabolical as this may seem it actually is being done, not in Russia, but right here in these United States.

The woolen trust is the most highly protected of all trusts. It makes millions of dollars annually in profits on stock that is watered until it is soggy, and it is the same trust which refuses steadfastly to listen to the plea of its men for a conference to talk over wage differences.

Query: Since the protectionists declared that Schedule K, which places a heavy tax on every article of woolen clothing sold in the United States, was passed "solely" in "protect" the workers in the woolen industry, and since these workers are receiving absolutely no protection whatever, why should the American people longer tolerate Schedule K?

VERY LOW ONE WAY COLONIST RATES VIA NICKEL PLATE ROAD

to points in the West, Northwest and Southwest. Tickets good going March 1 to April 15, inclusive. Ask Agent or write J. C. Melenbacher, D. P. A., Erie, Pa. No. 5.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I, the undersigned wish to announce my candidacy for the office of County Commissioner subject to the Republican Primaries to be held in May, 1912.

F. H. ROOD,
Madison, Ohio.

IRISHMAN'S WORK IN CHINA

Late Sir Robert Hart Served Celestial Empire for Forty-Nine Years.

Irishmen have made careers for themselves in the most unlikely quarters throughout the whole period of modern history. While the distinction won by Irish noblemen in the service of Spain and France and the exploits of the Irish Brigade, who turned the day at the decisive battle of Fontenoy, are familiar to the world, and Irish names are found prominent among the soldiers and sea fighters and statesmen of the South American countries, it is not so well known that they have played their part in Russia and in eastern lands. Peter Lacy was a trusted lieutenant of Peter the Great and employed by him in constructing and training the Russian army. Some of the highest nobility in Russia today are of Irish descent, though their names are so Russianized as to give no hint of their origin.

This capacity of the Irishman for winning success in a foreign land received another notable illustration in the case of Sir Robert Hart, who died after serving China for forty-nine years. This keen little man had wonderful constructive ability. It might be objected that his family had been settled in Ireland for only a couple of hundred years. His ancestor was a Captain De Hardt, an officer who received a grant of land from William III. after the battle of Boyne. If 200 years do not nationalize a family than surely nationalization becomes impossible if a remote ancestor can be traced to another country.

COCHINEAL IS NEAR END

Soon to Become Thing of History Like Tyrian Purple of Antiquity.

It is the opinion of M. Leon Diguet, who has been studying the state of the cochineal industry in Mexico for some time, that before many years have passed cochineal scarlet will have become a thing of history only, like the Tyrian purple of antiquity. How many people are aware of the method of manufacture of this well-known dye. It is made from the dried female of the cochineal insects (coccus cacti). They are gathered by brushing the branches of the nopal cactus, on which the insects feed as soon as they begin to lay their eggs. They are then dessicated in ovens or killed with boiling water. It has been estimated that one pound of cochineal contains no fewer than 70,000 distinct insects. The color is brought out and fixed by chloride of tin. The Indians had cultivated the coccus cacti in pre-Columbian days, but the commercial possibilities of the insect seem to have been first realized by the Spaniards in 1518. It was introduced into Europe about 1523, and into India in 1795. The city of Oaxaca was the center of the cochineal country in the days of Humboldt, but only a few plantations of the nopal cactus now remain—hence the fear that the dye will soon become a thing of the past, at any rate unless some other substance is found on which to feed the insects.

Many sufferers from rheumatism have been surprised and delighted with the prompt relief afforded by applying Chamberlain's Liniment. Not one case of rheumatism in ten requires any internal treatment whatever. This liniment is for sale by all dealers.

Attractive Homeseekers Rates Via Nickel Plate Road.

To points in the West, Northwest and Southwest. Tickets good going on February 6th and 20th and March 5th and 19th. Liberal return limit and stop-over privileges. Get full information of local agent or write J. C. Melenbacher, D. P. A., Erie, Pa.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed bids will be received at the office of the Board of Park Commissioners of Painesville Township at .............. Painesville, Ohio, until noon on April 4, 1912, for constructing a Timber Retaining Wall at Painesville Park at the north end of Hardy Road on the lake shore.

Plans and specifications are on file and blank proposals may be obtained at the office of the Board or from Stinchcomb and Boddy, Engineers, 627 B. of L. E. Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

Proposals must be made on blanks furnished by the Board and each bid must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of Fifty ($50.00) Dollars, payable to the Board of Park Commissioners of Painesville Tp. as a surety that if the proposal be accepted a contract will be entered into.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

The Board of Park Commissioners,
By R. S. BELKNAP,
Sec'y.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed bids will be received at the office of the Board of Park Commissioners of Painesville Township at .............. Painesville, Ohio, until noon on April 4, 1912, for constructing a Bath House and Pavilion at Painesville Park at the north end of Hardy Road on the lake shore.

Plans and specifications are on file and blank proposals may be obtained at the office of the Board or from Stinchcomb and Boddy, Engineers, 687 B. of L. E. Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

Proposals must be made on blanks furnished by the Board and each bid must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars, payable to the Board of Park Commissioners of Painesville Tp. as a surety that if the proposal be accepted a contract will be entered into.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

The Board of Park Commissioners,
By R. S. BELKNAP,
Sec'y.

Report of the Condition

—OF—

The Dollar Savings Bank Co.

at Painesville, in the State of Ohio, at the close of business, Feb. 20, 1912.

| RESOURCES | |
|---|---|
| Due from Reserve Banks | $86,172.[illegible] |
| Total | $86,172.[illegible] |
| LIABILITIES | |
| Capital Stock Paid in | $50,000.00 |
| Surplus Fund | 10,000.[illegible] |
| Public Funds | 24,779.83 |
| Money Borrowed | $ 393.17 |
| Total | $86,172.[illegible] |

I, W. R. Radcliffe, Treasurer of the above named Dollar Savings Bank Co. do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

W. R. RADCLIFFE,
Treasurer.

STATE OF OHIO, COUNTY OF LAKE:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this 20th day of February, 1912.
[illegible] WYMAN,
Notary Public.

Insurance Of all kinds

FIRE, LIFE, AUTOMOBILE, AND LIABILITY INSURANCE

Twenty-five of the strongest and safest companies represented and all losses promptly paid.

E. D. BARBER
The Insurance Man.

FIRE INSURANCE
REAL ESTATE
ABSTRACTS
AND LOANS

A. M. WARN
P. O. BLOCK

HAVE YOUR STATIONERY EMBOSSED
Initials, Crests, Monograms,
Engraved to Your Order,
Stamped in Gold or Color, also Illuminating.
The Educational Supply Co., - Painesville
126 South State Street.

DR. E. L. NORTON and DR. H. D. RAND
DENTISTS
Nitrous Oxide Administered
Office hours: 8 to 12 a.m., 1 to 5 p.m.
Telephone, Main 455.
Cor. Main and St. Clair, Painesville

MARTIN A. TUTTLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Painesville, Ohio,
Postoffice Block.

H. T. NOLAN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Pioneer Trust Bldg. Painesville, O.

MORLEY & WARREN,
GRANITE AND MARBLE WORKS
Painesville, Ohio
The Best Stock and First-class Work
Cor. State and Washington Streets

BURGESS GRANITE WORKS,
Cor. State and Erie Streets.
We give Eagle Stamps.
We are the only dealers in Lake, Geauga, Trumbull and Portage counties authorized to sell the celebrated White Bronze monuments with the greatly improved finish.

Johnson
Custom Tailor
125 N. State St.
WE DO SANITARY STEAM CLEANING AND PRESSING.

SEND $2.00
For a Gallon of this
Good Whiskey
Equal to $3.50 grade. $5 Whiskey at $3 per gallon.
Duffy Malt Whiskey Per Bottle . . . . . 89c
Guckenheimer or Golden Wedding Rye
$2.69 Per Gallon
2 Gallons $5.00
All high grade, guaranteed liquor at reduced prices. Sent in plain packages to any address.
A. Cohn, Wholesale Liquor Store
5819 ST. CLAIR, 4 doors East of 55th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

The Proper Bait
We are specialists.
We employ the best designers and engravers; our up-to-date plant is in charge of experienced men.
Every plate and design is carefully inspected before shipping.
This is our Bait, to catch and hold your trade.
Write to us now. Engravings are not expensive. Will send samples and quotations.
ECLIPSE ELECTROTYPE & ENGRAVING CO.
CLEVELAND
(5)

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. [illegible]
Scientific American.
[illegible]

---

NEW FIRM

THE PAINESVILLE COAL FEED & SUPPLY CO.
Successors to Cole Coal Co.

are doing business still at the same old stand that has for so many years been a feed store and coal yard.

The patrons of the Cole Coal Co. will find everything pertaining to the business methods about the same as usual as all the old employees will be retained.

Fair, Square Dealing is the foremost of our principles and that we intend to carry through our entire business.

We solicit a share of your patronage and would thank you for a call if only to get acquainted.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION

The Lake County board of examiners will offer examinations for teachers' certificates on the first Saturday of each month in the year 1911. If first Saturday falls on holiday, examinations will be held one week later. Boxwell pupils will be examined the third Saturday in April and the third Saturday in May, 1911. All examinations will be held in the old High School building, Painesville, beginning at 8:15 standard time.

By order of the board.
[illegible], Clerk,
Unionville, Ohio.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad

FLORIDA

Special round trip, via Washington and rail, or via Baltimore and boat. Stop over anywhere. Limit June 1st.

CALIFORNIA, OREGON, WASHINGTON
Colonist one way reduced fares. Beginning March 1st.

See Ticket Agent or write M. G. Carrel, D. P. A., 241 Euclid Ave, Cleveland, O.

Where Cleanliness Reigns

Quality Groceries Await You Here

Our Prices Please and Are Worth Watching

Adapted to the saving pocket book

There's a reason for our growth

THESE WILL PLEASE

Elliott & Ruhling

The Eureka

POOL PARLORS and SMOKE HOUSE
SOFT DRINKS, CANDIES
and a Full Line of CIGARETTES

ELECTRIC PIANO
for the amusement of all patrons

J. H. MATHEWS, Prop.
118 So. State St., Painesville, O.

Indian Herbs
160 Doses - $1.00
The Family Medicine
For all Blood Diseases
Composed of Herbs, Roots and Barks.
Cures
Rheumatism, Catarrh, Asthma, and a complete Liver and Kidney Regulator.
Trial Treatment Free!
ADDRESS
C. A. RUSH
Wickliffe, Ohio

DR. BULL'S Cough Syrup

Have you a cold with a hacking or racking cough, hoarseness, bronchitis, grippe; or an asthmatic or pulmonary cough with sore chest? Has the baby croup, whooping cough or measles cough?

SAMPLE, FREE.

Then test the old reliable Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, free.

Write to A. C. Meyer & Co., Baltimore, Md. Mention this paper.

"I had a very bad cold and cough and I used the valuable Dr Bull's Cough Syrup with the best results: one bottle cured me entirely."

Frances E. Loane, Bridgeville, Del.

REGULAR BOTTLE, 25 CTS.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup contains no morphine or chloroform. It is safest and best.

Mentor Wall Paper Store
NEW STOCK ON HAND
Besides a Large Assortment in Books which I would be pleased to show you
R. M. CASE

HAVE YOUR FIRE INSURANCE WRITTEN AT HOME
We represent one of the Largest and Best Companies
The National Fire Insurance Co. of Hartford
R. M. CASE & CO.

OUR SPECIAL OFFER

THE HERALD AND
La Follette's Weekly Magazine

BOTH A FULL YEAR FOR ONLY

$1.25

You can read every week what Senator Robert M. La Follette, the fearless champion of the people's rights, the leader of the progressive Republicans, thinks and says for

ONLY 25 CENTS MORE
Than the Price of The Herald Alone

A stirring and momentous campaign is opening. You will want to be posted. You will want the record of your congressman. Does he represent YOU? You will want information about the great political issues you and your friends are talking about. Senator La Follette knows what is going on at Washington. He is on the ground; behind the scenes. He tells you all about it in LA FOLLETTE'S WEEKLY MAGAZINE.

Sixteen pages of crisp editorials and interesting special articles each week.

La Follette's 1 yr. $1.00
Herald . . 1 yr. $1.00
OUR OFFER $1.25

ADDRESS

The Lake County Herald, Painesville, Ohio

TRUBY COAL CO.
COAL and COKE
LIME, CEMENT, SEWER PIPE, TILE, ETC.
BOTH PHONES 21

MENTOR

Mr. Bert Dille, one of our Mentor "boys" who moved recently to Madison, was here last week, as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Curtiss and called on several of his old neighbors and friends. Mr. Dille was on his way home, having been in Cleveland [illegible] is now up there.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Carleton were recent guests of Kirtland friends for a short time.

Mr. Alonzo Ritter has just been putting electric lighting into his house, and several others are contemplating doing the same before long.

Miss Josephine Baker spent last week with the family of her brother in Madison.

The old Zenas Blish homestead which has been owned by Mr. Silverthorn a former Willoughby man for some years, and known as "Cherry Farm" has just been bought by Samuel Renner of the Bailey Co. of Cleveland, for a summer home.

There is rumor of a new general store at the Center, same being put into the new block owned by Mrs. Bostwick, the Post Office going into part of it, and the C. P. & E. using one room for a freight or package room. If all the rumors are correct, the entire block will soon be in use, and more room still needed.

The meeting of the county Y. M. C. A. was a great success here on Saturday, all the meetings being well attended, some 24 of the "boys" eating supper with us; and many of our older people being present to listen to Mr. T. B. Lanham, the Y. M. C. A. secretary of Medina county, and also to Mr. Wainwright, a Japanese student of Oberlin College, both of whom gave very interesting and instructive addresses. T. P. Cadle, the Mentor president, occupied the chair both afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Clyde Allen (nee Miss Hazel Norton, Mrs. Bert Allen (nee Miss Ruby Baker), and Mrs. Maurice Markell (nee Miss Nellie McCrae), were all invited to dinner with Mrs. C. C. Allen of Kirtland one day last week.

Mrs. A. Ritter is able to be out now, after a long siege of illness and close confinement to the house for some months.

Mr. John Tyler returned today from the Cleveland hospital, and his friends feel that he has been very lucky to get back so soon.

Mrs. J. C. Jackson is in Cleveland at one of the hospitals there for a slight and not dangerous operation, we understand, and will soon be at home again.

Mr and Mrs Albert Lammeraux are to move onto the Osdene farm we hear sometime next month.

The weather still continues to be wintry, cold and "raw." Some of our people declare they are suffering more now with the cold, than at any time during the winter, but if so—it is because people are careless about keeping up the fires—just the same as during the past three months, for good old summer time is not with us yet! The snow is nearly melted off, some mud is to be seen during the middle of the day, everything frozen up tight at night, and drifts just the same as ever.

Mrs. Ed Sanborn enjoyed a visit from her aunt, Mrs. Susan Larned Taylor, and her husband, from Painesville, one day last week.

Mr. John Warren is at present sojourning for a time down at Hot Springs, Va., which is a great resort for persons afflicted with rheumatism.

Not much maple sugar has been made here yet, Mr. Morley has tapped the old "Morley Bush" once, and made a little nice syrup, but weather is most too cold for much of a "run".

A man by the name of H. S. Dunlop has been appointed in charge of the Nickel Plate office here, and also agent for the National Express Co., in place of Mr. Woodgerd lately moved to Geneva, this state.

Mrs. Hazel Norton Allen was the recipient of a bridal shower given to her one day last week by some of her friends. It is safe to say, that had some of the "old girls" been called on the "shower" would have been quite a "freshet" for Hazel has many friends here among the people who have known her all her life.

And now the word has gone out that another of our girls is to "step off" on the 14th of this month, leaving another "aching void." Miss Hazel Hart is to be married to some Willoughby young man, we hear.

Miss Mary Korr of Painesville, whose death occurred a few days ago was related to Mr. Will Korr and his sister Mrs. Nettie Kerr Baxter, and also to Mrs. Alice Lawrence Dickey, Mrs. Elma Lawrence Case and Miss Nora Lawrence, all of Mentor.

The many friends of the Rayl family were pained to hear of the death of Mrs. Susan Rayl, which occurred last week Tuesday, death having been caused by apoplexy. Mrs Rayl was seventy years of age and leaves a husband and six children living, of whom Mr Will Rayl and Miss Mildred Rayl live here at the Mentor home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Munson of Detroit are here for a few days, helping their parents to move from their recently sold home on Jackson Road to a temporarily rented house on Berridge avenue, where they will remain until decided whether to move away from Mentor and all the many old friends here, or not. In the meantime, said friends are hoping it will be decided that they stay right here.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Tyler have recently been visiting in Indianapolis, Ind., where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Tyler and family.

Mrs. Ed Sanborn, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Dorothea, were guests of her cousin, Mrs. George Cone of Geneva, a portion of last week. It may be remembered by absent friends, that Mrs. Cone was none other than our Miss Minnie Hopkins in the days that are past.

Mrs. Burton Smith has been having a visit from her friend, Mrs. Avery, of Elgin, Ill., recently.

There has been considerable satisfaction expressed over the candidacy of our village "Mayor" for the office of county prosecuting Attorney and the Herald correspondent wishes to rise and speak a good word for Mr. Tom Cadle, who is well known through these parts as a clean, good, honest, reliable young man; thoroughly competent as an attorney, and thoroughly conscientious wherever he is. Mr. Cadle is considered one of the rising young men of Cleveland, where he has his business office at present, but his home affiliations are here in Mentor.

Ross Marsh, now in business at Gary, Ill., has been spending this past week at home on a short vacation, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Marsh, and his sister Miss Lotta.

The new pastor of the Methodist congregation, Rev. P. B. Schaeffner, of the Boston Theological Seminary, arrived here on Saturday and was on hand at Sunday school early Sabbath morning, and at every service thereafter, at all of which he was warmly received, so much so, indeed, that at the close of the morning service, he expressed a wish to stand at the door and so have chance to shake every person present by the hand. So far as we have heard, everybody is in love with Mr. Schaeffner, and as we are his "first people" we stand in a very pleasant place towards him—and are all going to try hard to behave ourselves, so he will continue to think well of us. Rumor says he is interested in a young lady back East there somewhere—but there! that was a secret.

The following remarks and a few others have been heard on the political situation within a few days, and interest promises being strong, as time nears for the naming of presidential candidates. "If Taft thinks he is going to continue to live in our White House another four years, rent free, he'll find himself mistaken." "Well, if Teddy hasn't come out quite flat-footed. (at Columbus). "No Sir! I aint goin' to vote for Ted—never! Mr. Wilson for me—every time! I don't even want Mr. O'Brian." "I never was much of a Roosefeldt man, but any gump ought to know he meant three terms a runnin'." "And so—Bill Taft thinks (and says) we folks don't know nuff to govern ourselves? huh! Mebby he'd like to be king ov this country? but he never'll be—nor any other man! huh!"

Children are much more likely to contract the contagious diseases when they have colds. Whooping cough, diptheria, scarlet fever and consumption are diseases that are often contracted when the child has a cold. That is why all medical authorities say beware of colds. For the quick cure of colds you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It can always be depended upon and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all dealers.

WICKLIFFE

Mrs Jennie Bowman and three children who have been visiting in Medina returned home Sunday.

Miss Leota White is said to be threatened with typhoid fever.

Miss Dorothy Hill and Edna Faustman ran away from home one day this week. Miss Hall is about eleven years old and Edna about fifteen. It is thought that the older girl persuaded the younger to leave. The girls both had good homes and their motive for running off is not known. The girls were found in Willoughby and brought back home.

Mr. Price, landscape gardener for the rich Mr Colby of this town, was found in the barn in a dead faint. The hired men took him home in a buggy. It is said that he is bothered with acute indigestion and heart trouble.

Relatives of Mrs. H. Burkhardt coming from Willoughby, visited her Thursday of last week.

Miss Anna and Millie Bunes spent Sunday in Cleveland.

Mr. Lawrence Gilday and family visited relatives in Cleveland Sunday.

Mr. Louis Peters who was operated on for appendicitis, is said to be improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Morris spent Sunday afternoon and evening with their son, Charles and his family.

Mr. Emmet Dumph of Cleveland, visited his parents, Mr and Mrs John Dumph Sunday.

It is reported that Miss Clover Jones has been very ill for the last week.

Mr. Heath of Kirtland visited his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs Mark Furgason Sunday.

Mrs. Warren Viel spent Saturday and Sunday in Cleveland with her daughter, Mrs. L. Willie.

Mrs. Geo. Beach went shopping in Cleveland one day last week.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of coughs, colds and croup. It can be depended upon. Try it. Sold by all dealers.

NORTH MADISON

Mrs. Will Roff is visiting relatives in Geneva.

S. A. Baker of Mentor was a week end visitor of his old neighbors and friends and attended the sale at Byron Barr's Saturday.

Miss Grace St. John of Painesville is a guest of her aunt, Mrs. M. L. Haywood and grandmother, Mrs. Emily St. John.

Mrs. Rice Harper and Mrs. Will Haywood of Perry were Wednesday guests at the home of Mrs. Hattie Haywood and Mrs. Harriet Putnam, who is still confined to her bed at the home of her daughter.

Rev. W. [illegible] Carr of Harpersfield delivered the Sunday P. M. sermon at the chapel in the absence of Rev. Yeager.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Snyder and family were Sunday guests of his parents Oscar Snyder, in Madison.

Mr. R. Gunn and family were recent guests of relatives in town.

Mrs James Hill was called suddenly to Cleveland Thursday by the illness of her mother, Mrs. Crippen.

Ralph Billington and Harry Brakeman were Geneva visitors Saturday evening.

Miss Mary Wheeler was a week end guest of her cousins Elsie and Bernice Lockwood, in town.

O. S. Foster and family of Geneva were recent guests of his parents, L. A. Foster.

Miss Glenna Snyder is again at her old position as teacher at the Dock Road school, Miss Eva Brown being the teacher for one month.

Bert Vincent spent Sunday with Mrs. Fanny Burns.

Mrs. Mary Nye is in Painesville now.

Married, Feb. 14th, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm Baldwin, at Bloomfield, N. J. by Rev. Henry Sterling Potter, Miss Willetta Ward Baldwin, to Mr. Frank Quirk of North Madison. Mr. and Mrs. Quirk returned to their new home on the Clark Road Feb. 28th, where they will be at home to their friends.

Correction—Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mericle will live on the Vesey farm on the Lake Road, now owned by Allen Beebe, instead of in the Zimerly house on the North Ridge.

The L. A. S. cleared $17.20 at S. A. Barr's sale Saturday, for lunches served. "Good for the North Chapel ladies."

You can say goodbye to constipation with a clear conscience if you use Chamberlain's Tablets. Many have been permanently cured by their use. For sale by all dealers.

MADISON

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Harmon of Canton, have been recent guests of Mrs. Harmon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Phelps.

Mrs. Pheba Kenney of Erie, Pa., (formerly of Geneva) has been a recent guest at the home of her brother Mr. G. P. Haywood.

Mrs. J. V. Wiants and father, Alanson Bailey, who have been spending some time in Florida, returned home Tuesday.

Miss Wolcott of Oberlin was an over Sunday guest at the Kimball home.

Mr. and Mrs. B. P. St. John and son, Raymond, of Ashtabula, and R. G. St. John of Cleveland, were Sunday guests of their parents.

Mr. George Lott spent a couple of days last week in Cleveland.

Miss Alta Graves spent Monday evening in Geneva.

The quarantine has been lifted from the Sarnes home on River street, and Mrs. Vanvalkenburg, who has been assisting in caring for the diptheria patient, has gone to visit her sister, Mrs. W. Hoose in Ashtabula.

Mrs. J. R. Graves and daughter, Alta, were shopping in Ashtabula Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Jono Perry visited friends in Geneva, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Brotsman spent Saturday in Perry with Mr. and Mrs. J. Mein.

Supt. G. W. Kneale was in Columbus the first of the week.

Miss Ethel Williams was the guest of her brother and family in Geneva the last of the week.

Mrs. E. J. Foster, after a weeks' illness, is again able to be out.

You judge a man not by what he promises to do, but by what he has done. That is the only true test. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judged by this standard has no superior. People everywhere speak of it in the highest terms of praise. For sale by all dealers.

THE MARKETS.

Buyers are Paying for

| | |
|---|---|
| Wheat | .98 |
| Rye | .80 |
| Corn | .64 |
| Oats | .53 |
| Baled hay per ton | $20-$22 |
| Baled straw per ton | $11-$13 |
| Butter, No 1 dairy | .30 |
| Eggs | .30 |
| Lard (home rendered) | .12 |
| Pork, dressed | .08 |
| Chickens | .10 |
| Veal | .12 |
| Beef, dressed | 9½-10 |
| Tallow, per pound | .05 |
| Potatoes | 1.00 |
| Honey | 18-19 |
| Maple syrup, per gal. | 90-$1.50 |

Retail Price for

| | |
|---|---|
| Flour, Royal patent, per sk. | 1.55 |
| Flour, Golden Eagle, per sk. | 1.35 |
| Flour, Elevator, per sk. | 1.35 |
| Flour, rye, per sk | 1.50 |
| Graham Flour, per lb. | 2½ |
| Corn | .77 |
| Oats | .62 |
| Corn Meal | 1.50 |
| Chop feed, straight corn and oats | 1.60 |
| Midlings | 1.55 |
| Bran | 1.40 |
| Baled straw, cwt | .75 |
| Butter, creamery | .35 |
| Butter, dairy | .33 |
| Eggs, per dozen | .34 |
| Potatoes, per bu. | 1.25 |
| Potatoes, per pk. | .35 |

A. W. SCHEURMAN
WICKLIFFE, O.

FRENCH DRY CLEANING DYEING AND PRESSING

All work guaranteed. Will call anywhere. And give you 3-day service.

WATCH FOR THE RED WAGON

If you want a FLOUR that will satisfy in any kind of baking try our WHITE BEAUTY.

We have sold this brand for over fifteen years and we know it will please you.

W. M. WERNER
DRUGS, GROCERIES, CROCKERY, HOUSEFURNISHINGS

NEW GOODS AND NEW FIXTURES
WE AIM TO CARRY THE VERY BEST IN
Staple and Fancy Groceries
WITH A STOCK OF
Cigars and Tobacco
In keeping with all other lines. We shall appreciate your trade and will endeavor to please.
BURR & RUST
CORNER STATE AND MAIN

Painesville's Leading Planing Mill.
DRESSED LUMBER IS LIKE A DEAD DOG.
The bark is all off. You'll find no bark to our lumber, although we do a good deal of barking about it. We have the stock, and feel justified in barking. When you want the best lumber, bark up this tree, and you'll find it.
S. L. MALIN & SON
"Focus on Lumber."
Phone 107

A. D. McLEAN
FIRE INSURANCE, REAL ESTATE
SINGER SEWING MACHINES
All makes of machines cleaned and repaired.
135 S. State St. :-: Painesville, Ohio

A REMEDY FOR EVERY ILL IN THE NYAL REMEDIES
—at—
PARK'S PHARMACY
"The Nyal Store"

Painesville's Leading Drug Store.
Registered Pharmacists in attendance at all times.
The Corner Pharmacy
J. G. DAVET, Proprietor.

FIRE, LIFE, ACCIDENT, HEALTH
—AND—
PLATE GLASS INSURANCE
FRANK L. KERR

A. A. CALLENDER
—ALL KINDS OF—
Light and Heavy Draying
FURNITURE AND PIANO MOVING A SPECIALTY
Home Phone—Main 281 Bell Phone [illegible]

The HARP on the SHIELD

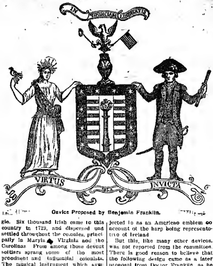
BY PROF. BERNARD J. CIGRAND

COPYRIGHT BY W. G. CHAPMAN

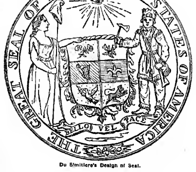
ST. Patrick's day, March the 17th, belongs to the Sons of Erin by world-wide assent, but few Americans, outside of those descended from natives of the Emerald Isle, pause to consider what memorable services were rendered by Irish during the Revolutionary war. With the single exception of our French allies, they merit the highest commendation for their aid to the cause of freedom; and only because the former people hailed from an already established government are their claims granted precedence. Irish historic emblems, both in device and tincture, are woven unalterably into the fabric of the evolution of American history. Here, for the first time, are set forth items of great heraldic importance, giving the proper credit to Erin's emblems, as they have formed an equation in the development of the present governmental devices of heraldic or symbolic meaning.

It is generally supposed that the only important matter which engaged the attention of the first Continental Congress, on the fourth day of July, was the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, but the records show that no less essential national problem—a government signature, or seal—was a part of the considerations of that eventful occasion. It was about three o'clock in the afternoon, when the Liberty Bell was still sounding the call to arms and proclaiming the dawn of freedom that John Hancock, president of the Continental Congress, arose from his chair and said:

"We are now a nation, and I appoint Dr. Benjamin Franklin, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson a committee to prepare a device for a great seal of the thirteen United States."

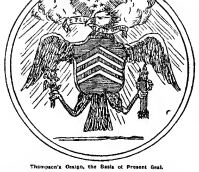


Device Proposed by Benjamin Franklin.



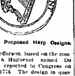
THE GREAT SEAL OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
BELLO VEL PACE

Du Simitiere's Design of Seal.



Thompson's Design, the Basis of Present Seal.

The committee immediately proceeded to perform its assigned duty, and after six weeks of labor, during which time many designs were considered, it was announced that the device arranged by Jefferson, based on the compilation of a Huguenot named Du Simitier, be reported to Congress on August 10, 1776. The design in question was quite elaborate and indicated fundamental knowledge of the laws of heraldry, besides containing primal symbolic language, and one important element which appealed strongly to the Irish pride of race. The proposed shield carried an emblem to represent the six great nationalities taking part in the war for independence, or those who populated the colonies and were earnest in the fight for American freedom. Thus, for England appeared a rose, for Scotland a thistle, for Ireland a harp, for France a fleur-de-lys, for Germany a black eagle, and for the Netherlands a lion. Du Simitier, who was the heraldic artist, placed Ireland third in this important subdivision of that proposed shield for the Union, and it is interesting to note the reasons set forth for this recognition of the patriotism of the colonial inhabitants who came here from Ireland.



One of the Proposed Harp Designs.

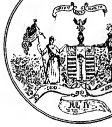
The third Quartering, green with a harp of gold, was to be the respected symbol of Ireland, and was placed upon the shield as a token to the Irish patriots who took an active part in the war for independence. In fact, having brought over with them a spirit of dislike and revenge against England, they fought most bravely in our struggle. Six thousand Irish came to this country in 1729, and dispersed and settled throughout the colonies, principally in Maryland, Virginia and the Carolinas. From among those devout settlers sprang some of the most prominent and influential colonists. The musical instrument which symbolizes the land of Erin was an attributive ensign of the Goddess Hibernia, the patroness of early Ireland. As early as the 11th century, the harp was so common in Erin that hardly a peasant house was without one. In the old laws of Wales and Erin the Triads specified the use of the harp as one of the three things necessary to distinguish a freeman or gentleman from a slave. Pretenders were discovered by their unskillfulness in playing of the harp."

That the heraldic device of which Du Simitier was the author pleased his critics is proved by the fact that Franklin at once withdrew his design, Adams abandoned his and Jefferson relegated his diagram to oblivion in favor of the compilation offered by the French expert. Also there were other designs placed in evidence by distinguished colonists. Among them was an emblem of Ireland, a "Harp" with thirteen strings, and the motto, Majora Minoribus Consonant, meaning "The greater and lesser ones sound together." The strings of the harp were of different lengths, yet they composed one instrument in a strong frame and sounded in harmony. This appropriate device was intended to represent the new government under the Continental Congress, as composed of provinces of various sizes and strength, but all working and responding harmoniously for the general good—made united in strength and purpose by the framework of Congress. This design no doubt was objected to as an American emblem on account of the harp being representative of Ireland.

But this, like many other devices, was not reported from the committee. There is good reason to believe that the following design came as a later proposal from Doctor Franklin, as he refers to it in his writings:

"Supporters—In the dexter side, the genius of America (represented by a maiden with loose auburn tresses), having on her head a radiated crown of gold encircled with a sky blue fillet, spangled with silver stars, and clothed in a long, loose white garment bordered with green. From her right shoulder to her left a scarf, semee of stars, the tinctures thereof the same as in the canton; and round her waist a purple girdle, fringed or embroidered, argent, with the word 'Virtute,' resting her interior band on the escutcheon, and holding in the other the proper standard of the United States, having a dove argent perched on the top of it.

"On the sinister side: a man in complete armor, his sword-belt azure fringed with gold, his helmet encircled with a wreath of laurel and crested with one white and two blue plumes; supporting with his dexter hand the escutcheon and holding in the interior a lance, with the point sanguinated, and upon it a banner displayed, vert; (green), in the fess-point a harp strung with silver, between a star in chief, two fleurs-de-lys in fess, a pair of swords in saltier, in basses, all argent.



Barton's Second Design.

The tenants of the escutcheon stand on a scroll on which is the following motto: 'Deo Favente,' which alludes to the eye in the arms, meant for the eye of Providence."

The Congress evidently counted it more important to possess the seal than a flag, for no definite action on the national banner was taken until June 14, 1777. But Jefferson was so impressed with the idea of recognizing the countries from whence America was peopled, and to show definitely admiration for their patriotism in the fight for liberty, that he placed below the Du Simitier idea the motto, "E Pluribus Unum," to indicate "From Many (People), one (people);" or "From Many Nationalities, one nation," or "From England, Scotland, Ireland, France, Germany, and the Netherlands—the United States." The motto does not mean 'From many Colonies, one nation," as the basic definition is clearly indicated in the device and in Jefferson's description.

Still, Congress was hard to please, and the report of the distinguished committee was set aside and a new committee assigned to the task. Though Jefferson continued deeply interested in the matter and submitted several other devices, no less than twenty designs were under discussion, and four subsequent committees labored with the seal problem.

Then in 1782 a committee called to their aid a certain Mr. William Barton, a patriot, soldier and heraldic expert, and he designed a seal which again incorporated the emblems in token of the Irish allies of the Republic. His design was elaborate and practically became the basis of our present seal. In the shield the Stars and Stripes appear and the eagle and eye of Providence. But the special consideration of the Irish is found in the two figures supporting the proposed design. The harp and the fleur-de-lys relate to the assistance rendered by Ireland and France, and are blazoned on a green banner. However, this committee's report fared no better than its predecessors, and finally the entire question of evolving an appropriate seal was placed in the hands of the secretary of the Continental Congress—the Irishman, Charles Thomson. He, with the aid of William Barton, gave to the world our present emblematic signature. Americans in general, and those of Irish ancestry in particular, will be interested in the following sketch of the career of the man who solved the problem of providing a seal for the Government of the United States:

Charles Thomson was born at Maghera, Ireland, November 29, 1729, and came to America with his three older brothers in 1741. They landed at New Castle, Delaware, with no other dependence than their industry. Thomson was educated by Doctor Allison, the tutor of several of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. He had a great passion for reading and when yet a young man he had gleaned sufficient knowledge to be counted among the "literati." He was afterwards a teacher in the Friends' academy, at New Castle, Delaware. From thence he went to Philadelphia, where he became acquainted with and obtained advice from Benjamin Franklin; he soon became the intimate friend of the "learned Philadelphian" and their friendship seemed to increase daily. In 1772 he served as negotiator with the Iroquois and Delaware Indians, and his good, conscientious work among the natives brought for him the worthy nickname, "Truthteller," by which name the Indians always after called him. He was a man of rare abilities and had the peculiar requisites to make and keep friends wherever he happened to wander. He was called to the responsible duty of keeping minutes of the proceedings of the first Continental Congress in 1774, and from that time until he resigned his office in 1789—then fifty-nine years old—he was the secretary of that dignified and important body.

John Adams called him "the Sam Adams of Philadelphia, the life of the cause of liberty." This certainly was a compliment, coming as it did from a tried and honest patriot. Thomson, it is true, made a most diligent secretary, and in that position he had the rare pleasure of taking notes of all the important congressional actions. For the first year's work he received no pay. He served as permanent secretary during the eventful fifteen years that followed. His seal was accepted officially on June 20, 1782.

---

Convent Stormed By Nuns

Jesuit Priests Unable to Hold Domicile Against Determination of the Fair Religionists.

A curious tale of a besieged and conquered monastery belongs to the early history of the Canary islands. In the early part of the eighteenth century there was in Orotava, on the island of Teneriffe, a convent of Dominican nuns who, after some years of ease, had the misfortune to be burned out.

At that time there was in Orotava a house of Jesuits which had lost its former importance, and, though commodious and healthful, gave lodging to but two men, the rector of the house and his assistant. On this mansion the nuns cast covetous eyes and soon resolved to appropriate it.

One morning about forty of them advanced against it, by strategy induced the Jesuit brother to open the outer gate, and then trooping into the courtyard fell upon their knees, thanking God for this preliminary success. In vain did the two monks reason with them on their scandalous conduct.

Some of the more reasonable members of the sisterhood explained that they were really in need of a dwelling as spacious as this and that they did not purpose leaving it. The rector in despair fled into the sacristy, from which retreat he exhorted his colleague to be of good cheer, crying that they must do their best "to extricate themselves from those ladies."

The siege lasted for three or four hours. News of it flew about town and bands of young men, scrupulously neutral, watched proceedings from the bars of the outer gate. Eventually the Jesuits yielded and the nuns occupied the house until a new convent entirely to their taste was erected for them.

---

Striking Features of the New Spring Suits

THERE is one good point about the spring suit this year: coats are made in lengths to suit the figure. The stout woman is not given a short coat, while the slight woman who looks her best in a hip length jacket may have it. While the short coats are decidedly to the fore, the hip and the three-quarter lengths are shown, too.

As to skirts, suit skirts, those designed for street wear beneath long coats or for house wear, all are narrow, though some are slashed at the left or at the side, revealing a drop skirt sometimes most elaborately trimmed with braid. Others are cut in the simulated tunic effect.

Summarizing the salient features of the spring suit are the following ideas: The hipless figure continues, there is a gradual return of the normal waist line; the sleeves are three-quarter and full length and usually set in plain at the armholes; there is a slight increase in skirt width, but the straight line continues. The suit jackets vary in length, though the latest Paris report is that the tendency is entirely toward the extremely short jacket. A great many of the tailored suits are semi-tailored; there is a use of fabric trimming in form of self-covered cords and folds. There is a large use of silk, particularly taffeta, for these demi-tailored models.

Cutaway Effects More Popular.

As the season advances the vogue for cutaway effects seems to be on the increase. Many of the late models are cut away to an extreme point in the back and fastened just below the bust in front. Shopkeepers realize, however, that a garment of this type is extremely difficult to wear and they are modifying these cutaway coats so as to make them a bit more practical. The majority of the cutaway models shown in the shops are not cutaway until they come below the waist line, and then are cut in either round or pointed effect, both being in favor.

As trimmings are confined largely to the collars, revers and cuffs of the suits, these are given a great deal of attention and it is frequently the cut of a collar or a rever that makes or mars the entire costume. Shawl collars are again seen, but in most instances they do not have as large revers as in the last season. The notched collar and the small revers of mannish cut also are seen on many of the models and are well liked.

Collars and Cuffs of Mull.

[illegible] as well as lingerie collars and cuffs made of fine mull or batiste edged with lace also are employed with excellent effect. Most of these collars are either basted or buttoned on so that they may be readily tubbed. Machine and hand embroidery is used on some of the suits, but only sparingly.

In the plain tailored suits the regulation coat sleeve is seen almost entirely. In the dressier models they are making a number of thin sleeves, cut with a little fullness below the elbow and finished off with a deep cuff. These are usually three-quarters or seven-eighths length and are especially designed for warm weather wear.

Serges and whipcords are the fabrics that are finding favor at the present time. In silks a number of taffetas are shown, but these, it is expected, will have greater vogue as the summer season advances.

An attractive navy blue mohair serge I saw the other day emphasized the use of tailor's braid and tailor's buttons of black silk, which outline many of the seams and panels of the coats and skirts. The jacket was twenty-seven inches long and was of straightline cut. The center back panel extended through from the shoulders, while across the front and sides the basque was set on. The lines were emphasized by the braid binding and by the trimming of the braid bound buttonholes. The sleeves were of straight coat cut, medium large, seven-eighths long, and finished with a deep backward turning cuff, braid bound and trimmed with buttons.

Lace Collar in Open Pattern.

An interesting new feature of the model was an open pattern lace collar which was in shawl shape cut low, descending considerably below the normal waist line in front. This collar was formed of heavy crochet point in champagne color. It was edged with narrow plaitings of black tulle, the coat lined with heavy navy blue satin.

The skirt was simple, in three pieces, center back panel and two side panels, which overlapped each other to form the front. All overlapping edges were bound with braid and at the fronts and the sides a tunic effect was given by the trimmings of braid and buttons. The skirt was only medium narrow, measuring fifty-six inches at the bottom. It was hung from a belt about two and one-half inches deep.

Among the new belts are inch wide belts of fine Morocco leather in high colors, the design being formed by interlacing narrow strips of cut leather. The interlacing is copied from ancient leather work and is most artistic, the belt thus treated being simple in effect, while at the same time presenting a novel feature in ornamentation.

Other Forms on Girdle Order.

Other forms of leather belts more on the girdle order are several inches wide at the back and curve slightly in the front. So far the use of leather belts has been confined largely to the simple jackets, many of which are in the belted style.

Chinese Hair Band

Photographed by Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.

The current events in China are responsible for this Chinese embroidered hair band, which takes the place of the theater cap. The colorings are gorgeous, those for the blonds having the black band, flowers and butterflies in natural colors, and those for the brunette being pale colored ground with appropriate designs.

IN VOGUE

Changeable taffeta hats are popular.

Shoes are becoming a little more ornamental in their effect.

Small bows of black velvet are much used to trim blouses.

Newest dress models show a continuance of one sided effect.

Wide girdles appear on most of the elaborate afternoon frocks.

There is a prophecy of plain effects in everything fashionable.

Black millinary is extremely fashionable for children. These little hats and quaint bonnets are trimmed with clusters of tiny berries, fastened with brightly colored silks.

For men, from England, and smart, are buckskin gloves with buttons and clasps for fastenings, in grays and tans, some with heavy embroidery and others with silk linings.

Sleeves show fullness at the lower edge now. On some, deep cuffs give a suggestion of empire fashion. On others, lace frills fall over the arms or hands in filmy cascades.

There is a return of the yoke cut in one with the stock and boned from the collar to the ears.

Pasteboard Pyramids.

Quite the newest conceit in imported place favors has appeared from abroad in the form of miniature pasteboard pyramids, with tiny flowering plants seeming to have grown in them. The decoration of the holder simulates porcelain, with a color note to harmonize with that of the artificial blossoms surmounting it. A set of these favors in yellow, for instance, if in accord with the chosen color scheme for the table setting, will give a far prettier effect than a favor introducing its color solidly. With these novelties there come tiny white place cards to be slipped among the flowers.

Ecru Silk Veils.

Veils of ecru silk lace with a wide mesh are being shown in Paris, and are more becoming than the white ones to women with a dark skin.

CHICAGO NURSE HEALS LITTLE TOTS

Tells Wonderful Secret of Successful Experience Healing Sores.

What could be more convincing than the facts of a nurse in which she tells of the wonders she has accomplished with Resinol?

If the curative properties of Resinol are recognized as exceptional by a person continually connected with skin diseases of every sort, you, as an individual, certainly ought to heed her words of experience and advice. Read what she says:

"Resinol Ointment is excellent for the various skin eruptions that childhood is heir to. I have healed a great many sores on the little tots with Resinol Ointment, and recommend its good qualities whenever I find an opportunity.

"MISS M. SCHOFIELD, District Nurse, "Chicago, Ill."

Resinol Ointment can be applied to the raw skin of the youngest infant without irritation or smarting, and gives instant relief. Resinol Ointment is an effectual and reliable remedy in all forms of inflammation, eruption and irritation of the skin. It is an immediate remedy for itching or inflamed piles and a great curative application for eczema, tetter, milk crust, pimples, blackheads, scalds, burns, chilblains, boils, felons, cuts and all inflamed and irritated skin surfaces. Resinol Soap, by its antiseptic and healing properties, assists the work of Resinol Ointment. Your druggist knows the value and reputation of Resinol Ointment, and has it for sale in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. Free trial sample will be sent you upon application to Department 82, Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

COMMON FORM OF CRUELTY.

Bessie—Yes, he claimed his wife pinched him severely whenever she asked him for money.

Bert—Well, he needn't flatter himself that he is the only man who has been pinched for money.

Puzzle of Living.

Religionists chided about their inability to agree on points of faith might point out that they differ only in incidentals and not essentials, whereas the scientists differ on everything. Take the science of living. A week ago you would have "died if you drank water with your meals." Now they say it doesn't do any harm at all. One variety says: "Eat meat, lots of it, to build good, rich blood." Another says meat is poison; that vegetables are the only food. A third declares meat and vegetables both increase debility, and that you will live twice as long on raw fruits and nuts. Some say "Talk with your meals, laugh; it makes the food digest." Others insist silence is never so golden as at the table.

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

In Use For Over 30 Years.

Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

Among Epicures.

"Paris is a swift town."

"That's true, but snails are very popular there."

Brags Considerably.

"Has Biffels any favorite hobby?"

"Yes. And it's mostly about himself."

The Remedy that revolutionizes and regenerates the victim of constipation is Garfield Tea, a herb combination.

It isn't difficult for a man to see his affinity in a woman with an obese bank account.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets, small, sugar-coated, easy to take as candy, regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Do not gripe.

We can do more good by being good than in any other way.—Burton.

Particularly the Ladies.

Not only pleasant and refreshing to the taste, but gently cleansing and sweetening to the system, Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is particularly adapted to ladies and children, and beneficial in all cases in which a wholesome, strengthening and effective laxative should be used. It is perfectly safe at all times and dispels colds, headaches and the pains caused by indigestion and constipation so promptly and effectively that it is the one perfect family laxative which gives satisfaction to all and is recommended by millions of families who have used it and who have personal knowledge of its excellence.

Its wonderful popularity, however, has led unscrupulous dealers to offer imitations which act unsatisfactorily. Therefore, when buying, to get its beneficial effects, always note the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package of the genuine Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna.

For sale by all leading druggists. Price 50 cents per bottle.

PISO'S REMEDY
[illegible]

---

The GIRL from His TOWN

by Marie Van Vorst

ILLUSTRATIONS by M. G. KETTNER

COPYRIGHT 1910 by The Bobbs-Merrill Company

SYNOPSIS.

Dan Blair, the 22-year-old son of the fifty-million-dollar copper king of Blairtown, Mont., is a guest at the English home of Lady Galorey. Dan's father had been courteous to Lord Galorey during his visit to the United States and the courtesy is now being returned to the young man. The youth has an ideal girl in his mind. He meets Lily, Duchess of Breakwater, a beautiful widow, who is attracted by his immense fortune and takes a liking to her. When Dan was a boy, a girl sang a solo at a church, and he had never forgotten her. The Galoreys, Lily and Dan attend a London theater where one Letty Lane is the star. Dan recognizes her as the girl from his town, and going behind the scenes introduces himself and she remembers him. He learns that Prince Poniatowsky is suitor and escort to Letty. Lord Galorey and a friend named Ruggles determine to protect the westerner from Lily and other fortune hunters.

CHAPTER VI.—Continued.

A page boy knocked at the door and came in holding out on a salver a card for Mr. Ruggles, and at the interruption Galorey rose and invited Ruggles to go out with him that night to Osdene. "Lady Galorey will be delighted."

But Ruggles shook his head. "The boy is coming back here tonight," and Galorey laughed.

"Don't you believe it! You don't know how deep in he is. You don't know the Duchess of Breakwater. Once he is with her—"

At the same time that the page boy handed Mr. Ruggles the card of the caller, he gave him as well a small envelope, which contained box tickets for the Gaiety. Ruggles examined it.

"I have got some writing to do," he told Galorey, "and I'm going to see a show tonight, and I think I'll just stay here and watch my babe."

As soon as Galorey had left the Carlton, Mr. Ruggles despatched his letters and his visitor, made a very careful toilet and after waiting until past eight o'clock for Dan to return to dinner, dined alone on roast beef and a tart, and with perfect digestion, in somewhat thoughtful mind, left the hotel and walked down the dim street to the brilliant Strand, and on foot to the Gaiety.

CHAPTER VII.

At the Stage Entrance.

Ruggles, from his stall, for the fourth time saw the curtain go up on "Mandalay" and heard the temple bells ring. One of the stage boxes was not occupied until after the first act and then the son of his friend came in alone and sat far back out of sight of any eyes but the keenest, and those eyes were Ruggles'. Letty Lane, delicious, fantastic, languishing, sang to Dan, that was evident to Ruggles. He was a large man and filled his stall comfortably. He sat through the performance peacefully, his hands in his pockets, his big face thoughtful, his shirt front ruffled. To look at him, one must have wondered why he had come to "Mandalay." He scarcely lost any of the threads of his own reflections, though when Miss Lane in response to a call from the house, sang her cradle song three times, he seemed moved. The tones of her pure voice, the cradling in her arms of an imaginary child, her apparent dovelike purity, her grace and sweetness, and her cooing, gentle tone, to judge by the softening of the Westerner's face, touched very much the big fellow who listened like a child. At the end he drew his handkerchief slowly across his eyes, but the tears, or rather moisture, that rose there was not all due to Miss Lane's song, for Ruggles was extremely [illegible].

He could see that in his box the boy sat transfixed and absorbed. Dan went out in the second entr'acte and was absent when the curtain went down. Ruggles, as well, left before the performance was over, to make his way outside the theater to the stage exit, where there was already gathered a little group, looked after by a couple of policemen. Close to the curb a gleaming motor waited, the footman at its door. Ruggles buttoned his coat up to his chin and took his place close to the door, over which the electric light showed the words "Stage Entrance." A poor woman elbowed him, her shabby hat adorned by a scraggly plume, a gray shawl wrapped round her shoulders. A girl or two, who might have been flower sellers in Piccadilly in the daytime, a couple of toughs, a handful of other vagrants smelling of gin, a dozen men in working clothes, a child in his arms, formed the human hedge Letty Lane was to pass between—a singular group of people to spend an hour hanging about the streets at the exit of a theater well toward midnight. So the naive Ruggles thought, and better understood the appearance of the young fellows in evening clothes who hovered on the extreme edge of the little crowd. Dan, however, was not of these.

"Look sharp, Cissy," the workingman spoke to his child, holding her well up. "When she comes hout she'll pass close to yer, and you sing hout, 'God bless yer.'"

"Yes, Dad, I will," shrilled the child.

The woman in the gray shawl drew it close about her. "Aw she's a true lidy, all right, ain't she? I expect you've had some kindness off her as well?"

The man nodded over the child's shoulder. "Used to be a scene shifter, and Miss Lane found out about my little girl last year—not this lass, not Cissy, Cissy's sister—and she sent 'er to a place where it costs the eyes out of yer 'ead. She's gettin' well fast, and we, none of us, has seen her or spoken to Miss Lane. She doesn't know our names."

And the woman answered: "She does a lot like that. She's got a heart bigger'n her little body."

And a big boy in the front row said back to the others: "Well, she makes a mint of money."

And the woman who had spoken before said: "She gives it nearly all to the poor."

Ruggles was evidently on the poor side of the waiting crowd; the handful of riffraff around him with its stench of dirt and gin. A better looking set collected opposite and there was the gleam of white shirt fronts.

"Now, there she comes," the father saw her first. "Sing out, Cissy."

The door opened and a figure quickly floated from it like a white rose blown out into the foggy darkness. It floated down the few steps to the street between the double row of spectators. A white cloak entirely covered the actress. Her head was hidden by a white scarf, and she almost ran the short gantlet to her motor, between the cries of 'God bless you!'—'Three cheers for Letty Lane'—'God bless you lady!' She didn't speak or heed, however, or turn her head, but held her scarf against her face and the man who slowly lounged behind her to the car, and put her in and got in after her, was not the man Joshua Ruggles had waited there to see. He hung about until the footman had sprung up and the car moved softly away, the stage entrance door shut, then he followed along with the crowd, with the few faithful who had waited an hour in the cold mist to cry out their applause, not to a singer in "Mandalay," but to a woman's heart.

CHAPTER VIII.

Dan's Simplicity.

The Duchess of Breakwater was not sure how close Dan Blair's thoughts were to marriage, but the boy from Montana was the easiest prey that had come across the beautiful and unscrupulous woman's range. He had told her that he stayed on up in London to see a man from home, and when after four days he still lingered in town, she found his absence unbearable, and sent him a wire so worded that if he had a spark of interest in her he must immediately return to the Park. She had never been more lovely than when Dan found her waiting for him.

She had ordered tea in her sitting room. She told him that he looked frightfully seedy, asked him what he had been doing and why he had stopped so long away, and Dan told her that old Ruggles, his father's friend, had run over to see him with a lot of papers for Dan to read and sign and closed with a smile, telling her that he guessed she "didn't know much about business."

"I only know the horrid things of business—debts, and loans, and bills, and fussing."

"Those things are not business," Dan answered wisely; "they are just common or garden carelessness."

She asked him why he had not brought Ruggles out to Osdene, and he told her he couldn't have done a stroke of work with the old boy down here at the Park.

Stirring his tea, he appreciated the duchess. The agreeable picture she made impressed him mightily.

"Do you know," he asked suddenly, "what you make me think of?"

And she responded softly: "No, dear."

"A box of candy. This room with [illegible] stuffed [illegible] and you in it are good enough—"

"To eat!" she laughed aloud. "Oh, you perfectly killing creature, what an idea!"

And as he met her eyes with his clear ones, with a simplicity she could never hope to reach, he put his tea-cup down; and as he did so the duchess observed his strong hands, their vigor, well-kept and muscular, but not the dandified hands of the man who goes often to the manicure.

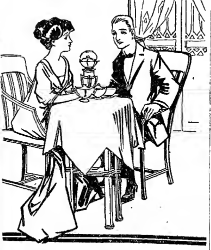
"If it hadn't been for one thing," the boy went on, "I would have thought of nothing else but you, every minute I've been away."

"Mr. Ruggles?" suggested the duchess.

"No, the Gaiety girl, Letty Lane. You know I told you in the box that she was from my town."

The young man, who had flown back to Osdene Park in answer to a telegram, began to take his companion into his confidence.

"I knew that girl," Dan said, "when she wasn't more than fourteen. She sold me sodawater over the drug store counter. I always thought she was bully, bright as a button and pretty as a peach. Once, I remember, I took six chocolate sodas in one day just to go in and see her. I had an awful time. I most died of that jag, and yet," he said meditatively, "I don't think I ever spoke three words to her, just said 'sarsaparilla' or 'chocolate' or whatever it might happen to be. Ever since that day, ever since that jag," he said with feeling, "I couldn't see a stick of chocolate and keep my head up! Well," went on the boy, "Sarah Towney sang in our church for a missionary meeting, and I was there. I can remember the song she sang." He spoke with unconscious ardor. He didn't refer to the hymn however, but went on with his narrative. "She disappeared from Blairtown. I never had a peep at her again until the other night. Gosh!" he said fervently, "when I saw her there on the stage, why, I felt as though cold water was running up and down my spine."



"Gosh! When I Saw Her There on the Stage, Why——"

The duchess, as a rule, was amused by his slang. It seemed vulgar to her now.

"Heavens," she drawled, "you are really too dreadful!"

He didn't seem to hear her.

"She's turned out a perfect wonder, hasn't she? A world-beater! Why, everybody tells me there isn't another like her in her specialty. Of course I have heard of Letty Lane, but I haven't been out to things since I went in mourning, and I've never run up against her."

"Really," drawled the duchess again, "now that you have 'run up against her' what are you going to do with her? Marry her?"

His honest stare was the greatest relief she had ever experienced. He repeated bluntly: "Marry her? Why the dickens should I?"

"You seem absorbed in her."

He agreed with her. "I am. I think she's great, don't you?"

"Hardly."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

War.

One inevitable characteristic of modern war is that it is associated throughout in all particulars with a vast and most irregular formation of commercial enterprise. There is no incentive to Mammon-worship so remarkable as that which it affords. The political economy of war is now one of its most commanding aspects. Even apart from the fact that war suspends, ipso facto, every rule of public thrift, and tends to sap honesty itself in the use of the public treasury for which it makes such unbounded calls, it therefore is the greatest feeder of that lust of gold which we are told is the essence of commerce, though we had hoped it was only its occasional besetting sin.—W. E. Gladstone.

Heaven and earth shall pass away, but that which thinks within me must think for ever; that which feels must feel; I am, and I can never cease to be.—James Montgomery.

He Didn't.

"So you don't want no huckleberries?"

"No. I have changed my mind. I see your cat is asleep in those huckleberries."

"That's all right, mum, I don't mind waking the cat up."

IS THE PAIN THERE?

"Every Picture Tells a Story"

Then Your Kidneys May Be Weak and in Need of Quick Attention

Backache is enough cause to suspect the kidneys. The kidneys are in the small of the back. Congested kidneys swell and throb. The back naturally aches. It hurts to bend or stoop or to sit down.

Kidney trouble may come on all unnoticed. A cold, a chill, a fever, a strain or irregular habits may start it. While sick kidneys can be cured in the beginning, it is a serious matter when dropsy, gravel or Bright's disease sets in.

Doan's Kidney Pills have made a reputation in the cure of backache, and kidney and bladder ills. The best proof is the testimony of the users. Here are two typical testimonials. Thirty thousand others are being published in the newspapers. A postage stamp will bring you reports of cases nearer home.

If you suspect your kidneys, get the best-recommended kidney remedy.

MRS. EMILY HOWES.

Who Resides at 1700 Burling St., Chicago, Ill.

Made Well After Being Almost Helpless from Wasting Kidney Troubles

"I had awful pains through my hips," says Mrs. Howes, "and frequently wished I had never been born. I seemed to have lost all interest in life. I doctored for female trouble thinking my condition was due to some derangement of that nature, but got no better.

"Finally I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and to my surprise I began to improve. They not only corrected the kidney action, but stopped the pain and sickness I had thought was due to female trouble."

A. DEARTH.

A Resident of Camden, O.

Cured After Being Confined to Bed for Seven Weeks.

"I was in bed seven weeks with kidney trouble," said Mr. Dearth, "and grew worse in spite of all the doctor could do. Kidney secretions were in terrible condition. If left standing they thickened like glucose and had to be removed with a knife.

"My own doctor gave me up. I then called in a specialist who said I was beyond recovery. I had lost over 20 pounds and was but a shadow of my former self. I used one box of Doan's Kidney Pills and soon felt better. Continuing I was cured and have not had the slightest trouble since."

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

SOLD AT ALL STORES. 50 CENTS A BOX. FOSTER-MILBURN COMPANY, BUFFALO, N. Y.

FOR GOOD MEASURE.

Tommy—Say, Pop, does a person ever get something for nothing?

Papa—Sometimes, and a prison sentence usually goes with it.

HANDS WOULD CRACK OPEN

"About two months ago my hands started to crack open and bleed, the skin would scale off, and the good flesh would burn and itch dreadfully. When my hands first started to get sore, there were small blisters like water blisters which formed. They itched dreadfully, it just seemed as though I could tear the skin off. I would scratch them and the skin would peel off, and the flesh would be all red and crack open and bleed. It worried me very much, as I had never had anything the matter with my skin. I was so afraid I would have to give up my employment.

"My doctor said he didn't think it would amount to anything. But it kept getting worse. One day I saw a piece in one of the papers about a lady who had the same trouble with her hands. She had used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and was cured. I decided to try them, and my hands were healed before I had used one cake of Cuticura Ointment. I am truly thankful for the good results from the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, for thanks to them I was cured, and did not have to lose a day from work. I have had no return of the skin trouble." (Signed) Mrs. Mary E. Breig, 2522 Brown Street, Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 12, 1911.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

Evidence.

"What makes you think our great public men don't work as hard as they used to?"

"By the photographs," replied Farmer Corntossel. "When I was a young feller the big men in politics didn't take near as much time to git

Cheerfulness keeps up a kind of sunshine in the soul, and fills it with a steady and perpetual serenity.—Addison.

The Paxton Toilet Co. of Boston, Mass., will send a large trial box of Paxtine Antiseptic, a delightful cleansing and germicidal toilet preparation, to any woman, free, upon request.

"I will have my pound of flesh."

"Be a vegetarian instead, and take a peck of potatoes."

ONLY ONE "BROMO QUININE."
That is LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE. Look for the signature of E. W. GROVE. Used the World over to Cure a Cold in One Day. 25c.

Some men don't know very much, but they don't know it.

Garfield Tea, taken regularly, will correct both liver and kidney disorders.

Two heads are better than one—in a cabbage patch.

Belated Information.

Albert Morris Bagby was being congratulated at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York on the success of his "musical mornings."

"I impute my success," he said, "to the fact that I engage no talent that I don't know thoroughly. In entertainment, as in matrimony, knowledge is most important."

Then Mr. Bagby smiled and said:

Two ladies were talking the other day about the Chinese revolution. The younger lady said:

"'Isn't it dreadful in China? A woman doesn't know her husband till she marries him.'

"The other lady, a divorcee, answered bitterly:

"'I didn't know my husband till I married him, either.'"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Beautiful Decline.

Ollie James, the gigantic and genial congressman and senator-elect from Kentucky, was in conversation the other day with a Washingtonian when the latter made certain inquiries with reference to a mutual friend whom he had not seen for a number of years.

"And how does Col. Prescott spend his declining years?" he asked.

"Beautifully, sir, beautifully!" answered James. "He has a fine farm, sir. A string of trotters, sir. And a barrel of whisky 16 years old—and a wife of the same age, sir!"

When Your Eyes Need Care

Try Murine Eye Remedy. No Smarting—Feels Fine—Acts Quickly. Try it for Red, Weak, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Illustrated Book in each Package. Murine is compounded by our Oculists—not a "Patent Medicine"—but used in successful Physicians' Practice for many years. Now dedicated to the Public and sold by Druggists at 25c and 50c per Bottle. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c and 50c.

Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

A Bad Beginning.

"Whenever Jiggers starts to tell anything he prefaces his remarks by saying, 'Believe me.'"

"That's why I never do."

Many Children Are Sickly

Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for Children Break up Colds in 24 hours, relieve Feverishness, Headache, Stomach Troubles, Teething Disorders, move and regulate the bowels, and Destroy Worms. They are so pleasant to take children like them. Used by mothers for 22 years. At all druggists, 25c. Sample mailed FREE. Address A. S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

The Keynote.

Knicker—I thought simplicity was to be the keynote of your gowns.

Mrs. Knicker—It is, I have simply got to have them.

No Suffering Yets!

The unnatural suffering of so many women at times can be relieved by a little care and proper help. Beecham's Pills give just the assistance needed. They act gently but surely; they correct faults of the system so certainly that you will find better conditions prevail

Amongst Women Who Take

this renowned and effective remedy. Beecham's Pills will help your digestion, regulate your bowels, stimulate your liver. Headaches, backaches, lassitude and nervous depression will trouble you less and less after you take at times—whenever there is need—

BEECHAM'S PILLS

Women wishing to retain their youthful looks and to feel at their best should be sure to read the special directions with every box.
Sold everywhere. In boxes 10c., 25c.

W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES

$2.25 $2.50 $3.00 $3.50 $4.00 & $5.00
For MEN, WOMEN and BOYS
THE STANDARD OF QUALITY FOR OVER 30 YEARS

THE NEXT TIME YOU NEED SHOES give W. L. Douglas shoes a trial. W. L. Douglas name stamped on a shoe guarantees superior quality and more value for the money than other makes. His name and price stamped on the bottom protects the wearer against high prices and inferior shoes. Insist upon having the genuine W. L. Douglas shoes. Take no substitute. If your dealer cannot supply W. L. Douglas shoes, write W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass., for catalog. Shoes sent everywhere delivery charges prepaid. Fast Color Eyelets used.

THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY. No. 1. No. 2. No. 3.
THERAPION Used in French Hospitals with great success, cures [illegible]

MONTANA
THE HOMESEEKERS' BEST CHANCE
For Official Information, write to BUREAU of AGRICULTURE, HELENA, MONT

Do You Feel This Way?

Do you feel all tired out? Do you sometimes think you just can't work away at your profession or trade any longer? Do you have a poor appetite, and lay awake at nights unable to sleep? Are your nerves all gone, and your stomach too? Has ambition to forge ahead in the world left you? If so, you might as well put a stop to your misery. You can do it if you will. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will make you a different individual. It will set your lazy liver to work. It will set things right in your stomach, and your appetite will come back. It will purify your blood. If there is any tendency in your family toward consumption, it will keep that dread destroyer away. Even after consumption has almost gained a foothold in the form of a lingering cough, bronchitis, or bleeding at the lungs, it will bring about a cure in 98 per cent. of all cases. It is a remedy prepared by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., whose advice is given free to all who wish to write him. His great success has come from his wide experience and varied practice.

Don't be wheedled by a penny-grabbing dealer into taking inferior substitutes for Dr. Pierce's medicines, recommended to be "just as good." Dr. Pierce's medicines are of KNOWN COMPOSITION. Their every ingredient printed on their wrappers. Made from roots without alcohol. Contain no habit-forming drugs. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Farmer's Son's Great Opportunity

Why wait for the old farm to become your inheritance? Begin now to prepare for your future prosperity and independence. A great opportunity awaits you in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, where you can secure a free homestead or buy land at reasonable prices.

160 ACRE
FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA
FREE

Now's the Time—not a year from now, when land will be higher. The profits secured from the abundant crops of Wheat, Oats and Barley, as well as cattle raising, are causing a steady advance in price. Government returns show that the number of settlers in Western Canada from the U. S. was 50 per cent larger in 1910 than the previous year.

Many farmers have paid for their land out of the proceeds of one crop.

Free Homesteads of 160 acres and pre-emptions of 160 acres at $3.00 an acre. Fine climate, good schools, excellent railway facilities, low freight rates; wood, water and lumber easily obtained.

For pamphlet "Last Best West," particulars as to suitable location and low settlers' rate, apply to Sup't of Immigration, Ottawa, Can., or to Canadian Gov't Agent.

H. M. WILLIAMS
413 Gardner Bldg. Toledo, Ohio
Please write to the agent nearest you

FARMERS AND HOUSEWIVES

Just what you have been looking for, a complete system for bookkeeping in one book, so simple that a child of 6 years can keep a record of every cent of money that is taken in, also every item of expense which is listed separately for each day in the year. Price 50 cts. [illegible]

PATENTS START FACTORIES. Send for Free book how to get Patents. [illegible] & Company, Attorneys, Washington, D. C.

W. N. U., CLEVELAND, NO. 10-1912.

SPOHN'S DISTEMPER CURE

HORSE SALE DISTEMPER

You know what you sell or buy through the sales has about one chance in fifty to escape SALE STABLE DISTEMPER. "SPOHN'S" is your true protection, your only safeguard, for as sure as you treat all your horses with it, you will soon be rid of the disease. It acts as a sure preventive no matter how they are "exposed." 50 cents and $1 a bottle; $5 and $10 dozen bottles, at all good druggists, horse goods houses, or delivered by the manufacturers.

SPOHN MEDICAL CO., Chemists and Bacteriologists, GOSHEN, IND., U. S. A.

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c package colors all fibers. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. MONROE DRUG COMPANY, Quincy, Ill.

WOLLPERT'S
OF WICKLIFFE

"S. & H."

If You Know

That you need Rubber Boots
That we carry Ball Band
That they are Snag Proof
That they are a Finished Rubber
That they have the Wearing Quality
That they have stood the Test of Time

Why Not Stop In

at Wollpert's and have them fit you with a BALL BAND BOOT or STRAIGHT LINE RUBBER and be prepared for the coming wet weather.

WOLLPERT'S
GENERAL STORE
WICKLIFFE, OHIO
Cuyahoga Phone 4-R

French Dry Cleaning

Eliminates the soil from the finest and most delicate garments without loss of color or shrinkage and

Cleans Your Garments Clean

We French Dry Clean in a superior manner. Prompt service and prices the lowest consistent with first class work.

Painesville Dry Cleaning Co.
CHAS. FINK, Mgr.
Phone 216 R 109 South St. Clair St.
PAINESVILLE, O.

Work Called for and Delivered.

IT'S NOT THE FACT that The Cleveland Trust Company has 84,000 depositors that makes it a strong bank. It has 84,000 depositors because it is strong. The Painesville office of this bank affords convenient banking facilities for local depositors.

PAINESVILLE OFFICE
The Cleveland Trust Company
SAVINGS BANK
W. R. RADCLIFFE, Mgr.
W. C. TISDEL, Chairman

Farmer's Column

FOR SALE—Depot wagon, surrey, double harness, single harness, good carriage horse. All high grade, in excellent condition. Worth complete $1,000. Will accept reasonable cash offer. M. C. Stone, Beckman Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

FOR RENT—Fine suite of 5 rooms for housekeeping. Steam heat. R. N. Whitcomb, Mentor, Ohio.

1000 Chestnut fence posts for sale at 8c each. F. L. McConnell, R. F. D. No. 3, Painesville.

148 acre farm to rent; 14 acres good wheat, will sell or exchange dairy, young stock, and tools, for good renting property in city or town. F. L. McConnell, R. F. D. No. 3, Painesville.

FOR SALE—Chunks and stove wood, seasoned hickory, also two fresh cows with calves. Home phone 307L3, Painesville, Ohio.

FOR SALE—50 shocks of corn at 40 cents. Roy Harrison, Concord. Home Phone, Main 352J2.

FOR SALE—Stove wood, seasoned hickory. Home phone 307L3, Painesville, Ohio.

FOR SALE—Farm suitable for stock or dairy farming, plenty of water and well timbered. Enquire of E. P. Brown, Painesville, R. F. D. 3.

FOR SALE—Fresh young Jersey cow and calf, $66.00, or exchange for young cattle. F. L. McConnell, R. F. D. No. 3, Concord.

WANTED—Dressmaking, plain and fancy. 214 Jefferson St.

NOTICE—A small ad. in this column costs little, but brings quick re[illegible]

BIG STEEL COMPANY

Is Thinking Seriously of Removing from Cleveland to Fairport.

Unless the Otis Steel Co. Ltd., of Cleveland is successful in obtaining the consent of the city and the federal government to fill in about sixty acres of lake front land there is a possibility that it will abandon its Cleveland plant and locate elsewhere. That the company is considering this action was admitted Saturday evening by George Bartol, the general manager of the concern.

"Yes, it is true that we are considering the abandonment of the plant," he said Saturday evening to a Leader man. "We have a number of locations under consideration."

Bartol said this action had been discussed, but he was not prepared to say just where the plant would be established. It is understood, however, that it will be at some point on the lake shore between Fairport and Ashtabula. Fairport it is believed is held in the most favor.

The Otis Steel Co., Ltd., is located at Lakeside avenue N. E., and East 33rd street, and at present employs 1,000 men. Although the works are there the headquarters are in London. The shares are traded in on the London stock exchange. The capitol stock under the control of the Eng- formed by Charles A. Otis, Sr., who lish stockholders amounts to more than $1,500,000. The company was went to England and negotiated the deal whereby English capital absorbed the plant.

The company had planned a reorganization, with headquarters in this country, perhaps Cleveland. It had been decided to make it an American institution. That this step was under way was indicated when the Ohio company was formed about a month ago, although the capitalization was nominal. It had also been reported that the stock would be increased to $10,000,000.

Later

Chairman Manning of the council committee on harbors and wharves declared yesterday that the government ought not permit the Otis Steel Co. to proceed with its plan of making land to a point 2,000 feet from the breakwater at this time, even though the intimation has come from the company that it will find a site in some other city if the authorities do not permit the move.

"I do not believe that they have any serious intention of moving away," said Manning. "The city should not swerve from its policy of preparing a general scheme for the improvement of the lake front because there is talk of that kind.

"At the same time, I believe that the city river and harbor commission ought not to delay completing its report."

Columbus

By JOAQUIN MILLER

BEHIND him lay the gray Azores,
Behind the gates of Hercules;
Before him not the ghost of shores,
Before him only shoreless seas.
The good mate said, "Now must we pray,
For lo, the very stars are gone.
Brave Admiral speak, what shall I say?"
"Why, say, 'Sail on, sail on, sail on.'"

MY MEN grew mutinous by day,
My men grew ghastly wan and weak.
The stout mate thought of home. A spray
Of salt wave washed his swarthy cheek.
"What shall I say, brave Admiral, say,
If we sight naught but seas at dawn?"
"Why you shall say at break of day,
'Sail on, sail on, sail on, and on.'"

THEY sailed and sailed, as winds might blow,
Until at last the blanched mate said,
"Why, now, not even God would know
Should I and all my men fall dead.
These very winds forget their way,
For God from these dread seas is gone,
Now speak, brave Admiral, speak and say—"
He said, "Sail on! Sail on! and on!"

THEY sailed. They sailed. Then spake the mate,
"This mad sea shows its teeth tonight,
He curls his lip, he lies in wait
With lifted teeth as if to bite!
Brave Admiral, say but one good word,
What shall we do when hope is gone?"
The words leapt as a flaming sword;
"Sail on! Sail on! Sail on! and on."

THEN, pale and worn, he kept his deck,
And peered through darkness. Ah that night
Of all dark nights! And then a speck—
A light! A light! A light! A light!
It grew, a starlit flag unfurled!
It grew to be Time's burst of dawn.
He gained a world; he gave that world
Its grandest lesson: "On! Sail on!"

Republican Banquet.

Owing to a severe winter's storm on Thursday, the 11th annual meeting and banquet of the Geauga Republican Club was held Friday night at the Chardon House, and largely attended considering the drifted country roads, over 200 voters, who were largely Republicans, attending. The menu, service and music were fine.

The invocation was offered by Rev. L. J. Luethi, of Chardon, while the banqueters were standing.

The banquet was served shortly after 8 o'clock. At 8:15 Hon. W. P. Ellis, president, in appropriate words introduced Judge A. G. Reynolds, of Painesville, the toastmaster, who has twice served in that capacity.

"It is good to look upon the old-fashioned name of Republican," he said. "We are all Republicans, but some of them have been going so fast you can only see a streak of dust. But we'll all get together one of these days. Each party is trying to advocate the best things nowadays, and the party that can do the best things will succeed. But it is a greater thing to be an American. There never was a time when there was so much social unrest. Where are we drifting these days? It is a good thing to see to it that we don't drift away from our moorings." With these opening words the toastmaster introduced Elbert F. Blakely, ex-prosecuting attorney of Lake County, who responded to "The Old Landmarks." Referring to Washington as a landmark, and the mightiest man on earth—one of whom no eulogies are needed or expected when his name is mentioned, the speaker paid a due tribute to the Constitution of our forefathers, and the Ordinance of 1787 which, he said, largely determined the class of men who were to settle Ohio. Go slow on amending the Constitution was also a thought forcibly expressed. Unsettled problems have caused a feeling of unrest, but we had better leave it to the Legislature to try some of these experiments. The Republican party must renew its youth, and carry on its battle in behalf of human rights. Blakely is an earnest, forcible talker. He spoke at some length, and his address pleased the banqueters, who frequently cheered him.

"It has been a pretty good old Constitution for the people, my friends," said the toastmaster. "If there was ever a time when it was necessary to pray for a body of men, it is for the body now at Columbus."

Judge J. D. Burrows, of Painesville, now in his 80th year, was then introduced. He spoke on "The Outlook," replying in part to the doctrine championed by Fackler, and he also analysed and criticised Roosevelt's speech at Columbus. Judge Burrows' talk was humorous, bitterly sarcastic at times, earnest and instructive.

"I have attended these Republican banquets," said the Judge, "when they were put-up jobs. Can't say about it this time. The first thing I have noticed in surveying the toast assigned me is, that we're going to have a scrimmage. Look out for an increase of love for the dear people.

"It is regular slush, and they'll soak us whether we want them to or not. It's like a certain class of people who get very warm in their feelings in cold weather, but lose it all in haying.

"Harmon was going to have absolute economy, but he hasn't even tried it. He was elected on that platform.

"If you only had the initiative and referendum," said the Judge, turning to Fackler, "we would wipe out all inequalities and divide up.

"For years I have been reading the Congressional Record, and have come to the conclusion that, as a body, members of Congress are equal to the common people."

Then, again addressing Fackler, the speaker added: "They have the same good idea of themselves that your man has.

"The trouble is, there will be an occasional black sheep elected. But we have got good men in Congress, men who stand high. Wealth will have power; wise men will have power. This corruption is not so much in the rich men, but in the men who are indifferent, who don't care whether they vote or not. In Geauga County we know about how votes will be cast, but in the city there are thousands who will have to be schooled. We have got a class of voters who sell their vote. If they didn't there would be no corruption. Are the progressives going to progress? Where are they headed for?

"This progressive movement may be all right, but I don't understand it and want light on the grand Hiram-h-biff. I read Roosevelt's Columbus speech, and was not surprised.

"The Republican platform of 1908 was a Republican platform. If you don't believe in that platform you are not a Republican. There have been more prosecutions of trusts since Taft was President than ever before.

"Roosevelt strongly favors a commission to fix prices for the steel trust. Who will watch the commission?

"You have got a President now who is the most competent man that has sat in that chair for a long time. I have been a friend of Roosevelt, but when he went to Columbus and never mentioned the friend he so warmly seconded four years before, I was disappointed. But if he is nominated I shall vote for him."

Then, addressing Fackler again, Judge Burrows continued: "But they'll have a referendum on the golden rule, and have a referendum on the laws of Nature if they could make it go.

"The Republican party has been taught a lesson. And I believe that we'll reform among ourselves. This country is worth all we can do for it.

"Who got up this referendum? Why, the fellows who referendumed themselves in and referendumed themselves out. And they'll probably keep right on at it."

Judge Burrows spoke in this strain for half an hour. Judging from the cheers accorded him, his speech was the hit of the evening.—Chardon Republican.

PERRY

Mr. and Mrs. Burt and family, formerly of Lane, have moved to Capt. Barlow's farm in Perry. The children are attending school in Dist. No. 2, on the North Ridge.

The spring unrest has sure seized upon the Perry people and moving vans are seen at any time and any place in town. Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Nighman and family have moved off the farm they have occupied for years and rented the Wire home on Main street.

Miss Mildred Hadden, a Western Reserve Student, was at home over Sunday.

Miss Esther Wood has been seriously ill at the home of Mr. T. B. West. The doctor says she may be removed to her home this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Mallory and Miss Mary Peterson were guests of the Hardware Men's Convention in Cleveland Friday and Saturday.

Mr. F. W. Langshaw, Mr. R. N. Sweet and Ed. Groutt also spent the greater part of the week in Cleveland.

Mr. T. U. Bailey of Cleveland was visiting in Perry Sunday.

Misses Nettie and Olive Shook entertained thirty young people at their home Thursday evening. Not only were Perry guests present, but young men and women from Painesville and Madison attended. It was a leap year party and the young ladies chose their partners for the delicious supper that followed. A very pleasant evening was spent.

Tuesday evening, Mrs. Harrison entertained a number of Lucille's friends in honor of Lucille's thirteenth birthday.

Mr. George Hurlburt finishes his work at Ashtabula this week.

The funeral of Mrs. Wood was held Tuesday afternoon. Rev. Buckles, who had been her pastor, spoke of her goodness and faithfulness. And we, remembering the lecture Robt. Parker Miles delivered Thursday evening on "Tallow Dips," know that a light has been snuffed out, that had burned steadily for the Master. The candlestick stands empty; but those who knew Mrs. Wood will still be guided by her life of kindness.

Mrs. John Child is no better.

Mr. Maurice Wilson has been suffering from an attack of the grippe, but is recovering.

Miss Olive Shook and her friend, Mr. Carl Ford, were visitors in Conneaut Sunday.

Mrs. Archie Merriman is able to sit up now, and it is hoped will speedily recover.

WILLOUGHBY

It is reported that the Willoughby Inn has changed hands.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buccell have purchased a farm in Perry and moved there last week.

T. O. Barber of Cleveland was in town calling on friends Friday.

About thirty boys from here attended the Y. M. C. A. Convention at Mentor Saturday, and reported a good time and nice supper.

The Ely boy who was hurt by a Lake Shore train near Perry Wednesday, is said to be getting along nicely at the hospital in Painesville.

The high school was closed Thursday as the teachers visited other schools on that day.

Miss Mary Atkinson of Cleveland is spending a few days with Miss Winifred Brick.

[illegible] day and Friday with Cleveland friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kent moved to Elyria last week.

Miss Pearl Waite spent Thursday at the home of Miss Nina Rockafellow in Mentor.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Code of the Plains spent Friday with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Saxton are in town visiting friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. McMahon left Sunday night for Toronto, where Mr. McMahon has a week's engagement to sing.

Mrs. Sanford Eddy and son, Ray, spent Saturday in Painesville.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stokes moved from Kirtland to Barber Ave. last Wednesday.

The Womans Christian Temperance Union met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. O. Cottrell on Wright street.

A representative of the anti-saloon League will speak Sunday morning on the subject of Temperance, at the Methodist church.

Mrs. Parks, formerly of Wellington, was received by letter in the Methodist church Sunday morning.

Miss Esther and Miss Edna Stewart spent Saturday in Cleveland.

Mrs. Charles Hughes of Madison, spent Sunday with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Berthold Roberts are moving to Vine street this week.

Mr. Cole is erecting a new house on his lot on Wilson avenue.

UNIONVILLE

Mr. E. L. Morris attended the Hardware Dealers Convention in Cleveland two days last week.

The Ladies Sewing Society of the Congregational church served supper at the home of Mrs. A. B. Cleveland Thursday evening. There was a very good attendance.

Mr. Walter Lamb of Amboy visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lamb on Friday.

Mr. Smith Humphrey is quite sick.

Mrs. Chas. Olive died Thursday morning at 9 o'clock, after a long illness of stomach trouble. The funeral was held at the home Saturday afternoon. Rev. W. C. Detling officiated, and Capt. Harry Lyons sang. Mrs. Olive leaves a husband, sister, two children, and thirteen grandchildren to mourn her loss.

A number from here attended Mr. Syron Barr's sale on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Thornburg of Ann Arbor, Mich., are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Garrow.

Miss Joy Miller spent the week end with her friend, Miss Francis Otiss of Willoughby.

Mr. and Mrs. David Hutchins of Ashtabula spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Harriet Kelley.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kelley spent Sunday with relatives in Ashtabula.

Mr. James Ganson has returned from a hunting trip down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers to New Orleans.

Mr. E. G. Prentice and family have moved to Perry. Mr. and Mrs. Riland are moving into the house vacated by Mr. Prentice.

Mrs. Peck and daughter, Miss Peck of Chardon, are visiting Mrs. Amanda Prench.

Missouri's Song

That "Dawg" ditty, was written by F. L. Wright, and runs:—

Down in the Ozarks they're humming this song:
Whistle it, too, as they pass it along,
You can buy all of his sheep or a hawg,
But you can't get him to part with his dawg.
He'd get you goin' around an' round
If you made one single kick at his hound,
Hear the Missourians' musical ring
Come from the mountains, and hark to him sing:

"Every time I come to town
The boys keep kickin' my dawg aroun';
Makes no difference if he is a houn',
They gotta quit kickin' my dog aroun'."

Give a Missourian a gun an' a pup,
Then there's no trouble in gittin' him up,
If it's a dawg that delivers the goods,
That there Missourian's soon in the woods.
Squirrels are fallin' an' possums are skeered,
Rabbits are hikin' an' coons are afeared.

Down through the bottoms he ambles along,
All of the echoes repeating his song:
"Every time I come to town
The boys keep kickin' my dawg aroun';
Makes no difference if he is a houn',
They gotta quit kickin' my dog aroun'."

Take a Missourian, mortgage his farm,
Threaten the man with a bushel of harm;
Steal his potatoes and then steal his wife,
Keep the poor sucker afraid of his life,
You might take his cow or you might take his hawg,
But nobody can ever git to his dawg.
The two of 'em stick to the very last thing,
You hear the dog howl and Missourians sing
"Every time I come to town
The boys keep kickin' my dawg aroun';
Makes no difference if he is a houn',
They gotta quit kickin' my dog aroun'."

[illegible]

Slang has at last [illegible] the court to take judicial notice of it. An employe [illegible] talking to its foreman [illegible] ferred to a belt he was compelled to use, which had a loose lap, as "rotten," and the court, on appeal, from a judgment for damages for an injury resulting from the breaking of the belt (Hortman vs. Staver Carriage company, 153 Ill. App. 150), refused to hold that he meant "decayed," and said:

"We will take notice of slang phrases which obtain in this times in all walks of life, and not do violence to apparent intention by indulging in a literal interpretation of the words used, when such interpretation would do violence to the plain meaning intended by the words when taken in the connection in which they were used. In stigmatizing the belt as "rotten" plaintiff plainly intended to convey the idea that it was his opinion that the loose lap was a menace and danger to himself."—West Publishing Company's Docket.

But Bristow Didn't Want To.

At the Country club luncheon to President Taft at Hutchinson one of the [illegible] put a piece of writing paper and asked each of the principal guests to write a line of sentiment and sign it. President Taft led off with an observation on golf and signed it. Other guests followed suit. When the paper reached Senator Bristow he scratched his head a moment, and remarked: "Oh, what shall I say?"

"Say any old thing," put in Senator Emerson Carey of Reno. "Just write 'I am for Taft.'"

As quick as a flash President Taft turned toward Bristow and said significantly: "If you want to."—Kansas City Journal.

Modernized Axiom.

"Experience," said the ready-made philosopher, "is the best teacher."

"Yes," replied the man who has had troubles with Wall street, "but you're so liable to go broke paying the first installment on tuition."

Avoid Redundance.

Where ten words suffice to express a thought eleven are too many.

Your Country Home
CAN HAVE ALL THE CONVENIENCES OF
Hot and cold water with suburban water supply systems as installed by HAWKINS-JEPSON CO.,
THE PLUMBERS
PHONE 333-R PAINESVILLE, OHIO
Branch Store, Arlington Block, Fairport, Ohio

At "The Old Fortress"

WE have finished inventory and find a good many lines with assortments broken. We are going to price these goods without regard to cost—for instance, a lot of 10½-inch Skates costing from $1.20 to $1.83 while they last, your choice for 90c. We also have some nice odd pieces of Anti Rust Tin-ware, and Enameled-ware that we are going to sacrifice on. Keep your eye on our east window. Come in and see for yourself.

The Doolittle Bros. Co.
Reliable Hardware

LAST CALL
—ON—
OVERCOATS and SUITS
BARGAINS!
John S. Lockwood

RUBBERS? RUBBERS?
Rubber over our Stock of Rubbers.
A new pair for those that go wrong.
Woonsocket---Candee
and other first class Brands at hand.
M. HOROWITZ WICKLIFFE, O.
Cuy. Phone 67R In Steven's Old Stand

WE HAVE THE GOODS
Our values cannot be equaled elsewhere. Our line of
SPRING DRY GOODS, LADIES' FURNISHINGS AND NOTIONS
is complete. Quality goods at reasonable rates only.
We give S. & H. GREEN TRADING STAMPS.
WM. F. WOLLPERT'S GENERAL STORE
WICKLIFFE, O. CUY. PHONE 4-R

Advance Showing of
SPRING STYLES
For Men, Women and Children now await your inspection
The largest line of Ready-to-Wear Apparel in Lake County
COMING IN SOON?
THE UP-TO-DATE

---

The Lake County Weekly Herald

Volume XIV. No. 1 PAINESVILLE, OHIO, MARCH 14, 1912 One Dollar Per Year

THE MOOSE HOME

Six Hundred Acres Near Painesville Have been Taken Upon Option

The Painesville Chamber of Commerce has quietly been at work and options have been secured on 600 acres of land, just south of the County Infirmary.

These options will be held until March 16, when the officials of the National Order of Moose will meet in Chicago and decide whether Painesville is to be selected for the location of their big enterprises, including a national home, a training school for orphan children, a manufactory and printery. It is said the investment will amount to at least $1,000,000.

The chamber of commerce committee met Saturday afternoon in the office of Attorney Harry T. Nolan and made arrangements to send two men to Chicago providing the necessary funds to defray the expenses of the trip could be raised.

JOHN D. FACKLER

Roosevelt Leader in Cleveland Will Oppose Congressman Paul Howland in this District.

Congressman Paul Howland may have two progressive opponents in the field against him for the Republican congressional nomination on May 21. John D. Fackler of East Cleveland announced his candidacy yesterday. Frank Woods of Medina county may enter the field. Fackler and Woods have not reached an agreement and Woods' friends in Medina county intimated a breach of faith against Fackler last night.

Woods and Fackler met at The Hollenden Sunday to canvass the situation. Woods went to Medina county to discuss with his friends the question of whether he should enter or not. He was to have met Fackler again yesterday morning, it is asserted. When Woods reached Cleveland he found that Fackler had announced his candidacy, departing almost immediately for Columbus. And Woods isn't in a very amiable frame of mind as a result.

"To elect a progressive Republican president without the aggressive support of congress would accomplish little in the way of tariff reform or trust regulation," says Fackler in his announcement.

"The present congressman from the twentieth district voted as consistently with Payne as Ohio's senators voted with Aldrich in the last tariff fight, during which the progressive Republican movement was born.

"As a member of the constitutional convention I shall be unable to make an aggressive personal fight for the nomination but if the Republicans of the twentieth district believe I can be of service in assisting the men who have been making the fight for progressive principles in congress I shall esteem it an honor to serve as their representative."

—Cleveland Plain Dealer

COUNTY FAIR

T. B. West Lands the State Exhibition for Lake County.

T. B. West, committee of one from the Lake County Agricultural society went to Columbus Thursday and returned with a promise from the fair committee of the state agricultural department that they would send the state exhibit to Painesville on the dates of the first fair.

With only four out of all the counties in the state after the exhibit and the fact that the exhibit would have to be brought here from quite a distance it was up to the Perry man to use considerable persuasion as well as diplomacy. Lake county had the other handicap of making application rather late as compared with the other fairs who have been operating for years. The exhibit will have to be brought from Trumbull county here and taken back again.

TEDDY WINS

Has All the Lake County Republican Committee With Him

A poll of the different precincts in Lake county regarding the Taft-Roosevelt fight has recently been taken for the central committee in Columbus. All of the precinct committeemen in Lake county were heard from and the result was an overwhelming victory for the former colonel of the "rough riders." This is a considerable surprise as few local politicians thought that the Roosevelt sentiment was so strong in this county.—Painesville Telegraph.

Marriage License

Lindaley S. Newbold, 23, Ashtabula; Nellie L. Brower, 23, Painesville.

Vincent E. Peberdy, 26, Kirtland; Susan Oodshall, 61, Kirtland.

Maynard A. Norris, 26, Kirtland; Evalina Richner, 66, Kirtland.

Golden Wedding

Theron S. Gurney, Lawyer, was born in Chester, Ohio, December 12, 1836, son of Senas and Sophronia Gurney. Educated in district schools and Willoughby University at Willoughby, Ohio, and Ohio State and Union Law College, Cleveland, Ohio. He was married at Chester, Ohio, on March 27, 1866, to Helen Agnes Bradley; children, Anna Helen Gurney Burtt, and the late Lieutenant John Asa Gurney. He taught school in district schools and was principal of Chardon, Ohio, schools 1866; came to Oceana County, Michigan, in 1866, elected supervisor spring 1867; Town Clerk 1866, 1866, 1870, 1871; appointed Registrar of deeds and County Clerk 1871; elected Registrar of deeds and County Clerk, 1876 and 1874; delegate to Republican National Convention 1868; State Senator 1866; President of Oceana County Agricultural Society 1865, 1866, 1867, 1868, 1866, 1860 and 1861; now practices law and owns abstract books of Oceana County; is President of the Gurney Milling Company of Hart, Michigan; member of Odd Fellows 32 years.

Helen Agnes Bradley, sister of Mrs. Charles Sperry of Painesville, Ohio, was born of Kirtland, Ohio, June 2, 1840, educated in district schools, Hambden Select School and Kirtland Academy; taught district schools, married Theron S. Gurney, March 27, 1862; teacher in Hart, Michigan, High Schools 1868 and 1860.

The Editor.

From an Exchange

Most any one can be an editor. All the editor has to do is sit at a desk six days out of the week, four weeks of the month, and twelve months of the year and "edit" such stuff as this:

"Mrs. Jones of Cactus Creek let a can-opener slip last week and cut herself in the pantry."

"A mischievous lad in Piketown threw a stone and struck Mr. Pike in the alley last Tuesday."

"Joe Doe climbed on the roof of his house last week looking for a leak and fell, striking himself on the back porch."

"While Harold Green was escorting Miss Violet Wise from the church social last Saturday night a savage dog attacked them and bit Mr. Green several times on the public square."

"Isaiah Trimmer of Running Creek was playing with a cat Friday when it scratched him on the veranda."

"Mr. Fona, while horsecessing a broncho last Saturday was kicked just south of his corncrib."

City Borrowed $15,000.

It is necessary for the city to borrow $15,000 in order to pay the policemen and to meet other debts in the public safety department. At the meeting of the council Monday night it was decided, upon motion made by Briggs, seconded by Stahr and favored by the entire body to make a temporary loan of $15,000.—Ashtabula Standard.

CONCORD

Miss Mary Krebs of Cleveland has returned home, having visited her parents for the past week.

The home of Daniel Kartmen is under quarantine for a mild form of diptheria.

Mrs. Ella Radcliffe will offer stock and personal property at a public sale Tuesday, March 19th, and W. A. Canfield will have a public sale Saturday, March 23rd, both on the Chardon Rd.

Bert Brown of Painesville has been sick at the home of his parents, but is reported better and able to be up.

Quarterly Conference will be held next Sunday at the M. E. Church at Wilson's Corners. Dr. Strout of Cleveland, Dist. Supt., will be here, and a good attendance is desired. All are welcome.

Roy Harrison was elected Master of the Concord Grange to fill the vacancy caused by the passing on of W. M. Radcliffe.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I, the undersigned wish to announce my candidacy for the office of County Commissioner subject to the Republican Primaries to be held in May, 1912.

F. H. ROOD,
Madison, Ohio.

ABOUT PEOPLE AND PLACES

The franchise grab is too dead to skin.

—o—

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Babcock of Cleveland, a nine pound daughter, Tuesday, March 12th.

—o—

By a vote of 74 to 16 the lower house of the Maryland legislature defeated a woman suffrage bill on the 29th.

—o—

B. F. Groloot has returned from a trip to New Orleans. He says the roses and the violets are in full bloom down in the Sunny South.

—o—

Karl Korth, for eleven years with J. Houghton and later with L. Webster & Son, has severed his connection with the State street grocery.

—o—

Jake Green, the Main street shoe dealer and cobbler, will move into the Shedd block store room on North State street in a few weeks.

—o—

At St. James' church Sunday morning nineteen were confirmed by Bishop Leonard and the bishop gave a fine address for the benefit of the class.

—o—

John Seres, a resident of Johnnycake ridge passed away at his home on Monday afternoon. The deceased was about 64 years old and was born in Hungary.

—o—

Mr. F. W. Tuttle of East Erie street has been seriously ill with pneumonia the past week. Mr. Tuttle is 78 years of age and pneumonia is a serious matter at that age.

—o—

The Western Editor who declares that Col. Roosevelt doesn't possess a shred of political clothing that wasn't appropriated from the Hon. Wm. J. Bryan can prove what he says.

—o—

A bill providing for a state monopoly of life insurance has been approved by the Italian Chamber of Deputies by a vote of 268 to 79. The object of the move is to provide for old age pensions.

—o—

Five boys, including Kenneth Gibson, Semour Haskell, Andrew Evans, Leon Fredebaugh and Clarence Holly all of Grand River, skated to Ashtabula, about 26 miles on the lake, on Sunday, March 10.

—o—

K. D. Park has been appointed a member of the board of health to fill the place vacated by H. R. Collacott, who is a member of the sinking fund and consequently barred from holding his position on the health board.

—o—

Harrold von Beseler has taken the agency for the Flanders motorcycle in this vicinity and will have his headquarters at the American garage. Mr. von Beseler is a nephew of Attorney George C. von Beseler of this city.

—o—

Jack Bradley, the local athlete who was signed by the Naps last year, and was then sent to Portland and later to Vancouver of the Northwestern league, has been engaged to coach the Western Reserve baseball team this spring.

—o—

The Lake County Horticultural society will meet in the Congregational church parlors, Painesville, Saturday, March 16. Subject, "Pruning and Spraying," by W. R. Crary. This is an all-day meeting with basket dinner. Bring specimens of tree disease.

—o—

On Saturday morning members of the bar met at the court house to have the docket read to them. Judge A. G. Reynolds set several cases for hearing this week. Owing to the recent illness of Attorney Hammar very little has been done in common pleas court during the present term of court.

—o—

For the first time in the history of the local lodge of Elks an exalted ruler was given a second term. This was the compliment paid Robert Manchester, present exalted ruler, at the election held last Thursday night. Not only was Mr. Manchester reelected but his election for the second time was made unanimous.

—o—

Arrangements made here today between the taxing officials of Lake county and the state tax commission will make possible the paving of Euclid-av from Wickliffe to Willoughby and also the same improvement on the Lake-rd from Willoughbeach park to Willoughby, giving two paved highways connecting Cleveland and Willoughby.—Columbus Dispatch.

—o—

The C. P. & E. railroad renewal franchise was not brought up at the council meeting on Monday evening as President E. F. Blakely read a letter from the railroad company asking that nothing be done on the matter for the present as the company were not yet ready to start their line to the township park and that if they failed to obtain their right-of-way their contract with the city might become void.

—o—

Thirty heads of families living in the vicinity of Park road east of Painesville are making an effort to have stop 6 named as the easterly limit of the five-cent fare zone instead of stop 5 as outlined in the proposed new ordinance to be presented to the council soon. The Park roaders want five-cent fare for their children who attend school in Painesville. They have circulated a petition and have found many signers. A petition for such a fare has also been circulated by business men and has had general support.

—o—

The funeral services for Ralph A. Mills were held last Thursday, under the auspices of the Maccabees, and the funeral sermon was delivered by Rev. Carman of the Baptist church. Ralph Mills was one of the boys of Painesville, whom nearly everybody knew and loved. He was a boy with the kindliest disposition and everybody who knew him was his friend. A few days before his death he accepted a position at the new Soda Ash plant, and within an hour after going to work he was injured by the machinery of the plant, and died a few days later at the city hospital. The deceased leaves a father, mother, two sisters and one brother, who have the sympathy of all.

—o—

It is too bad to make Policeman Henry believe there is a desperate "Lake Shore Gang" in the limits of his patrol. By reading the columns of the Telegraph newcomers might imagine that a Jesse James Gang or Robin Hood outlaws made their headquarters around the Lake Shore depot. Of course old residents of Painesville know this is a myth and that no desperadoes make their headquarters in such a quiet neighborhood, but Policeman Henry is a stranger here, not having resided here yet quite a year, and although he has been successful in landing a job on the police force in preference to many older and more deserving applicants, there is no need to make of him a modern Don Quixote.

—o—

A five cent fare across Painesville township on the main line, and a ten cent fare from both Perry and Mentor to Painesville would be worth more to this city than a ten cent railroad extension to the Township Park. Painesville should insist that the C. P. & E. make these concessions at an early date. The C. P. & E. has been observing its franchise rights in this city very loosely, and has assumed rights, such as carrying on an electric package business in this city, without authority or license. Painesville business men have influence with our board of county commissioners whom the C. P. & E. is continually asking for favors, and they can withdraw some of the privileges the company has unlawfully assumed in this city, if the management of that road continues to deal unfairly with Painesville. Both Willoughby and Madison townships enjoy better transportation rates than Painesville township, and the only way for Painesville township to better conditions is to demand better conditions.

—o—

Over at the city engine house things are getting old and dilapidated. According to Councilman Rider the whole thing is going to rack and ruin and there are holes in the floor of the building so big that the fire engine horses have to pick their way carefully to avoid breaking the bones in their legs. Another unusual thing, last week, was one of our citizens armed with a petition going from door to door begging for money with which to buy a sign to be placed on the city hall. Poor old Painesville is a pauper. But Painesville is a pauper for lack of good business management. We have a $8,000,000 tax duplicate, but not enough money in the treasury to buy a postage stamp. Every department is struggling along without enough money to make both ends meet. The Safety Fund is overdrawn, the Service Fund is very, very short, and not a cent to transfer from the general fund. The mayor works for $1.00 per day, the city solicitor doles out legal services at the same rate, the director of service gets less than $1.00 per day, while the director of safety and superintendent of streets receive 33⅓ cents each per day—the wage of a Chinaman. And with such a business organization some people have the temerity to ask "Why don't Painesville boom?"

—o—

Mr. Hacker, one of the residents of Painesville Township, living near Stop 6 C. P. & A. Ry. appeared before the city council Monday night and in his remarks gave the members of the council a little object lesson on the value of a franchise. Mr. Hacker presented a petition protesting against 10 cent fare to Stop 6, signed by 37 heads of families in his neighborhood, and took his own family as an illustration of car fare expense. He plainly demonstrated that if he sent his three children to high school in Painesville, the car fare each week would be $4.60 and including an occasional ride to the Township Park would bring his car fare expense up to $6 per week. Multiply this expense by 20 or 60 families and you have the expense to a little neighborhood of $160 per week or about $8,000 per year. This looks a little overdrawn but suppose that the railroad company can add a 5 cent fare to each passenger travelling between Painesville and Perry and Painesville and Mentor, in the course of a year this little extra fare would amount to at least $10,000 per year, and this privilege for 25 years would amount to $250,000. These figures may be worthless, but they illustrate the value of a franchise, and it is upon these little nickel privileges granted to railroad companies that franchise values are based. Why should we thoughtlessly give away rights to tax the people in amounts of hundreds of thousands of dollars, if such tax can be avoided by driving a good and better bargain with railroad companies. A franchise is nothing more nor less than a special privilege granted to some company to levy a tax, and a public official who gives away these privileges without value received is either ignorant of such values, or else he is unworthy the name of PUBLIC official.

PERRY

Miss Nancy Perry of Geneva is the week's guest of Miss Alora Craine.

Miss Lola Keener was visiting in Perry last week at the home of Mrs. Hickman.

Mr. Clarence Owen, employed in Cleveland, was home over Sunday.

Mrs. Frank Beardsley of Lane is taking Miss Culp's place in the Primary room in Perry.

Miss Landgraff was unable to attend school the fore part of the week because of illness, and a vacancy was reported in the Middle Ridge school, Miss Lillian Clerk being ill.

The W. C. T. U. meets Tuesday at the home of Mrs. O. B. Tenney.

Wednesday afternoon the Baptist Mission Society will meet at Mrs. Tenney's home. The topic is "India Awakening."

Miss Esther Wood's many friends will be glad to hear that her condition is improved, and that she is now able to be up.

The funeral of Mrs. Eva Lockwood was held Monday afternoon. It is expected that little Bernice will make her home with Mrs. Tucker in Painesville.

Miss Vera Main is spending a short time with relatives in Geneva.

Crowds from Perry have attended the Crowder-Maxwell Mission during the past week, especially Saturday and Sunday evening. Enthusiasm of a religious nature can be spread through a vast crowd, and besides the sunbeam chorus of over one hundred child voices makes "His" praise glorious. A great work is being done for a great King.

Miss Treva Merriman was in Geneva Saturday.

Mrs. Jas. Norton and Mrs. Dick Warner were in Madison Saturday, at the home of Mr. Warner's parents, Mrs. Warner being critically ill.

Rev. Wright could not come to Perry Sunday because of illness. Mr. Peck conducted the services at St. Anne's.

A St. Patrick's social will be held Friday evening by the S. S. of the Christian church.

The C. W. B. M. had a meeting Thursday afternoon at Mrs. C. G. Keener's. Over half a hundred ladies were present. A New England supper was served.

NORTH MADISON

Mrs. H. A. Barr is on the sick list.

Mrs. James Hill returned home Monday leaving her mother somewhat improved.

Miss Alma Graves of Cleveland was at home over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mericle were Monday here on business.

Miss Ina Miller of Willoughby was at home over Saturday and Sunday, Friday evening being a guest of Mrs. E. J. Foster.

Harry Brakeman spent several days recently in Ashtabula.

Mrs. Mary Burns is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. Heywood in Perry.

Robert Sherwood of Painesville was a guest Thursday of his uncle, Geo. Haywood.

Grandpa McIntire was a Geneva visitor Thursday.

Miss Nellie and Ralph Quirk were recent guests of their aunt, Miss May Burns of Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Foster were recent Ashtabula visitors for several days, returning home Friday.

Prof. Roy J. Crocker of Lake Erie college was at home over Sunday.

Mrs. Della Cooper, after an extended visit here and in Madison, Geneva, Ashtabula, Jefferson and other places about here, started Thursday morning for Thompson. From there she will go to Painesville thence to Collinwood, Chicago, and arriving at her home in Baraboo, Wisconsin about April 10th.

Mr. Thomas Foster was a Geneva visitor Saturday.

Mrs. Charley Chaffee is not able to be about her home her friends are sorry to hear.

Mrs. Lyman Hall is not as well of late.

Miss Ina Baker of Mentor, a former N. Madison young lady, is caring for Mr. O. Griswold of Madison, who has typhoid fever. Miss Baker is having very good success as a trained nurse.

Leroy Haywood was a guest over Sunday of his cousin, Mrs. W. Gifford, in Madison.

The First Progressive

William Jennings Bryan

Columbus, Ohio, March 12—In his speech before the Ohio Constitutional Convention today William J. Bryan went the full length on progressive measures.

Here are important reforms that he advocated:

The initiative and referendum.

The recall of all public officials, including judges.

Prohibiting campaign contributions from corporations.

Publicity of campaign contributions and limiting the amount of such contributions.

Direct primaries, not only for candidates but on important measures.

The Oregon plan of electing United States Senators by direct vote of the people.

Judicial reform so that the court shall not encroach on the rights of litigants.

The abolishing of "government by injunction" declaring it to be obnoxious to our institutions; declared against the setting aside of verdicts on technicalities.

Advocated a majority of a two-thirds vote of a jury in deciding criminal cases.

Advocated workingmen's compensation and employers' liability.

Advocated limiting working hours of women and children.

Advocated that the Legislature should prescribe what shall be regarded as a working day and the conditions under which longer hours may be compelled.

Advocated taxation of Franchises to corporations.

The Modern Samson

Exchange.

Once, in a far off country, so I've heard the old folks say,
Lived a man named Samuel Samson, unforgotten to this day.
And Sammy loved a maiden—Delilah was the lass.
And Sammy slaughtered thousands with the jawbone of an ass.
Now Sammy tore up lions and lugged off city gates,
And Sammy tore down temples, so history relates;
And Sammy was the strongest man that ever trod the grass;
He's the boy that killed his thousands with the jawbone of an ass.

But all this happened long ago and the world moves on apace;
We've now another wonder who has taken Sammy's place.
He's Big Stick, the trust buster—there's no other in his class.
He can fake ten million people with the jawbone of an ass.
He knows how to kill a kitten, choke a chicken, bait a bear.
He can slaughter any old thing, whether feathered or in hair.
He can stab a man in prison; shoot another in the back,
Upon undesirable citizens bring his stick down with a whack;
All hail to our trust buster, breaking trusts like window glass,
While roaring, ranting, rattling with his jawbone of an ass.

UNIONVILLE

Mrs. J. G. Close of Girard, Pa., is here caring for her father, Mr. Joseph Derrow, who is very ill.

Rev. W. C. Detling was in Cleveland a few days last week.

There has been a number of cases of tonsilitis in the town. Mr. Harry Lyons, Mrs. J. C. Goddard and daughter, Miss Mildred, are among those who have been afflicted.

Bishop Leonard of Cleveland held services in the St. Michael's church on Sunday afternoon. He administered the right of confirmation to one communicant, Mrs. Alice Pinley King.

Miss Jennie Day spent Sunday with relatives in Painesville.

Mrs. Crocker has returned from spending the winter with her daughter in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Reed spent the week-end with friends in Cleveland.

Miss Helen Alexander met with quite an accident Friday evening at the basket ball game, when the megaphone slipped from the hands of the yell-leader and struck her glasses, breaking them and cutting her cheek quite severely.

Albert Flower of Chicago Junction was calling on friends in town last week.

Wilbur Pangburn and Travis Nash are on the sick list.

LAKE COUNTY HERALD
[illegible] & [illegible], Proprietors
PAINESVILLE, OHIO

HAVING A PURPOSE.

We can well imagine times when the necessity for applying ourselves is very real and very stern; when we can derive but little comfort from our position, and when we are likely to pose as martyrs rather than as soldiers ready for the fray. But all that comes before the light of reason and understanding breaks through the darkness and makes things plainer than they have ever been. It is good to have an individual purpose in life; what that purpose is lies within our own breasts. We are not all molded upon the same pattern, says the Charleston News and Courier. Indeed, it is said that there are no two natures alike and that God in his goodness decreed that such should be the case. However, that may be, we are all in fact his children and are placed in this world for the one great, controlling reason of working out our own salvation. How we are to do this rests with each one of us personally, and just to the extent of our realization and understanding of that sacred trust will we make our efforts tell. To be prepared at all times as far as it lies within our power is not the least important of the means at our command, while to leave the future to take care of itself and to trust to the spur of necessity for obtaining our most vital results, however helpful such results may be on occasion, is only tempting Providence unnecessarily.

How much of a man's income should be spent for rent? Benjamin C. Marsh, of New York, executive secretary of the committee on congestion of population, told the Citizenship Class of the South Congregational church of this city that no wage-earner should pay more than 20 per cent. of his income for rent, says the Boston Globe. This is cutting the scale down, as there is a saying that one-fourth of the income can be wisely devoted to rent. Perhaps conditions are changing and Mr. Marsh is right. One-fifth of the income certainly leaves a larger margin to be devoted to the purchase of food, clothing and other necessities and gives a little chance to save. But it is not always possible to find suitable accommodations with a fifth of the income, nor with a fourth for that matter. Rent is not a luxury, but a fixed charge, and it is not always what a man wants to pay or can afford to pay, but what conditions compel him to pay.

It is not clear from the annual police report exactly what relation exists between the number of arrests for carrying concealed weapons and growth of the habit itself. The largely increased number of arrests may indicate keener attention to the evil on the part of the police rather than any material increase in gun toting. At least, that suggests a pleasanter explanation of the figures, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Regardless of the fuller interpretation of the figures, it is hoped they may arouse public interest in a matter of deep moment to the city. Judge Cull of the municipal court has taken a firm stand against the carrying of concealed weapons. Other courts show an inclination to tackle the problem more earnestly than has been the wont in recent years.

The west can outdo the east, when it sets about it. That Oriental ball in San Francisco threw the famous Hyde ball in New York into the shade, says the Milwaukee Wisconsin. The guests at the New York affair merely went to European history for their costumes, for the most part; while San Francisco searched the Orient, as became a city drawing its wealth from the Pacific, and a delighted public reads of a hostess in mauve pantaloons embroidered in gold thread, and of her mother in Oriental trousers of coral pink. Such a detail as a Salome dance by six young girls was but a trifle in comparison with the evident gorgeousness of the ball as a whole.

A man in Philadelphia who some years ago befriended a tramp to the extent of one dollar has been left a fortune by the grateful nomad. But this need not cause a rush of sympathetic benefactors towards the Wandering Willie fraternity under the delusion that this case is the rule and not the exception.

A western court rules that a bulldog is a "weapon." More accurately, it would seem, a projectile of great muscle power at rather short range, but whose velocity generally beats that of the pugnacious intruder when the bull dog is turned loose.

One of San Francisco's wealthy club men was shot to death because he spied on his wife and her chauffeur. He seems to have lacked an understanding of San Francisco etiquette.

A woman in Pennsylvania is a grandmother at the age of thirty-three, and a woman in Connecticut has just taken her first automobile ride at the age of ninety-two. Women in this feminist era are beating the record at both ends of the age limit.

A woman in Illinois is suing a surgeon for sewing a sponge up in her after an operation. Naturally, from its nature, the case is attracting absorbing attention.

THINK NEW ORDER HITS AT CATHOLICS

ENEMIES OF ORGANIZATION CONTEND THAT "GUARDIANS OF LIBERTY" ARE HOSTILE.

QUOTE FEW OF ITS PRINCIPLES

General Miles, Who Is Reputed to be One of the Order's Head, Makes Denial, While Cardinal Gibbons Talks on Subject.

New York City.—An organization called the "Guardians of Liberty" has sprung into existence recently. Its national court or headquarters is on the top floor of Masonic Temple, 59 West 24th street. Among those reputed to be powers in this new order are Gen. Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., retired, former Congressman Charles B. Haines, a wealthy railroad builder, once Democratic leader of Columbia county, N. Y.; Charles R. Skinner, formerly state superintendent of public instruction here, and former Congressman Thomas E. Watson of Georgia.

Principles of Order.

The enemies of the order contend that it was organized in direct antagonism to the Roman Catholic church. In support of this they quote from the principles of the order, of which some read: "We unite to protect our country and its free institutions from the efforts of any religious-political organization which may attempt to manipulate or influence the political or social development of our country. We concern ourselves with no religious faith but we take issue with any church or other organization interfering with established American institutions and civil government. We maintain it to be inconsistent with a free government to appoint or elect to political or military office any person who openly or secretly concedes superior authority to any foreign political or ecclesiastical power whatever."

General Miles Makes Denial.

These declarations were called to the attention of General Miles who is in Washington. Said the old veteran: "I can only reply that so far as I have been informed heretofore it is no part of the objects of the Guardians to oppose any man because of his religion, be he Catholic or Mormon, Jew or Protestant. My connection with the order is due solely to my understanding that it is a purely patriotic organization designed to insure the maintenance of the principles of our forefathers."

On the other hand a dispatch from Baltimore states that the venerable Cardinal Gibbons condemns the purposes of the organization and quotes him as saying: "This order is plainly nothing more than an attempt to revive the bigotry of the A. P. A., which was presumed to have died of inanition."

HAS ITS OWN LIST OF DONT'S

Wellesley College Students Follow Fashion of Other Institutions of Learning in United States.

Wellesley, Mass.—Wellesley college has followed the fashion and now has its own selected list of don'ts. Here are some of them:

"Don't flirt with the handsome young fellow down town. His wife may not like it.

"Don't go through the village streets chewing candy or anything else. If you must chew, try the rag.

"Don't retire with undrawn curtains. The rubber industry flourishes in other places than South America.

"Don't believe the village chap that tells you he loves every hair on your head. He probably means every one on your bureau.

"Don't be a freak. The squirrels have enough nuts to attend to now.

"Don't study too hard. Your friends might think you are going to work for a living.

"Don't kiss each other in public. It's awful to see a woman doing a man's work."

GIVES LIFE FOR INVENTION

Doctor Is Accidentally Asphyxiated While Experimenting With New Anesthetic.

Syracuse, N. Y.—Dr. Angus Rose, aged 27, was accidentally asphyxiated in experimenting with a new anesthetic while alone in his dental offices.

Doctor Rose gave up his life trying to perfect a machine and a combination of gases which physicians say may become universally used in both dental and surgical work.

The experimenter had been working on the device night and day for three months intending to give a demonstration at a dental meeting in May.

Jumps With Babe to Death.

New York City.—Grief because she had been forced to stop nursing her baby so worried Mrs. Rose Strauss that she took the three months old child in her arms and, it is believed, flung herself with him from the roof of a tenement house. The sound of their bodies striking the stone flagging in the yard in the rear attracted the attention of neighbors. Running out they found the mother still breathing faintly. The baby was dead, while the woman died later.

Suicide Pact Is Unearthed.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Breaking in a bedroom door employes of "Jack's" North Side hotel found James E. Johnston, 44, and married, in a dying condition and his 19-year-old stenographer, Helen Norton, beside him chloroformed and semi-conscious. An empty carbolic acid bottle and a chloroform soaked towel lay near by. A few minutes later after Johnston had died from the effects of the acid the girl rallied and was able to explain to the coroner that at the behest of the man she became a party to a suicide pact.

GREAT SURGICAL FEAT

DOCTOR PERFORMS WONDERFUL OPERATION ON MAN.

Physician Supplies New Interior Wall of Gold Wire for Principal Trunk of the Arteries.

New York City.—An assemblage of physicians and surgeons, many of them from other cities, was held spellbound by an operation performed by Dr. William C. Lusk. A new interior wall of gold wire was supplied for a distended aorta, the principal trunk of the arteries, as the natural wall had been worn to such a thinness that it threatened to burst at each beat of the heart.

To perform the operation it was necessary to pierce the wall of this artery. Had the worn walls ripped or crocked under the pulsations of the heart while the operation was in progress the patient's death would have been a matter of moments.

Under the conditions it was necessary to use only local anaesthesia and the patient was conscious throughout.

Henry Griffin, the patient, is 53 years old, works as a fireman and lives in College Point, L. I. He was admitted to Bellevue on January 8 last, suffering with aneurism of the aorta or the dilation of this largest and most important of the arteries. The dilation was just below the arch, behind the sternum, or breast bone, and had caused the walls of the artery to wear to a thinness where they were transparent.

It is predicted that Griffin will be able to leave the hospital in eight or ten days and, under ordinary circumstances, will suffer no ill consequences and live the natural span of his life just as though he had never suffered the aneurism.

TWO BURN AS FIRE EATS HOME

Aged Woman Is Incinerated in Bed While Husband Is Fatally Hurt Trying to Save Wife.

Erie, Pa.—Mrs. John McCumber, 87, was burned to death and her husband, 92, was fatally burned in attempting to rescue his aged wife at their farmhouse two miles from Cranesville, this county.

Mrs. McCumber was ill in bed and McCumber was preparing breakfast when the fire was discovered. Before neighbors could help McCumber had been overcome with smoke and the roof had fallen in on the old couple. The man was later dragged from the ruins but his wife was incinerated in her bed.

BOMB DROPPED INTO CHIMNEY

Explosion Which Follows Tears Out Wall of Bakeshop and Injures Proprietor.

Newark, N. J.—Thomas Mistretta, who has a bakery in the rear of [illegible] Adams street, was taken to St. James hospital suffering from injuries received in a bomb explosion. He and his son, Vito, and Salvatore Macaluso, a helper, were working in the shop when a bomb was dropped into the chimney of the bakery about midnight. It tore out part of the wall, wrecked the chimney and partly demolished the oven. Mistretta was struck by flying bricks, but the other two escaped injury.

FITZSIMMONS WHIPS FLIRT

Former Champion Heavyweight Pugilist Knocks Out University of Chicago Student.

Chicago, Ill.—Since the day many years ago that Bob Fitzsimmons put away Jim Corbett with a blow to the solar plexus at Carson City, the freckled faced gladiator never put up a better fight than he did here. The victim this time is Jack Taylor, University of Chicago student, an all around athlete. Taylor is in the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity house at the University of Chicago nursing numerous wounds. Fitzsimmons' explanation of the affair is that Taylor tried to flirt with the fighter's wife.

INCREASE WAGES OF WORKERS

Textile Operators of Philadelphia Also Decide to Reduce Employes' Hours of Labor a Week.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The largest textile operators in this city, at a secret meeting, decided to increase the wages of the textile workers on an average of 5 per cent of their present wages and reduce their hours of working from 58 to 54 hours a week. The wage increase and shortening of the working week, it is estimated, will affect 100,000 textile workers in Philadelphia. Most of these workers are employed by members of the Union league.

1,000 Decapitated in China.

London, England.—That 1,000 decapitations have taken place at Peking and Tientsin in the past week is officially admitted, says a Peking dispatch to the Daily Telegraph.

Only the brush of Gustave Dore could do justice to the hideous picture the streets present. Bodies lie in groups in agonized attitudes, the heads literally hacked off, lying where they rolled. The mules and ponies snort and refuse to approach the terrible objects, over which the rabble stands and gloats.

Offers Town for Sale.

Negaunee, Mich.—Bay Mills, Chippewa county, a few years ago a flourishing village, was offered for sale by the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co., which owns most of the property.

The town is absolutely abandoned. Mills and factories are silent, no steamers land at the docks and the residence and store buildings are vacant. The railroad station was destroyed by fire last summer and no trains run over the bridge that leads to the town. No reason is ascribed for the town's desertion.

SUFFRAGE CLAUSE PUT TO A VOTE

CON. CON. SUBMITS QUESTION TO REFERENDUM BY A WIDE MARGIN.

WILL BE SUBMITTED TO PEOPLE

Proposition Had Sixteen More in Its Favor in the Convention Than Was Necessary for Its Passage.

Columbus.—The knotty question of whether or not women in Ohio shall be given the right to vote was referred to the electors of the state by the action of the constitutional convention. The vote was 76 to submit the woman suffrage question to the people and 34 against. The vote came at the end of a morning of intense interest, in which both sides scored in the arguments. The galleries were filled with interested and excited women and girls, who freely gave vent to their feelings during the debate and when the suffrage victory was announced. The suffragettes in the galleries plainly outnumbered their opponents.

The action of the convention means that when the proposed new constitution is submitted to the people, the question of whether or not the women of the state shall be given the right to vote shall be submitted along with it, but as a separate amendment. The suffrage amendment, if ratified by the people, not only will give women the right to vote, but will take out of the franchise section of the constitution the word "white" placed there in 1852. This word would bar the negro vote were it not for the constitution of the United States. Thus for sentimental reasons the colored vote of the state is being depended on to aid in carrying the amendment when it reaches the people.

The fact that the amendment got in the convention 16 votes more than was necessary to submit it, indicates the general sentiment of the delegates.

On the question the Franklin county delegation split, Professor Knight voting against submission of the suffrage amendment and Delegates Peters and Halbarger voting for it.

The morning session preceding the final vote, was featured by another ineffectual effort to have the woman suffrage question first submitted to the women of the state for their determination. The effort failed 62 to 38.

ATTACK ON DICTAGRAPH

Andrews' Counsel Insist Machine Is a Fake—Test Fails in Same Measure.

Columbus.—Counsel for Senator L. R. Andrews, on trial for bribery, are claiming that the dictagraph test made in court proves their contention that the dictagraph "is a fake."

While the prosecution admits that the stenographer on the receiving end of the dictagraph failed to get all that was said in an ante-room off the court room, where the transmitting instrument was placed under a couch, under circumstances similar to those at the Chittenden hotel where the detectives are alleged to have entrapped the legislators, they are not admitting that the test was a failure.

Detective Frank Harrison Smiley, Burns operative, was on the witness stand practically all afternoon. Upon direct examination, he told of coming to Columbus, April 25, and said he installed the dictagraph in rooms 316 and 317, Chittenden hotel, April 28. Smiley related the story previously told by him in the Diegle case.

NOT TO APPOSE LICENSE

Superintendent Wheeler of Anti-Saloon League Says Anderson Proposal Is Not Half Bad.

Columbus.—One of the developments in connection with the constitutional convention was the declaration of Supt. Wayne B. Wheeler of the Anti-Saloon league that that organization will not oppose the adoption of the Anderson liquor license proposal. Many dry men believe its adoption would be the biggest dry victory in the state since the campaign of the league was started.

Certain of the liberal license leaders have urged continuation of the fight in the hope of removing certain restrictions, but others are content to see the proposal pass final reading in the present form.

MAY MOVE THE HOME.

Columbus.—The value of many pieces of real estate near Worthington has been boosted 100 per cent since the Methodist committee a few days ago decided that village was to be the site of the proposed children's home for the denomination in Central Ohio. It is claimed that if the values continue to increase the committee may select a different site from that proposed and locate the home somewhere between Worthington and Delaware.

Columbus.—Milan Coe, 61, a horse trader of this city, shot and killed Mrs. Anna Maddox, aged 50, at her home, then attempted suicide by shooting himself. He was arrested and taken to the city hospital, where it was announced he will recover. Coe told the police the shooting was the result of a quarrel with Mrs. Maddox over attentions paid her by other men. He said he had been a lodger at the woman's home for seven years, and lately had brooded over what he considered her ill treatment of him.

FUMES NEARLY FATAL

Men Who Had Stayed All Night in Garage Nearly Killed by Gas.

Columbus.—Gas fumes from a coke stove in the Sitgreaves-Packard taxicab garage on Capital street overcame two employes Wednesday morning, and both, Darrell Hersey, 21, and Joe Arras, 26, are now under treatment at St. Francis hospital. Arras' condition is more serious than that of Hersey, but it was believed he will recover.

The men had spent the latter part of the night in the garage, which is heated by a big open coke stove. When other employes came to work Wednesday, they pounded on the door and attracted the attention of Hersey, who opened it, but as he did so he fell backward on the floor. He got up, but fell again and was seized with spasms and gasped for breath. Arras was found asleep in an automobile. He was aroused, but when he attempted to walk, fell helpless and gasping on the floor.

Dr. J. W. Birmingham, 83 South Front street, was called and he immediately ordered the garage opened and ventilated and called the police, who rushed the men to St. Francis hospital in police autos. Hersey was able to walk, but Arras had to be carried into the hospital.

OHIO SHOE MEN ELECT

A. E. Pitts Re-elected President—Discuss Proposed Suit—Entertain Salesmen.

Columbus.—A. E. Pitts of Columbus was re-elected president of the Ohio Retail Shoe Dealers' association, at the annual convention of that body at the Chittenden hotel. Ed L. Parker of Mt. Vernon was elected secretary. Other officers elected are: George Schraffenberger of Cincinnati, first vice president, T. J. Davis of Nelsonville, second vice president, L. W. Wright of Springfield, treasurer.

Wednesday, the last day of the convention, delegates discussed the suit which is to be brought against the Elliott Button Machine company of Grand Rapids, Mich., which is said to have a monopoly in restraint of trade.

The delegates entertained the traveling shoe salesmen and shoe manufacturers at luncheon at the Virginia hotel, Wednesday noon, and last night were to the theater in a body.

TO VOTE ON LIQUOR LICENSE.

Columbus.—Delegates to the constitutional convention decided to put up to Ohio voters the question of establishing a restricted liquor license in the state. In the event of its defeat at the polls the present no-license clause will be retained.

Radical license men expressed themselves as dissatisfied with the proposal agreed upon and many openly predicted its defeat at the polls.

Leaving to the committee on arrangement and phraseology the task of ironing out apparent inconsistencies in the proposals, the convention passed on second reading, by a vote of 91 to 18, the amended Anderson substitute for Mr. Anderson's proposal No. 151. The proposal as finally adopted by the convention is a compromise and contains drastic restrictions.

SLAIN IN HIS ROOM.

Akron.—Joe Palovich, aged 32, lies dead in a local boarding house and the police are scouring the city in search of Mike Babrich, aged 35, the alleged murderer. The men were together in the house and following the firing of a shot neighbors rushed in to find Palovich lying on the floor with a bullet in his heart. Babrich had fled. The cause of the shooting is not known.

WELL-KNOWN PIANIST DEAD.

Delaware.—News was received here of the death in Fairmont, Cal., of Mrs. S. H. Blakeslee, an accomplished pianist, connected for 14 years with the Ohio Wesleyan Conservatory of Music, of which her husband was head from 1884 to 1898. She had taught in Fairmont college the last nine years. The body will be brought here for interment.

UNCONSCIOUS SIX HOURS.

Zanesville.—For fully six hours William A. Romine, aged twenty-four, a telegraph operator at Sonora, sat unconscious at his key until an evening train, failing to get its signals, discovered his plight. Still unconscious, he is said to be dying of concussion of the brain last night. His family says he was kicked on the forehead by a colt at noon, but the injury was considered trifling at the time.

TRAIN HURTS TWO IN AUTO.

Akron.—While returning from Barberton recently, in an automobile, Clyde Berry, attorney and former city solicitor, and Dr. A. F. McCormick were struck by an Erie freight at a grade crossing in Barberton and carried down the track 400 feet. The men were rushed to the city hospital, where the wounds that they received were carefully dressed. It is thought by the physician that they will recover. The automobile was a total wreck.

Toledo.—Three city firemen and a watchman for the Owens Bottle Machine company were seriously hurt in a fire which swept the structure.

Watchman Nowak was severely burned about the face and hands. Lieutenant Shrine of engine company No. 14 was injured when a smokestack on the roof of the boiler house fell. Captain Tupe and another fireman sustained minor injuries when the roof fell in.

W. S. Walbridge, treasurer of the company, estimated the loss at $100,00, covered by insurance.

46 DECLARE 'NOT GUILTY'

MEN INDICTED IN DYNAMITE CASE PLEAD INNOCENCE.

Judge Anderson Overrules Demurrers of Defense and Rules Hearings Will Begin October 1.

Indianapolis, Ind.—"Not guilty" was the plea of 46 men arraigned in federal court here on indictments charging complicity in the alleged conspiracy unlawfully to transport dynamite from state to state. Judge A. B. Anderson overruled all demurrers of the defense but granted 30 days for the filing of exceptions to his ruling.

Never before in the history of the federal courts had so many men been indicted in a single proceeding, and because of the wide interest in the case the court room was crowded before Judge Anderson came to the bench.

A motion to consolidate the cases, made by United States District Attorney Charles D. Miller, was sustained. The court instructed that the defendants appear when presentation of the matter is made. The trial was set for October 1.

When Judge Anderson announced he would overrule the demurrers to the 34 indictments, he turned to the defendants, for whom seats had been arranged in tiers, and said:

"Gentlemen, do you know the nature of the charges against you?"

"We do" came in a heavy chorus.

Then, one by one the indicted men, present or former labor union officials from many sections of the country and headed by Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, arose as their names were called by the clerk and responded:

"Not guilty."

Attacks from many angles were made upon the indictments charging the defendants with aiding and abetting Ortie McManigal and John J. and James B. McNamara in the transportation of dynamite on passenger trains, with being principals with McManigal and the McNamaras in the illegal acts and with having conspired to violate the statutes prohibiting such transportation.

That the statute of limitations had run against the offense of conspiracy alleged and that the indictments did not aver violation of law because it was not set out the defendants had mislabeled packages of explosives they were alleged to have carried on passenger trains, were the two principal contentions of counsel for the defense.

ATTACKS BIG SUGAR COMPANY

United States District Attorney Says Organizers of Combine Pursued Policy of Monopoly.

New York City.—More than twelve hundred bits of documentary evidence will be presented by the government in its pending prosecution of the big sugar trust magnates on trial before Judge Hand in the United States district court. It is believed by District Attorney Wise that this great mass of documentary evidence will of itself unfold convincingly the complete story behind the grand jury's action nearly three years ago which resulted in the blanket indictment against the giant combination and six of its principal directors in the charge of conspiring to restrain interstate trade and commerce.

"The issue at stake in this case," said District Attorney Wise in presenting the government's side to the jury, "is simple and old as Christianity itself. It is the Tenth commandment, 'Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house.' That is the main issue and it will have to be upheld by us for the safety of future generations. For 20 years these men were identified with the American Sugar Refining Co., a concern which controlled 75 per cent of the manufacture and sale of sugar in the United States. They were enabled to do this by their monopolistic tactics."

REMEMBERS GIVERS OF SKIN

Little Girl Holds Party for Thirteen Friends Who Saved Her Life When Terribly Burned.

Washington, Pa.—Edith Conkle, 5, daughter of Jonathan Conkle, who was terribly burned in an accident in her home five months ago, and whose life was saved by the grafting of skin supplied by 13 of her little playmates, has entirely recovered.

Skin grafting was resorted to after every means had failed and it was feared that the child would die. Thirteen youngsters who were playmates of the Conkle child volunteered for the ordeal. Eighty pieces of skin taken from the little boys and girls were grafted on the girl's body. On March 11 Edith Conkle celebrated her birthday and her recovery by holding a party at which her 13 friends who saved her life were the guests.

Thirty-one Hurt in Wreck.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Thirty-one persons were injured when a southbound Milwaukee train jumped the track one mile north of the station at Oakwood, ten miles south of Milwaukee. Among the injured were: A. P. Vogo, Louisville, Ky., hip hurt; Mrs. Garrita Gerlings, Pittsburgh, scalp wound, and H. Rosenbirsch, Providence, R. I., elbow and hand sprained.

Five cars left the track. The baggage, mail and two forward coaches were piled in the ditch, the parlor and dining car remaining on track.

Morphine Fiends Take Poison.

Bay City, Mich.—Sent by his father, said to be a wealthy New York businessman, to seek out an obscure village where he and his wife might be treated for the morphine habit without exciting the interest of acquaintances, F. H. Hopkins and his wife died as the result of a suicide pact after apparently realizing that a cure in their cases was impossible. The young couple went to the village of Augres, and there their bodies were found in a little cottage. Both had taken poison.

MOTHER OF LARGE FAMILY

Tells How She Keeps Her Health—Happiness For Those Who Take Her Advice.

Scottville, Mich.—"I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done me. I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and am the mother of thirteen children. Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and the care of my family, but I tell them of my good friend, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and that there will be no backache and bearing down pains for them if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it in the house.

"I will say also that I think there is no better medicine to be found for young girls. My eldest daughter has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for painful periods and irregularity, and it has helped her.

"I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tell every one I meet that I owe my health and happiness to your wonderful medicine."—Mrs. J. G. JOHNSON, Scottville, Mich., R.F.D. 3.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for woman's ills known.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Prevents hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

THOMPSON'S EYE WATER
Quickly relieves weak, inflamed eyes. Sold everywhere 25c. Booklet free.
JOHN L. THOMPSON SONS & CO., Troy, N. Y.

Brown's Bronchial Troches
Give relief in Bronchitis and Asthma. No opiates. Sample free. JOHN I. BROWN & SON, Boston, Mass.

The Very Best Make.

In the course of an after dinner speech in praise of woman, Samuel Untermyer, the New York lawyer, said in Pittsburg:

"A commercial traveler remarked the other day to a storekeeper:

"'Make yourself a Christmas present of a cash register. It will keep strict and accurate account of all you receive and all you disburse. It will show what you save and what you squander, what you spend foolishly and what you spend wisely, where you should spread out and where you should retrench, what you waste and how you waste it——'

"'But,' said the storekeeper, 'I've already got a cash register which does all that and more.'

"'Whose make is it?' asked the salesman, frowning.

"'God's make,' the storekeeper replied; and with a smile at once reverent and grateful he nodded toward his handsome wife seated in the cashier's cage."

The Biblical Injunction.

A Washington clergyman made a call of consolation upon a woman who had suffered a sad bereavement. "I hope," said the pastor, "that in your bitter trial you have found some ray of comfort from the Scriptures."

"Indeed I have, sir," was the confident though tearful reply.

"That's grand, sister," was the sympathetic observation of the minister. "May I ask what passage of the Good Book helped you most?"

"Grin and bear it."

FROM THE NORTH COUNTRY
Where the Winters Are Cold and the Snows Deep.

Writing from the vicinity David Harum made famous, a man says that he was an habitual coffee drinker, and, although he knew it was doing him harm, was too obstinate to give it up, till all at once he went to pieces with nervousness and insomnia, loss of appetite, weakness, and a generally used-up feeling, which practically unfitted him for his arduous occupation, and kept him on a couch at home when his duty did not call him out.

"While in this condition Grape-Nuts food was suggested to me, and I began to use it. Although it was in the middle of winter, and the thermometer was often below zero, almost my entire living for about six weeks of severe exposure was on Grape-Nuts food with a little bread and butter and a cup of hot water, till I was wise enough to make Postum my table beverage.

"After the first two weeks I began to feel better and during the whole winter I never lost a trip on my mail route, frequently being on the road 7 or 8 hours at a time.

"The constant marvel to me was how a person could do the amount of work and endure the fatigue and hardship as I did, on so small an amount of food. But I found my new rations so perfectly satisfactory that I have continued them—using both Postum and Grape-Nuts at every meal, and often they comprise my entire meal.

"All my nervousness, irritability and insomnia have disappeared and healthy, natural sleep has come back to me. But what has been perhaps the greatest surprise to me is the fact that with the benefit to my general health has come a remarkable improvement to my eye-sight.

"If a good appetite, good digestion, good eye-sight, strong nerves and an active brain are to be desired, I can say from my own experience, use Grape-Nuts and Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

---

TAFT SPEAKS IN HIS HOME STATE

PRESIDENT DELIVERS ADDRESS ON THE JUDICIARY AND PROGRESS AT TOLEDO, O.

DISCUSSES RECALL OF JUDGES

Nation's Executive Says if Construction of Constitution Is Wrong It Could be Righted by Constitutional Amendment.

PRESIDENT TAFT

Toledo, O.—President Taft spoke on "The Judiciary and Progress" before the chamber of commerce in this city.

Following is the president's speech, in part:

"In the last year or two we have heard much of radical methods of changing the judiciary system. If we would properly consider these proposals and stand on solid and safe ground we must re-examine the fundamental principles of stable popular government. The history of the world seems to show that our form of government is more enduring and satisfactory than any other. We began as a small Union of 13 states, strung along the Atlantic coast, of 3,000,000 of people, and under the same constitution we have enlarged to be a world power of 48 sovereign states, bound into one, of more than 90,000,000 of people, and with a humane guardianship of 10,000,000 more—nine in the Pacific and one in the Atlantic. We have fought, beginning with the Revolution, four foreign wars, and we have survived a Civil war, of the greatest proportions recorded in history, and have united the battling sections by an indissoluble tie. From our body politic we have excised the cancer of slavery, the only thing protected by the constitution which was inconsistent with that liberty, the preservation of which was the main purpose of establishing the Union. We have increased our business and productive activities in every direction, we have expanded the development of our natural resources to be continent wide, and all the time we have maintained sacred those inalienable rights of man, the right of liberty, the right of private property, and the right to the pursuit of happiness.

Popular Government.

"For these reasons, we believe in popular government. Government is a human instrumentality to secure the greatest good to the greatest number, and the greatest happiness to the individual. Experience and especially the growth of popular government in our own history has shown, that in the long run every class of the people, and by that I mean those similarly situated, are better able to secure attention to their welfare than any other class however altruistic the latter class may be. Of course this assumes that the members of the class have reasonable intelligence and capacity for knowing their own rights and interest. Hence it follows that the best government, in the sense of the government most certain to provide for and protect the rights and governmental needs of every class, is that one in which every class has a voice. In recognition of this, the tendency from earliest times in our history has been the enlargement of the electorate to include in the ultimate source of governmental power as many as possible of those governed. But even today the electorate is not more in number than one-fourth of the total number of those who are citizens of the nation and are the people for whom the government is maintained, and whose rights and happiness the government is intended to secure. More than this, government by unanimous vote of the electorate is impossible, and therefore the majority of the electorate must rule. We find, therefore, that government by the people is, under our present system, government by a majority of one-fourth of those whose rights and happiness are to be affected by the course and conduct of the government. This is the nearest to a government by the whole people we have ever had. Woman's suffrage will change this, and it is doubtless coming as soon as the electorate can be certain that most women desire it and will assume its burden and responsibility. But even then the electorate will only be part of the whole people. In other words, the electorate is a representative governing body for the whole people for which the government was established and the controlling majority of the electorate is a body still less numerous. It is thus apparent that ours is a government of all the people by a representative part of the people. Now, the object of government is not only to secure the greatest good to the greatest number, but also to do this as near as may be by securing the rights of each individual in his liberty, property, and pursuit of happiness. Hence, it was long ago recognized that the direct action of a temporary majority of the existing electorate must be limited by fundamental law; that is, by a constitution intended to protect the individual and the minority of the electorate and the nonvoting majority of the people against the unjust or arbitrary action of the majority of the electorate. This made it necessary to introduce into the constitution certain declarations as to the rights of the individual which it was the purpose of the whole people to maintain through the government against the aggression of any temporary majority of the electorate and to provide in the same instrument certain procedure by which the individual might assert and vindicate those rights. Then, to protect against the momentary impulse of a temporary majority of the electorate to change the fundamental law and deprive the individual or the voting minority or the nonvoting majority of inalienable rights, the constitution provided a number of checks and balances whereby every amendment to the constitution must be adopted under forms and with delays that are intended to secure much deliberation on the part of the electorate in adopting such amendments.

"These checks and balances, as has been pointed out, include the division of the government into three independent branches—the legislative, executive, and the judiciary—and the provisions by which usurpation by one of the functions of another is forbidden. The executive, while he is bound to act in behalf of all the people and to regard their rights, is properly influenced by that discretionary policy which he was elected by his constituents to carry out. In that sense, he represents the majority of the electorate. So, too, the legislative members elected to uphold certain governmental views of the majority will properly favor the embodiment of such views in valid legislation.

Right and Justice.

"But the judiciary are not representative in any such sense, whether appointed or elected. The moment they assume their duties they must enforce the law as they find it. They must not only interpret and enforce valid enactments of the legislature according to its intention, but when the legislature in its enactments has transgressed the limitations set upon its power in the constitution, the judicial branch of the government must enforce the fundamental and higher law by annulling and declaring invalid the offending legislative enactment. Then the judges are to decide between individuals on principles of right and justice. The great body of the law is unwritten, determined by precedent and founded on eternal principles of right and morality. This the courts have to declare and enforce. As between the individual and the state, as between the majority and the minority, as between the powerful and the weak, financially, socially, politically, courts must hold an even hand and give judgment without fear or favor. In so doing they are performing a governmental function; but it is a complete misunderstanding of our form of government or any kind of government that exalts justice and righteousness, to assume that judges are bound to follow the will of the majority of an electorate in respect of the issue for their decision. In many cases before the judges, that temporary majority is a party to the controversy to be decided. It may be seeking to deprive an individual or a minority of a right secured by the fundamental law. In such a case, if the judges were mere representatives or agents of the majority to carry out its will, they would lose their judicial character entirely, and the so-called administration of justice would be a farce.

"Having made clear what the function of our courts is under our form of government in maintaining the constitutional guaranties of rights, and in preserving against the usurpation of the majority the rights of the nonvoting part of the people and of the voting minority and of the individual, we come now to examine the charges made against the existing system. I concede that the system is not perfect or as good as it can and ought to be made. I have been preaching for reform, especially in the enforcement of the criminal law, for years. Then, too, I have pointed out in addresses and presidential messages the great need for cheapening the cost of civil litigation and expediting it so as to put as little a burden on the poor litigant as possible. The defects in our judiciary have not been in the corruption of the judges, but mainly in the procedure and in the helplessness of the judges in jury cases to assist in reaching right conclusions. The popular impulse has been to take away the power from the judge and to give it all to the jury, and this has not been for the public good in the enforcement of the criminal law. Such defects as I have described are completely within the control of the legislatures of the state and congress, and I am glad to say that the movement for reform has been accelerated by action of the State and National Bar associations, and we may look for decided progress in the near future.

Discusses Recall of Judges.

"But these humdrum defects and their tedious remedies are not of the spectacular character to call for political discussion or to attract effort from politicians in the passage of remedial legislation. The formidable attack upon our judiciary now is that the judges do not respond sufficiently to popular opinion. It is said that courts are interposing their obstructive power to the enforcement of legislation looking to the relief of the oppressed by declaring laws unconstitutional and by so-called judicial legislation in interpreting into statutes words not intended by the legislature. I do not intend to discuss these charges, although if reduced to specific cases it would be easy to show many of them to be unfounded. For the purposes of this discussion I may admit that courts have erred in this regard, have unduly broadened constitutional restrictions in order to invalidate useful statutes, or have given such statutes a wrong construction. How is it proposed to remedy these wrongs? In one of two ways, either by the judicial recall or by the recall of judicial decisions. Let us examine these remedies separately.

"In the remedy by judicial recall it is proposed to provide by law that whenever a judge has so discharged his duties as to induce a certain percentage of the electorate to deem it wise to remove him, and that percentage sign a petition asking his recall, an election shall take place in which the incumbent shall stand against other candidates and if he does not secure a plurality of votes he is ipso facto removed. I have pointed out that under our form of government and constitution many of the issues arising before our courts are in effect issues between the state and the individual, between the majority and the minority—cases in which the popular interest might be greatly excited to secure a favorable judgment. By this system the question whether the judge is to be removed or not is to be left to that majority that may be greatly aroused to secure from him a judgment favorable to them. Could a system be devised, better adapted to deprive the judiciary of that independence without which the liberty and other rights of the individual can not be maintained against the government and the majority?

"But it is said we may have corrupt judges. How are we going to get rid of them? They can be impeached under our present system. But that is said to be too cumbersome. Well, amend the procedure of impeachment. Create a tribunal for removal of judges for cause. Give them an opportunity to be heard, and by an impartial tribunal; but do not create a system by which, in the heat of disappointment over a lost cause, the defeated litigants are to decide without further hearing or knowledge whether the judge who decides against them is to continue in office. It would be hard to devise a more unjust and ineffective method of purifying the judiciary or one less likely to promote courage of honest conviction.

"Let us examine the other method proposed for the reform of the judiciary. That is a recall of decisions. By this method, when a supreme court has found a law, intended to secure public benefit, to be invalid because it infringes some constitutional limitation, the decision is to be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors, and if a majority of them differ with the court and reverse the decision, the law is to be regarded and enforced as valid and constitutional.

"This is a remarkable suggestion, and one which is so contrary to anything in government heretofore proposed that it is hard to give it the serious consideration which it deserves because of its advocates and of the conditions under which it is advanced.

States Objections.

"What the court decides, is that the enacted law violates the fundamental law and is beyond the power of the legislature to enact. But when this issue is presented to the electorate, what will be the question uppermost in the minds of most of them and forced upon them by the advocates of the law? Will it not necessarily be whether the law is on its merits a good law rather than whether it conflicts with the constitution? The interpretation of the constitution and the operation of a law to violate some limitation of that instrument are often nice questions to be settled by judicial reasoning and farsighted experience, which are not to be expected of the electorate, or welcomed by it. If the issue is transferred to them the simple question will be of the approval or disapproval of the law. What this recall of decisions will then amount to, if supplied to constitutional questions, is that there will be a suspension of the constitution to enable a temporary majority of the electorate to enforce a popular but invalid act.

"Suppose the act to be invalid because it infringes the rights of liberty of a certain unpopular class and by direct means suspends the writ of habeas corpus in their cases. I ask any candid, fair-minded man if the decision of such a question when submitted to a popular majority is not likely to turn rather upon the popular disfavor of those affected than upon the possible infraction of the constitutional liberty of a citizen. Let another law involving other classes who could make themselves heard be submitted and would not the court's decision be likely to be sustained by the majority?

"Take another case, instances of which have frequently arisen in our history: Suppose, in the early development of a state, the question arises whether a series of special privileges shall be granted to a rich company willing to invest if only the privileges are exclusive and certain. Suppose the court finds the law unconstitutional and the decision is submitted to the people. In an early state of development the popular yearning is for capital and expansion, and the popular vote might well fasten such a burden on the state and people for ever. Of course, in this day and generation such danger will be said to be remote, but in a business and political atmosphere, like that in Alaska of today, the popular view is different. Later on, of course, the people might and probably would change in respect to another but similar law.

"A most serious objection to the recall of decisions is that it destroys all probability of consistency in constitutional interpretation. The majority which sustains one law is not the same majority that comes to consider another, and the obligation of consistency of popular decision is one which would sit most lightly on each recurring electorate, and the operation of the system would result in suspension or application of constitutional guaranties according to popular whim. We would then have a system of suspending the constitution to meet special cases. The greatest of all despotisms is a government of special instances.

"But the main argument used to sustain such a popular review of judicial decisions is that if the people are competent to establish a constitution they are competent to interpret it, and that this recall of decisions is nothing but the exercise of the power of interpretation. This is clearly a fallacious argument. The approval of general principles in a constitution, on the one hand, and the interpretation of a statute and consideration of its probable operation in a particular case and its possible infringement of a general principle, on the other hand, are very different things. The one is simple, the latter complex; and the latter when submitted to a popular vote, as already pointed out, is much more likely to be turned into an issue of general approval or disapproval of the act on its merits for the special purpose of its enactment than upon its violation of the constitution. Moreover, a popular majority does not adopt a constitution, or any principle of it, or amend its terms, until after it has been adopted by a constitutional convention or a legislature, and the final adoption is, and ought to be, surrounded with such checks and delays as to secure deliberation. In other words, the course of procedure in the adoption of constitution or amendment is very different from what the proposed vote of a majority on constitutional interpretation would be.

Would Amend Constitution.

"Constitutions ought to be protected by such requirements as to their amendments as to insure great deliberation by the people in making them—much greater than one vote of a mere temporary majority. This method of amending the constitution would give it no more permanence than that of an ordinary legislative act and would give to the inalienable rights of liberty, private property, and the pursuit of happiness no more sanction than that of an annual appropriation bill.

"Finally, I ask what is the necessity for such a crude, revolutionary, fitful, and unstable way of reversing judicial construction of the constitution? Why, if the construction is wrong, can it not be righted by a constitutional amendment? The securing of that, it is true, is usually hedged about by checks and balances devised to secure delay, deliberation, discussion before a change of the fundamental law; but such amendments can be made, and if so, the effect of the decision can be reversed in respect to a new law by an amendment with express terms of authority to enact such a law. An answer made to this is that the same judges will construe the amendment and defeat the popular will as in the first instance. This assumes dishonesty and a gross violation of their oaths of duty on the part of judges, a hypothesis utterly untenable. If the meaning of the amendment is made plain, as it readily can be, of course the court will follow it.

"I have examined this proposed method of reversing judicial decisions on constitutional questions with care. I do not hesitate to say that it lays the ax at the foot of the tree of well ordered freedom and subjects the guaranties of life, liberty, and property without remedy to the fitful impulse of a temporary majority of an electorate.

"Mr. Justice Miller of Iowa, was one of the greatest jurists that ever adorned the supreme bench of the United States. Speaking for that great court in the case of Loan Association vs. Topeka (20 Wall. 655), in a case presenting the question of the constitutionality of a law imposing a general tax on all citizens to pay for a factory to be run and owned by a private company, after referring to the act as 'an invasion of private right,' he said:

Quotes Iowa Justice.

"'It must be conceded that there are such rights in every free government beyond the control of the state. A government which recognized no such rights, which held the lives, the liberty, and the property of its citizens subject at all times to the absolute disposition and unlimited control of even the most democratic repository of power is, after all, but a despotism. It is true it is a despotism of the many—of the majority, if you choose to call it so—but it is none the less a despotism. It may well be doubted if a man is to hold all that he is accustomed to call his own, all in which he has placed his happiness and the security of which is essential to that happiness, under the unlimited dominion of others, whether it is not wiser that this power should be exercised by one man than by many.

"'The theory of our governments, state and national, is opposed to the deposit of unlimited power anywhere. The executive, the legislative, and the judicial branches of these governments are all of limited and defined powers.

"'There are limitations on such power, which grow out of the essential nature of all free governments—implied reservations of individual rights, without which the social compact could not exist, and which are respected by all governments entitled to the name. * * *

"'To lay with one hand the power of the government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to bestow it upon favored individuals to aid private enterprises and build up private fortunes, is none the less a robbery because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation. This is not legislation. It is a decree under legislative forms.'

"Do not the words and illustrations of this case bring before us what we might expect from the exercise of the power of a popular majority to reverse a solemn judgment of a court in favor of an individual against a measure that, for the time being, seemed to the people something that would help all and yet which was plainly a trespass upon individual rights?

"I agree that we are making progress and ought to make progress in the shaping of governmental action to secure greater equality of opportunity, to destroy the undue advantage of special privilege and of accumulated capital, and to remove obstructions to the pursuit of human happiness, and in working out these difficult problems we may possibly have, from time to time, to limit or narrow the breadth of constitutional guaranties in respect of property by amendment. But if we do it, let us do it deliberately, understanding what we are doing, and with full consideration and clear weighing of what we are giving up of private right for the general welfare. Let us do it under circumstances which shall make the operation of the change uniform and just, and not depend on the feverish, uncertain, and unstable determination of successive votes on different laws by temporary and changing majorities. Such a proposal as this is utterly without merit or utility, and instead of being progressive, is reactionary, instead of being in the interest of all the people and of the stability of popular government, is sowing the seeds of confusion and tyranny."

FOUR DIE IN RAIL WRECK

SIXTY-FIVE ARE MORE OR LESS SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Limited, Making Fast Time, Is Ditched When It Hits Defective Rail at Curve.

Chicago, Ill.—Four people were killed and 65 persons were injured when the Continental Limited bound from Buffalo to St. Louis, one of the finest trains on the Wabash railroad, struck a defective rail and was ditched near West Lebanon, Ind. The dead:

Mrs. U. G. Good, boarded train at Fort Wayne, Ind., en route to St. Louis, back broken, died almost instantly.

Mrs. Grant, en route to Kansas City, killed instantly.

Pullman porter, name unknown.

Unknown youth about 18 years old.

Eight cars including the baggage car and diner were overturned. The day coaches were crowded and the Pullmans were well filled when the accident occurred. The train was late and Engineer Dukes was doing his best to make up lost time. About two miles west of West Lebanon there is a sharp curve and in taking this at high speed the weight of the train broke the outer rail. There was a grinding crash and every car turned over into the ditch, the engine remaining upright.

Hardly a passenger escaped more or less serious injury, many of them being rendered unconscious and said to be likely to die. Those suffering from minor injuries turned to the task of extricating others from the mass of twisted steel and wood that a few moments before had been the pride of the road.

Distress messages were flashed to Danville, Ill., and a relief train loaded with doctors, nurses and hospital accessories was rushed to the scene of the wreck. First aid was rendered the injured and the hospital train returned to Danville where the injured were taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital.

RATIFY PEACE TREATIES

SENATORS APPROVE TWO ARBITRATION PACTS.

Many Amendments Are Tacked on to Treaties With Great Britain and France.

Washington, D. C.—After tearing [illegible] President Taft's arbitration [illegible] with England and France, the senate ratified them by a vote of 76 to 3. The treaties as they have been left by the senate exempt questions subject to arbitration all disputes over the application of the Monroe doctrine, all differences as to the admission of aliens to the United States or to the public schools, and all matters relating to the territorial integrity of the several states of the United States.

So riddled are the treaties that it is not believed that the president will press their acceptance upon the governments with which they were to be concluded. It had been expected that the treaties would be ratified or stood by a close vote. Such an assault on them as was made by the combined forces of the Democrats and the progressives proved such a surprise that the friends of the administration were powerless to meet it.

After a three day debate a vote was agreed upon. With the vote came the offering of amendments and the fight that resulted amounted practically to a defeat for the cause of universal peace.

Student Strangles to Death.

Collegeville, Pa.—Robert Thompson of Pittsburgh, for four years star tackle on the Ursinus football team, strangled to death while eating dinner in the college dining hall.

Students at the table thought Thompson was joking when they saw him gasp, but when he started to struggle for breath they became frightened and sent for a doctor.

By the time the physician arrived Thompson was unconscious. He soon died.

Renounce Love for Vote.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Instead of hammering in the windows of the Bradock, Pa., shopkeepers the young suffragists of that town have decided to try an anti-love method of securing votes. With this object in view 16 young girls announced that they have formed the bachelor girls' club. The members are under a vow not to accept attentions from men and not to entertain or accept them as escorts until women are granted votes. Each breach of the rules will be followed by fines.

Honor Speaker Champ Clark.

Washington, D. C.—Five thousand friends of Speaker Champ Clark from all parts of the country, senators, representatives, men in both parties gathered to do honor to him on his sixty-second birthday in convention hall here. Nearly all 5,000 hailed him at one time or another during the evening as the next president of the United States. When the speech making was at an end the big audience formed itself into a line and passed along the rostrum to shake hands with Mr. Clark.

IRELAND'S SONG OF HOPE

BY F.H. DE QUINCEY

LAND of the warrior hearts,
Land of the souls of fire,
Thy sad face pale
To the dawn unveil—
From silence-bonds unchain thy lyre;
Above thee slavery's dark cloud parts
And tyrant foes abashed retire!

Land of the strong and brave,
Land of the tried and true,
Thy spreading plains
'Neath the mild spring rains,
Again are smiling, fresh and new,
And singing tides thy fair shores lave—
Thy hopes shall soon be ripened, too!

Free shall thy pure veins flow—
Thy dormant pulses leap
The chiding fear
Shall disappear
From thy wan cheek and humbled step
The [illegible] wrong which low
[illegible], fair brow in sorrow's deep!

Thy [illegible] and [illegible] streams,
[illegible] no more shall dye—
The call to arms,
The strife's alarms,
The [illegible] shrouding earth and sky,
Shall [illegible] no more upon thy dreams,
But [illegible] slumbers seal thine eye!

[illegible] plague no more
Upon thy [illegible] shall feed,
The vampire maws
Of [illegible] laws
Shall choke of their insatiate greed,
And o'er thy rock encircled shore
The seraph Peace all blessings lead!

The gyves upon thy feet—
The thong around thy heart,
Their cankering grasp
Shall soon unclasp
And through the wide Earth's every part,
Resounding notes of triumph sweet
Shall tell the joy that—free thou art!

WORTHY OF HONOR BY ALL

One Need Not Be of Irish Blood to Take Pride in the Work of St. Patrick.

In Strangford Lough, County Down, Ireland, nearly 1,500 years ago, a missionary established a church, from which Christianity gradually radiated through the four provinces until it reached every Irish clan and Ireland became noted as the land of saintship.

Authorities differ as to the birthplace and early history of Saint Patrick, but, after all, what does it matter whether he was Gaul or Briton? His deep piety, great learning and gentle persuasion brought all Ireland under the influence of Christ.

No nation can be permanent without religion. Ireland is the world's great example of what a nation can endure through faith. All these long years of cruel oppression she has been true to the teachings of Saint Patrick and she has clung to the cross.

Who would not join the chorus of solemn praise in honor of the patron saint of Erin?

Ireland's National Emblem.

The harp was officially recognized as Ireland's national emblem in the coinage issued in Ireland by the English sovereigns. It also appeared upon the great seals used in Ireland by Elizabeth and Cromwell. The Elizabethan seal had the harp crowned and for this reason where the harp has been retained as the symbol of Irish revolutionary organizations it appear without the crown and with the strings broken. The idea is forcefully expressed in Moore's lines:

The minstrel fell, but the foeman's chains could not bring his proud soul under;
The harp he loved ne'er spoke again, for he tore its chords asunder;
And said "No chains shall sully thee thou soul of love and bravery
Thy songs were made for the proud and free, they shall never sound in slavery."

St. Patrick's Bell and Crozier.

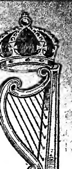
St. Patrick's bell and crozier were preserved at Armagh for many years. They were both removed to Dublin, but the crozier was destroyed by Archbishop Browne in 1538 because of the excessive reverence that was paid to it. The bell is now in the National Museum in Dublin.



Crowned Harp, Badge of Ireland, on the Great Seal of Queen Elizabeth.

TWO LEGENDS OF ST. PATRICK

One That the Sons of the Emerald Isle Shall Be Judged by Him.

THERE is an old legend—no doubt fondly hugged to an Irishman's conscience—that at the last day of judgment the sons of the Emerald Isle shall be judged by St. Patrick alone. And for many centuries there was pointed out on the island of Lough Derg a cave said to be the entrance to St. Patrick's Purgatory—"and it should be to any one who had courage to go into it as if he had passed through purgatory, after death."

Of entirely different nature is the profane legend linking St. Patrick's name with that special delicate privilege permitted the fair sex every leap year.

Shortly after passing the snake exclusion act, St. Patrick met St. Bridget, who brought to him the complaints of certain young ladies in her nunnery because they were debarred the initiative privilege in affairs of the heart—celibacy not then being compulsory unless a special vow had been taken. St. Patrick, duly considering the matter, suggested that the desired privilege should be granted once in seven years.

"Arrah! Pathrick, jewel," cried St. Bridget, "I dauren't go back to the gurls wid such a proposal. Mek it one year in four."

It ended of course in her gaining her woman's way, he gallantly giving her leap year, "the longest one of the lot."

And leap year it must have been, then by lucky chance, for St. Bridget at once made good by popping the question herself. But as St. Patrick had taken the vow of celibacy, he could only offer the consolation prize of a kiss and a silk dress.

St. Patrick Story.

March 17 has been, from the earliest times, celebrated as St. Patrick's day. When I was a boy in Tipperary they used to tell a story to account for the observance of the saint's feast on that particular day. This legend was to the effect that there was once a dispute as to the date of St. Patrick's death. With an ardor similar to that which inspires those who in literary circles today argue for or against the lunacy of Hamlet, two great factions of Irishmen debated as to whether the saint died on the 8th or the 9th of March. Things waxed warm, as they are likely to in disputes, even among such genial people as the Irish, and there was every possibility of either one side or the other (or both) getting what is known in Ireland as the "father and mother of a batin'," when in stepped between the contending parties some peacemaking genius, some Edwin B. Mead of that elder day who said: "Stop ye're noise! Let us add the 9th and to the 8th and call it the 17th." Whereupon peace prevailed and they all lived happily ever after.—Denis A. McCarthy, in the Boston Herald.

Day Held in Honor by All.

The incidents which survive in the recollections of a people and are handed down to their children are those which appeal most strongly to the popular mind and the character of a race may be learned from its legends. About no figure in their national history have the Irish gathered so many legends as around that of their patron saint, Patrick, whose day, the 17th of March, is held in high honor by every son of Erin no matter how far his home may be from the land of his fathers. In America, with its large Irish-American population, the day is as well known as the country's own especial holidays, and many whose forbears never even visited the isle of Saints wear in honor of the ancient apostle a bit of the shamrock, the trefoil which he used as a symbol in teaching the doctrine of the trinity.

His Influence on Many Lands.

Denied the opportunity for development in his own beautiful land, the Celt has embraced it where offered abroad. Though intensely national, he has shown an adaptability to other conditions. In the lands to which he has been driven by bad government at home he has developed powers that at home were unrecognized. His emigration has been providential both for himself and for the country of his adoption. He has made Australia and New Zealand what they are, he has developed Canada and in our country has given elements of strength to our American population—and withal he has not ceased to be a Celt.

Lake County Herald
PAINESVILLE, OHIO
A DEMOCRATIC NEWSPAPER
TELEPHONE NO. 75
PUBLISHED THURSDAY OF EACH WEEK
Entered in the Post office at Painesville, Ohio, as Second-Class Mail Matter.

Advertising Rates
DISPLAY
Per Inch—First Insertion ... 20c
Per Inch—Each Additional Insertion ... 10c
LOCALS
Per Line—First Insertion ... 10c
Per Line—Each Additional Insertion ... 05c
Want Column—Three Lines, three weeks ... 25c

M. L. Harter, R. A. Tuttle } Editors and Proprietors

PITNEY OF NEW JERSEY

President Taft has again demonstrated his remarkable ability for appointing judges who are notorious for their decisions against the people and in favor of the vested interests.

Hardly had the president returned from New York, where he branded the advocates of a judicial recall as "neurotics," when he named for the vacant place on the supreme court bench one of that very type of judges who have created the demand for the recall. As a result of this appointment, Mahlon Pitney of New Jersey, who has time and again written judicial decisions in favor of property rights and against human rights, will sit in the place once occupied by John M. Harlan, the best friend the common people ever had in the supreme court.

Judge Pitney has had an interesting career and he also had an interesting father. His father was a judge before him; and as an indication of the kind of judge he was it will be recalled that in one case, where a little girl was crushed while playing about some building material that had been unlawfully left in the street he ruled that the girl's legal status was exactly the same as a thief's would have been had he been injured in a similar manner. The little girl, of course, was unable to recover damages.

Mahlon Pitney was once a congressman, but he resigned that office in order to accept a state senatorship—an obscure office by comparison with the one he relinquished. The reason for this remarkable change was soon apparent, however, for it quickly became known that Pitney was the spokesman, in the New Jersey senate, of the identical interests that were represented, until recently, by John Kean in the senate at Washington.

After his term in the state senate, Pitney was chosen chancellor of New Jersey, and in that position he quickly won fame as an enemy of labor unions. In the case of the George Jonas Glass company, which obtained an injunction against its striking employes from picketing, Pitney wrote a decision in which he held that it was lawful for the union men "to restrain, either by coercion or persuasion, those who desired to continue in the employment of the glass company." This decision was based on the assumption by Pitney that the relation between the company and the union men was what he called a "service at will."

Judge Mintura of the same bench wrote a dissenting opinion in this case in which he branded the Pitney decision as a "blow at every man's constitutional right of free speech."

Judge Pitney held that the union men could not use persuasion in their efforts to get others to join them. It was unlawful, he held, for one man quietly to talk to another on the street if the subject of their conversation was about the strike. This, he held, would be "annoyance" to the complaining corporation.

Every judge that President Taft has named for the supreme court is known to be an enemy of the unions, with the possible exception of Hughes; and he is a sworn enemy of the income tax.

But if you complain, you are a "neurotic."

THE DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY

We want to say that if the Democratic party in Ohio, after all its professions, now sees fit to refuse a presidential preference primary, so safeguarded as to make its results binding on the delegates, a fair opportunity to do so being offered, that party is damned already, and ought to be. And the candidate who opposes the submission will be defeated in his state and should be defeated. And if he is lucky enough, as is said by some, to have five votes in the state to every one vote against him, and still stands in the way of a primary, he will have the five votes and the one vote reversed in short order.

Two years ago, after the Democratic party had gone on record beyond mistake by instructing the next convention to be chosen by a primary Governor Harmon deliberately refused to obey the command, and defied it. That act alone alienated more Democrats from him than he could afford to lose, but the loss was in part made up by 60,000 disgusted Republicans staying at home.

They are not likely to stay at home this year. If Governor Harmon repeats his performance and prevents the people from expressing a preference as to candidates, even though his own candidacy is involved, he will have killed his chances, in our opinion.

No Democratic candidate in Ohio, and much less the present one, can survive two attempts to choke off a popular vote as to preferences for nominations. To attempt it would be bad politics, even. It would be no politics at all,—just huckstering.

---

Only a few days ago the Roosevelt wing of the grand disorganized party was referring to the Southern delegation as a bunch of crooks. Now an anxious country is advised to await the stampeding of these same delegates to the Roosevelt band-wagon, as being another indication of "the uprising of the people." When this stampede comes a lot of real people will probably be ready to quit.

---

See the Steam Roll-er. How hap-pi-ly Willie Plays with It! But why does The-o-dore Howl and gnash his Teeth in Rage? Because he Used to Own the Steam Roll-er, but Gave It to Willie. Now It makes The-o-dore Angry to see Willie En-joy the Pret-ty Toy, and he Wants It Back.—Philadelphia Record.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

By Tom, Dick and Harry

Why do we go to Cleveland to buy goods instead of patronizing home merchants? There are several reasons. None of which may be valid and none of which may be the best kind of loyalty and good citizenship but they are all mighty satisfying nevertheless.

First of all we go because we think we can buy things cheaper in Cleveland than at home. And as a general proposition we believe our thinking is right. We believe that it costs just as much for a Euclid Ave. merchant to sell a dollars worth of merchandise as it does a Painesville merchant but the Euclid Ave. man has the best of the buying game. In other words the Painesville man pays eighty cents for our dollars worth and the Euclidite pays twenty-five cents for the same thing consequently we get it for ninety-five cents. That's on regular merchandise. On advertised stuff, especially out of season stuff, we can do better because the Cleveland man sacrifices his profit to us in order to get rid of things.

Of course we may get "stung" but Painesville isn't exactly a kindergarten school. We may get cheaper material as well as prices. But we want cheapness or rather we must have cheapness, so why don't someone here cater to our demands?

Then we have a greater assortment to rummage over when we go to Cleveland. We can get what we want and don't have to take what we can get.

We combine a pleasure trip with business. We like to strut across the square and ride on a limited elevator. We like an occasional matinee—and a glass of ginger ale. So we go to Cleveland. We figure that on a twenty dollar purchase we can save enough money to pay the C. P. & E. eighty cents to take us in and back, and have a little left. We can get what we want and we feel as if we had had an outing even though we do always come in after dark and never come all the way down Main street—heavy bundles are best taken home the shortest way.

No, it isn't loyal. It may not be patriotic but that "I don't Care" song of Eva Tanguay's made a hit with us. Two-thirds of the people of this country are only two weeks away from starvation, they say. We belong to the other one-third—we are at least three weeks away from it. That's why you can't talk loyalty to us and expect us to stand still.

Painesville merchants have complained this winter of poor business. It is reported from Cleveland that the hard winter has cleaned retailers there out of winter goods. We're awfully sorry and we'd like to be loyal to Painesville but—don't mention it. They the merchants must show us because we are not taking any chances on joining the two-thirds class. Three weeks is bad enough but two weeks is the real article. We don't know how they can persuade us to buy in Painesville and we don't care. That's up to them.

---

"Something is rotten in the State of Denmark," would have been a good subject for one of Dr. Crowder's sermons of last week. We refer to the one in which he told of the wickedness of Painesville and which was printed in part in the local daily paper. Printed in part for merely the introduction, we take it, was reported, the specific charges of wickedness being left to our imagination as unfortunately we were not present at the meeting and have no knowledge of the discourse other than that obtained from the press.

To judge from the introduction, however, there was more reason than "lack of space" for not printing the sermon in its entirety. What was printed, when shorn of the personality and eloquence of the speaker, would have made a suitable setting for a disclosure of crime rather than sin. It was preparation enough for almost anything and it is but natural to suppose that the rest of the sermon was quite, if not more vivid than the part printed. Dr. Crowder would hardly present an anticlimax to a sermon to which he had given so much thought. We are forced to conclude then that things are pretty bad if not rotten in Painesville.

We are surprised. We have lived here for some little time and had just concluded that this old town is a good place to live in—to raise and educate our family. And now we are told that the town is polluted. Its disconcerting.

Quite a few times we have come in on late trains and been on the streets late at night. Of our own volition we have been on the streets early in the evening and we have never met the "scarlet woman." Never once have we knowingly seen one on the streets of Painesville. And yet they are here in such abundance as to be a menace?

We had a suspicion that there was some "booze" being sold here—there generally is in dry towns as a remedy for snake bites, etc. And yet we cannot recall a single incident that would warrant us in placing the finger of suspicion on a place where intoxicating liquors can be obtained.

We supposed the high school boys were about the usual lot of care-free American boys. Perhaps one or two with a streak of viciousness in his inclinations but for the most part a manly bunch of fellows, indulging in boyish pleasures so soon to be outgrown.

We knew they played pool at the Y. M. C. A. There are about 2000 Y. M. C. A.'s in the United States where they do play pool. They are made up, for the most part, of young men, you know.

We have been buying most of our goods from Painesville merchants, never suspecting that some of them cheated us every time they had the opportunity. Some that belong to church, too.

Such innocence! Such innocence!

---

And now we are to have a chance to give suffrage rights to our "wives and sweethearts." The constitutional delegates didn't have the protection of the secret ballot—not that we wish to intimate that this had anything to do with or explains the vote in the convention on that question but that we wish to remind our fair sisters that we have such a protection. They may or may not be given the right to vote but they never will know what we separately and individually think of them. And what wouldn't they give to know who did or did not give them the vote of confidence.

---

Thinking things over that state of Missouri is some advertiser. She has always had the corn-cob pipe and the mule. She put on a worlds fair voluntarily. Joe Folk butted in and did his share. Everybody says "Show me," or "I'm from Missouri" and now she has the "Dawg Song." She certainly does absorb her share of the calcium.

---

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of coughs, colds and croup. It can be depended upon. Try it. Sold by all dealers.

Believed Doctors Poisoners.

An extraordinary story of popular ignorance is reported from Apricena, a small town to the south of Italy. A tradesman was found to be suffering from gastric enteritis, and his doctor prescribed a mixture containing a proportion of morphia. The tradesman and his wife, however, decided to test the medicine by giving some of it to the cat. Of course, the mixture, while innocuous to an adult male, was fatal to the cat, and the report was at once spread that all the doctors in consequence of the increase in the population of Italy, had received orders from the government to introduce poisons into their prescriptions, in order that the poorer people might be got rid of. It was only with difficulty that the townspeople were calmed and, in spite of all the official explanations, it seems evident that the doctors will be avoided by the poorer classes for some time to come.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Attractive Homeseekers Rates Via Nickel Plate Road.

To points in the West, Northwest and Southwest. Tickets good going on February 6th and 20th and March 5th and 19th. Liberal return limit and stop-over privileges. Get full information of local agent or write J. C. Melenbacker, D. P. A., Erie, Pa.

COLD STORAGE AS RESERVOIR

Idea of the Large Field Occupied by Business Shown in Commodities Stored.

A somewhat intelligent idea of the large field occupied by the cold storage business can be gained from the following commodities stored in a Boston warehouse: Poultry, oysters, apples, berries, dates, evaporated apples, spinach, lettuce, squash, butter, flour, peanuts, bulbs, fruit juices, apple waste, preserves, maple sirup, skins, leeks, crabs, buckwheat, hams, sauerkraut, caviare, pickled fish, holly, pineapples, string beans, sponges, pickled meats, game, fresh meats, California fruits, prunes, citron, confectionery, potatoes, turnips, parsnips, cheese, cereals, beer, condensed milk, yarn, cider, salad dressing, maple sugar, furs, shrimp, lobsters, chestnuts, hops, sausage, casings, cherries, dried fish, smilax leaves, radishes, sweetbreads, candied fruits, smoked meats, fresh fish, oranges, cranberries, raisins, apricots, currants, beans, carrots, onions, horseradish, eggs, rice, ferns, canned goods, gutta percha, pickles, oleomargarine, oils, parsley, scallions, honey, cream, lard, anchovies, smoked fish, egg plant, laurel leaves, rhubarb, olive oil, wines, dried meats, fish for bait, lemons, grapes, figs, evaporated peaches, nuts, peas, cabbage, melons, provisions, macaroni, plants, sirups, asparagus, jellies, cauliflower, grape fruit, woolens, shallots, clams, bananas, mushrooms, olives and herbs.

BIG MOUNTAIN OF MONEY

Philadelphia Sporting Men Couldn't Sleep With His Roll Under the Pillow.

Mrs. "Gus" Ruhlin, the eloquent and energetic convert to the suffragist cause, said in a recent address in Brooklyn:

"The sporting man, too, would be better off if his wife had a vote—if she had more say in affairs of state, and in home affairs as well.

"What wife, if she had more say, would approve of the senseless way the sporting man flaunts his money? What is the good of carrying a roll of twenties as big as a horse collar? Nobody but the sporting man dreams of doing such a thing, but he—"

Mrs. Ruhlin made a hopeless gesture. Then she went on:

"There's a Philadelphia sporting man who is famous for the roll he always carries. My husband said to him one night:

"'I suppose, in strange hotels, you always put your roll under your pillow, eh?'

"'No; oh, no,' said the Philadelphian. 'I couldn't sleep with my head so high.'"

Bees in Traveler's Pocket.

L. F. Crathorne of Kanopolis, Kan., is the first man in several moons to come through the depot carrying a whole hive of real live bees. In addition to the several hundred bees in a portable hive Mr. Crathorne carried an extra queen bee in his pocket, enclosed in a small contrivance of wire and wood that also contained a piece of candy and two ordinary working bees. The working bees were there to feed the candy to the queen. Queen bees won't feed themselves, Mr. Crathorne said. The only things they do are lay eggs, lead revolutions and get killed.

Mr. Crathorne said he had no difficulty handling bees without gloves or netting and that the small swelling under his right eye represented the only sting he received last night after sorting out three hives at twilight, the time when bees are most irritable.—Kansas City Star.

Education Outside of Books.

"Actual travel, and the seeing of rare objects in nature and art, are gradually taking the place of book study," declares a prominent official of the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art, in pointing out the important part which that institution plays in the school life of the community. The Brooklyn Institute bulletins tell the same story. In fact, there is not today a museum of any importance, either of art or of science, in all the country, that is not offering inducements to teachers to make use of its collections. The teachers are not slow in taking the opportunity, and the galleries become a place of recreation and painless instruction for the children. It is the tendency of the age, in all directions.

Boy Fought an Eagle.

Elmer Peterson, fifteen years old, and living four miles west of Little Falls, Minn., had a hard battle with a large eagle and was saved from serious injury only by the timely arrival of a brother.

The boy had shot the bird, which was in a tree. The eagle fell to the ground and immediately went at the boy with its talons. The bird's claws became fastened in the boy's clothing and the lad was unable to free himself. Elmer was badly frightened and his strength was giving out when his brother arrived and killed the eagle with a club.

The bird measured five feet across the wings.

Nothing to Do With the Case.

"I suppose you can give references," said the woman.

"I can. Everybody I ever worked for says I sure know how to cook."

"But as to your character?"

"I never let my character interfere with my cooking, mum, so I don't see as that's any concern of yours."

---

Many sufferers from rheumatism have been surprised and delighted with the prompt relief afforded by applying Chamberlain's Liniment. Not one case of rheumatism in ten requires any internal treatment whatever. This liniment is for sale by all dealers.

The Two Classes.

The man who is looking for trouble is a source of endless wonderment to the man who can't get away from it.

FOUND GOLD IN CALIFORNIA

Pennsylvania Man Was First to Discover Yellow Metal in Golden Gate State.

"It is not generally known," said a mineralogist, "that the discoverer of gold in California was a Pennsylvanian and at one time a resident of California. This distinguished pioneer lies buried in the soil of this state, almost forgotten. He was Gen. John A. Sutter, a Swiss, who emigrated to Philadelphia in 1834 and became a citizen of this commonwealth. His grave is in the Mennonite burying grounds at Lititz, Lancaster county, in which village he spent the last years of his life. General Sutter was born in 1803 in Baden, Germany, near the borders of Switzerland. Upon his arrival in this country he spent some time in this city, subsequently removing to the vicinity of Lititz, where, in the midst of relatives, he engaged in farming. Possessed of a roving nature, however, it was not long before he yearned to explore the great unknown land beyond the Rockies. After many privations he reached California some time in the early '40s and staked a claim. It was in the fall of '48, after a heavy rain, that, attracted by yellowish deposits in a small stream, he made his great discovery of the precious metal. The news of his find spread rapidly, and the following spring the great rush from the east began. General Sutter amassed a considerable fortune through his gold diggings, but lost most of it through unfortunate speculations. He returned to Pennsylvania in 1871 and spent his declining years in retirement, living on the pension of $250 a month voted him by the California legislature. He died June 18, 1880. Two of his pallbearers were Gens. John C. Fremont and Ambrose E. Burnside, who had been his friends in California.—Philadelphia Press.

AVIATORS ARE POORLY PAID

Even Best Flyers Get Small Remuneration for the Dangers They Face.

The popular supposition that aviation is a sort of Klondike where people who have a certain amount of daring can go and snatch up a fortune is decidedly mistaken. People read reports of big prizes won by aviators in contests and take for granted that it all goes to the flyers. That is wrong, with a few exceptions the flyers do not get the prizes they win. They are employed to fly by big concerns who pay them a salary, seldom exceeding $75 per week, the usual arrangement being from $25 to $40 per week salary and $50 per day when they fly at meets. This is true even where the very best American and foreign flyers are concerned, including such celebrities as Brookins, Beachey, Ely and others.

Nor is the lot of the independent flyer any better. To keep up with the flyers of big concerns continuous improvement of their machines—which must, of course, always be of the very best—is necessary. What with the cost of the aeroplane, of running it, keeping it in good condition, salary of mechanic and general expenses, the prizes the aviator gets become rather small by the time the expenses are deducted. The fact that prizes are now given only to winners of contests makes the prospect none too attractive. Aviation does hold prizes for ambitious young men, but very few of the kind imagined by the outside public. In fact, there is a slough of despond awaiting the unwary who venture into aviation with no other intention than to make money quickly.—Metropolitan Magazine.

Ancient and Modern Sailors.

In a group around a motion picture signboard near the Tribune building were two "jackies" from the fleet in the Hudson, who were about to move on when an old man took the arm of one and delivered a short talk which diverted attention from the lithographs and from the vendors. "I'm an old sailor," he said. "I was in the service before you were born. I was on a Mississippi gunboat, twice around the Horn on a sailer, down to Good Hope on another from Liverpool and to Australia from 'Frisco. Never on a steamer except the gunboat. We were sailors though," with the emphasis on the "sailors." "You boys are day laborers." "Guess that is right, pop," said one of the men, "but we're the kind they want now," and they linked arms and walked away, leaving the old man to tell how they "couldn't tie a knot" and do many things which came in the sailor's line "in the old times."—New York Tribune.

Marriage at Fifty.

An interesting and unusual estimate of the proper age for matrimony is that advanced by Mrs. Vivian, head and founder of the National Society of the Daughters of California. The happiest and most successful marriages, she says, are those between the man of 50 and the woman of 35. At that age of discretion, she claims, the male has become more mellow and tolerant as well as more solvent. On the other hand she intimates that a girl of 20 is much harder to get along with than to get along without, and that there ought to be laws prohibiting people marrying before they are 30 years old.—Success Magazine.

No Doubt About That.

"Come along downtown with me, Mabel."

"But I have no money with me."

"What's the difference? Two can shop as cheaply as one."

---

VERY LOW ONE WAY COLONIST RATES VIA NICKEL PLATE ROAD to points in the West, Northwest and Southwest. Tickets good going March 1 to April 15, inclusive. Ask Agent or write J. C. Melenbacker, D. P. A., Erie, Pa. No. 2

Not Always Lasting.

To marry one's ideal would be fine if we could only be assured of not waking up.

FEET CAUSE OF NERVOUSNESS

Ill-Fitting and Badly Made Shoes Are Responsible for Many Troubles.

Nervous troubles frequently come from ill-fitting and badly made shoes, in the opinion of Dr. Irvin O. Allen. He thinks them accountable for much matrimonial haggling and discord.

It is a mistake, he says, to teach the child—as is commonly done—to toe out. In the beginning the boy or the girl, in obedience to an unerring instinct, points the foot straight ahead, which is the proper way for walking. All shoeless peoples walk with parallel feet—Indians, for example.

Dr. Allen explains that the sole of the shoe should be the shape of the foot. To determine the shape, one must stand barefoot on the ball and toes upon a sheet of paper, allowing the great toe to assume its normal position—separated somewhat from the other toes. Make a mark around the toes with a pencil and then let the heel come down to the paper. Now place the weight of the body upon the outer side of the foot and complete the outline in that position.

A shoe made with a sole of this shape, and with a reasonably high vamp, will certainly be comfortable and will insure a healthy foot, incidentally doing away with "shoe nervousness." If worn in winter, however, it should have no metal nails in it. The feet are not easily kept warm during cold weather in shoes with metal nails, because they tend to conduct the heat out of the body.

QUEER NAMES FOR HORSES

John-Willie-Come-On and Would-You-Believe-It Samples of Equine Nomenclature.

How much truth there is in the story I know not, but it is told that when Captain Boyd told Lady Lillian that he had bought a yearling she replied, "What a senseless thing to do."

"Senseless! Good," reiterated the captain, and forthwith gave the colt that name. It was appropriate, for this good-looking gray horse, which now belongs to Major McLaughlin, is by "Grey Leg," and out of a mare called "Senses."

There are some owners who have considerable difficulty in naming their race-horses, and it is said of the late Earl of Glasgow that his friends had quite a task to get him to christen them. The testy Earl used to say that a horse should prove itself worth a name before one was given to it.

One evening he was induced to christen three, and the following were the names under which they ran: "Give-Him-a-Name," "He-Hasn't-Got-a-Name," "He-Isn't-Worth-a-Name."

There are not a few horses which have run in recent years with equally foolish and much more meaningless nomenclature. For instance, "John-Willie-Come-On" and "Would-You-Believe-It." There ought to be a censor of racing nomenclature, for some of the titles chosen for horses detract from the dignity of the sport.—Gentlewoman.

Seeing the Bright Side.

There are compensations for living in New Jersey, even where the mosquitoes hang like clouds over the residents. At least, this is the mental attitude of a six-year-old boy, whose home is in Montclair. His brother of nine was born in New York city, but he was a Montclair baby. One day he was being teased about being a "Jersey country bumpkin."

The youngster's eyes were flooded with tears for a moment and then his face brightened and he smiled.

"I like New Jersey better," said he, proudly.

"Why?" queried the teaser.

"Because I can have turtles as pets in New Jersey? If I lived in New York they would be taken away from me."

The teaser soon learned that it was against the New York law to keep turtles in captivity, but in New Jersey it was not. The boy was very fond of his turtles, of which he had three, and they were his consolation for being a "Jersey country bumpkin."

Blind Inference.

Doctor—"Thomas, did Mrs. Popjoy get the medicine I ordered yesterday?" Thomas—"I b'lieve so, sir, I see all the blinds down this morning."

The Rank Majority.

It is stated on reliable authority that there are more than a million and a half different brands of cigars. Yet there are only two kinds of cigars made, good and bad—mostly the latter.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed bids will be received at the office of the Board of Park Commissioners of Painesville Township at .................. Painesville, Ohio, until noon on April 4, 1912, for constructing a Timber Retaining Wall at Painesville Park at the north end of Hardy Road on the lake shore.

Plans and specifications are on file and blank proposals may be obtained at the office of the Board or from Stinchcomb and Boddy, Engineers, 827 B. of L. E. Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

Proposals must be made on blanks furnished by the Board and each bid must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of Fifty ($50.00) Dollars, payable to the Board of Park Commissioners of Painesville Tp. as a surety that if the proposal be accepted a contract will be entered into.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

The Board of Park Commissioners,
By R. S. BELKNAP, Sec'y.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed bids will be received at the office of the Board of Park Commissioners of Painesville Township at .................. Painesville, Ohio, until noon on April 4, 1912, for constructing a Bath House and Pavilion at Painesville Park at the north end of Hardy Road on the lake shore.

Plans and specifications are on file and blank proposals may be obtained at the office of the Board or from Stinchcomb and Boddy, Engineers, 827 B. of L. E. Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

Proposals must be made on blanks furnished by the Board and each bid must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars, payable to the Board of Park Commissioners of Painesville Tp. as a surety that if the proposal be accepted a contract will be entered into.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

The Board of Park Commissioners,
By R. S. BELKNAP, Sec'y.

---

Insurance Of all kinds

FIRE, LIFE, AUTOMOBILE, AND LIABILITY INSURANCE

Twenty-five of the strongest and safest companies represented and all losses promptly paid.

E. D. BARBER
The Insurance Man.

---

FIRE INSURANCE
REAL ESTATE
ABSTRACTS
AND LOANS
A. M. WARN
P. O. BLOCK

---

HAVE YOUR STATIONERY EMBOSSED
Initials, Crests, Monograms,
Engraved to Your Order,
Stamped in Gold or Color, also Illuminating.
The Educational Supply Co., - Painesville
128 South State Street.

---

DR. E. L. NORTON and DR. H. D. RAND
DENTISTS
Nitrous Oxide Administered
Office hours: 8 to 12 a.m., 1 to 5 p.m.
Telephone, Main 424.
Cor. Main and St. Clair, Painesville

---

MARTIN A. TUTTLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Painesville, Ohio,
Postoffice Block.

---

H. T. NOLAN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Pioneer Trust Bldg. Painesville, O.

---

MORLEY & WARREN,
GRANITE AND MARBLE WORKS
Painesville, Ohio
The Best Stock and First-class Work
Cor. State and Washington Streets

---

BURGESS GRANITE WORKS,
Cor. State and Erie Streets.
We give Eagle Stamps.

We are the only dealers in Lake, Geauga, Trumbull and Portage counties authorized to sell the celebrated White Bronze monuments with the greatly improved finish.

---

Johnson
Custom Tailor
125 N. State St.
WE DO SANITARY STEAM CLEANING AND PRESSING.

---

SEND $2.00
For a Gallon of this
Good Whiskey
Equal to $3.50 grade. $5 Whiskey at $3 per gallon.
Duffy Malt Whiskey Per Bottle ... 89c
Guckenheimer or Golden Wedding Rye
$2.69 Per Gallon
2 Gallons $5.00
All high grade, guaranteed liquor at reduced prices. Sent in plain packages to any address.
A. Cohn, Wholesale Liquor Store 5819 ST. CLAIR, 4 doors East of 55th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

---

If You have failed to acquaint Yourselves with the superiority of our Engravings and Electrotypes, for the many and varied purposes for which they are used, You have committed an unusual Business Indiscretion.

Eclipse Electrotype & Engraving Co.
Cleveland
(6)

---

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
[illegible]
Scientific American.
[illegible] New York

---

NEW FIRM

THE PAINESVILLE
COAL FEED & SUPPLY CO.
Successors to Cole Coal Co.

are doing business still at the same old stand that has for so many years been a feed store and coal yard.

The patrons of the Cole Coal Co. will find everything pertaining to the business methods about the same as usual as all the old employees will be retained.

Fair, Square Dealing is the foremost of our principles and that we intend to carry through our entire business.

We solicit a share of your patronage and would thank you for a call if only to get acquainted.

---

Where Cleanliness Reigns
Quality Groceries Await You Here
Our Prices Please and Are Worth Watching
Adapted to the saving pocket book
There's a reason for our growth
THESE WILL PLEASE
Elliott & Ruhling

---

French Dry Cleaning

Eliminates the soil from the finest and most delicate garments without loss of color or shrinkage and

Cleans Your Garments Clean

We French Dry Clean in a superior manner. Prompt service and prices the lowest consistent with first class work.

Painesville Dry Cleaning Co.
CHAS. FINK, Mgr.
Phone 219 R 109 South St. Clair St.
PAINESVILLE, O.
Work Called for and Delivered.

---

Mentor Wall Paper Store
NEW STOCK ON HAND
Besides a Large Assortment in Books which I would be pleased to show you
R. M. CASE

---

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION

The Lake County board of examiners will offer examinations for teachers' certificates on the first Saturday of each month in the year 1911. If first Saturday falls on holiday, examinations will be held one week later. Boxwell pupils will be examined the third Saturday in April and the third Saturday in May, 1911. All examinations will be held in the old High School building, Painesville, beginning at 8:15 standard time.

By order of the board,
J. R. ADAMS, Clerk,
Unionville, Ohio.

---

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad
FLORIDA
Special round trip, via Washington and rail, or via Baltimore and boat. Stop over anywhere. Limit June 1st.
CALIFORNIA, OREGON, WASHINGTON
Colonist one way reduced fares. Beginning March 1st.
See Ticket Agent or write M. G. Carrel, D. P. A., 341 Euclid Ave., Cleveland, O.

---

The Eureka
POOL PARLORS and SMOKE HOUSE
SOFT DRINKS, CANDIES and a Full Line of CIGARETTES
ELECTRIC PIANO for the amusement of all patrons
J. H. MATHEWS, Prop.
119 So. State St., Painesville, O.

---

DR. BULL'S Cough Syrup

The child feverish with a cold, running nose, tight or loose cough with wheezing or rattling of phlegm as it breathes, (mothers put your ear to child's back or chest and listen) should have DR. BULL'S COUGH SYRUP. Has No Morphine or Chloroform in it. It's the only right medicine to give. 25c.

"My four children had bad colds and coughs. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup cured them." Mrs. E. vom Lehn, 670 E. 39th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

SAMPLE SENT FREE
Write for it today. Mention this paper. Address A. C. MEYER & CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

---

HAVE YOUR FIRE INSURANCE WRITTEN AT HOME
We represent one of the Largest and Best Companies
The National Fire Insurance Co. of Hartford
R. M. CASE & CO.

---

OUR SPECIAL OFFER

THE HERALD AND
La Follette's Weekly Magazine
BOTH A FULL YEAR FOR ONLY
$1.25

You can read every week what Senator Robert M. La Follette, the fearless champion of the people's rights, the leader of the progressive Republicans, thinks and says for

ONLY 25 CENTS MORE
Than the Price of The Herald Alone

A stirring and momentous campaign is opening. You will want to be posted. You will want the record of your congressman. Does he represent YOU? You will want information about the great political issues you and your friends are talking about. Senator La Follette knows what is going on at Washington. He is on the ground; behind the scenes. He tells you all about it in LA FOLLETTE'S WEEKLY MAGAZINE.

Sixteen pages of crisp editorials and interesting special articles each week.

La Follette's 1 yr. $1.00 | OUR OFFER
Herald . . 1 yr. $1.00 | $1.25

ADDRESS
The Lake County Herald, Painesville, Ohio

---

TRUBY COAL CO.
COAL and COKE
LIME, CEMENT, SEWER PIPE, TILE, ETC.
BOTH PHONES 21

---

MENTOR.

The weather still continues miserably cold, raw and disagreeable. Our people are still walking the street car track, not so much on account of ice as for the mud and ice together, making a mixture that is worse than either alone, and almost as slippery. The fall of new snow that came upon us on Friday and Saturday has nearly all melted off, but the old frozen snow banks are just as high as ever, and just as loth to yield to shovels.

Quite a number of new birds have put in an appearance this past week, some of whom are busy about selecting building sites and material, but most of them stand 'round on one foot and say "things" probably about the weather, wishing they had not come home by the almanac but had remained where it was warm and "comfy."

The boxes of grape fruit and oranges that have come up from Florida sent by Mr. Samuel Whiting and N. W. Morley, have been the finest fruit seen here for a long time. Most of the oranges received by our local grocers are green wretched things, known down there as "June bloom" and not considered fit to eat at all! Yet they are shipped up here, being considered good enough for "westorners," as all of the best of everything goes to the New York and Boston markets.

The ladies of the Disciple society held a most pleasant "Missionary Tea" on Tuesday last at the pleasant new home of Mrs. Charles W. Sandberg. There was a good program well carried out by the members of the Missionary Society (some sixteen in all) and most excellent refreshments were served by the hostess at the end of the delightful afternoon. Among the guests present were, Miss Eleanor King, Mrs. Arthur Hart, Mrs. Perkins, Miss Sarah Armstrong, Mrs. N. C. Frost, Mrs. Mark Sandberg, Mrs. Henry Sandberg, Mrs. Frank Sandberg and Miss Nettie King.

Mrs. A. D. Carleton went down to Washington C. H. on Tuesday, as a delegate from this county, to the state W. C. T. U. that held its annual meeting there on Wednesday last.

Miss May Pierce has decided to open a millinery store in the Parkhurst block, and no doubt will soon have an "opening" where some "fetching" new hats will be shown. Miss May has been in Painesville with Mrs. Isham-Walker, where she has learned her "hat secrets," and we wish to bespeak for her a liberal patronage, and the good will of our small village.

Mr. W. P. Murray lost a very valuable horse one day last week, we are told in confidence that it cost the neat sum of three thousand dollars, and can well believe it, as it was a pure Kentucky bred.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Munson have returned to their Detroit home, and Mrs. Munson will soon follow to remain several weeks, until it is decided where the two families will make their home in the future. All of the many friends are protesting against their leaving Mentor.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Sabcock, of Cleveland, a nine pound daughter, Tuesday, March 12. Mrs. Sabcock was formerly Miss Ruth Parker of this place.

Mrs. Dr. Moore of Willoughby and little daughter, Margaret, spent Thursday here at "Lacwood" the home of her father, Mr. E. E. Cadle and family.

The death of Mr. Ambrose Cole has cast a gloom over this village, where he had so many friends. The official board of the Methodist church almost without exception attended the funeral services at his late residence yesterday afternoon, the few exceptions having been caused by illness here. Mr. Cole has been a prominent member of the Plains church for many years, and no one can ever take his place.

Miss Virginia Sawyer is at home for a few days from her school in Nottingham, where she is a student in the Catholic school, called by the pleasant name of "Angela Villa."

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Marbell are about to move onto the Sherman farm on Waite Hill, and will occupy the house recently vacated by Herbert Stokes and family.

T. D. Morley has recently sold one of his rented houses on Center street to a Kirtland man by the name of Morris, and also some vacant property on the same street, which is fast being built up.

Mrs. Snell has resigned her position with the Knitting Works people, and together with her daughter is about to move to Kent, Ohio.

The work of painting and repairing on the John Newell homestead, West Mentor, has begun, and at least one of the family always looks forward to coming home with the greatest joy. This is the youngest son, who, with his parents was in Europe not long ago, and when the guide was pointing out some wonderful piece of architecture, this homesick little boy, interrupted with the scornful question "Say! did you ever see the depot in Mentor? No! I guess you never did! Well, that's something great!"

Mrs. Clark Bradway has been in Cleveland this past week, helping her daughter, Mrs. Walcoma Hardendorf to move into their own new home, just purchased on the east side, her daughter having a badly sprained ankle on hand for the moving time.

That long line of Lombary Poplars on the western boundary between Mentor and Lane, that has been such a feature for a number of years, has at last succumbed to the high winds of the past few months, many of them fall down with broken backs, the rest are being cut into stove wood and no one is a bit sorry. While the Poplar may be a quick grower, it is such a nuisance in every other way that our people are getting rid of them as fast as possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Dye are enjoying a visit at date from their only daughter Mrs. Moffet, of Cleveland, whose husband is a son of the Disciple preacher of that name, so well known through all northern Ohio.

The wedding of Miss Hazel Hart has been set for three o'clock on Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. Charles Johnson at the Center, the groom being Mr. Stanley Kelly, a grandson of Mr. Daniel Hopkins, one of the fine old gentlemen of this township. This wedding is to be quite a large one, as there are hosts of relatives on both sides, the wedding march will be played by Miss Frances Cleveland, and the knot tied by Rev. John Keck of Cleveland, the much beloved pastor for so long in Mentor.

Speaking of pastors the new one, Mr. Schauffner, is being received very well indeed. He does not read his sermons, he looks one right in the face; shows no disposition to "boss things" (something that is very obnoxious to Mentor folks) seems to be desperately in earnest, not afraid to work, not "stuck on himself," etc. etc.! Now if he will only not pray too long, nor preach until everybody is half-starved, or do some others of the few "tabooed" things, he will get on splendidly with our people, and stay right here and grow up with the country!

Some of the Mentor folks are speaking their minds about the new "franchise" about to be granted the C. P. & E. Co. by the Painesville folks, are recalling how unsatisfactory it was here, when right of way was given, and almost nothing received in return, not even a small "shelter house" at either end of the village, and a charge of ten cents made for riding three miles and a half, over to Willoughby.

Dr. Silas Sawyer of Cleveland, one of the tuberculosis specialists was down a short time last week, with his brothers, Messrs. Ed and Will Sawyer and their families.

Dame Rumor is declaring that Mrs. Julia Whiting Church is expected to return home before many days, not having derived as much benefit from her sojourn in Florida as was hoped, but that she is coming thus early in order that her daughter shall be here for the beginning of next term's school.

Mrs. Clifford Freeman of the city, was down at the home of her father, Mr. Clark Bradway, a portion of last week.

It is not decided just when Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hanson will remove to Winnipeg, but not before warmer weather comes to the frozen up people in Canada, that is certain. In the meantime, Mr. Hanson will be with his friends here and in Hudson for a few weeks, it is hoped.

News came late last week of the death of Mr. Henry Moore, from cancer, at his beautiful home in Los Angeles, Calif., burial being in that city. The news was expected by his nieces the Misses King, and other relatives in the county, and although he had not suffered at all (which was considered very strange, with that disease), he longed so to "go home" that his family felt it would be a sin to hold him back, even if they could. Mr. Moore was one of the loveliest men in all the world, one who could be illy spared from any community, a Christian gentleman of the finest type known.

Miss Richmond's Sunday school class, the "Good Will Class" as they call themselves, had a social last week and took in some eleven good dollars which is to keep the school supplied with flowers to use in case of any sickness or death in the school this one class having taken that upon themselves, together with a number of other things.

There is a regular epidemic of chickenpox, the cases being among the school children so far, but each one is very violent and stubborn not yielding to the regular remedies.

The Ladies Aid Society are to hold their annual meeting at the church on Wednesday afternoon, the 27th, when there will be the usual election of officers.

Mr. and Mrs. Olhausen of Willoughby and little son, were guests of Mrs. Bitch on Sunday, while their parents are sojourning in Florida. (We refer to Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Dickey, who are now at St. Petersburgh).

The King place called "Hedged In" and recently bought by Mr. Charles Dow, a railroad man, is undergoing some repairs, which are in the hands of Charles Pierce and William Eddy, and work has already begun.

The Miscellany Club met in the pleasant apartments of Mrs. Robert Case on Wednesday last, and had a delightful meeting. Excellent papers were read by Mrs. Ben Warren on "The Peon of Mexico," while "The Arts and Crafts of Mexico" was well handled by Mrs. Ed Sawyer, and a most thorough "quiz" was given the members by Mrs. Charles Justus, who took up the "Duties of Congress," and who asked all manner of the most dreadful questions, (all of which she could answer, herself). After the regular program for the day was finished, Mrs. Case served tea and delicious little cakes.

---

You judge a man not by what he promises to do, but by what he has done. That is the only true test. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judged by this standard has no superior. People everywhere speak of it in the highest terms of praise. For sale by all dealers.

---

You can say goodbye to constipation with a clear conscience if you use Chamberlain's Tablets. Many have been permanently cured by their use. For sale by all dealers.

---

Children are much more likely to contract the contagious diseases when they have colds. Whooping cough, diphtheria, scarlet fever and consumption are diseases that are often contracted when the child has a cold. That is why all medical authorities say beware of colds. For the quick cure of colds you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It can always be depended upon and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all dealers.

BUILDING UP A NEW WORD

Science Responsible for More Built-Up Words Than Classic English Ever Dreamed Of.

"Esophagoscopy" is one of the newest words which the scientist of necessity has coined. As science has progressed in its many lines, it has been responsible for more "built-up" terms than classic English could have dreamed of.

Take this new word, "esophagoscopy." It is a combination of the noun "esophagus," meaning the channel through which the food from the mouth reaches the stomach, while the last two syllables are made of "scope"—as used in telescope, microscope, spectroscope. Thus the combination suggests a way and means for allowing the surgeon to look down the esophagus in search of foreign obstructions or of injuries to the organ.

One of the leading physicians of St. Paul has been gathering statistics showing the enormous number and variety of foreign substances that are swallowed by persons of all ages and which often result fatally. He says that in almost any case of the kind a pin, needle, button, bone and even teeth plates are swallowed and in the beginning may be little more than an unpleasantness. Here is the opportunity for using the esophagoscope. Before the sharp substance has a chance to perforate the esophagus the combined mirror and electric light may be inserted, the object seen and removed without harm. If the obstruction be left, however, it starts irritation, becomes a festering wound which almost invariably will cause death.

BOY WILL MAKE DIPLOMAT

Clever Ruse by Which Youth Gets Rid of an Unwelcome Guest.

Paul McGregor loves to have his mother tell him stories. Also he likes to have his young friends come and share the stories. Sometimes it happens that a boy who is persona non grata with Paul will drop in for a sit-in and then the host grows restive. The stories, he stoutly tells his mother, are for him and his friends only. The presence of others spoils the recital.

It was on a recent evening, in the midst of a fairy tale, that a kid for whom Paul entertains no friendship, dropped in with the others, and immediately Paul sniffed. Then he spoke up, interrupting the tale, saying, "Billy Wilke ain't got no sore on his hand."

"Yes, he has, too," rejoined the unwelcome boy. "I seen him only today."

"Don't care," said Paul, stolidly. "Billy Wilke ain't got no sore on his hand."

Again the other boy denied it, but Paul kept right on reasserting the statement.

"I'll just go and see," finally said the other boy. "I seen him today and I'm just going to prove Billy Wilke has a sore on his hand."

After he had gone, Paul, turning to his astonished mother, said, "I knew I'd get him to go. Please go on with the story, mother."

Some day Paul McGregor may sit in the seat of the mighty if diplomacy is a factor in the game.—Cleveland Leader.

Strict Law as to Autos.

According to Danish laws, automobiles are forbidden to pass trolley cars at a rate faster than one mile an hour.

Natural Law Applied.

"Seedless lemons are developed by grafting." So are the kind sometimes handed to officeholders.—Cleveland Leader.

THE MARKETS.

Buyers are Paying for

| | |
|---|---|
| Wheat | 1.02 |
| Rye | 60 |
| Corn | 72 |
| Oats | 56 |
| Baled hay per ton | $20 $22 |
| Baled straw per ton | $11 $13 |
| Butter, No. 1 dairy | 28 |
| Eggs | 18 |
| Lard (home rendered) | 12 |
| Pork, dressed | 08 |
| Chickens | 10 |
| Veal | 13 |
| Beef, dressed | 9½-10 |
| Tallow, per pound | 05 |
| Potatoes | 1.00 |
| Honey | 18-19 |
| Maple syrup, per gal. | 80-$1 00 |

Retail Price for

| | |
|---|---|
| Flour, Royal Patent, per sk | 1.60 |
| Flour, Golden Eagle, per sk. | 1.40 |
| Flour, Elevator, per sk | 1.38 |
| Flour, rye, per sk | 1.50 |
| Graham Flour, per lb | 3½ |
| Corn | .77 |
| Oats | .62 |
| Corn Meal | 1.80 |
| Chop feed, straight corn and oats | 1.60 |
| Midlings | 1.65 |
| Bran | 1.55 |
| Baled straw, cwt | .75 |
| Butter, creamery | .35 |
| Butter, dairy | .32 |
| Eggs, per dozen | .24 |
| Potatoes, per bu | 1.20 |
| Potatoes, per pk | .30 |

---

A. W. SCHEURMAN
WICKLIFFE, O.
FRENCH DRY CLEANING
DYEING AND PRESSING
All work guaranteed. Will call anywhere. And give you 3-day service.
WATCH FOR THE RED WAGON

---

If you want a FLOUR that will satisfy in any kind of baking try our WHITE BEAUTY.

We have sold this brand for over fifteen years and we know it will please you.

W. M. WERNER
DRUGS, GROCERIES, CROCKERY, HOUSEFURNISHINGS

---

NEW GOODS AND NEW FIXTURES
WE AIM TO CARRY THE VERY BEST IN
Staple and Fancy Groceries
WITH A STOCK OF
Cigars and Tobacco
In keeping with all other lines. We shall appreciate your trade and will endeavor to please.
BURR & RUST
CORNER STATE AND MAIN

---

Painesville's Leading Planing Mill.
DRESSED LUMBER IS LIKE A DEAD DOG.
The bark is all off. You'll find no bark to our lumber, although we do a good deal of barking about it. We have the stock, and feel justified in barking. When you want the best lumber, bark up this tree, and you'll find it.
S. L. MALIN & SON
"Focus on Lumber."
Phone 157

---

A. D. McLEAN
FIRE INSURANCE, REAL ESTATE
SINGER SEWING MACHINES
All makes of machines cleaned and repaired.
135 S. State St. Painesville, Ohio

---

A REMEDY FOR EVERY ILL IN THE NYAL REMEDIES
—at—
PARK'S PHARMACY
"The Nyal Store"

---

Painesville's Leading Drug Store.
Registered Pharmacists in attendance at all times.
The Corner Pharmacy
J. G. DAVET, Proprietor.

---

FIRE, LIFE, ACCIDENT, HEALTH
—AND—
PLATE GLASS INSURANCE
FRANK L. KERR

---

A. A. CALLENDER
—ALL KINDS OF—
Light and Heavy Draying
FURNITURE AND PIANO MOVING A SPECIALTY.
Home Phone—Main 291

AMUNDSEN, THE NORWEGIAN, TELLS OF SUCCESSFUL TRIP TO SOUTH POLE

Recites Most Thrilling Narrative of His Struggle to Reach Cherished Goal.

NOTED ANTARCTIC EXPLORER'S OWN STORY

Describes New Lands He Found, Tremendous Obstacles Surmounted and Sufferings Endured in Quest That Was at Last Triumphant.

SOME SOUTH POLE FACTS

The South Pole is situated on an Antarctic continent larger than the United States and with an area of 5,000,000 miles.

The pole is on a tableland about 10,000 feet above sea level.

The great ice barrier is a glacier, 70 miles wide and hundreds of miles broad in places; it varies from 100 to 300 feet in height.

The breaking off of portions of this ice barrier each summer produces the greatest crop of icebergs in the world.

Mount Erebus belches steam and lava within the circle of eternal ice.

It is probable that the South Pole itself is buried under ice 5,000 feet thick.

Scientists claim that centuries ago the South Pole was a tropical region filled with plant and animal life.

The only human beings in the antarctic continent are explorers; no traces of native inhabitants have ever been discovered.

Penguins—great, awkward birds—exist along the coast in some parts.

There is little snow on the lower plateau, necessitating explorers carrying tents; the surface is smooth ice.

Deep crevices in the Beardmore glacier render travel up it perilous.

Vegetation in the Antarctic continent consists entirely of moss; the land animal life is limited to a species of wingless insect very primitive in form.

They also maintain that the pole is never at the same place for two consecutive years, that the earth wobbles around considerably each 12 months.

Hobart, Tasmania.—Captain Roald Amundsen, who has just arrived here on the steamer Fram, told the story of his struggle to the South Pole for which the civilized world has been waiting—told it simply but thrillingly. The Norwegian explorer's convincing narrative, which must become historical, describes the new lands he found, the scientific knowledge he gained, the tremendous obstacles he and his companions surmounted and the sufferings they endured in the quest that was crowned by triumph and fame at last.

BY ROALD AMUNDSEN.

(Copyright, 1912, by New York Times Co.)
(All Rights Reserved.)

On the 10th of February, 1911, we commenced to work our way toward the south, from that day to the 11th of April establishing three depots, which in all contained a quantity of provisions of about 3,000 kilos. One thousand six hundred kilos, including 1,100 kilos of seal meat, were cached in 80 degrees, 700 kilos in 81 degrees, and 800 kilos in 82 degrees south latitude.

As no landmarks were to be seen, those depots were marked with flags, seven kilometers on each side in the easterly and westerly directions.

The ground and the state of the barrier were of the best, and especially well adapted to driving with dogs. On February 15 we had thus traveled about 100 kilometers. The weight of the sledges was 300 kilos, and the number of dogs was six for each sledge. The surface of the barrier was smooth and fine, with no sastrugi. The crevices were very local and were found dangerous in only two places. For the rest—long, smooth undulations.

The weather was excellent—calm or a light breeze. The lowest temperature on these depot trips was minus 45 celsius, or centigrade. (Forty-nine degrees below zero Fahrenheit.) On the 4th of March, on our return from the first trip, beginning on the 15th of February, we found out that the Fram had already left us. With pride and delight we heard that her smart captain had succeeded in sailing her furthest south and there hoisting the colors of his country—a glorious moment for him and his comrades—the furthest north and the furthest south—good old Fram! The highest south latitude attained was 78 degrees, 41 minutes.

Winter on the Ice Barrier.

Before the arrival of winter we had 6,000 kilos of seal meat in the depots, enough for ourselves and 110 dogs. Eight dog houses, a combination of tents and snow huts, were built.

Having cared for the dogs, the turn came to use our solid little hut. It was almost entirely covered with snow by the middle of April. First we had to get light and air. The Lux lamp, which had a power of 200 standard candles, gave us a brilliant light and kept the temperature up to 20 degrees celsius (68 degrees Fahrenheit) throughout the winter, and our excellent ventilation system gave us all the air we wanted.

In direct communication with the hut and dugout on the barrier were workshops, packing rooms, cellars for provisions, coal, wood and oil, a plain bath, a steam bath and observatories. Thus we had everything within doors if the weather should be too cold and stormy.

The sun left us on the 22nd of April and did not return until four months later. The winter was spent in changing our whole outfit, which on the depot trips was found to be too clumsy and solid for the smooth surface of the barrier. Besides this, as much scientific work as possible was done and some astonishing meteorological observations were taken.

Open Water All Winter.

There was very little snow, and there was open water close by throughout the winter. For the same reason higher temperatures had been expected, but it remained very low.

In five months there were observed temperatures between minus 50 and 60 degrees celsius (58 and 76 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit), the lowest temperature, on the 13th of August, being minus 59 degrees celsius. It was then calm. On the 1st of August the temperature was minus 58 degrees celsius, and there were six meters of wind. The mean temperature for the year was minus 26 degrees celsius (14.8 below zero, Fahrenheit).

I had expected hurricane after hurricane, but I observed only two moderate storms and many excellent auroras—in all directions.

The sanitary conditions were of the best all the winter and when the sun returned on the 24th of August he met the men sound in mind and body, ready to set about the task that had to be solved.

Already, the day before, we had brought our sledges to the starting place for our march toward the south. Only in the beginning of September did the temperature rise to such an extent that there was any question of setting out.

First Start for the Pole.

On the 8th of September eight men, with seven sledges, 90 dogs and provisions for four months, started. The ground was perfect. The temperature was not bad. The next day it appeared that we had started too early, as the temperature of the following days fell and was kept steady between minus 50 and 60 celsius (58 degrees and 70 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit). Personally we did not suffer at all from this cold. Our good furs protected us. But with our dogs it was a different matter. It would easily be seen that they shrank from day to day, and we understood pretty soon that they could not stand the long run to our depot at 80 degrees south.

We agreed on returning and to wait for the arrival of spring. The provisions were cached, and off we went for the hut. With the exception of the loss of a few dogs and a couple of frozen heels, everything was all right.

Only in the middle of October spring came in earnest. Seals and birds appeared. The temperature was steady between 20 and 30 celsius (68 and 86 degrees, Fahrenheit).

The original plan that all of us should go toward the south had been changed. Five men had to do this work, while the other three were to start for the east and visit King Edward VII Land.

This last mentioned trip was not included in our program, but, owing to the fact that the English had not reached it, at least this summer, as was their intention, we agreed that the best thing to do was also to make this trip.

On October 20 the southerly party started—five men, four sledges, 52 dogs, and provisions for four months—everything in excellent order.

The Journey to the Pole.

We had made up our minds to take the first part of the trip as easily as possible, in order to give ourselves and the dogs a rational training, and on the 23rd we made our depot in 80 degrees south. We went right ahead.

In spite of the dense fog, an error of two to three kilometers happened once in a while, but we were caught by the dog marks, and found these on our way without difficulty.

Having rested and fed the dogs on all the seal meat they were able to eat, we started again on the 26th, with the temperature steadily between minus 20 and 30 celsius (4 degrees and 22 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit).

From the start it was the intention not to drive more than 30 kilometers a day, but it appeared that this was too little for our strong, willing animals. At 80 degrees south we began to build snow cairns of a man's height, in order to have marks on our return trip. On the 31st we reached the depot at 81 degrees, and stopped there one day, and fed the dogs on as much pemmican as they wanted.

We reached the depot at 82 degrees on the 5th of November, where the dogs for the last time got all they wanted to eat. On the 8th, southward again, with a daily march of 50 kilometers.

In order to lighten our heavy sledges we established depots at each degree of south latitude.

Like a Pleasure Trip.

The trip from 82 degrees to 85 degrees became a pleasure trip—excellent ground, fine sledging, and an even temperature. Everything went like a dance.

On the 9th we sighted South Victoria Land and the continuation of the mountain range which Sir Ernest Shackleton mentioned in his chart as running toward the southeast from the Beardmore glacier, and on the same day we reached 83 degrees and established here depot No. 4. On the 11th we made the interesting discovery that the Ross barrier terminated in a bight toward the southeast at 86 degrees south latitude and 163 degrees west longitude, formed between the southeast mountain range running from South Victoria Land and a range on the opposite side running in a southwesterly direction—probably a continuation of King Edward VII Land.

On the 14th we reached 84 degrees where we established a depot, on the 16th we were at 85 degrees where also, we made a depot.

From our winter quarters "Framheim," 78 degrees [illegible] minutes south latitude, we had been marching due south. On the 17th of November at 85 degrees, we arrived at a place where the land and barrier were connected. This was done without any great difficulty. The barrier here rises in undulations to about [illegible] feet. Some few big crevices indicated the limited boundary.

Here we made our head depot taking provisions for 60 days on sledges and leaving 30 days' provisions on the spot.

The land under which we lay and which we now had to attack looked quite imposing. The nearest summits along the barrier had a height of from 2,000 to 10,000 feet, but several others further south were 15,000 feet or more.

The next day we began the climb. The first part of it was an easy task—light slope and well filled mountainsides. It did not take a long time, for our willing dogs worked their way up. Further up we met with some small but very steep glaciers. Here we had to harness 20 dogs to each sledge and take the four sledges in two turns. In some places it was so steep that it was difficult enough to use our skis.

Some big crevices forced us from time to time to make detours. The first day we climbed 2,000 feet, the next day mostly up some small glaciers, camping at a height of 4,600 feet. The third day we were obliged to go down on a mighty glacier, "Axel Heiberg's glacier," which divided the coast mountains and the mountains further south.

The next day began the longest part of our climb. Many detours had to be made in order to avoid broad cracks and open crevices. These were apparently mostly filled up, as the glaciers in all probability had long ago stopped moving, but we had to be very careful, never knowing for certain how thick was the layer that covered them.

Our camp that night lay in very picturesque surroundings at a height of 5,000 feet. The glacier here was narrowed in between the two 15,000-foot mountains, the "Fridtjof Nansen" and the "Don Pedro Christopherson." From the bottom of the glacier rose "Mount Ole Engelstad," a big snow cone 13,500 feet high.

The glacier was very much broken in this comparatively narrow pass. The mighty crevices seemed to stop us from going further, but it was not as serious as it appeared. Our dogs, which up to this time had covered a distance of about 7,000 kilometers, the last days very hard work, ran this day 35 kilometers, the ascent being 5,600 feet, an almost incredible record.

It took us only four days from the barrier to get up on the vast inland plateau. We camped that night at a height of 10,600 feet. Here we had to kill 24 of our brave companions and keep 18—six for each of our three sledges.

We stopped here four days on account of bad weather. Tired of this, we set out on the 28th of November. On the 26th in a furious blizzard and in a dense snow drift, absolutely nothing was to be seen, but we felt that, contrary to expectations, we were going fast down hill. The hypsometer gave us a fall of 800 feet.

The next day was similar. The weather cleared a little at dinner time and exposed to our view a mighty mountain range to the east, and not far off, only for a moment, and then it disappeared in the dense snowdrift. On the 29th it calmed down and the sun shone though it was not the only pleasant surprise he gave. In our course stretched a big glacier running toward the south. At its eastern end was the mountain range going in a southeasterly direction. Of the western part of it no view was to be had, it being hidden in the dense fog. At the foot of this glacier, the "Devil's glacier," a depot for six days was established, at 86.21 degrees south latitude.

The hypsometer indicated 8,000 feet above sea level.

On November 30 we began to climb the glacier. The lower part of it was very much broken and dangerous. Moreover, the snow bridges very often burst. From our camp that night we had a splendid view over the mountain to the east. There was "Helmer Hanssen's Summit," the most remarkable of them all. It was 12,000 feet high and covered with such broken glaciers that in all probability no foothold was to be found. "Oscar Wisting's," "Sverre Hassel's" and "Olav Bjaaland's" mountains also lay here, beautifully illuminated in the rays of the bright sun.

In the distance, and only alternately to be viewed in the fog, appeared from time to time "Mount Nielsen," with its summits and peaks about 15,000 feet high.

We only saw the nearest surroundings.

It took us three days to surmount the Devil's glacier, always in misty weather.

On the 1st of December we left this broken glacier, with holes and crevices without number, with its height of 9,100 feet. Before us, looking, in the mist and snowdrift, like a frozen sea, appeared a light, sloping ice plateau filled with small hummocks.

The walk over this frozen sea was not pleasant. The ground under us was quite hollow, and it sounded as though we were walking on the bottoms of empty barrels. As it was, a man fell through, then a couple of dogs. We could not use our skis on this polished ice. Sledges had the best of it.

The place got the name the "Devil's Dancing Room." This part of our march was the most unpleasant. On December 6 we got our greatest height, according to the hypsometer and aneroid, 10,750 feet, at 87 degrees, 40 minutes south.

On December 8 we came out of the bad weather. Once again the sun smiled down on us. Once again we could get an observation. Dead reckoning and observation were exactly alike—88 degrees, 88 minutes, 16.6 seconds south.

Before us lay an absolutely plain plateau, only here and there marked with a tiny sastrugi.

In the afternoon we passed 88 degrees, 23 minutes (Shackleton's furthest south was 88 degrees, 25 minutes). We camped and established our last depot, No. 10.

From 80 degrees, 25 minutes the plateau began to slope down very gently and smoothly toward the other side.

On the 9th of December we reached 80 degrees, 39 minutes; on December 10, 83 degrees, 58 minutes; December 11, 89 degrees, 15 minutes; December 12, 89 degrees, 30 minutes; December 13, 83 degrees, 45 minutes.

Up to this time the observations and dead reckoning agreed remarkably well, and we made out that we ought to be at the Pole on December 14 in the afternoon.

That day was a beautiful one—a light breeze from the southeast, the temperature minus 23 celsius (9.4 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit), and the ground and sledging were perfect. The day went along as usual, and at 3 p. m. we made a halt.

According to our reckoning we had reached our destination. All of us gathered around the colors—a beautiful silk flag—all hands taking hold of it and planting it.

The vast plateau on which the pole is standing got the name of the "King Haakon VII plateau." It is a vast plain, alike in all directions, mile after mile during the night we circled around the camp.

In the fine weather we spent the following day taking a series of observations from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m. The result gave us 89 degrees, 55 minutes.

In order to observe the Pole as closely as possible we traveled as far south as possible, the remaining 9 kilometers.

On December 16 there we camped. It was an excellent opportunity. There was a brilliant sun. Four of us took observations every hour of the day's 24 hours. The exact result will be the matter of a professional private report.

This much is certain—that we observed the Pole as closely as it is in human power to do it with the instruments we had—a sextant and an artificial horizon.

On December 17 everything was in order on the spot. We fastened to the ground a little tent we had brought along, a Norwegian flag, and the Fram pennant on top of it.

The Norwegian home at the South Pole was called "Polheim."

The distance from our winter quarters to the Pole was about 1,400 kilometers. The average march a day was 25 kilometers.

We started on the return trip on the 17th of December. Unusually favorable weather made our way home considerably easier than the journey to the Pole. We arrived at our winter quarters, "Framheim," on the 25th of January, 1912, with two sledges and eleven dogs, all well.

The daily average speed on the return trip was 30 kilometers; the lowest temperature was minus 31 celsius (23.8 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit), the highest minus 5 celsius (23 degrees above zero, Fahrenheit).

Among the results are the determination of the extent and character of the Ross barrier, and the discovery of the connection of South Victoria Land and probably King Edward VII Land, with their continuation in the mighty mountains running toward the southeast, which were observed as far as 88 degrees south, but which in all probability continue across the Antarctic continent.

The entire length of the newly discovered mountains is about 850 kilometers. They have been named "Queen Maud's Range."

The expedition to King Edward VII Land, under the command of Lieut. Prestrud, has given excellent results. Scott's discoveries have been confirmed, and the survey of the Bay of Whales end of the barrier done by the Prestrud party are of great interest.

A good geological collection from King Edward VII Land and South Victoria Land is being brought home.

The Fram arrived at the Bay of Whales on the 9th of January. She had been delayed by the "Roaring Forties" on account of the easterly winds. On January 16 the Japanese expedition arrived at the Bay of Whales and landed on the barrier near our winter quarters. We left the Bay of Whales on January 30. It was a long voyage, with contrary winds. All are well.

CLAIMANT OF SOUTH POLE

YANKEE GIRL LEADS RIOT

HEADS ENGLISH SUFFRAGETS IN FIGHT WITH JAIL MATRONS.

Women Resent Being Forced to Take Bath, Don Convict Uniforms and Hard Labor.

London, Eng.—Bitterly resenting the action of the authorities in taking [illegible] prison sentences, the convicted suffragets have set Holloway prison in an uproar. Led by Alice Wright, the Albany, N. Y., girl, who came from Paris to assist in the window breaking campaign, and whose work was so telling that she was given a two-month sentence, while the majority of her accomplices got only 30 days, the suffragets have defied the prison officials.

When they were ordered into the robing room to remove their ordinary clothing, take the compulsory bath and don [illegible]ments, the women rebelled. The wardresses of Holloway prison are chosen for their muscular ability, rather than for their good looks, and they started to make the prisoners obey the prison rules.

While details are carefully guarded, it is certain that the riot that followed was the greatest in the recent history of the prison. The clothing of two of the wardresses was torn almost completely from their bodies, while they had to use fetters to subdue the warring prisoners.

Afterward when the suffraget leaders were [illegible] into the [illegible] room to sew on bags as per the prison rules and the terms of their sentence, another row followed. They had learned of the intention of the authorities to prosecute all of the leaders under the conspiracy act and were exceedingly angry. At a given signal all of the suffragets jumped up; those who were working at machines tore them apart as well as they could without tools, and for a time the entire workroom was in an uproar.

Finally the wardresses regained control of the situation. The suffragets [illegible] returned to their cells

Trade Moves at Steady Pace.

New York City.—Bradstreet's says: Trade moves along at a steady pace though there is still enough lagging, combined with a few setbacks, to prevent desirable uniformity. However, most points report that house trade is relatively better, that jobbers are doing more and that staple articles are in demand at more favorable prices. Most activity is noted in dry goods, millinery, groceries, coal, hardware, drugs, paints, oils, builders' material in general and in relatively better future orders for clothing.

An Essential Part of Religion

To be a Christian is to be a follower of Christ. And the man who wants to be a follower of Christ must study the character of Christ that he may make it his own.

Jesus defined his own character in very plain words. "The Son of man is come not to be served, but to serve, and to give." To serve and to give must be our motto if we wish to be followers of Jesus. He spent his life in service, saying "I am come down from Heaven not to do my own will, but the will of him that sent me," and after he had finished the work which God had given him to do (John 17:4) he gave his life a ransom for many.

Giving is therefore an essential part of following Jesus, as much as service is. And it is the duty of every Christian to consider carefully and prayerfully what he can and should give, and then to study the different ways in which he can serve God effectively for his gifts. Most persons seem to begin at the wrong end by waiting till some special appeal is made, and then giving under the impulse of that appeal without having formed any definite purpose as to the total amount to be given in the course of a year. And it is reasonably safe to say that most of those who give only in this way give a much smaller proportion of their total income than they suppose.

Systematic Giving.

Systematic giving is the only true way, for it is the only way that is based on a frank recognition of God's claims and an honest effort to meet them. The Nashville Christian Advocate makes the following sensible remarks on this subject:

"Thousands upon thousands have adopted the tithing system, and it should be no matter of surprise to those who believe in God and his word that these thousands upon thousands are wonderfully blessed in their spiritual life and in their material affairs. Yet there may be a misleading influence in the meaning ordinarily attached to the words, 'I give a tenth to God.' There is danger that people will think that we may give nine-tenths to ourselves as long as we give one-tenth to him.

"God demands the ten tenths. He tells us that in supporting ourselves and our families, and in supplying the social, civic, mental and spiritual demands of our natures, we are truly giving to him. It would be much better to say when laying aside that tenth which is for God: 'While we feel that we should give all to God, we are giving this one-tenth to him for the support of his church and his little ones who throng the highways and the byways of the world.' This is the idea which establishes the proper ratio between what belongs to one part of God's work and what belongs to another part.

Recognition of God's Gifts.

"One-tenth of what we receive from God—and we receive from no other hand—is surely not too much to give to him in carrying out his purposes through his church. Some people think that it is too little. One thing is certain: no sacrifice for God has ever made the maker unhappy or less prosperous."

"He that soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly; and he that soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully. Let each man do according as he hath purposed in his heart; not grudgingly, or of necessity: for God loveth a cheerful giver. And God is able to make all grace abound unto you; that ye having always all sufficiency in everything, may abound unto every good work."

PERFECT PATTERN OF CHRIST

Rational Criticism Unable to Take Away Divine Attributes of the Son of God.

It is Christ rather than God whom Christianity has held up to believers as the pattern of perfection for humanity. It is the God incarnate, rather than the God of the Jews or of nature, who, being idealized, has taken so great and salutary a hold on the modern mind. And, whatever else may be taken away from us by rational criticism, Christ is still left; a unique figure, not more unlike all his precursors than all his followers, even those who had the direct benefit of his personal teaching. It is of no use to say that Christ, as exhibited in the gospels, is not historical, and that we know not how much of what is admirable has been superadded by the traditions of his followers. Who among his disciples or among their proselytes was capable of inventing the sayings ascribed to Jesus, or of imagining the life and character revealed in the gospels? Certainly not the fishermen of Galilee; as certainly not St. Paul, whose character and idiosyncrasies were of a totally different sort; still less the early Christian writers, in whom nothing is more evident than that the good which was in them was all derived, as they always professed it was, from the higher source.—John Stuart Mill.

The Supreme Aim.

To be what God wills us to be, and because he wills it—this should be our supreme thought and aim, and the mainspring of our Christian life. The sanctified instinct which leads us to ask, not first of all for our daily bread, or the forgiveness of our trespasses, or the avoidance of temptation even, but which places in the forefront of our most passionate longings and pleadings "Thy name be hallowed, thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven"—the supplication which puts the divine will "in the beginning," will lead to the purest and loftiest experience possible to man on the earth.

Free Color Plans for any rooms you want to decorate
You can have the prettiest walls in your town, at the least cost. Our expert designers will plan the work for you FREE.
Get This Book 20 Pretty Rooms
—we will mail you a copy Free. It tells how to have the best decorating at least cost. Is full of new color schemes and shows sixteen of the exquisite Alabastine tints, famous for their soft, refined qualities.
Alabastine
The Beautiful Wall Tint
is more in vogue in modern homes than wall paper or paint and costs far less. All kalsomine colors are harsh and crude beside Alabastine tints. Absolutely sanitary, goes farthest, does not chip, peel or rub off. Easy to use—just mix with cold water and put on. Directions on each package. Full 5 lb. package, White 50c; Regular Tints 55c.
Alabastine Company
51 Grandville Road, Grand Rapids, Mich.
New York City, Desk 1, 105 Water Street

Why Rent a Farm
and be compelled to pay to your landlord most of your hard-earned profits? Own your own farm. Secure a Free Homestead in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, or purchase land in one of these districts and bank a profit of $10.00 or $12.00 an acre every year.
Land purchased 3 years ago at $10.00 an acre has recently changed hands at $25.00 an acre. The crops grown on these lands warrant the advance. You can Become Rich
by cattle raising, dairying, mixed farming and grain growing in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.
Free homestead and preemption areas, as well as land held by railway and land companies, will provide homes for millions.
Adaptable soil, healthful climate, splendid schools and churches, good railways.
For settlers' rates, descriptive literature "Last Best West," how to reach the country and other particulars, write to Sup't of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or to the Canadian Government Agent.
H. M. WILLIAMS
413 Gardner Bldg., Toledo, Ohio
Please write to the agent nearest you
160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

Her Opportunity.

Edith—Isn't Alice the lucky girl? Just as she had decided to throw Jack over he broke the engagement.

Tom—Well?

Edith—Well, now she's going to sue him for breach of promise.

No Chance About It.

"I'm awfully sorry it happened," apologized the abject young man, after the stolen kiss.

"Happened!" she exclaims. "Happened! That is worse than the kiss! If you didn't have it in mind when you asked me to stroll away back here in this quiet corner of the conservatory I shall be offended, after all."—Judge.

Humorous Thrust.

"How—"

The savage chief held a glittering spear near the captive missionary.

"—do you like this?"

His tone was not facetious, but the captive was undismayed.

"Well, if you ask me—"

He glanced at the weapon, the propinquity of which was not comforting.

"—it goes against my stomach!"

Unfortunately, however, the captive was in a locality where there is no market for humor, and the end came soon.

Father Now in Second Place.

She was a prim miss of thirteen who stood before the rector of a well known New York Episcopal church and looked him squarely in the eye. "Please repeat that fifth commandment again," he said, for he was catechising her with regard to her knowledge of the Scriptures apropos of the coming confirmations. "Honor thy mother and thy father, that thy days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee," was the response. "Honor thy mother and thy father," mused the rector. "Who taught you that?" "Mother," was the response. "These are certainly suffragist days upon which we have fallen," remarked the minister. "Father used to come first."

Convincing Argument—
A single dish of Post Toasties
with Cream.
Delicious Wholesome
Convenient
"The Memory Lingers"
Sold by Grocers.
Postum Cereal Co., Ltd.
Battle Creek, Mich.

---

HARD QUESTION FOR MOTHER

Inquisitive Little One Sought Information That Has Puzzled the Wisest of Men.

Four-year-old Dorothy, being in a thoughtful mood, wished to know what she would be when she grew up. Her mother told her she would be first a young woman, then perhaps a married woman, an old woman, a grandmother and a great grandmother.

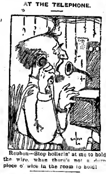
"And after great-grandmother, what?" Dorothy inquired.

"Then you will die. Your soul will go to heaven to live forever, and the rest of you will be put under the soft grass and flowers."

"Oh!" said Dorothy, and asked no more questions at the time. When her mother was undressing her for bed that night, and the rosy little [illegible], Dorothy said eagerly:

"Mother, will you show me just what part of me will go to heaven to live forever and what goes under the flowers?"—Lippincott's Magazine.

AT THE TELEPHONE.



Reuben—Stop hollerin' at me to hold the wire, when there's not a durn piece o' wire in the room to hold!

FARMERS' CANNING FACTORY
Thos. K. Brown of Springfield, Mo., wants to place a Farmers' Canning Factory within 5 or 10 miles of every town of 1,500 or more population in this part of the State. He makes 15 sizes for the farm, the neighborhood or large community. The smallest is $85. The farm sizes will make its owner from $25 to $75 a day. Will sell to honorable, industrious farmers on payments or for 15 per cent of the pack until paid out. Any farmer can grow at least 3 to 10 acres tomatoes each year in addition to his other crops, and make $500 to $1,200 by canning them, whether he owns his farm or rents one. If you are interested write him for booklet. Show this to neighbor.

How He Was Hurt.

Sunday School Teacher—And when the prodigal son came home, what happened, Tommy?

Tommy—His father ran to meet him and hurt himself.

Sunday School Teacher — Why, where did you get that?

Tommy—It said his father ran and fell on his neck. I bet it would hurt you to fall on your neck!

W. & H. Walker, Pittsburgh, Pa., make over 500 daily household necessities and sell direct by mail to families everywhere, saving middlemen's profits, losses and expenses and to customers they give clothing, furniture, etc., representing the saving—$3 in value for $1. Write for 224-page Catalogue No. 15. You can be secretary of a Walker Co-operative Club. Learn how.

When a woman says she believes every word her husband tells her, it's dollars to doughnuts that the honeymoon is still in its infancy.

Constipation causes and aggravates many serious diseases. It is thoroughly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. The favorite family laxative.

The easier it is to reform a man the oftener you'll have to do it.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS
Your druggist will refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

A woman's mind is like a bed—it must be made up occasionally.

Most human maladies arise from wrong dieting. Garfield Tea gives immediate relief.

Many reputations blow up when a political campaign is in full blast.

Make the Liver Do its Duty
Nine times in ten when the liver is right the stomach and bowels are right.
CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS
gently but firmly compel a lazy liver to do its duty.
Cures Constipation, Indigestion, Sick Headache, and Distress After Eating.
SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE.
Genuine must bear Signature
Brent Good
CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

KOW-KURE
FOR SICK COWS
Healthy cows give more milk, make richer butter, and require less care. KOW KURE is a cow medicine, not a food. It regulates the digestive and generative organs and tones up the entire system. A positive cure and preventive for LOST APPETITE, BARRENNESS, ABORTION, SCOURS, MILK FEVER, and all other ailments that sap the strength of milking cows. Thousands of profitable herds owe their health to KOW KURE.
Be sure to send for our valuable free book, "More Money From Your Cows."
DAIRY ASSOCIATION CO., MFRS.
Lyndonville, Vt., U. S. A.

PISO'S REMEDY
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by Druggists.
FOR COUGHS AND COLDS

The GIRL from His TOWN

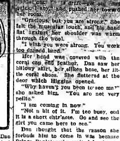
by Marie Van Vorst

ILLUSTRATIONS by M. G. KETTNER

COPYRIGHT 1910 by The Bobbs-Merrill Company



SYNOPSIS.

Dan Blair, the 22-year-old son of the fifty-million-dollar copper king of Blairtown, Mont., is a guest at the English home of Lady Galorey. Dan's father had been courteous to Lord Galorey during his visit to the United States and the courtesy is now being returned to the young man. The youth has an ideal girl in his mind. He meets Lily, Duchess of Breakwater, a beautiful widow, who is attracted by his immense fortune and takes a liking to her. When Dan was a boy, a girl sang a solo at a church, and he had never forgotten her. The Galoreys, Lily and Dan attend a London theater where one Letty Lane is the star. Dan recognizes her as the girl from his town, and going behind the scenes introduces himself and she remembers him. He learns that Prince Poniatowsky is suitor and escort to Letty. Lord Galorey and a friend named Ruggles determine to protect the westerner from Lily and other fortune hunters. Young Blair goes to see Lily, he can talk of nothing but Letty and this angers the Duchess.

CHAPTER VIII.—Continued.

But the cold voice of the duchess did [illegible]. "[illegible]," he continued, "and I'm sorry for her down to the ground. That is what is the matter. Didn't you notice her when she came into the Carlton that night?"

"What of it, silly? I thought she looked as thin as a shad in that black dress, and the way Poniatowsky goes about with her proves what an ass he is."

"Well, I hate him," Blair simply stated. "I would wring his neck for twenty cents. But she's very ill; that is what is the matter with her."

"They all look like that off the stage," the duchess assured indifferently. "They are nothing but footlight beauties; they look ghastly off the boards. I dare say that Letty Lane's ill, though; the pace she goes would kill anybody. Have some more tea?"

He held out his cup and agreed with her.

"She works too hard—this playing almost every night, singing and dancing twice at the matinees, I should think she would be dead."

"Oh, I don't mean her professional engagements," murmured the duchess.

A revolt such as had stung him when they criticized her at the Carlton rose in him now.

"It is hard to believe," he said, "when you hear her sing that dove song and that cradle song."

But his companion's laugh stopped his championship short.

"You dear boy, don't be a silly, Dan. She doesn't need your pity or your good opinion. She is perfectly satisfied. She has got a fortune in Poniatowsky, and she really is 'a perfect terror,' you know."

Affected slightly by her cold dismissal of his subject, he paused for a moment. But his own point of view was too strong to be shaken by this woman's light words.

"I suppose if she wasn't from my town—" At his words the vision of Letty Lane with the coral strands on her dress, came before his eyes, and he said honestly: "But I do take an interest in her just the same, and she's going to pieces, that's clear. Something ought to be done."

The Duchess of Breakwater was very much annoyed.

"Are you going to talk about her all the time?" she asked with sharp sweetness. "You are not very flattering, Dan."

And he returned peacefully, "Why, I thought you might be able to help her in some way or another."

"Me!" She laughed aloud. "Me help Letty Lane? Really—"

"Why, you might get her to sing out here," he suggested. "That would sort of get hold of her; women know how to do those things."

His preposterous simplicity overwhelmed her. She stirred her tea, and said, controlling herself, "Why, what on earth would you have me to say to Letty Lane?"

"Oh, just be nice to her," he suggested. "Tell her to take care of herself and to brace up. Get some nice woman to—"

The duchess helped him. "To reform her?"

"Do her good," the boy said gently.

"You're too silly for words. If you were not such a hopeless child I would be furious with you. Why, my dear boy, she would laugh in your face and in mine."

As the duchess left the tea-table she repeated: "Is this what you came up from London to talk to me about?"

And at the touch of her dress as she passed him—at the look she gave him from her eyes, Dan flushed and said honestly: "Why, I told you—that she was the only thing that kept me from thinking about you all the time."

CHAPTER IX.

Disappointment.

Dan Blair had not been back of the scenes at the Gaiety since his first call on the singer. Indeed, though he had told the duchess he pitied Miss Lane, he had not been able to approach her very closely, even in his own thoughts. When she first appeared on his horizon his mind was full of the Duchess of Breakwater, and the singer had only hovered round his more profound feelings for another woman. But Letty Lane was an atmosphere in Dan's mind which he was not yet able to understand. There was so little left that was connected with his old home, certainly nothing in the British isles, excepting Ruggles, and to the young man everything from America had its value. Decidedly the nice girl of whom he had spoken to Gordon Galorey, the print-frocked, bonneted type, the ideal girl that Dan would like to marry and to spoil, had not crossed his path. The Duchess of Breakwater did not suggest her, nor did any of the London beauties. Dan's first ideal was beginning to fade.

He left Osdene Park on protest and returned the same night to London, and all the way back to town tried to register in his mind, unused to analysis, his experience with the Duchess of Breakwater on this last visit.

He had experienced his first disappointment in the sex, and this disappointment had been of an unusual kind. It was not that he had been turned down or given the mitten, but he had seen one woman turn another down. A woman had been mean, so he put it, and the fact that the Duchess of Breakwater had refused to lend a moral hand to the singer at the Gaiety hurt Dan's feelings. Then, as soon as his enthusiasm had calmed, he saw what a stupid ass he had been. A duchess couldn't mix up with a comic opera singer, of course. Still, he mused, "she might have been a little nicer about it."

The education his father had given him about them was put to the test now; the girl he had dreamed of, "the nice girl," well, she would have had a tenderer way with her in a case such as this! Back of Dan's hurt feelings, there was a great deal on the Duchess of Breakwater's side. She had not done for herself yet. She hadn't fetched him to the altar for nothing, and back of his disapproval, there was a long list of admirations and looks, memories of many tete-a-tetes and of more fervent kisses which had secured a good deal in favor of Dan's first woman. The Duchess of Breakwater had gone boldly on with Dan's unfinished education, and he really thought he loved her, and that he was in honor bound to see the thing through.

That evening, once more in the box he had taken all to himself, he listened to "Mandalay," with the charm of the music and carried away by the singer. He was in the box nearest the stage and seemed close to her, and he imagined that under her paint he could see her pallor and how thin she was. Nothing, however, in her acting or in her voice revealed the least fatigue. Blair had obtained a card of entrance to the theater, which permitted him to circulate freely behind the scenes, and although as yet the run of his visits had not been clear, this night he had a purpose. Dan stood not far from the corridor that led to Letty Lane's room, and saw her after her act hurriedly cross the stage, a big white shawl wrapping her slender form closely. She was as thin as a candle. Her woman Higgins followed closely after her, and as they passed Dan, Letty Lane called to him gaily:

"Hello, you! What are you hanging around here for?"

And Dan returned: "Don't stand here in the draft. It is beastly cold."

"Yes, Miss," her woman urged, "don't stand here."

But the actress waited nevertheless and said to Dan: "Who's the girl?"

"What girl?"

"Why, the girl you come here every night to see and are too shy to speak to. Everybody is crazy to know."

Letty Lane looked like a little girl herself in the crocheted garment her small hands held across her breast. Dan put his arm on her shoulder without realizing the familiarity of his gestures.

"[illegible] out of this draft—get on quick, [illegible]," and pushed her toward her room.

"Gracious, but you are strong." She felt the muscular touch, and his hand flat against her shoulder was warm through the wool.

"I wish you were strong. You work too darned hard."

Her head was covered with the coral cap and feather. Dan saw her billowy skirt, her silken hose, her little coral shoes. She fluttered at the door which Higgins opened.

"Why haven't you been to see me?" she asked him. "You are not very polite."

"I am coming in now."

"Not a bit of it. I'm too busy, and it is a short entr'acte. Go and see the girl you came here to see."

Dan thought that the reason she forbade him to come in was because Prince Poniatowsky waited for her in her dressing room. It was his first jealous moment, and the feeling fell on him with a swoop and its fangs fastened in him with a stinging pain. He stammered,

"I didn't come to see any girl here but you. I came to see you."

"Come tomorrow at two, at the Savoy."

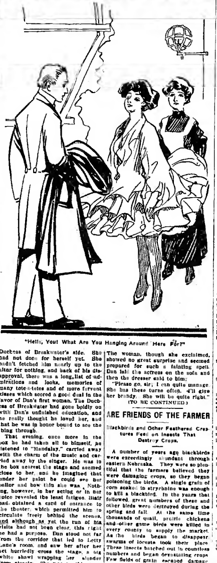
Before Dan realized his own precipitation, he had seized the door handle as Letty Lane went within and was about to close her room against him, and said quickly:

"I'm coming right in now."

"Why, I never heard of such a thing," she answered sharply, unerringly, "you must be crazy! Take away your hand!" And here, as well as his, seized the handle of the door. Her small ice cold hand brought him to his senses.

"I beg your pardon," he murmured confusedly. "Do go in and get warm if you [illegible]."

But instead of obeying, now that the rude young man withdrew his importuning, Miss Lane's hands fell from the knob, and close to his eyes she swayed before him, and Dan caught her in his arms—went into her room, carrying her. He had been wrong about Prince Poniatowsky; save for Higgins, the room was empty.



"Hello, You! What Are You Hanging Around Here For?"

The woman, though she exclaimed, showed no great surprise and seemed prepared for such a fainting spell. Dan laid the actress on the sofa and then the dresser said to him: "Please go, sir. I can quite manage. I'll give her brandy. She will be quite right."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

ARE FRIENDS OF THE FARMER

Blackbirds and Other Feathered Creatures Eat Insects That Destroy Crops.

A number of years ago blackbirds were exceedingly abundant through eastern Nebraska. They were so plentiful that the farmers believed they were damaging crops, so they began poisoning the birds. A single grain of corn soaked in strychnine was enough to kill a blackbird. In the years that followed, great numbers of these and other birds were destroyed during the spring and fall. At the same time thousands of quail, prairie chickens and other game birds were killed in every county to supply the market. As the birds began to disappear swarms of locusts took their place. These insects hatched out in countless numbers and began devastating crops. Few fields of grain escaped damage. Many were entirely destroyed. Where blackbirds, quail, prairie chickens, plover, and other birds remained, they took to living entirely on locusts. In such localities fair crops were secured solely through the assistance of the birds.

The members of the United States entomological commission who witnessed the work accomplished by the birds in this region, said the results were so complete that it was impossible to entertain any doubt as to the value of birds as locust destroyers.—William L. Finley, in Success.

Discerning Thought.

Thoughts put on paper are nothing more than footsteps in the sand; you see the way the man has gone, but to know what he saw on his walk you want his eyes.—Schopenhauer.

HIS MODESTY OF HIGH ORDER

Tinker, of Course, Loved His Neighbor as Himself, but That Wasn't Too Much.

Lord Tankerville, who is sending his son to an American school, said the other day in New York:

"There are too many Englishmen—and English boys as well—who develop, in the presence of a lord, a painful and unnatural modesty. Their modesty reminds me of a village tinker.

"This tinker had a rather crusty disposition, and his pastor said to him one day:

"'My man, you should love your neighbor as yourself.'

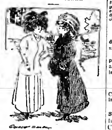
"'Yes, sir,' said the tinker.

"But the pastor had in mind a nasty black eye that the tinker had given the bricklayer next door, and so he went on:

"'Do you, though, do you, honestly, love your neighbor as yourself?'

"'Yes, sir, oh, yes, sir,' said the tinker, and he added, 'but I'm a modest man, ye see, and, to tell the truth, I ain't a bit stuck on myself, sir.'"

NOT SO FAMILIAR.



Carrye—Do you love art for art's sake?

Daisy—I beg your pardon, but his name is Arthur.

"WHY SHOULD I USE CUTICURA SOAP?"
"There is nothing the matter with my skin, and I thought Cuticura Soap was only for skin troubles." True, it is for skin troubles, but its great mission is to prevent skin troubles. For more than a generation its delicate emollient and prophylactic properties have rendered it the standard for this purpose, while its extreme purity and refreshing fragrance give to it all the advantages of the best of toilet soaps. It is also invaluable in keeping the hands soft and white, the hair live and glossy, and the scalp free from dandruff and irritation.
While its first cost is a few cents more than that of ordinary toilet soaps, it is prepared with such care and of such materials, that it wears to a wafer, often outlasting several cakes of other soap, and making its use, in practice, most economical. Cuticura Soap is sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, but the truth of these claims may be demonstrated without cost by sending to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston, for a liberal sample cake, together with a thirty-two page book on the skin and hair.

Making Good.

"Sire," expostulated Nero's confidential adviser, "what do you propose to do to rehabilitate this burning city of Rome so that its inhabitants will not hold the devastating conflagration against you?"

"Oh, fiddle!" retorted Nero.

Which he did.

Baby Cried Day and Night with Colic till she was 3 months old, then we got Kopp's Baby's Friend and that cured her. Used it also when she was teething and cannot speak too highly of it, so writes Mrs. L. P. Plummer, Rockland, Me. Sold by druggists, 10c., 25c. and 50c., or sent direct by Kopp's Baby's Friend Co., York, Pa. Sample by mail on request.

Indications.

"Don't tell me that girl is used to the best society."

"What makes you think she isn't?"

"Why, if you notice, she is polite to everybody she meets."

Everything you need offered free. By conducting a Walker Co-operative Club you can get clothing and furniture and almost anything else without cost. 3,000 articles. 224-page Catalogue No. 15 explains everything. Write today for it. W. & H. Walker, Pittsburgh, Pa.

It boosts a young man wonderfully in the estimation of a girl if his front name is the same as that of the hero in a romantic novel or play.

The simple life is best. Let your only medicine be Garfield Tea, the pure and proven remedy. All druggists.

It's the contrariness of her sex that induces a woman to agree with a man just when he doesn't want her to.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

Occasionally a bachelor thinks he will marry a certain girl until he discovers that she thinks likewise, also.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY
Take LAXATIVE BROMO Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box. 25c.

Lapland is a great country for small children.

Why suffer under the curse of Dyspepsia when Garfield Tea can remove it?

Some men make matters worse if they try to explain.

Too Thin.

"The greatest curiosity I ever came across in the course of a long experience," said the first broker, "is a man who comes into our office every day, watches the ticker like a hawk for five hours, and pays cash for everything he buys."

"I can beat that by a mile," replied the second broker. "A man came into our place a while ago and started to trade actively in Reading and Union on a five-point margin. He had $5,000 when he began. In six months he had $50,000. Then do you know what he did? He put his money into first mortgage bonds—and quit."

The first broker looked almost dazed. "I hate to do it," he murmured, "but I've just got to. You're a liar!"—Puck.

Counterfeiter Gets Stiff Sentence.

William Fink, a Brooklyn, N. Y., dealer in drugs, was sentenced by the New York Court of Special Sessions to imprisonment in the penitentiary at hard labor, for four months. The charge was counterfeiting the trade-mark for Carter's Little Liver Pills, in violation of the penal law.

The Carter Medicine Company detected the counterfeit before any quantity of the spurious goods had been placed upon the market. In sentencing Fink, Judge Deuel laid special stress upon the injury done to the public when a remedy so well known as Carter's Little Liver Pills is counterfeited and put on the market. He imposed the sentence not only as the proper punishment of Fink himself, but in order to deter others from the commission of like frauds in the future.

New Commandment.

Senator Penrose, apropos of President Taft's anti-monopoly message, said the other day, with a smile:

"In the past we were forbidden to put our trust in riches, but now we are forbidden also to put our riches in trusts."

Important to Mothers
Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher
In Use For Over 30 Years.
Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

A Dead One.

Hewitt—You should say nothing but good of the dead.

Jewett—But I hate to praise you to your face.

The woman who cares for a clean, wholesome mouth, and sweet breath, will find Paxtine Antiseptic a joy forever. At druggists, 25c a box.

A Cruel Thrust.

He—Old age has no terrors for me.

She—It needn't have if it's true that brainy men live long.

To Dyspeptics: Others have found a steady course of Garfield Tea a pleasant means of regaining health. Why not you?

No one but a gossip can attend to everybody's business at the same time.

Hoxsie's Croup Remedy is a certain cure and preventive of Colds, Coughs and Croup. No opium no nausea. Sold by Druggists. 50 cents.

A married woman's description of an ideal man seldom fits her husband.

No Lame Horses
If You Will Use
Tuttle's Elixir
Don't neglect the lame or blemished leg. Or don't give up, because other things have failed. When you stop to think that there are hundreds of thousands of horses that have been made sound and are kept sound, kept at their hard work day in and day out—thanks to Tuttle's Elixir—then you will realize that it's time you tried it, too. Let us prove to you that it
CURES
Curb, Splints, Spavin Lameness, Ring-Bone, Knotted Cords, Cockle Joints, Sprains, Bony Growths, Swellings, Shoe Boils and Founder, Distemper and Colic
It never fails to locate lameness, and the thousands who have tried it will tell you that it makes the finest leg and body wash they ever used.
Send for the proofs. We want you to know about the remarkable curative powers of Tuttle's Worm Powders, Tuttle's Condition Powders, and Tuttle's Hoof Ointment. Your dealer sells Tuttle's remedies. If not, send us his name and 50c. in stamps and we will send a large size bottle prepaid. Don't experiment. Get Tuttle's and be sure.
FREE "Veterinary Experience," a 100-page book of valuable information to every horse owner. Enables you to be your own veterinary. Write for it to-day enclosing 2 cents for postage.
TUTTLE'S ELIXIR CO., 200 Beverly St., Boston, Mass.

They Make Good
who keep themselves in fine physical condition. Regular bowels, active kidneys and liver, good digestion, and a greater natural vigor follow the timely use of the reliable
BEECHAM'S PILLS
Sold everywhere. In boxes 10c., 25c.

DR. J. D. KELLOGG'S ASTHMA
Remedy for the prompt relief of Asthma and Hay Fever. Ask your druggist for it. Write for FREE SAMPLE.
NORTHROP & LYMAN CO., LTD., BUFFALO, N.Y.

MOTHER GRAY'S SWEET POWDERS FOR CHILDREN
Relieve Feverishness, Constipation, Colds and correct disorders of the stomach and bowels. Used by Mothers for 22 years. At all Druggists 25c. Sample mailed FREE. Address A. S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.
TRADE MARK

THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY. No.1. No.2. No.3.
THERAPION
Used in French Hospitals with great success ... CHRONIC ULCERS, SKIN ERUPTIONS—EITHER SEX. Send address envelope for FREE booklet to Dr. Le Clerc Med. Co., Haverstock Rd., Hampstead, London, Eng.

KEYSTONA FOR WALLS AND CEILINGS
GOES ON LIKE PAINT; LOOKS LIKE WALL PAPER; YOU CAN WASH IT
A beautiful illustrated book of 24 colors and Photographs sent free. Send your name and address to the KEYSTONE VARNISH CO., Brooklyn, N.Y.

PATENTS Watson E. Coleman, Washington, D.C. Books free. Highest references. Best results.

W. N. U., CLEVELAND, NO. 11–1912.

Backache
is only one of many symptoms which some women endure through weakness or displacement of the womanly organs. Mrs. Lizzie White of Memphis, Tenn., wrote Dr. R. V. Pierce, as follows:
"At times I was hardly able to be on my feet. I believe I had every pain and ache a woman could have. Had a very bad case. Internal organs were very much diseased and my back was very weak. I suffered a great deal with nervous headaches, in fact, I suffered all over. This was my condition when I wrote to you for advice. After taking your 'Favorite Prescription' for about three months can say that my health was never better."
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive cure for weakness and disease of the feminine organism. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. Tones and builds up the nerves. Do not permit a dishonest dealer to substitute for this medicine which has a record of 40 years of cures. "No, thank you, I want what I ask for."
Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets induce mild natural bowel movement once a day.

Relief from Rheumatism
Try Sloan's Liniment for your rheumatism — don't rub — just lay it on lightly. It goes straight to the sore spot, quickens the blood, limbers up the muscles and joints and stops the pain.
Here's Proof
Mrs. Julia Thomas of Jackson, Cal., writes: "I have used your Liniment for rheumatism with much success."
Martin J. Tunis, 169 10th Ave., Paterson, N. J., writes: "I was a cripple with rheumatism for two years and I could not move at all, had to be carried from place to place. I tried remedies and could not get better, until I tried Sloan's Liniment. One bottle fixed me up in good shape and now I always have a bottle in the house for my wife and children."
SLOAN'S LINIMENT
kills any kind of pain. Good for Neuralgia, Toothache, Lumbago and Chest Pains. Sold by all dealers. Price 25c., 50c. and $1.00.
Sloan's book on Horses, Cattle, Hogs and Poultry sent free. Address
DR. EARL S. SLOAN Boston, Mass.

CHEW SMOKE
MAIL POUCH
IT'S WORTH YOUR WHILE—TO GIVE IT A TRIAL
5 CTS

Elgin Shirts

CUTTER & CROSSETTE, Makers

You may have noticed that we guarantee every Elgin shirt that we sell to be perfectly cut and made to fit, and to be of as good or better material than is used in any other shirt sold in the United States at same price.

Come in and examine our line of these wonderful garments.

We are here to back up our guarantee.

JOHN S. LOCKWOOD

Farmer's Column

FARMS WANTED—Large and small, either for sale or exchange for City property. We sell quick if your price is right. Joseph Sedivy & Son, 3379 E. 49th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

FOR SALE or Exchange for farm a store property with living rooms. Madison, Ohio, Lock Box 361, Madison, Ohio.

FARM HELP—We have a number of applications from good farm hands for employment on farms. Address, Joseph Sedivy & Son, 3379 E. 49th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

FOR SALE—Depot wagon, surrey, double harness, single harness, good carriage horse. All high grade, in excellent condition. Worth complete $1,000. Will accept reasonable cash offer. M. C. Stone, Dockman Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

FOR RENT—Fine suite of 5 rooms for housekeeping. Steam heat. R. N. Whitcomb, Mentor, Ohio.

1000 Chestnut fence posts for sale at 8c each. F. L. McConnell, R. F. D. No. 3, Painesville.

FOR SALE—50 shocks of corn at 40 cents. Roy Harrison, Concord. Home Phone, Main 352J2.

FOR SALE—Stove wood, seasoned hickory. Home phone 307L3, Painesville, Ohio.

FOR SALE—Farm suitable for stock or dairy farming, plenty of water and well timbered. Enquire of E. P. Brown, Painesville, R. F. D. 3.

FOR SALE—Fresh young Jersey cow and calf, $60.00, or exchange for young cattle. F. L. McConnell, R. F. D. No. 3, Concord.

WANTED—Dressmaking, plain and fancy. 214 Jefferson St.

NOTICE—A small ad in this column costs little, but brings quick results. Try it.

FOR SALE—15 acres onion and celery farm, two miles west of Akron Ohio, on paved road. About one-half muck. Near loading point. Price $2500.00, one half down. Write Robt. Dickey, 112 S. Maple St., or call Home phone 114J2.

THE bank that believes in banking convenience as well as banking protection.

Through its Painesville branch office it places its great strength and protection within your own neighborhood, and saves you much inconvenience and loss of time.

PAINESVILLE OFFICE

The Cleveland Trust Company

SAVINGS BANK

MADISON

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fay of Perry called on Mrs. Esther Graves, Wednesday.

Mrs. E. J. Foster and Mrs. B. Scott were in Ashtabula, Thursday.

Miss Richards of Ashtabula, spent Thursday night with Mrs. S. D. Gond.

Mr. Clark of Cleveland spent a couple of days last week in Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Brotzman were recent Geneva visitors.

G. G. Griswold has typhoid fever. Miss Ina Baker is caring for him.

Mrs. Norman Stretton of River street is quite ill.

Mrs. Warner, mother of Mrs. E. Dayton, is dangerously ill at the Dayton home.

Mr. Eli Brotzman and Mr. John Perry have sold their farm, known as the Cutler Kimball farm, to Mr. Grege of Cleveland, immediate possession given. Mr Perry may move to North Madison as he is unable to find a suitable house in town. At present writing, Mr. Brotzman has not decided just where he will locate, but his many friends trust he will remain in Madison.

Miss Celia Williams, who has been with Mr and Mrs F. Griswold since the burning of her home on Main St., will now occupy her house on Safford street.

The Fortnightly Club will meet with Mrs B. O. Allen Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Ethel Williams attended a class party in Painesville Monday evening.

Miss Alta Groves and Miss Elsa Lockwood spent Monday evening in Geneva.

Miss Molly Evans, aged seventy years, died at the Home Friday evening, March 8th. Mr. Crocket from Cleveland, a nephew of the deceased, and Miss Maggie Evans, sister, of the Home, accompanied the remains to Green Springs for burial. Miss Evans had been at the Home about fifteen years.

Mr Dewey made a business trip to Cleveland, Alliance and Sandusky, the last of the week.

Oscar Weldy has been quite ill the past week.

Mr and Mrs N. Crippen, who have been caring for Mr. Gale the past year, will return to their home in N. Madison the first of the month.

Mrs. Edna Cutler was a recent guest of her friend, Mrs. Prestley in Cleveland.

Mrs Arthur Pope of N. Madison, called on friends in town Tuesday.

WILLOUGHBY

The Junior class of the high school gave its rhetoricals Monday afternoon.

Mrs James McMahon entertained Monday in honor of Mrs. Vernard Plum, who will move to Chagrin Falls soon. Mrs Plum was presented with a cut glass sherbet set.

Mrs Erwin Hadlock and sons of Cleveland, spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives.

A man, a foreigner and stranger, was found by Marshal Maloney with both feet and hands frozen, Saturday evening, near the Lake Shore tracks.

Mrs. Harry Stein is spending a few days with relatives in Euclid.

Died—Friday, Mrs. Townes of Cantor street. She leaves a husband and two daughters who reside in this place. The funeral occurred Sunday afternoon at her late home.

The C. P. & E. road are erecting a sub-station on the land formerly owned by Dr. T. M. Moore.

It is stated that some time within the year a new co-operative store will be started here, probably in the building now occupied by Dr. C. H. Tanner's office.

Mrs John Rice who was found dead from poison Wednesday, was formerly a resident of this place.

It is reported that Mr and Mrs Frank Randall, will move to Fostoria soon.

Mrs. N. C. Smith has been dangerously ill, but is improving.

Mrs Ann Richardson of Wood St., is reported as very ill.

The fire department was called out to extinguish a fire at the old Mill house. No damage was done.

A minstrel show will be held by the Men's League at College Hall, Wednesday evening. James A. McMahon, J. Olney Manville and J. Edward Welt, are on the musical program. The one act farce is entitled "The District Convention."

The ladies sewing circle met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carver on Wilson avenue.

Mr. Charles Goodrich left Saturday for Duluth, to join his boat, the City Superior.

News was received from Perry by Wade and Vaugh Lockwood of the death of their mother, Mrs. Eva Lockwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Jefferson, formerly of this place, are visiting friends in town.

The Adams family, who live on Barber avenue, expect to move to Boston next week.

John Ward, a lineman, had his foot crushed by the falling of a telegraph pole one day last week.

Wm. Seely of Euclid street is ill, threatened with pneumonia.

Mayor S. S. Wilson, S. D. Shankland, O. C. Jenkins, E. H. Walch, left Monday for Columbus on business.

WOLLPERT'S OF WICKLIFFE

"D.&H."

If You Know

That you need Rubber Boots
That we carry Ball Band
That they are Snag Proof
That they are a Finished Rubber
That they have the Wearing Quality
That they have stood the Test of Time

Why Not Stop In

at Wollpert's and have them fit you with a BALL BAND BOOT or STRAIGHT LINE RUBBER and be prepared for the coming wet weather.

WOLLPERT'S GENERAL STORE
WICKLIFFE, OHIO
Cuyahoga Phone 4-R

WILLOUGHBY
Schram District

Mrs. W. O. Wieland was in the city on a recent Thursday to see her brother, who is in a hospital and was operated on some weeks ago for appendicitis.

Mrs B. C. Bishop of Mayfield visited at Wm. Wieland's on Thursday, a week ago.

March came in like a lion, so we may look for it to go out like a lamb.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Willis of Orange Hill took dinner at the Alvord home on Tuesday of a recent week.

Miss Alice Greene took teachers examination in your city on the 2nd.

Blanche Carpenter is out of school again, sick with the grip.

Members of the Lanashaw family visited at James Baker's of South Euclid last Sunday.

Miss Nellie Rogers attended teachers meeting at Willoughby on the 2d of March.

Mrs. L. E. Smith desires through these columns to kindly thank all friends who sent her post cards on her birthday, of which she received eighty-two.

A number of the men folks from this place attended the auction of Richard Noorts on Tuesday last.

Mr and Mrs. J. Stevens and Mr and Mrs Geo Field attended the funeral services of a relative, Jay L. Bennett, of Mayfield, Tuesday.

The funeral services for Mrs. A. J. Keesler were held from her late residence Tuesday morning, Feb 25th. The service was conducted by Rev. Peck of Mayfield Heights, who took for his text Job 14-14, "If a man die, shall he live again? All the days of my appointed time will I wait, till my change come." Mrs. Lookemer, Mrs. O'Malley and Alvin Russell sang "Home at last," "That will be Heaven for Me," and "Give me the wings of a dove." The remains were taken to Pioneer, Ohio, to be buried by the side of her former husband.

The schools close this week for one weeks vacation.

L. D. Leuty of Woodside Avenue, Cleveland, was at his mother's on Sunday last.

The Arndt family who have occupied the French house on Eddy Road for several years, have moved away and a Miller family from Wickliffe have moved into the house, also Geo. Leigh and family have gone from the Presley farm down to Stop 25 on the main line.

That End Seat.

The season for the "end seat hog" is passed, so far as the trolley cars are concerned, but it is just beginning elsewhere—shall we say it, and we hate to say it, in the churches? Is it possible that there is where the warrant for the practice in the trolley comes from? People see it in the church, and of course justify it in the street car. It may not always be so but insisting on holding an end seat and making others push by or climb over has a tinge of selfishness in it that looks very strange in a church whose gospel is unselfishness. There is no place where the Christian spirit shows up more finely than where one moves up and gives his brother or sister a choice seat. It is a way of "preferring one another" that the Scriptures speak of.—Columbus (Ohio) State Journal.

Try a Single Rose.

"We read," said Lucinda, "about how Adolphus brought Luella a great bunch of roses, and we can imagine their beauty, we are left to guess at their cost, but do you know it isn't really necessary in order to make home beautiful to have a bunch of roses as big around as a barrel; that a single lovely rose will do!

"Try this: If you have spent all your money for hats and gloves and Adolphus hasn't come—my brother Claude would say hasn't come to the bat—stop at the florist's and buy a single rose, it will cost very little, and take that home and set it in the proper vase, its red petals and green leaves to please the eye and its fragrance to fill the room, an individual flower of grace and beauty and joy.

"If you can't have a bunch try a single rose."

From Two Points of View.

The king, who was in attendance at the cat show, was looking at the prize cat.

"He shows the result of careful breeding," commented his majesty.

The cat, in pursuance of the ancient prerogative, was looking at the king.

"His pedigree is twice as long as mine," reflected the cat, "but he must be of a common sort of strain. He doesn't look half as majestic as a policeman."

FIND SKELETON IN MOUND

Another Murder Mystery of Early Kansas Days Believed to Have Been Unearthed.

Another murder mystery of the early days of Kansas is believed to have been uncovered when workmen leveling what was supposed to be a natural mound on the farm of John Noland, near Junction City, uncovered a tomb 30 feet in diameter which contained portions of three skeletons believed to be those of white people.

The skulls do not resemble those of Indians, and in one skull a small hole such as could be made by a bullet was found. The forehead bone of each is prominent, like that of the white race. One man was of unusual stature, as is shown by the bones found in a corner of the room.

There is a tradition among the older residents of Junction City that a family of whites disappeared mysteriously years ago and was thought to have been murdered, but this cannot be verified.

When the first white settler came to this section the mound was there. Recently John Nolan decided to level it and use the land. The workmen struck what appeared to be a stone wall. They dug deeper and around it and soon uncovered a tomb 60 feet in diameter with stone walls 10 feet thick. The top, which had been arched over at one time, had caved in. It was 4 feet high.

Entrance was gained to the tomb by a passageway 3 feet wide and a chamber 10 feet long. The tomb had been constructed of natural surface rock.

The tomb contained no trinkets, guns or other articles by which identification could be made possible. The authorities who have taken charge of the find have not yet been able to tell whether any one of the three skeletons is that of a female.

COUNT HAD OTHER PROSPECTS

Financial Smash-Up of Prospective Father-in-Law Did Not Cause Him to Worry.

Col. Alexander S. Bacon, president of the Men's Equal Suffrage League of Brooklyn, said, the other day to a reporter:

"Yes, it's true that you won't find many American peeresses enrolled under the suffrage banner. The girl who lets a foreigner marry her for money is, anyways, a rather poor specimen."

Colonel Bacon frowned.

"There's a New York man," he said, "whose daughter, during a winter in Nice, got engaged to a certain Count Beau de Beaumont. The New York man was rich at that time, but a few weeks before the date set for the wedding he went to smash.

"'My dear Count Beau de Beaumont,' he groaned that night, 'I'm very sorry for you. You are to marry my daughter—you were to have had $35,000 a year—but the crash has come. I'm ruined now. How sorry I am, count!'

"But Count Beau de Beaumont gave the New York man a reassuring slap on the back.

"'Oh, don't you worry about me, sir,' he said, with an easy laugh. 'With a title like mine, you know, I can find another heiress tomorrow.'"

"Made It So."

At Fort Monroe some time ago (this is an old story), where one of the vessels of the navy was temporarily awaiting orders, a delegation of army officers stationed at the fort came aboard. There is a set naval regulation that nothing can be so on board ship until the commanding officer orders it. While the army party were looking over the ship, twelve o'clock arrived. A junior officer approached the captain and said, with a salute: "It is twelve o'clock, sir." "Make it so," responded the captain, and eight bells were struck. The army officers suspected that the navy men wanted them to ask some questions and get sold, or that this was a bit of foolery got up to joke the land warriors. Some time after, a party of the army officers invited the officers of the warship to dine with them. The dinner was progressing when a lieutenant entered and, saluting the senior officer present, said, gravely: "Colonel, the major's blind horse is dead." "Make it so," responded the colonel, with the greatest gravity, and the dinner proceeded. Nothing was said at the time, but the navy officers tell the story.

More Pay, More Love.

"New York city school ma'ams are going to be an attractive target for Cupid's shafts in the near future?" said a principal the other day. "With salaries ranging from $1,850 to $3,400 yearly, even an extravagant spinster will be able to boost the credit side of a savings account. Some of my women teachers already report an increase in the number of suitors, and they say there is an appreciable increase in the fervor of their beaus' protestations of affection."

An Endless Chain.

"We're kind of irritated in our flat," said the worried-looking man.

"What's the trouble?"

"Our children keep the next-door neighbors awake, so they pass the time by playing the piano; that makes the pet dog next door to them bark, and that keeps the children next door awake, and there's so much noise through the building that there's no chance whatever of our children going to sleep."

Never Let Him Forget It.

The man who owes all to his wife is not going to be permitted to forget it this side of the main entrance to the cemetery in which the family lot is situated.—Houston Post.

Pays to Go Slow.

It is sometimes better not to get fighting mad over the impugned innocence of our friends until we learn the facts in the case.

CALLS FOR WILD ANIMALS

Indians Are Very Skilful in Attracting Game by Imitating Their Calls.

The Indians have a call or tole for nearly every animal, writes Mr. John G. Millais in "Newfoundland and Its Untrodden Ways." They can bring a fox right up to within twenty yards by making a sibilant noise produced by sucking the back of the hand. Reynard takes it to be the cry of a mouse in difficulties, and seldom fails to advance close to the sound.

Stag caribou are toled by grunting loudly in two different ways, a vocal effort which requires little skill or practice on the imitator's part. The "herd" stag will quickly answer the caller, and advance for a short distance, but the "traveling" stag will come very close if the calls are properly made at suitable intervals.

Wild geese can be called when they first arrive in the spring, by waving a white rag and imitating their "bonking" call, but after the first fortnight they take little notice of the lure. A small white dog is also attractive to geese in the spring, and one Indian I know of has killed numbers of these birds by using one for a decoy.

Beavers, when they have been undisturbed for long, are very curious in relation to strange sounds. They will come swimming out of their house even at the firing of a gun. The Indians usually call them with a hissing noise, or one produced by munching the lips. Another favorite tole is a sound made by tapping the trousers with the hand. The most successful beaver-caller to Newfoundland killed great numbers of beavers, in the open season, by making a sound that resembled the cutting of chips off a tree. It is said that the unfortunate beavers never fail to respond to this noise.

The Indian has no call for the lynx, but one or two of them can attract the otter by imitating its shrill whistle.—Youth's Companion.

HE HAD TO STRIKE OR BUST

Colored Man Was Afraid White Folks Would Think He Was Just Common Trash.

"I keep a colored man around the house who waits on the table and does various things," said the lawyer. "Up to a year ago he was getting $25 a month. Then he came to me one day and said he must have more money or he would strike. We talked it over, and settled on $28 a month. He has got along at that figure ever since until the other day, when he walked in on me and said:

"'Mistah Blank, I'se sure got to go on strike dis time.'

"'But I thought you were satisfied, Robert,' I replied.

"'No, sah—no, sah. I hain't dun satisfied.'

"'Well, how much do you want?'

"'I don't want any mo', sah.'

"'Then what's the trouble?'

"'De trouble am, sah, dat de strike business am in de air all 'round me, an' I's got to strike or bust.'

"'Are you going to leave?'

"'No, sah.'

"'But you want more money?'

"'No, sah.'

"'Well, what then?'

"'A year ago, sah, I struck fo'd's fur $25. Now I'se gwine to strike backward fur de same $25. Sorry, sah, but I must dun strike or dese white folks 'round yere will think I'm jes common trash and hev no respect fur me!'"—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

A Canine Negotiator.

An amusing story concerning the Morocco negotiations is going the rounds of the French press. Herr von Kiderlen-Waechter possesses a beautiful dog of the boarhound type. The dog and his master are inseparable. One lives for the other; in fact, they remind one of Wordsworth's "Two Thieves" for their attachment. The dog takes part in the negotiations lying at the feet of his master and for the most part motionless. But in the course of the conversation sometimes the French diplomatist unconsciously raises his voice. Then a low growl from the dog leads M. Cambon to modulate his voice. When von Kiderlen-Waechter had to visit the kaiser on board his yacht at Kiel some time ago the dog, moreover, accompanied him. The two friends at the port seemed likely to suffer a short separation, but the kaiser saw what was going on between the statesmen and harbor officials, and solved the difficulty, observing: 'When two brothers come to see me I cannot do otherwise than receive them together."

Beyond Understanding.

A young man just returned from college was out cycling one day when suddenly he came to a steep gradient. While he was descending he lost control of his machine and was thrown. Two men came and found him lying on the ground. When asked how it happened he replied:

"Well, I came down that decline with the greatest velocity and lost my central gravity and was precipitated on the hard macadamized road."

"Away, lad; let him alone," replied one of the men. "He's a foreigner."

Vigorous Performer.

"Does your boy Josh play on the football team?"

"No," replied Farmer Corntossel. "Josh wouldn't stand fur no mollycoddle job like that. He's the feller that leads the mob and wrecks opry houses after the game is over."

Luxury in Cigars.

The Rothschilds smoke the most costly cigars that are made—the Henry Clay Sobranos—which cost $1.50 each. These are wrapped in gold leaf and packed in little inlaid cedar wood cabinets.

Bee's Fast Rate of Travel.

A bee's wings are said to beat the air at the rate of 190 strokes a second, while the insect can travel a distance of thirty miles an hour.

DON'T KNOW OWN SLANG

Mack the Mick Returns Highly Disgusted With His Experience Among the Britishers.

"Chee," said Mack the Mick, as he disembarked from the second cabin gangway of the Lusitania, "dem Britishers dunno deir own slang. No, dey don't. Straight!

"I took in deir law courts one day in Lunnon. Chee! dey didn't know what a toff was dere. Toff—deir own slang, mind ye—and dey didn't know it! Straight! Chee!

"A custer—dat's a huckster—he ses, sez he, dat a guy wot he'd swiped was a toff.

"'Wot's a toff?' says his nibs, de head jedge.

"'A toff,' says a lawyer, 'is a guy wot wears fine close, yer honor. But, yer honor, a real toff is a gent, a genuwine gent.'

"'Why, I t'ought,' says another lawyer, 'dat a toff was a bloke wot wore an eyeglass.'

"Den de head jedge he dropped his own eyeglass outer his eye and he says:

"'O' course, dough dere's many well-known exceptions to de rule.'

"Den dey all laughed, but flew de coop disgusted.

"'Lawyers!' says I to meself. 'And dey dunno deir own slanguage!'"

And Then They Blame the Luck.

Opportunity has knocked at many a man's door when he was down at the corner saying "Here's good luck."

Watch

The next issue of this paper. Just the news that you have been waiting for.

THE UP-TO-DATE
PAINESVILLE, O.

Bars Sawdust From River.

Sawdust contaminates water, according to the decision of a Virginia court in the case brought by residents along the banks of a stream to prevent the owners of a sawmill from dumping the dust from their mill into the water. The farmers testified that the sawdust gave the water such a color and offensive odor that the cattle could not drink it. On the strength of this testimony and other facts brought out the court ordered the sawmill people to make other disposition of their refuse.

Horrible Thought.

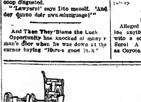
Alleged Humorist—Can you imagine anything worse than a giraffe with a sore throat? Prove One—Sure! A centipede with corns.—Texas Coyote.



Your Country Home CAN HAVE ALL THE CONVENIENCES OF Hot and cold water with suburban water supply systems as installed by

HAWKINS-JEPSON CO.,
THE PLUMBERS

PHONE 333-R PAINESVILLE, OHIO
Branch Store, Arlington Block, Fairport, Ohio

Don't fail to secure some of those

Special Sale Bargains

See the 1 1-2 qt. Aluminum Sauce Pans, 50c values while they last, for - - 32c.

The Doolittle Bros. Company

LAST CALL

—ON—

OVERCOATS and SUITS

BARGAINS!

John S. Lockwood

RUBBERS? RUBBERS?

Rubber over our Stock of Rubbers.

A new pair for those that go wrong.

Woonsocket---Candee

and other first class Brands at hand.

Eagle Stamps Free with every purchase

CLOTHING, DRY GOODS, SHOES, ETC.

M. HOROWITZ
WICKLIFFE, O.
Cuy. Phone 67R In Steven's Old Stand

WE HAVE THE GOODS

Our values cannot be equaled elsewhere. Our line of SPRING DRY GOODS, LADIES' FURNISHINGS AND NOTIONS is complete. Quality goods at reasonable rates only. We give S. & H. GREEN TRADING STAMPS.

WM. F. WOLLPERT'S GENERAL STORE
WICKLIFFE, O. CUY. PHONE 4-R

---

The Lake County Weekly Herald

Volume XIV. No. 2 PAINESVILLE, OHIO, MARCH 21, 1912 One Dollar Per Year.

ABOUT PEOPLE AND PLACES

The moving van is getting very busy in Painesville.

—o—

Put the snow shovel away and oil up the lawn mower.

—o—

C. H. Horton has an important law suit before the Supreme Court this week.

—o—

Seed catalogues are rapidly forging to the front as the most popular reading right now.

—o—

Local electricians report a good demand for house wiring, all of which will help the municipal lighting plant.

—o—

Willoughby is getting quite a reputation for the criminal conduct of many of the young men of that village.

—o—

It makes little difference to the progressive Democrat whether it is Bryan and Wilson or Wilson and Bryan.

—o—

Just six weeks ago the groundhog saw his shadow. What's become of the weather prophet who said he was unreliable?

—o—

Georgia is yet to hear from, but in Tennessee the peach crop has again been ruined. The marvel is that anyone ever eats a peach.

—o—

The city council promised to pave Mentor avenue. Wouldn't it be well to get the preliminaries over with so that the paving could be done early.

—o—

Mayor Smith and the city council are pledged to a subway under the Lake Shore tracks. Now is the time to start the preliminary legislation.

—o—

Sixty joined the four protestant churches of the city Sunday by confession and sixteen by letter. It is expected that 100 more will join by Easter Sunday.

—o—

The Fairport, Painesville & Eastern railroad have started an appropriation case against C. A. Moodey et al for some land located near the plant of the Diamond Alkali company.

—o—

Of course those men in the Constitutional Convention had to vote for Woman Suffrage, but the next time it is a secret ballot and men will do queer things under such circumstances.

—o—

The Board of Directors of the Lake County Agricultural Society met at the court house last Saturday, but no important business was transacted, although plans for the coming county fair were discussed.

—o—

Miss Alta C. Pike, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Pike of Leroy, passed away at her home on Wednesday, March 13, after a short illness of tuberculosis. She is survived by a brother, Lee E. Pike.

—o—

The late revival held in this city may have been a great success in some ways, but the scandal set agoing by the ministerial concessions must detract somewhat from what was probably intended to do good.

—o—

F. S. Littlejohn, state deputy of the Knights of the Maccabees, has resigned his office to take effect on April 1. Mr. Littlejohn has accepted the position of general agent for northeast Ohio for the Cleveland Life Insurance Co. and will enter his new field on April 1.

—o—

The funeral services of Mrs. Susan Dayton, who passed away on Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Jackson, in the Crosby block, were held on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Dayton had been in poor health for many years and for the past five years had not left her room.

—o—

Lake county ministers met Monday and organized a county ministerial association with Rev. M. S. Freeman, Madison, president; Rev. Mr. Beard and Rev. Mr. Hearn, vice presidents; D. R. Ryall, secretary; and P. B. Schaffner, treasurer.

—o—

The city council should proceed at once to require the C. P. & E. Ry. to repair the pavement on Erie street which is getting into very bad shape. The council does not need to give away a franchise in order to get this work done but have the authority under state law to demand it.

—o—

The negroes of Columbus, Mo., dedicated a new church the other day. The minister announced that all the officers had been elected. "But," he continued, "we need two cuspidors." One of the brethren rose with dignity and said, "I move dat Silas Cross be one of dem cuspidors."

—o—

Mr. A. R. Milner of the Milner Mfg. Co., Canal Dover, was in the city last week looking over Painesville with a view of locating here. This company manufactures an adjustable auditorium chair and school desks. Mr. Milner met a number of business men here and invited a committee to come to Canal Dover and investigate his business. He says his company can be induced to locate here if local capital will take about $25,000 of preferred stock offered for sale by the company.

Mr. Roosevelt's support of reforms is appreciated, but when he asks credit beyond democrats one is reminded of the old colored man's inquiry. He was hoeing cotton in July and mopping the perspiration from his face looked up at the sun and asked: "Whar was yo' last December when we needed you?"—Bryan's Commoner.

—o—

Mrs. Rhoda W. Fisher, aged 82 years, one of the oldest residents of the city and one who was highly respected by all who knew her, passed away early Sunday morning at her home on Mentor avenue. The surviving immediate relatives are the three children, Miss Hattie E. Fisher, Mrs. F. McCall of this city, and George M. Fisher of Chicago.

—o—

Miss Lottie White of East Painesville has sold forty acres of her farm to Louis Tillotson of Toledo. Mr. Tillotson will occupy it soon. Miss White will make her home on the farm. The purchaser is a brother of Dr. L. H. and Earl S. Tillotson and his daughter will be remembered as a student of Lake Erie college.

—o—

John C. Ward and Martin A. Tuttle, official boosters for the chamber of commerce committee interested in securing the Moose Home for Painesville, left Sunday morning for Chicago with a trunk full of arguments for the "prettiest little city." The national home committee meets in Chicago on Monday and the Painesville men are going to get in on the ground floor and try to land the Home.

The Mimeograph Case

The decision, two weeks ago, of the Supreme Court of the United States, in the Mimeograph Patent case, has aroused a storm of indignant protest over the country and an insistent demand that the court on a rehearing shall reverse its judgment, or that Congress shall interpose by legislation to protect trade and consumers from what is regarded as an unjust interpretation of the law.

What adds to the sense of wrong judicially inflicted, is that the decision was that of a minority of the court. Justice Day did not sit in the case, there was one vacant seat on the bench and three members disagreed,—one, Chief Justice White, in a boiling dissenting opinion. Thus four out of nine judges have construed a law by interpretation, the disastrous consequences of which can not even be foreseen. Indeed, Justice Lurton in pronouncing the opinion which is made to pass for the law, expressed what might follow the extension of the patentee's privileges decreed by the court, but felt bound by what he conceived to be binding precedents which controlled the case in his view.

The principle established by the decision is in substance this: A patentee, or one who becomes the owner of his patent, may compel the one who uses it to use also such materials or supplies in making whatever is manufactured under it or used in connection with it, as he may select,—although the latter may not be covered by any patent. Thus, the patentee of a typewriter may require every sheet of paper upon which it prints to be of the kind which he or some ally of his alone sells—although the brand of paper is not patented at all—and if any other kind is used the user becomes an infringer of the patent—not on the paper but on the typewriter.

Democratic Dates

Democratic primaries or conventions will be held as follows:

March 14—Kansas democratic state convention.
March 19—Primaries for North Dakota.
March 26—Primaries for New York.
April 2—Primaries for Wisconsin.
April 9—Primaries for Illinois.
April 12—New York democratic state convention.
April 13—Primaries for Pennsylvania.
April 17—Illinois congressional district conventions.
April 19—Primaries for Nebraska.
April 19—Primaries for Oregon.
April 27—Primaries for Tennessee.
April 29—Colorado democratic state convention.
April 20—Primaries for Florida.
May 1—Connecticut state convention.
May 9—Iowa state convention.
May 14—California primaries.
May 28—Primaries for New Jersey.
June 4—Primaries for South Dakota.

Mentor Shooting

Raymond Drues, of Euclid, is in the county jail charged with shooting with intent to kill. The defendant will have a hearing Thursday, March 21.

At a dance held in Mentor Saturday night Drues shot Dan McCarthy of Mentor. McCarthy is in Lakeside Hospital, and reported in a very critical condition.

BIG REAL ESTATE DEAL

Two Hundred and Eighty Acres of Perry Land Sold to Cleveland Parties.

Probably one of the most important sales of real estate for Perry, considering the probable outcome, was effected last week by the local dealer, J. F. Brown, who sold to Messrs. Geo. H. Burrows and C. J. Lowrie of Cleveland what is known as the Reed & Moffet farms, 280 acres about one mile west of the Perry Acres Colony. These farms have a frontage of about 600 feet on the South ridge or Euclid road and will form the basis of an orchard company. It will be incorporated for seventy-five thousand dollars and the stock sold to representative business men of Cleveland. The farm will be managed by a board of directors, who will employ a thoroughly scientific and up-to-date horticulturist. The farm will have the most approved modern machinery, an automobile truck. A club house will be erected where members can go for a few days or weeks' rest or recreation. The Euclid frontage will be sold to stockholders and bungalows erected. Water, sewer and electric light will be installed. A swimming pool is to be built as will a lawn tennis court be maintained for the use of club members. Messrs Burrows & Lowrie were promoters of the Perry Acres Colony and they are about to set out nearly ten thousand trees in the colony. All trees are to be set with dynamite and a big crowd of Cleveland people are expected to be in Perry when the trees are being set.

Killed in Painesville

The funeral of Ralph A. Mills, who was killed in Painesville, was held at his home in that city Thursday afternoon of last week. He was a cousin of Mrs Clyde Thayer and Mrs Ralph Pease, of Chardon, who attended the funeral. He was the son of Newton M. Mills, a former resident of Chester. Death came to him just an hour after he accepted a position in the soda ash plant. He was a member of the Maccabees.—Chardon Record

Marriage License

Stanley D. Kelly, 21, Willoughby;
Hazel B. Hart, 24, Mentor.
Milford L. Oliver, 19, Mentor;
Frances M. Greene, 22, Mentor.
Fred S. Gregory, 19, Kinsman;
Bessie M. Day, 18, Painesville.

Mr and Mrs. Frank Harrold of Marion, Ohio, are the happy parents of a eleven pound son, born [illegible]. Mrs. Harrold was formerly Miss Leota Pierson of this city.

Chance for Farm Boys

The Ohio State Fair will be held in connection with the Ohio-Columbus centennial celebration and will cover 10 days from Aug. 27 to Sept. 6, inclusive. It is understood that the policy of paying the expenses of one farm boy from each county will be continued. With the added attractions of the centennial and a ten days' visit to the capitol city, it is likely there will be much more of a contest for the honor of representing this county next year than there was this year.

Hats in Politics
(From the Newark News)

Mr. Wilson wanted to knock Mr. Bryan into a cocked hat.

Mr. Roosevelt's hat is in the ring. Not his Panama one, however.

Mr. Bryan's hat is lying innocently in the middle of the road to Baltimore, filled with bricks.

Mr. Clark's hat is being spoken of by admirers of the picturesque.

Mr. Taft's hat is being spoken through, it seems to us.

Mr. La Follette will eat his hat if he has withdrawn.

Mr. Harmon has a bee in his bonnet?

Weighing The Candidate.
(From the Newark News)

"It is so hard to decide," said the first suffraget.

"Yes, indeed," the second agreed. "There is not a good-looking man in the lot."

"Take Roosevelt, for instance. Would you vote for him?"

"With that slouch hat of his, and those baggy clothes? Never!"

"Some woman think Taft is handsome, but I can't bear stout men with mustaches, can you?"

"I shudder at the thought of them. I don't care for pompadours, either."

"Neither do I, so we'll cross La Follette off. That leaves Woodrow Wilson."

"Have you ever seen Wilson in a linen duster and goggles?"

"No. Have you?"

"I saw him last year on the Glidden tour."

"How did he look?"

"Perfectly terrible."

"That ends him, then, and there's nobody left to vote for. What shall we do?"

"I'll tell you what we might do. Let's see if the judges won't allow us to save up our votes till 1916 and then vote twice."

UNIONVILLE

Walter Lamb was at home from Amboy, and Miss Helen from Cleveland, for the week end. Miss Hubbard of Amboy was also a guest at the Lamb home.

Miss Louise Patterson of Geneva was a Sunday guest of her friend Miss Anne Nelins on Sunday.

Miss Mildred Goddard is spending a week visiting relatives in Cleveland.

Miss Marion Goddard visited relatives in Ashtabula over Sunday.

Mr. Henry Barrett is moving from the Kyser place to his own home here in town which he recently purchased of J. R. Adams.

The church was well filled on Saturday evening to listen to the entertainment given by Miss Emma Dee Randle. Miss Randle is a fine elocutionist and pleased her audience.

Mr. Kelly is quite ill with neuralgia.

Mrs M. E. Wheelock is also seriously ill.

About twenty friends of Miss Doretha Martin were entertained at her home Friday evening at a Leap Year party. Games were played and refreshments served.

L. S. & M. S. Agent, Harold Shaw, has returned from a week's vacation, spent in Buffalo.

Mrs A. B. Cleveland visited her daughter, Mrs Grant Dayton, in Conneaut recently.

Mrs. Carl Kelsey is suffering from an attack of sciatic rheumatism.

C. Pierce who has been spending several weeks with his aunt, Mrs Louise Barnes, recently underwent a very serious operation in Cleveland. He is reported as recovering very nicely.

WILLOUGHBY

Born, Saturday, a daughter to Prof and Mrs E. M. Otis.

Mr Otis Sheffield who has been taking an extended trip, returned home Saturday.

A free lecture was given Monday evening on the care of eyes.

The sewing circle met Wednesday at the home of Mrs Thomas Bridgeford on River street.

Abe Webster will begin a new house on River street.

Mrs James A. McMahon entertained her luncheon club Friday afternoon, and Mr and Mrs McMahon their pedro club the same evening.

Miss Stella Ebon and brother, Clarence, of Collinwood, spent Sunday with relatives.

Mr and Mrs Roy D. Quinn spent two or three days in Chardon this week.

The officers and teachers of the Methodist Sunday school met Monday evening at the parsonage.

The Ladies Aid society hold an all days meeting at the Methodist church Wednesday.

Charles Baldwin entertained his brother, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Lockwood returned from Perry Thursday where they have been for a few days.

Mrs Mark Ahlo, a sister of Mrs. O. Gridley, left last week for Osceola, where she will make her home.

Mr. and Mrs Charles Morris spent a day or two in Painesville the past week.

Mr and Mrs Geo. Parker have moved to Spaulding street.

Mrs. Difford, who was a stranger here, died while visiting friends. The remains were taken to Cleveland.

Miss Agnes Bales and Miss Mary Flynn spent Sunday at the home of their uncle on Wilson avenue.

Rev. N. W. Sprout, the District Superintendent, occupied the Methodist pulpit Sunday evening.

Special meetings will be held at the M. E. church, beginning March 31 and closing April 7th.

The high school are preparing to give a concert in April.

Mr James A. McMahon has an appointment again in Toronto for the second week in April.

CONCORD

Schools closed last Friday for the annual March vacation.

Miss Margaret Murray is visiting friends in Clyde, and Kendallville, Ind., for a short time.

Bert Brown returned to his home in Painesville last week.

Mrs. H. O. Adams returned last week from a several days visit with relatives in Collinwood.

Mr and Mrs A. C. Warren attended the Hart-Kelly wedding in Mentor last Thursday.

Mr and Mrs H. P. Warren of S. Mentor and Mr and Mrs. Clyde Manley of Painesville, were Sunday visitors at W. P. Warren's.

George Leuty visited Mayfield relatives a few days last week.

PERRY

Mr. and Mrs H. W. Dickies and daughter, Ruth, are spending a couple of weeks with his parents in Lena.

Mrs. Howard Brooks and little daughter, Elsie, of Cleveland, are staying with Mrs. Brook's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mack.

Miss Bessie Salkeld is still in Cleveland, where she went last Thursday to attend her chums, Miss Lillian Snow's wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Vizzard were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bickle in Cleveland over Sunday.

Mrs. Ellen Mitchell was calling in Fairport Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Avery of East Cleveland, took dinner with R. S. West and family Sunday.

The St. Patrick's social given by the Willing Gleaners' Class of the Christian Church and held at Mrs. Barkalow's was a success in spite of the inky blackness of the night. Many Irish stunts were tried and a truly delicious lunch was served, the prevailing color naturally being green.

Mrs. John Main spent several days of the past week at the home of her sister in Cleveland.

Rehearsals by a troupe from the Methodist church have commenced on the comedy entitled 'Red Acre Farm,' which is to be rendered in the near future, for the general good of the public and to raise money for the payment of a recently purchased piano.

Miss Nettie Shook is at home again after spending the winter in Painesville.

Mr and Mrs W. S. Ford and daughter, Emma, attended the funeral of Mr. Burridge in Mentor Thursday.

The Misses Burridge were the guests of relatives in Lane over Sunday.

Mr and Mrs. Fisher and daughter Verona, are the guests of relatives in Akron this week.

Mr and Mrs M. C. Hickman are entertaining their brother, Mr. Hickman from Virginia.

Spring has come. Everything and everybody in Perry rejoices, but the roads are almost impassable. Carriages and wagons sink almost to the hubs in mud. "Truly every prospect pleases only travelling is vile."

Mr. Laugshaw has sent you his announcement, will you kindly insert it in some prominent place?

NORTH MADISON

Mr and Mrs Carl Merkle are located on the old Vesey place on the Lake Road.

Mr Smith and family from Geneva are living in the tenant house at the A. N. Benjamin farm.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Foster were Sunday guests of their son, Osmer, who will soon be located in Mentor Township.

It is rumored that the Eugene Stevens farm known as "Lake Grove Farm" has been sold and will be used as outing grounds for the Y. W. C. A.

Mr. Stuart from Elyria who purchased the Crippen place last fall are now located on their farm.

Mr. Peck was at his farm Sunday.

Harry Brakeman is visiting relatives in Montville.

Mr. James Hill is repairing the house at his newly purchased farm, and will soon be located there.

Mrs. Corrie Dillington is sick with stomach trouble.

Mrs Ed Anderson is spending a few days with her relatives at Lorain and Miss Mary Shepard is at the Anderson home during her absence.

Mr. Hiner, the foreman on Mr. A. N. Benjamin's farm has had the misfortune to lose a cow recently, also to have his hired man take his leave in the night taking with him 24 pounds of onion seed valued at $70.

Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson spent Sunday at Mr. Albert Thompson's.

Mrs. James Davis is not improving as is hoped by her friends. She was well remembered with post cards on her birthday.

Mr. Horace Tuttle is making sugar at his farm, but was in the city over Sunday.

Miss Flora Harris was surprised by all her young friends Friday evening, the occasion being her birthday. An exceptionally fine time was reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Foster were Tuesday guests of her sister, Mrs. Will Ruff.

Miss Gertrude Brakeman of Montville was a week end guest at Mr and Mrs. Geo Haywood's.

Mr John Perry are now living in the Clark cottage on the Lake Road, having sold their farm in town.

Mrs E. J. Foster and daughter Eleanore, were recent guests of her parents.

MADISON

Miss Bessie Phelps, has accepted a position as sales lady in the millinery department of the Kenny Bros. store in Canton.

Mr Dell Phelps has sold his home on River street to Mr North of Austinburg.

Mr and Mrs Gross of Cleveland arrived in town Wednesday, to take possession of their recently purchased home on West Main street. Two large vans from the city brought their household goods.

Miss Grace Corlett has been a recent visitor at the home of her sister, Mrs Geo. Moodey in Painesville.

E. M. Sinclair and family have moved to Girard, Pa.

G. G. Griswold is slowly improving from typhoid fever.

Mr Randall of Cleveland had business in Madison Wednesday.

Mr. Ray Goodell has purchased the G. C. Starr place on River street, possession given April 15th.

Miss Ethel Williams visited friends in Leroy, from Friday to Sunday.

Mr. Oscar Weldy is not improving as rapidly as his friends would like to see him.

Mr. Charles E. Oygle of Cleveland, the new jeweler of Madison, has rented the O. W. Kneale house, possession given April 1st.

Mr. Rowley spent Monday in Ashtabula.

Mrs. Prentice, who has been seriously ill, is said to be a little better at this writing.

Don't forget the sugar social at Congregational church Friday evening.

Supt O. W. Kneale had business in Geneva Monday afternoon.

Mr. H. E. Guisewite of Painesville visited his aunt Mrs. Sossaman, formerly of Toledo, at the Home, Saturday.

Mr. Max Cord of Cleveland called on his friend, Miss Nellie Brock recently.

Committee of State Board of Charities, Mrs M. E. Rathburn, Rutland, Ohio, and Miss Blanche Digoos, Canton, Ohio, were at the Home Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs H. O. St. John were guests of the Supt. and Matron Sunday.

How Trusts Are Busted.

Here is an interesting item from the financial columns of a standpat Taft newspaper in relation to one of the busted trusts about which so much triumphant noise has been made. It should be read in connection with the loud boasts of the administration over its mighty achievement in forcing the dissolution of the big Rockefeller holding concern.

Standard Oil (the old stock, with subsidiaries) established a new high record in the New York curb market yesterday. Sales were reported at 860 during the early part of the day, and in the afternoon private bids were reported as high as 890, with all offerings held at 900. The closing quotations were 860 bid, 900 asked. The movement was due to the remarkable advance that has been recorded in some of the subsidiaries. One of these, Standard Oil of Indiana, was reported to have sold at $6,200 a share, an advance of $600 a share over last week's bid price, and an advance of $400 a share over last week's asking price. The highest previous price on the old Standard Oil stock was $843 a share, recorded in 1901, in which year the company paid 48 per cent in cash dividends, amounting to $46,775,400 on the outstanding capital stock. Just prior to the handing down of the supreme court decision last May the stock sold as high as 690, but in June, when the scope of the decision was realized, there was a decline to 639, these quotations applying to odd lots of the stock. Since the mandate was issued for the dissolution of the corporation last year, the stock has advanced $250 a share. There was a rumor that Attorney-General Wickersham contemplated an investigation of the alleged manipulation of Standard Oil stock and subsidiaries, but little attention was given the rumor. Traders in the stock found it difficult to imagine what grounds the government would have for inquiring into the market price which investors were voluntarily paying.

WAS HISTORIC OLD BUILDING

Mint at Philadelphia Was the First Building Erected by Authority of Congress.

In removing the foundations of the coinage building of the old mint, at Nos. 37 and 39 North Seventh street, some quaint specimens of oldtime building construction, including several curious vaults, were uncovered. The cellar in which the vaults were located was reached by heavy stone steps, supported by brick or stone arches, a method handed down from medieval times. One of the vaults in which bullion was stored consisted of a vault within a vault, and was designed, it is said, at the time of the war of 1812 to conceal materials which could not be readily transported to other hiding places. Several small windows in the cellar were protected by heavy hand-wrought iron bars. These have been preserved, and will be added along with other relics, such as locks and hinges, to the collection in Independence hall. In digging out an old well in the yard a number of copper coins bearing the dates 1816 and 1816, were found, as well as a quantity of scrap copper from which the coins had been cut. From old papers relating to a lawsuit found by Frank H. Stewart president of the company which owns the property, it was ascertained that five buildings were originally included in the old mint, all of them grouped around the coinage building. It is an historic fact that this old structure, which was the last of these buildings to be razed, was the first building of any description erected by authority of the United States congress.—Philadelphia Record.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

LA FOLLETTE WINS

Defeats Roosevelt by Two to One and Taft Far Behind.

Fargo, N. D., March 19.—According to early figures from all parts of the state, United States Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin today ran ahead of Theodore Roosevelt in North Dakota presidential preference primary. This is the first primary of kind ever held in the United States.

Total figures on hand at the state Roosevelt headquarters at this time give La Follette 4,265 and Roosevelt 2,938 votes.

With these figures as a basis, John S. Bass, manager of the Roosevelt campaign, issued the following statement:

"Our reports indicate that practically all the Democrats have voted for La Follette and this has run up the early returns for him in the eastern and valley section of the state where La Follette is running ahead about 2 to 1. Our later returns from the western slope indicate that country is generally for Roosevelt by 2 to 1. I do not concede La Follette success and predict Roosevelt will win by a close vote. If the Democrats had stayed out of the Republican primary, there is no question that Roosevelt would have won."

Leaders at La Follette state headquarters issued a statement in which they declared that La Follette had defeated Roosevelt by 20,000 votes.

DEMOCRATS

Will Meet in State Convention at Toledo June 4th and 5th.

At a meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee Tuesday at Columbus the date of the state convention was fixed for June 4 and 5, at Toledo, preceding the national convention.

A call was also issued for a presidential preference primary to be held on May 21st.

The principal provisions of the call that will be issued are as follows:

State wide presidential preference primary, open to all Democratic electors.

Separate ballots and separate ballot boxes to be provided by the regular election officers.

Presidential candidates' names to be placed upon the official ballot in answer to petitions signed by 5,000 Democratic electors, and filed with the secretary of state.

"My choice for president" to be the only heading permitted on the ballot.

Names of candidates to be printed in single columns, first place being given to candidate filing the first complete petition.

Provision to be made for electors to vote for candidate whose name does not appear on the printed ballot.

The result of the election to be certified to the secretary of state within ten days.

Secretary of state to certify result to the chairman of the temporary state convention.

Candidates receiving largest number of votes to select six delegates and six alternates-at-large and submit the same to the state convention for its ratification.

FRIEND OF THE YOUNG MEN

Undergraduates Make Themselves at Home in Apartment of Harvard Professor.

If you climb the south stairway of Hollis hall, one of the ancient and honorable dormitories of Harvard, some Saturday night after ten o'clock you will find Charles Townsend Copeland in his room up under the roof by the side of a "sea coal fire," and, overflowing from a chair and settled to the floor at his feet, a crowd of undergraduates. There are athletes, editors of college papers, Socialists, atheists, gentlemen, social stars and the lesser orbs whose light is hid under the college bushel.

It is a wonderful room, lined from floor to low ceiling with books. The broad mantel and the little wall space are covered up with signed pictures of great people that you read about and all the long generations of boys whose friend he has been. Over the door is a horseshoe and a bunch of rowan berries. The only light is from the fire, perhaps a candle on the mantelpiece, and the reading light to the left of the fire, where sits the little man, intermittently smoking an infamous brand of cigarettes. Everybody talks of the thing nearest his heart; everybody finds himself, alert, quick, almost brilliant. Startling theories are expounded and strange systems of philosophy. One tells of rowing, another of throwing the hammer, of "parties" in town, of clubs and books and college politics. I don't know whether the little man is interested in those things, which he has heard from so many classes, but he evidently loves the spirit of youth that is in them. Indeed, he once said that if ever he were cut off from youth he would wither up and die.

Assistant professor of English Charles T. Copeland is known as "Copey" by the university and by hundreds of graduates, and the nickname shows how much he is loved. But there is no one of the teaching force more feared and respected than he.—American Magazine.

All He Had to Do With It.

"And you actually consented to let your wife run for office?" "Consented? Certainly not. I acquiesced."

LAKE COUNTY HERALD
[illegible] & TUTTLE, Proprietors
PAINESVILLE, OHIO

NOT ENOUGH THAT HE WRITE

Modern Author Is Provided by His Publisher With Another Less Pleasant Vocation.

After dinner speaking is a part of the trade of authorship nowadays, the New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Star writes. The men who are being featured in the popular magazines have become peripatetic pinwheels of oratory. They are called on to sputter bon mots and spatter humor as soon as the match is lighted. The magazines and publishing houses send their authors to every banquet within reach. The unfortunates have to keep their evening clothes by the bedside, and be ready to slide down a brass pole like a fireman as soon as a dinner alarm is sounded. The small fry of writers attend all sorts of dinners, from the annual reunion of the Sons of Sour Mash to the feast spread by the Amalgamated Order of Coach and Town Painters. But the big chiefs—like the Irwin Brothers and John O'Hara Cosgrave and Gelett Burgess—only cover dinners for which the "three nines" are sounded. Then you can see them dashing madly through the streets in taxicabs, wearily getting into the first part regalia and buttoning collars, and muttering the new stuff with which the diners are to be regaled that night. It isn't any wonder that they got away to the woods as soon as the woods are opened in the spring. They have to restore digestion impaired by a nightly procession of nine courses and five wines. "I've become a kind of refined wine agent," said one of them the other day. "I ought to put out a sign: 'All dinners eaten with neatness and despatch. We pride ourselves on our refinement.' There is just one place where I have it on a wine man. He has to drink wine. It's part of his business. Whereas if I drink beer it is regarded as an eccentricity of genius."

Indian Girl's Good Shot.

One of the prettiest exhibitions of markmanship ever seen here was witnessed by a crowd in the vicinity of the postoffice.

One of the halyards attached to a flag on a high pole of a riding device snapped and the flag and halyard twisted themselves into the pulley in such a way that it was impossible to get the flag down. The manager offered $25 to any one who would get the flag down. Wenona, an Indian girl, overheard him and procured her rifle.

From where she stood to where the flag was flying from the pole was fully 800 feet. The pulley was so well concealed by the flag that only a small piece of the top of the eyelet was visible. Carefully sighting, Wenona fired, and the first shot cut the pulley from the pole and sent the flag flying down.—Venice Correspondence Denver Times.

Royalty Travels Incognito.

Nearly every member of the British royal family adopts a pseudonym when traveling otherwise than on state occasions. The duke and duchess of Connaught chose the incognito title of earl and countess of Sussex when they made their continental journeys, and Princess Louise, duchess of Argyll, and the duke of Argyll travel as Lord and Lady Sundridge, this being one of the Argyll minor titles.

Before her marriage Queen Maud of Norway occasionally called herself by the unpretentious name of Miss Mills. Queen Victoria always traveled as countess of Balmoral, though, curiously enough, her heavy luggage was generally labeled "The Queen."

To Stock Lakes With Frogs.

The department of commerce and labor of the United States will make an investigation of the possibilities of the frog industry, according to a letter received by George H. Hazzard, interstate park commissioner at St. Paul. The letter was in answer to Mr. Hazzard's letter asking that the department stock some of the inland lakes with frogs.

The commissioner of fisheries declares that he has had the subject under consideration for some time. He believes there are opportunities in the industry.

Whale Meat as Chicken Feed.

Now they are feeding that whale to the Eastport chickens with wonderful results. The flesh of the whale is very much like ordinary beef in texture and appearance.

The poultry men maintain that it is the best and most economical egg-producing food that they can buy, because it is really very nutritious, rich in oil, free from bone and practically fresh owing to the intense cold of the past few weeks.—Lewiston Journal.

A Stickler.

Howell—Rowell is a man of tenacity.

Powell—Yes. If he were a dog and got a grip on your trousers you would be perfectly safe in ordering a new pair.

Melodramatic.

"How was the play?"

"Just fair."

"Was there a hairbreadth escape?"

"Yes. The author managed to get away by crawling through a rear window."

In the Garden of Eden.

Sunday School Teacher—In all that immense garden there was only one thing that Adam and Eve might not touch—the forbidden fruit.

Little Girl—And could they touch the poison ivy?—Boston Transcript.

Merely a Look-In.

"I'm not getting a fair show," growled the one-night-stand operatic comedian.

"Ah, cheer up!" said the prima donna. "Meditate on what the audience is getting!"—Puck.

WILEY, HINDERED IN WORK, RESIGNS

PURE FOOD EXPERT TELLS WHY HE QUIT HIS GOVERNMENT POSITION.

WOMEN EMPLOYES IN TEARS

Hundreds of Clerks, Their Eyes Moist, File in Doctor's Office and Say Good Bye to Faithful Servant of Uncle Sam.

Washington, D. C.—With one last blast against his superiors in office who he declares deliberately muzzled him so that he could not effectually warn the people against poisonous and polluted foods, which plainly violate the law and which, with official sanction, are sold everywhere in the United States, Dr. Harvey Wiley sent in his resignation and retired from the bureau of chemistry.

Following a meeting of the cabinet telegrams were sent to all the leading technical colleges and universities in the United States urging them to make suggestions as to a successor to Doctor Wiley.

A scene quite unprecedented in Washington official life marked the close of Doctor Wiley's fevered administration. With tears streaming down their cheeks hundreds of women clerks, many employed in other sections of the department of agriculture, filed in to say good bye.

In a statement Doctor Wiley relates that in an effort to even further restrict the operations of the pure food law than they have already done, his colleagues in the department of agriculture plotted through false charges to forcibly separate him from the public service and he was only saved by the timely intervention of the president.

Doctor Wiley's Statement.

"After the president and a committee of congress had completely exonerated me I naturally expected that those who had made these false charges would no longer be in a position which would make a repetition of such an action possible. I am still left to come into daily contact with the men who secretly plotted at my destruction. For the past 29 years I have endeavored to discharge these duties according to the dictates of my conscience, the knowledge at my command and the obligations of my oath. In retiring it seems that I should state briefly the causes which have led me to this step. The fundamental one is that I believe I can find opportunity for better and more effective service to the work which is nearest my heart as a private citizen than I could any longer do in my late position. After a quarter of a century of constant discussion and effort the bill regulating interstate and foreign commerce in foods and drugs was enacted into law. Almost from the very beginning of the enforcement of this act I discovered that my point of view in regard to it was fundamentally different from that of my superiors in office.

"For nearly six years there has been a growing feeling in my mind that these differences were irreconcilable and I have been myself in an official environment which has been essentially inhospitable. I saw the fundamental principles of the food and drugs act as they appeared to me one by one paralyzed or discredited. It was the plain provision of the act that the bureau of chemistry was to examine all samples of suspected foods and drugs to determine whether they were adulterated or misbranded and that if this examination disclosed such facts the matter was to be referred to the courts for decision. Interest after interest engaged in what the bureau of chemistry found to be the manufacture of misbranded or adulterated foods and drugs made an appeal to escape appearing in court to defend their practices. Various methods were employed to secure this end, many of which were successful. One by one I found that the activities pertaining to the bureau of chemistry were restricted and various forms of manipulated food products were withdrawn from its consideration and referred either to other bodies not contemplated by the law or directly relieved from further control. A few of the instances of this kind are well known. Among these may be mentioned manufacture of so-called whiskey from alcohol, colors and flavors. The addition to food products of benzoic acid and its salts, of sulphurous acid and its salts, of sulphate of copper, of saccharine and of alum, the manufacture of so-called wines from pomace, chemicals and colors, the floating of oysters often in polluted waters for the purpose of making them look fatter and larger than they really are, for the purposes of sale.

"This official toleration and validation of such practices have restricted the activities of the bureau of chemistry to a very narrow field. As a result of these restrictions I have been instructed to refrain from stating in any public way my own opinion regarding the effect of these substances upon health and this restriction has interfered with my academic freedom of speech in matters relating directly to the public welfare. I am now convinced that the freedom that belongs to every American citizen can be used by me more fruitfully in molding public opinion on the subject of the abuse of pure food and drugs than could the limited activity [illegible] in the position which I have lately occupied. I propose to devote the remainder of my life with such ability as I may have at my command and with such opportunities as may arise to the promotion of the principles of civic righteousness and industrial integrity which underlie the food and drugs act, in the hope that it may be administered in the interest of the people at large instead of that of a comparatively few manufacturers and dealers.

"In severing my relations with the [illegible] I take this opportunity of [illegible] personal [illegible] shown me during [illegible] connection with the department."

House Passes Free Sugar Bill.

Washington, D. C.—By a vote of 198 to 103 the house passed the Democratic bill placing sugar in the free list. Both Representative Underwood and Minority Leader Mann demanded a roll call on the final passage of the bill so as to put each member of the house on record. A day of heated partisan debate under the five minute rule preceded the passage of the measure. All amendments were defeated and the bill passed the house as it came from the ways and means committee.

Alleged Leper Given Job.

Washington, D. C.—John Early, the leper over whom the scientists of one hemisphere have disagreed, will no longer be shipped about the country in box cars.

President Taft, Secretary MacVeagh and Surgeon General Blue of the public health service have found for him a position at the Point Diamond quarantine station near Port Townsend, Wash., taking care of Andrew Grover, a leper over whom there is no dispute.—John Early's case has been a most pitiful one.

NOTED SEA FIGHTER DIES

REAR ADMIRAL MELVILLE SUCCUMBS TO PARALYSIS.

Retired Naval Officer Distinguished Himself During Civil War and Was Also a Scientist.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Rear Admiral George Wallace Melville, retired, died here of paralysis at the age of 72 years.

Beginning his career as a fighting leader in 1861, he was in command of vessels of the Union throughout the Civil war and from 1887 to 1903 when he retired he was chief of the bureau of steam engineering in the navy department. He had made a study of arctic conditions and was with both the Jeannette and Greely relief expeditions to the far north.

A scientist by natural gift, he was also a fighter of the heroic stamp. In the early stage of the Civil war he was in command of the Wachusett, which was sent to Bahia, Brazil, to intercept Confederate vessels. He was only 21 years old when he conceived the daring plan to ram the Confederate cruiser Florida in Bahia harbor. Officers under him said that the boilers of the Wachusett would burst and the attempt would be futile. Melville listened to their statements and then went on with his plan. But he would not risk the lives of others.

After disguising himself he managed to get aboard the enemy's ship and inspected her guns. Then he returned to his own ship and went down to the boiler room, where he ran the engines himself in the successful attack on the Florida. The boilers did not burst.

Rear Admiral Melville was to have been the guest of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick at a banquet when he intended to relinquish an office that he had held many years in that organization.

CRANK TRIES TO SEE JUDGE

Man Believed Insane Kicks at Door of Jurist Who Escaped Injury When Bomb Exploded.

New York City.—The home of Judge Otto A. Rosalsky of the court of general sessions, where a bomb delivered him exploded recently, was the scene of renewed excitement caused by the appearance of a man who kicked wildly at the door and demanded admittance.

The stranger was a shabbily dressed man, who forced his way past the hall attendants in the apartment building on Riverside drive, and climbed six flights of stairs to see Judge Rosalsky about some fancied grievance of "persecution by the tobacco trust." Police were called, and the man was taken to Bellevue for observation as to his sanity. He gave his name as Wolf Berman and his business as that of cigarmaker. The police believed him to be insane, but harmless, and in no wise connected with the attempts made on Judge Rosalsky's life with the bomb.

KILBANE GIVEN BIG WELCOME

Featherweight Champion of World Tendered Royal Reception by People of His Own City.

Cleveland, O.—Johnny Kilbane, the featherweight champion of the world, came home on March 17. He received the biggest welcome ever accorded a notable in Cleveland, a crowd estimated at between 150,000 and 200,000 strong greeting him at the Union station when his train pulled in and lining the streets over which the parade passed.

Cleveland was a solid mass of green from Public Square in the western limits of the city. The parade which traversed the down town streets immediately after Johnny's arrival was more than two miles in length. Johnny, with his wife and their infant daughter, and Jimmy Dunn, his manager, occupied the automobile of state. The parade was reviewed at the city hall by Mayor Baker and other city officials as well as a number of state officials from Columbus.

'SOCRATES OF BROADWAY' DEAD

Man Made Fortune During Civil War Manufacturing Swords and Entered Literary Field After.

New York City.—George Arms, known by his many literary friends as "The Socrates of Broadway," is dead at the age of 82.

He had made his home in a Broadway hotel for 37 years, and after his death the key that was given to him by the clerk in 1875 was found in his pocket.

During the Civil war, Arms made a fortune manufacturing swords. Later he traveled all over the world. Of late years he has entertained literary friends almost daily at the hotel.

Pioneer Coal Operator Dies.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—James Jones, one of Pittsburgh's pioneer coal operators, chairman of the board of directors of the Pittsburgh-Buffalo Co. and organizer of the company, died at his home here. Jones was born in Wales 76 years ago and came to the United States in 1848, going to Mt. Savage, Md., where he obtained employment for a short time, then coming to Pittsburgh. He walked the 60 miles from Mt. Savage to Uniontown, Pa., where he paid all the money he had for a ticket to this city.

In Memory of Grover Cleveland.

New York City.—Exercises commemorative of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the birth of Grover Cleveland were held in the great hall of the College of the City of New York March 17. Mr. Cleveland was born in New Jersey and spent the last years of his life there as a resident of Princeton and chairman of the committee of trustees of the graduate school of Princeton university at the time that Governor Wilson was president of the institution. The widow of Grover Cleveland was present.

TOLEDO GETS OHIO DEMOCRATIC MEET

DATE FOR HOLDING STATE CONVENTION HAS BEEN FIXED FOR JUNE 4 AND 5.

REPUBLICANS INDORSE TAFT

Leaders, With Sixty-two to Eighty-eight Counties Represented, Characterize President as Foremost Man of Country.

Columbus, O.—When Mayor Newton D. Baker and Vice Mayor Charles W. Lapp of Cleveland lined up with the Harmon forces at the meeting of the Democratic state central committee they gave enough votes to the Harmon faction to enable it to have a field day and win everything for which it was contending.

The result is that the plans have been made for the presidential preference primary on May 21 as Governor Harmon wanted it and as it was prepared by his friends. The date of the state convention has been fixed for June 4 and 5, at Toledo, preceding the national convention.

A call has been prepared that contains provisions concerning the legality of which there are serious differences of opinion.

Call Provides System.

The principal provisions of the call that will be issued are as follows:

State wide presidential preference primary open to all Democratic electors.

Separate ballots and separate ballot boxes to be provided by the regular election officers.

Presidential candidates' names to be placed upon the official ballot in answer to petitions signed by 5,000 Democratic electors, and filed with the secretary of state.

"My choice for president" to be the only heading permitted on the ballot.

Names of candidates to be printed in single columns, first place being given to candidate filing the first complete petition.

Provision to be made for electors to vote for candidates whose name does not appear on the printed ballot.

The result of the election to be certified to the secretary of state within ten days.

Secretary of state to certify result to the chairman of the temporary state convention.

Candidates receiving largest number of votes to select six delegates and six alternates-at-large and submit the same to the state convention for its ratification.

Taft Is Indorsed.

Characterized as the foremost man of his country President Taft was enthusiastically indorsed for second term at a conference of Republicans held here. With 62 to 88 counties represented the Taft leaders express the greatest pleasure at the success of the gathering. It was called by the chairman and secretary of the state executive committee and they claim brought out a demonstration that establishes the Taft control in Republican politics in the state beyond question.

"We had the chairmen of the county executive committees from 62 counties and of the 26 absentees, 13 of them sent us word they were for Taft," is the announcement made by Colonel Laylin after the gathering was ended. After there had been an interchange of greetings and Senator Burton had completed a short address, a telegram was sent to President Taft conveying the greetings of the Ohio Republicans and pledging him support.

Overflow Meeting.

So many came to the conference that the space in the private dining hall at The Southern was not ample to care for the late comers who were seated in an adjoining room. An overflow gathering for Taft at the first meeting told an interesting story, the managers thought. Following the luncheon, Colonel Laylin spoke of the verdict that had been passed on President Taft by Theodore Roosevelt, who said he was a wise and just judge, a fearless and impartial leader.

Senator Burton warned the leaders that the time for an apologetic state of mind is past, that Taft's friends must become militant and begin a campaign of education. He said there were two causes for dissatisfaction with President Taft, the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill and the high cost of living. Senator Burton said he has been accused of voting with Aldrich 114 times, but he added that the manager of the campaign of another candidate voted with Aldrich 126 times. He had reference to Senator Dixon.

Falls Out Hotel Door to Death.

Fostoria, O.—Leon Marvin, aged 30, of Findlay, became confused while on the second floor of the Sherwood hotel and walked out of a door, falling 20 feet and breaking his neck.

"Clean House!" Is State Message.

Columbus, O.—"Clean house, put up the screens, adjust awnings, change clothing, clean up the yard, make simple repairs, learn to use carpenter tools."

It sounds like mother's Saturday morning injunction to Willie. As a matter of fact it is Ohio speaking through the spring bulletin just issued for school instruction in agriculture. More than 10,000 schools are following these directions.

The bulletin includes schemes for testing the fertility of seeds.

Huffman Placed on Trial.

Columbus, O.—What promises to be the hardest fought of the series of legislative bribery trials opened in criminal court here when Senator Isaac E. Huffman, of Oxford, Butler county, was placed on trial charged with soliciting and accepting a bribe of $200 from Detective Frank Harrison, Smiley, posing as a lobbyist for the Cetone-Whittemore insurance bill. Huffman was one of the oldest members of the state senate, and was serving his third term when he was arrested.

COAL SHIPPERS VICTORS

RATES ARE REDUCED FROM PITTSBURGH TO LAKE PORTS.

Interstate Commerce Commission Decides Two of the Most Important Cases Before It.

Washington, D. C.—The interstate commerce commission decided two of the most important cases pending before it, involving coal rates from the so-called Virginia and Pittsburgh districts to great lake ports. In the Pittsburgh case the coal shippers won a complete victory, the commission ordering a reduction of the rate on bituminous coal from 88 to 78 cents a ton from Pittsburgh to lake ports.

In the so-called Virginia cases, respecting rates from Virginia and West Virginia fields to lake ports, the commission upheld proposed advances from the Thacker districts from 97 cents to $1.06½ a ton, and from the Pocahontas districts from $1.12 to $1.21¼ a ton, made by the Norfolk & Western railroad, on the ground that they did not impose an unjust or unreasonable charge for the transportation service rendered.

The commission ordered the Baltimore & Ohio, the Chesapeake & Ohio and Kanawha & Michigan railroads, however, to maintain their present rates from the Fairmount, Kanawha and New River districts, which are, respectively, 96¾ cents, 97 cents and $1.12 a ton. The proposed advances to $1, $1.06½ and $1.21¼ a ton were held not to be justified.

LAFOLLETTE WINS IN N. DAKOTA

Senator From Wisconsin Is Victorious at Direct Presidential Preference Primary.

Bismarck, N. D.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt heard from the people—if he waited up for the news. He had been wanting to hear and he got his wish. He heard that in North Dakota, where was held the first direct presidential preference primary in American history, he was defeated almost two to one by Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin. President Taft was a distant third. Returns are not nearly complete but they indicate clearly that Senator La Follette will get all ten of the North Dakota delegates to the Chicago convention. The colonel apparently has carried the "cow country" around Medora, where he formerly lived, but that is about all.

There are claims and counter claims by the leaders of both sides as to how heavy the La Follette plurality will be in the state, but it is enough. La Follette headquarters gave out a statement that the Wisconsin senator had won by at least 20,000 votes. As an incident of the way the fight was going the returns from 165 precincts out of 1,800 in the state gave La Follette a total of 6,953, Roosevelt 1,381, Taft 270. The Roosevelt supporters claim that the Democrats gave La Follette his plurality but the La Follette men retort that just as many Democrats voted for Roosevelt. It was easy for Democrats to vote for whom they pleased because on their side there was no candidate against Gov. John Burke for the presidency, so one vote made it unanimously for him.

EXCISE TAX BILL PASSES HOUSE

Measure Is Adopted Without Material Amendment—Eighty Republicans Line Up With Democrats.

Washington, D. C.—The excise tax bill, levying a 1 per cent tax on all net incomes greater than $5,000 a year, was passed by the house by a vote of 250 to 40. Eighty Republicans voted for the measure.

The bill went through without material amendment. Representative Towner of Iowa proposed an amendment to exempt the justices of the supreme court and other federal courts from the tax. This was lost on a viva voce vote.

Many senators declared that, if upon analysis they found the house measure would tax all classes of people alike, they would support it.

FIVE DIE AT RAILROAD CROSSING

Party Returning From Theater in Buggy Meet Death When Vehicle Is Hit by Train.

Ellettsville, Ind.—Five men in a surrey were killed outright by a passenger train on the Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville railroad at a crossing near here. They had spent the evening at a theater at Bloomington and were driving to Spencer, where they were employed as glass blowers. They were:

Martin Worden, Louisville, Ky.
Emmett Williams, Kansas City, Mo.
Art Farmer, Summitville, Ind.
[illegible] Brown, Spencer, Ind.
Jesse Rogers, Spencer, Ind.

Flood Destroys Property.

Logansport, Ind.—A flood, rendered the more destructive by the thousands of tons of broken ice that it carried, struck Logansport and caused damage which has been estimated by insurance agents at $500,000. The high waters of the Wabash, long confined by the ice, have descended into the town and crippled every part of enterprise. The flooding of basements, the ruin of thousands of dollars worth of merchandise stored in the basements are the least part of the destruction.

Four Hurt as Cyclone Hits.

St. Louis, Mo.—Four persons were injured and property damaged to the extent of $75,000 at Greenville, Ill., when a cyclone struck five Illinois towns within a radius of 75 miles of St. Louis, unroofing houses and demolishing telegraph and telephone wires. Greenville is the highest point between St. Louis and Terre Haute, Ind., to which fact is attributed the heavy loss. Property also was damaged at Mulberry Grove and Smithboro, east of Greenville, and Old Ripley, west of Greenville.

GIVES DATA ON COST OF LIVING

PRESIDENT TAFT SENDS VOLUMINOUS REPORT TO THE NATIONAL CONGRESS.

GATHERED BY OUR CONSULS

Investigation in Foreign Countries Shows That Much Unrest Exists—Information Will Help Consumers Solve Problem.

Washington.—For a number of months the state department has been investigating through the consular agents the subject of the increased cost of living. The president has just transmitted this voluminous report to congress together with the following special message on the subject:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith a letter from the acting secretary of state with accompanying data on co-operation and the cost of living in certain foreign countries.

The popular demand for information of this character apparently was based on the belief that some remedy or partial relief might be found for the growing burdens of the high cost of living. The immediate result of the inquiries instituted by the department of state through the consular officers was to accentuate the fact that the increase in the prices of the common necessities of life is world wide and that it is an absorbing question with the co-operative association as well as with the mass of consumers as individuals. Multiplied evidences of the universal restlessness under this condition are given.

Wages Do Not Keep Pace.

Intelligence gathered and presented by the co-operative societies shows that even where there has been an advance in wages the percentage has not kept pace with the rise in the cost of food supplies. This disproportion is in many cases is so marked as to be startling.

The information collected and collated by the department of state is comprehensive and is a permanent contribution to the history of the efforts of producers and consumers, but more especially of consumers, to solve for themselves the economic problems of production, distribution, and consumption. If the co-operative associations which have been in existence for half a century and more have not been able to determine the fundamental causes of the increased cost of living or to retard the advance, the student of social progress at least may derive instruction from the account of the associations and their influence on the well being of their members.

Case for Experiment.

How far the system of co-operative organization which flourishes in various European countries may be adapted to our highly organized and individualistic social organization may perhaps only be determined by experiment and in any case the experiment must be of a voluntary character. The practical information contained in the reports of the consular officers undoubtedly will be of much value to those who are seeking to work out this problem for themselves by means of similar associations.

In my message of February 2 I recommended an international commission to look into the cause for the high prices of the necessities of life and the possible remedies. Should such a commission be authorized by congress the relation of the co-operative societies to this subject would be of great interest and the reports of the consular officers would have additional utility.

WILLIAM H. TAFT.

Much of the report submitted by the president deals with the co-operative societies of England. The co-operative idea seems to have appeared first in England and has reached its highest development there. It was firmly established as early as the sixties. In 1862 there were 400 co-operative societies in England, with a membership slightly in excess of 90,000. They sold 2,333,000 pounds sterling worth of goods, and their net profits aggregated 165,000 pounds sterling. As compared to this in 1908 there were 3,000 co-operative societies in England, with a membership of 2,702,000, and sales aggregating 113,000,000 pounds sterling and net profits totaling 10,097,000 pounds. The increase since 1908 has not kept pace with the earlier years, but the societies are maintaining the sales averages, and are showing a healthy and general growth.

The membership of the English co-operative societies is made up almost exclusively of wage earners and are strongest in industrial centers, such as Lancaster. They are organized and operated under a well-perfected code of laws. All of them are stock companies.

Two Die in Train Crash.

Terre Haute, Ind.—Passenger train No. 20 on the Big Four, known as the twenty-four hours St. Louis to New York limited, crashed headon into a freight train on the main track within 200 yards of the station at Greencastle. Engineer J. C. Mills of Indianapolis and an unidentified iron worker, both riding in cab of freight engine, were killed. The passenger train, which was due at Cleveland at 4:50 in the morning, is considered one of the New York Central line's best.

Detectives Go to Prison.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Gilbert B. Perkins, head of a detective agency here, and Charles Franklin, former manager of the company's Philadelphia branch, are on their way to Leavenworth, Kan., where Perkins will serve a term of three years and Franklin five years for using the mails to defraud. They were convicted of sending Black Hand letters to Mrs. Charles Strong, wife of the Erie, Pa., millionaire, after the desecration of the Scott mausoleum which contained the body of Mrs. Strong's father in that city.

NOTES FROM OHIO

Findlay.—While preparations were going on for the celebration of Joshua Smith's seventy-sixth birthday celebration he died. He was a member of General Gibson's famous regiment.

Lorain.—Prominent Lorain club women have launched a movement for the organization of a Lorain county suffragette society. An effort will be made to affiliate with the state and national organizations.

Norwalk.—Matthew Grimmer, prominent resident of a German settlement two miles west, died suddenly of inflammation of the brain, resulting from a fall in which he struck on the back of his head.

Findlay.—There were to have been many festivities at the home of Joshua Smith on his seventy-sixth birthday anniversary. Instead Mr. Smith died suddenly. He was a member of the Twenty-first Ohio regiment.

Akron.—Announcement was made by the Northern Ohio Traction & Light company that, commencing May 1, an increase of 1 cent an hour will be paid conductors and motormen. The increase affects 1,000 men.

Ravenna.—Sage Hurlbert, 68, farmer of Portage county, was killed and his wife was fatally injured when the closed carriage in which they were driving to Ravenna was struck by westbound passenger train No. 3 on the Erie railroad, five miles from here.

Portsmouth.—Despondent over the loss of his job, Edward Toben, 36, a former employe of the Portsmouth Steel company, drowned his troubles. His body was found in the hills back of this city. It is supposed he died from exposure, after becoming intoxicated.

Akron.—While working at the top of a strawstack on his farm near Uniontown, Samuel C. Young, aged 61 years, fell with the stack and was buried under several tons of straw for some time. When he was dug out by farmhands he was dead.

Lancaster.—Rev. Hugh Leith of the Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Nancy Hall, indicted for first degree murder for the alleged poisoning of her daughter Ruth, aged 12, started a movement for a defense fund for the accused woman.

Marysville.—Little Eveline Sands, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sands, farmers of near Lilly Chapel, died in convulsions as a result of burns. The child was playing in the kitchen and ran into another member of the family carrying a pan of boiling grease, which was upset over her.

Steubenville.—When Johnny Little, 15 years old, was playing with his father's revolver in the parlor at his home, the weapon accidentally was discharged and the bullet entered the left breast of Willie F. Harris, 14 years old, his companion, who died in a short time. Johnny says he did not know the revolver was loaded.

Mount Vernon.—Clarence Foster, convicted of larceny in connection with the robbery of the E. E. McGuire store at Centerburg Dec. 15, following its partial destruction by fire, was sentenced to serve four years in the Ohio penitentiary. Chas. Foster, a brother, was sentenced to serve 12 years in the penitentiary on charges of burglary and larceny.

Columbus.—State Treasurer Creamer put into Ohio's exchequer $2 "conscience money," turned in by a Michigan man, who says he took 50 cents of the state's money years ago to buy a spring lock on a gun. He says he stole the money from his father's desk. His father, the writer says, was a national road toll collector.

Elyria.—Action by Police Captain Myers in giving antidotes saved the life of W. B. Sweeney of Vermillion, a traveling salesman for the Cleveland Refining company, when he drank carbolic acid in his room at the Topliff hotel early this morning. Sweeney is said to have been despondent because a stroke of paralysis had left his speech impaired.

Bowling Green.—Pitkin & Brooks, cut glass manufacturers, sustained a loss of $15,000 on their factory and probably $15,000 on fixtures, machinery and stock when fire gutted the large brick factory building. The fire is supposed to have been caused by a spark from the power plant, igniting the dry wood of the cupola. It throws 70 persons out of employment. Insurance of 90 per cent was carried. The main offices are located in Chicago.

Pomeroy.—Neighbors who called to inquire as to the condition of Mrs. George Beer, aged 80 years, found the woman had died three days ago and that during all of that time the body lay alongside that of her aged husband, who is a paralytic and had been unable to give the alarm.

Youngstown.—The council has authorized a bond issue of $7,500 for the purchase of several lots on the South Side for playground purposes. The officials will establish playgrounds in every section of the city.

London.—Six-year-old little Eveline Sands, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sands, residing on a farm near Lily Chapel, died in convulsions as a result of severe burns. The child was playing in the kitchen and ran into another member of the family carrying a pair of boiling grease, which was upset upon her.

Lisbon.—The body of Harvey Lodge, 60 years old, a prominent farmer, was found in the attic of a farm building at Leesville. Papers showed [illegible]

---

BURIED TREASURE

BY O. HENRY

"Away," I said, "away with your water marks and variations!"

THERE are many kinds of fools. Now, will everybody please sit still until they are called upon specifically to rise?

I had been every kind of fool except one. I had expended my patrimony, pretended my matrimony, played poker, lawn-tennis, and bucket-shops—parted soon with my money in many ways. But there remained one role of the wearer of cap and bells that I had not played. That was the seeker after buried treasure. To few does the delectable furor come. But of all the would-be followers in the hoof-prints of King Midas none has found a pursuit so rich in pleasurable promise.

But, going back from my theme a while—as lame pens must do—I was a fool of the sentimental sort. I saw May Martha Mangum, and was hers. She was eighteen, the color of the white ivory keys of a new piano, beautiful, and possessed by the exquisite solemnity and pathetic witchery of an unsophisticated angel doomed to live in a small, dull, Texas prairie-town.

May Martha's father was a man hidden behind whiskers and spectacles. He lived for bugs and butterflies and all insects that fly or crawl or buzz or get down your back or in the butter. He was an entomologist, or words to that effect. He spent his life seining the air for flying fish of the June-bug order, and then sticking pins through 'em and calling 'em names.

There was another besides myself who thought May Martha Mangum one to be desired. That was Goodloe Banks, a young man just home from college. He had all the attainments to be found in books—Latin, Greek, philosophy and especially the higher branches of mathematics and logic.

If it hadn't been for his habit of pouring out this information and learning on every one that he addressed I'd have liked him pretty well. But, even as it was, he and I were, you would have thought, great pals.

But, in our talks together and in our visits and conversation with May Martha, neither Goodloe Banks nor I could find out which one of us she preferred. May Martha was a natural-born non-committal, and knew in her cradle how to keep people guessing.

Old Man Mangum certainly was absent-minded. After a long time he found out one day—a little butterfly must have told him—that two young men were trying to throw a net over the head of the young person, a daughter, or some such technical appendage, who looked after his comforts.

I never knew scientists could rise to such occasions. Old Mangum orally labeled and classified Goodloe and myself easily among the lowest orders of the vertebrates, and in English, too, without going any further into Latin than the simple references to Orgetorix, Rex Helvetii—which is as far as I ever went myself. And he told us that if he ever caught us around his house again he would add us to his collection.

Goodloe Banks and I remained away five days, expecting the storm to subside. When we dared to call at the house again May Martha Mangum and her father were gone. Gone! The house they had rented was closed. Their little store of goods and chattels was gone also.

And not a word of farewell to either of us from May Martha—not a white, fluttering note pinned to the hawthorn-bush; not a chalk-mark on the gate post nor a postcard in the postoffice to give us a clue.

For two months Goodloe Banks and I—separately—tried every scheme we could think of to track the runaways. We used our friendship and influence with the ticket agent, with livery stable men, railroad conductors, and our one lone, lorn constable, but without results.

In talking things over one afternoon he said to me:

"Suppose you do find her, Ed, whereby would you profit? Miss Mangum has a mind. Perhaps it is yet uncultured, but she is destined for higher things than you could give her. I have talked with no one who seemed to appreciate more the enchantment of the ancient poets and writers and the modern cults that have assimilated and expanded their philosophy of life. Don't you think you are wasting your time looking for her?"

"My idea," said I, "of a happy home is an eight-room house in a grove of live oaks by the side of a charco on a Texas prairie. A piano," I went on, "with an automatic player in the sitting room, three thousand head of cattle under fence for a starter, a buckboard and ponies always hitched at a post for 'the missus'—and May Martha Mangum to spend the profits of the ranch as she pleases, and to abide with me, and put my slippers and pipe away every day in places where they cannot be found of evenings. That," said I, "is what is to be—and a fig—a dried, Smyrna, dago-stand fig for your curriculums, cults and philosophy."

"She is meant for higher things," repeated Goodloe Banks.

"Whatever she is meant for," I answered, "just now she is out of pocket. And I shall find her as soon as I can without aid of the colleges."

"The game is blocked," said Goodloe, putting down a domino; and we had the beer.

Shortly after that a young farmer whom I knew came into town and brought me a folded blue paper. He said his grandfather had just died. I concealed a tear; and he went on to say that the old man had jealously guarded this paper for 20 years. He left it to his family as part of his estate, the rest of which consisted of two mules and a hypotenuse of non-arable land.

The sheet of paper was of the old blue kind used during the Civil war. It was dated June 14, 1863; and it described the hiding place of ten burro-loads of gold and silver coin valued at $300,000. Old Rundle—grandfather of his grandson, Sam—was given the information by a Spanish priest who was in on the treasure-burying, and who died many years before—no, afterward—in old Rundle's house. Old Rundle wrote it down from dictation.

"Why didn't your father look this up?" I asked young Rundle.

"He went blind before he could do so," he replied.

"Why didn't you hunt for it yourself?" I asked.

"Well," said he, "I've only known about the paper for ten years. First there was the spring plowin' to do, and then choppin' the weeds out of the corn; and then come takin' fodder; and mighty soon winter was on us. It seemed to run along that way year after year."

That sounded perfectly reasonable to me, so I took it up with young Lee Rundle at once.

The directions on the paper were simple. The whole burro cavalcade laden with the treasure started from an old Spanish mission in Dolores county. They traveled due south by the compass until they reached the Alamito river. They forded this, and buried the treasure on the top of a little mountain shaped like a pack saddle standing in a row between two higher ones. A heap of stones marked the place of the buried treasure. All the party except the Spanish priest were killed by Indians a few days later. The secret was a monopoly. It looked good to me.

Lee Rundle suggested that we rig out a camping outfit, hire a surveyor to run out the line from the Spanish mission, and then spend the $300,000 seeing the sights in Fort Worth. But, without being highly educated, I knew a way to save time and expense.

We went to the state land office, and had a practical, what they call a "working," sketch made of all the surveys of land from the old mission to the Alamito river. On this map I drew a line due southward to the river. The length of lines of each survey and section of land was accurately given on the sketch. By these we found the point on the river and had a "connection" made with it, and an important, well-identified corner of the Los Animos five-league survey—a grant made by King Philip of Spain.

By doing this we did not need to have the line run out by a surveyor. It was a great saving of expense and time.

So, Lee Rundle and I fitted out a two-horse wagon team with all the accessories, and drove a hundred and forty-nine miles to Chico, the nearest town to the point we wished to reach. There we picked up a deputy county surveyor. He found the corner of the Los Animos survey for us, ran out the five thousand seven hundred and twenty varas west that our sketch called for, laid a stone on the spot, had coffee and bacon, and caught the mail-stage back to Chico.

I was pretty sure we would get that $300,000. Lee Rundle's was to be only one-third because I was paying all the expenses. With that $200,000 I knew I could find May Martha Mangum if she was on earth. And with it I could flutter the butterflies in old man Mangum's dove-cot, too. If I could find that treasure!

But Lee and I established camp. Across the river were a dozen little mountains densely covered by cedar-brakes, but not one shaped like a pack-saddle. That did not deter us. Appearances are deceptive. A pack-saddle, like beauty, may exist only in the eye of the beholder.

I and the grandson of the treasure examined those cedar-covered hills with the care of a lady hunting for a wicked flea. We explored every side, top, circumference, mean elevation, angle, slope and concavity of every one for two miles up and down the river. We spent four days doing so. Then we hitched up the roan and the dun, and hauled the remains of the coffee and bacon the 149 miles back to Concho City.

As shortly as could be after our empty return Goodloe Banks and I foregathered in the back room of Snyder's saloon to play dominoes and fish for information. I told Goodloe about my expedition after the buried treasure.

"If I could have found that three hundred thousand dollars," I said to him, "I could have scoured and sifted the face of the earth to find May Martha Mangum."

"She is meant for higher things," said Goodloe. "I shall find her myself. But, tell me how you went about discovering the spot where this unearthed increment was imprudently buried."

I told him in the smallest detail. I showed it in the draftsman's sketch with the distances marked plainly upon it.

After glancing over it in a masterly way, he leaned back in his chair and bestowed upon me an explosion of sardonic, superior, collegiate laughter.

"Well, you are a fool, Jim," he said when he could speak.

"Why am I a fool?" I asked. "Buried treasure has been found before in many places."

"Because," said he, "in calculating the point on the river where your line would strike, you neglected to allow for the variation. The variation there would be nine degrees west. Let me have your pencil."

Goodloe Banks figured rapidly on the back of an envelope.

"The distance, from north to south, of the line run from the Spanish mission," said he, "is exactly 22 miles. It was run by a pocket compass, according to your story. Allowing for the variation, the point on the Alamito river where you should have searched for your treasure is exactly six miles and nine hundred and forty-five varas farther west than the place you hit upon. Oh, what a fool you are, Jim!"

He smiled in his superior way, and then I saw come out in his face the singular, eager, consuming cupidity of the seeker after buried treasure.

"Sometimes," he said with the air of the oracle, "these old traditions of hidden money are not without foundation. Suppose you let me look over that paper describing the location. Perhaps together we might—"

The result was that Goodloe Banks and I, rivals in love, became companions in adventure. We went to Chico by stage from Huntersburg, the nearest railroad town. In Chico we hired a team drawing a covered spring wagon and camping paraphernalia. We had the same surveyor run out our distance as revised by Goodloe and his variations, and then dismissed him and sent him on his homeward road.

It was night when we arrived. I fed the horses and made a fire near the bank of the river and cooked supper. Goodloe would have helped, but his education had not fitted him for practical things.

But, while I worked he cheered me with the expression of great thoughts handed down from the dead ones of old. He quoted some translations from the Greek at much length.

The next morning was a bright June one. We were up early and had breakfast. Goodloe was charmed. He recited—Keats I think it was, and Kelly or Shelley, while I broiled the bacon.

Goodloe was looking at old Rundle's document when he ripped out a most uncollegiate swear-word.

"Come here," he said, holding the paper up against the sunlight. "Look at that," he said, laying his finger against it.

On the blue paper—a thing I had never noticed before—I saw stand out in white letters the words and figures: "Malvern, 1898."

"What about it?" I asked.

"It's the water mark," said Goodloe. "The paper was manufactured in 1898. The writing on the paper is dated 1863. This is a palpable fraud."

"Oh, I don't know," said I. "The Rundles are pretty reliable, plain, uneducated country people. Maybe the paper manufacturers tried to perpetrate a swindle."

And then Goodloe Banks went as wild as his education permitted. He dropped the glasses off his nose and glared at me.

"I've often told you you were a fool," he said. "You have let yourself be imposed upon by a clodhopper. And you have imposed upon me."

I rose and pointed a large pewter spoon at him, fresh from the dish water.

"Goodloe Banks," I said, "I care not one parboiled navy bean for your education. I always barely tolerated it in any one, and I despised it in you. What has your learning done for you? It is a curse to yourself and a bore to your friends. Away," I said, "away with your water marks and variations! They are nothing to me. They shall not deflect me from my quest."

I pointed with my spoon across the river to a small mountain shaped like a pack saddle.

"I am going to search that mountain," I went on, "for the treasure. Decide now whether you are in it or not. If you wish to let a water mark or a variation shake your soul you are no true adventurer. Decide."

A white cloud of dust began to rise far down the river road. It was the mail wagon from Hesperus to Chico. Goodloe flagged it.

"I am done with the swindle," said he sourly. "No one but a fool would pay any attention to that paper now. Well, you always were a fool, Jim. I leave you to your fate."

He gathered his personal traps, climbed into the mail-wagon, adjusted his glasses nervously, and flew away in a cloud of dust.

I investigated the hill shaped like a pack saddle from base to summit. I found an absolute absence of signs relating to buried treasure. There was no pile of stones, no ancient blazes on the trees, none of the evidences of the three hundred thousand dollars, as set forth in the document of old man Rundle.

I came down the hill in the cool of the afternoon. Suddenly, out of the cedar-brake I stepped into a beautiful green valley, where a tributary small stream ran into the Alamito river.

And there I was startled to see what I took to be a wild man, with unkempt beard and ragged hair, pursuing a giant butterfly with brilliant wings.

"Perhaps he is an escaped madman," I thought; and wondered how he had strayed so far from seats of education and learning.

And then I took a few more steps and saw a vine-covered cottage near the small stream. And, in a little grassy glade I saw May Martha Mangum plucking wild flowers.

She straightened up and looked at me. For the first time since I knew her I saw her face—which was the color of the white keys of a new piano—turn pink. I walked toward her without a word. She let the gathered flowers trickle slowly from her hand to the grass.

"I knew you would come, Jim," she said clearly. "Father wouldn't let me write, but I knew you would come."

What followed you may guess—there was my wagon and team just across the river.

---

I've often wondered what good too much education is to a man if he can't use it for his self. If all the benefit of it are to go to others where does it come in?

For May Martha Mangum abides with me. There is an eight-room house in a live-oak grove, and a piano with an automatic player, and a good start toward the three thousand head of cattle is under fence.

Modern Definitions

Fashion—A device of foreign dressmakers and tailors to make sane persons appear ridiculous at great expense to themselves.

Love—A sentiment which the statesman has for power, the painter for art, the maid for a man, some men for their wives, and all men for money.

Money—A medium of exchange, in the use of which one man gets the worst of it; also, a [illegible] much affected by cold propositions in search of a hot time.

Mortgage—A new style of roof for financially shaky individuals with a penchant for motoring. Proof against an immediate rainy day, but powerless against falling due.

Obituary—A verbal post mortem mantle that covereth a multitude of sins.

Deep Thinker.

The new teacher was somewhat uncertain as to the nationality of her latest charges. She was not kept long in doubt, however. "Yole," she wrote on the board, then asked in her most musical tones, as she looked graciously round the class, "Can any little boy or girl tell me the meaning of that word?"

A small blond boy raised his hand. "Ay know," he said hoarsely, "it—it ess when you say someting funny."—Woman's Home Companion.

Historic Titles Scarce.

When choosing their designation new peers have to remember that once a title has been held by a member of the royal family it will never subsequently be bestowed upon a subject not of royal blood. This rule bars the adoption for titles the name of every English county. No wonder new peers are beginning to fall back on names of rivers and streets and that Lord Selby strikes out in a new line by choosing his wife's surname.—London Chronicle.

STEPS TOWARD A NEW HOSPITAL

COLUMBUS CITY COUNCIL WILL PUSH PLANS FOR AN ISOLATION CAMP.

TO CONSIDER ONLY THE SICK

Dr. Louis Kahn Says In His Remarks There Are No Other Considerations Other Than the Public Health.

Columbus.—Provision of plans for the establishment of an isolation or general municipal hospital is contained in a resolution passed by council, which was introduced by Councilman Louis Alcott.

The measure was adopted without opposition. It provides "that the proper standing committee of the city council investigate ways and means of establishing a city isolation hospital, or a general city hospital as may be deemed advisable."

It was explained by the supporters of this resolution that its wording would give council the power to go into the entire question, and accept whatever recommendations the committee reported, after proper consultation with experts. It had the advantage, it was declared, of not binding council, or the committee, to an investigation of any one particular site or method.

Consider Only Sick.

Dr. Louis Kahn, city health officer, was called upon to state the city health board's position. He said, "As far as the board is concerned, no objection on the ground that the hospital would injure boulevards or building sites would be considered. The charge that a hospital creates danger of contagion to those going along the road is groundless. If such a thing were true the scarlet fever patients in the isolation hospital would get diphtheria and the diphtheria patients get scarlet fever and all get measles. Again, is there not just as much danger when you drive along the boulevard and pass beautiful homes placarded 'Diphtheria' or 'Scarlet Fever' within? These diseases appear on the boulevard just as well as anywhere else.

"However, the board wants the entire subject investigated by council committee along with the board, a committee from the academy of medicine and an expert sanitary engineer. The sole thing that will be considered will be the elevation of the site, sanitary resources, access, quiet and the like, things that relate to the welfare of the sick."

Socialists Divide.

Council then tabled Lack's resolution. Councilman Warren, Socialist, then introduced a resolution asking for estimates on building a municipal hospital in Franklin park, declaring that there is "more ground there than is needed for a park." Councilman McGuire charged Warren with deserting the Socialist platform of "parks for the people." Councilman Bobnert, Socialist, opposed Warren's resolution, and it was tabled.

BEE DISEASES IN OHIO

Columbus.—Ohio formerly had 50,000 bee keepers, but the number has decreased rapidly in recent years. The principal cause for this decrease has been the lack of modern methods of keeping bees, and the presence of communicable brood diseases. A survey by apiary inspectors shows American foul brood to be prevalent throughout the state. This disease affects the larvae, preventing their development, thereby weakening the colony, which eventually perishes.

Both American and European foul brood diseases are curable. The Division of Apiary Inspection will examine samples of brood comb submitted, give directions for treating affected colonies, make inspections of apiaries and advise on all phases of bee keeping. N. E. Shaw, Chief Inspector, Department of Agriculture, Columbus, Ohio, desires to get in touch with the Ohio bee keepers and the bee situation in all parts of the state.

FORAKER ADDRESSED CON CON

Ex-Senator Spoke Before Body This Afternoon on I. and R.

Columbus.—Joseph Benson Foraker, ex-United States senator from Ohio, arrived in Columbus at 11:30 and addressed the convention at its invitation. The speech was delivered at 2 o'clock. Mr. Foraker devoted a large part of his address to the initiative and referendum, which is now under discussion.

OPERATED ON UNDER HYPNOSIS

Canton Man Laughs and Sings as Surgeons Work.

Columbus.—While being held for

Canton, O., March 16.—Held for forty minutes under the influence of hypnosis, John Lyons, forty-five, underwent a delicate surgical operation in a local hospital laughing and singing as the surgeons did their work.

After the operation the hypnotist reduced Lyons' pulsations from [illegible] to 68, where it was held by mental suggestion.

Hamilton.—Two firemen and five other men were seriously injured, several persons are believed to be buried in the ruins as a result of a fire that practically destroyed the $250,000 Butler county courthouse.

The dead: John Hunker, fireman, killed by falling wall, and William Love, fireman.

The injured: Fire Chief Wm. Dowty, serious; Deputy County Clerk John Heath, serious; George Fritz, fireman, serious; Roy Ogg, serious; Wm. E. Beacha, not serious. Crossed electric wires was the cause.

FIRE CLAIMS TWO PLANTS

Columbus Supply, East of City, and a Stock Farm, Destroyed by Flames.

Columbus.—Having its origin in the engine room, presumably from a boiler explosion, fire practically destroyed the main building of the Columbus Contractors' Supply company at Taylor's Station, about nine miles east of here on the Pennsylvania railroad.

Soon after the fire was discovered the Columbus fire department was called on for help. An engine and a fire crew was sent to Taylor's Station on a special train.

The building which was demolished was the main building of the plant and measured about 150 by 150 feet. It was valued at about 160,000, and insurance was carried on about half that value. With the other 25 buildings comprising the plant, the destroyed building belongs to a company manufacturing brick and tile, and owned principally by Columbus stockholders.

Although more than 100 men are employed in the main building, no one was seriously injured when the boiler "let go."

Defects in the heating system of one of the double brooding houses near the south end of the Hartman stock farm, south of here started a fire which caused a loss to building and stock estimated at near $10,000. A thousand young chicks in the brooders were burned and 40 incubators filled with eggs. The fire is thought to have started at a point of contact between wood and steam pipes.

The building stands apart from others and there was no danger of a spread. The farm's own fire equipment extinguished the blaze.

CROOKS THROW BRICKS

Negro and White Man Open Fusillade When They Are Caught Stealing.

Columbus.—Actually caught in the act of stealing lead pipe from a vacant house at 307-309 East Fifth avenue by N. J. Pfalzgraf, the owner of the property, a negro and a white man bombarded Mr. Pfalzgraf with bricks and escaped in a wagon which they had placed in front of the house in which to carry away their loot.

Mr. Pfalzgraf, who is a contracting builder, living at 279 East Fifth avenue, was inside the vacant house using a telephone which is in the upper part of it when he heard a noise. Going down and outside to investigate he found a colored man under the pantry cutting off lead pipe. He asked the man what he was doing. The negro replied he had a right to take the pipe and when the owner tried to grab him threw a brick. He and his companion, a white man, then proceeded to wage a war with bricks, gradually retreating and finally fleeing in their wagon. They left the pipe behind.

COUGH WARNS FAMILY

Fire Department Was Unable to Get Water Service Near Enough for Benefit.

Columbus.—Fire, which was once thought to have been entirely extinguished, broke out a second time in the residence of Pasquale Messerall on Third avenue and completely destroyed the residence with a loss of about $2,000. Messerall lived with his wife and three children in a two-story frame property which he owned.

Mary Louise, aged 7, the youngest of the three children, awakened her father by coughing and the father discovered the house was filled with smoke. All of the family was gotten out and upon investigation it was found that fire was smouldering around the defective flue.

The fire was thought extinguished but the family did not wish to return to the house. They went to the residence of Mrs. Maggie Bryan, across the street, where at 1:30 the same child was awakened to see the home of her parents in flames.

Columbus.—Walter F. Brown, the chairman of the Republican state central committee, sent an open letter to L. C. Laylin, chairman of the Republican state executive committee, asking that delegates to the next Republican national convention be selected in primaries, last night.

GIRL OF TEN A MOTHER

Columbus.—Reports lately filed with the vital statistics bureau show that one girl of 10 and a woman of 59 became mothers in Ohio during the past year. Eight were mothers at 13, 38 at 14, and 112 at 15. There are 12 births to women between 50 and 59. Most children are born to women when they are 24 years old.

LIES DEAD BY HUSBAND

Aged Woman's Corpse Found Beside Paralytic Mate.

Pomeroy.—Neighbors who called to inquire as to the condition of Mrs. George Baer, 80, who it was supposed had fully recovered from a recent slight indisposition, found that she had died three days ago. All that time the body lay beside the woman's aged husband, who is a paralytic and had been unable to give the alarm. [illegible] condition through which he has passed is serious.

Elyria.—The Elyria Chamber of Commerce was notified today by Livingston Mather of Cleveland, secretary of the Ohio Red Cross society, that the Elyria organization sold 70,000 red cross stamps more than any organization in Ohio cities of 18,000 or less population.

Bluefields.—Eleven prisoners, three of who mare charged with murder and the other with misdemeanors, escaped from the McDowell county jail. A posse is pursuing them in the mountains.

[illegible]

Colds, chills and grip [illegible] kidneys and start backache, urinary disorders and uric acid troubles. Doan's Kidney Pills are very useful in the raw spring months. They stop backache and urinary disorders, keep the kidneys well and prevent colds from settling on the kidneys.

Every Picture Tells A Story

Capt. Nicholas W. New, 323 E. First St., McPherson, Kans., says: "When I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills, I had just gotten over an attack of grip which had weakened my kidneys. My back ached continually and the kidney secretions caused great discomfort. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me entirely and I have had no kidney trouble since."

"When Your Back Is Lame, Remember the Name—DOAN'S." 50c., all stores. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Naturally.

Robert, at the age of twelve, was much puzzled over one question in his examination paper on civics. It ran, "If the president, vice president, and all the members of the cabinet should die, who would officiate?" Racking his brain in vain to remember the order of succession, a happy thought came to him, and he wrote:

"The undertaker."—Woman's Home Companion.

PHYSICIAN SAID ECZEMA CAME FROM TEETHING

"When my little girl was about eight months old, she was taken with a very irritating breaking out, which came on her face, neck and back. When she first came down with it, it came in little watery like blisters under her eyes, and on her chin, then after a few days it would dry down in scaly, white scabs. In the daytime she was quite worrysome and would dig and scratch her face nearly all the time.

"I consulted our physician and found she was suffering from eczema, which he said came from her teething. I used the ointment he gave me and without any relief at all. Then I wrote for a book on Cuticura, and purchased some Cuticura Soap and Ointment at the drug store. I did as I found directions in the Cuticura Booklet, and when she was one year old, she was entirely cured. Now she is three years and four months, and she has never been troubled with eczema since she was cured by the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. (Signed) Mrs. Freeman Craver, 311 Lewis St., Syracuse, N. Y., May 6, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

NOT AN OBJECTION.

Mr. Hardhead—I have called, sir, to ask for the hand of your daughter.

Old Gentleman (with emotion)—She is the only child I have, and her mother is gone.

Mr. Hardhead (hastily)—Oh, that's no objection, I assure you.

The Ugly Brute.

"See that measuring worm crawling up my skirt!" cried Mrs. Bjenks. "That's a sign I'm going to have a new dress."

"Well, let him make it for you," growled Mr. Bjenks. "And while he's about it, have him send a bookworm to do you up the back. I'm tired of the job."

HARD TO DROP
But Many Drop It.

A young Calif. wife talks about coffee.

"It was hard to drop Mocha and Java and give Postum a trial, but my nerves were so shattered that I was a nervous wreck and of course that means all kinds of ills.

"At first I thought bicycle riding caused it and I gave it up, but my condition remained unchanged. I did not want to acknowledge coffee caused the trouble for I was very fond of it.

"About that time a friend came to live with us, and I noticed that after he had been with us a week he would not drink his coffee any more. I asked him the reason. He replied, 'I have not had a headache since I left off drinking coffee some months ago, till last week, when I began again, here at your table. I don't see how anyone can like coffee, anyway, after drinking Postum!'

"I said nothing, but at once ordered a package of Postum. That was five months ago, and we have drank no coffee since, except on two occasions when we had company, and the result each time was that my husband could not sleep, but lay awake and tossed and talked half the night. We were convinced that coffee caused his suffering, so we returned to Postum, convinced that the coffee was an enemy, instead of a friend, and he is troubled no more by insomnia.

"I, myself, have gained 8 pounds in weight, and my nerves have ceased to quiver. It seems so easy now to quit the old coffee that caused our aches and ills and take up Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Lake County Herald
PAINESVILLE, OHIO

A DEMOCRATIC NEWSPAPER

TELEPHONE NO. 75

PUBLISHED THURSDAY OF EACH WEEK

Entered in the Postoffice at Painesville, Ohio, as Second-Class Mail Matter.

Advertising Rates

DISPLAY

Per Inch—First Insertion ........ 20c
Per Inch—Each Additional Insertion ........ 10c

LOCALS

Per Line—First Insertion ........ 10c
Per Line—Each Additional Insertion ........ 05c
Want Column—Three Lines, three weeks ........ 25c

M. L. Harter } Editors and Proprietors
R. A. Tuttle }

THE STONE REJECTED.

After all it would seem that Mr. Bryan is the real leader of the Democrats in congress.

Two or three times since the beginning of the extra session last year he has been "rebuked" by Mr. Underwood and the organization in control of the majority.

He was "rebuked" when Mr. Underwood turned down free wool.

He was "rebuked" again when the Steel Trust was favored through long delay in bringing in a bill curbing its ruthless extortion.

Again he was "rebuked" when the Henry Money Trust probe was rejected at the behest of Wall street and that matter committed to the care of Mr. Cannon's friend Pujo of Louisiana.

But apparently the Bryan influence is being more and more felt in congress and more and more the Bryan idea is coming to the front. Free wool and free sugar are both now included in the program which Mr. Underwood has been forced to accept, and before the struggle was over in the matter of the Money Trust probe Mr. Henry of Texas won a constructive victory at the expense of the reactionaries in the adoption of a modified form of his original resolution. It seems improbable that even Mr. Pujo will be able to suppress the investigation which is contemplated and which Wall street so greatly dreads.

By and by it may dawn upon Mr. Underwood that it is easier to have Mr. Bryan "rebuked" by a house which he controls than to have the rebuking endorsed "back home."

"Back home" the folks still think well of Mr. Bryan.

"Back home" father and the boys still read what he says about current issues and agree with him concerning Democratic policies and Democratic duty.

"Back home" even mother and the girls are conscious of the high cost of living, they know all about what the trusts are doing when all that the traffic will bear is taken in the price that must be paid for the necessaries of life.

"Back home" Wall street has fewer friends than it is able to muster on the floor of the house when a Henry attacks the Money Trust and when Mr. Bryan's advice is flouted with contumely.

And it is "back home" where Mr. Bryan's strength is as unimpaired today as it was when the common people gave him more votes than any Democrat ever received. From the change of front in congress on the subjects of free wool and free sugar we are bound to infer that more than one able statesman has been hearing from "back home."

Our congratulations are freely extended to Mr. Underwood in connection with the graceful way in which he has yielded to Democratic sentiment. He might have grown ugly and mussed things up, creating a scandal and bringing reproach upon the party. He has avoided this sort of unseemliness, climbing over into the Bryan bandwagon and taking a front seat. With free wool and free sugar he makes a start on the way of grace which should encourage others to follow his manly example.

The lesson of it all is that William Jennings Bryan is still the peerless leader. There are other leaders, others whom Democrats respect, others whom the party of the plain people regard with admiration and increasing trust, but there is only one Bryan; only one strong voice which reaches all, which speaks for all, which lends inspiration and encouragement to all. The stone rejected of the builders is still the chief of the corner.

WOOLEN TRUST HUMOR.

The Woolen Trust magnates of Lawrence, Mass., have a finely developed sense of humor. No "end man" in a minstrel show ever perpetrated a funnier joke than the one these millionaires work off on their employes. Moreover, these fun makers have a marvelous faculty of keeping a straight face while the audience is convulsed by their perfectly killing witticisms.

As evidence of their ability as humorists witness pay envelope No. 1607, issued to a Lawrence mill worker. On the back of this envelope was this advice, solemnly put there by the trustees of the Broadway Savings Bank, controlled by the Woolen Trust:

WHO OWN THEIR HOMES?
Those who save regularly and place it where it grows. One dollar will open an account at this bank.
4 per cent interest.

Now for the Woolen Trust joke! Just opposite this bit of kindly and fatherly advice, such as a kind and loving Woolen Trust might be expected to give to its faithful employes, is this inscription: $2.

That $2 was written in with ink by the trust mill's timekeeper. It represents the reward that went to No. 1607 for his week of labor. "Buy a home," suggests his employer, the fatherly trust. "After you have paid the grocery bill for your family of five or six and bought some coal and paid the landlord his share, and tickled the baby with a new pair of shoes, and purchased some nice warm underclothes for Willie, and bought mamma a new shawl, take what is left of your wages and buy a home!"

Isn't that funny?

Mill employe No. 1317 also got a free laugh with the pay envelope handed him by the trust, for it bore this legend:

DO NOT SPEND ALL YOUR INCOME
A man's duty to himself is to save money out of his earnings. Start an account and be independent.

The timekeeper wrote $6.05 on this man's envelope, which probably was the reason he was advised to be independent. Who, receiving the princely sum of $6 per week, would stop to think of such trifles as owning a home? This man probably owns his city mansion already, hence the trust could think of no advice suitable for him beyond admonishing him to be independent.

No wonder the tickled mill workers went on strike. Who could work when there was an opportunity to listen to funny jokes, handed out to them free of charge by the funny old Woolen Trust?

---

Senator La Follette's latest campaign platform has such a notable squint in the direction of Oyster Bay that the colonel will surely have to sit up and take notice. The progressives may desert him, but the senator dourly remains in the field. One gets the impression from a particular paragraph that Mr. La Follette has his doubts as to the genuineness of the colonel's progressiveness, for he says,

When Roosevelt became president the total amount of the stock and bond issues of all combinations and trusts, including the railways then in combination, was only $3,784,000,000. When he turned the country over to Taft, whom he had selected as his successor, the total capitalization of of the trusts and combinations amounted to the enormous sum of $31,672,000,000 more than 70 per cent of which was water. Prices were put up on transportation and on the products of the mines and factories to pay interest and dividends on this fraudulent capitalization.

And now the colonel is attacking his successor's policy of enforcing the antitrust law and denouncing it as ineffective and farcical. La Follette of course is more extreme in his radicalism than Mr. Roosevelt, whom he is fighting instead of following. He would extend the initiative, referendum and recall to the federal government, but he does not indorse the colonel's favorite measure of reform, the recall of decisions. This may be fairly said in show that the Wisconsin senator has not gone entirely mad. The colonel may have a monopoly of his recall of decisions. One plank in the La Follette platform deserves the serious consideration and sympathetic interest of all citizens, regardless of political affiliations. It concerns our naval expenditures and the national defense. The senator's suggestion that a competent commission be appointed to investigate what is required for the defense of the country, in order that extravagance and needless expenditures may be avoided, is very welcome.

---

Editor Evidently Not Musician.

Cristofali, a native of Padua, produced the first piano in 1710. Now that we know the miscreant's name we feel easier.—Exchange.

---

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of coughs, colds and croup. It can be depended upon. Try it. Sold by all dealers.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

By Tom, Dick and Harry.

Oh for a little baseball to mix with all this presidential campaign news. A little spring tonic to relieve the effects of a winter diet.

---

"When you are right you can afford to hold your temper; when you are wrong you can not afford to lose it."—David Graham Phillips.

---

How often are the water mains of Painesville flushed? Every week, every month, or only when there's a fire? Must be a lot of corruption in some of the mains—especially on streets having dead ends.

---

Talkative Teddy is not "seeking" the Republican presidential nomination. What he wants is delegates to the national convention who will force said nomination upon him. See the difference? Ananias.

---

Affairs of the kind that happened at Hillsville, Va., during the past week, where a courtroom was "shot up" by a mountain clan, remind us that the country is still young. About the time we begin to think we are "grown up" something comes along to tell us we are not.

---

The American Sugar Refining Co. reports earnings of $14,000,000 this year as against $6,000,000 the year before. The American Tobacco Co. also did well, showing a loss in sales, but a net gain in profit of something like $900,000. Wonder what the profits would be if the government were to "dissolve" these two trusts again?

---

The Mentor shooting affray is the same old story of people playing with fire. You may juggle almost anything for a time, and not burn your hands but eventually your Nemesis catches up with you and you pay for the music. It's the law of compensation today, but its results are the same as the goddess of retributive justice in the days of the Greeks. If boys could be taught this none would be shot in an orgie of rowdyism.

---

How good you feel when you go into a store to make a purchase, and a pleasant-faced clerk steps briskly up and inquires your wishes. Such a one is sure to show an intelligent interest in helping you to find what you want, and you go back there again. How different you feel when this happens,—as it did. A man went into a store on Main street at the noon hour. Only one clerk was present, and he was standing at one end of the room in a deep brown study. The man waited and waited, but no sign from the clerk that he was conscious of any one's presence. The man went out and left the absorbed clerk. He'll never go there again. Whose fault is that?

---

Girls and boys who marry at eighteen, nineteen or twenty years of age are either desperately reckless or else ignorant of what married life means. The experiences of a boy or girl between 18 and 22 can come but once in a lifetime. The experience of a married girl or boy between 18 and 22 can come between 28 and 32. Why do they bar something from their lives.

A reasonable amount of happiness in married life is all that should be expected. There are bound to be storms. No one should be eligible to be married until they have learned this for otherwise they can not adjust themselves to stormy weather. It is safe to say that no boy or girl of eighteen has learned this lesson of life. Why should they? It is never taught. But why isn't it?

---

When we were boys and girls in school the boy who was suspended from school was considered almost an outcast, and if he was expelled he was beyond hope. Now a nervous teacher has it in her power to have a boy suspended for any little thing that displeases her. Ever notice it? Then the boy's parents get busy and the boy goes back to school with no very clear idea of what it was all about, and feeling someway as though he were the party offended, instead of feeling that he had been disgraced. The thing is done in the name of discipline, but the boy, not being an infant, knows that he was guilty of no very serious breach of conduct, and, finding it easy to be reinstated, loses what little respect he had for the rule of the teacher. Many teachers are more interested in so-called "discipline" than they appear to be in instructing the pupils. As one teacher complained to a parent: "Johnny just must show respect to me." She forgot that respect is deserved and not demanded, and as Johnny had none for her, it was hard for him to show any. She was what is known among married people as a "nag." To an outsider it would seem that suspension and expulsion should be visited only upon incorrigibles, and when once passed, the culprit should not find it so easy to get back. How would it do to expel the teacher who spends most of the time shouting at the pupils instead of going ahead with the work in hand?

---

Many sufferers from rheumatism have been surprised and delighted with the prompt relief afforded by applying Chamberlain's Liniment. Not one case of rheumatism in ten requires any internal treatment whatever. This liniment is for sale by all dealers.

BUT WHAT WAS THE ANSWER?

Instance of the Remarkable Encyclopaedic Knowledge of Dr. Talcott Williams.

It has been said that no pretension is more dangerous than to lay claim to encyclopaedic knowledge; it only needs the casual question of a six-year-old to knock you from your pedestal. But occasionally there develops a man reasonably well fitted to be set upon such an intellectual elevation, and such a one is Dr. Talcott Williams, journalist and publicist, of Philadelphia. He seems to know all about most things, and pretty nearly all of some things besides, and within the month the Quaker City has heard another instance of his practical infallibility, "right off the bat."

During an evening conversation at the home of a suburban hostess the talk, upon art, centered on Michael Angelo. Then passing reference was made to the great master's broken nose—and some had never known his nose was broken, while none of the few who had acquired that fact could recall how the accident occurred. The daughter of the house started for the library to look up the matter, but some one said:

"Call up Dr. Williams; he'll know, and I've an idea it sort o' pleases him to help the world along that way."

So the 'phone book was turned to instead of Vassari's "Lives," and when the sought-for "party" was on the wire and the question put to him, the answer was delightfully instant.

Then the apology was sent in with the thanks, and Dr. Williams replied: "I'm only too glad to have been of any help—and, believe me, I've often been called up on matters of far less importance than Michael Angelo's nose."—W. J. P.

MUST LEARN NEW LANGUAGE

Amusing Difficulties of English People in Making Themselves Understood in This Country.

In his recent book, "Memories of a Labor Leader," Mr. John Wilson, M. P., gives an amusing instance of the confusion which arises from the differences between the names of articles of home use in England and their names in America.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson formerly lived in America. They had as a neighbor, in a Pennsylvania mining town, an old lady who had left Tyneside some years prior to their acquaintance with her. She gave them an account of her first attempt to make herself understood at the general store. She described to them the many misunderstandings which arose between her and the storeman until she came to the last article, which was treacle. She had never changed her dialect, but spoke the pure Wallsend, with the burr untouched.

"Aa want some treacle," she demanded, in unadulterated Northumbrian.

"I don't understand what you mean, ma'am."

"That in there," she said, pointing to a hogshead.

"That is molasses."

"That's what Aa want. Gi' me a pund of it."

"We don't sell it by weight, ma'am; we sell it by measure."

The old lady gasped in utter amazement.

"Dee ye mean to say," she faltered, "that ye sell treacle by the yard in this country?"—Youth's Companion.

---

Joseph Pulitzer's Ambition.

One day while cruising off the Atlantic coast our talk had drifted from actors, whose performances we had seen and heard to the plays of Shakespeare, and Mr. Pulitzer spoke of the beautiful scene between Brutus and his wife. He began to repeat it, and never have I heard a finer recitation. It was so full and rounded, so tense with proper emphasis. From that he gave both Forum speeches. I grew more and more surprised. He would stop at the corner of the deck and while still holding my arm, he declaimed to the open sea.

"It was my desire once to be an orator, my great ambition. I used to practice those speeches by the hour."

It was the only time in all my acquaintance with him that I found him in this mood. But I never shall forget it—his tall, gaunt figure on the swaying deck, and the strength and melody that seemed so suddenly to have been born into his voice. It was a note that I cannot remember ever hearing again.—James Barnes, in Collier's Weekly.

---

To the Manner Born.

Max Muller, the famous Sanskrit scholar, was fond of recalling that he had once seen Queen Victoria and the Empress Eugenie enter a Paris theater together. The audience cheered itself hoarse; but what interested Professor Muller was the contrast in the conduct of the two royalties.

Both bowed in answer to the plaudits, and then sat down; but whereas Eugenie glanced behind her, much as you or I would do, to make sure of the chair being there to receive her, Victoria kept her eyes to the front, and took the chair for granted.

That was the difference between being born into the purple and marrying into it.—Youth's Companion.

---

Just Dying to Do It.

Servant—No, the vicar is not in just now. Is there any message?

Old Woman (cheerfully)—Well, tell him that Martha Higgins would like to be buried at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon!—London Opinion.

---

VERY LOW ONE WAY COLONIST RATES VIA NICKEL PLATE ROAD to points in the West, Northwest and Southwest. Tickets good going March 1 to April 15, inclusive. Ask Agent or write J. C. Melenbacker, G. P. A., Erie, Pa. No. 2.

---

Cod.

The catch of cod in the United States is third in value of fish caught, amounting to almost $2,500,000, followed by that of shad, lobsters and clams.

ANCESTOR OF A PRESIDENT

Peter R. Taft Gained Wide Prominence in His County by His Discharge of Duties of Surveyor.

Among the early settlers of Townshend, Vermont, was a family by the name of Taft. They came from Uxbridge, Mass., in the winter of 1799. Their household goods, writes Hamilton Child in the "History of Windham County, Vermont," were loaded upon a sled drawn by oxen.

Peter R. Taft, fourteen years of age, accompanied the family. He came all the way on foot, and drove the cow. In the winter, like other farmers' boys, he did chores, helped prepare wood for the fire at home, and went to the district school. During the other months he helped his father on the farm. His education, however, was under the oversight of his father, who was a college graduate.

Fondness for mathematics resulted in his becoming a land surveyor, and in a few years he received the appointment of county surveyor. The accuracy of his work in establishing disputed lines brought him into public notice, and by the time he was of age he was well known in every part of the county.

The duties of his office made necessary a long attendance on his part at the terms of the county court. On such occasions he was a willing as well as an attentive listener, and so gained a knowledge of many legal principles, which led to his receiving the appointment of trial justice.

From his first experience the public had great confidence in his fairness; and in his capacity as a magistrate, his decisions were received with approval. He devoted his spare moments to reading, and became a man of wide knowledge, whose foresight and executive talents were appreciated by those who came in contact with him. His grandson now lives in Washington.—Youth's Companion.

NAGGING HURTS THE CHILD

Constant Scolding Raises All That Is Unlovable in Young and Affects Whole Life.

Harsh language toward children, constant chiding and scolding, blows and taunting words do not presage a life of refinement of thought and action for the children so brought up. Constant nagging and reprimanding do not improve the tempers of the little folk nor do they make them more considerate or faithful to their duties.

On the contrary, just this course raises all that is unlovely and unlovable in the child and gives its character a trend that places it in a false position throughout the after years.

There are people born with irritable dispositions and none of them are ever improved by being kept in constant turmoil or by being allowed to have free reign in displaying them. Most children are amenable to persuasion and wonderfully responsive to kindness. Therefore, childhood should be the time for training the child to put forth the best that is in it and to repress its bad points until they are choked out, says an exchange. But no child can be improved under a regime of scolding, blows and rancorous bickering on the part of its elders, or the constant repetition of an attitude of hostility between those same elders.

The children of the home have sooner or later to take their places in the world and the character of those places is determined by the training given them through their earliest years. If love and sweetness of disposition are generated in their natures; if a fine sense of justice and a realization of the rights of others are given them as the underlying principles of life, they will reflect just these when they go out into the world and typify to that world exactly the type of home in which they grow up.

---

Crickets in Winter.

It is curious how the chirp of a cricket affects listeners. To some persons it is irritating and exasperating; to some it is cheery and suggestive of good fellowship.

Of this latter class is a friend of the Office Window, a resident of the upper West side, who has two rollicking crickets as his guests for the winter season. Welcome guests they are, too, for their host avers that they have come to know him, and that the sound of his footstep when he comes home at nightfall is regularly the signal for a vibrant, joyous greeting from his jolly co-tenants.

It is easy to believe that these crickets recognize their host. There is something companionable in insects of that species. That quality was appreciated by the man who wrote: "The Kettle began it, full five minutes by the little wax-faced Dutch clock in the corner before the cricket uttered a chirp."

---

Red Wine and Eggs.

The Duchess Hohenberg of Vienna is reported to have proved the value of red wine as an aid to the production of hens' eggs. The duchess is said to have been advised to try wine on her poultry by Prof. Joubert of Fontainebleau. Selecting a flock of one dozen healthy hens the duchess fed six of them on wine soaked food, at the rate of one glass each a day. The other six had their same ration soaked with water. Within four months the wine-fed hens had laid 140 more eggs than those drinking only water. Eggs of the wine-fed hens are said to be much larger and of a finer quality. The cheapest grade of red wine was used.

---

Daily Thought.

But the mind never unbends itself so agreeably as in the conversation of a well-chosen friend.—Addison.

---

Cultivate Prudence.

A man who is not prudent is borrowing his pleasure today at the expense of his brother tomorrow.

---

Poet's Longest and Shortest Play.

"Hamlet" is the longest of Shakespeare's plays and the "Comedy of Errors" the shortest.

ORDINANCE NO. 214.

An Ordinance Regulating the Clearing of Sidewalks.

Be it ordained by the Council of the Village of Fairport, State of Ohio.

Section 1. Every owner, occupant, or person having charge of any tenement, building, lot or land, fronting on any avenue, street, alley, or other public highway of the village, shall clear the whole sidewalk in front of said tenement, building, lot or land, of snow and ice before nine o'clock of the forenoon of each day, provided that if the sidewalk in front of said tenement, building, lot or land, is not flagged or paved, or improved by the construction of a cement walk thereon, a pathway thereon shall be cleared of ice and snow to the width of at least five feet; if for any cause it shall be impossible to remove the snow and ice which may adhere to such sidewalk, then every such owner, occupant, or person having charge, shall cover such snow or ice as shall remain, with such coating of ashes, sand or other substances as may be necessary to render travel thereon safe and convenient. Every owner, occupant or person having charge of any tenement, building, lot or land, fronting upon any avenue, street, alley or other public highway of the Village, shall keep the entire width of said sidewalk, free and clear from all earth, sand, brick, stone, rubbish, or any other material which from any cause whatsoever shall have accumulated or may accumulate from said street.

Section 2. No person shall cast, throw, place or deposit on any sidewalk or crosswalk on any street, avenue or public place within the limits of the village, any part or portion of any fruit or vegetables, or other substances which when stepped upon by any person is liable to cause such person to slip or fall.

Section 3. Any person who shall violate any of the preceding sections of this ordinance, or any provision thereof, who shall fail or neglect to comply with the requirements of any or either of said sections or provisions, shall on conviction thereof be fined in any sum not exceeding $10.00, for each offense and the sum of $5.00 for each day said violation is continued.

Section 4. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and legal publication.

Passed March 12, 1912.

AUGUST WOLFE,
Mayor of the Village of Fairport.
J. O. KOSKI,
Clerk.

ORDINANCE NO. 215.

To fix the amount of the official bonds of the Trustees of the Sinking Fund and the compensation of the Secretary of said Trustees.

Be it ordained by the council of the Village of Fairport, State of Ohio.

Section 1. Each member of the Board of Trustees of the Sinking Fund of said Village shall, before entering on the discharge of his official duties, give bond to said village in the sum of One Thousand Dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties as such Trustee during his continuance in office, said bonds to be approved by the council of said village.

Section 2. The board of Trustees of the Sinking Fund shall elect a secretary, who may be one of their number, and who shall receive as compensation for his services the sum of Seventy-five Dollars per year, payable quarterly upon the order of Trustees out of any fund under their control.

Section 3. All ordinances and parts of ordinances inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Section 4. This ordinance shall be in force after its passage and legal publication.

Passed March 12, 1912.

AUGUST WOLFE,
Mayor.
J. O. KOSKI,
Clerk.

ORDINANCE NO. 864.

To provide for the issue of certificates of indebtedness in the sum of Two Hundred and Twenty-five Dollars for the purpose of making alterations and repairs to the engine house.

Whereas it is imperative that certain alterations and repairs shall at once be made on the engine house, and

Whereas there is no money appropriated in the proper fund of the department of public safety, and

Whereas there is not sufficient money in the general fund unappropriated from which an appropriation can be made, now therefore,

Be it ordained by the Council of the City of Painesville, State of Ohio, two-thirds of the members elected thereto concurring:

Section 1. That it is necessary that certain alterations and repairs be made to the engine house of the City of Painesville.

Section 2. That it is necessary to issue and to sell certificates of indebtedness in the sum of Two Hundred and Twenty-five Dollars for the purpose of making said alterations and repairs.

Section 3. That under the authority of Section 3913 of the General Code of the State of Ohio authorizing the issue of certificates of indebtedness in anticipation of the general revenue fund certificates of indebtedness of the City of Painesville, Ohio, be issued in the amount of Two Hundred and Twenty-five Dollars to pay for certain alterations and improvements to the engine house.

Section 4. That said certificates shall be dated May 18, shall be payable on or before Sept. 18, shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent and shall be signed by the Mayor and by the City Auditor and sealed with the corporate seal of the City of Painesville.

Section 5. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Passed March 18, 1912.

ELBERT F. BLAKELY,
President of the Council.

Attest:
FRANK L. KELLY,
Clerk.

Approved March 19, 1912.

WYNNE S. SMITH,
Mayor.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed bids will be received at the office of the Board of Park Commissioners of Painesville Township at ................ Painesville, Ohio, until noon on April 4, 1912, for constructing a Timber Retaining Wall at Painesville Park at the north end of Hardy Road on the lake shore.

Plans and specifications are on file and blank proposals may be obtained at the office of the Board or from Stinchcomb and Boddy, Engineers, 827 B. of L. E. Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

Proposals must be made on blanks furnished by the Board and each bid must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of Fifty ($50.00) Dollars, payable to the Board of Park Commissioners of Painesville Tp. as a surety that if the proposal be accepted a contract will be entered into.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

The Board of Park Commissioners,
By H. S. BELKNAP,
Sec'y.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed bids will be received at the office of the Board of Park Commissioners of Painesville Township at ................ Painesville, Ohio, until noon on April 4, 1912, for constructing a Bath House and Pavilion at Painesville Park at the north end of Hardy Road on the lake shore.

Plans and specifications are on file and blank proposals may be obtained at the office of the Board or from Stinchcomb and Boddy, Engineers, 827 B. of L. E. Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

Proposals must be made on blanks furnished by the Board and each bid must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars, payable to the Board of Park Commissioners of Painesville Tp. as a surety that if the proposal be accepted a contract will be entered into.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

The Board of Park Commissioners,
By H. S. BELKNAP,
Sec'y.

All Painesville Coughing

Death from a gun-shot wound less to be feared than Death from pneumonia.

A great number of our city's men, women and children have colds and coughs today. The air seems to be fairly laden with these throat and lung troubles. There is great danger of contracting pneumonia or consumption from them. Nearly every case has its beginning in a cold or cough, and many people die as a result. Beware!

A sudden chill, stupefying fever, sore throat, hoarseness, running nose, racking cough, rattling and wheezing in chest, painful breathing, signify that your cold borders on pneumonia.

There are many remedies offered for colds, but there is one certain, reliable article that we know of—Dr. Bell's Cough Syrup. It is best for soothing and stimulating the inflamed, sore, bronchial tubes and lungs. It wards off pneumonia. It checks cough at once. Gets a cold short. Don't wait to see if your cold or cough wears away of itself, as pneumonia may come over night.

Test it free by sending a postal for a free sample. Address A. C. MEYER & CO., Baltimore, Md. [illegible]

Insurance Of all kinds

FIRE, LIFE, AUTOMOBILE, AND LIABILITY INSURANCE

Twenty-five of the strongest and safest companies represented and all loss promptly paid.

E. D. BARBER
The Insurance Man.

FIRE INSURANCE
REAL ESTATE
ABSTRACTS
AND LOANS

A. M. WARN
P. O. BLOCK

HAVE YOUR STATIONERY EMBOSSED
Initials, Crests, Monograms,
Engraved to Your Order,
Stamped in Gold or Color, also Illuminating.
The Educational Supply Co., - Painesville
128 South State Street.

DR. E. L. NORTON and DR. H. D. RAND
DENTISTS
Nitrous Oxide Administered
Office hours: 8 to 12 a.m., 1 to 5 p.m.
Telephone, Main 484.
Cor. Main and St. Clair, Painesville

MARTIN A. TUTTLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Painesville, Ohio,
Postoffice Block.

H. T. NOLAN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Pioneer Trust Bldg. Painesville, O.

MORLEY & WARREN,
GRANITE AND MARBLE WORKS
Painesville, Ohio
The Best Stock and First-class Work
Cor. State and Washington Streets

BURGESS GRANITE WORKS,
Cor. State and Erie Streets.
We give Eagle Stamps.
We are the only dealers in Lake, Geauga, Trumbull and Portage counties authorized to sell the celebrated White Bronze monuments with the greatly improved finish.

Johnson
Custom Tailor
125 N. State St.
WE DO SANITARY STEAM CLEANING AND PRESSING.

SEND $2.00
For a Gallon of this
Good Whiskey
Equal to $3.50 grade. $5 Whiskey at $3 per gallon.
Duffy Malt Whiskey Per Bottle . . . . . 89c
Guckenheimer or Golden Wedding Rye
$2.69 Per Gallon
2 Gallons $5.00
All high grade, guaranteed liquor at reduced prices. Sent in plain packages to any address.
A. Cohn, Wholesale Liquor Store 5819 ST. CLAIR, 4 doors East of 55th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

IN THE GARDEN
OF BUSINESS
sow good seed; your plant will grow.
We furnish good advertising seed. Write us to-day.
Eclipse Electrotype & Engraving Co.
CLEVELAND

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
[illegible]
Scientific American.
[illegible]

NEW FIRM

THE PAINESVILLE COAL FEED & SUPPLY CO.
Successors to Cole Coal Co.

are doing business still at the same old stand that has for so many years been a feed store and coal yard.

The patrons of the Cole Coal Co. will find everything pertaining to the business methods about the same as usual as all the old employees will be retained.

Fair, Square Dealing is the foremost of our principles and that we intend to carry through our entire business.

We solicit a share of your patronage and would thank you for a call if only to get acquainted.

Where Cleanliness Reigns
Quality Groceries Await You Here
Our Prices Please and Are Worth Watching
Adapted to the saving pocket book
There's a reason for our growth
THESE WILL PLEASE
Elliott & Ruhling

French Dry Cleaning
Eliminates the soil from the finest and most delicate garments without loss of color or shrinkage and
Cleans Your Garments Clean
We French Dry Clean in a superior manner. Prompt service and prices the lowest consistent with first class work.
Painesville Dry Cleaning Co.
CHAS. FINK, Mgr.
Phone 219 R 109 South St. Clair St.
PAINESVILLE, O.
Work Called for and Delivered.

Mentor Wall Paper Store
NEW STOCK ON HAND
Besides a Large Assortment in Books which I would be pleased to show you
R. M. CASE

CHOOSE your bank carefully. Look for the safety of large capital and surplus; for capable, strong management; for modern facilities; for prompt, courteous attention on the part of the employees.
You'll find all these qualifications in The Cleveland Trust Company.
PAINESVILLE OFFICE
The Cleveland Trust Company
SAVINGS BANK
W. R. RADCLIFFE, Mgr.
W. C. TISOEL, Chairman

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION

The Lake County board of examiners will offer examinations for teachers' certificates on the first Saturday of each month in the year 1911. If first Saturday falls on holiday, examinations will be held one week later. Boxwell pupils will be examined the third Saturday in April and the third Saturday in May, 1911. All examinations will be held in the old High School building, Painesville, beginning at 8:15 standard time.

By order of the board,
J. R. ADAMS, Clerk,
Unionville, Ohio.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad
FLORIDA
Special round trip, via Washington and rail, or via Baltimore and boat. Stop over anywhere. Limit June 1st.
CALIFORNIA, OREGON, WASHINGTON
Colonist one way reduced fares. Beginning March 1st.
See Ticket Agent or write M. G. Carrel, D. P. A., 341 Euclid Ave, Cleveland, O.

The Eureka
POOL PARLORS and SMOKE HOUSE
SOFT DRINKS, CANDIES and a Full Line of CIGARETTES
ELECTRIC PIANO for the amusement of all patrons
J. H. MATHEWS, Prop.
116 So. State St., Painesville, O.

HAVE YOUR FIRE INSURANCE WRITTEN AT HOME
We represent one of the Largest and Best Companies
The National Fire Insurance Co. of Hartford
R. M. CASE & CO.

OUR SPECIAL OFFER

THE HERALD AND La Follette's Weekly Magazine

BOTH A FULL YEAR FOR ONLY

$1.25

You can read every week what Senator Robert M. La Follette, the fearless champion of the people's rights, the leader of the progressive Republicans, thinks and says for

ONLY 25 CENTS MORE
Than the Price of The Herald Alone

A stirring and momentous campaign is opening. You will want to be posted. You will want the record of your congressman. Does he represent YOU? You will want information about the great political issues you and your friends are talking about. Senator La Follette knows what is going on at Washington. He is on the ground; behind the scenes. He tells you all about it in LA FOLLETTE'S WEEKLY MAGAZINE.

Sixteen pages of crisp editorials and interesting special articles each week.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| La Follette's | 1 yr. $1.00 | OUR OFFER |
| Herald . . | 1 yr. $1.00 | $1.25 |

ADDRESS

The Lake County Herald, Painesville, Ohio

TRUBY COAL CO.
COAL and COKE
LIME, CEMENT, SEWER PIPE, TILE, ETC.
BOTH PHONES 21

MENTOR OHIO

Account of the Shooting Affair at the Dance Saturday Night.

Our people are very much stirred up over the shooting of one of our boys by a Willoughby chap last Saturday evening about eleven o'clock at a dance at the Village Hall. These Willoughby young folks had hired the Hall for a dance, and we understand had invited the Mentor crowd to come in and take part in the frolic. But when Dan McCarthy, John Foster and his brother Cris, appeared on the scene, there was some disturbance, and the Willoughbyite tried to put the Foster boys out—Dan in the meantime following along behind—but taking no part in the scrimmage. The Willoughby boy, however, thought he was about to be assailed in the rear, so turned about and shot twice at Dan, the second shot going through the left lung, and barely missing the heart. Our Sheriff was promptly on hand, and arrested the shooter, who has been languishing in the Painesville jail ever since, while the Mentor boy is in one of the city hospitals, (Lakeside, we understand), with hardly a fighting chance for his life. We do not think they had been drinking, or there was any animosity about it! Each just wanted his own way, and there would have just been a case of scuffling, had not that miserable revolver been in hiding—just waiting to do some mischief! Is there not a law against carrying such things? If not, there should be—and if there is, let it be enforced to the letter!

The weather has so far moderated, that spring begins to be felt in the air, though frost is not yet out of the ground enough to do much about "sugaring" and our maple grove owners are not rushing business very much. All other lines of work are slowly progressing, and loads of manure are being hauled every day, besides commercial fertilizers and a great many ornamental trees are being put out this spring, more than usual—of which the Scotch Birch seems to be the favorite. All snow has disappeared except on shady hillsides and in the deep drifts, which still remain—and are more ice than anything.

Mrs. Crosby Adams of Chicago, spent a day or so here last week with her uncle, Mr. John Frost, and her cousin, N. C. Frost and family.

Mrs. Smith of Burton and daughter, Marietta, are guests at the Center, visiting Mrs. Robert Case for a few days.

The Missionary meeting at the Methodist church on Thursday, was very well attended, considering that a wedding was on hand for that afternoon, and several of the members were detained at home by chickenpox patients. Mrs. Ed Barber had the meeting and brought out with her from Painesville, Mrs. Dr. Tillotson, and Mrs. Henry Tuttle, both of whom helped by timely remarks, to make the meeting successful. The annual Thank Offering for foreign Missions was taken, which came to about fifteen dollars. Supper was served, to which the gentlemen friends of the society were invited, and everybody was charged ten cents, which always goes to pay for necessary running expenses.

Miss Delilah Hammond has been sick with a severe cold that might very easily have developed into pneumonia, but for prompt attention from her neighbor, Miss Anna Cooey, an excellent nurse. There is rather more sickness here than usual at this time of the year; thought to be caused by debility brought on by the excessive cold weather of the past three months.

Eleazer Burridge, Jr., died very suddenly last week Tuesday from La Grippe and Asthma. Mr. Burridge was forty-seven years old, and just in the prime of his life, with several little children, who can hardly get along without their kind father. The sympathy of all our people go out to the wife and children, the sisters and brother, and to the mother, Mrs. Capt. Burridge, who is still living.

Rev. John Keck of Cleveland and Mrs. Keck were guests of Mrs. H. N. Munson over night on Wednesday, being called down by the marriage of Miss Hazel Hart and Stanley Kelly, which occurred Thursday afternoon at three o'clock at the home of Mrs. Charles Johnson at the Center. Mr. Keck tied the "knot."

A largely attended public sale of stock and farming implements took place at the Frank Hart farm Thursday afternoon, everything going high. This farm will be remembered by your readers (away from home) as the Benjamin Bliss homestead, afterwards owned by his son, George Bliss, who sold to Mr. Hart, a Cleveland man, some years ago. Since the death of Mr. Hart, the farm has been run by tenants, but is now for sale we understand, at reasonable terms.

Master Horace Andrews has been very sick with chicken pox and out of school for that reason, about a month. Elsie Eddy has also had the same thing very hard, and indeed all the children that have taken it, so far. Fortunately, it has not become epidemic.

Many of our people attended the union meetings held in Painesville, all expressing themselves as being glad they went out, and wishing it were a possible thing to have such an evangelist come to our village.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Allen, together with a few other Kirtland and Mentor friends went to Niagara Falls for a few days last week, and had a delightful little trip.

Mrs. Charles Church and daughter Dana, are expected to arrive at home the last of this week, from Mt. Dora, Florida, and N. W. Morley is soon coming, we understand.

Mrs. Charles Luth and little daughter of Painesville, spent a short time out here last week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Stohl.

Mr. E. LeDue, our new Lake Shore agent, has been off on a little visit among friends in the eastern part of the state for a few days.

Mrs. Bertha Ross Rigley McIntosh of Cleveland, whose home used to be where the John Newell farm now stands, and which was known years ago as the Osmond Hodges farm, was in our village a few days ago, with Mrs. E. E. Hodge and other friends.

Mrs. Charles Justus is enjoying a visit from Mrs. Rummel, of Los Angeles, Calif., at present writing.

Mrs. John Laird of Ashtabula, was the guest of Mrs. Norman Frost on Friday last, just for the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith spent Sunday over in Willoughby with their aunt, Mrs. Louisa Smith and family.

We were very sorry to learn yesterday, that Mr. Ed Baker was not as well as could be hoped, since coming home from the hospital in the city; and is remaining very quietly indoors.

Word was passed around on Friday that Mrs. Lillian Parmelee was very dangerously ill with pneumonia. A trained nurse is in attendance, and very little hope is entertained for her recovery. Later, we heard she was holding her own, and today, decidedly better.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson were down from Cleveland over Thursday, on account of Miss Hazel's wedding, also Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson, Jr., of Cleveland.

Mrs. Elbridge Steinhoff and son Bruce, of Buffalo, were guests of Mrs. Charles Johnson during last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Warren of Concord also were guests called here by the Hart-Kelly wedding, which one might as well say, first as last, passed off very nicely, a little home wedding always being the nicest in the world. There were very many beautiful presents, and the young couple went right to their apartments in Willoughby, where they are to housekeep for the present, while looking 'round for a place to buy and call home. They have the hearty good wishes of everybody who ever knew either of them.

Several from here have attended the spring Convention of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, which has been held in the Cedar Ave. Presbyterian church this past week.

Albert Hanson is intending to have a public sale on the 28th, next week Thursday, of about a thousand dollars worth of valuable stock, farm machinery, etc., which he had put onto the H. N. Munson farm, and which will be sold there to the highest bidder. Circulars will be out soon, stating more particularly the hours of sale, terms, etc.

---

Children are much more likely to contract the contagious diseases when they have colds. Whooping cough, diptheria, scarlet fever and consumption are diseases that are often contracted when the child has a cold. That is why all medical authorities say beware of colds. For the quick cure of colds you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It can always be depended upon and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all dealers.

---

Odds and Ends of Time.

It is always easier to wish that we had more time than to use the time that we have. So, by wasting time we still further reduce the precious asset of the actual and only time that is really ours.

The person who is not utilizing all the time he has at the rate of 60 seconds to the minute would not be much better off with 48 hours to his day.

Those who turn out what is, to the rest of us, a discouragingly large amount of work, have simply learned the art of using all their time, particularly the nooks and corners, the odds and ends, of their time.

They utilise a five or ten minute scrap of time as eagerly as they do a half day. And so things get done, and their year's output seems stupendous. With the average man, unless he can see several hours clear for a piece of work, he will attempt little out of the ordinary; and that is why he remains an average man.

---

Egyptian Customs Unchanged.

Lord Cromer, speaking at a meeting of the Egyptian exploration fund in London of the fundamental resemblances between ancient and modern Egyptians, said that: "It was not only conceivable but highly probable that during those centuries most inaccurately enumerated by Napoleon as forty, during which the Pyramids had frowned down on the Valley of the Nile, Egyptian manners and customs had, relatively speaking, undergone less striking changes than was the case with any other community of which we had any precise knowledge."

---

You judge a man not by what he promises to do, but by what he has done. That is the only true test. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judged by this standard has no superior. People everywhere speak of it in the highest terms of praise. For sale by all dealers.

LAST APPEARANCE OF RACHEL

Death of Great French Actress Due to Brother's Master Stroke of Economy.

The greatest tragic actress that France ever produced was Rachel. Her last appearance in New York was on November 17, 1855, at Tripler hall, as Phedre in "Le Moineau de Lesbie."

"While playing at the Walnut Street theater, Philadelphia, an incident occurred that was the cause of her death. It was an extremely cold night, and between the acts Rachel, instead of going to her dressing-room or green room, where a fire rendered it pleasant and comfortable, sat beside a small table placed near the prompter's seat. On the table she had placed several wax candles, the book of the play and some papers. There in the extreme cold, with but a slight covering, sat this fragile, classic form, the cold air rushing down, around and about her, chilling with its icy influence even those who were seated in the parquet. Raphael Felix, Rachel's brother, had taken the theater in its entirety, assuming all the expenses of heating and lighting, and he thought it probably a master stroke of economy to suppress the furnace fires, or possibly he did not trouble his head about them. But Rachel awoke the next morning gasping with pneumonia, and Raphael's saving in fuel resulted in the untimely death of his great sister. Rachel sailed for Charleston, S. C., where she was able to give one performance, December 17, 1855, and it was her last appearance on any stage. She acted Adrienne Lecouvreur. From Charleston she went with her company to Havana, expecting she would be well enough to act, but she never did. Day by day she grew weaker, until at last, finding that it was useless to prolong the struggle, she returned to Europe, took up her abode at the Villa Sardan, at Cannes, France, where she died, almost alone, January 5, 1858."

---

Leaders at Harvard.

There was at one time a popular belief—it never had much foundation—that undergraduate affairs in Harvard college were directed and controlled by the men who came from Boston.

Whatever may have been the facts in years gone by, a glance at the list of officers elected from time to time by the present undergraduates will show that the Boston men have no monopoly of the positions of trust and responsibility.

The members of the sophomore class elected their officers the other day. They chose for vice-president a man from Portland, Ore., and their secretary-treasurer claims Buffalo for his home. The president of the junior class is registered from Denver, Colo., the vice-president from New York, and the secretary-treasurer from Santa Barbara, Cal.

The student council, which is the leading undergraduate organization, has elected as president H. L. Gladdis of McCune, Kas., and one member of the executive committee comes from Chicago, another from Saco, Me., and a third from Honolulu.—Harvard Alumni Bulletin.

---

Height of Humility.

Senator La Follette, at a dinner in Madison, said of a certain notorious trust: "That trust's Thanksgiving won't be this year so boisterous and blatant as it used to be. That trust has certainly become subdued. Its spirit is as humble now as that of a very ugly man who visited a matrimonial agency and said he'd like to find a wife. But the agent, looking the man over, returned sternly: 'I'm afraid it won't be easy to find a wife for you, my friend.'

"'I thought,' said the applicant, 'you might have something short-sighted on your books.'"

---

Beet Cultivation Spreading.

Beet cultivation has been raised from a production of 1,000 tons in 1885 to more than 500,000 tons in 1910. There is so much beet-sugar territory in this country that if only one acre in fifty were planted with beets once every four years the entire United States demand for sugar could be supplied.

---

Troubles May Be Avoided.

Many of the troubles of life are due to lack of discipline and effort.

---

You can say goodbye to constipation with a clear conscience if you use Chamberlain's Tablets. Many have been permanently cured by their use. For sale by all dealers.

---

THE MARKETS.

Buyers are Paying for

| | |
|---|---|
| Wheat | 1.00 |
| Rye | .90 |
| Corn | .73 |
| Oats | .56 |
| Baled hay per ton | $20-$22 |
| Baled straw per ton | $11-$13 |
| Butter, No. 1 dairy | .28 |
| Eggs | .20 |
| Lard (home rendered) | .12 |
| Pork, dressed | .08 |
| Chickens | 12-13 |
| Veal | 10-12 |
| Beef, dressed | 8-10 |
| Tallow, per pound | .05 |
| Potatoes | 1.10 |
| Honey | 18-16 |
| Maple syrup, per gal | .90-$1.00 |

Retail Price for

| | |
|---|---|
| Flour, Royal Patent, per sk. | 1.60 |
| Flour, Golden Eagle, per sk. | 1.40 |
| Flour, Elevator, per sk. | 1.56 |
| Flour, rye, per sk. | 1.55 |
| Graham Flour, per lb. | .03 |
| Corn | .77 |
| Oats | .62 |
| Corn Meal | 1.55 |
| Chop feed, straight corn and oats | 1.65 |
| Midlings | 1.65 |
| Bran | 1.56 |
| Baled straw, cwt. | .80 |
| Butter, creamery | .37 |
| Butter, dairy | .32 |
| Eggs, per dozen | .24 |
| Potatoes, per bu. | 1.30 |
| Potatoes, per pk. | .33 |

A. W. SCHEURMAN
WICKLIFFE, O.
FRENCH DRY CLEANING DYEING AND PRESSING
All work guaranteed. Will call anywhere. And give you 3-day service.
WATCH FOR THE RED WAGON

If you want a FLOUR that will satisfy in any kind of baking try our WHITE BEAUTY.
We have sold this brand for over fifteen years and we know it will please you.
W. M. WERNER
DRUGS, GROCERIES, CROCKERY, HOUSEFURNISHINGS

NEW GOODS AND NEW FIXTURES
WE AIM TO CARRY THE VERY BEST IN
Staple and Fancy Groceries
WITH A STOCK OF
Cigars and Tobacco
In keeping with all other lines. We shall appreciate your trade and will endeavor to please.
BURR & RUST
CORNER STATE AND MAIN

Painesville's Leading Planing Mill.
DRESSED LUMBER IS LIKE A DEAD DOG.
The bark is all off. You'll find no bark to our lumber, although we do a good deal of barking about it. We have the stock, and feel justified in barking. When you want the best lumber, bark up this tree, and you'll find it.
S. L. MALIN & SON
"Focus on Lumber."
Phone 127

A. D. McLEAN
FIRE INSURANCE, REAL ESTATE
SINGER SEWING MACHINES
All makes of machines cleaned and repaired.
135 S. State St. Painesville, Ohio

A REMEDY FOR EVERY ILL IN
THE NYAL REMEDIES
—at—
PARK'S PHARMACY
"The Nyal Store"

Painesville's Leading Drug Store.
Registered Pharmacists in attendance at all times.
The Corner Pharmacy
J. G. DAVET, Proprietor.

FIRE, LIFE, ACCIDENT, HEALTH
—AND—
PLATE GLASS INSURANCE
FRANK L. KERR

A. A. CALLENDER
—ALL KINDS OF—
Light and Heavy Draying
FURNITURE AND PIANO MOVING A SPECIALTY
Home Phone—Main 301

The GIRL from His Town

by Marie Van Vorst

ILLUSTRATIONS by M. G. KETTNER

COPYRIGHT 1910 by The Bobbs-Merrill Company

SYNOPSIS.

Dan Blair, the 22-year-old son of the fifty-million-dollar copper king of Blairtown, Mont., is a guest at the English home of Lady Galorey. Dan's father had been courteous to Lord Galorey during his visit to the United States and the courtesy is now being returned to the young man. The youth has an ideal girl in his mind. He meets Lily, Duchess of Breakwater, a beautiful widow who is attracted by his immense fortune and takes a liking to him. When Dan was a boy, a girl sang a solo at a church, and he had never forgotten her. The Galoreys, Lily and Dan attend a London theater where one Letty Lane is the star. Dan recognizes her as the girl from his town, and going behind the scenes introduces himself and she remembers him. He learns that Prince Poniotowsky is suitor and escort to Letty. Lord Galorey and a friend named Ruggles determine to protect the westerner from Lily and other fortune hunters. Young Blair goes to see Lily, he can talk of nothing but Letty and this angers the Duchess. The westerner finds Letty ill from hard work.

CHAPTER IX.—Continued.

But Dan hesitated, looking at the bit of humanity that he had laid with great gentleness on the divan covered with pillows. Letty Lane lay there, small as a little child, inanimate as death. It was hard to think the quiet little form could contain such life, fire and motion, or that this senseless little creature held London with her voice and grace. Higgins knelt down by Letty Lane's side, quiet, capable, going about the business of resuscitating her lady much as she laced the singer's bodice and shoes. "If you would be so good as to open the door, sir, and send me a call page. They'll have to linger out this entr'acte or put on some feature."

"But," exclaimed Blair, "she can't go back tonight?"

"Lord, yes," Higgins returned. "Here, Miss Lane, drink this."

At the door where he paused, Dan saw the girl lifted up, saw her lean on Higgins' shoulder, and assured then that she was not lifeless in good truth, he went out to do as Higgins had asked him. In a quarter of an hour the curtain rose and within half an hour Dan, from his box, saw the actress dance to the rajah her charming polka to the strains of the Hungarian band.

CHAPTER X.

The Boy From My Town.

He went the next day to see Letty Lane at the Savoy and learned that she was too ill to receive him. Mrs. Higgins in the sitting-room told him so.

Dan liked the big cordial face of the Scotchwoman who acted as companion, dresser and maid for the star. Mrs. Higgins had an affable face, one that welcomes, and she made it plain that she was not an enemy to this young caller.

The visitor, in his blue serge clothes, was less startling than most of the men that came to see her mistress.

"She works too hard, doesn't she?"

"She does everything too hard, sir."

"She ought to rest."

"I doubt if she does, even in her grave," returned Higgins. "She is too full of motion. She is like the little girl in the fairy book that danced in her grave."

Dan didn't like this comparison.

"Can't you make her hold up a little?"

Higgins smiled and shook her head.

Letty Lane's sitting-room was as full of roses as a flower garden. There were quantities of theatrical photographs in silver and leather frames on the tables and the piano. Signed portraits from crowned heads, pictures of well-known worldly men and women whom the dancer had charmed. But a full-length picture of Letty Lane herself in one of the dresses of "Mandalay" lay on the table near Dan, and he picked it up. She smiled at him enchantingly from the cardboard across which was written in her big dashing hand: "For the Boy from my Town. Letty Lane."

Dan glanced up at Mrs. Higgins.

"Why, that looks as though this were for me."

The dressing woman nodded. "Miss Lane thought she would be able to see you today."

The picture in his hand Dan gazed at it rapturously.

"I'm from Blairtown, Montana, where she came from."

"So she told me, sir."

He laid the picture back on the table and Higgins understood that he wanted Miss Lane to give it to him herself. She led him affably to the door and affably smiled upon him. She had a frill in her hand, a thimble on her finger and a roll of edging in her bodice. She looked motherly and useful. Blair liked to think of her with Letty Lane. He put his hand in his pocket, but she saw his gesture and reproved him quietly. "No, no, sir, please. I never do. I am just as much obliged," and her face remained so affable that Blair was not embarrassed by her refusal. His parting words were:

"Now, you make her take care of herself."

—And to please him, as she opened the door, she pleasantly assured him that she would do her very best.

Dan went out of the Savoy feeling that he had left something of himself behind him in the motley room of an actress with its perfumed atmosphere of roses and violets. The photograph which he had laid down on the table seemed to look out at him again, and he repeated delightedly, "That one was for me, all right! I'm the 'boy from her town' and no mistake." And the thought of her as she had lain, lifelessly and pale on the dressing-room sofa under the touch of hired hands, and how, no doubt, she had been lying in her room when he called today, with shades drawn, resting before the long hard evening, when London would be amused by her, delighted by her, charmed by her voice, by her body and her grace. He had wandered up as far as Piccadilly, went into a florist's and stood before the flowers. Her sitting-room had been full of roses, but Dan chose something else that had caught his eye from the window—a huge country basket of primroses, smelling of the earth and the spring. He sent them with his card and wrote on it, "To the Girl from My Town," and sent the gift with a pleasure as young and as fresh as was his own heart.

He got no note of acknowledgment from his flowers. Miss Lane was evidently better and played every night; no mention was made of her indisposition in the papers. But Dan couldn't go to the Gaiety or bear to see her make the effort which he knew must tire her beyond words to conceive.

After a few days he called at the Savoy to get news of her. He got as far as the lift when going up in it he saw Prince Poniotowsky. The sight affected Miss Lane's townsman so forcibly that instead of going up to the dancer's apartment Dan took himself off, and anger, displeasure and something like disgust were the only sentiments he carried away from the Savoy. He sent her no flowers, and gave himself up unreservedly to Joshua Ruggles and to a couple of men who came in to see him by appointment. And when toward four o'clock he found himself alone with Ruggles, Dan threw himself down in a big chair and looked intensely bored.

"Well, I guess we don't need to see any more of these fellows for a week, Dan," Ruggles yawned with relief. "I'm blamed if it isn't as hard to take care of money as to get it. I was a poor man once, and so was your father. Those were the days we had fun."

Ruggles took out a big cigar, struck a match sharply, and when he had lit his Henry Clay he fixed his gaze on the flying London fog, whose black curtain drew itself across their window.

"There's a lot of excitement," Ruggles said, "in not knowing what you're going to get. It may turn out to be anything when you're young and on the trail. That's the way your father and me felt. And when we started out on the spot that's Blairtown on the map today, your father had forty dollars a week to engineer a busted mine and to pull the company into shape."

Dan knew the story of his father's rise by heart, but he listened.

"He took on with the mine a lot of discontented half-hearted ragamuffins—a whole bunch who had failed all along the line. He didn't chuck 'em out. 'There's no life in old wood, Josh,' he said to me, 'but sometimes there's fire in it, and I'm going to light up,' and he did. He won over the whole lot of them in eighteen months, and within two years he had that darned mine paying dividends. Meanwhile something came his way and he took it."

From his chair Dan asked: "You mean the Bentley claim?"

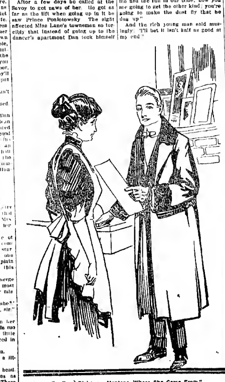
"Measles," his friend said comically, with a grin. "Your father was sick to death with them. When he was sitting up for the first time, peeling in his room, there was a fellow, an Englishman, a total stranger, come in to see him. 'Better clear out of here,' your father says to him. 'I'm shedding the damnedest disease for a grown man that ever was caught.' 'I'm not afraid of it,' the Englishman said, 'I'm shedding worse.' When your father asked him what that was, he said the idea that he could make any money in the West. He told your father that he was going back to England and give up his western schemes, and that he had a claim to sell, and he told Blair where it lay. 'Who has seen it?' your father asked. 'Any of my men?' And the Englishman told your father that nobody had wanted to buy it and that was why he had come to him. He said he thought his only chance to sell was to hold up some blind man on his dying bed and that he had heard that Blair was too sick to stir out of his room and to prospect. Your father liked the fellow's cheek, and when he found out that he had the maps with him, your father bought the whole blooming sweep at the man's price, which was a mere song.

"Your father never went near his purchase for a year or more, and when he had turned the mine he was managing over to the original company, with me as manager in his place, at a salary of twenty thousand dollars a year, he said to me one day, 'Ruggles, you'll be sorry to know that the fun is all over, I've struck oil.' But the oil was copper. The whole blooming business that he'd bought of that Englishman was rich with ore. Well, that's the story of Blairtown," Ruggles said. "You were born there and your mother died there."

Dan said: "Galorey told me what dad did later for the man that sold him the mine, and it was just like everything else he did, for dad was all right, just as good as they come."

Ruggles agreed. He left his reminiscences abruptly. "Your dad and me had the fun in our time, now you are going to get the other kind, you're going to make the dust fly that he dug up."

And the rich young man said musingly: "I'll bet it isn't half as good at my end."



"I'm From Blairtown, Montana, Where She Came From."

And Ruggles agreed: "Not by a jugful." And followed: "What's on tonight? 'Mandalay?'"

Dan's fury at Prince Poniotowsky came back. "I guess you thought I was a little loose in the lid, didn't you, Josh, going so often to the same play?"

"You wouldn't have been the first rich man that had the same disease," Ruggles answered.

"There is nothing the matter with 'Mandalay,' but I'm not gone on any actress living, Josh, you are in the wrong pew."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

ARE AS UNTAMED AS EVER

French Students Have Not Changed in Spirit, Though Less Picturesque Than Formerly.

One might almost say that there is one unchangeable feature of Paris and that is its students. It is true the students are not now quite so picturesque as in the days of Henri Murger, but undoubtedly their spirits are the same—they are still as untamed and riotous. The disturbances that have taken place recently have arisen simply because the students for the baccalaureate on the classical side discovered that the paper in Latin set them was intensely difficult, while the paper in Latin set before their rivals on the modern languages side was very easy. Hence shoutings, parading of the streets, demonstrations, stone throwing and window breaking, "conspiracies" and all the other various manifestations of the turbulent and dissatisfied student.

The class rooms have been held by policemen and the students have had several times to be summarily ejected, although on more than one occasion they burst open the doors and forced their way in again. The most comical feature of the whole business was to see and hear a large procession of demonstrating students singing along the boulevards in a monotonous drone the very passage from Cicero which had brought about their downfall, while their modern languages colleagues sailed easily into port on a passage from Julius Caesar.

IN TOUCH WITH FASHION

Blouses for Spring Wear—Low Necks and High Necks—Cuffs of Lace—Little Details That Count

A DECADE or more ago, there arose in the land a woman who had judgment far beyond her time. Her plea was for the gown that was hung from the shoulders, thus making the shoulder relieve the back. In those days skirts were five and six yards around, and the back was the burden-bearer. She was not successful on the whole, for the craze for the wasplike waist was at its height, and woman had not learned that "truth was beauty." But the seed sown then has sprouted and grown, and now women will have nothing but the one-piece gown. Its ever-increasing popularity is plainly evident. Not only is it demanded in trotteurs, but in evening gowns, reception gowns, and in fact in everything that comes under the name of gown. Whereas, it took the woman of olden times an hour to dress herself, we now dress in twenty minutes. It expedites matters, not having the belt, and having no collar and various other accessories to pin, hook, or button on.

Tailored Suit and Blouse.

The separate blouse still has its place with the tailored suit, however, for the two together form a combination too serviceable to abandon. Some of the blouses that the spring has brought out are of the thinnest, most transparent material—ethereal is the only adjective for them. The one substantial thing about them is the price. The materials most favored are organdie, chiffon cloth, mousseline, and batiste. Most of the blouses open down the front, and the opening is often made invisible by a hemstitched ruffle that is the same width all the way down, varying from the graduated side ruffle that was used last summer. Tucks are much in evidence, of varying sizes, and often combined with box plaits. Lace is a prime favorite for trimming, and of all laces Cluny seems to lead in popularity, though Irish is by no means slighted. Cream Valenciennes is pretty for low collars and for frills. Some of the prettiest blouses have high boned stocks of lace and long sleeves with lace cuffs—and just as many have round or "V" necks and elbow—or three quarter sleeves. Many of the tailored waists have the applied pocket, and some of the new linen shirts have pockets on the side. The pockets on coat suits also are of the applied, or military type.

Collars and Cuffs.

On some of these low-necked waists are large sailor collars edged with lace, the lace coming well down over the shoulder seams. Many of the collars are pointed and extend to the waistline in the back, an effective style for the broad shouldered and one that slim women should eschew, because it tends to emphasize slimness. Frills of lace are also still worn with the Dutch necks—after all, how slowly fashions change! Wasn't it in the year of grace 1909 that one first began to see those little round frills in the Dutch necks?

Sleeves for the blouses of thin material are put in with a few gathers at the top, while in the silk and linen tailored waists the sleeve is inserted as in a man's shirts. A waist in process of making was shown this week, with the revelation that the sleeves were stitched in before the under-arm sleeve was sewed up, seam and sleeve being then finished with one stitching.

The fad for cuffs is aesthetic enthusiasm well spent. Nothing makes a prettier dress accessory when rightly handled. All sorts of cunning touches peep out at the wrists of the long-sleeved blouse, both in close-fitting lace cuffs and in fluffy frills of Valenciennes.

Jabots and Bows.

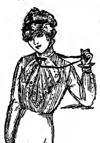
Fortunately, since it is one of the most effective toilet details ever devised, the jabot we shall continue to have with us. With the jabot, even the plainest blouse can be made lovely.

But styles are changing in jabots. Instead of being one-sided as during the winter, they will be two-sided. They are worn with stocks and collars, and there is a wide range of effects to choose from, both in point of material and in shapes. It is to be hoped that the square jabot effect will not be striven for too violently. Spreading out a little rabat until it reaches from ear to ear only spoils what might be a pretty rabat and can't be a pretty jabot. One of the prettiest jabots seen on the avenue was made of Valenciennes and the butterfly had been taken as its model. It winged out from the bib very gracefully and dropped into a point. Another beauty was long—extended all the way to the waist line, in fact—and was narrow. Some of the lace frills that are put on black satin stocks are made of exquisite lace. They just miss being as pretty as the all white.

Bows, too, are especially fascinating this spring. They are dressed up bows, plaited edgings of Alencon not adorning them, or little satin rosebuds dangling from their folds.

DISTINCTLY POPULAR JABOT OF "BUTTERFLY" STYLE.



Mull Frills Relieve This Otherwise Severely Plain Blouse.

Parisian Spring Gowns

Two spring gowns sent over from Paris. The one on the right is of shot blue taffeta with skirt band of filet lace. Collar and cuffs are also of lace. Gown on left is of mousseline with hem and bolero of heavy lace.

Austrian Legislators.

According to information supplied by the deputies themselves, the new Austrian parliament is composed of 170 landed proprietors, fifty-nine advocates, and the same number of authors and journalists, forty-one public officials, forty professors, thirty-six persons in private employment, twenty-two business men, twenty-one judges, fourteen manufacturers, eleven burgomasters, ten teachers, nine doctors, nine diet members and nine former cabinet ministers and privy councilors, eight engineers, seven merchants, five political officials, three private persons, two clergymen and an active cabinet minister, an artist, a town councilor, an officer and a workingman.

Chicago Electric Signs.

In Chicago it has been found necessary to enact an ordinance regulating the character of electric signs. It is required that all signs shall have the equivalent of one 16-candle power lamp to each square foot of area.

900 DROPS CASTORIA ALCOHOL—3 PER CENT. A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of INFANTS & CHILDREN. Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC. Recipe of Old Dr SAMUEL PITCHER. Pumpkin Seed, Alx. Senna, Rochelle Salts, Anise Seed, Peppermint, Bi Carbonate Soda, Worm Seed, Clarified Sugar, Wintergreen Flavor. A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP. Fac Simile Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK. At 6 months old 35 DOSES—35 CENTS. Guaranteed under the Food and [illegible] Exact Copy of Wrapper.

CASTORIA For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. In Use For Over Thirty Years CASTORIA THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES $2.25 $2.50 $3.00 $3.50 $4.00 & $5.00 For MEN, WOMEN and BOYS THE STANDARD OF QUALITY FOR OVER 30 YEARS. THE NEXT TIME YOU NEED SHOES give W. L. Douglas shoes a trial. W. L. Douglas name stamped on a shoe guarantees superior quality and more value for the money than other makes. His name and price stamped on the bottom protects the wearer against high prices and inferior shoes. Insist upon having the genuine W. L. Douglas shoes. Take no substitute. If your dealer cannot supply W. L. Douglas shoes, write W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass., for catalog. Shoes sent everywhere delivery charges prepaid. Fast Color Eyelets used.

'Twixt Satan and the Sea.

Doctor: You are in pretty bad shape. You must stop going to those cheap restaurants.

Patient: But, doctor, the prices at the other places make me still sicker.

When Your Eyes Need Care. Try Murine Eye Remedy. No Smarting—Feels Fine—Acts Quickly. Try it for Red, Weak, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Illustrated Book in each Package. Murine is compounded by our Oculists—not a "Patent Medicine"—but used in successful Physicians' Practice for many years. Now dedicated to the Public and sold by Druggists at 25c and 50c per Bottle. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c and 50c. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

A sermon is either based on a text or a pretext.

A long life and a merry one may be expected by those who use Garfield Tea, the natural herb regulator. For sale at all drug stores.

Some women are passing fair—and some others cannot pass.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS. Your druggist will refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

But it takes a woman to keep a secret she doesn't know.

When baby has the Croup give Hoxsie's Croup Remedy. It is positive, swift and sure to cure. No opium. Guaranteed by A. P. Hoxsie. 50 cents.

No, Alonzo, a girl isn't necessarily an angel because she is a highflyer.

"Pink Eye" is Epidemic in the Spring. Try Murine Eye Remedy for Reliable Relief.

Bad luck is often but another name for poor management.

Every one is liable to a bilious attack. Be forearmed with a package of Garfield Tea.

Many a man can't afford to dress well because his wife does.

Don't Persecute Your Bowels. Cut out cathartics and purgatives. They are brutal, harsh, unnecessary. Try CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS. Purely vegetable. Act gently on the liver, eliminate bile, and soothe the delicate membrane of the bowel. Cure Constipation, Biliousness, Sick Headache and Indigestion, as millions know. SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE. Genuine must bear Signature Brent Good.

PROTECT YOUR HOME. Opportunity. Here is an opportunity to establish a business in your community, that will make you money and save life and loss to property caused by lightning. We offer the best goods manufactured of the kind on the market. We are looking for the right man in your community. Do not fail to examine our proposition carefully. Write for free booklet. Hem & Leatherhum, Inc., Pittsburgh or Reyburn Hunter & Co., Phila. & Chicago.

PISO'S REMEDY 25 CTS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by Druggists. FOR COUGHS AND COLDS 25 CTS.

Readers of this paper desiring to buy anything advertised in its columns should insist upon having what they ask for, refusing all substitutes or imitations.

A Drop of Blood. Or a little water from the human system when thoroughly tested by the chief chemist at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., tells the story of impoverished blood—nervous exhaustion or some kidney trouble. Such examinations are made without cost and is only a small part of the work of the staff of physicians and surgeons under the direction of Dr. R. V. Pierce giving the best medical advice possible without cost to those who wish to write and make a full statement of symptoms. An imitation of natures method of restoring waste of tissue and impoverishment of the blood and nervous force is used when you take an alterative and glyceric extract of roots, without the use of alcohol, such as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Which makes the stomach strong, promotes the flow of digestive juices, restores the lost appetite, makes assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver and purifies and enriches the blood. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder and restorative nerve tonic. It makes men strong in body, active in mind and cool in judgment. Get what you ask for!

It's Best to Remember that every organ of the wonderful human body is dependent upon every other. If your liver goes wrong your blood will be impure; if your bowels are inactive your stomach and digestion will show it. And one trouble leads to another. Beecham's Pills have become the most famous and the most approved family remedy in the world. They are known for their wonderful and unrivaled power to cause regular, natural action of the liver and bowels. They are gentle, safe but sure. Beecham's Pills benefit every organ of the body—brighten the eye, clear the brain, tone the nerves and increase vigor—because they Remove the First Cause of Trouble. Special directions for women with every box. Sold everywhere, 10c., 25c.

---

MANAGER OF PIRATES SAYS BUT LITTLE

Artist Cesare Depicts Fred Clarke.

By HOMER CROY.

If you will look it up in the dictionary you will find it this way:

Fredclarke: (noun) see Old Gibraltar. And then if you will turn to the o's you'll read:

Old Gibraltar: (noun) see fred clarke.

That's what he is—Old Faithful. You can depend on him 364 days out of the year and if he turns up missing on the three hundred and sixty-fifth you may know some doctor has a thermometer under his tongue and his thumb on his pulse.

He was born on a farm in Madison County, Iowa, thirty-nine years ago, and did not talk until he was old enough to harness a horse alone, and never since has he said more than three sentences and four goldarnits in succession. Before he utters a complete sentence outside the ball park he gets out the screw-driver, the die cutter and the alligator wrench, goes all over his vocal apparatus, chokes once, strains for a start and then puts a period at the end of the fifth word. The only time he can use two sentences in succession without getting rosy behind his ears is when he describes his thoroughbred heifers.

One Saturday when he was seventeen years old, after he had got the jimson weeds all cut, lime sprinkled on the cucumber vines and the rock salt laid out for the cattle in the back forty, he went to Omaha where he saw his first professional game of baseball. It excited him so that he didn't sleep for three nights, and when he went back home and told the rest of the fellows that the players all had a full suit apiece they nearly hurt themselves laughing and said Fred was trying to put on airs just because he had been to the city.

His first game was played with the Hastings, Nebraska, team and he has been in the big league business eighteen years. His first games were on the prairie, so naturally his games now are on the level. (It's rotten, but we'll let it pass.)

He is one of the wealthiest men in the business, having such a big stock farm at his home near Winfield, Kansas, that he has to get down a plat map of Cowley County to remember how much land he has. It's so large that it takes two automobiles and five hired men to run it.

He has two daughters and a phonograph. His was the first phonograph ever seen in that part of Kansas, the natives coming for miles and miles on Sunday afternoons to look at it, and then going away believing that Fred was playing a joke on them. They wouldn't believe it could talk until they locked Fred up in the kitchen and put the thing out in the front yard on a culvert tile of trailing arbutus.

He is a farmercist from the word go and would rather talk about Durocs in the back lot than about the best Bougereaus ever hung in the Metropolitan museum.

The only habit, hobby or whoopla of the man who for ten years batted over 300, who won four N. L. pennants and one world championship, is chewing a toothpick. He is rough on toothpicks, beginning on them in the morning as soon as he gets one foot through and keeping it up all day until the Pullman porter begins hunting for the boys' shoes.

When Fred Clarke wants to have a ripsnorting time he drives a friend out to the hog yard in his auto, bangs one knee over the steering wheel, puts in a fresh toothpick and throws out a handful of shelled corn for his Durocs.

(Copyright, 1911, by W. G. Chapman.)

MAJOR LEAGUE 1912 MANAGERS

Five clubs in the American and two in the National League have engaged new managers for next season. A complete list of major league managers of 1911 and 1912 is as follows:

American League.

| Club. | 1911. | 1912. | Position. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Philadelphia | Connie Mack | Connie Mack | Bench |
| Detroit | Hugh Jennings | Hugh Jennings | Bench |
| Chicago | Hugh Duffy | James Callahan | Outfielder |
| New York | Hal Chase | Harry Wolverton | Bench |
| St. Louis | Rhody Wallace | Rhody Wallace | Shortstop |
| Boston | Pat Donovan | Garland Stahl | First Base |
| Washington | James McAleer | Clark Griffith | Bench |
| Cleveland | George Stovall | Harry Davis | First Base |

National League.

| Club. | 1911. | 1912. | Position. |
|---|---|---|---|
| New York | John McGraw | John McGraw | Bench |
| Philadelphia | Charles Dooin | Charles Dooin | Catcher |
| Cincinnati | Clark Griffith | Henry O'Day | Bench |
| Brooklyn | William Dahlen | William Dahlen | Bench |
| St. Louis | Roger Bresnahan | Roger Bresnahan | Catcher |
| Chicago | Frank Chance | Frank Chance | First Base |
| Pittsburg | Fred Clark | Fred Clarke | Bench |
| Boston | Fred Tenney | John Kling | Catcher |

NOTES of SPORTDOM

Baseball is becoming so popular it has spread to the penitentiaries.

The pitcher's box should be on the level, the same as the pitcher, some critics contend.

Garry Herrmann has decided the new leagues will burn out faster by not fanning the flames.

When the major leagues expand they will never permit a minor circuit to do their expansion for them.

The expansion of the American association is no new thing at all, for it has been talked by the magnates for at least two years.

Tip O'Neil, president of the Western league, is thinking seriously of invading Chicago, but is not certain just when or where he will light.

"Wee Willie" Keeler of the old Orioles is still a prominent figure in baseball. He will coach for Brooklyn this season and chances are the Superbas will know just what to do if they are unable to win everything they would like.

Gotch, the fans are told, turned Zbyszko down for a handicap match in New York. He also refused to meet [illegible] Tardello and the Mysterious Waffles.

Billy Evans and Jack Sheridan are unanimous that honesty is the bulwark of baseball. Other umpires weren't asked, but it is thought there will be no objection to this stand.

John Franklin Baker, the tall third baseman of the Athletics, still thinks that Snodgrass spiked him purposely last fall during the world's series. It was not the fact that he hit him with the spikes, but what he said when he hit him, that convinced Baker.

William Dorsch, utility infielder with the Superior team of the Nebraska State League last year, has been named manager.

Jimmy Collins is not yet ready to pass up the good old game and may break loose in the New York State League the coming season.

Frank Holoban, the Manhattan College star, will be a candidate for the first base position on the Albany team of the New York State League.

Ross Thornton has signed for a try out with Terre Haute. He may find that Springfield, Ill., may have something to say about where he plays.

Fred Fitzgerald, Griffith's new groundkeeper at Washington, has reached the capital and Griff has put him at work on reconstructing the field.

Because he received a cut in his salary Eddie Zimmerman, the fast third baseman of the Newark Indians, has announced that he will quit baseball.

Jack Dunleavy, the veteran outfielder, is now making his home at 108 East Seventh street in St. Paul. He is a free agent and looking for a minor league berth.

Frank Chance is not so badly off for first basemen, even if he is unable to play the bag himself. He has Branfield, Hofman, Saier, Agler and possibly Zimmerman available.

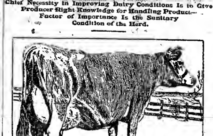
Connie Mack is far from being a chronic kicker, but the great and only baseball sphinx set up an awful holler about the American League schedule, if he was reported correctly.

Evidently Manager Dooin of the Phillies did not think so well of Tom Downey as did Horace Fogel. Fogel bought him from Cincinnati and Dooin said he had no place for him.

Clark Griffith was praised in Washington for his trade of Gabby Street for Jack Knight, but the Naps' officials in Cleveland are being "panned" for trading Stovall for Lefty George.

PRODUCTION OF CREAM MOST DIFFICULT PROBLEM TO SOLVE

Chief Necessity in Improving Dairy Conditions Is to Give Producer Right Knowledge for Handling Product—Factor of Importance Is the Sanitary Condition of the Herd.



Great Scott's Champion, Premier Jersey Cow of the World

(By W. M. KELLEY, New York.)

In the production of cream that will meet the demands of a fancy city trade the care of the milk and the sanitary methods of handling the cows are the most exacting phases of business. Many people, when handling milk, forget that they are dealing with a food product. If filth is allowed to get into the milk at any point of production, no amount of care afterward can make amends for this difficulty.

The chief necessity in improving dairy conditions is to give the producer such knowledge of the right methods of handling and caring for the milk that he will see the necessity for such methods and know how to manage his work to accomplish the desired results.

In selecting cows for producing cream it is to our best interest to select animals from breeds that have an inherited tendency to produce a large amount of butter fat at the lowest cost and for that reason Jerseys and Guernseys stand at the head of the list as economic cream producers.

The factor of importance is the sanitary conditions surrounding the herd. To produce clean, wholesome cream we must have clean stables, clean yards, clean and wholesome feeds and clean attendants.

The cows must be kept comfortable at all times. This requires a warm stable with plenty of light and sunshine. Pure air is fully as essential as pure food and no man can produce fine flavored cream if his stable is contaminated with foul air. A number of authorities have said a great deal about how much cubic air space each cow should have, but I believe it is more important that we provide a plan to change the air frequently rather than figure on the basis of so much air space.

To be sweet and clean it is almost necessary that the stable be whitewashed frequently. This makes a cheap and effective disinfectant and it is easily applied with a spray pump. It should be well mixed and free from lumps before using to prevent the nozzle of the sprayer from getting clogged. Cement floors are the best because they are easy to keep clean. With cement floors and liberal use of straw and other absorbents it is not difficult to keep stables neat and clean.

Many disagree as to whether the milk should be separated fresh from the cows or whether it is best to wait until it is cooled and again brought to the right temperature before being separated. On the majority of farms where fancy cream is produced, considerable of the supply is brought from other farmers and for that reason it is best to have the separating done at once, thus insuring a more uniform quality of cream.

Wash all the utensils after using. Wash first with warm water to remove the milk, then with hot water, soap or washing preparation. Sterilize the cans and pails at least twice a week. Leave the cans open so that the air and sun can do their work killing bacteria germs. The whole secret of success is cleanliness from the time the cows are milked until the cream goes onto the table for the consumer.

Avoid sudden changes in the line of feeding. A change of food many times deranges the cow's system to such an extent as to give the milk a bad odor. Never feed turnips, cabbage or vegetables because there is always danger of ruining the quality of the production. Roots are excellent. When feeding ensilage, plan to feed it after milking so that the odor will not affect the cream.

Every dairy room or cream skimming room should have good drains, cement floors and walls that are light. The floor should have enough slope to carry off the water to the drains. Sanitary methods do not mean expensive methods, but that all of the buildings, tools, and men employed must be kept neat and clean. Some of the best and most sanitary equipments are the least expensive.

The next step is marketing the cream and right here let me say that the main point is to put up the right kind of article—one that the consumers know is produced under good conditions and that is always uniform in quality. There is not a city of 30,000 inhabitants in the country but that offers excellent inducements to a man who will start a fancy cream trade and pay more for his products than the common dealers are selling for. If you are selling 24 per cent cream keep your product up to that test and if your trade demands a 40 per cent cream do not try and palm off a lower test if you are a little short. Always sell what you advertise and ask a price that will leave you enough profit to maintain an article of high quality.

MAKING HOTBED WITH GLASS TOP

Permanent Affair Should Be Constructed to Be Heated by Manure or Radiating Pipes.

(By C. P. HARTLEY, United States Department of Agriculture.)

A permanent hotbed should be so constructed as to be heated either with fermenting manure or by radiating pipes from the dwelling or green house heating plant. For a permanent bed, in which manure is to supply the heat, a pit 2 by 2½ feet deep, according to the latitude in which the work is to be done, should be provided. The sides and ends may be supported by a lining of plank supported by posts 4 feet apart, or, what is better still, a brick wall 9 inches thick may be used. In either case the pit lining should come flush with the surface of the soil.

Cross Section of Hotbed

The site for the pit should be on naturally well drained land, and a tile drain from the bottom of the excavation should be provided to prevent the water from accumulating in the pit and stopping the fermentation of the manure during the period the hotbed is in use. Standard hotbed sash are 3 by 6 feet. The pit, therefore, should be some multiple of 3 feet in length, and the width should be the same as the length of the sash, 6 feet. The plank frame, or brick work of the pit may be extended above the surface of the ground sufficiently to allow for placing the sash upon the frame.

Hotbed sash should be constructed of white pine or cypress, and the sash bars should run in one direction only, and that lengthwise of the sash. The bars may be braced through the middle by a transverse bar placed through the long bars below the glass. The two ends of the sash should be made of sound timber 3 inches wide at the top and 4 inches wide at the bottom end, mortised to receive the ends of the sash bars and with a tenon at the ends to pass through the side pieces, which should be 2½ inches wide.

Boys in Corn Contest.

Five thousand boys entered the corn growing contest of Virginia last year. Corn growing clubs are organized by the superintendents and school teachers in the various counties. Each boy was given a measured acre and received instruction from an agent of the agricultural department.

Average Wheat Fields.

The average wheat fields of Vermont are only three acres, while those of California are 162 acres. In North Dakota the average is 116 acres, in Washington, 110 acres, and in Oregon, 105 acres.

Hogs Most Profitable.

No branch of husbandry now pursued offers better opportunities for profits for the amount of money invested and the time expended than the production of hogs.

Plum Is Prolific.

There is no more prolific tree than the plum and the fruit can be used for many purposes other than a table fruit.

A New Apple Country.

The province of New Brunswick is a newcomer in the apple raising competition. At a recent Canadian apple show New Brunswick had on exhibition 68 barrels, 656 boxes and 1,422 plates of the leading market varieties. Until lately the apple industry has received little attention in the province, but the department of agriculture has taken improved methods of cultivation and it is now predicted that New Brunswick will become a great apple country. There is an immense area of cheap land, and the climate seems to be favorable for the fall and winter varieties grown in New England and the middle states.

Banana Is Immune.

A peculiar fact about the banana is that no insect will attack it, and another is that it is absolutely immune from the diseases that fruits are subject to. It is one of the curiosities of the vegetable kingdom.

Good plums find a ready sale in any market where choice fruit is appreciated.

ECZEMA AND ITCHING ERUPTIONS. Dentist Says Resinol Works Like Magic. More and more are the wonders of Resinol. No itching surface but what is relieved instantly by its use, and the list of diseases which are permanently benefited is growing daily in numbers and cases. This dentist says it is the real thing. Glance over what he says: "I have given Resinol Ointment to patients troubled with Eczema and it always worked like magic. One lady after spending $100 to various ways was cured by the use of a 50 cent jar of Resinol Ointment. It is the real thing for Eczema and all itching eruptions. [illegible], D. D. S., [illegible], N. H." Resinol Ointment is an effectual and reliable remedy in all forms of inflammation, eruption and irritation of the skin. It is an immediate remedy for itching or inflamed piles and a great curative application for eczema, tetter, milk crust, pimples, scalds, burns, chilblains, chapped hands, boils, felons, cuts and all inflamed and irritated skin surfaces. Resinol Soap by its antiseptic and healing properties assists the work of Resinol Ointment. Try a fifty-cent jar of Ointment, to be gotten from your druggist, and you will be more than satisfied with the expenditure. Free sample can be had by writing to Department 85, Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

What Is in a Name?

A Chicago man who hardly knew one tune from another made the mistake of taking a knowing woman to a concert at Orchestra Hall. The selections were apparently unfamiliar to him, but when the "Wedding March" of Mendelssohn was being played he began to evince some interest.

"That sounds familiar," he said. "I am not strong on those classical things, but that's a good one. What is it?"

"That," gravely replied the woman, "is the 'Maiden's Prayer.'"

Doctor Endorses Children's Remedy. Dr. D. R. Ruthrock, New Berlin, Pa., writes that he has used Kopp's Baby's Friend with excellent results. He considers it the best remedy for children, invaluable in Teething Troubles, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea. 3 sizes, 10c, 25c, 50c, at druggists or sent direct. Kopp's Baby's Friend Co., York, Pa. Sample by mail on request.

Clever Youth.

"Do you know," he said, "that every time I look at you I have thoughts of revenge?"

"Why?" she gasped.

"Because," he answered, "revenge is sweet."

Then she told him she thought tomorrow would be a good time to see papa.

Many Children Are Sickly. Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for Children Break up Colds in 24 hours, relieve Feverishness, Headache, Stomach Troubles, Teething Disorders, move and regulate the bowels and Destroy Worms. They are so pleasant to take children like them. Used by mothers for 22 years. At all Druggists, 25c. Sample mailed FREE. Address A. S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

Quite So.

"Pa, what is a tidy fortune?"

"A clean, crisp, ten dollar bill, my son."

A very successful remedy for pelvic catarrh is hot douches of Paxtine Antiseptic, at druggists, 25c a box or sent postpaid on receipt of price by The Paxton Toilet Co., Boston, Mass.

Some men try to avoid paying as they go because they don't expect to come back.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets first put up 40 years ago. They regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated tiny granules.

Some men give a dollar with one hand and grab two with the other.

As a corrective for indigestion and a regulator of the system no remedy can excel in purity and efficiency Garfield Tea.

If you are poorer than your relations it is easy for you to dodge them.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle.

Some people love to tell the truth—when they think it will hurt.

Education does not mean teaching people to know what they do not know; it means teaching them to behave as they do not behave.—Ruskin.

ONLY ONE "BROMO QUININE." That is LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE. Look for the signature of E. W. GROVE. Used the World over to Cure a Cold in One Day. 25c.

Love laughs at locksmiths, but it sometimes cries over spilled milk.

When the Millennium comes Garfield Tea and Holy Church will not be longer needed.

Usually a man is a poor judge of his own importance.

FREE. MUNYON'S PAW-PAW PILLS. I want every person who is bilious, constipated or has any stomach or liver ailment to send for a free package of my Paw-Paw Pills. I want to prove that they positively cure Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Belching, Wind, Headache, Nervousness, Sleeplessness and are an infallible cure for Constipation. To do this I am willing to give millions of free packages. I take all the risk. Sold by druggists for 25 cents a vial. For free package address, Prof. Munyon, 53d & Jefferson Sts., Philadelphia, Pa.

Sick Women

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured many cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are five letters from southern women which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

LETTER FROM VIRGINIA.

Elliston, Va.—"I feel it my duty to express my thanks to you and your great medicine. I was a sufferer from female troubles and had been confined in bed over one third of my time for ten months. I could not do my housework and had fainting spells so that my husband could not leave me alone for five minutes at a time.

"Now I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier. Whenever I see a suffering woman I want to tell her what these medicines have done for me and I will always speak a good word for them."—Mrs. ROBERT BLANKENSHIP, Elliston, Montgomery Co., Va.

LETTER FROM LOUISIANA.

New Orleans, La.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was troubled with hot flashes, weak and dizzy feelings, backache and irregularities. I would get up in the morning feeling tired out and not fit to do anything.

"Since I have been taking your Compound and Blood Purifier I feel all right. Your medicines are worth their weight in gold."—Mrs. GASTON BLONDEAU, 1541 Polymnia St., New Orleans, La.

LETTER FROM FLORIDA.

Wauchula, Fla.—"Some time ago I wrote to you giving you my symptoms, headache, backache, bearing-down, and discomfort in walking, caused by female troubles.

"I got two bottles of Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of Sanative Wash and that was all I used to make me a well woman.

"I am satisfied that if I had done like a good many women, and had not taken your remedies, I would have been a great sufferer. But I started in time with the right medicine and got well. It did not cost very much either. I feel that you are a friend to all women and I would rather use your remedies than have a doctor."—Mrs. MATTIE HODSON, Box 406, Wauchula, Florida.

LETTER FROM WEST VIRGINIA.

Martinsburg, W. Va.—"I am glad to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done wonders for my mother, daughter and myself.

"I have told dozens of people about it and my daughter says that when she hears a girl complaining with cramps, she tells her to take your Compound."—Mrs. MARY A. HOCKENBERRY, 713 N. 3rd St., Martinsburg, W. Va.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM VIRGINIA.

Newport News, Va.—"About five years ago I was troubled with such pains and bloating every month that I would have to go to bed.

"A friend told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I soon found relief. The medicine strengthened me in every way and my doctor approved of my taking it.

"I will be glad if my testimony will help some one who is suffering from female weakness."—Mrs. W. J. BLAYTON, 1029 Hampton Ave., Newport News, Va.

Why don't you try this reliable remedy?

"For Every Little Family Ailment" Vaseline. "Vaseline" is the purest, simplest, safest home remedy known. Physicians everywhere recommend it for its softening and healing qualities. Nothing as good as "Vaseline" for all affections of the skin, scratches, sores, etc. Taken internally, relieves colds and coughs. For sale everywhere in attractive glass bottles. Accept no substitute for "Vaseline." Our free "Vaseline" Booklet tells you many ways in which "Vaseline" may be useful to you. Write for your copy today. Chesebrough Manufacturing Company (Consolidated) 17 State Street New York

SPOHN'S DISTEMPER CURE. INFLUENZA CATARRHAL FEVER, PINKEYE, SHIPPING FEVER, EPIZOOTIC. And all diseases of the horse affecting his throat, speedily cured; colts and horses in same stable kept from having them by using SPOHN'S DISTEMPER AND COUGH CURE. 3 to 6 doses often cure. One bottle guaranteed to cure one case. Safe for brood mares, baby colts, stallions—all ages and conditions. Most skillful scientific compound. 50c BOTTLE, $5 DOZ. Any druggist, or delivered by manufacturers. SPOHN MEDICAL CO., GOSHEN, INDIANA.

THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY. No. 1, No. 2, No. 3. THERAPION. Used in French Hospitals with great success, cures kidney, bladder diseases, piles, chronic ulcers, skin eruptions, either sex. Send address envelope for FREE booklet to DR. LE CLERC MED. CO., HAVERSTOCK RD., HAMPSTEAD, LONDON, ENG.

DEFIANCE STARCH never sticks to the iron.

Splendid Crops In Saskatchewan (Western Canada). 800 Bushels from 20 acres of wheat was the thresher's return from a Lloydminster farm in the season of 1910. Many fields in that as well as other districts yielded from 25 to 35 bushels of wheat to the acre. Other grains in proportion. 160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE. LARGE PROFITS are thus derived from the FREE HOMESTEAD LANDS of Western Canada. This excellent showing causes prices to advance. Land values should double in two years' time. Grain growing, mixed farming, cattle raising and dairying are all profitable. Free Homesteads of 160 acres are to be had in the very best districts; 160 acre pre-emptions at $3.00 per acre within certain areas. Schools and churches in every settlement, climate unexcelled, soil the richest; wood, water and building material plentiful. For particulars as to location, low settlers' railway rates and descriptive illustrated pamphlet, "Last Best West," and other information, write to Sup't of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or to Canadian Government Agent. H. M. WILLIAMS 413 Gardner Bldg. Toledo, Ohio. Please write to the agent nearest you.

Don't Cut Out A SHOE BOIL, CAPPED HOCK OR BURSITIS FOR ABSORBINE will remove them and leave no blemish. Cures any puff or swelling. Does not blister or remove the hair. Horse can be worked. $2.00 per bottle delivered. Book 6 E free. ABSORBINE, JR., liniment for mankind. For Boils, Bruises, Old Sores, Swellings, Goitre, Varicose Veins, Varicosities, Allays Pain. Price $1 and $2 a bottle at druggists or delivered. Will tell more if you write. Manufactured only by W. F. YOUNG, P. D. F., 310 Temple St., Springfield, Mass.

[illegible] CRAWFORD CO., PA., [illegible] 100 fruit trees, stock, [illegible] SHOCK, Box 318, Chicago.

FOR SALE—125 A. IN FAYETTE CO., PA. [illegible] good markets. [illegible] Box 318 Chicago.

PATENTS START FACTORIES. Send for free book how to get Patents. Patent secured or fee returned. Reed & Company, Attorneys, Washington, D. C.

W. N. U., CLEVELAND, NO. 12—1912.

Pleasant, Refreshing, Beneficial, Gentle and Effective. NOTE THE NAME CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. in the Circle, on every Package of the Genuine. DO NOT LET ANY DEALER DECEIVE YOU. SYRUP OF FIGS AND ELIXIR OF SENNA HAS GIVEN UNIVERSAL SATISFACTION FOR MORE THAN THIRTY YEARS PAST, AND ITS WONDERFUL SUCCESS HAS LED UNSCRUPULOUS MANUFACTURERS OF IMITATIONS TO OFFER INFERIOR PREPARATIONS UNDER SIMILAR NAMES AND COSTING THE DEALER LESS, THEREFORE, WHEN BUYING Note the Full Name of the Company CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. PRINTED STRAIGHT ACROSS, NEAR THE BOTTOM, AND IN THE CIRCLE, NEAR THE TOP OF EVERY PACKAGE, OF THE GENUINE. REGULAR PRICE 50¢ PER BOTTLE, ONE SIZE ONLY, FOR SALE BY ALL LEADING DRUGGISTS. SIGNATURE PICTURE OF PACKAGE. SYRUP OF FIGS AND ELIXIR OF SENNA IS THE MOST PLEASANT, WHOLESOME AND EFFECTIVE REMEDY FOR STOMACH TROUBLES, HEADACHES AND BILIOUSNESS DUE TO CONSTIPATION, AND TO GET ITS BENEFICIAL EFFECTS IT IS NECESSARY TO BUY THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE, WHICH IS MANUFACTURED BY THE CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES. Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c package colors all fibers. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. [illegible]

When buying
Ball Band Boots
Straight Line Rubbers
Dry Goods
Notions
Ladies' or Gents'
Furnishings
Shoes, Drugs
Patent Medicines
Graniteware, Tinware
OR
Light Hardware

You Receive Quality Goods at Reasonable Rates at
Wm. F. Wollpert's
General Store
Wickliffe, O. Cuy. Phone 4-R

ORIGINAL INTERNATIONAL EVERLASTING

RUBBER GOODS
John S. Lockwood

HOW INDIANS MADE HISTORY

Only in Tradition Does History Live and Only One Version of Story Is Ever Heard.

If we could only get at the facts of the history of our Indian tribes, it would be of interest to compare these with what is related as the fortune of most civilized nations. It is only in tradition that the history of the Indian lives, and only one version of the story is ever heard. Sometimes this is so true to nature that no room for doubt can be found. Such is the following chapter from the annals of the Beavers, a Canadian tribe.

One day a young chief shot his arrow through a dog belonging to another brave. The brave revenged the death of his dog, and instantly a hundred bows were drawn. Ere night had fallen some eighty warriors lay dead around the camp, the pine woods rang with the lamentations of the women; the tribe had lost its bravest men.

There was a temporary truce. The friends of the chief whose arrow had killed the dog yet numbered some sixty people, and it was agreed that they should separate from the tribe and seek their fortune in the vast wilderness lying to the south.

In the night they began their march; sullenly their brethren saw them depart, never to return. They went their way to the shores of the Lesser Slave Lake, toward the great plains which were said to be far southward, by the banks of the swift-rolling Saskatchewan.

The tribe of the Beavers never saw this exiled band again, but a hundred years later a Beaver Indian who followed the fortunes of a white fur hunter found himself in one of the forts of the Saskatchewan. Strange Indians were camped about the palisades; they were members of the great Blackfoot tribe, whose hunting grounds lay south of the Saskatchewan. Among them were a few braves who when they conversed spoke a language different from that of the others; in this language the Beaver Indian recognized his own tongue.—Harper's Weekly

VERY ANGRY WAS MR. JENKS

Laundry Had Not Come Home and He Proceeded to Explode via Telephone.

It was Sunday morning and Mr. Jenks' laundry had not come home. Angry is no name for the condition in which Mr. Jenks found himself! Giving utterance to language which would be entirely unfit for Sunday reading, he rushed to the telephone and hastily looked up in the directory the number of the laundry. "Give me 4146 Baxter!" he shouted fiercely to central.

"Hello!" came the response a little later.

"This is Mr. Jenks and I want my shirts," he replied wrathfully.

"Your shirts?" questioned the voice.

"Yes, my shirts," shouted Mr. Jenks emphatically. "I won't be trifled with any longer. Let me have those shirts within half an hour—do you hear!"

"But I haven't got your shirts," answered the voice with exasperating calmness. "Why do you think I have?"

"Why do I think you have! Great Scott!" cried Jenks furiously. "You haven't sent them home. Where are they, if you haven't got them?"

"[illegible] know and I—really [illegible]" the voice.

"You—" began Mr. Jenks fiercely, and then bethought himself. "Isn't this the Washup laundry?" he inquired more mildly.

"No," responded the voice, "this is a private apartment."

Muscle Saver.

The woman who lives on the sixth floor of a no-elevator apartment house ordered some things of the grocer and begged that they be sent right around in a hurry. Soon the rattle of ropes in the dumbwaiter shaft proclaimed that the groceries had arrived. The woman took off the basket that held them and emptied the stuff out on her kitchen tubs. Then she followed the usual custom of setting the empty basket back upon the "dummy" and shouting "All right!" to the grocer's lad in the cellar. As she closed the dumbwaiter door a small voice piped up through the shaft. The woman listened a moment and then put her head into the shaft and called "What's that?" The small piping treble continued: "Trow de basket down, will yer, Mrs.? Me arms is near broke." And as the basket went hurtling down, the "Mrs." couldn't help but admire the lad's labor-saving idea.—New York Press.

CLOCKS AFFECTED BY COLD

Change in Weather Causes Oil in Bearings to Get Gummy and Hard.

Two or three times in the course of a month this man's clock had stopped with no apparent reason, for when he swung the pendulum it would start off again and run all right. But it also now began to display another eccentricity, occasionally it would strike once about 15 minutes before the hour and then strike the rest of the strokes for that hour at the regular time. So he thought he had better take it to the clock maker.

There on a shelf behind the counter he saw ranged along a dozen or more clocks of almost as many styles.

"All patients," said the clockmaker, "and most of them with slight ailments like yours. We always have many clocks brought in with colds. They run along all right, but when nasty weather comes the oil on the bearings gets hard and gummy and then the clock is liable to stop. It needs cleaning and reoiling.

"It is always so; we have more clocks brought in to us when the weather is bad than at any other season."

How Long a Lantern Will Burn.

A merchant at Olathe filled a lantern with oil, lighted it and placed it in his show window, offering the lantern as a prize to the one who made the best guess as to the length of time it would burn.

A young woman guessed forty-five hours and won the prize. The lantern burned forty-four hours and thirty-three minutes. One man who went to the trouble to work out the problem to a mathematical certainty, after figuring for an hour, gave the answer as three hours and eight minutes.—Kansas City Star.

Last Resort.

Matrimonial Agent—Yes, sir, I think we can suit you perfectly. Ah—our preliminary fee is five guineas.

The Client—Five guineas! My dear laddie, don't be farcical. Why ever should I want to marry if I possessed all that money?—London Opinion.

WICKLIFFE

Mrs. Mattie Edwards and Mrs. Jennie Bowman went shopping last Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Al Garnett was taken to the hospital last Sunday.

The old home of Mr. J. Fields burned to the ground Tuesday morning with all its furnishings.

The funeral services of Mr. Walter Travers were held at this home Monday at 11 o'clock. He leaves a wife and two sons.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Morris and children of Cleveland, also Charles Morris of Willoughby spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris, of this place.

Miss Clover Jones of this town spent a few days last week with her brother Leon Jones and wife of Alliance.

Mrs. John Dumph is quite ill with the grip.

It is announced there is going to be a supper held at the Wickliffe Presbyterian church Friday, March 22nd, at 6:30 o'clock. All ladies are cordially invited to come.

Miss Caroline Morris is spending a week with her brother Glenn Morris, of Cleveland.

Miss Mildred Davidson of Kirtland, spent Saturday night and Sunday with Miss Caroline Morris of Wickliffe.

Mrs. Fuller and daughter of Cleveland, visited Mrs. Frank Sherman's one day last week.

Miss Mildred Beach and girl friend, are spending a few days with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Beach, of this place.

HE WANTED IT JUST RIGHT

Particular Young Man Had Ulterior Motives in His Purchase of Box of Candy.

The expensively dressed young man threw away his cigarette and entered the confectionery store. "Put me up a two-pound box of your best chocolates," he said to the clerk who waited on him. "Make sure that they are your very best; I don't want any mistake."

"Yes, sir. These are the very highest grade."

"Come to think of it, you had better make it a five-pound box, instead. The same kind as those you showed me."

"Yes, sir, certainly."

"And make it mixed chocolates and bonbons. And let me pick out a box I like. Haven't you something with violets on it? She is particularly fond of violets, and I want this to be just right. No, I like that design better, the one in blue and gold. Let me have that. Here, be more careful about the way you do it up. No, there isn't any card to go. I will deliver it myself. Make a neat-looking package of it while you are about it."

The clerk tied it up carefully, then passed it over the counter. As he took the bill in payment, he smiled ever so slightly, and remarked: "The young lady should be very much pleased with that, sir."

"Young lady nothing! That box is for my mother. I'm going to tackle dad for a new runabout tonight, and if I can get her over to my side I'll get it."

FAMOUS SONS OF COLUMBUS

One Rose to Distinction as an Admiral and the Other Was a Great Scholar.

How often do we hear of the sons of Columbus? Yet the great discoverer had two sons, one of whom, Don Diego, rose to distinction as an admiral, and the other, Fernando, as a scholar.

Fernando was a great traveler. He not only thrice visited America, but subsequently traversed the whole of Europe and almost every accessible portion of Asia and Africa. In his will he stipulated that his library, containing 20,000 volumes, which he gave to the cathedral of Seville, should be free to the people, and it is so to this day. From books in his collection Washington Irving obtained a considerable portion of the information on which his "Life of Columbus" was founded. The following quaint epitaph, almost obliterated by time, appears upon the site of his tomb:

"What does it profit me to have sprinkled the whole world with my sweat, to have three times crossed to the new world discovered by my father, to have embellished the shores of the tranquil Guadalquiver and preferred my simple tastes rather than riches, or that I have assembled round thee divinities from the source of Castalia and offered to thee the riches gathered by Ptolemy, if, passing in silence over this stone, thou shouldst fail to address a single salutation to my father's memory, or to myself a slight remembrance?"

Climax of Red Tape.

This is a tale of a self-confessed murderer who wished to be arrested as related by a writer in Le Matin, Paris.

Some time ago a man named Borges was stabbed to death at Algiers. Three men were arrested on suspicion, but as they proved their innocence, they were released and the matter was shelved.

A few days ago a man called at the office of the local police commissary and said to that official:

"My name is Merius Yvorra. I killed Borges, and this is how I did it."

The commissary listened to the man's confession and said:

"You had better see my secretary."

The secretary also listened to the man's confession, and, after a little reflection said:

"Now, look here, my good man, this is not the way to get arrested. You must write us a letter confirming the oral statement made to us. Then we shall be able to attend to you. Now get along."

The man left the office, and, perhaps because he was not a good writer, he has not been seen since in Algiers.

WHY SHE CHANGED HER MIND

Where Wifely Ignorance Is Husbandly Bliss 'Twere Folly to Put Her Wise.

Mrs. Blithers had not always found herself in so approving mood in respect to the so-called sports of the sterner sex, and her opinions concerning golfers who spend Sunday on the links, or sportsmen who shoot pigeons, were so very decided that Blithers invariably looked around for cotton to stuff in his ears when she began to deliver them. One can imagine his surprise, the other night, when the good lady suggested the idea of his taking her to a horse race some time. The notion that she could bring herself to approve of such a diversion had never occurred to Blithers, and he gazed at her in simple amazement.

"You don't mean to say that you approve of horse-racing?" he demanded.

"Well, I didn't use to," Mrs. Blithers replied, "but now that I am coming to know more about it I think I do. I've been taking the trouble to read about the races that are allowed to be run latterly, and I have made up my mind that there's more good in those race-track men than we've given them credit for."

"Well, well, well!" laughed Blithers. "Wonder of wonders! What has brought about this remarkable change?"

"Well, I've discovered how kind those men are to their horses," said Mrs. Blithers. "I noticed last week that every time a horse wasn't feeling well enough to run, his owner, instead of going out and beating him with a whip, has in every case gone out and scratched the poor animal!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

SHE WAS DESPERATE WOMAN

Indignation and Anger Allied With Keen Despondency in Tragedy of Separation.

Her looks were in wild disorder. Her face was flushed, and her eyes flashing. She clenched and unclenched her fingers in an agony of despair. Unless her looks belied her, she was a deeply-injured and desperate woman. Her indignation and anger were allied with keen despondency.

"Cruel one—oh, cruel one!" she cried, in anguished tones. "I have borne with you too long! You have injured me, you have tortured me, and yet I could not bear to give you up!

"When first we met, how your ease and polish attracted me!" she continued. "When you became my very own, how my friends envied me! But your understanding is too small for my large soul! You have ruined my standing in society! If we had never met I might have walked in peace! So now begone! We part forever!"

There came a moment's convulsive breathing, a gritting of teeth, and a sharp sigh. It was all over. The tragedy was ended. By an almost superhuman effort she had pulled off her new shoe.

Wild Silk Worms.

The world is indebted to the Chinese for the discovery of the virtues of the silk worm. Its product was unknown in Rome until the time of Julius Caesar, and so costly was the material that even the Emperor Aurelian refused a dress of this lustrous fabric to his empress. Now it is nurtured in almost every country, and its products are within the reach of all.

Besides the several domesticated species there is a wild silk worm found in Central America, which weaves a baglike structure two feet in depth, that hangs from the trees. At a distance the nest resembles a huge matted cobweb. The insect makes no cocoon, but weaves the silk in layers and skeins around the inside of the nest. From Tegucigalpa there were sent to England some years ago six pounds of this silk. There it was made into handkerchiefs not easily detected from common silk of equal strength and delicate texture.

There is a curious silk-producing spider in Central America, the arana de seda, which may be seen hurrying along with a load of fine silk on its back, from which trail numerous delicate filaments.—Harper's Weekly.

Bucking Horses.

A touch of the spur or a flick of the quirt signals the start, says the American Magazine, in an article on our western horses. His knowledge of what to do must be a heritage from his ancestors, for all horses do it, and all American wild horses are sprung from horses that once carried men. He pops down his head and levitates straight heavenward. While he and you are high in the air he arches his back and stiffens his body to iron rigidity. Thus he comes back to earth. The sensation to the rider is as if his spinal column had been struck by a piledriver. The impression is not analyzed at the time, for the horse goes into the air again immediately. He swings to right or left, or he "changes ends" completely while in the air, and you come down facing southward, whereas you were facing northward when you ascended.

An Injunction Wanted.

"Do you favor limiting the powers of the courts?"

"Just now," replied the statesman, "I'm in favor of extending them. What I want is some way to get an injunction that'll prevent publications from putting all the fancy stories into print before I get a chance to tell 'em to my constituents."

No Doubt About One Thing.

"It does not always take brains to make money," observed the father of the college boy as he looked over that young man's expense bill, "but it sure does take money to make brains."

Begin to Do It Today.

Mankind is always happier for having been happy; so that if you make them happy now, you make them happy twenty years hence, by the memory of it.—Sidney Smith.

Style-Craft

DOUBLE STAMPS SATURDAY, MARCH 23

We Wish to Extend to All Our Many Friends and Patrons a Cordial Invitation to Attend Our

Grand Opening
OF
Spring and Summer
FASHIONS

DURING EXHIBITING DAYS
Thursday, Friday, Saturday, March 21, 22, 23
OUR STORE SOUNDS A SPRING WELCOME TO YOU

The glow and the glory, the brightness and freshness of the glad, youthful season is on every hand at this busy store. Each department joins in the spirit of the occasion; that characterizes the completeness of our selection in everything wearable and wantable, for Men, Women and Children. Full and complete stocks in Ready-to-Wear apparel, Rugs and Floor Coverings of all descriptions await your early inspection.

We invite you to call, to examine, to enjoy the New Merchandise. The entire showing is for you. We do not believe we ever were better prepared to show—to serve, to sell, and to satisfy.

WE BID YOU WELCOME

DOUBLE EAGLE STAMPS will be given with all purchases Saturday, March 23rd.

Music by Selected Orchestra Sat. Afternoon and Eve.

The Up-to-Date
Painesville's Leading Department Store

Farmer's Column

FOR SALE—My services as auctioneer, at very reasonable terms. Roy Harrison, Painesville. Home phone 352J2.

FARMS WANTED—Large and small, either for sale or exchange for City property. We sell quick if your price is right. Joseph Sedivy & Son, 3378 E. 49th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

FOR SALE or Exchange for farm a store property with living rooms. Madison, Ohio, Lock Box 351, Madison, Ohio.

FARM HELP—We have a number of applications from good farm hands for employment on farms. Address, Joseph Sedivy & Son, 3379 E. 49th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

FOR RENT—Fine suite of 5 rooms for housekeeping. Steam heat. R. H. Whitcomb, Mentor, Ohio.

1000 Chestnut fence posts for sale at 8c each. F. L. McConnell, R. F. D. No. 3, Painesville.

FOR SALE—Stove wood, seasoned hickory. Home phone 307L3, Painesville, Ohio.

FOR SALE—Farm suitable for stock or dairy farming, plenty of water and well timbered. Enquire of E. P. Brown, Painesville, R. F. D. 3.

FOR SALE—Fresh young Jersey cow and calf, $60.00, or exchange for young cattle. F. L. McConnell, R. F. D. No. 3, Concord.

NOTICE—A small ad. in this column costs little, but brings quick results. Try it.

FOR SALE—18 acres onion and celery farm, two miles west of Akron, Ohio, on paved road. About one-half muck. Near loading point. Price $2500.00, one-half down. Write Robt. Dickey, 442 S. Maple St., or call Home phone 114J2.

Apple Trees for Old Age.

Easterners are prone to view with surprise the large-sized fruit which comes from western states, and even to wonder why similar orchard products cannot be raised in New England. Their wonderment should cease. Our farms can produce luscious fruit in abundance with proper effort, says the Boston Globe. A speaker at the New England fruit exhibition in Horticultural Hall has said that there is no better insurance against old age than a good orchard. After a certain number of years ten acres of an apple orchard will be a steady source of income. The same authority believes that the shortsightedness of New England farmers is almost criminal for allowing this source of wealth to go undeveloped. We have the soil, market and climate, and should take advantage of these great assets.

Natural Stimulant.

Following is from "As It Is," by M. J. Rodermund, M. D.: "If you are very tired, but must perform a few more hours of hard work, lie down, close your eyes, and breathe deeply and a little faster than normal for half and hour, and see how refreshed and clear your brain will be and how refreshed the body feels, and how easily you can finish your work."

Discourtesy Resented.

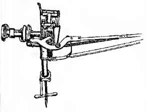
I would as soon shake hands with a soft mackerel as with a man who offers two fingers.—Sir Francis Vane.



Your Country Home
CAN HAVE ALL THE CONVENIENCES OF
Hot and cold water with suburban water supply systems as installed by HAWKINS-JEPSON CO.,
THE PLUMBERS
PHONE 333-R PAINESVILLE, OHIO
Branch Store, Arlington Block, Fairport, Ohio

Don't fail to secure some of those
Special Sale Bargains
See the 1 1-2 qt. Aluminum Sauce Pans, 50c values while they last, for - - 32c.
The Doolittle Bros. Company

RUBBERS? RUBBERS?
Rubber over our Stock of Rubbers.
A new pair for those that go wrong.
Woonsocket---Candee
and other first class Brands at hand.
Eagle Stamps Free
with every purchase
CLOTHING, DRY GOODS, SHOES, ETC.
M. HOROWITZ
WICKLIFFE, O.
Cuy. Phone 67R In Steven's Old Stand

WE HAVE THE GOODS
Our values cannot be equaled elsewhere. Our line of
SPRING DRY GOODS, LADIES' FURNISHINGS AND NOTIONS
is complete. Quality goods at reasonable rates only.
We give S. & H. GREEN TRADING STAMPS.
WM. F. WOLLPERT'S GENERAL STORE
WICKLIFFE, O. CUY. PHONE 4-R

---

The Lake County Weekly Herald
Volume XIV. No. 3 PAINESVILLE, OHIO, MARCH 28, 1912 One Dollar Per Year

MEN'S LEAGUE

Organization of Christian Men of Painesville Made Sunday.

Following a religious service attended by fifty men at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon, a business meeting of all those present took definite steps in organizing the Christian men of the community.

It is intended that this organization will look after the religious, civic and social work of the town. The following is the charter membership:

A. N. Anderson, Geo. S. Austin, Forrest W. Andrus, Geo. S. Allen, Burr Belden, Herbert E. Brown, A. S. Brewer, C. E. Brassington, Geo. W. Barbeheim, W. H. Blackwell, R. J. Brakeman, D. E. Corman, W. O. Clother, H. G. Croft, Harvey Chapman, Frank Cone, Gilbert S. Cole, J. H. Dayton, J. B. Downs, P. D. Edds, Cloice D. Fleer, Ray W. Forbes, R. H. Freeman, W. J. Graves, H. S. Grover, J. A. Gerber, D. D. Johnstone, Neland G. Hawkins, Frank M. Harrison, Thomas Henley, B. W. Huntsman, Clyde Hoose, Stuart D. Hazen, C. W. Hills, A. E. Hoose, C. A. Holden, F. H. Kendall, Frank L. Kerr, R. H. Lapham, J. E. Lightner, Albin H. Lord, H. J. Lewis, Geo. H. Lord, Clyde H. Marvin, Henry Maunder, Henry R. Miller, Claude A. Moore, George Murray, H. P. Marquette, Ray Marvin, F. L. Morrison, Harold S. Murray, Geo. B. McFarland, A. C. Nichols, Redger Plummer, Benj. B. Park, J. Richardson, E. F. Rose, Lewis Roberts, Alex Sharp, N. C. Stone, Everett H. Skinner, W. H. Stratton, F. S. Tear, Henry A. Tuttle, John Tear, Fred S. Tuttle, Ernest Verschuesen, Claude Warren, R. E. Yeoman.

County Fair Committees.

President Murray of the County Fair Association has appointed the following committees:

Horses—Col. Parker, Mentor; O. L. Ostrander, H. V. Shulters.
Cattle—C. A. Hine, Painesville; M. O. Wood, A. M. Thompson.
Swine—H. V. Shulters, Mentor; C. C. Markell, Geo. Potts.
Sheep—A. M. Thompson, Perry, E. J. Dickey, M. O. Wood.
Poultry—F. E. Stewart, Willoughby, Taylor Baster, W. E. Thompson.
Farm Products—Geo. Potts, Leroy, W. E. Thompson, Taylor Baster.
Fruits—T. B. West, Perry, C. A. Hine, C. C. Markell.
Plants and Flowers—Taylor Baster, Madison; H. V. Shulters, T. B. West.
Fine Arts—D. A. Wager, Painesville; F. E. Steward, Col. Parker.
Domestic Arts—W. E. Thompson, Kirtland; A. M. Thompson, F. E. Steward.
Relics—M. O. Wood, Madison; Geo. Potts, E. J. Dickey.
Machinery and Implements—C. C. Markell, Kirtland; D. A. Wager, E. D. Rust.
Merchandise, Musical Instruments, Etc.—E. D. Rust, Concord; T. B. West, D. A. Wagar.
Concessions—E. J. Dickey, Willoughby; E. D. Rust, O. L. Ostrander.
Gates and Police—G. L. Ostrander, Leroy; Col. Parker, C. A. Hine.

WICKLIFFE

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilte spent Saturday night and Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Vial of Wickliffe.

Mrs. Frank White of the Ridge Road went shopping last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dumph are shipping their household goods to the southern part of the state where they have bought a new home and they expect to go there to live.

It looks like business in Wickliffe was picking up, as the men expect to go to work on the large well at the Coolhy farm this week. Mr. F. McConnell is also going to build three or four houses on the new allotment.

Mr. Emmit Dumph made his farewell visit with his parents last Sunday afternoon.

The Ladies Club gave a free supper at the Wickliffe Presbyterian church Friday night of last week, which proved to be quite a success, also the lectures given were very interesting. The speakers were Miss Shepherd from the Associated Charities, and Mrs. Seymour of the 20th Century Club. There were fifty ladies present.

Ivan Wortman had quite a number of boy friends from Cleveland visit him last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. William Davidson of Kirtland and Miss Caroline Morris of Wickliffe, were united in marriage Monday night at 8 o'clock. Miss Alice Rudd acted as maid of honor, and Mr. N. Rockefellow of Willoughby as best man. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Tyte of this place which was followed by congratulations by a few of their most intimate friends. The happy couple left to visit friends in Cleveland, from there they expect to be at home with friends at Kirtland.

Marriage Licenses.

Charles M. Richardson, 26, Willoughby; Ruth I. Merrills, 25, Wickliffe.

Robert H. Gardner, 44, Painesville; Mrs. Leila L. Tyler, 45, Painesville.

Wm. H. Davidson, 20, Kirtland; Caroline G. Morris, 17, Wickliffe.

ABOUT PEOPLE AND PLACES

Some fellows have a lucky habit of four-flushing and getting away with it.

—o—

Col. J. S. Burrows has returned from a Southern trip, having been away for several weeks.

—o—

Why not let the politicians tell Ohio Democrats who they shall vote for at the Presidential preference primaries.

—o—

Three of the easiest things in the world are running the government, conducting a hotel and editing a newspaper.

—o—

C. J. Scott, the well-known real estate man and member of the firm of Scott & Bacon, has announced his candidacy for the office of county treasurer.

—o—

Mrs. [illegible] White, has been re-elected to the position of superintendent of the local hospital to fill the position held by Miss Blanche Stair, who recently resigned.

—o—

The democratic congressional committee of the 20th district will meet in Cleveland next Saturday at 2 p. m. Plans will be made for the Primary election to be held in May.

—o—

On Tuesday morning Mrs. Edith W. Odell was granted a divorce from Howard B. Odell on the grounds of gross neglect. The custody of the children was awarded to the plaintiff.

—o—

Mrs. Sarah Bartlett Hayes, widow of the late John W. Hayes, passed away Tuesday morning at her late home on East Jackson street, where she had resided nearly half a century.

—o—

The competition for the location of the Moose home is very strong, about a half dozen locations besides Painesville being considered. The Moose people will spend about $3,000,000 after location is determined upon.

—o—

A woman reports a conversation between two school girls that she overheard the other day. "Ain't those new hats the sweetest things you ever seen?" asked one of the girls. "I don't know," answered the other. "I haven't saw them yet."

—o—

F. C. Green, roadmaster of the New Castle division of the B & O. railroad with headquarters at Painesville, has been promoted to roadmaster of the same railroad with jurisdiction on the main line between Akron and Youngstown and with headquarters at Akron. Mr. Green has a host of friends here who will regret his leaving.

—o—

Russell Canfield, formerly of this place, who was injured by the cars four years ago, had his foot amputated at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Canfield of Mobile, Ala. The operation was performed Saturday morning by Dr. Macy of Mobile and Dr. D. J. Merriman of this place. A telegram has been received saying he is doing nicely.

—o—

The new compulsory spraying law goes into effect May 31. N. E. Shaw, of the Ohio Department of Agriculture, regards the law as in operative, because that it was not placed in any one's charge for enforcement. The penalty prescribed, however, makes it a misdemeanor, and the fines could be enforced if any one took the trouble to file affidavit against the party not complying with this law.

—o—

T. L. Peck, a former resident of Grove City, Pa., will open a new jewelry store in the location formerly occupied by J. F. Mathews. Mr. Peck is a jeweler of 28 years experience and promises an up-to-date store in his new location, with a full line of watches, diamonds and jewelry. The new store will be open on or about April 1. Mr. Peck is now in the city making arrangements for the opening.

—o—

This year the assessors will start on their rounds April 8, and it is probable that there will be the usual number of people "away for the day." Every person is allowed $100 exemption on personal property, and all above that amount is listed for taxation. Dogs must be taxed whether or not the owner has other property. The rate for males is $1, for females $3.00.

—o—

Territory around Chardon Center and in the west part of the town is being leased for oil and gas by a representative of the Worth Oil and Gas Co., which has considerable territory under lease around Jefferson. The agent came here Friday. It was reported Monday that an agent for a rival company was also taking leases in West Chardon, and that considerable rivalry existed as to who would get the leases first.—Chardon Record

—o—

Joseph Leimgruber, former chief clerk of the Lake Shore railroad in this city has severed his connection with the Lake Shore and accepted a position with the Fairport, Painesville & Eastern railroad. The new road is run in connection with the Diamond Alkali company and runs from Fairport to the diagonal crossing, where it connects with the Lake Shore and is probably the shortest railroad in the world.

—o—

Bungalows seem to have had, during the past few years, a peculiar fascination for the American public, and it is a fascination not altogether difficult to understand, since the one-story building combines all the conveniences of the modern flat with the location of a suburban home. Great numbers of them have been built in California, and, to a lesser extent, in Florida, where they are used for all-the-year-round homes.—Leslie's.

—o—

Effective May 1st, employes of the Lake Shore Electric railroad, the Cleveland, Painesville & Eastern, the Akron, Bedford & Cleveland and the Northern Ohio Traction companies have granted their employes an increase of pay. Notice of the increase which was posted Saturday, was unsolicited. It varies from one to two cents an hour. This action by the interurban companies will effect about 1500 men.—Willoughby Independent.

—o—

The pit ponies of one of the English coal mines were brought to the surface when the miners stopped work three weeks ago. None of the animals had seen daylight since they were first taken into the mines, some as long as 20 years ago. All of them were bewildered, and many were as frightened as though they had been deposited on a new planet, but there were some which showed signs of joy, neighing and rolling over and over on the ground.

—o—

Willoughby and Willoughby Township are stealing quite a march on Painesville and Painesville Township. With contracts all let for the pavement of the road between Willoughby and Wickliffe and the work under way, the provisions have been made for another 3½ mile stretch of pavement from Willoughby through Vine street to the Lake road, thus making two paved roads from Willoughby to Cleveland, one via Wickliffe and the other via the Shore Line. The last pavement will be paved by the township paying one-fourth, the village one-fourth and the county one-half of the cost. Painesville Township with a much larger population is not getting a penny out of the county funds for paving and the business men of Painesville and Fairport should get together and go after this county money for a little paving in Painesville Township. A paved road between Painesville, Fairport and Richmond would look mighty good, and if the county will pay half we believe the three municipalities and the township would gladly pay the other half.

Just Our Dog

He was just a dog, mister—that's all;
And all of us boys called him Bub;
He was curly and not very tall
And he hadn't a tail—just a stub.
His tail froze one cold night, you see;
We "just" pulled the rest of him through.
Ho—he didn't have much pedigree—
Perhaps that was frozen off, too.

He always seemed quite well behaved
And he never had many bad fights;
In summer he used to be shaved
And he slept in the woodshed o' nights.
Sometimes he would wake up too soon
And cry, if his tail got a chill;
Some nights he would bark at the moon,
But some nights he would sleep very still.

He knew how to play hide-and-seek
And he always would come when you'd call;
He would play dead, roll over and speak,
And learned it in no time at all.
Sometimes he would growl, just in play,
But he never would bite, and his worst
Was to bark at the postman one day,
But the postman he barked at him first.

He used to chase cats up a tree,
But that was just only in fun;
And a cat was as safe as could be—
Unless it should start out to run;
Sometimes he'd chase children and throw
Them down, just while running along,
And then lick their faces to show
He didn't mean anything wrong.

He was chasing an automobile
When the wheel hit him right in the side,
So he just gave a queer little squeal
And curled up and stretched out and died.
His tail it was not very long,
He was curly and not very tall;
But he never did anything wrong—
He was just our dog, mister—that's all.

—Atlanta Journal.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of coughs, colds and croup. It can be depended upon. Try it. Sold by all dealers.

Something For Nothing.

In "Common Sense," of Cleveland: Forty years ago John Corlett purchased two lots on Prospect avenue in Cleveland and built two houses on these lots from trees felled from a grove in the neighborhood.

These houses are standing today, surrounded on two sides by three 12 story buildings, and the old man lives in one of them.

The other day a banker went to him with an offer of $4,000 a front foot for the property.

The old man refused the offer, but told the banker that he had originally paid $18 a front foot.

Now, if everyone along Prospect avenue had done what John Corlett did, property would still be worth $18 a front foot on that street.

When any of us go along the streets of these cities and see shacks and superannuated buildings along the principal streets of a business district we know that the holders of title are waiting for their neighbors to do just what this man did, and what the men did who improved around the property of John Corlett in Cleveland, making it valuable without contributing to it either in money or effort.

In other words, it is simply getting something for nothing.

In every professional gambling room where poker is played they have a slot in the center of the table large enough to admit a chip. This is for the "rake-off," or what you pay for the privilege of playing in the room.

Usually the tax against the participants in the game is about 10 per cent of the amount of the stakes.

Last winter four lake captains in Port Huron, Michigan, played all winter in a professional poker room,—the original four continued their play all winter without admitting an outsider.

When they took their boats out in the spring not one of the four had a cent.

Where had all their money gone?

It had gone down the hole in the center of the table.

The room-keeper had it,—winnings and all.

Now, under the present system of taxation, the land values, particularly in the congested districts of cities, are like the hole in the center of the tables in a poker room.

All the earnings of the farmer, the manufacturer, the merchant and the transporting agents, and all the people who are employed by them, will finally disappear just like the money of the lake captains,—in the hole in the center of the table,—it will conceal into land value.

It is only a question of time.

The remedy is a gradual reduction of taxes on improvements and a gradual increase of taxes on lands until all taxes are upon lands and none are upon any improvements which are the results of man's effort.

In this way the holders of lands will be forced to build upon them or sell to those who will improve them.

By forced improvements, high rents and congestion will be eliminated, together with all the social and physical diseases that are now the results of congestion, for those who produce, either with their heads or their hands, will get all they earn and those who do not produce will get nothing.

The capitalist will get an equitable return providing he invests in productive enterprises; for he will not add to the unearned wealth of his neighbor.

He will not be fined for enriching his neighbor.

Beautify Highways, Railways, Rail- and Public Roads.

The Ohio Department of Agriculture is waging war on weeds. Public roads and railroads often furnish a breeding ground for weed seed. Farmers are taking more pride in the appearance of their homes and fields, but are often discouraged by the neglect of officials to destroy weeds along railways and highways. Stagnant pools are unsightly and incubators of disease. Mosquitoes and malaria thrive there. Dilapidated fences inspire no good will of the people toward men whose duty it is to keep them in repair. Eye-sores should be eliminated along all routes of travel. Civic pride ought to lead to these reforms. Public spirit is a virtue that ought to bloom railway officials and township trustees. We should be good without the law making us good. Some railroads have beautified their station grounds with shrubs and flowers. Many railroads are improving the appearance of the right-of-way. Weeds and green scum pools are eliminated, and fences painted. More shrubs and flowers ought to be grown. Railroads would look good in a new dress. A thing of beauty is always appreciated. The traveling public would applaud. Farmers should insist that road supervisors be diligent in taking care of the roads.

NOTICE.

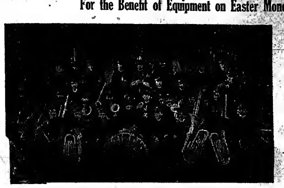
To whom it may concern. Be it known that on this 20th day of March 1912, the partnership heretofore existing between C. C. North & W. W. Waters is this day dissolved by mutual consent. All accounts due said firm to be paid to W. W. Waters.

Painesville "Band Boys" Give Annual Concert

For the Benefit of Equipment on Easter Monday



THE PAINESVILLE MILITARY BAND

Organized 1888 35 Members Wm. Parsons, Bandmaster

With the Painesville Military Band in better shape than it has been in its history, the members under the direction of Prof. William Parsons are planning their annual benefit concert for Easter Monday, April 8, at the high school auditorium. The band will be assisted by James A McMahon, the talented Willoughby baritone and Miss Izzie G. Nye, the clever lady trombonist. A fine program being arranged.

The concert is for the benefit of the equipment department, instruments, uniforms and accessories. Members have tickets for sale and it will be up to the lovers of music to be liberal in their patronage.

Booming Ravenna.

The business men of Ravenna are doing something to boom their business as is evidenced by the following announcement in a full page of the Ravenna Democrat:

We, the Ravenna Business Men's Association, have organized for the purpose of booming Portage county. We know it will be a big undertaking and in order to be successful we are going to start at the bottom of the ladder and go to the top. We are advertising Portage County and Ravenna as an ideal location for Manufactories and home seekers.

In order to get better acquainted with every family in Portage County our first step will be to hold a special shopping day. We will hold the first one April 3rd, and thereafter the fore part of every month during the year.

On March 28th the Portage County Democrat and the Ravenna Republican will have a page advertisement telling you all about our first Special Shopping Day, with a full description as to where and what each merchant has to offer you on that day. You will find merchandise offered for this day at Shoe Stores, Clothing Stores, Dry Goods Stores, Hardware Stores, Drug Stores, Meat Markets, Grocery Stores, Furniture Stores, Variety Stores, Racket Stores, Tobacco Stores, Jewelry Stores, Flour and Feed Mills, Piano and Music Stores, Harness Stores.

Come and take advantage of the High Grade Merchandise the merchants are offering for this one day. You will never regret it.

This special sale is for you in the interest of yourself and Portage County. Portage County is interested in you and you in it. What helps the Merchant helps Portage County and yourself. By buying all you can in the County Seat—you—help increase the value of all property both in town and in the surrounding country. One is dependent on the other. We are going to depend on you to help us boom Portage County, and expect you to come to our First Special Shopping Day. Tell your neighbors what we are doing, and COME TO RAVENNA WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3rd.

Yours for a more thriving and popular Portage County,

The Ravenna Business Men's Asso.

Some Truth—This

Painesville, O., March 13, 1912.

Editor Herald:

Dear Sir: I have been reading your discussion on the renewal of the C. P. & E. franchise and have concluded that you are one of the live men of your town. Now I am going to take the liberty of a subscriber and ask a few questions. Why does the agent in Painesville lock up the toilet and compel women to ask for a key when they wish to go there? Don't you think it rather embarrassing and humiliating for a lady to be obliged to step up to the counter when the room is full of all classes of men and ask for a key to the toilet when by law it should be left unlocked?

Has not the public a right to use that toilet without any discrimination whatever? That there is discrimination is shown from the fact that the door is locked and that the agent must pass judgment on the fitness of the person to go there. A number of people try that door but find it locked and rather than the embarrassment of asking a man how to proceed to go there, they suffer the inconvenience in silence. I have heard that the agent maintains that the waiting room is private and that he can't let every one have the key. If that is so I would think that someone in your town would see that a public affair was made out of it. How can the merchants expect people from surrounding towns to do their shopping in your town when there is not a public place of this sort for women?

When the agency was at the Parmly it was never private. Why now?

They do not lock up in any other place, why in your town? It would seem that the waiting room was a sales room rather than a public convenience. It contains a dining room, a kitchen, a lunch counter, a magazine stand and a popcorn stand. The public is crowded into one corner with conveniences locked.

A Subscriber.

The Rural Improvement Society.

Five years ago in southeastern Ohio, twenty married ladies formed "The Rural Improvement Society." This Society has set out over five hundred trees around their homes and along the public roads. Each member sets out one apple tree along the road near her home, where the public can partake freely of its fruit in the years to come. Every lady has given her home a pretty name, which is printed and placed where it can be seen by the passerby. The Society meets monthly during the winter and spring, on a Saturday afternoon. It is a splendid example for men to follow. Women are often progressive enough to do the voting. Men are sometimes so indifferent as to neglect to vote and fail to perform public duty. Civic pride is related to religion. Properly selected trees, shrubs and plants along the roadside would cost but little and be worth much to a community. Why not adorn the school and churchyard with some of nature's ornaments? The result would be better schools and better churches.

LENTEN THOUGHTS
For The Public

[illegible] them temples of stone
[illegible] them "houses of God,"
[illegible] together one day in the week,
[illegible] for the reward?

The church to-day somehow seems to be
On the [illegible] plan,
And the man who [illegible] his premiums paid
Is the most religious man.

The church hands out to [illegible] a pass
For the train that is due for Heaven,
And the only question that's asked
"Have you given, [illegible]?"

Oh, why insult Almighty God
With baubles such as this?
What need has He for temples here
When the universe is His?

The whole universe a temple is,
And our hearts are altars fair,
And when we burn the incense, love,
Our God is present there.

Ah, well, erect those temples high,
And garnish with gold each part;
The temple of God, know thou, oh, man,
Must be within thine heart.

—ANNE W. RUST.

CHAMPIONSHIP CONTESTS

The Underwood Typewriter Wins Every Contest and Establishes New Records for Speed and Accuracy.

Elsewhere in this paper will be found a new advertisement of the Underwood Typewriter Company showing the results of the World's Championship Contests recently held in Madison Square Garden, New York City. It will be noticed that the Underwood won every contest in every class, in some of which as many as six different makes of machines were entered. Much of interest will be found in a perusal of the advertisement. As this publication is a user of the Underwood we take pleasure in directing our readers' attention to it.

Children are much more likely to contract the contagious diseases when they have colds. Whooping cough, diptheria, scarlet fever and consumption are diseases that are often contracted when the child has a cold. That is why all medical authorities say beware of colds. For the quick cure of colds you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It can always be depended upon and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all dealers.

County Democrats, Attention!

The Democratic County Committees and all democrats of Lake county who are interested in placing a Democratic County Ticket in the field and also a list of delegates to district conventions, before the coming Primary election, are called to meet at Painesville City Hall (old court house) at 2 p. m. on Saturday, April 6th for the purpose of taking such action as may be necessary.

E. A. MURPHY, Sec'y F. D. MALIN, Chm.

LAKE COUNTY HERALD
HARTER & TUTTLE, Proprietors
PAINESVILLE, OHIO

WORRIED OVER THE SILENCE

Eternal Racket Overhead, Mr. Flatdweller Was Used To, but to Hear No Sound!

"We don't know what to make of it," said Mr. Flatdweller. "Of course, under the normal conditions of life in a flat we expect the folks overhead to play the piano day and night and to have about three parties a week at which they play until 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning.

"And we expect them to get up at all hours of the night and grope around and fall over the furniture and upset chairs, and then we expect to hear varied vivid exclamations, made with the muffler off. And to be sure, we expect the children to get up and begin racing up and down the hall and dragging rumbling play wagons and things around on the floors over us at 5:30 to 6 a. m., of course, and we don't mind it a bit, for they are nice people, and all these things contribute only to the normal state of things.

"That's the point, the normal. We expect it and we get used to it and it never disturbs us. Men who work in boiler factories never hear the noise. But we've got some people in over us now that don't make any noise! And we don't know what to make of that.

"It's positively mysterious! They don't upset anything or break anything, they don't even play the piano, they're absolutely quiet and, honest, we wonder what they're doing. It makes a sort of hiatus or vacuum or something in our accustomed manner of existence and in a way it's sort of dazing to us, we don't know what to think about it.

"When they do move about they move very gently, quickly and it puts us in a very different, in a greatly changed situation.

"But I suppose we'll get used to it; we can get used to anything."

Helped by Mark Twain.

The removal of the old organ from the Second Presbyterian church at Carlisle, Pa., recalls the fact that it was purchased with funds raised by a lecture course in which Mark Twain was one of the principal entertainers. On the night of his lecture Twain held his audience in suspense by being half an hour late. Gen. Lemuel Todd, who had been assigned to introduce the humorist, was growing restless and everybody was fidgety.

When Twain at last stepped on the platform he did not give General Todd an opportunity of presenting him. Merely nodding to Todd, Twain said: "Ladies and gentlemen, I understand that your esteemed townsman Gen. Todd has been asked to introduce me to you. However, as I know myself better than anyone else, I believe I am better qualified to present myself."

Then he kept his audience in an uproar for more than two hours.

Ball in Coal Mine.

The death of Mr. Brandling, a Newcastle (Eng.) coal operator, recalls a famous ball he gave some years ago. The ballroom was in the coal mine, 1,100 feet below ground, in the shape of the letter L, the width being 15 feet, the height 48 feet and the length [illegible] feet. The floor was dried and flagged, seats provided and the whole place illuminated with wax candles. The company comprised all the miners and their families, the proprietors and agents, and a number of guests from London. It required considerable courage for some of the strangers to go down the shaft, but they all ventured. Dancing was from noon till 3 p. m., and all returned to the upper air clean and safe, and each carrying as a memento a piece of coal hewn from the end of the drift.

Good Record Pleaded for Him.

An elderly former soldier who had served in Burma, India and South Africa, and had several medals, pleaded guilty at the Middlesex (England) sessions, recently, to a charge of housebreaking and asked to be given another chance. "Yes," replied the deputy chairman, "we will give you a chance, if only for the ribbons on your breast. I hope it will be an encouragement to others to know that if they get into trouble one of the most sympathetic notes that can be struck is to prove that they have served their country."

Burglars Worked Hard.

A remarkable burglary took place at a pawnshop in a small Scotch town recently. Breaking through a window the burglars entered the anteroom of the shop. The iron door resisted all their efforts so they took up the floor and foundation of the wall and after removing one ton of masonry they were able to get into the cellar. Removing a panel from the cellar door they gained admittance to the shop, which they ransacked, securing jewelry of the value of $500.

The Relentless Critic.

"I suppose," said the official, "that you think our building regulations are the least efficient that ever existed?"

"No," replied the citizen who kicks. "I won't say that. Those permitting the construction of the tower of Babel must have been worse."

Customer's Name is Pack.

Barber—You are losing your hair very fast, sir. Are you doing anything to save it?

Customer—Yes, I'm getting a divorce.

The Truest Kindness.

Daughter—Papa, Jack is coming up tonight to ask your consent to our marriage. Be kind to him, won't you?

Father—Very well, daughter. I'll say no.

One Outsider.

"There's only one way to avoid being put into the Ananias club."

"And what is that?"

"Organize the club yourself and keep everybody else busy escaping."

FINAL TRIBUTE TO THE MAINE DEAD

THIRTY-FOUR BODIES, LAST OF VICTIMS OF HAVANA HARBOR HORROR, INTERRED.

NATION HONORS ITS MARTYRS

Ceremonies at Arlington and Washington Are Second Only in Impressiveness to McKinley Funeral—Thousands Pay Homage.

Washington, D. C.—With reverent and impressive ceremonies, final tribute was paid in this city to the memory of the officers and men who went down in the battleship Maine in Havana harbor 14 years ago. Side by side with thousands of other "unknown dead" 34 bodies were laid under the sod in the national burying ground, Arlington cemetery, while President Taft, members of his cabinet, other high government officials, officers and men of the army and navy and 5,000 citizens stood with uncovered heads.

The funeral service was read by Rev. G. Livingston Bayard, chaplain of the Washington navy yard, assisted by Rev. Father John P. Chadwick of New York, who was chaplain of the Maine at the time of the fateful explosion.

Preceding the service at the cemetery, was a solemn procession from the White Lot, the park behind the White House, where the ceremonies began. In the size of the escort and official exercises the funeral ranked second in the history of the country only to that of the late President McKinley.

The thirty-four buried were the last of the martyrs recovered from the Maine wreck, the other 227 having been taken out shortly after the explosion, when they were identified and shipped to their several former homes in different parts of the country and buried in separate private funerals by their families. The last 34 bodies, however, which had been under Havana harbor for 14 years, could not be identified, so the one great funeral was arranged as tribute of the nation to her heroes. Before noon the cruiser Birmingham arrived at the Washington navy yard with the remains of the men recently taken from their watery tomb. At three o'clock they were taken, on 34 caissons, to the White Lot, where a distinguished gathering, headed by President Taft, waited in stands draped in the national mourning.

Among those in the stands were Rear Admirals Charles D. Sigsbee and Richard Wainwright, who were captain and executive officer respectively of the battleship Maine when the explosion sent the vessel to the bottom of the harbor and carried with her the gallant officers and men. There were also men and women from all over the country.

Each casket was carried to the scene of the services on a separate caisson. These were sent here from army posts all over the country. During the procession a field gun stationed at the Washington monument fired 21 minute guns.

The pallbearers were enlisted men of the navy, and the honorary pallbearers members of the United States Spanish War Veterans.

At the conclusion of the services at the White Lot the funeral procession formed and marched to Arlington cemetery, across the Potomac.

FLOOD CAUSES HEAVY DAMAGE

Hundreds of Houses Are Flooded and Thousands of Feet of Lumber Washed Away.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Although no lives were lost, the crest of the great flood in the Ohio, which passed here, did a great deal of damage in the valley. The highest point reached by the water was 28.1 feet, 6.1 feet above flood level. The Baltimore & Ohio railroad station in Allegheny was completely submerged. Hundreds of houses were flooded. On the South Side landslides were reported in all directions. Many manufacturing plants were compelled to shut down. Thousands of feet of lumber was washed away.

Seamen Vote to Return to Boats.

Cleveland, O.—Bitter warfare waged on the great lakes since the calling of a general strike against vessel owners of the lake carriers association in April, 1909, is ended.

Union lake seamen, in a referendum vote, expressed their desire for peace by voting to work on open shop vessels. William Curry, Cleveland business agent of the seamen's union, received word from Chicago of the result. Action of the union seamen affects [illegible] men. They now can ship on lake carriers association vessels without losing union cards.

Train Kills Mother and Child.

Chicago, Ill.—The coroner is investigating the death of Mrs. Mary Scaleth and her daughter Helen, nine, who were struck and killed by a Burlington passenger train at Congress Park, a Chicago suburb. The woman and the little girl had just stepped from a Chicago train.

The Denver Limited, running at a high rate of speed, passed the station just then. Confused, Mrs. Scaleth stepped in front of the train. Mrs. Scaleth was thrown 50 feet and her daughter was hurled further.

Chinese Suffragets Riot.

Nankin, China.—Chinese suffragets attacked the assembly rooms, routed the statesmen from their desks and broke all the windows in the building. The women are enraged because of the restrictions which were placed upon them by the resolutions granting them the right of franchise.

When the suffragets were ordered from the building they made a rush at the assemblymen, pulling their hair and scratching their faces. Most of the solons hastily withdrew, leaving the women in complete control.

URGES PAY FOR WIVES

MRS. HARVEY W. WILEY THINKS THEIR WORK DEMANDS WAGES.

Says Some Society Women Never Have Penny of Their Own for Spending Money.

WHAT WAGES OF PROMINENT WIVES WOULD BE.

Wages of prominent wives, based on one-third of their husband's salaries as proposed by Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, wife of former chief chemist of the United States:

Mrs. William Howard Taft, wife of the president, $25,000.

Mrs. James S. Sherman, wife of the vice president, $4,000.

Mrs. Knox, Mrs. Stimson, Mrs. Meyer, Mrs. Wickersham, Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. MacVeagh and Mrs. Nagel, wives of the seven married cabinet officers, each $4,000.

Mrs. Edward D. White, wife of the chief justice of the United States, $5,000.

Mrs. Champ Clark, wife of Speaker Clark, $4,000.

Mrs. Oscar Underwood, wife of Representative Underwood of Alabama, $2,500.

Mrs. Robert Owen, wife of Senator Owen of Oklahoma, $2,500.

Mrs. George Dewey, wife of Admiral Dewey, $4,500.

Mrs. Leonard Wood, wife of the chief of staff United States army, $2,800.

Washington, D. C.—"I do not think the time is far away when laws will be passed giving the wife and mother who toils long hours in the home without the recompense of a single penny, a salary based on her husband's income."

This statement was made by Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, wife of the former chief of the United States bureau of chemistry. Mrs. Wiley was speaking of the radical plan suggested by Prof. Nathaniel Schmidt of Cornell. She believes that the wife's wage should, when possible, be one-third of the husband's salary and never less than a fourth. "It might be that some of that salary might have to come back to the home again to procure comforts and pay some of the expenses but then the joy of giving from her earned money would be hers," explained Mrs. Wiley. "Right now the wife is the only hard working human animal who gets nothing for her toil, 12 sometimes 16 hours of hard labor a day. Perhaps she is given board and lodging, but even servants get more than that.

"I have known women in Washington society who go from week to week with never a penny of their own for spending money. They are industrial slaves, dependent for every necessity of life upon the whims and good nature of their husbands. I can really see no reason however why a mother should get more salary than a wife who has no children. A woman's duty to her child is on such a high plane that the financial question cannot enter there. Of course she often gives up outside duties and works harder when the little ones come but her pay for this will come from the children themselves. It is the duty of every woman to learn a profession or trade to support herself and aid the family if necessary. Nevertheless the husband should be responsible for the wages of the busy mother or the sickly wife."

WON'T MARRY SICKLY COUPLES

Dean of Chicago Cathedral Will Require Health Certificate Before Tieing Knot.

Chicago, Ill.—Dean Walter T. Sumner of the cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul, delivered a sermon upon "the Sacrament of Marriage," during which he made the following announcement:

"Beginning with Easter, no persons will be married at the cathedral unless they present a certificate of health from a reputable physician to the effect that they are normal, physically and mentally and have neither an incurable or communicable disease. This step is taken after a long study."

"Fighting Marine" Is Dead.

Washington, D. C.—Capt. Robert Francis Wynne, known among the officers and men of the marine corps as the "fighting marine," died at the home of his father, former Postmaster General Robert J. Wynne. The official cause of death was given as tuberculosis. Captain Wynne, in his nine years' of service, received five medals for bravery in action, three in the Boxer campaign, one in the Philippine insurrection and one in the fighting about Guantanamo, Cuba, during the Spanish war.

Burglars Get Valuable Loot.

New York City.—Four masked burglars broke into the rooms of a coffee house known as the Saratoga Club in W. 27th street in the morning and cracked a safe containing jewelry and money of a value of $4,200. Before beginning operations on the safe the robbers menaced Alfred Luftgarten, a waiter in the cafe, with their revolvers, tied him to a chair, gagged and blindfolded him. No trace of the cracksmen has been discovered by the police.

Will Marry Father-in-Law.

Boston, Mass.—The engagement of Mrs. Katherine M. Bryer, widow of Charles A. Bryer and daughter of George C. Flett, chairman of the Belmont board of selectmen, to her father-in-law, Frank A. Bryer, of Sandwich, N. H., has just become known here.

Charles A. Bryer was killed March 29, 1910, by a locomotive which struck a carriage in which he was driving.

Mrs. Bryer's mother-in-law, Mrs. Frank A. Bryer, died some months later.

Shocks Boston Society.

Cambridge, Mass.—Nine out of every ten women in Boston are bowlegged or knock-kneed, says Mrs. Lilla Viles Wyman, well known as a teacher of fancy dancing, and fashionable Boston is shocked, and to cap the climax, Miss Anna Benson Rees, a society belle of Kentucky who is visiting in the Hub, says that when it comes to big feet Chicago has nothing on some of the Boston belles and debutantes for possessing large pedal extremities. Mrs. Wyman went deep into the subject.

REFUSE DEMANDS OF THE ENGINEERS

RAILROADS DECLINE TO GRANT ANY INCREASES IN PAY TO THEIR EMPLOYES.

GRAND CHIEF STONE TALKS

Head of Brotherhood Says He Is Neither Disappointed or Surprised at Reply Made by Vice Presidents and Managers.

New York City.—The committee of 12, consisting of vice presidents and general managers representing about 50 railroads appointed to draw up an answer to the demands of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers for an increase in wages, declined to grant any increases. To this the conference committee of the Brotherhood, headed by W. S. Stone, grand chief engineer, replied that the engineers reaffirmed their demands and if the managers had nothing further to offer the entire matter would be submitted to the engineers represented for their final action. The curt reply to this note by J. C. Stuart, vice president of the Erie and chairman of the committee of 12, was that the conference committee of managers could add nothing to its reply and trusted the matter would be given full consideration when the entire question is submitted to the engineers for their final consideration.

The roads affected are those known as the Eastern District railroads. They are those roads north of the Norfolk & Western and east of Chicago. The great systems involved are: The New York Central, the Pennsylvania, Erie, Delaware & Lackawanna, Jersey Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Ontario & Western, New York, New Haven & Hartford, Boston & Maine, Long Island, the Wabash East and many smaller lines. These roads do more than one half the traffic of the United States. Twenty-five thousand seven hundred brotherhood engineers are employed and about 2,000 non union engineers.

"Our committee cannot call a strike," said Chief Engineer Stone, "but it can order a referendum to be taken on the question of calling one. The engineers are in good condition for a strike. I am not talking strike, however, since I do not believe in strikes if they can be averted, but we believe our demands are just and right. I am neither disappointed nor surprised at the reply. I have outlived all that. It will take a two thirds vote to declare a strike and I have the power to veto it if declared."

In their answer to the demands of the engineers the managers showed that the proposed increase in pay would amount to a total annual increase of $7,553,792.74 or 18.63 per cent, the equivalent of a lien over first mortgages of $188,844,818 or 4 per cent securities. The growing traffic, they assert, has overtaxed the existing facilities and to grant the increase would be to make it impossible for many roads to raise money needed for betterments. With some, the managers say, the increase would spell bankruptcy.

The fact of forced reductions in rates by the interstate commerce commission is cited as showing how the earning capacities of the roads are hampered. The fact that the engineers received an increase in 1910 is referred to. This increase was in the face of a proposed advance in rates which the interstate commerce commission would not allow.

BALL PLAYERS HURT IN WRECK

Nine Members of Detroit Team Are Injured in Collision on Southern Railroad.

Vicksburg, Miss.—Nine members of the Detroit American league team were injured in an accident which occurred while a train on the Vicksburg, Shreveport & Pacific railroad was climbing the hill from the Mississippi river. The train came up the incline in two sections and as the first section was under a tunnel, the second section, which was being shoved up the incline by a switch engine, crashed into the first section, which had been stopped on account of a broken air hose.

Bandits Kill American, Wound Two.

Pekin, China.—Further details have just been received here of the attack upon the American teachers which resulted in the death of Bert Hicks of Oshkosh, Wis., and the serious wounding of Phillip Hoffman of Ohio and A. N. Sheldon of California. The Americans were attacked by pirates while exploring the gorges of the Yangtse river in a small boat. Soldiers and a doctor were hurried from Ichang to Wushan, but before they reached the scene of the tragedy they met Hoffman and Sheldon struggling with the body of Hicks.

"Phantom Bandits" Kill Three.

Paris, France.—Three additional human lives paid toll to the "Phantom bandits," the most notorious band of criminals that has operated in France for years. The Chantilly branch of the Bank of the Societe Generale was robbed of a large sum of money.

For bloodthirstiness and boldness the crimes have seldom been paralleled. The police are without clues. They have abandoned the following of an automobile stolen by the robbers after they had murdered one of the occupants and wounded another.

Murderer's Curse Recalled.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The curse that H. H. Holmes, the murderer, called down on his conviction 17 years ago upon everybody connected with his conviction was recalled when Richard Johnson, a juror in his case, committed suicide by inhaling gas. When Holmes was convicted he predicted that every one connected with his case would die a violent death. Since then several persons connected with the case have died. Several witnesses and jurors have died from heart disease, accident or suicide.

CROWD AND POLICE FIGHT

TWO PEOPLE ARE DEAD, THIRTEEN INJURED.

Speeches Made at Mass Meeting in Public Square Enrage Citizens of Rock Island, Ill.

Rock Island, Ill.—Two persons were killed and 13 injured in a battle at Rock Island between the police force and sheriff's deputies and 5,000 enraged citizens. The riot was started by citizens inflamed by political speeches made at a mass meeting on the public square. The attacks were principally directed against Mayor Harry M. Schriver and Commissioner of Safety Archie Hart.

Following the conclusion of the speeches the crowd surged up the streets, wrecking street cars and throwing stones through windows of the stores. Policemen who attempted to quiet them were stoned and swept along in the current towards the city hall where Mayor Shriver and Commissioner Hart had taken refuge. Arriving before the door of the city hall the crowd cried for Shriver. Stones were thrown through the windows and it was attempting to batter the door down. The police armed with emergency riot guns appeared at the windows and demanded the crowd to disperse. Hoots and jeers met their demand. The police were ordered to fire in the air but this failed to inject fear into the crowd. It served only to increase its fury and they beat about the very steps of the city hall in an effort to enter. Again the guns were fired, this time low, and three men fell. The crowd yet refused to fall back and three guns were fired point blank into the throng. The bullets from the large barreled riot guns scattered and carried down four of its members.

PACKERS HELD NOT GUILTY

Ten Meat Magnates Are Acquitted by Jury in Chicago of Violating Sherman Statute.

Chicago, Ill.—Not guilty, was the verdict which the jury returned in the trial of the ten Chicago packers accused by the government of violation of the criminal sections of the Sherman anti-trust act.

The verdict was returned before United States Judge Carpenter, after jury had deliberated over 19 hours.

The ten defendants accused by the government and acquitted are:

Swift group—Louis F. Swift, president of Swift & Co.; Edward F. Swift, vice president of Swift & Co., Charles H. Swift, director of Swift & Co., Francis A. Fowler, manager dressed beef department, Swift & Co.

Armour group—J. Ogden Armour, president Armour & Co.; Arthur Meeker, director and general manager Armour & Co.; Thomas J. Connors, director and general superintendent Armour & Co.

Morris group—Edward Morris, president Morris & Co.; Louis H. Heyman, manager beef department, Morris & Co.; Edward Tilden, president of the National Packing Co.

TAFT FORCES WIN INDIANA

President Captures Four Delegates-at-Large to be Sent to the Chicago Convention.

Indianapolis, Ind.—The Indiana Republican convention adopted a resolution instructing the state's four delegates-at-large to the national convention to vote for the renomination of President Taft. National Committeeman Harry S. New, former Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks, James E. Watson and Joseph O. Oliver were elected delegates. These were the Taft slate. The Taft faction had a majority of 195 in the convention over the supporters of Colonel Roosevelt.

The Roosevelt delegates held a separate convention in the rear of the hall upon the adjournment of the regular convention and elected as delegates at large the Roosevelt slate, former Senator Albert J. Beveridge, Fred Landis, Edwin M. Lee and Charles H. Campbell.

TAFT VICTOR IN NEW YORK

Captures Majority of Delegates to Chicago Convention at State Primary Election.

New York City.—The Taft delegates to the Republican national convention to be held in Chicago in June were elected in the primary election in this state by a vote averaging three to one for the Roosevelt delegates.

Partial returns from 25 congressional districts indicate the election of 43 delegates for Taft and 7 for Roosevelt.

Returns from districts in the interior of the state in which the Roosevelt faction fought the organization, indicate that the Taft forces won with a wide margin.

Blast in Mine Kills 82.

Wheeling, W. Va.—Eighty-two men met death in a gas explosion in the mine of the Jed Coal Co. near Welch. There were 93 men in the mine when the gas ignited, but 11 succeeded in getting out. One of these was so badly burned, however, that he died an hour after he was taken out.

The families of the dead miners are in sore straits. Work at the Jed mines has been very slack and the miners have made barely enough to furnish the necessities of life.

Man Dies in Terrible Agony.

Hartford, Conn.—Edward Burns died in terrible agony because his little daughter gave him a dose of carbolic acid in mistake for castor oil. Burns was taken ill suddenly and being unable to move requested his daughter to get him a dose of castor oil from a bottle in the house. The little girl, mistook the label and poured out a large dose of carbolic acid which the father swallowed. He died in great agony, his daughter standing by his side and wondering at his strange behavior.

PIERCE 35-INCH WALL

YEGGMEN DRILL SOLID STONE TO TREASURE BOXES.

Robbers Succeed in Getting About $12,000 Before They Were Frightened Away.

Berea.—Robbers broke into the bank of this place, a private institution and, penetrating the outer vault, looted 100 safety boxes, taking cash and jewelry amounting to $12,000.

Working behind a partition in an office next to the bank the robbers had drilled through the wall and the wall of the bank directly into the vault. It was necessary to penetrate 35 inches of brick and mortar.

That the robbers were frightened away is believed, as they left the inner safe, containing $35,000 in cash, partially drilled. No clews are obtainable.

Entrance first was effected into the office of Justice of the Peace T. P. Poole, next door.

Working behind a partition the robbers then drilled through Poole's wall and the wall of the bank directly into the vault. It was necessary to penetrate 35 inches of brick and mortar.

Poole discovered the robbery when he opened his office. The floor was strewn with rubbish and small specie.

The bank is known as the Pomeroy bank. O. B. Pomeroy is president and J. B. Pomeroy cashier. It carries over $500,000 in deposits.

One of the chief losers was Postmaster C. K. Eckert, whose safety box contained $500 in cash, besides valuables.

Night Watchman A. M. Fulkerson was on duty, but heard and saw nothing to arouse his suspicions.

The front door of the building was forced with a crowbar and blankets wrapped about the safe to deaden the sound. The thieves stole a horse and escape to the railroad, where they are supposed to have taken a freight train.

POST OFFICE SAFE BLOWN

Safe-Crackers Break Into Uncle Sam's House in Akron and Secure Stamps and Money.

Akron.—The postoffice safe at Hudson, near here, was blown open and the contents taken, including stamps. How much was in the safe could not be learned, as the postmaster refused to give any information until the arrival of the inspector.

Hudson has recently been made a postal savings bank and the deposits from this bank were in the safe.

The thieves stole a horse and buggy from a farmer and made their escape to the railroad.

MIAMI CO. REMAINS DRY

Vote is 6,324 for Drys and 5,311 for Wets, a Majority of 1,013 for Former.

Troy.—Miami county will continue in the dry column for another three years. At the second Rose law election the drys polled 6,324 and the wets 5,311, giving the drys a majority of 1,013.

The wets had a strong organization and spent money freely. The drys also perfected an efficient organization and had with them the entire press of the county. The wets were unable to place their advertising in any newspaper.

Except for alleged colonization in Piqua and Troy, the drys would have increased their majority of 1,301, recorded three years ago.

FLOOD MAKES THEM GO.

Ice Gorges in the Maumee River Force Families Out.

Toledo.—With the rapid advance of the vast field of ice and water halted by the gorge a mile in length extending from opposite the Miami children's home, diagonally across the river to Orchard Grove, the huge quantities of broken ice which have massed at various points of the Maumee, and its tributaries moved towards Toledo almost from Fort Wayne.

Two spans of the Junction bridge, eight miles south of Defiance, where the Maumee and the Auglaize reached the 18-foot stage, were carried away. A dozen families have been driven from their homes at Napoleon. A gorge which had formed two and a half miles above the town swept through the city and carried away portions of the Perry street bridge.

Athens.—The decomposed body of a Hungarian, weldman on a pier being built by the R. & O. S. W. railroad at Stewart, this county, was found floating in the Hocking river.

NEW TRACTION LINE PLANNED.

Findlay.—That Kenton is soon to have trolley connection with the outside world, the Columbus, Kenton and Toledo Traction company, with a capital stock of $50,000, has been incorporated. As soon as the state commission authorizes the bond issue, the line from this city to Richwood, 50 miles, will be constructed. From Richwood into Columbus, other connection can be had. From this city to Toledo, the Toledo, Bowling Green Southern line will be used.

Columbus.—Merely three short letters, "J. D. R.," cut upon the polished surface of a table in the home of William Templeton furnish a pretty crime mystery. The Templeton home was visited by a burglar and robbed of $2.50. After the excitement of the discovery was over, the family noticed the letters carved on the table top.

Hamden.—The 14-year-old son of Charles Jones of Minerton, this county, who was found unconscious in a stall, after being kicked on the head by a horse, died from his injuries.

20 Pretty Rooms in this FREE BOOK
—don't you want to see them?
Peep into other people's new homes and get the latest ideas for your own decorating. Our book tells about the FREE Color Plans our expert designers will send you for any rooms you wish to decorate. You will be glad to know more about
Alabastine
The Beautiful Wall Tint
so exquisite in color and quality it is used in the most expensive modern homes, though it costs far less than wall paper or paint. Kalsomine colors appear harsh and crude beside the soft-hued Alabastine tints. Goes farthest on the walls and is easiest to use. Full directions on every package—simply mix with cold water and put on. Does not chip, peel or rub off. 16 Beautiful Colors and—
With our Color Plans you can easily have the most artistic home in your neighborhood.
Send for our FREE BOOK
Full 5 lb pkg. White 50c. Regular Tints 55c.
Alabastine Company
52 Grandville Road, Grand Rapids, Mich.
New York City, Desk 2, 105 Water St.

44 Bu. to the Acre
is a heavy yield, but that's what John Kennedy of Edmonton, Alberta, Western Canada, got from 40 acres of Spring Wheat in 1910. Reports from other districts in that province showed other excellent results—such as 4,000 bushels of wheat from 120 acres, or 33 1-3 bu. per acre. 25, 30 and 40 bushel yields were numerous. As high as 132 bushels of oats to the acre were threshed from Alberta fields in 1910.
160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE
The Silver Cup
at the recent Spokane Fair was awarded to the Alberta Government for its exhibit of grains, grasses and vegetables. Reports of excellent yields for 1910 come also from Saskatchewan and Manitoba in Western Canada.
Free homesteads of 160 acres, and adjoining preemptions of 160 acres (at $3 per acre) are to be had in the choicest districts.
Schools convenient, climate excellent, soil the very best, railways close at hand, building lumber cheap, fuel easy to get and reasonable in price, water easily procured, mixed farming a success.
Write as to best place for settlement, settlers' low railway rates, descriptive illustrated "Last Best West" (sent free on application) and other information, to Sup't of Immigration, Ottawa, Can., or to the Canadian Government Agent. (33)
H. M. WILLIAMS
413 Gardner Bldg., Toledo, Ohio
Please write to the agent nearest you

Measure the depth of the water before making your dive.

A remedy that has stood the test of time is worth trying. Garfield Tea relieves liver, kidney and stomach troubles.

A man is known by the company he keeps, and by the conversation he hands out.

"Pink Eye" Is Epidemic in the Spring. Try Murine Eye Remedy for Reliable Relief.

It doesn't require much inventive genius for a man to make a fool of himself.

Backing Up.

"The rain was coming down in sheets."

"I noticed it was in the bed of the streets."

Ought to Be All Right.

Mr. Bacon—Something wrong with this hash this morning, dear.

Mrs. Bacon—Why?

Mr. Bacon—I don't know. It needs something.

Mrs. Bacon—I can't think what it can be. I put in everything I could find.

In a Bad Way.

Stranger (in train)—A man in your business can't get home very often, I presume?

Commercial—Home? I should say not. Why, sir, I get home so seldom that I can't remember half the time where I live. Have to telegraph to the firm to send me my address!

Stranger—You don't say so!

Commercial—That's true. Why, one time I was away so long that I forgot I'd ever been married and I took such a fancy to a pretty woman I met in a strange town that I eloped with her.

Stranger—My! My!

Commercial—Yes, it would have been a terrible thing; but when I called on the firm during my honeymoon and introduced her the old man told me she was my wife before.—London Tit-Bits.

Something Extra Good
For Breakfast, Lunch or Supper—
Post Toasties
Served direct from package with cream.
Surprises Pleases Satisfies
"The Memory Lingers"
Sold by Grocers.
Postum Cereal Company, Limited
Battle Creek, Michigan

---

SECRETARY and MRS MacVEAGH ENTERING CHURCH ON EASTER

HOW OFFICIALDOM OBSERVES EASTER

VON BERNSTORFF and AIDE WALKING TO CHURCH ON EASTER

EASTER is a decidedly important occasion in officialdom at our national capital—meaning by officialdom that more or less charmed circle made up of all officials, from the President down, together with the members of their families and including, of course, the foreign dignitaries who reside at our seat of government as Uncle Sam's official guests. It is not only Easter Sunday that is an event in the calendar of officialdom, but likewise Easter Monday (which is a great day in Washington) and the whole Easter week. However, this whole interval may, in effect, be considered as Easter.

From the standpoint of officialdom the first significance of Easter is the religious one. For be it known, most of our officials—that is, our national officials—are very conscientious church goers. Whether they are officials because they are church goers, or whether they are church goers because they are Federal officials may be a mooted question, but the fact remains that the average public servant during his incumbency of office in the city on the Potomac is faithful in attendance at divine worship. And even the exceptions who are "backsliders" at other seasons of the year strain a point to be "among those present" on the joyous Easter morn.

The second significance of Easter in officialdom is as a day of family reunions, second only to Christmas in the eagerness with which it is anticipated. The opportunity for such reunions arises from the fact that a large proportion of the children of our public men attend public or private schools elsewhere than in Washington, even though their parents may maintain a home at the capital. Sometimes it is a matter of sentiment that makes an official desirous of having his children educated in his old home town, and in the case of the young men and young women there are the college magnets—Vassar and Wellesley and the rest for the girls, and Yale, Harvard, Cornell and others for the boys.

It thus happens that there is a small army of sons and daughters to come home to the habitations of officialdom for the "Easter vacation," and usually they bring with them as many school chums as parents can arrange to entertain, for Washington at Easter is proverbially one of the most fascinating places in America and offers no end of opportunities for good times for young people. During the Taft administration the White House has taken especial cognizance of this Easter home-coming custom, for the junior Tafts have been among those exiles who have made the Easter pilgrimage, bringing with them school friends. Accordingly Mrs. Taft has always made it a point to arrange a round of social festivities, including an Easter week dance for not only the "house party" at the Presidential Mansion, but the whole body of Easter reunioners in officialdom.

A third significance that attaches to Easter in officialdom is its function as the inaugural of the spring social season. In the old days "the season" in Washington meant from the first day of January to the beginning of Lent. Then as Uncle Sam became more of a world power and his capital reflected his new importance there was added each year the "little season" which extended from the convening of Congress in December until the New Year. Latterly there has been yet another development and we have the spring season (in many respects the most enjoyable of all) which opens on Easter and extends until warm weather sets in. During Lent, social activity is virtually suspended, for even the hostesses who are not so devout as to have heed for the religious significance of the forty days welcome the interval as a "rest period." Easter, therefore, finds the leaders of officialdom restored in spirit and ready for a new round of activity.

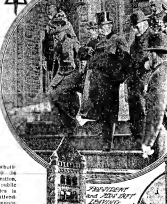
But, as has been said, on Easter morning all officialdom goes to church and for the [illegible] plenty of spectators, inasmuch as Washington is always thronged with tourists at Easter, and such of them as are disappointed in the effort to gain admission to the crowded churches throng the approaches to view the passing show. The largest throngs are usually to be found in the neighborhood of the Unitarian church, of which President Taft is a member, although in simple truth it must be admitted that President Taft is the only attraction here, for not many other public men of prominence happen to worship at the same church as the President. But it is the President that the Easter throng wants to see and they block the sidewalks about the church until after his big motor car has whirled up to the curb and the President has disappeared into the church. After the service there is somewhat of a repetition of the scene, but the crowd is not so large, because it is etiquette for the President to be allowed to make his exit ere the rest of the congregation leave their seats and he is well on his way to the White House ere most of the people emerge from the church.

Many spectators who are more interested in observing how officials as a class observe Easter than they are in the personality of the President take as their objective old St. John's church opposite the White House. This century-old church is commonly known as the "Court church" or "Church of the Presidents," and it merits the title for, though President Taft is not a member, he occasionally worships there with his wife, as did every President from Madison to Lincoln. It is almost useless for strangers to hope to gain admission to St. John's on Easter for the church is a tiny one and so inadequate, indeed, for the accommodation of those who are ambitious to belong, that the pews when transferred are put up at auction and bring a premium of thousands of dollars each. However, the congregation on the outside can watch the arrival of Mrs. Taft and her daughter, who are members of the church and who, if the day be fine, may walk across the park from the White House with their Easter guests. And the onlookers can also see, among the worshipers at St. John's, members of the President's cabinet, Admiral Dewey and a host of other celebrities.

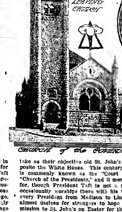
Another excellent vantage point from which to see how officialdom observes Easter is in the vicinity of the Church of the Covenant on fashionable Connecticut avenue—the main artery of the Easter parade at the capital. The Church of the Covenant, which is rendered conspicuous by its massive and lofty tower, is the church home of Vice-President Sherman and his family, but many of their fellow-members are almost as prominent in the affairs of the nation as is the presiding officer of the United States Senate. A short distance away is St. Matthew's Roman Catholic church, which is the great rendezvous of the diplomats on Easter morning, for, be it known, most of the members of our official "foreign colony"—particularly those from southern Europe and the South and Central American countries—are adherents of the Catholic faith.

Officialdom does not change its regular routine on Easter, and consequently has Easter dinner in the evening instead of at noon, as do so many folks in other American communities. The afternoon is devoted to calling and to driving or motoring—always a great afternoon diversion in Washington. Some of the foreigners and other cosmopolitan hostesses in Washington have of late years manifested an inclination to devote all Sunday afternoons and evenings—and Easter in particular—to regulation social functions such as teas, receptions, etc. However, the more devout church members in official circles, headed by Mrs. Taft, have set their faces resolutely against this attempt to introduce at Washington anything savoring of the "Continental Sunday."

Evening church services on Easter at the capital are as well attended as are the corresponding services in other cities, but one sees comparatively few prominent officials at such evening services. Whether it is that they feel that their devotions of the morning should suffice, or that the late dinner hour—7:30 o'clock at the White House and in most fashionable official homes—interferes, it is difficult to say. Or, perhaps it may be that officialdom considers that it had best early to bed in preparation for the strenuous program of Easter Monday which is a not less busy day for the grown-ups of officialdom than for the thousands of excited children who roll eggs in the President's big back yard.



PRESIDENT and MISS TAFT LEAVING CHURCH



CHURCH of the COVENANT

A WASHINGTON CHURCH DECORATED for EASTER

Easter in Jerusalem

The immense throng of pilgrims of every hue who crowd the Church of the Holy Sepulchre in Holy Week and who wander amid the sacred places throughout March and April is a spectacle unique of its kind and to be compared only with the Moslem pilgrimages to Mecca and Medina that are beyond reach of the ordinary tourist. Here fair bearded Russians from Moscow herd with yellow Copts from the Nile valley and pale Roumanians mingle on the banks of Jordan with bushy-headed Abyssinian blacks.

From the moment the visitor lands at Jaffa, where the only convenient hotels are kept by Germans and situated in the German colony, he is made to realize the weight of German influence in Palestine. It dates, in fact, from the visit of the German emperor, for whom, lest he should fulfill an old prophecy, a special gate was built into the Holy City. The tradition was that any ruling monarch who should enter Jerusalem by one of the ordinary gates on horseback would stay as its king.

A month in the Holy Land, with Holy week in Jerusalem, offers no difficulty. On landing at Jaffa, either he is carried in a night from Alexandria or Port Said, he may proceed by next morning's train to Jerusalem. It is not an attractive journey, but it lasts only three or four hours and runs through the stony vale in which David slew Goliath. In the Golden City itself, where the Church of the Holy Sepulchre is the center of attraction, everything lies within easy reach of the hotels: the street of David with Mount Zion, the Garden of Gethsemane, the wailing place of the Jews beside the walls and the Mosque of Omar, the last a majestic mosque, held of great sanctity throughout Islam, patterned with a splendor of mosaic and occupying the site of Solomon's temple.

There are two horseback or carriage excursions to be made from Jerusalem, the one to Bethlehem, the other embracing the Jordan, Jericho and the Dead Sea. The first of these, which takes only an afternoon, lies along a well laid road past the fields associated with the story of Ruth.

The Church of the Nativity, which has a very humble exterior and is entered by a low doorway that must often have saved it from the attack of fanatical Mohammedans, is built over the grotto in which Jesus was born and at Eastertide it is as crowded as that of the Sepulchre with the same curious and somewhat distressing conflicts between Greeks, Armenians and half a dozen other sects, only kept in order by stolid Turkish guards. The excursion to the Dead Sea occupies three days out and back and may be done on horseback or, more expensively and less comfortably, in a cab.

As for Jericho, the ancient city of that name is still the heap of ruins that Joshua left it, though a German archaeological society is bringing its hidden treasures to light, and the modern town of Jericho is merely a gingerbread little tourist resort a mile from the older site and of no interest whatever.—From the London Outlook.

Choosing the Lesser.

"Here comes a militant suffragette. Shall we stop and throw down the gage of battle?"

"As thou lovest me, lead me to a buzz saw."

NEVER MORE THE SOFT HAT

Experience of New York Politician Has Led Him to Pin His Faith to the Derby.

"For some time," said Sergeant-at-Arms Harry W. Haines of the state legislature, "I have been wearing a soft hat and acquiring the habit of clutching it at the top to tip when meeting a lady I happened to know."

"Well," remarked Assemblyman Frank L. Young of Ossining, "I guess we all have to do that."

"Ever wear a soft hat?"

"No! I, especially those fuzzy, bristly things that look as if they needed a shave and a hair-cut."

"Well, you have missed a new sensation. Try wearing a soft hat of any kind for a few weeks, and suddenly change it for a derby. Saunter down any street where you are known. Meet a lady of your acquaintance and you'll grab the top of your hard-shell hat from sheer force of habit. Of course, you will lose your hold and experience a shock. Suddenly you will shift your hand to the brim and give the hat the approved tilt, only to discover that it is too late, for the lady has passed without noticing your recognition of her bow and smile, or, worse yet, she is laughing quietly at your awkward work. Me for hard hats. A man in public life can't afford to take any chances, especially as ladies are about the most influential constituents a sometimes candidate for re-election can have on his list of friends."—New York Press.

Coats and Muffs for Beauty.

Lady Ashburton, the former New York beauty, caused five thousand moles to be trapped on her English estate and their skins made into coats and muffs for her three American sisters. The coats contain eight hundred skins each and the muffs each between eighty and ninety skins.

STOCK BROKER KILLS HIMSELF

FRANK HARVEY COMMITS SUICIDE SOON AFTER REACHING HOME.

HAD GROWN VERY DESPONDENT

Wife Returns from Visit to Sick Son and Finds Body—Ill From Shock—Had Been Interested in Many Enterprises.

Columbus.—Sitting before a dresser in his room at the family home, 1304 Oak street, with a bullet hole in his head above the left ear, Frank Harvey, aged 51, stock broker, with offices in the Hayden building, was found dead by his wife. Mr. Harvey suffered financial reverses about a year ago, had a nervous breakdown and had been in ill health since.

His wife left for Worthington to visit a son, Frank, who is in a private sanitarium there. She did not return until 5 o'clock, and shortly afterward went up to his room.

Mrs. Harvey is in a serious condition from the shock.

Mr. Harvey had been a broker in Columbus for over ten years. Previously he was a traveling representative for the Standard Oil company.

He was interested, among other things, in the White River Light and Power company of Noblesville, Ind., a project which spelled disaster for its promoters. He also was among the Columbus men who lost money in the Deschutes irrigation project in Oregon.

As a broker, he confined his dealings to local stocks. Some years ago he was president of the Columbus stock exchange.

THREE STREET VICTIMS

One Breaks Arm, Other Fractures Arm, and Third Is Badly Bruised.

Columbus.—Frank Geas, aged 59 years, was taken to St. Francis hospital recently with a broken arm. He is an employe of the Maclean Lumber company and as he was leaving the office at 150 West Spring street, he made a misstep and fell, breaking his left forearm.

While trying to throw a switch Wednesday night, Joseph A. Cox, employed by the B. & O. railroad, slipped and fell, fracturing his left arm. The man is 30 years old and lives at 432 St. Clair avenue. He was taken to the Protestant hospital.

Amos Schreller, aged 45, was thrown to the pavement and badly bruised and cut about the face and body, Wednesday evening, when his wagon was struck by an automobile at Broad street and Washington avenue. One wheel was torn from the wagon. Mr. Schreller lives at 393 Denmead avenue. The name of the driver of the machine was not learned.

FILES THE FIRST CLAIM

Firm Has Qualified — Application Blanks Sent for Further Details —Amount Then Determined.

Columbus.—The first report thus far of an accident to be made under the new workmen's compensation act was made to the state liability board of awards.

It came from Lem C. Fridley, an employe of the Delphos Manufacturing company of Delphos, which makes metal wares, who was injured March 14, his hand being caught in a machine, causing amputation of a finger.

This is one of the firms which has qualified under the law, and whose employes are eligible to receive damages from the state fund for injuries received while at work.

Fridley said that his injury would probably keep him off work from three to six weeks. As soon as Fridley's application for an award is received, the board will immediately act upon his case.

ELEPHANT WILL PARADE.

One Hundred-Year-Old Beast Will Help Advertise.

Columbus.—[illegible] centennial will be a tour of the state by Lil, an elephant aged one hundred, belonging to the John Robinson circus.

It is the intention of Clark Doughty to make a state-wide campaign with the huge beast. She will be covered with gorgeous colors, and in every town where she stops give rides to children.

TO RUN "AG" SPECIAL

Columbus.—A special four-day tour over the B. & O. will be made by professors of the College of Agriculture of the Ohio State university, beginning March 26. They will deliver lectures on fruit raising, corn culture, etc., at some thirty towns and cities. They will visit Wheeling, Zanesville, McConnelsville, Malta, Stockport, Beverly, Lowell, Marietta, Chillicothe, Athens and other places. During the trip much knowledge of benefit to fruit growers will be given.

SHERIFF FOUND THE HENS.

Gallipolis.—Sheriff Jones of this place received a hurry call recently to Gallia Furnace, where J. W. Rose reported by telephone that his prize white Plymouth Rock hen had been stolen. The sheriff took his man-tracking dogs on the 23-mile trip to the scene and found the hens resting calmly in a dark corner.

Gallipolis.—President Bigelow addressed a large audience here on the work of the constitutional convention.

GET NEWARK LYNCHER

Official Will Receive $1,000 Reward—Prisoner Charged With First Degree Murder.

Newark.—Dick Holler, aged about 33 years, the only man under indictment of first degree murder in connection with the lynching of Carl Etherington on July 8, 1910, was arrested in Chicago last last evening and left there for Newark last night at 8:20 p. m., due to arrive here this morning at 8:30 o'clock. This information reached here last night from Chief of Police Charles Swank.

Captain Swank will receive the $1,000 reward offered by the county commissioners for Holler's capture.

Captain Swank had received a telegram from Chicago detectives on Sunday saying that Holler had been seen and was being kept under surveillance. Swank immediately left for Chicago and, with the aid of detectives there, made the capture.

Holler has a wife and three children here and was engaged in the saloon business prior to the riots. He was one of the most wanted men of the sixty-three against whom indictments had been preferred.

FOOD MADE 100 FOLK SICK

Say That Sickness May Have Resulted From Food Cooked in Patched Kettle.

Cleveland.—One hundred prisoners incarcerated in the correction farm at Warrensville are suffering from ptomaine poisoning. A call for physicians was sent to the tuberculosis sanitarium and infirmary building Tuesday night, when the men, one after another, became violently ill. Yesterday a large number of the prisoners were confined to their cots.

Deputy Supt. Mack reported the matter to Charities Director Cooley, and samples of the food used at the evening meal Tuesday were taken to the office of City Chemist Taussig and City Bacteriologist Howard. Hash that was prepared for the 100 prisoners Tuesday afternoon is under suspicion, although the city chemist stated that he had not proceeded far enough with his tests to be able to state definitely whether anything was wrong with the hash.

HERRMANN CRYS QUITS

Was for Thirty Years an Associate of George B. Cox—Will Stick to Baseball.

Cincinnati.—August Herrmann, who for nearly a generation has been an associate of George B. Cox in Republican politics in this city, announced that he had retired as leader of his party's organization. This follows an announcement to the same effect made several months ago by Mr. Cox, who also has withdrawn from active participation in politics.

Mr. Herrmann is president of the national baseball commission and of the Cincinnati National league baseball club, besides having other interests, to which he says he will devote himself in the future.

COLUMBUS MAY GET HOME

Royal Order of Moose Home Site to Be Selected by Committee Within Thirty Days.

Columbus.—The $100,000 home for orphaned children of members of the Royal Order of Moose will be built either at Indianapolis, Fort Wayne or Anderson, Ind.; Ashtabula, Painesville, Columbus, Springfield or Dayton, O., according to a decision of the trustees of the supreme council at a meeting held in Chicago recently. Committees now will visit each of the cities and will inspect the proffered sites and conditions surrounding them and will make their final report at a meeting to be held within thirty days.

Columbus, O., Fort Wayne and Anderson, Ind., have each offered a bonus of $40,000 besides a building site.

DISBARMENT HEARING ON.

Medina Attorney Under Investigation by the Local Bar.

Medina.—The hearing on the disbarment charges against George W. Smith, Medina attorney, began here. Smith married Miss Hazel [illegible], his former housekeeper, four days after obtaining a divorce from Mrs. Lucy K. Smith. Judge C. G. Washburn granted the divorce, but later appointed the committee that investigated and instituted the charges against Smith. Judge C. G. Washburn granted the Smith and Miss Carlton had denied that marriage was contemplated by them.

PRISONER ESCAPES

Xenia.—Robert Walker, an alleged horse thief awaiting trial, escaped from the county jail when a [illegible] secured the keys and unlocked his cell door.

YOUNG GIRL CREMATED

Lima.—Eunice Ramsey, a 11-year-old child, perished, and her father, Isaac Ramsey, was fatally burned in a fire that destroyed their home, five miles east of this city.

Circleville.—W. A. Potter shot and killed George Martin as he met the latter on the steps of Potter's divorced wife's home.

"Say your prayers, for I am going to kill you," said Potter.

"I can not pray," said Martin, whereupon Potter fired three times.

Martin died instantly. Potter, who is forty-six years old, is said to have been jealous of Martin for some time.

After the tragedy Potter went to the mayor's office and surrendered himself and told of the fatal encounter.

WONDERS OF THE DEAD SEA

Interesting Trip Around This Body of Water Told by Jacob E. Spafford.

Jerusalem.—An interesting trip around the Dead sea was made in a motor boat by Jacob E. Spafford, a member of the American colony in Jerusalem.

In circumnavigating the lake four or five very fertile plains or ghors were met with. "These plains," writes Mr. Spafford, "naturally bring to mind the connection of the Dead sea with Sodom and Gomorrah, the 'cities of the plain,' that were overthrown. They have been variously placed on every side of the sea.

"These plains and the small oasis at Engedi are the only points where life of any kind and water are to be had. This evidently was a little paradise in the time of Solomon and is frequently mentioned in the Old Testament.

Defile Leading From River Ammon.

"About ten miles from Engedi lies the peerless natural fortress of Masada (Sebbeh), first fortified by the Maccabees, then used as a place of refuge by Herod. At the foot of the tableland can be seen the Roman wall of circumvallation and the two Roman camps on either side of the small ravine.

"The fortress, which is 1,700 feet above the sea, has steep sides at about an angle of 75 degrees and cannot be approached, except from a connecting neck called the Serpentine. A more inhospitable place or one more disadvantageous to besiegers could not be imagined.

"Eight miles away is Jebel Usdum, a mountain of rock salt rising to a height of 600 feet. In this mountain is a large cave which was explored to the extent of about 200 yards, at which point a tapering cylindrical shaft of about 20 feet in diameter was discovered, piercing the solid rock salt 80 feet high, as though through polished marble, evidently the effects of the rain.

"Great snow white stalactites hang from the ceiling. The approach to this mountain presents most fantastic appearances of walls, buttresses, parapets, projecting towers, etc., caused by the stratification and lay of the salt boulders.

"A little south of Masada lies the rich Ghor-el-Mizra. Here and elsewhere abound the apple of Sodom described by Josephus."

CHEESE DENOTES THEIR RANK

Swiss Family Found Without Aged Variety of Delicacy Is Scorned.

Lucerne.—The English, the Germans, and the Norwegians are great consumers of cheese, but the people of Switzerland surpass them all. The cheese of Zermatt is so hard that one is obliged to scrape it or cut off chunks with a hatchet, and its use is considered most important on all ceremonious occasions. The rank of a Swiss family is known by the age of its cheese, and the more affection or respect a guest inspires the harder is the cheese which is cut in his honor. It is said that there are families in Switzerland whose cheeses date from the first French revolution, and these are served only at baptisms, weddings and [illegible].

The larder in every family is guarded with care and the cheese is named. Upon the birth of a new heir a cheese is made that takes the name given him or her and that particular cheese is never under any circumstances cut until the boy or girl grows up and is married. On such occasions each of the guests takes a piece of cheese from the bridegroom and from the bride and drinks to their felicity, the cheese held aloft.—Harper's Weekly.

Girls Steal a Bath.

Fort Worth, Tex.—Chief of Police [illegible] and three patrolmen were called to a barber shop late at night to arrest burglars. With drawn revolvers they opened the door of a bath room where the burglars were hiding and were amazed to find two pretty young women nude, bathing in the tub. Feminine screams startled passersby. The two girls threw water into the chief's face and he beat a retreat. Later he arrested them for stealing a bath. They gave their names as Miss Katharyn Reid and Miss Jessie Hoover.

Deposits Savings of 79 Years.

Monticello, N. Y.—Miss Cynthia Pinter deposited in a local bank nearly $1,500 in old coins of small denominations, the savings of her brother during 79 years.

Was Disappointed in Wife.

Chicago.—Held for deserting his 17-year-old wife, Albert Koslicky declared he was disappointed in her, for American girls were far prettier.

Lake County Herald

PAINESVILLE, OHIO

A DEMOCRATIC NEWSPAPER

TELEPHONE NO. 7?

PUBLISHED THURSDAY OF EACH WEEK

Entered in the Postoffice at Painesville, Ohio, as Second-Class Mail Matter.

Advertising Rates

DISPLAY

| | |
|---|---|
| Per Inch—First Insertion | 25c |
| Per Inch—Each Additional Insertion | 10c |
| LOCALS | |
| Per Line—First Insertion | 10c |
| Per Line—Each Additional Insertion | 05c |
| Want Column—Three Lines, three weeks | 25c |

M. L. Harter
R. A. Tuttle } Editors and Proprietors

GET INTO THE GAME.

The editor of the News at Farmersburg, Ind., G. J. Donnell, handed out some good advice and sound truths to small town merchants everywhere in a recent editorial. As Mr. Donnell states, live merchandising methods are necessary today to get the business and the sooner those most directly interested realize it, the sooner will their business increase. Mr. Donnell says:

The day has passed when the mercantile people of any town can associate themselves together to hold up the prices of merchandise locally, or to hold down the prices of produce, and at the same time do a normal amount of business according to capital invested. The buying public is far to well posted in prices and qualities these days to be imposed upon very long, progressive dealers who willing to make quick sales and short profits are numerous, bargains are advertised through newspapers and other mediums to the remotest corners, and transportation is quick, cheap and easy in every direction.

It is mighty good, too, for the trade of any town to have in it a few enterprising business men who are not afraid to induce quick sales and who are willing to offer inducements to the public to turn trade their way instead of allowing it to go to the larger centers. An intelligent person knows that he can as a rule get better bargains with the merchant who is willing to advertise his goods at a fair price, and the public will ultimately trade with the dealer who has push enough in his business to make it to the public's interest to trade with him.

In these days of direct advertising the public is posted in trade matters and if a merchant is afraid to advertise his goods and the prices he wants for them, at once the impression is made that his prices are higher than the other fellow who frankly states them. It will not help matters for the unprogressive dealer to fret and bemoan trade conditions he finds himself up against. Let him get in the game, offer fair inducements to a wide-awake trading public, be content with quick sales and small profits, advertise his goods, treat the public courteously and do the square deal first, last and all the time, foster every good enterprise seeking to establish in the community, have a word always for your own town and all of its interests. The trading public will not be slow to catch the spirit and will always respond with larger trade to any community of such dealers.

MILLION EDITION

Are you against the tariff?

Are you against indirect taxation?

Do you want to take a telling part in the coming Presidential campaign?

Then send five cents and get two well printed copies of Henry George's famous book "Protection or Free Trade." They will be in sealed franked envelopes (no postage required), ready for your addressing and mailing to persons you believe will read and think.

This is the book that in 1892 during the Presidential campaign Tom L. Johnson with the assistance of five other Congressmen and with the approval of the author, Henry George had published in full in the Congressional Record. The printing, however, had to be privately paid for. Funds were raised and more than one million copies were circulated during the campaign. This materially contributed toward the election of a Democratic President, Grover Cleveland.

The Fels Fund Commission is handling this renewed effort, aiming at another million distribution, or more. The book is copyrighted, but all royalty charges on the "Million Edition" are waived.

Send your money to the Fels Fund Commission and receive in return the number of copies you so pay for.

Send a dollar and get forty copies. Get your individual friends and, better still, your organization, to contribute toward a circulation fund. Raise as much money as you can, and circulate as many copies as possible in your neighborhood. Get as wide a circulation for the book in your state as you can and as soon as possible. As to this you can give an added aid by asking your Congressman to send the book out under his own Congressional frank.

If you do this you will do the most effective work toward shaping radical tariff thought and action, for this is the best educational tariff book that was ever written. Only two other economic works have ever surpassed it in actual copies printed—Adam Smith's "Wealth of Nations" and Henry George's "Progress and Poverty." The circulation of a million copies of "Protection or Free Trade" through this country during the next few months must have a tremendous educational result. In this work everyone, even the most isolated and remote, may take a part.

Send your orders and money at once to

THE FELS FUND COMMISSION,
Cincinnati, Ohio

Remittances may be made in currency, check, draft, postoffice orders or postage stamps. In the smaller amounts under one dollar postage stamps preferred.

THE INCOME TAX.

Is it just that the men who own 90 per cent of the wealth of the United States should shoulder but 10 per cent of the burden of taxation for running the government?

The democratic House of Representatives believes that it is not, and hence the passage of the excise-income tax bill which levies a tax of 1 per cent on incomes in excess of $5,000 a year.

This does not mean that all persons having more than $5,000 must pay a tax on the excess of that sum. It means that those who have an annual income or profit of more than $5,000 must pay the 1 per cent on the excess of $5,000. It will be necessary for a man to draw a higher salary than $5,000 a year, or to have a capitalized sum of about $100,000 before he is called upon to pay 1 per cent tax on that portion in excess of $5,000.

This is class legislation, the standpatters and protectionists say. They were never heard to complain, however, of the existing class legislation which permits the burden of federal taxation to fall entirely upon the shoulders of the masses, taxing the average man, woman and child on every stitch of clothing they wear and everything else they must have in order to live, while permitting all forms of wealth to go untaxed.

The masses of the people produce the wealth, and by legislative advantage a few get possession of it, and now these few object to the transfer to wealth of even the amount of revenue derived from the taxation of sugar, but one of the 500 things on which a tariff is levied. They would prefer that the government continue to tax sugar instead of wealth, because they eat no more sugar than the section hand or the mill worker and therefore under the present system are compelled to pay no greater tax to the federal government than does the poorest man. These facts may read strange, but they are facts, and will not be contradicted.

The United States is practically the only one of the great nations today that raises practically all its revenue by taxing the people according to their needs and practically according to their poverty, and allows wealth to go untaxed, so far as the raising of money to build battleships, maintain the army, and run the government are concerned.

The government now raises $311,000,000 annually by placing an import duty or tariff on the things the people eat, wear or use. Banks, railroads and steamship lines pay nothing to Uncle Sam because they do not come through the customs houses.

If a fiscal system which requires a millionaire to pay no more tax to the federal government than the section hand or the mill worker is fair and just, there is no need of reform, but if such a system is unjust, the excise income tax is a move in the right direction to remedy it.

RUINED AGAIN!

The sugar industry in the United States, according to the wail going up from protectionists, will be ruined by the bill removing the tax from sugar, reducing the price to the consumer approximately 2 cents a pound. This, then, will be the fourth time the industry will have been "ruined," according to protectionists—always according to protectionists.

The standpatters said the industry would be ruined when Porto Rico sugar was admitted free. But it wasn't [illegible] when Philippine sugar was admitted free and gave up the same cry when Cuban sugar was given a downward revision. During this time of "ruin," cane sugar production in this country increased materially and beet sugar production more than doubled, but the price of sugar has never ceased to advance in price to the consumer. The wholesale price of standard granulated sugar on the day this item is written is $5.85 per hundred pounds. One week ago it was $5.75. One month ago, $5.45 and one year ago, $4.60.

Whether the Sugar Trust finds it necessary to increase prices to reimburse itself for the stolen millions it was forced to disgorge to the government, following the exposure of the underweighting frauds, or whether the increases are actually justified by a shortage of sugar production abroad is considered a debatable question by many. But the fact that the wholesale price of sugar in London averages two cents a pound less than in the United States, the year around, shows the advantage in favor of the consumers of the country where there is neither a sugar tariff nor a sugar trust.

---

It is an announcement of considerable interest that is made by the socialist paper, the Appeal to Reason, in its last issue. The Appeal to Reason is no more. Its suspension is said by its editor to be due to the federal courts and the post office department, but outsiders not much in sympathy with its policies attribute the collapse not a little to the blow received by the paper from the confession of the McNamara brothers. The Appeal waged a campaign of characteristic intensity and violence in behalf of the dynamiters, and the reaction was pitiful. For some years this paper has preached socialism in its most militant form, and Mr. Debs was a prominent contributor to it. Girard, Kan., where it was published, became widely advertised throughout the country because of the Appeal's journalistic methods and its editor's fights with the post-office department. One doesn't know whether or not to believe the story of the founder's accumulation of wealth in preaching class hatred. A Kansas City correspondent of the New York Times, however, says:—

The founder of the Appeal is J. A. Wayland, a country editor. He first published the Appeal in Kansas City, and moved to Girard. He soon made that point a first class post-office to take care of the great volume of postal business he created. Warren took his profits and bought cheap land in Missouri. Zinc was discovered on it. The editor, who was once a penniless printer, then built and owned a whole town. He sold it all at inflated prices. Now he scarcely knows his own wealth. Wayland invested his profits in land in Texas. The city of Amarillo grew up on his holdings, and today he receives as rental in Amarillo alone $40,000 a year.

---

These times are like those of the 50's, when the real Democrats of both parties came together to form the Republican party. The same conflict between democracy and privilege rages now, though the issues are different in detail. The men who believe in privilege are getting together without regard to party lines, why can not those who believe in democracy follow their example?

---

You judge a man not by what he promises to do, but by what he has done. That is the only true test. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judged by this standard has no superior. People everywhere speak of it in the highest terms of praise. For sale by all dealers.

War Time Coffee.

This was the formula of a coffee mixture that sold freely in the days of gross adulteration during and immediately subsequent to the Civil war, before matters began to right themselves, as they did without the help of food laws:

Best Java coffee, one pound, rye, three pounds. Carefully clean the rye from all bad grains, wash to remove dust, drain off the water and put the grain into the roaster, carefully stirring to brown it evenly. Roast the coffee separately. Grind the mixture and pack in airtight containers. An essence of coffee was prepared by boiling down molasses until hard and then grinding it to a powder and mixing it with a half pound of good ground Java coffee, using four pounds of the powdered molasses.—From the Ideal Grocer.

Just to Cheer.

Young Hub—There's no need of further parley; the next war that comes along finds me joining—

Young Wife—Oh, George, George, don't!

Young Hub—In the cheers of victory.

---

VERY LOW ONE WAY COLONIST RATES VIA NICKEL PLATE ROAD to points in the West, Northwest and Southwest. Tickets good going March 1 to April 15, inclusive. Ask Agent or write J. C. Melenbacher, D. P. A., Erie, Pa. No. 2.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

By Tom, Dick and Harry.

It would be interesting to know what President Taft now thinks of "soap box politics," as applied to supreme court decision by a minority of the court. It would seem that even the "soap box" politicians have more wisdom than a supreme court justice.

---

It ain't no use to grumble and complain;
It's just as cheap and easy to rejoice;
When God sorts out the weather and sends rain,
W'y, rain's my choice.
—James Whitcomb Riley.

One-half the people of Painesville spend one-half their time kicking about the weather and the other half of the people spend half of their time listening to the first one-half. What's the use? What's the use?

---

An old saw says "It is a foul bird that befouls its own nest," and there is some truth in it. The axiom is brought to mind by the persistent rumors of scandal in the high school. A stranger in the city would conclude that of all the undesirable places in the city for a boy or girl, the high school was the most undesirable. Even women connected with the schools give tongue to the nasty tales. You and I know that the probabilities are that the boys and girls now are better, rather than worse than we were, and serious misconduct when we were in school was rare. We believe it is more rare now. Nevertheless in this instance, it would seem that the school authorities should take notice of the stories being circulated, and call upon the circulators to either substantiate the charges, name the guilty, if there are any guilty, or hold their tongues. Now all the pupils in the school are subject to a vicious suspicion.

---

Theodore, that's Teddy, is in favor of woman suffrage if women want it. He believes that they ought to have what they want but he don't say whether they ought to want suffrage or not. Surely Theodore has an opinion on the subject and the mystery is why he don't out with it. It isn't exactly his style to keep things like that to himself. Can it be that the dauntless one has grown timid or has he learnt discretion? It must be the one or the other for a man with half an eye can see the subterfuge of his position. In fact it is as near no position as anyone can take and still lay claim to one. He certainly is "playing it safe" on the female vote question.

---

At the hearing of the Mentor shooting affray this week a constable testified that the defendent in the case had asked him for protection but that owing to the size of the gang he, the constable, could do nothing. Such a circumstance seems incredible. If the constable had not been honest enough to admit his inability to cope with the situation we would be inclined to put him down as a rank coward. But it is almost impossible to divorce honesty and some degree of bravery in our minds so we are forced to conclude that the constable in the case was up against a pretty grave situation. And if he was in danger how about the young man trying to get out of town?

When a gang of men get beyond the control of a police officer a private citizen ought to have the right to defend himself in any manner he can. No sensible person can blame Druen or whatever his name is for shooting with intent to kill. It's a shame to arrest him for it. Instead Mentor citizens ought to say "Here young fellow stay right on the job with your little gun. We need a policeman like you. Perhaps a chap that can protect himself can protect some one else when occasion demands it." It's a safe bet that Mentor would be a healthier place to live in with a real cop or two on the job. "Good fellow" or "respectable family" gangs wouldn't thrive any better than the ones composed of hobunks or honyucks—which is as it should be.

---

Everywhere in Ohio the old soldiers are censuring Senator Pomerene upon his stand against the Dollar-a-Day Pension bill submitted to Congress by Isaac R. Sherwood. The younger element, however, do not join the veterans in their contention, for the reason that the bill is too sweeping in its provisions. No one could or would object if the government were to pay the real soldiers even more than one dollar per day—they are entitled to it. But the number of those who saw any real service is too small compared with those who would share in the bounty and never saw service, for a bill with such general terms to become a law. It is true that under its provision all the deserving veterans would benefit, but it is equally true that the thousands who never saw a rebel nor did any other service of danger, would also benefit. Always it has been true that the men who did the fighting, suffered the hardships and bore the wounds, were the last to be pensioned. Thousands of those who did succeed in getting a pension, were given a miserly $8.00 a month, while other thousands—men who were never out of the state were getting from $18.00 to $24.00 per month. The former were crippled from wounds and rheumatism, and the latter never had a pain or an ache that could be traced to any army service. As Captain Joe Gillespie of the Pension department expresses it, "They never fought anything worse than gray-backs and [illegible] the real soldier [illegible] not sufficient support [illegible] it, but if he has health and means, he should not be a ward of the government.

PERRY

Mrs. Jennie Clark and daughter, Miss Lillian Clark, could not attend school Monday, being called away to attend the funeral of a relative.

Dr. Snearer of Madison has opened an office in Perry.

A musical and literary program will be rendered Wednesday evening at the Methodist Episcopal church, and will be followed by supper in the chapel.

Friday evening, Mr. Ryall of Painesville will give a stereopticon lecture on "The Philippines" at the Christian church. A silver collection will be taken for the benefit of the Perry Y. M. C. A.

The Baptist Sewing Society will meet Wednesday at 10 a. m. at the Chapel for an all day meeting. A picnic dinner will be served.

Mr. Wm. Cook is detained by illness.

Mrs. S. Hull is steadily regaining health.

The call of "That Other House" is ruffling the peaceful calm of Perry. What matter if the roads are muddy? There's the joy of settlement afterward, and the spring house cleaning will be completed a month in advance. Moving vans are met with on every road. The watchword seems to be "back to the farm."

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hausch and family have removed to a cozy little farm in Madison, where Mr. Hausch has erected a new bungalow.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Craine have moved to their recently purchased farm on the South Ridge, and Mrs. Abbott has left her farm on the Lake Road and has come to make her home with them, the home being broken up. Mrs. Ellen Mitchell has taken a room at Mrs. Green's.

C. G. Keener and family have settled in their home, purchased from Mr. Max Craine.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Langshew are expected home next week after their winter's visit with relatives in the far west.

On Friday, April 5th, a special service will be held at the Methodist Church. It is to be held between the hours of twelve and three, representing the time during which the world was wrapped in darkness, after the crucifixion of the Christ. Different speakers will present the seven sayings of Jesus on the cross, and appropriate music has been selected. It is desired that as many as are able will be present.

YUAN PARTIAL TO AMERICANS

How Chinese Dictator Okeyed Orders of Late Dowager Empress and Saved Foreigners.

Maj. Henry Leonard of the United States marine corps, retired, who lost an arm at Tientsin and won a captaincy in Pekin, has seen a great deal of Yuan Shih-kai, who, according to the dispatches, is now dictator to the Chinese empire. "Yuan's son used to come a great deal to my quarters in Pekin," says Maj. Leonard. "He spoke English fluently, but his father did not speak the language at all. For all that he seemed to have a great liking for Americans. That he is a man of great sagacity and foresight was shown by the way in which he obeyed the orders from the throne in 1900 to march against Pekin and crush the foreigners who were cooped up there in the legation quarters. At that time there was only 1,800 of us, all told, and matters had become so desperate with us when we were relieved that we had already drawn lots to see which would kill the women and children in case the Chinese army attacked us.

"Had Yuan come against us he could easily have exterminated us, as we wouldn't have had a show. Yuan was not afraid to lead such an attack, but he never reached Pekin. He marched his army up and down in Shantung province, of which he was governor, for a whole month. He could always report that he was actively in the field against the foreigners, but he was careful not to get near enough to us to attack us.

"Therefore, when China decided it wanted peace the foreign governments had Yuan as the mediator, and the dowager empress thought so well of his services that he could have had anything he wished in China so long as he lived."

Laugh Earned Reward.

"I can't for the life of me see what a brilliant fellow like Skribbs saw to admire in that woman he married."

"It wasn't what he saw so much as what he heard."

"What do you mean?"

"I guess you never heard that merry laugh of hers."

"Do you mean to say that a brainy man would marry a woman just because she had a merry laugh?"

"Well—yes. Didn't you know that Skribbs was a joke writer?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Writer's Mean Remark.

It is a mistake to suppose that women are always talking about their dresses. Sometimes they are talking about their hats.—Exchange.

Through Sorrow to Joy.

In labor lies health of body and mind: in suffering and difficulty is the soul of all virtue and all wisdom.—Carlyle.

Many sufferers from rheumatism have been surprised and delighted with the prompt relief afforded by applying Chamberlain's Liniment. Not one case of rheumatism in ten requires any internal treatment whatever. This liniment is for sale by all dealers.

ORDINANCE NO. 214.

An Ordinance [illegible] the Clearing [illegible] Sidewalks.

Be it ordained by the Council of the Village of Fairport, State of Ohio.

Section 1. Every owner, occupant, or person having charge of any tenement, building, lot or land fronting on any avenue, street, alley, or other public highway of the village, shall clear the whole sidewalk in front of said tenement, building, lot or land, of snow and ice before nine o'clock of the forenoon of each day, provided that if the sidewalk in front of said tenement, building, lot or land, is not flaged or paved, or improved by the construction of a cement walk thereon, a pathway thereon shall be cleared of ice and snow to the width of at least five feet; if for any cause it shall be impossible to remove the snow and ice which may adhere to such sidewalk, then every such owner, occupant, or person having charge, shall cover such snow or ice as shall remain, with such coating of ashes, sand or other substances as may be necessary to render travel thereon safe and convenient. Every owner, occupant or person having charge of any tenement, building, lot or land, fronting upon any avenue, street, alley or other public highway of the Village, shall keep the entire width of said sidewalk, free and clear from all earth, sand, brick, stone, rubbish, or any other material which from any cause whatsoever shall have accumulated or may accumulate from said street.

Section 2. No person shall cast, throw, place or deposit on any sidewalk or crosswalk on any street, avenue or public place within the limits of the village, any part or portion of any fruit or vegetables, or other substances which, when stepped upon by any person is liable to cause such person to slip or fall.

Section 3. Any person who shall violate any of the preceding sections of this ordinance, or any provision thereof, who shall fail or neglect to comply with the requirements of any or either of said sections or provisions, shall on conviction thereof be fined in any sum not exceeding $10.00, for each offense, and the sum of $5.00 for each day said violation is continued.

Section 4. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and legal publication.

Passed March 12, 1912.

AUGUST WOLFF,
Mayor of the Village of Fairport.
J. O. KOSKI,
Clerk.

ORDINANCE NO 215.

To fix the amount of the official bonds of the Trustees of the Sinking Fund and the compensation of the Secretary of said Trustees:

Be it ordained by the council of the Village of Fairport, State of Ohio.

Section 1. Each member of the Board of Trustees of the Sinking Fund of said Village shall, before entering on the discharge of his official duties, give bond to said village in the sum of One Thousand Dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties as such Trustee during his continuance in office; said bonds to be approved by the council of said village.

Section 2. The board of Trustees of the Sinking Fund shall elect a secretary, who may be one of their number, and who shall receive as compensation for his services the sum of Seventy-five Dollars per year, payable quarterly upon the order of Trustees out of any fund under their control.

Section 3. All ordinances and parts of ordinances inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Section 4. This ordinance shall be in force after its passage and legal publication.

Passed March 12, 1912.

AUGUST WOLFF,
Mayor.
J. O. KOSKI,
Clerk.

ORDINANCE NO. 864

To provide for the issue of certificates of indebtedness in the sum of Two Hundred and Twenty-five Dollars for the purpose of making alterations and repairs to the engine house.

Whereas it is imperative that certain alterations and repairs shall at once be made on the engine house, and

Whereas, there is no money appropriated in the proper fund of the department of public safety, and

Whereas, there is not sufficient money in the general fund unappropriated from which an appropriation can be made, now therefore,

Be it ordained by the Council of the City of Painesville, State of Ohio, two-thirds of the members elected thereto concurring.

Section 1. That it is necessary that certain alterations and repairs be made to the engine house of the City of Painesville.

Section 2. That it is necessary to issue and to sell certificates of indebtedness in the sum of Two Hundred and Twenty-five Dollars for the purpose of making said alterations and repairs.

Section 3. That under the authority of Section 3913 of the General Code of the State of Ohio authorizing the issue of certificates of indebtedness in anticipation of the general revenue fund certificates of indebtedness of the City of Painesville, Ohio, be issued to the amount of Two Hundred and Twenty-five Dollars to pay for certain alterations and improvements to the engine house.

Section 4. That said certificates shall be dated May 18, shall be payable on or before Sept. 18, shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent and shall be signed by the Mayor and by the City Auditor and sealed with the corporate seal of the City of Painesville.

Section 5. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Passed March 18, 1912.

ELBERT F. BLAKELY,
President of the Council.

Attest:
FRANK L. KELLY,
Clerk.

Approved March 18, 1912.

WYNNE S. SMITH,
Mayor.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed bids will be received at the office of the Board of Park Commissioners of Painesville Township at ................ Painesville, Ohio, until noon on April 4, 1912, for constructing a Timber Retaining Wall at Painesville Park at the north end of Hardy Road on the lake shore.

Plans and specifications are on file and blank proposals may be obtained at the office of the Board or from Stinchcomb and Boddy, Engineers, 827 B. of L. E. Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

Proposals must be made on blanks furnished by the Board and each bid must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of Fifty ($50.00) Dollars, payable to the Board of Park Commissioners of Painesville Tp. as a surety that if the proposal be accepted a contract will be entered into.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

The Board of Park Commissioners,
By R. S. BELKNAP,
Sec'y.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup

For coughs, colds, hoarseness, bronchitis, croup, influenza, whooping cough, measles cough, and for asthmatic and consumptive coughs in all stages of the disease. Good for man, woman and child. Nothing better. Price, 25 cts.

NO MORPHINE OR CHLOROFORM

"I had a cough for four weeks and took 3 or 4 renewals of a doctor's prescription without any result, but after taking two bottles of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup the cough was all gone." James W. Byrd, 2626 S. 15th St., Phila., Pa.

SAMPLE SENT FREE

Write for it today. Mention this paper. Address A. C. MEYER & CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

Poor Old England.

"England," says a critic, "is a country of great intentions which are rarely carried out." "A nation of shopkeepers," was bad enough, but a nation of incapable undertakers is terrible!—London Opinion.

No Use Trying.

"Live within your income," says Andrew Carnegie. We could do it if the people next door didn't insist on having so many things we can't afford.

Insurance Of all kinds

FIRE, LIFE, AUTOMOBILE, AND LIABILITY INSURANCE

Twenty-five of the strongest and safest companies represented and all losses promptly paid.

E. D. BARBER

The Insurance Man.

FIRE INSURANCE
REAL ESTATE
ABSTRACTS
AND LOANS

A. M. WARN

P. O. BLOCK

HAVE YOUR STATIONERY EMBOSSED

Initials, Crests, Monograms,
Engraved to Your Order,
Stamped in Gold or Color, also Illuminating.

The Educational Supply Co., - Painesville

128 South State Street.

DR. E. L. NORTON and DR. H. D. RAND

DENTISTS

Nitrous Oxide Administered
Office hours: 8 to 12 a.m., 1 to 5 p.m.
Telephone, Main 484.
Cor. Main and St. Clair, Painesville

MARTIN A. TUTTLE,

ATTORNEY AT LAW
Painesville, Ohio,
Postoffice Block.

H. T. NOLAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW
Pioneer Trust Bldg. Painesville, O.

MORLEY & WARREN,

GRANITE AND MARBLE WORKS
Painesville, Ohio
The Best Stock and First-class Work
Cor. State and Washington Streets

BURGESS GRANITE WORKS,
Cor. State and Erie Streets.
We give Eagle Stamps.

We are the only dealers in Lake, Geauga, Trumbull and Portage counties authorized to sell the celebrated White Bronzo monuments with the greatly improved finish.

Johnson
Custom Tailor
125 N. State St.

WE DO SANITARY STEAM CLEANING AND PRESSING.

SEND $2.00
For a Gallon of this
Good Whiskey

Equal to $3.50 grade. $5 Whiskey at $3 per gallon.

Duffy Malt Whiskey Per Bottle . . . . . 89c

Guckenheimer or Golden Wedding Rye
$2.69 Per Gallon
2 Gallons $5.00

All high grade, guaranteed liquor at reduced prices. Sent in plain packages to any address.

A. Cohn, Wholesale Liquor Store 5819 ST. CLAIR, 4 doors East of 58th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

Copper Plate Engraving

Carefully Handled

Send us your order for visiting cards, invitations, notices, etc. We also emboss and illuminate monograms, crests, etc. Get our prices.

Eclipse Electrotype & Engraving Co. Cleveland

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

[illegible]

Scientific American.

[illegible]

MUNN & Co. [illegible] New York

NEW FIRM

THE PAINESVILLE COAL FEED & SUPPLY CO.

Successors to Cole Coal Co.

are doing business still at the same old stand that has for so many years been a feed store and coal yard.

The patrons of the Cole Coal Co. will find everything pertaining to the business methods about the same as usual as all the old employees will be retained.

Fair, Square Dealing is the foremost of our principles and that we intend to carry through our entire business.

We solicit a share of your patronage and would thank you for a call if only to get acquainted.

Where Cleanliness Reigns

Quality Groceries Await You Here

Our Prices Please and Are Worth Watching

Adapted to the saving pocket book

There's a reason for our growth

THESE WILL PLEASE

Elliott & Ruhling

French Dry Cleaning

Eliminates the soil from the finest and most delicate garments without loss of color or shrinkage and

Cleans Your Garments Clean

We French Dry Clean in a superior manner. Prompt service and prices the lowest consistent with first class work.

Painesville Dry Cleaning Co.

CHAS. FINK, Mgr.
Phone 219 R, 109 South St. Clair St.
PAINESVILLE, O.

Work Called for and Delivered.

Mentor Wall Paper Store

NEW STOCK ON HAND

Besides a Large Assortment in Books which I would be pleased to show you

R. M. CASE

CHOOSE your bank carefully. Look for the safety of large capital and surplus; for capable, strong management; for modern facilities; for prompt, courteous attention on the part of the employees.

You'll find all these qualifications in The Cleveland Trust Company.

PAINESVILLE OFFICE

The Cleveland Trust Company

SAVINGS BANK

W. R. RADCLIFFE, Mgr.
W. C. TISDEL, Chairman

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION

The Lake County board of examiners will offer examinations for teachers' certificates on the first Saturday of each month in the year 1911. If first Saturday falls on holiday, examinations will be held one week later. Boxwell pupils will be examined the third Saturday in April and the third Saturday in May, 1911. All examinations will be held in the old High School building, Painesville, beginning at 8:15 standard time.

By order of the board,
J. R. ADAMS, Clerk,
Unionville, Ohio.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad

FLORIDA

Special round trip, via Washington and rail, or via Baltimore and boat. Stop over anywhere. Limit June 1st.

CALIFORNIA, OREGON, WASHINGTON

Colonist one way reduced fares. Beginning March 1st.

See Ticket Agent or write M. G. Carrel, D. P. A., 341 Euclid Ave, Cleveland, O.

The Eureka

POOL PARLORS and SMOKE HOUSE

SOFT DRINKS, CANDIES
and a Full Line of CIGARETTES

ELECTRIC PIANO
for the amusement of all patrons

J. H. MATHEWS, Prop.
118 So. State St., Painesville, O.

HAVE YOUR FIRE INSURANCE WRITTEN AT HOME

We represent one of the Largest and Best Companies

The National Fire Insurance Co. of Hartford

R. M. CASE & CO.

OUR SPECIAL OFFER

THE HERALD AND La Follette's Weekly Magazine

BOTH A FULL YEAR FOR ONLY

$1.25

You can read every week what Senator Robert M. La Follette, the fearless champion of the people's rights, the leader of the progressive Republicans, thinks and says for

ONLY 25 CENTS MORE
Than the Price of The Herald Alone

A stirring and momentous campaign is opening. You will want to be posted. You will want the record of your congressman. Does he represent YOU? You will want information about the great political issues you and your friends are talking about. Senator La Follette knows what is going on at Washington. He is on the ground; behind the scenes. He tells you all about it in LA FOLLETTE'S WEEKLY MAGAZINE.

Sixteen pages of crisp editorials and interesting special articles each week.

La Follette's 1 yr. $1.00 | OUR OFFER
Herald . . 1 yr. $1.00 | $1.25

ADDRESS

The Lake County Herald, Painesville, Ohio

TRUBY COAL CO.

COAL and COKE

LIME, CEMENT, SEWER PIPE, TILE, ETC.

BOTH PHONES 21

MENTOR

The one topic of conversation is still the public dance at Mentor Village Hall on Saturday night a week ago, when one of our boys was shot by Raymond Druen a visiting young man from a neighboring village. The boy shot, was Dan McCarty, a boy who is the main-stay of his widowed mother. Dan had been in Painesville until about ten o'clock, returning with several Mentor folks, bringing with him a book which he sat down to read after getting home; but just then hearing the noise of the dance (which was next door) he jumped up saying to his mother that he "guessed he'd run over and see what they were doing at the Hall." He had not been gone but a few moments, before shots rang out on the night air, and word was very hastily passed along that Dan McCarty had been shot accidentally, the shot being intended for John Foster. These three boys, John and Cris Foster and Dan McCarty have been great friends for some time, and have made trouble at the Hall before, not because they are quarrelsome boys or drunken rowdies, not at all! But just because they were in for "fun"—and their idea of what "fun" is, does not agree with that held by most other people. For instance, that very night, John and Cris had borrowed a neighbor's goat, which they smuggled in at the back door, and got onto the stage, where it did several "stunts" and furnished considerable amusement for the lookers on, but only served to make very mad, those who had the dance in charge. They tried (so we are told) to get the Foster boys to take the goat out and to go along home themselves, declaring it was their dance, and they didn't want any Mentor folks "butting in." The Foster boys on the other hand, said it was a "public dance" and they had a right there if they wanted to—and guessed Mentor owned the Hall, etc. One word followed another, until a beating seemed in store for young Druen, and rather than take a "licking" he pulled a "gun" and shot the wrong party. This is the story your correspondent has gotten from a number of different persons who were there, and which is generally considered correct—when taking into consideration other things and other performances of these same boys, who are no worse than some other Mentor boys, whose Hallowe'en performances are duplicated in Willoughby and Painesville and indeed, all over Northern Ohio. One is sometimes tempted to wonder where the parents are of these young folks, that they are not taught that nothing is fun that annoys other people? And why are they not taught by teachers and parents to "Put themselves in the place of others?" Why are they allowed to just "come up" without any sense of responsibility, or any thought of any one but themselves?

We hear that Dan McCarty has a fighting chance for his life; that the bullet has been located by X-ray, in the liver, where the doctors think it had better stay, rather than risk taking it out.

The last Miscellany meeting was held with Mrs. Whitcomb, where Miss Frances Cleveland read a delightful paper on "Picturesque Ireland" which had been written by Mrs. Eva Munson before she left for the South, another delightful paper upon "Irish Poets" together with a number of recitations was given by Mrs. Samuel Lytle, and a most instructive paper on "Socialism" was read by Miss Nellie King.

Mrs. Lillian Parmelee is still very low, other complications having set in since the pneumonia seemed to be checked. Her mother collapsed on Saturday and is in a precarious condition, her brother and his wife getting up from a sick bed in order to come. All these things combine to make the many friends of the family very anxious indeed.

The ground is again covered to the depth of several inches with snow and the "early bird" wishes he had not been so "forehanded".

Mrs. Charles Church and daughter Dana, arrived home on Thursday from Florida, having spent several days in St. Augustine and Chattanooga, while enroute home.

The Clare Camp house on Burridge Ave is again for rent, Mrs. Snell and her daughter having just moved to Kent, Ohio.

The Misses Antoinette and Eleanor King entertained at tea Mr and Mrs E. D. Barber of Painesville, together with Mr and Mrs. T. D. Morley and H. C. King and family on Thursday, the occasion being the birthday of Mrs King.

Mrs. W. H. Taylor had a number of invited guests to tea on Thursday.

Mrs. Spencer Munson has gone to Knoxville, Tenn., where she will visit her sister, Mrs. Sue Darden, and her brother, Dr. Boyd and family, besides a host of other friends, as Knoxville was her girlhood's home.

The Misses Margaret and Florence Burridge were called home from Minneapolis, Minn., by the recent sudden death of their father, Mr. E. Burridge and are remaining here for a few days visit.

In the Ministerial Association just formed by the Lake County preachers we notice that Rev. Schauffner of Mentor has been given the office of Treasurer.

The wedding invitations are out for the marriage of Miss Margaret Murray, youngest daughter of our W. P. Murray, to Mr. Clifford Dangler of Cleveland, the ceremony to be performed the evening of April eleventh at St. Paul's Episcopal church, Cleveland.

So many people are asking after Miss Luella Kerr, that we are glad to say that she seems to be a trifle better! Just a trifle, however!

John Warren has returned from his sojourn in Arkansas, and is again at his Mentor home with his sister, Mrs. Shumaker.

Mr. George Hoose spent a short time last week over at Waite Hill with his brother, Warren Hoose and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Jefferson and family have rented the Lammereaux house at the Center, and will soon occupy same for the coming year.

Mrs. Ed Sawyer gave a most delightful St. Patrick's Day luncheon to a few favored guests on that day.

Mrs. Will Hart is spending some little time down at Huntsburg at her old home.

Miss Josephine Baker has been in Akron with friends this past week.

Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Frost spent Saturday in the city.

Mrs. Capt. Burridge accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Sarah Burridge Cummings, of East Brady, Pa., were called here by the death of Mr. Eleazer Burridge, and are remaining some days to visit with relatives and old friends here in the county. Mrs. Burridge spends her winters in Pa., we understand, and the summer time in Painesville with her youngest daughter, Mrs. Dr. Hawley.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Houghton of Painesville were guests of Col. and Mrs. Spaulding over Sunday.

Mrs. Frank Smith has just returned from making a short visit upon old friends down in Akron.

Evers Parsons of the Case School of Applied Science, has been at home with his parents here, Mr. and Mrs. George Parsons, for a short time recently. We understand that young Mr Parsons will graduate this coming June.

Mr William Eddy is having a visit from his brother, Mr Weston Eddy of Omaha, Neb., at date.

There has been formed a flourishing branch of the Woman's Temperance Society here, who call themselves the Y. P. B. and take in both boys and girls, and think it a fine thing. The Sunday Schools are also taking a very decided stand on the subject of temperance, more than half of the school having already signed the "Lincoln Pledge" and more are going to sign it.

Will Crosby and family have moved out of the Henry Lewis house, and have gone to Painesville to live, where Mr Crosby is to work for the Soda Ash plant.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Warren of Concord have recently been guests of their sister, Mrs. Anna Warren Shumaker.

Those of our Mentor girls who are taking the course of study in Willoughby at the Andrews Institute, say that there were over fifteen hundred visitors there on Tuesday, every one of them seeming to be much pleased at the work done there, and full of interest when seeing the girls at their work or in their classes. The school is certainly a great thing for northern Ohio, and more of our girls ought to be enrolled there instead of in the factories and mills.

---

You can say goodbye to constipation with a clear conscience if you use Chamberlain's Tablets. Many have been permanently cured by their use. For sale by all dealers.

WILLOUGHBY

The schools closed this week for a weeks vacation.

Rev. John Fairburn, pastor of the Episcopal church was taken ill Sunday while conducting the evening service at his church.

Mrs. A. D. Paine of Cleveland spent Sunday with friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Bliss of Nottingham visited friends in town Sunday.

Mrs. Chauncey Ball of Painesville was in town Thursday.

Mrs. Harry Thomas of Cleveland spent Sunday with relatives in town.

Mrs. Clarke Reed of Lioesville Pa., is spending a few days with former neighbors.

Mr. John Watts fell Saturday and injured one of his arms.

Mrs. O. E. Manville and Mrs. J. A. McMahon visited at the home of J. O. Manville in Cleveland Wednesday.

Mrs. Barnes and children, formerly of this place, are spending a few days with friends.

Died, Tuesday, Mrs. Mary Granger, aged 81 years. Mrs. Granger was formerly Miss Mary Stacy, and spent most of her life in this place as a girl and woman. She leaves two sons, John of Pennsylvania, and Horace of this place. The funeral was held Thursday at her late home, Rev. C. E. Beach of the M. E. church officiating.

Mrs. F. A. Carrel, Mrs. Frank Andrews, Mrs. Geo. Collister and Mrs. James A. McMahon gave a dancing party at the Andrews School Friday evening. About thirty couples were present.

The Andrews School girls had an exhibition of their work a day or two and sold large numbers of garments. Others will be sold by private sale.

Mrs. C. S. Smart is spending a week or two with her daughter, Mrs. A. Russel of Niagara Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hall of Cleveland spent a part of last week with his sister, Mrs. James Smart.

Died, Thursday, Dr. G. C. E. Weber, the famous veteran surgeon. He leaves a wife and one daughter, who is in Europe. The funeral was held Sunday at the home of Dr. T. M. Moore. The flowers were many and very beautiful. Rev. John Fairburn of the Episcopal church preached the sermon. J. Olney Manville and Jas. A. McMahon furnished music. Two special cars from Cleveland brought friends here, among whom were a number of physicians. The remains were taken to Cleveland for burial.

Miss Melva Annis spent Saturday and Sunday in Conneaut.

The Woman's Home Missionary society met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. A. H. Van Gorder on Euclid St.

The Men's League met Wednesday at the Methodist church.

The Ladies Aid Society will give a concert April 8th at the M. E. church.

The Epworth League are preparing to give an entertainment April 19.

Goldsmith's Sketch of Himself.

Goldsmith has accurately sketched himself in the following fashion: "Fond of enjoying the present, careless of the future, his sentiments those of a man of sense, his activities those of a fool; of fortitude able to stand unmoved at the bursting of an earthquake, yet of sensibility to be affected by the breaking of a tea cup."

Why Not Ruth?

"Yes," Mrs. Lapsling remarked, "my Uncle Henry has traveled a good deal in those hot countries down south. He says that after the noon meal everybody goes and takes a 'see Esther,' but why they call it that I'm sure I can't imagine."

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

THE MARKETS.

Buyers are Paying for

| | |
|---|---|
| Wheat | 1 02 |
| Rye | .90 |
| Corn | .72 |
| Oats | 54 |
| Baled hay per ton | $20-$22 |
| Baled straw per ton | $11-$13 |
| Butter, No. 1 dairy | .28 |
| Eggs | .21 |
| Lard (home rendered) | .12 |
| Pork, dressed | 08½ |
| Chickens | 12-13 |
| Veal | 10-11 |
| Beef, dressed | 8-10 |
| Tallow, per pound | .05 |
| Potatoes | 1 10 |
| Honey | 18-19 |
| Maple syrup, per gal | 90-$1 00 |

Retail Price for

| | |
|---|---|
| Flour Royal Patent, per sk | 1 60 |
| Flour, Golden Eagle, per sk | 1 40 |
| Flour, Elevator, per sk | 1 35 |
| Flour, rye, per sk | 1 55 |
| Graham Flour, per lb | 03 |
| Corn | 80 |
| Oats | 62 |
| Corn Meal | 1 55 |
| Chop feed, straight corn and oats | 1 65 |
| Midlings | 1 65 |
| Bran | 1 50 |
| Baled straw, cwt | .80 |
| Butter, creamery | .37 |
| Butter, dairy | .32 |
| Eggs, per dozen | 24 |
| Potatoes, per bu. | 1 30 |
| Potatoes, per pk. | .33 |

NEW GOODS AND NEW FIXTURES

WE AIM TO CARRY THE VERY BEST IN

Staple and Fancy Groceries

WITH A STOCK OF

Cigars and Tobacco

In keeping with all other lines. We shall appreciate your trade and will endeavor to please.

BURR & RUST

CORNER STATE AND MAIN

Painesville's Leading Planing Mill.

DRESSED LUMBER IS LIKE A DEAD DOG.

The bark is all off. You'll find no bark to our lumber, although we do a good deal of barking about it. We have the stock, and feel justified in barking. When you want the best lumber, bark up this tree, and you'll find it.

S. L. MALIN & SON

"Focus on Lumber."

Phone 167

A. D. McLEAN

FIRE INSURANCE, REAL ESTATE
SINGER SEWING MACHINES

All makes of machines cleaned and repaired.

135 S. State St. Painesville, Ohio

A REMEDY FOR EVERY ILL IN

THE NYAL REMEDIES

—at—

PARK'S PHARMACY

"The Nyal Store"

Painesville's Leading Drug Store.

Registered Pharmacists in attendance at all times.

The Corner Pharmacy

J. G. DAVET, Proprietor.

FIRE, LIFE, ACCIDENT, HEALTH
—AND—
PLATE GLASS INSURANCE

FRANK L. KERR

Everybody Loves A Winner.

Year after year, as steadily as clockwork, the

UNDERWOOD TYPEWRITER

demonstrates its superiority in speed and reliability by winning every typewriting contest in every class at the Annual Business Show, Madison Square Garden, New York City.

1911 RECORDS

World's Professional Championship (One Hour)

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 1st—UNDERWOOD | H. O. Blaisdell | 112 words per minute |
| 2nd—UNDERWOOD | Florence E. Wilson | 111 " " " |
| 3rd—UNDERWOOD | Rose L. Fritz | 107 " " " |
| 4th—UNDERWOOD | E. A. Trefzger | 107 " " " |
| 5th—UNDERWOOD | J. L. Hoyt | 106 " " " |

World's Amateur Championship (Thirty Minutes)

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 1st UNDERWOOD | Gus F. Trefzger | 98 words per minute |
| 2nd UNDERWOOD | Margaret B. Owen | 93 " " " |
| 3rd UNDERWOOD | Bessie Friedman | 90 " " " |
| 4th—UNDERWOOD | Lottie E. Betts | 83 " " " |

World's School Championship (Fifteen Minutes)

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 1st—UNDERWOOD | William F. Oswald | 77 words per minute |

World's Edison Transcribing Contest (Ten Minutes)

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 1st—UNDERWOOD | Lottie E. Betts | 63 words per minute |

NOTE—Above records are net. Five words were deducted for each and every error.

The Official Record of the UNDERWOOD for one hour's work is 26 words per minute greater than the best official record of any other competing machine.

Every UNDERWOOD used in above Championship Contests is a STOCK machine, an exact duplicate of which can be purchased in every large city in the world.

"The Machine You Will Eventually Buy"

Underwood Typewriter Co., Inc.

822 Huron Road, CLEVELAND

UNCLE SAM'S REINDEER

HERD OF REINDEER

THE herding and breeding of domesticated reindeer, introduced as an experiment a number of years ago with animals imported from Siberia by the government, has now become the most prominent feature of the industrial education of the Eskimo and the main activity of many native villages of Arctic Alaska, writes W. T. Beasly in Scientific America. The progress in civilization that has been made by lifting up the natives formerly living as savages and eking out a precarious existence by hunting with no other domestic animal than the dog to the estate of civilized, self supporting herdsmen, as accomplished through the reindeer industry, is a remarkable educational achievement. The Alaska Reindeer Service has now reached its most successful stage, as it marks the beginning of the period of full utilization of all the reindeer owned by the government for the benefit of the native population. At the present time there is hardly a surplus government reindeer north of the Kuskowim river. This has been made possible by the establishment of new reindeer stations, the employment of more natives as chief herders, by accepting the largest practical number of apprentices and by transferring reindeer to both chief herders and apprentices in lieu of salary or supplies, the chief aim and fundamental policy of the government being to turn the reindeer over to the natives as rapidly as they learn the industry and appreciate its value.

The total number of reindeer in Alaska at the last census was nearly 23,000, and of this number, over 11,000 are owned by the natives. One of the most striking and gratifying features is the large income which the natives derive from the sale of reindeer products, their share for the past fiscal year having been $18,000 and over. The amount does not include the value of the reindeer skins used for clothing nor that of the meat consumed as food. These material benefits and the very considerable income thus derived demonstrate the fact that the reindeer industry has become one of the most prominent factors in the economic life of the Eskimo. The total number of Alaskan reindeer is distributed in herds among 28 stations, 18 of these being owned by the government and 10 by church missions. The Lapps own over three thousand. The natives are very anxious to get deer, and look upon them as a safe investment for their earnings, and usually take deer in preference to cash for services when an opportunity is offered. The government does not sell deer; this is done by natives and missions alone. The various missions are furnished a herd of 100 deer on loan for a period of five years by the government.

Mission Keeps Increase.

At the end of this time the original number must be returned. The mission keeps the increase of fawns, which amount to several hundred, derived from the government loan. The Moravian mission of Bethel has one of the largest herds, nearly three thousand. Other missions having over one thousand deer, all in Arctic Alaska north of the Yukon, are located at Golovin, Kotzebue, Shishmaref and Cape Wales. At Barrow, latitude 71 deg. 25 min., the most northern point on the American continent, there is a herd of 200.

The total population here is about 400—men, women and children. One native, Takpuk, is considered the richest man of that region, as he owns a herd of 137 reindeer. The missions support and educate a number of young apprentice herders. The native herders also take an apprentice and award them six deer a year in payment for their services. The Laplanders take a loan of deer for five years from the government, and give their services as instructors for that period. At the end of five years the Lapp returns the 100 deer and becomes an independent herder himself with the large increase of reindeer he has obtained from the herd. The Lapp herders are not interested in the extension of the reindeer among the natives. Some of the largest owners of deer are Lapps, some half a dozen of these men having accumulated herds of from five to nearly eight hundred. In introducing the reindeer as a means to promote the industrial life and to provide a permanent livelihood for the Eskimo, it has been found necessary by the government to put the young natives through a course of training. Those who get their deer directly from the government serve an apprenticeship of five years. There are several hundred of these at present. They are bound by a written contract, the strict terms of which they cannot violate without peril of losing their annual allotment of reindeer and suffering discharge from the service. This caring for, training and breeding the deer is an education in itself and the best which the government could give to the young natives. With careful training the Eskimo boys make excellent herders. They readily learn how to take care of the reindeer, to throw the lasso, to harness and drive the deer and to watch the fawns. Siberian herders were first imported to teach them, but of late years the more intelligent and efficient Laplanders, who have learned by centuries of experience the breeding of reindeer, were secured. The Eskimo boys take quickly to some phases of the work and in some respects excel the Lapps; they can lasso better than the Lapps, and many become experts in making harness and sleds. The minding of the herd requires constant vigilance, especially in the spring during the fawning season. Then the herders have to keep watch day and night by turns with the rifle to protect the herd from ravages of the Arctic wolf and dogs.

Mark to Designate.

In the ear of each government deer a little aluminum button is fastened securely, and all private owners and herders have a mark which must be registered with the local superintendent of the reindeer station and also at Washington. Besides being taught the art of deermanship, the apprentices are instructed in keeping accounts, the methods of marketing reindeer, and in other practical matters connected with the industry. No apprentice can become a herder unless he is proficient in the branches of elementary reading, arithmetic and writing. At the end of his apprenticeship the young Eskimo native is allotted a number of deer by the government, and with the increase obtained during the interval of his five years' service each apprentice will have, on an average, a herd of 50 reindeer.

As this herd will double itself every three years, the graduate apprentice will have a herd which will afford and assure a self-supporting income quite enough to satisfy the economic wants of himself and family in the future. He is thus established in business by the government and is given free pasturage thereafter. The reindeer produces one fawn in the spring each year for 10 years. Among the useful and profitable products of the reindeer are the skins for clothing. Of these pelts most varied use is made. From them are fashioned the tight-fitting trousers and that wonderful outer garment, the "parka," universally worn in winter by both male and female natives and by many whites. The "parka" extends to the knees and has a close-fitting hood which keeps the head and shoulders comfortably warm even in the severest weather. These reindeer garments are remarkable for their excellent qualities of resisting moisture and cold. A close examination of the hair of the reindeer furnishes an explanation of its peculiar value. The hair is not merely a hollow tubular structure with a cavity extending throughout its entire length, but is divided or partitioned off into exceedingly numerous cells like watertight compartments. These are filled with air and their walls are so elastic and at the same time of such strong resistance that they are not broken up either during the process of manufacture or by swelling when wet. The cells expand in water and thus it happens that a person completely in garments made of reindeer wool does not sink when in water, because he is buoyed up by the air contained in the hundreds of thousands of hair cells. As the mineral industry continues to grow in Alaska the natives and graduate apprentices can earn high wages as teamsters hauling supplies and furnishing fresh reindeer meat to mining camps in the interior at points remote from railway and steamboat transportation. Well-trained sled deer have been used to carry the mail 650 miles from Barrow south to Kotzebue.

Hints and Advice on Social Forms

By MME. MERRI

Queries From Pearl.

I am so anxious to know these things, will you help me? How should a girl act so that the boy will know that she would like his company home from church or a show? Is it proper for a girl to ride with a young man after a party, church or late at night? If a girl is in a strange town and has a boy friend there should she let him know she is there? Hope I haven't asked too much. PEARL.

You may be sure that I will help you to the best of my ability, but I am afraid I cannot tell you how to get a boy's attention if he does not care to give it. It is a woman's privilege to be sought. Home is the place to go after an entertainment, unless with a party and chaperoned, and then a supper is permissible. It is perfectly proper to let your friends, both girls and boys, know when you are in their home city.

Puzzling Questions.

Will you please tell me is it proper for a girl of fifteen to write to a boy of nineteen regularly? Should a girl ask a boy for his stickpin or ring, or will he give it to her if he wishes her to have it? Please tell me is it proper for a girl and boy to discuss another boy or girl, or both? M. A.

As I have said so often, I think a girl of fifteen is too young to permit the attention of just one boy; still if the correspondence referred to is just a schoolboy and girl friendship I see no objection if the love element is left out. By no means ask a boy for any of his jewelry. It depends upon whether the discussion is friendly, whether it is right or not. The less we talk personalities, the better.

Reply to "A Bride-to-Be."

Your writing is good and legible and not at all too large. In marriage it is a question of love and congeniality more than age, and I should say it ought to be a happy match. Invitations are issued just the same for a church ceremony, and you ought to be able to invite everyone to the church. I should not send out "At Home" cards until you are back from abroad and know where you will be. Look in Webster's for the meaning of proper names; our space is too limited to answer questions that may be found elsewhere.

If you wish a book pertaining to weddings and their conduct please send me a self-addressed stamped envelope in care of the paper and I will be glad to tell you where you can get the desired information.

Reply to "Faithful Reader."

Return the call and leave one of yours and two of your husband's cards, whether "he" is with you or not. You were perfectly right to [illegible] mentioned and you now may call in return for the hospitality extended. Napkins are square and not trimmed with lace and insertion for ordinary use.

Terms in Correspondence.

I would like some advice in corresponding with a boy. Should you write "Friend George" or "Dear George?"

How should a boy write in corresponding with a girl? ANXIOUS.

Do not say "Friend." Just the name, with "My dear" before it, or just "dear" is sufficient if you are both well acquainted, and the same rule applies when a boy is writing to a girl, only, unless very old friends, he should say "Miss Grace." In fact, I think it is always more dignified and reverential for a boy to say "Miss" in speaking of a young woman.

Reply to "Lonesome."

You certainly ask a multitude of questions and your letter is too long to print, as space is so limited. For a girl of seventeen your writing is not very good. You can wear any color except purple or crimson, as they are both too strong for your pink cheeks. I should imagine you are pleasing in appearance and well-proportioned. A girl cannot be too particular in regard to the boys she goes with, and I should not worry. If I could not go with the very best I would be content until I could.

Have a white party dress with different colored slips and sashes.

Concerning "At Home" Cards.

I expect to be married next month and would like your advice on the matter of "at home" cards. We are going to live in Portland, Ore., but can not select a home until we reach there. Would it be better to have "At home, Portland, Ore.," which is rather indefinite, or to leave it out entirely? If "at home" cards are necessary, which is better, to have them engraved separately or on the invitation? ANXIOUS.

Under the circumstances I should not issue "at home" cards until all settled in my new home, and then I would have a reception after I knew people, and send the cards to everyone in my home town with address upon them.

MADAME MERRI.

Lingerie Frock

Already there are appearing demi-season hats draped with two colors of malines, and this mode of trimming bids fair to be a spring favorite. The hat pictured here is of black milan with a brim facing of velvet. The malines folds and loops are of white, over black, a black and gold ornament holding the loops in place. The blouse is a new white lingerie model with touches of black in net folds and buttons.

Fashion's Fancies

Shot taffeta trimming is a feature of new spring hats.

White kid gloves are extensively worn with dressy costumes upon all occasions.

Coming in for spring are the fascinating little blazer jackets of striped flannel or serge with notched collars and natty pockets.

The one piece dress seems to have come to stay, for all the new frocks are made in this manner, even though they boast belts or girdles.

The fichu shape so much in evidence in gowns, is out in little fur neckpieces that cross over the front as quaintly as the face fixings of a matinee.

The belted peasant blouse and a loosely woven Cossack crash are witnesses of the Russian influence, which will be greatly felt in the world of dress the coming season.

The height of simplicity is apparent in the fastening of lingerie frocks, but the simplicity is of that intricate sort that is hard to define and still more difficult to copy.

Sets consisting of smaller collars and cuffs of lawn or batiste, and trimmed with venise, cluny or val laces, are being featured for wear on waists and simple tailored dresses of satin or linen.

Tunic of Ivory Lace.

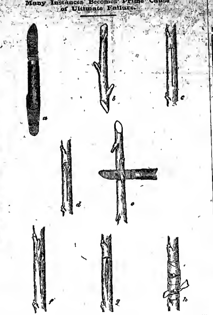
Shot taffetas make a very pretty frock for the evening. A lovely model was of rose-pink, shot with gold, which appeared to give the silk a soft and downy surface. The gown was made with the utmost simplicity, being fashioned in a single straight piece reaching to the feet, while the skirt was cut perfectly round and was guiltless of a train. It was completed by one of the new short tunics of ivory lace which formed the corsage, a wreath of tiny pink velvet rosebuds outlining the decolletage above the narrow tucker. This was of draw tulle and was not more than an inch in depth.

PEAR ONE OF MOST LUSCIOUS FRUITS UNDER CULTIVATION

Trees, However, Are More Difficult to Maintain in Healthy Productive Condition Than Apple—Neglect in Many Instances Becomes Prime Cause of Ultimate Failure.



Budding: a, Budding knife; b, bud stick; c, lengthwise incision with cross cut at top; d, opening of bark for insertion of bud; e, removing the bud; f, inserting the bud; g, bud inserted; h, bud properly wrapped.

(By G. B. BRACKETT, United States Department of Agriculture.)

The pear has long been regarded as one of the most luscious of the many kinds of fruit brought under cultivation. The choice varieties excel most apples in rich, juicy texture and delicacy of flavor, and for both dessert and culinary purposes, either canned or in the fresh state, the pear is considered a great acquisition. With a proper selection of varieties and with careful handling and storing of the fruit its season of use may be extended from midsummer to late winter without resorting to artificial means of preservation.

Pear trees are more difficult to maintain in a healthy, productive condition than apple trees and can not be grown with the same degree of success over so wide an area of country. Such has been the uncertainty of success in growing pears in many parts of the United States that few farmers have the needed confidence to plant even the few trees necessary to provide fruit for home use. This lack of confidence too often leads to neglect, which in many instances becomes the prime cause of ultimate failure.

The operation of budding, which must be performed during the growing season, consists in removing a bud from a twig of the desired variety and inserting it beneath the bark of the stock or young seedling which is to be changed. The inserted bud is held in place by wrapping it fast with soft cotton twine, bark, or raffia. In about ten days the bud will have united with the stock and the wrapping may be removed. Then by cutting back the stock or limb to near the inserted bud, the sap is forced into the newly transplanted bud and the growth of a new tree of the desired variety is promoted.

A budding knife and the successive stages of budding are shown in the illustration.

The main requisites for success in budding are (1) a healthy growing condition of the stock on which the work is to be done and (2) a certain state of maturity of the buds. The bark of the stock must separate freely, so that the bud may be forced under it without injury to the cambium layer of either bud or stock. The bud sticks or scions for budding should be of the current year's growth and should have well-developed buds. When the scions are taken from the tree the leaves must be cut off immediately, leaving only a short stub of the leaf stem for convenience in handling during the operation of budding. The bud sticks should be kept in fresh condition by means of damp moss or a wet cloth, and not more than one or two scions should be withdrawn from the package at a time.

Although budding may be done as early as well-developed buds can be obtained, the common practice of nurserymen is to insert the buds as late in the season as the bark of the stock will separate freely. By this method of late budding the bud is allowed to remain dormant through the following winter. In the spring the wrapping is removed and where the bud appears to be sound the top is cut back as already indicated. All buds on the stock below the one inserted should be rubbed off as they start to grow so as to throw all the sap into the growth of the bud inserted.

It is as important with the pear as with any other kind of fruit tree that the land, whether for standards or dwarfs, be well and thoroughly prepared by plowing and stirring the soil and subsoil deeply before planting.

An excellent plan is to plow the ground in lands in the direction that will afford the best drainage, backfurrowing with a heavy plow and leaving the dead furrows where the rows of trees are to be set.

USEFUL FENCE MENDING DEVICE

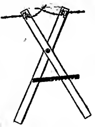
Illustration Shows Contrivance That Will Be Found Satisfactory—Made of Tough Wood.

For mending a wire fence the device illustrated herewith will be found very satisfactory. It consists of two sticks of tough wood, say 4 feet long, and bolted together at a point about two-thirds the length from the upper end, says the Orange Judd Farmer. A steel clamp at the upper end of each stick is fastened for holding the wire. In each of these a loose end of the wire to be mended is fastened, and the legs of the device are brought toward each other until the ratchet on one leg engages with a pin on the other. Then the wire is spliced and the device released by loosening the ratchet and the clamps.



Wire Fence Mender.

SECRET OF GOOD VEGETABLE PLOT

Success May Be Insured by Providing Abundance of Plant Food in Readily Available Form.

(By M. W. KELLY.)

The one great secret of having success with the family vegetable garden is to provide an abundance of plant food in a readily available form. Stable or barnyard manure are the best fertilizers at all times. Commercial plant foods are excellent in their places, especially when it is desired to force some of the early varieties of vegetables, but their use requires that the soil be in a high state of tilth and that the gardener have an expert knowledge of their uses and functions.

To properly prepare a garden I believe in plowing under a heavy application of manure in the fall and then in the spring harrowing in another heavy coat of well rotted manure. After putting on what we think is enough we double the amount and the chances are we will have it about right.

Constant cultivation should be the rule, for this will keep the soil in an ideal condition, physically, for the roots to grow in, beside keeping the weeds in check. Cultivate early and persistently and keep the weeds in check. Allowing the weed seeds to germinate and quickly destroying them early in the season will save a large amount of work during the summer. Eliminate all of the old-fashioned beds and plant everything in long rows so that most of the cultivation can be done with a horse. There need not be an unpleasant amount of hand work if properly worked with a horse and cultivator. Leave plenty of room at the ends for turning around with the horse while cultivating.

Bad Milk Kills Many.

Dr. W. A. Evans of Chicago says that a few persons are being killed each year by bad meat, but that many thousands are being killed annually by bad milk.

CRITICAL TIME OF WOMAN'S LIFE

From 40 to 50 Years of Age. How It May Be Passed in Safety.

Odd, Va.:—"I am enjoying better health than I have for 20 years, and I believe I can safely say now that I am a well woman. I was reared on a farm and had all kinds of heavy work to do which caused the troubles that came on me later. For five years during the Change of Life I was not able to lift a pail of water. I had hemorrhages which would last for weeks and I was not able to sit up in bed. I suffered a great deal with my back and was so nervous I could scarcely sleep at night, and I did not do any housework for three years.

"Now I can do as much work as any women of my age in the county, thanks to the benefit I have received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I recommend your remedies to all suffering women."—Mrs. MARTHA L. HOLLOWAY, Odd, Va.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. We know of no other medicine which has such a record of success as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For more than 30 years it has been the standard remedy for woman's ills.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Prevents hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

PISO'S REMEDY
25 CTS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by Druggists.
FOR COUGHS AND COLDS

Some men haven't sense enough to stop borrowing before they strike oil.

There is no excuse for the dyspeptic, with Garfield Tea accessible at every drugstore.

There's room at the top because somebody is always coming down.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle.

Keep your troubles to yourself and they will not expand.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY
Take LAXATIVE BROMO Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box. 25c.

Nothing disappoints some women more than to not be disappointed in a new neighbor.

W. & H. WALKER, PITTSBURGH, Pa., are issuing a fine 224-page Book No. 15A showing how a million families are getting $2.00 worth of foods, soaps, clothing, furniture, etc., for $1.00. Over thirty-five hundred articles. Write for free copy today.

Spendthrift.

Uncle Ebis—Do you think the money young Eph Hoskins made down in New York will last him long?

Uncle Eben—You bet it won't! He's going at an awful pace. I was down in the general store last night, and young Eph was writing $100 checks and lighting his cigars with them.—Puck.

AFTER NEWS.

Madame Know-All Fortune Teller Tells From Russia

The Medium—Ah, beautiful lady, you have come to find your future husband, is it not so?

The Lady—Not much; I've come to find where my present husband is when he's absent.

NO WORDS WASTED
A Swift Transformation Briefly Described.

About food, the following brief but emphatic letter from a Georgia woman goes straight to the point and is convincing.

"My frequent attacks of indigestion and palpitation of the heart culminated in a sudden and desperate illness, from which I arose enfeebled in mind and body. The doctor advised me to live on cereals, but none of them agreed with me until I tried Grape-Nuts food and Postum.

"The more I used of them the more I felt convinced that they were just what I needed, and in a short time they made a different woman of me. My stomach and heart troubles disappeared as if by magic, and my mind was restored and is as clear as it ever was.

"I gained flesh and strength so rapidly that my friends were astonished. Postum and Grape-Nuts have benefited me so greatly that I am glad to bear this testimony." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

---

The GIRL from His Town

by Marie Van Vorst

ILLUSTRATIONS by M. G. KETTNER

COPYRIGHT 1910 by The Bobbs-Merrill Company

SYNOPSIS.

Dan Blair, the 22-year-old son of the fifty-million-dollar copper king of Blairtown, Mont., is a guest at the English home of Lady Galorey. Dan's father had been courteous to Lord Galorey during his visit to the United States and the courtesy is now being returned to the young man. The youth has an ideal girl in his mind. He meets Lily, Duchess of Breakwater, a beautiful widow, who is attracted by his immense fortune and takes a liking to her. When Dan was a boy, a girl sang a solo at a church, and he had never forgotten her. The Galoreys, Lily and Dan attend a London theater where one Letty Lane is the star. Dan recognizes her as the girl from his town, and going behind the scenes introduces himself and she remembers him. He learns that Prince Poniatowsky is suitor and escort to Letty. Lord Galorey and a friend named Ruggles determine to protect the westerner from Lily and other fortune hunters. Young Blair goes to see Lily; he can talk of nothing but Letty and this angers the Duchess. The westerner finds Letty ill from hard work but she recovers.

CHAPTER X.—Continued.

Dan altered his indolent pose and sat forward. "But I am thinking of getting married," he said.

"I hope it's to the right girl, Dan."

And with young assurance Blair answered: "It will be if I marry her. I know what I want all right."

"I hope she knows what she wants, Dan."

"How do you mean?"

"You or your money. You have the darnedest handicap, my boy."

Blair flushed. "I'll get to hate the whole thing," he said ferociously. "It meets me everywhere—bonds—stocks—figures—dividends—coupons—deeds—it's too much!" he said suddenly, with resentment. "It's too much for me. Why, sometimes I feel a hundred years old, and like a hunk of gold."

Ruggles, in answer to this, said: "Why, that reminds me of what a man remarked about your father once. It was the same English chap your father bought the claim of. Speaking of Blair, he said to me: 'You know there's all kinds of metal bars, and when you cut into them some is bullion and some's coated with aluminum, and there's others that when you cut down, cut a clean yellow all along the line.' If, as you say, you feel like a hunk of metal, it ain't bad if it is that kind."

"It's got to stop coming in between me and the woman I marry, all right, though." Dan did not pursue his subject further, for his feelings about the duchess were too unreal to give him the sincere heartiness with which he would have liked to answer Ruggles.

He went over to the window, and with his hands in his pockets, stood looking out at the fog. Ruggles, at the table, opened the cover of the book of "Mandalay" and took out the four checks made out to Lady Galorey and which he had forgotten. He hurriedly thrust them into his pocket.

"Come away, Donnie," he said cheerfully, "let's do something wild. I feel up to do most anything with this miserable fog down on me. If it had any nerve it would take some form or shape, so a man could choke it back."

Ruggles blew his nose violently.

"There's nothing to do," said Dan in a bored tone.

"Why don't you see who your telegram is from?" Ruggles asked. It proved to be a suggestion from Gordon Galorey that Dan should meet him at five o'clock at the club.

"What will you do, Rug?"

"Sleep," said the Westerner sarcastically; "I'm nearly as happy in London as I am in Philadelphia. It's four o'clock now and I can't sleep more than four hours anyway. Let's have a real wild time, Dannie."

Dan looked at him doubtfully, but Ruggles' eyes were keen.

"What kind of a time do you mean?"

"Let's ask the Gaiety girl for dinner—for supper after the theater."

"Letty Lane? She wouldn't go."

"Why not?"

"She is awfully delicate; it is all she can do to keep her contracts."

He knows that, Ruggles thought. "Let's ask her and see." He went over to the table and drew out the paper. "Come on and write and ask her to go out with us to supper."

"See here, Rug, what's this for?"

"What's strange in it? She is from our state, and if you don't hustle and ask her I am going to ask her all alone."

Dan was puzzled as he sat down to the table, reflecting that it was perfectly possible that old Ruggles had fallen a prey to the charms of an actress. She wouldn't come, of course. He wrote a formal invitation without thinking very much of what he said or how, folded and addressed his note.

"What did you say?" Ruggles asked eagerly.

"Why, that two boys from home wanted to give her a supper."

"Well," said Ruggles, "if the answer comes while you are at the club I'll open it and give the orders. Think she'll come?"

"I do not," responded Dan rather brutally. "She's got others to take her out to supper, you bet your life."

"Well, there's some of them as rich as you are, I reckon, Dan."

And the boy turned on him violently.

"See here, Josh, if you speak to me again, of my money, when there's a woman in the question—"

He did not finish his threat, but snatched up his coat and hat and gloves and went out of the door, slamming it after him.

Mr. Ruggles' profound and happy snore was cut short by the page boy, who fetched in a note, with the Savoy stamping on the back. Ruggles opened it not without emotion.

"Dear boy," it said, "I haven't yet thanked you for the primroses; they were perfectly sweet. There is not one of them in any of my rooms, and I'll tell you why tonight. I am crazy to accept for supper"—here she had evidently struck out her intended refusal, and closed with, "I'm coming, but don't come after me at the Gaiety, please. I'll meet you at the Carlton after the theater. Who's the other boy? L. L."

The "other boy" read the note with much difficulty, for it was badly written. "He'll have to stop sending her flowers and going every night to the theater unless he wants a row with the duchess," he said dryly. And with a certain interest in his role, Ruggles rang for the head waiter, and with the man's help ordered his first midnight supper for an actress.

CHAPTER XI.

Ruggles Gives a Dinner.

The bright tide of worldly London flows after and around midnight into the various restaurants and supper rooms, and as well through the corridors and halls of the Carlton. At one of the small tables, bearing a great expensive bunch of orchids and soft ferns, Josh Ruggles, in a new evening dress, sat waiting for his party. Dan had dined with Lord Galorey, and the two men had gone out together afterward, and Ruggles had not seen the boy to give him Letty Lane's note.

"Got it with you?" Blair asked when he came in, and Ruggles responded that he didn't carry love letters around in his dress clothes.

They could tell by the interest in the room when the actress was coming, and both men rose as Letty Lane floated in at flood tide with a crowd of last arrivals.

She was not dressed this evening with the intention that her dark simplicity of attire should be conspicuous. The cloak which Dan took from her shed the perfume of orris and revealed the woman in a blaze of sparkling paillettes. She seemed made out of sparkle, and her blond head, from which a bright ornament shook, was the most brilliant thing about her, though her dress from hem to throat glistened with discs of gold like moonshine on a starry sea. The actress' look of surprise when she saw Ruggles indicated that she had not expected a boy of his age.

"The other boy?" she asked. "Well, this is the nicest supper party ever! And you are awfully good to invite me."

Ruggles patted his shirt front and adjusted his cravat.

"My idea," he told her, "all the blame on me, Miss Lane. Charge it all to me. Dan here had cold feet from the first. He said you wouldn't come."

She laughed deliciously.

"He did? Hasn't much faith, has he?"

Miss Lane drew her long gloves off, touched the orchids with her little hands, on which the ever present rings flashed, and went on talking to Ruggles, to whom she seemed to want to address her conversation.

"I'm simply crazy over these flowers."

The older man showed his pleasure. "My choice again! Waked up myself and chose the bunch, blame me again, ditto dinner; mine from start to finish—hope you'll like it. I would have added some Montana peas and some chocolate soda water, only I thought you might not understand the joke."

Miss Lane beamed on him. Although he was unconscious of it, she was not fully at ease; he was not the kind of man she had expected to see. Accustomed to young fellows like the boy and their mad devotion, accustomed to men with whom she could be herself, the big, bluff, middle-aged gentleman with his painfully correct tie, his rumpled iron-gray hair and his deference to her, though an unusual diversion, was a little embarrassing.

"Oh, I know your dinner is ripping, Mr. Ruggles. I'm on a diet of milk and eggs myself, and I expect your order didn't take in those." But at his fallen countenance she hurried to say "Oh, I wouldn't have told you that if I hadn't been intending to break through."

And with childlike anticipation she clapped her hands and said: "We're going to have lots of fun! Just think, they don't know what that means here in London. They say 'heaps of sport, you know.'" She imitated the accent maliciously. "It's just we Americans who know what lots of fun is, isn't it?"

Near her Dan Blair's young eyes were drinking in the spectacle of delicate beauty beautifully gowned, of soft skin, glorious hair, and he gazed like a child at a pantomime. Under his breath he exclaimed now, with effusion, "You bet your life we are going to have lots of fun!" And turning to him, Miss Lane said:

"Six chocolate sodas running?"

"Oh, don't," he begged, "not that kind of jag."

She shook with laughter.

"Are you from Blairtown, Mr. Ruggles? I don't think I ever saw you there."

And the Westerner returned, "Well, from what Dan tells me, you're not much of a fixture yourself, Miss Lane. You were just about born and then kidnaped."

Her gay expression faded. And she repeated his word, "Kidnaped? That's a good word for it, Mr. Ruggles."

She picked up between her fingers a strand of the green fern, and looked at its delicate tracery as it lay on the palm of her hand.

"I sang one day after a missionary sermon in the Presbyterian Church." She interrupted herself with a short laugh. "But I guess you're not thinking of writing my biography, are you?"

And it was Dan's voice that urged her. "Say, do go on. I was there that day with my father, and you sang simply out of sight."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

"But I Am Thinking of Getting Married."

U. S. Mail Held Up by Bear

Mother With Two Cubs Stopped a Rural Delivery Man and Gave Him a Lively Fight.

A mother bear with a Bat Nelson battle gleam in her eye and an Ad Wolgast fighting crouch and her two little cubs held up Uncle Sam's mail in the road between Sandy and Marmot and gave G. M. Bailey, rural mail carrier on the route, the time of his life when he accepted her challenge Saturday afternoon.

Bailey was driving leisurely along toward Sandy in his mail wagon behind his two sturdy horses when the bear popped into sight as he rounded a curve. She was standing on her haunches in the middle of the road in a distinctly belligerent attitude, her cubs frisking about her. Bailey was so surprised that he pulled up his horses and waited for developments.

He didn't have to wait very long. With a growl and a flourish of her forepaws the bear made for the mail carrier, the cubs waddling along after her on all fours. Bailey's horses snorted in terror at this unexpected move by Mother Bruin and whirled about in the road so sharply that the wagon was upset and mail and mail carrier spilled out in the dust.

As Bailey picked himself up he pulled his automatic revolver out of his pocket and fired at the bear, which was almost on him. The bullet went true, and she rolled over in the road, snarling and clawing. She seemed to have enough of battle, for the next minute she picked herself up and scampered off into the woods with the cubs, leaving a trail of blood behind her.

As soon as the shaken Bailey could collect himself he caught his horses, which had stopped after running a short distance down the road, and with the aid of a party of autoists that came along soon after he righted his wagon and hitched up.—Morning Oregonian.

"WILD BILL" DONOVAN MADE ATKINS QUAKE

Pitcher Donovan of Detroit.

Harry Davis isn't worried any more about the Detroit club than about six others which have pennant aspirations, says Tom Terrell in the Cleveland Leader. Also Davis isn't worried any more about the secrets which will be whispered by "Jim" McGuire than he is about his salary for 1912.

There will be some reasons for fire between the Tigers and the Naps this year. The reasons are twofold—Davis and Livingstone. The Tigers love the Athletics like the ordinary creature loves a snake. Harry and Paddy are not the least among the unloved ones.

No Detroit-Athletic game in recent years was devoid of dessert in the matter of choice repartee. Paddy Livingstone rehearsed one of the games a couple of years ago to recall an amusing incident. "Bill" Donovan was pitching. When it comes to the art of displaying one's oratorical powers in choice language "Bill" hits 400.

Most players steer clear of "Bill." "Tommy" Atkins, the Painesville high school wonder, was with the Athletics at that time. He was sent to the coaching lines to roast "Bill." "Tommy" did. When the Athletics started to go to the field at the close of the inning and the Tigers went to bat, Atkins started for the bench with Donovan following him. "Bill" didn't stop until he reached the bench. Leaning over and sticking one finger dangerously close to Atkins' face, "Bill" gurgled:

"Say, you little shriveled up shrimp, if I ever hear you chirp again I'll sprinkle your beak all over your phiz."

Atkins was considerably nervous. "I didn't mean to hurt your feeling," he sputtered as "Bill" walked away. Then turning to his teammates, as "Bill" was beyond speaking distance, Atkins whided, "You're a fine bunch of guys. I thought you'd stand by me."

CAPT. DOYLE IS BRIGHT STAR

Second Baseman of New York Giants Was "Discovered" While Playing in Kitty League.

Frank Belt, who recently resigned the management of the Keokuk club of the Central association, and announced he had retired from baseball after 22 years of service in the game, was responsible for Capt. Larry Doyle of the National league champions becoming one of baseball's bright stars. Doyle branched out as a professional at Mattoon in the Kitty league in 1905. Mattoon was in need of a pitcher, and appealed to President Dick Kinsella of the Springfield (Three-Eye) league team for aid. Kinsella has since become a Giant scout and picked up several promising players for McGraw.

Kinsella saw a chance to make a bargain when Mattoon hoisted the distress sign and struck one. "I'll let you have a pitcher for the pick of your team at the end of the season," Kinsella told the Mattoon people. His offer was accepted, and Pitcher Jokerst was sent to the Kitty league team by Springfield.

Doyle didn't do well with Mattoon that season. Kinsella had not even considered him in deciding what player to pick. He had almost made up his mind to take a veteran pitcher who he thought could give Springfield at least one season's good work, when he ran into Belt one day. Belt was managing the Jacksonville team of the Kitty league at that time.

Kinsella explained his deal with Mattoon to Belt, and asked his opinion in regard to selecting a player.

"Have you seen Doyle play?" queried Belt.

"No," answered Kinsella.

"Well, don't pick anyone until you do, and then pick him. He's the coming ball player of that club. He hasn't looked good in the box scores, but he's 'thoro' any way you take him. He'll bring you more money inside of a year than you ever got for a player."

Kinsella followed Belt's advice and picked Laughing Larry. Before the next season was half gone the Giants paid $4,500 for Doyle, a record price at that time.

After Springfield had secured Doyle the Kitty league lost all nine of its lives and Pitcher Jokerst returned to Kinsella. As things turned out, Kinsella got $4,500 without a cent of investment, and the clip which Doyle has traveled with the Giants was instrumental in landing him on the Giant pay roll as a scout.

"Laughing" Larry Doyle.

Ball Parks Will Seat 110,000

When the new Polo grounds and Farrell field in New York city and Ebbetts field, in Brooklyn, are completed they will have a seating capacity of 110,000, which will accommodate all those that care to see baseball games in greater New York.

AROUND THE BASES

Baltimore has sold Outfielder Noah Henline to Troy.

York, Pa., has given former Manager Curt Weigand his unconditional release.

The veteran Guy Sample, last year with Dayton, may play with Wheeling this year.

Claude Ritchie is said to have asked Manager Hemphill at Atlanta to give him a trial.

Mobile has sold Outfielder Warren Miller to Albany, N. Y.

Newark may trade Frank Swayne to a New York State league club and Sommerlot may go to the same circuit.

Memphis has given Ernest Courtney his unconditional release. This leaves Abstein and Miller the first base candidates.

The Albany club of the New York State league has bought Catcher Mattison from the Bay City club of the South Michigan league.

The University of Chicago may cut out intercollegiate baseball this year. Pretty soon it won't be worth while for an athlete to go to college.

The way to get a reputation for goodness is to be good.

For constipation use a natural remedy. Garfield Tea is composed of carefully selected herbs only.

Many a man with one foot in the grave does enough kicking with the other to make up for it.

Mosses's Croup Remedy has no rival in the cure of Croup. It strikes at the root of the disease. No opium—no alcohol.

Memories.

My lad, I was a newsboy once.

Aw, what cha tryin' to do—git me downhearted?

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules. Easy to take as candy.

The Way to Win.

Bronson—What's the best way to make love to a girl?

Dawson—The worst way possible. Then she'll think you mean it.—Puck.

Relieves and Rests Teething Babies.
Mrs. Insten Gary, Toledo, Ohio, writes that she has given Kopp's Baby's Friend to her babies when teething finds it gives them rest without making them sleep. Invaluable to mothers. Three sizes, 10c, 25c and 50c, at Druggists or sent direct by Kopp's Baby's Friend Co., York, Pa. Sample by mail on request.

Frame-Up.

One day Freddie and his sister sneaked surreptitiously into the pantry on a foraging expedition. The only good things to eat they could find were some cookies and a bowl of whipped cream.

"Let's take the cookies," said his sister.

"I'd rather have the cookies myself," replied Freddie, "but if we took them we'd be sure to get caught. The only safe thing to do is to take the cream and then shut the cat up in the pantry."

HANDS BURNED LIKE FIRE

"I can truthfully say Cuticura Remedies have cured me of four long years of eczema. About four years ago I noticed some little pimples coming on my little finger, and not giving it any attention, it soon became worse and spread all over my hands. If I would have them in water for a long time, they would burn like fire and large cracks would come. I could lay a pin in them. After using all the salves I could think of, I went to three different doctors, but all did me no good. The only relief I got was scratching.

"So after hearing so much about the wonderful Cuticura Remedies, I purchased one complete set, and after using them three days my hands were much better. Today my hands are entirely well, one set being all I used." (Signed) Miss Etta Narber, R. F. D. 2, Spring Lake, Mich., Sept. 26, 1910.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

Possibly Willing to Assist at It.

At a little party John T. McCutcheon consented to do a little impromptu chalk talking, with the presidential possibilities for his subject. McCutcheon had made several hits. One of the party, chuckling, leaned over to another, a Democrat. "Pretty good, isn't it?" he asked. "What do you think of his execution?"

"I think it would be a darned good thing," replied the Democrat.

Important to Mothers
Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher
In Use For Over 30 Years.
Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

The Result.

Mrs. Howard—Did you give Johnny an unbreakable toy?

Mrs. Barker—Yes, but the trouble is that he has broken everything else with it.—Harper's Bazar.

Instead of liquid antiseptics, tablets and peroxide, for toilet and medicinal uses, many people prefer Paxtine, which is cheaper and better. At druggists, 25c a box or sent postpaid on receipt of price by The Paxton Toilet Co., Boston, Mass.

He Shut the Shutter.

"Willie, didn't I tell you to shut that shutter?" said Mrs. Boggs.

"The shutter's shut," replied Willie, "and I can't shut it any shutter."

224 PAGE MERCHANDISE Book No. 15A free showing over three thousand articles of clothing, furniture, etc., given free with orders for choice of over five hundred daily household necessities. W. & H. Walker, Pittsburg, Pa.

Regrets for the mistakes of our youth doesn't always prevent us from making them in our old age.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS
Your druggist will refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

You are only what you are when no one is looking.

Constipation can be cured without drugs. Nature's own remedy is Garfield Tea.

It's difficult to discourage a girl who can't sing.

Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for woman's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

Relieves Backache Instantly

Sloan's Liniment is a great remedy for backache. It penetrates and relieves the pain instantly—no rubbing necessary—just lay it on lightly.

Here's Proof.
"I had my back hurt in the Boer War and in San Francisco two years ago I was hit by a street car in the same place. I tried all kinds of dope without success. Two weeks ago I saw your liniment in a drug store and got a bottle to try. The first application caused instant relief, and now except for a little stiffness, I am almost well." FLETCHER NORMAN, Whittier, Calif.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT
is the best remedy for rheumatism, neuralgia, sore throat and sprains.

Miss E. Rim of Brooklyn, N.Y., writes: "Sloan's Liniment is the best for rheumatism. I have used six bottles of it and it is grand."

Sold by all Dealers. Price, 25c., 50c., and $1.00.

Sloan's Book on Horses, Cattle, Hogs and Poultry sent free. Address Dr. Earl S. Sloan, Boston, Mass.

Constipation Vanishes Forever
Prompt Relief—Permanent Cure
CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS never fail. Purely vegetable — act surely but gently on the liver. Stop after dinner distress—cure indigestion, improve the complexion, brighten the eyes. SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE.
Genuine must bear Signature
Brent Good

KOW-KURE
MAKES COWS PROLIFIC
Don't sell your barren cow to the butcher. Kow Kure, the great cow remedy, will make her productive and prolific. Kow Kure is a medicine for cows only—a positive cure for ABORTION, SCOURS, MILK FEVER, LOST APPETITE, and all other ailments that make cows sickly and unprofitable. Send today for free book, "More Money From Your Cows."
DAIRY ASSOCIATION CO., MFRS. Lyndonville, Vt., U. S. A.

Good and True
Safe and reliable—for regulating the bowels, stimulating the liver, toning the stomach—the world's most famous and most approved family remedy is
BEECHAM'S PILLS
Sold everywhere. In boxes 10c., 25c.

MOTHER GRAY'S SWEET POWDERS FOR CHILDREN
Relieve Feverishness, Constipation, Colds and correct disorders of the stomach and bowels. Used by Mothers for 22 years. At all Druggists, 25c. Sample mailed FREE. Address A. S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

DR. J. D. KELLOGG'S ASTHMA
Remedy for the prompt relief of Asthma and Hay Fever. Ask your druggist for it. Write for FREE SAMPLE. NORTHROP & LYMAN CO., Ltd., BUFFALO, N.Y.

THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY. No.1, No.2, No.3.
THERAPION. Used in French Hospitals with great success, cures kidney, bladder diseases, piles, chronic ulcers, skin eruptions, either sex. Send address envelope for FREE booklet to DR. LE CLERC MED. CO., HAVERSTOCK RD., HAMPSTEAD, LONDON, ENG.

Brown's Bronchial Troches
Nothing excels this for Cough Remedy. No opiates. Sample free. John I. Brown & Son, Boston, Mass.

PATENTS Watson E. Coleman, Washington, D.C. Books free. High est references. Best results.

SPERRY & HUTCHINSON
TRADING STAMP
NEW YORK CITY

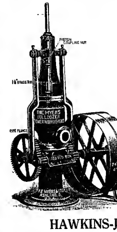
When buying

Ball Band Boots
Straight Line Rubbers
Dry Goods
Notions
Ladies' or Gents'
Furnishings
Shoes, Drugs
Patent Medicines
Graniteware, Tinware
OR
Light Hardware

You Receive Quality Goods at Reasonable Rates at

Wm. F. Wollpert's
General Store
Wickliffe, O. Cuy. Phone 4-R

ORIGINAL INTERNATIONAL EVERLASTING



PISTON COUPLING NUT
1½" BRASS ROD
PIPE FLANGE
THE MYERS BULLDOZER POWER WORKING HEAD
24" PULLEY 4" FACE
F. E. MYERS & BRO. ASHLAND, O. U. S. A.

YES
we have the SPAY PUMP

The Complete Line of MYER'S PUMPS for hoth Deep and Shallow Wells.

HAWKINS-JEPSON CO.,
THE PLUMBERS

PHONE 333-R PAINESVILLE, OHIO
Branch Store, Arlington Block, Fairport, Ohio

If you want a FLOUR that will satisfy in any kind of baking try our WHITE BEAUTY.

We have sold this brand for over fifteen years and we know it will please you.

W. M. WERNER
DRUGS, GROCERIES, CROCKERY, HOUSEFURNISHINGS

RUBBERS? RUBBERS?
Rubber over our Stock of Rubbers.
A new pair for those that go wrong.
Woonsocket---Candee
and other first class Brands at hand.
Eagle Stamps Free with every purchase
CLOTHING, DRY GOODS, SHOES, ETC.
M. HOROWITZ
WICKLIFFE, O.
Cuy. Phone 87R In Steven's Old Stand

Don't Be Deceived

When you want a SUCTION CLEANER get one that CLEANS the CORNERS and EDGES of the rooms; also Upholstered Furniture, Mattresses, Etc.

Electric machines do not depend on the speed of the operator for their power. We now have a neat, light and efficient machine which is greatly improved over the same make we sold last year.

CHARLES A. MILLER
Phone 149-R PAINESVILLE, OHIO

UNIONVILLE

Capt. Harry Lyons made a business trip to Cleveland on Wednesday.

Miss Maggie Hiller of Eagleville spent several days last week with her sister, Mrs. Ira Sweet.

Mrs. J. C. Goddard, Mrs. A. B. Cleveland, and Mrs. Brown attended the meeting of the Thimble Bee at the home of Mrs. Geo. Cowdery of Geneva, Tuesday.

Mr. J. Alexander was in Cleveland on Thursday.

Mr. Ryall of Painesville, Secretary of the Lake County Y. M. C. A., was in town on Friday.

Mr. F. W. Harper made a business trip to Wayne county last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Stroud and daughter of Euclid Beach park spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Chas. Fankhoner.

The Unionville Base Ball Club gave a very delightful concert in the Congregational church Friday evening. Warm maple sugar was served.

Rev. W. C. Detling made a business trip to Cleveland on Monday.

Miss Jennie Day attended the wedding of her cousin, Miss Bessie Day of Painesville, one day last week.

Mrs. McIntosh of Washington, D. C., is visiting her nephew, Rev. W. C. Detling.

Mrs. Kelley was an over Sunday guest of her son, Mr. Geo. Kelley.

A hunting party composed of Chas. Lewis, J. C. Goddard, E. Blanchard, and Clarence Nash, launched their boat at Clyde bridge and floated down to Painesville. They had a very delightful six hours ride and shot seventeen ducks. They left the boat in Painesville to be shipped back, and they themselves rode back on the car.

Mr. Dell Brewster has moved from Painesville to the farm which he purchased on the North Ridge.

Mr. A. M. Wright and family of Cleveland spent Sunday at their farm here.

Miss Alberta Claire, the Wyoming girl who is riding from Sheridan to Buffalo, N. Y., passed through here on Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Pamelia Truax is having the rooms in the upper story of her house plastered and finished. She expects to reside in the rooms when they are completed.

The pupils of Geneva schools are enjoying a week's vacation. There will be no vacation of Unionville schools.

Miss Mildred Morris is spending a part of her vacation with her grandparents in Perry.

Mrs. Harriet Harmon, who has spent the winter with her daughter, Mrs. E. L. Morris, has returned to her home in Ashtabula.

NORTH MADISON

Mr. Hazelett is here getting his goods ready to move to Sandusky where he has work.

Leroy Haywood is now working in the Soda Ash plant at Fairport.

Mr. George Haywood visited his daughter, Mrs. E. J. Foster, in Madison on Friday.

Miss Ina Miller was at home over Sunday.

Prof. J. R. Williams and family of Painesville, also B. D. Williams and family, were Sunday guests of their parents, E. J. Williams.

Mr. John Austin was a guest Saturday at the home of George Haywood.

Mrs. Addie Lovett arrived from Canton Tuesday and is now a guest of Mrs. Chas. Fuller at the Crocker home.

Mrs. Cora Vosey has recently visited at her uncle's, H. H. Nye on the Middle Ridge.

Mrs. Chas. Graves spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Alice Hicock.

Glenn Baker of Mentor is a guest of friends here.

Clarence Luce of Ashtabula was Tuesday at the home of G. Haywood.

Mr. Pool is the new man on Mr. Horace Tuttle's farm.

Mrs. Bnodeker is not as well of late.

Mr. James Nolan passed his 83rd birthday Wednesday. His friends gave him a party.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mericle are guests of her parents for a few days.

The friends of Mrs. O. C. Baker will be sorry to hear of her quite serious accident, which confines her to her bed. She went down town to see the doctor and when one foot was on the elevator it started. The men in charge were changing places and one of them accidentally hit the lever and started the elevator, raising her up and dropping her so she fell about ten feet below, landing on a sheet iron cover over some machinery. There were no bones broken but she was bruised very badly.

I. A. Foster and family were Saturday at their son's, O. S. Foster, who will go to their new home on Monday.

Allen Beebe and Miss Ruth Mericle were in Geneva Saturday.

Mrs. M. L. Haywood is a guest of friends in Cleveland for a few days.

Mrs. Johnie Main of Perry and Mrs. Vern Foster were guests Friday and Saturday of Mrs. Will Roff.

Mrs. James Thompson is sick threatened with diptheria.

Joseph Fuller from the state of Washington, arrived today where he will spend a week with relatives.

MADISON

Mrs. C. O. Warren and daughter, Mildred and Lucile, spent Tuesday in Painesville.

Mrs. M. L. Heywood spent Wednesday night with Mrs. Will Gifford, and Thursday morning went to visit friends in Cleveland.

Miss Williams, Miss Bates and Miss Tuttle, teachers of the grades in Madison, visited the Perry school Friday morning and Geneva in the afternoon.

Mrs. Bosley spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Bailey in Ashtabula.

Mr. Oscar Weldy is gaining slowly. Mrs. Weldy is now confined to the bed.

R. G. St. John and D. R. Pritchard of Cleveland spent Saturday night and Sunday in Madison.

Miss Ethel Williams spent the week end with Mrs. Harry Seifert of N. Madison.

Mrs. B. A. Emington received the sad news Saturday morning that her son-in-law, Mr. Walter Kelby, had passed away at his home in Cincinnati. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clark left Saturday evening for that place. The body was brought to Madison Monday for burial and a short service was held at the home of Mrs. Emington Monday afternoon. Mr. Kelby leaves a wife, mother and father and three sisters, to mourn the loss of a devoted husband, a kind and loving son and brother. His mother, Mrs. Kelby and sister, Mrs. Martindale of New York City, Mr. and Mrs. C. Clark of Madison, attended the funeral services held in Cincinnati Sunday, and with his wife accompanied the remains to Madison.

Mrs. Glen Balkeld of Perry attended the funeral of Mr. Kelby Monday.

Mrs. Van Valkenburg who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Barnes visited friends in Perry last week. She will leave some time next week for Buffalo.

Mrs. Alta Anderson is spending some time with her husband in Linesville.

Mrs. D. L. Phelps will leave Sunday evening for New Windsor, Colorado, to visit her son, Jay and wife.

Mrs. E. J. Foster entertained a company of little Misses Saturday afternoon, in honor of her daughter, Eleanor's sixth birthday anniversary. A dainty lunch was served. The birthday cake with its six little candles being the center of attraction. Miss Eleanor received a number of pretty gifts.

Robert Lockwood is ill and under the doctor's care.

Mr. and Mrs. Crippen will return to their home in N. Madison this week. Mr. Gale will go with them, and Mr. Ross and family will occupy the Gale home.

Claude Crocker and family will move into the Vanderlip house this week.

Mr. Averill and wife moved to Unionville today. They will occupy the Pollock house.

WILLOUGHBY
Schrem District

G. W. Leuty of Painesville was an over night guest at Evergreen Place on Wednesday of a recent week.

Mrs. W. C. Sorter is gaining slowly from a long illness.

The dwelling house of Eugene Fields' was burned to the ground on Tuesday morning last. The furnishings were nearly all burned. The house was insured for $1000.

Mrs. John Bornemann spent a few days recently with Mr. and Mrs. John Laube of Solon. Mr. and Mrs. Laube are the possessors of a little son.

We understand the Geller family have moved to Sandusky, and a family from the Crowell place have moved into the house vacated by the Gellers.

Mrs. Alvin Garnett was taken to the Eddy Road hospital in Cleveland on Sunday, a week ago.

The pupils of the primary room resumed their studies again this week, but the grammar pupils have another week's vacation, on account of their teacher being sick with the grip at her home in Hambden.

Model for All Fathers.

The Suitor (rather diffidently)—Mr. Carrington, I have come to ask you if—to say, that is, that I—

Mr. Carrington (beaming)—That you want to marry Ethel, is that it? Take her, my boy, and be happy. She's a good girl, and I'm glad to see that she's going to get a good man. I've known how things were with you and Ethel, my boy, and I've been waiting to congratulate you both.

The Suitor—You know, of course, Mr. Carrington, that I am not a wealthy man, that in fact, I cannot support Ethel in the style to which she has been accustomed. I can give her a good home and we won't starve, but we'll be pretty poor.

Mr. Carrington—Don't let that worry you, Albert. If I'm any judge of man you'll be a lot better off than I am when you're my age, and it's a mighty good thing for a young couple to go through the years of struggle together. I was poor when I married Ethel's mother and we had a lot of fun out of being poor. Shake, Albert, and have a cigar.

Couldn't Use It.

Agent (to sour-faced but rich old lady)—Madam, I am soliciting funds to start a benevolent enterprise for the poor blacks of Africa, and I thought—

Sour-Faced Lady—I can't give you money, sir; I have been swindled too often. All I can do is to lend my countenance to the scheme.

Agent (sadly)—That would simply ruin it.—Tit-Bits.

"Rag-Time" a Mixture.

The origin of "rag-time" is traced directly to the American negroes, yet the rhythmic peculiarities of "rag-time" are also characteristic of Indian music.

Never Straight.

The cocoanut palm has one peculiarity. It never stands upright. There is a Malay maxim to the effect that "He who hath seen a straight cocoanut palm will surely live forever."

CATCHING UP WITH COL. ROOSEVELT

Taft Trying to Have Supreme Court Decision Recalled.

CHIEF JUSTICE WITH HIM

Mimeograph Case Gives Special Point to Columbus Speech—Administration Wants Congress to Overthrow Court's Action.

On February 21 Colonel Roosevelt delivered before the constitutional convention of Ohio an oration on "A Charter of Democracy," in which he denounced the doctrine of the infallibility of the courts as a grave danger menacing American institutions, and advocated a simplified method for the recall of court decisions by the people. At once he was assailed by the representatives of Big Business and of Monopoly as an advocate of virtual anarchy and a living threat against the safety of property.

Of course, at the time he was speaking more particularly of state courts, but in less than three weeks—on March 11, to be exact—the Supreme Court of the United States handed down a decision, coupled with the dissent of three members, including that of the chief justice, vindicating Colonel Roosevelt's attitude in every particular. The Supreme Court caught up with Roosevelt. And the severe comments drawn upon himself from the advocates of special privilege ought now, in all justice, to be passed on to the Supreme Court and especially to Chief Justice White. For if ever a human being voiced a demand for the recall of a decision of the courts, Chief Justice White did so in his dissenting opinion.

The Case in Point.

The case was that of Sidney Henry et al vs. the A. B. Dick company. The Dick company owned the patent on a rotary mimeograph. It sold one of the machines to Miss Christina B. Skou, of New York, under a stipulation that the ink, stencil paper and other supplies used with the invention must be bought from the Dick company. The Henry company sold Miss Skou ink for the mimeograph that was not Dick ink, and the Dick company sued the Henry company and Miss Skou for infringement of the patent of the mimeograph. On March 11, with only seven members of the United States Supreme Court sitting, four of them, constituting a majority, decided the case and held that when the Henry company sold the non-Dick ink to Miss Shou and she used it, this constituted an infringement of the patent.

In a dissenting opinion, in which he was joined by Justices Hughes and Lamar, Chief Justice White denounced this extraordinary opinion in the most biting language. Stating that the patent did not cover the ink in any way, he demanded that the legislative department of the government amend the law so as to make it impossible for the precedent established by the decision to be maintained; and then he cited some of the weird and ridiculous lengths to which this decision, if it were maintained, would reasonably lead.

Views of Chief Justice.

"Under this decision it is now the law," declared the chief justice, "that when a patentee sells an engine, "that has a right to bring under the patent laws all coal or electrical energy used to work the machine, or even the lubricants employed in its operation. Take a patented carpenter's plane. The power now exists to confine the carpenter buying it to the use of lumber sawed from trees grown on the land of a particular person or sawed in a particular mill. The owner of a patented cooking device can now hold the buyer to use it in connection with no other food supply than that sold by the holder of the patent. The purchaser of a patented window frame may now be compelled to use no material in his house not bought from the holder of the patent on the frame. It is now established that by putting on a sewing machine, in addition to the notice of patent required by law, a notice called a license restricting, the right is acquired as against the whole world to control the sale of all the materials used in the operation of the machine by the person who has bought it. These illustrations are not imaginary.

"The ruling now made is in effect that the patentee has the power by contract to extend his patent rights so as to bring within the claims of his patent things which are not embraced therein, thus virtually legislating by causing the patent laws to cover subjects to which they could not reach, the result being to multiply monopolies at the will of an interested party."

The decision caused a laugh of derision throughout the national capital. The advocates of the doctrine of the infallibility of the courts were overcome with chagrin, while the supporters of Colonel Roosevelt inquired with sarcastic emphasis whether the people at the polls, so frequently denounced as a "mob" by the advocates of special privilege, could ever do anything worse.

Applying the Recall.

In the meantime, the attorney general and other administration opponents of Colonel Roosevelt fluttered about in flabbergasted haste to find some speedy way to recall the opinion; for if sustained this opinion will take the life out of some of the most spectacular trust busting suits the administration has in its incubator. The attorney general notified the defeated litigants that if they were game to try to secure a rehearing of the case before a full bench of the Supreme Court, the administration would be glad to lend all the assistance of which the Department of Justice was capable. At the same time the attorney general commenced the preparation of a bill for the amendment of the patent law, with the intention of setting congress loose at the Supreme Court. Other steps for the recall of the decision were inaugurated by the [illegible]

While this was going on in the executive end of the government, the scene on Capitol Hill was equally lively. Apparently every legislator in congress wanted a copy of the decision; some for the purpose of enjoying themselves and others to study it in the search for a way to recall it. The supply of copies was only normal and was soon exhausted, but the demand was so insistent that the court officials bowed to popular clamor, at the risk of being charged with having been swayed by the mob, and had an additional supply printed.

This is the second piece of sensational legislation perpetrated by the United States Supreme Court within a few months, but this later instance could not better serve as an endorsement of Colonel Roosevelt's plea for the recall of court decisions if it had been made to order for that purpose. The Supreme Court has indeed caught up with Colonel Roosevelt.

Longevity Calculations.

According to Buffon, the life of man "can" last six times as long as it takes him to become fully developed; according to Bacon and Hufland, eight times as long. Now, since man is not considered in the anatomical sense completely mature before the twenty-fifth year of age, his life, according to the last named two authorities, "could" last 200 years. But, as a matter of fact, outside the Bible, there is no record whatever of such long lives. Among the extraordinary cases of longevity on record and well attested is that of the Englishman, Thomas Parr, who lived happily at Shropshire to the age of 152 years. The celebrated Harvey, who dissected him after death, found his body in excellent condition, and stated that had it not been for his intemperance he might have lived much longer. A census taken under Emperor Vespasian showed in the relatively small territory of Italy alone 80 persons over 100 years old, and among these are two had reached the age of 140. The census of the United States for 1900 shows 3,981 centenarians, and that for 1810 3,504 (males 1,271, females, 2,233). These figures have only a dubious value, and merely because the vanity of some old people causes them to claim their age, much higher than it really is, but for the fact that the majority of these centenarians are ignorant persons (2,533 negroes, 111 Indians and three Mongolians), whose statements as to their ages cannot be relied upon.—Christian Herald.

Some Uses for Hate.

Hate is only a passing emotion—something upon which little people cut eye teeth. We get a certain amount of diversion out of it and some salutary lessons. It is probably a friend in disguise and keeps us from wasting time and from spending forces where they are not needed. And when hate is dead what a comfortable feeling comes in its place.

Two Leading Japanese Industries.

Nearly a million and a half families in Japan devote all or part of their time to silk culture. A million persons are exclusively engaged in fisheries, while another million and a half combine fishing with some other occupations.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed bids will be received at the office of the Board of Park Commissioners of Painesville Township at .............. Painesville, Ohio, until noon on April 4, 1912, for constructing a Bath House and Pavilion at Painesville Park at the north end of Hardy Road on the lake shore.

Plans and specifications are on file and blank proposals may be obtained at the office of the Board or from Ettechcomb and Boddy, Engineers, 827 B. of L. E. Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

Proposals must be made on blanks furnished by the Board and each bid must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars, payable to the Board of Park Commissioners of Painesville Tp. as a surety that if the proposal be accepted a contract will be entered into.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

The Board of Park Commissioners,
By R. S. BELKNAP, Sec'y.

RUBBER GOODS
John S. Lockwood

Spring Has Come
SO THE CALENDAR SAYS
We Have All the Modern House-cleaning Appliances:
Washing Machines--Hand, Water and Electric Power; Wringers
Curtain Stretchers, Chemical Dust Mops
Dusters and Broom Covers
Step-Ladders, Muresco, Paints, Oils, Etc.
The Doolittle Bros. Company
RELIABLE HARDWARE

A. A. CALLENDER
ALL KINDS OF
Light and Heavy Draying
FURNITURE AND PIANO MOVING A SPECIALTY
[illegible]

MEN!
The New Spring Shoes are now in

We are featuring this year the famous HALSTON Shoes for men. These Shoes are right in every respect—in Quality, Price, Service and Style. The Shoes are made on foot moulded forms.

HALSTON range in price from $4.00 to $5.00. Somewhere among our Spring Models you'll find your style of Shoe.

The Up-to-Date
Painesville's Leading Department Store

Farmer's Column

FOR RENT on shares. Fine farm, 36 acres, tools, stock, etc. The F. P. Miller farm, ½ mile west North Madison, North Ridge. Must secure man by April 1st as my tenant has bought a farm and is going away. Party must furnish one horse and reference. Inquire Dr. J. R. Bell, dentist, 1414 New England Bldg., Cleveland, O.

FOR SALE—My services as auctioneer, at very reasonable terms. Roy Harrison, Painesville. Home phone 352J2.

FARMS WANTED—Large and small, either for sale or exchange for City property. We sell quick if your price is right. Joseph Sedivy & Son, 3379 E. 49th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

FOR SALE or Exchange for farm a store property with living rooms. Madison, Ohio, Lock Box 351, Madison, Ohio.

FARM HELP—We have a number of applications from good farm hands for employment on farms. Address, Joseph Sedivy & Son, 3379 E. 49th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

FOR RENT—Fine suite of 5 rooms for housekeeping. Steam heat. R. N. Whitcomb, Mentor, Ohio.

1000 Chestnut fence posts for sale at 8c each. F. L. McConnell, R. F. D. No. 3, Painesville.

FOR SALE—Stove wood, seasoned hickory. Home phone 307L8, Painesville, Ohio.

FOR SALE—Farm suitable for stock or dairy farming, plenty of water and well timbered. Enquire of E. P. Brown, Painesville, R. F. D. 8.

FOR SALE—Fresh young Jersey cow and calf, $60.00, or exchange for young cattle. F. L. McConnell, R. F. D. No. 8, Concord.

NOTICE—A small ad. in this column costs little, but brings quick results. Try it.

---

The Lake County Weekly Herald

Volume XIV. No. 4 PAINESVILLE, OHIO, APRIL 4, 1912 One Dollar Per Year

Governor Harmon's Treachery To the People's Cause

(From the Columbus Citizen.)

"We favor the principle of the initiative and referendum."

That was one of the vital planks in the platform of the Democratic convention which nominated Judson Harmon for governor in 1910.

Upon that platform Harmon made his campaign and asked for the votes of the people of Ohio, pledging himself to make every human effort to carry out the pledge of the party.

The people believed in his honesty and sincerity of purpose and re-elected him governor by over 100,000 plurality.

The initiative and referendum principle was then, as now, the most vital issue before the people of the state.

It offered THEN, as it does NOW, the only possible opportunity for the people to take back into their own hands the machinery of government STOLEN FROM THEM BY PRIVILEGE.

The initiative and referendum plank, above quoted, was put in the Democratic platform in response to a public sentiment that was almost if not quite unanimous among the rank and file of all parties in the state.

* * * * * * * * * * * * *

During the nearly year and a half since HARMON'S ELECTION ON THE INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM PLATFORM, Ohio has been stirred to its very depths in a political way.

Harmon has become an avowed candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination; Taft, an Ohioan, is a candidate for presidential renomination; delegates have been elected to a constitutional convention and that convention has been organized and is now in session, with a majority of its delegates holding their seats BECAUSE THEY EITHER DIRECTLY OR INDIRECTLY PLEDGED THEMSELVES TO INCORPORATE IN THE NEW CONSTITUTION A WORKABLE INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM SECTION.

On Thursday, by invitation from the constitutional convention Governor Harmon appeared upon the floor and addressed the delegates. And then and there, this governor, this candidate for the presidency, this man who has been parading before the people of Ohio for years as a progressive who "FAVORED THE PRINCIPLE OF THE INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM," showed his true colors.

In cold blood without warning, Governor Harmon tried his best to do to death the initiative and referendum. He said in so many words that in his judgment the principle was wrong; that the people of Ohio are not capable of self-government; that on the whole, the people of Ohio have been well governed by the politicians and corporations and have no cause to demand more modern governmental machinery.

It is not our purpose at this time to dwell upon any possible effect that Harmon's TREACHERY TO THE PEOPLE'S CAUSE may have upon the delegates to the constitutional convention. We are inclined to think that no self-respecting member of that convention will permit himself to be influenced by anything that Harmon said on the subject.

But we cannot refrain from expressing the opinion that Harmon has fully justified every charge that has been made of Wall street influence in connection with his presidential aspirations.

Harmon stands before the people of Ohio and of the nation today as the one presidential candidate among the many of all parties, who by temperament, training and mental attitude would best serve in the presidential office the predatory interests as represented by Wall street.

He is chained to the past, irrevocably, unalterably.

If there is one progressive corpuscle in his entire circulatory system, he has never given evidence of the fact.

In the past 20 years, since Harmon left Cleveland's cabinet, the people of this country have made giant strides toward the goal of political and economic freedom, of real democracy (with a small d).

Harmon has stood still. HE IS DEAF to the people's demands for direct power to bring about in their own way those equalities of opportunity which are the very foundation stones of real democracy. HE IS BLIND to the signs of the times which say to all who will see that the old order passeth never to return. HE IS DUMB except to raise his voice in warning against the awful dangers to our democratic institutions if the people are permitted to take into their own hands such powerful weapons of defense against their exploiters as the initiative and referendum.

It is possible that Harmon and the men who are associated with him in control of the Democratic machine of Ohio may so manipulate things as to send a solid Harmon delegation to the Democratic national convention.

But on behalf of the hundreds of thousands of progressive Democrats of this state, The Citizen protests against such misrepresentation before the people of the nation.

There is just one way to make this protest effective, and that is for the progressive Democracy of this state to organize and to pledge their support in every district in Ohio to candidates for delegates to the Democratic national convention who will bind themselves to support a progressive for the presidential nomination—SUCH A PROGRESSIVE, FOR EXAMPLE, AS WOODROW WILSON, WHO IS HATED BY WALL STREET AS CORDIALLY AS HARMON IS LOVED BY IT.

County Democrats, Attention!

The Democratic County Committees and all democrats of Lake county who are interested in placing a Democratic County Ticket in the field and also a list of delegates to district conventions, before the coming Primary election, are called to meet at Painesville City Hall (old court house) at 2 p. m. on Saturday, April 6th for the purpose of taking such action as may be necessary.

E. A. MURPHY, Sec'y F. D. MALIN, Chm.

P. S. Wm. Gordon, of Cleveland, Democratic Candidate for Congress, will be present at this meeting.

ABOUT PEOPLE AND PLACES

Nobody loves a knocker.

—o—

The life saving station at Fairport is again open for the season.

—o—

The way the Roosevelt hat is being kicked around in the ring is a caution to reptiles.

—o—

The Socialist ticket in Milwaukee was defeated by 18000 votes by the fusion ticket at the election Tuesday.

—o—

The demonstration of Chi-Namel attracted some attention in the display window of Doolittle Bros. on Monday.

—o—

A man always gets an idea that he knows a whole lot about farming after he has finished reading a seed catalogue.

—o—

All democrats who are interested in getting up a good county ticket should be at the city hall at 2 p. m. next Saturday.

—o—

The Lake County Pomona Grange will meet with the Painesville Grange at the K. of P. hall in Painesville, Saturday, March 30, 1912. Dinner at noon.

—o—

Miss Ellen Flynn, aged 74 years, a well-known resident of this city, passed away Monday morning at the home of J. J. Sullivan, North State street.

—o—

Owing to the weather conditions prevailing at this time the new universal delivery company that expected to begin operations on April 1, has postponed the inauguration of the business until April 8.

—o—

The democrats will meet at the city hall at 2 p. m. Saturday. Attorney Wm. Gordon, democratic candidate for Congress will be present and will be pleased to meet all the democrats of Lake county.

—o—

The democrats of Lake county should put forward their best men this year for county offices, and it can be done if you will attend the preliminary meeting to be held at the city hall next Saturday at 2 p. m.

—o—

The Women's association of the Congregational church will hold an Easter market at Werner's store, Saturday, April 6, at 10 o'clock a. m. All kinds of baked goods will be on sale.

—o—

Miss Florence Malin, who has been one of the owners of the Tea Kettle has severed her connection with the tea house. The Tea Kettle which is one of the most popular establishments in this city will be run by Miss Pauline Hermon, who, with Miss Malin, started the tea rooms last summer.

—o—

A Marquette (Kan.) woman may have improved upon the poetry of the original, but she has made its sentiment of far wider range of interest:

Every time the doorbell rings,
Somebody raises the prices of things.
Makes no difference if we're rich as kings,
They gotta quit boosting the price of things.

—o—

Mrs. Clara Bryan Lawrence, daughter of Albert Bryan, president of Bryan Bill Posting company, was granted a divorce and $65,000 alimony by Judge Vickery in common pleas court in Cleveland, from Paul T. Lawrence, son of M. J. Lawrence, multi-millionaire publisher. Young Lawrence is vice president of the Lawrence Publishing company, publisher of the Ohio Farmer, Cleveland.

—o—

At the meeting of the Men's Club last Sunday the following officers were elected: E. Lee Howard, president; H. J. Lewis, first vice president, A. M. Morrison, second vice president; Frank Blackmore, treasurer, and Bond Haskell, secretary. The standing committees will be appointed this week, and then will follow the announcement of a program for some weeks into the future.

—o—

The Michigan Legislature's passage of a bill providing for a referendum on woman suffrage places Michigan with Ohio, Wisconsin, Kansas, Nevada and Oregon in bringing this question home to the voters at next November's election. The year promises to see a notable increase in the states that welcome votes for women. For in some of the six commonwealths the equal suffrage amendment to the constitution is likely to be carried.

Child Labor

[By Charlotte Perkins Gilman.]

No fledgling feeds the father bird,
No chicken feeds the hen,
No kitten mouses for the cat,
This glory is for men.
We the the wisest, strongest race,
Long may our praise be sung,
The only animal alive
That lives upon its young.

Don't be surprised if you have an attack of rheumatism this spring. Just rub the affected parts freely with Chamberlain's Liniment and it will soon disappear. Sold by all dealers.

JUDGE SMITH

Tells Great Commoner at Columbus He Never Again Would Vote Against Him.

William Jennings Bryan spoke before the Ohio Constitutional Convention, March 12, and personally to Judge H. K. Smith, ex-probate judge, of Chardon, a life long Geauga County Republican, who told the great commoner that he would never vote against him again. In it's report of Bryan's visit there, The Commoner says:

"Immediately after Bryan concluded his address the crowd, which exceeded in number the one Roosevelt attracted to the capitol, surged forward and he held a reception lasting for half an hour. Nearly every man who shook his hand made some reference to his past campaigns and the possibility of his candidacy in the near future. To all these Bryan smiled good naturedly, but the only comment he made was when Judge Smith, of Geauga County, remarked:

"'I have voted against you all my life, but I would be glad to vote for you now.'

"'I appreciate your sentiment, but hardly think it would justify me in running again,' was Bryan's answer."

A Correction

Willoughby, O., Mch. 29, 1912.

Lake Co. Herald,

Gentlemen:

Have just received and read this weeks Appeal to Reason, after which I absorbed as much as possible of Republican-Demo ideas as propounded by the Cleveland Leader. To remove the nausea it produced in my system I picked up next your yesterdays issue of the Demo-Republican Herald. To my astonishment I learned the Appeal had suspended publication. Thinking I must have been mistaken and I had not seen the this weeks Appeal I looked it up again, unless I am dreaming its date reads March 30, 1912. Also it states it is not intending to suspend even though the grafters in Washington and elsewhere persecute its Editorial Staff in prison. It also put 19,000 names on its subscription list last week. Would suggest Friend Harter you get the Appeal on your exchange list it would prevent you from publishing so many unintentional falsehoods. But few of the publications that have circulated this lie about the Appeals suspension have been honest enough to correct it. Are you?

Am mailing you under separate cover last weeks Appeal.

J. P. CURTISS

PERRY

Miss Wright of Painesville was the guest of Miss Emma Ford and Mrs. Frank Boardeley of Lane Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

The musical and literary entertainment given by the ladies of the Methodist church was a great success. Several numbers were given by the Perry orchestra. A mixed quartet rendered two numbers. Prof. Ball sang "Down by the Old Mill Stream," and Misses Bertha Child and Ethel Reade recited.

Mrs. Horace Buckles and daughter Ruth, returned Thursday from a two weeks visit with relatives in Leon.

Representatives of the Perry Acres Colony have purchased several farms on the South Ridge. Mr. Reade has sold his home and Mr. Smith's family will soon remove to Willoughby because their farm was bought. The nursery belonging to F. D. Green has also been purchased by the Perry Acres' Colony.

Mr. and Mrs. Farrell and son James moved into Mr. Brown's building, formerly the Cheese Factory.

The house vacated by the Farrells has been purchased by the Skinner family of Painesville and their furniture was brought here Thursday.

Miss Esther Wood entertained a party of young people at her home Saturday evening in honor of her cousin, Miss Howard, of Nebraska. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howard and daughter, Lea, returned to the west the fore part of the week.

Mrs. A. F. Hamley and daughter, Nettie, were shopping in Cleveland Saturday. Miss Hamley is spending the week in the city with relatives and friends.

The Perry schools are having the week for their Easter vacation. Miss Schumacher returned to her home Saturday, where she will spend vacation week.

Mrs. Brewer is spending a time with relatives in Cleveland.

Mr. Ryall's Friday evening lecture on the Philippines was both instructive and entertaining. It was sort of an answer to Cain's old query, "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" and the answer was decidedly in the affirmative.

Mr. T. U. Bailey was the guest of relatives in Perry over Sunday.

Miss Thelma McNut is spending her week's vacation in Perry with her aunt, Mrs. O. B. Tenney.

Mr. Fred Bickle and wife from Cleveland spent Saturday and Sunday with their parents in Perry.

Mr. E. Orcutt's wife died Sunday A. M. The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon in the Methodist church.

BRYAN'S CRITICISM

Nebraska Leader Says Ohio Governor is for Wall Street Interests.

William J. Bryan has given out an open letter at Lincoln, Neb., in reply to the letter given out by E. H. Moore, Gov. Harmon's campaign manager. In this Mr. Bryan announces the basis of his distrust of the Ohio executive. He denies that he has accused Harmon of being a "tool of Wall street," but says he has labeled Harmon as the Wall street choice and as a reactionary. Bryan recites that the Ohio man was a "deserter" from the democratic cause in 1896, came back into the party in 1900 "but the next year was a leader in the movement organized in Ohio and throughout the country to turn the party back to Wall street."

Harmon is accused of having sought the nomination in 1908 through influence from Wall street. That his political strength has been thrown to the reactionary side since 1908, says Mr. Bryan, is shown by his opposition to the placing of the referendum and initiative in the constitution adopted by the Ohio convention. Mr. Bryan then adds that men are convicted of murder on circumstantial evidence and that it should be ample for proof in the present instance. He asserts that Harmon has been for years attorney for corporations in which Mr. Morgan is interested.

GRAIN PRICES SOARING

Seed and Hay Highest in Many Years.

A Chillicothe paper says that prices, practically all grain, seed and hay are the highest in many years. At the present time timothy grass seed is selling at $8 per bushel, the highest price on record.

The price of clover seed ranges from $13.50 to $15 per bushel—a price said to be the highest in 23 years. Wheat advanced from 79 cents at harvest time to $1 per bushel at present, with every indication of taking a sharp advance at any time.

The winter killed wheat will bring the crop down many millions of bushels, it is alleged. Oats are 50 cents per bushel and an unusually large acreage will be sown this spring. First class timothy hay is worth $25 per ton, with the prospect of it going still higher. Mixed hay is worth $20 and clover hay brings the same figure. Straw is worth $10 per ton.

Willoughby Couple Wedded.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Penfield, Willoughby, Wednesday announced the marriage of their son, J. Arthur Penfield, and Laura E. Minor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Minor, Willoughby. The ceremony was performed in Cleveland, December 19, 1911, by Rev. E. Lee Howard of the Painesville Congregational church.

FOR SALE or exchange for house and lot in Painesville, about 10 acres with good buildings, fruit, onion ground and everything for a nice country home on Middle Ridge. One of the finest locations in Northern Ohio. Address Lock Box 851, Madison, Lake County, Ohio.

World's Progress.

First jury, 807.
Pins made, 1450.
Needles used, 1545.
Matches made, 1829.
First cast-iron, 1514.
First newspaper, 1494.
Coal used as fuel, 1834.
Surnames used in 1102.
First gold coin, B. C. 206.
Tobacco introduced, 1583.
First steam railroad, 1830.
First postage stamps, 1840.
Kerosene introduced, 1826.
Lead pencils used in 1594.
Window glass used in 604.
Electric light invented, 1874.
Iron found in America, 1815.
First insurance, marine, 533.
First American express, 1821.
First wheeled carriages, 1559.
First illuminating gas in 1792.
Latin ceased to be spoken, 580.

Death of Mrs. Orcutt

Ptomaine poison from frozen fish purchased from a peddler caused the death Sunday morning of Mrs. Margaret Boyd Orcutt, wife of E. M. Orcutt of Perry, a candidate for the office of county treasurer.

The fish held responsible for the poisoning were purchased on Tuesday and eaten Wednesday noon. Mrs. Orcutt was taken ill Wednesday evening and gradually grew worse until death came.

Mrs. Orcutt was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boyd, West Jackson street, this city, and has three sisters, Mrs. Frank Wood of Perry and the Misses Carolyn and Faonie Boyd of this city. She was 40 years of age and married Mr. Orcutt last summer.

Marriage License

Edward J. Dolan, 44, Painesville; Lillian V. Bedell, 54, Painesville.
James L. Irons, 55, Painesville; Maude C. Dowling, 26, Painesville.
George Oasbo, 32, Painesville; Anna Ostlay, 19, Mentor.
Henry Menaher, 54, Painesville; Mrs. Emma B. Brasington, 45, Painesville.
James R. Farrel, 39, Perry; Mrs. Pearl E. Brockway, 27, Madison.

Why I Want Woman Suffrage.

Part of an Article in Collier's Weekly for March 16.

By Frederick C. Howe

Long habit has made men think in terms of dollars. Long habit has made women think in terms of husbands, children, and unborn babes. Men vote the terms they think in. Women will vote the terms they think in. That is what the women did in Colorado. They voted in terms of the home.

I want a civilization in which one-half the people will vote in terms of humanity rather than in terms of property.

I want to live in a world that is free from the law-made privileges that beget the poverty from which we all suffer; free from the terror of hard times, of lost jobs, of periods of sickness and accident almost as fearful as death.

I want to live in a world where one hundred warships, costing $200,000,000, will not be proudly paraded before a city too poor to feed its hungry school children; to live in a world where the opinions of long-dead grandfathers inscribed in constitutions will be of less consequence than the mangled arms and limbs and the destitute women and children of our factory workers; where breaker boys will not be permitted in coal mines, where it will be criminal to place little children in canneries, chemical vats, glass mills, or phosphorus factories.

I want to live in a city where the daily wages of women and girls will support life; where the lost job means something other than the street or starvation. I want to live in a country where prostitution will not be the price we pay for our bargain-counter economies; in a country where the doors of the prison will open outward for those who have become tangled in the machinery of the modern industrial world.

I want to live in a world that hates these things, hates them so thoroughly that it will abolish them.

I want to live in a world that thinks of its people rather than of business, of consumers rather than producers, of users rather than makers, of tenants rather than owners; in a world where life is more important than property, and human labor more valuable than privilege.

As women are consumers, users, and tenants rather than producers, makers, and owners, I have hopes for a society in which women have and use the ballot.

I want woman suffrage because I believe women will correct many of these law-made wrongs that man has made. For women will vote in terms of human life rather than in terms of special privilege.

Men might continue to vote for the hunger taxes on all that goes on to the table. Men do not know how many dollars are taken from the weekly pay envelope because of the tariff. Woman will know. And when she learns that the price of sugar behind the tariff wall in New York is twice what it is in Hamburg and London, she will want to save her share of the $150,000,000 that experts say the tariff exacts from all of us for the benefit of the Sugar Trust and planters and beet sugar growers.

Women with babies will think more about the prohibitive cost of woolen blankets, underwear, and clothes than men do. She knows what it is to pay monopoly prices for woolen goods which turn out to be shoddy or cotton, knows the cost of sickness and industrial accidents to those she holds dearer than her life. Women will have to be shown that wages at $7 to $9 a week for a man and $3 to $6 a week for a women, with from 20 to 100 per cent dividends for stockholders of textile mills, is really protection to American labor.

Woman does not know the meaning of "bulls" and "bears," of "long" and "short," of stocks and bonds. She will not tremble when Wall Street threatens to close the banks and the factories if its privileges are disturbed. She may get hysterical over dirty streets, inadequate schools, crowded street cars, and monopoly prices, but she will not be terrorized by the scare headlines of a subsidized press.

Women read the foolish gossip of the fashion page, but they do not read the foolish gossip of the stock market page. They may vote in ignorance, but, at least, they won't think themselves wise when they merely vote the opinions of those who control the agencies for making false public opinion.

Women will have to be shown.

What Fools Most of Us Are

The dispatches convey the information that fifteen thousand women stormed and fought to gain admission to the tabernacle at Wheeling the other day when Mr. Sunday was to address a meeting "for women only." The press reports say that many were trampled under foot, some fainted and had to be carried out, one policeman had a finger bitten almost off by an infuriated female, and others were literally swept off their feet by the rushing mob. The meeting was scheduled to begin at 7 o'clock and the doors were not opened until 5, and yet as early as 3 o'clock great crowds of women were gathered about the tabernacle entrance. When the doors were thrown open they rushed madly into the building, overwhelmed the ushers and policemen and fought frantically for the best seats. It is estimated that 12,000 crowded in the building and at least 3,000 were unable to gain admittance.

And what did it all mean? Simply that a mob of women who should have been in better business, made fools of themselves to hear a man tell them a lot of things that every woman knows. But it is all so entertaining to hear it from the lips of a man. And so fifteen thousand females almost tore down the building in a mad endeavor to hear what this man had to say. And this is the twentieth century of the Christian era.

Council Meeting

At the meeting of the city council Monday night, the city engineer made a report stating that the sewer and pavement for Mentor avenue would cost nearly $40,000. As this was a higher estimate than anticipated the matter was referred to a joint meeting of the sewer and street committees.

A resolution requesting the Mayor to appoint a policeman at the Lake Shore depot was passed.

Director of Service House presented a bill for $2100 for lighting furnished to the city for public purposes.

A resolution regulating motor cycles was passed, limiting the speed of these machines to 8 and 15 miles per hour and also requiring a license of $1.00 per year.

You will look a good while before you find a better medicine for coughs and colds than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only gives relief—it cures. Try it when you have a cough or cold, and you are certain to be pleased with the prompt cure which it will effect. For sale by all dealers.

CONCORD

Schools began Monday after a two weeks vacation.

Mrs. Charles Johnson of West Mentor spent several days at A. C. Warren's last week.

Ladies Aid Society met with Miss Margaret Murray last Friday to quilt.

The Grangers had a warm sugar social at their last meeting.

Miss Florence Reade has been visiting relatives in Chardon and Painesville during vacation.

Harry Coyne, Sr., of Detroit, has been visiting relatives and friends here for the past week.

Mr. Telling moved his family from the Hodges farm to Leroy last week. He has rented the Kewish place for the coming year.

Mrs. A. C. Warren visited her cousin, Mrs. John Pierce of Chardon a couple of days last week.

David Woodford's house caught fire from a spark from the chimney and burned a large hole in the roof, last week. Quick discovery and prompt action saved the house.

Mrs. Lon Babcock has rented her farm and they have moved to Painesville.

For rheumatism you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Liniment. Try it and see how quickly it gives relief. For sale by all dealers.

LAKE COUNTY HERALD
PAINESVILLE, OHIO

TRACED BACK TO ARABIANS

Delvers in History Find Beginnings of the Church Steeple Reach Far Into the Centuries.

There is a theory which finds the spire of the New England meetinghouse in the mountain peaks of Arabia.

Tracing back the process of evolution, we come first to London, where the clean sweep of the Great Fire gave Sir Christopher Wren his opportunity to experiment in steeples; and then to Venice, where the campanile is a shining example of a tower beside a church but separate from it; and then to Alexandria, where the famous lighthouse on the isle of Pharos contributed to the religion of Mahomet both the form and the name of the minaret; and then to the "Tower of Babel" at Borsippa, and the zikkurats of the temples of Babylonia and Assyria.

A zikkurat is a huge quadrangular mass of brick, rising in diminishing stories—as a child places a big block on the floor, and puts a smaller one on it, and on that a smaller still—and ascended by a winding balustraded stair to a shrine on top.

This, according to the theory, was the ritual equivalent of a mountain.

Into the flat lands between the Tigris and Euphrates came the ancestors of the Babylonians and Assyrians out of the mountains of Arabia. There they had worshiped the storm-god, who dwelt upon the heights among the clouds, with whom they communed, like Moses, by climbing up and making their offerings and saying their prayers upon the summit.

And because there were no mountains in their new country they erected beside every temple a little mountain in the yard. Thus the zikkurat and then the minaret, and then the campanile, and then the steeple of the parish church.—Atlantic.

Why Colonel Couldn't Help.

Misfortune overtook a veteran of the Civil war who had become rich after Lee's surrender. Everything left him and he was induced to apply for a pension.

The essential facts were to be presented by the other men of his command and their signatures to his petition were easy to get.

Still, the colonel's was the most valuable, because he had gone to the rescue of the applicant in one of those life-and-death pinches alike creditable to the two.

The colonel was located on a farm near Lockport, N. Y. He received the visitor with a singular lack of interest—even of apathy. The petitioner couldn't understand it, and was impelled to recite theatrically the circumstances which had resulted in his disability.

Calling the petitioner to one side the commander of the regiment said:

"I know all that, but you can't well put my name down because confidentially, I'm applying for a pension myself—for loss of memory."

Philatelists Alarmed.

The introduction, as an experiment, of automatic machines for stamping letters by the London postoffice has excited much interest in Austria, and the chamber of commerce at Bruenn has petitioned the ministry of commerce to introduce the system into Austria. Stamp collectors, however, are alarmed, as they fear that if this method of stamping letters is universally adopted, and postage stamps consequently become obsolete, the public will no longer take an interest in old postage stamps and existing collections will lose much of their value.

What About It?

With the caution of science, the two Germans who have been so successful with cancer in mice warn the world not to conclude yet that the terrible disease is about to be controlled in humankind. Suppose, however, that the optimistic view is right and that the cure can be transferred to man, are the antivivisectionists of our proud country going to stand idly by and let cancer be conquered without a blow on their part for the mice? They have introduced another "investigation" bill in the New York legislature, to substitute their judgment and knowledge for the knowledge and judgment of our best scientific bodies, but is that enough? Summer approaches; what are these humane societies doing for the protection of the mosquitoes and the flies?—Collier's Weekly.

Fixed

"Has Dinny got a stiddy job yit, Mrs. Mulcahey?" asked Mrs. Grannigan.

"He has that," said Mrs. Mulcahey. "They've sint him to the pinitintchery for twinty years."—Harper's Weekly.

A Waiter.

Diner—Is it customary to tip the waiter in this restaurant?

Waiter—Why, ah—yes, sir.

Diner—Then hand me a tip. I've waited three-quarters of an hour for that steak I ordered.—Sacred Heart Review.

It's Nature

"The officers arrested the photographer they suspected as he was working in his dark room."

"Ha! ha! A case of arrested development."

Word of Apology.

"Republics are ungrateful," said the readymade philosopher.

"Well," replied Farmer Corntossel, "all the governments I ever read about got imposed on so often that you couldn't blame 'em for growin' sort o' cynical an' suspicious."

Natural Affinities.

"Men have one thing in common with lambs when they stop gambling on the green."

"What's that?"

"Both have a sheepish feeling."

SOCIALISTS LOSE IN MILWAUKEE

ARE DEFEATED BY FUSION CANDIDATES BY LARGEST VOTE EVER CAST IN CITY.

LA FOLLETTE IS IN THE LEAD

Senator Seems to Have Practically a Complete Delegation From Wisconsin, According to Indications.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Doctor Gerhard A. Bading, Republican, was elected mayor of Milwaukee on a fusion ticket, on which his associates were J. P. Carney and Louis M. Kotecki, for treasurer and city controller, respectively, both Democrats. This marks the downfall of Socialism by the biggest vote ever cast in any election in Milwaukee. The fusion ticket, with eight aldermen at large and a majority of the ward aldermen, is carried into office by a majority over the Socialists of over 18,000. All the aldermen like the candidates for the three city offices are divided between the Republicans and the Democrats and each is pledged to take no part in a party campaign while in office, thus marking the end of the national party as a factor in a Milwaukee election.

The issue of the campaign was largely Socialism vs the Antis, with the Stars and Stripes injected as an issue by sensational occurrences in the campaign. Saturday night the Socialists tried to break up a fusion meeting attended by 7,000 excited fusionists by walking out noisily when Congressman Carey raised an American flag. The following night, at the end of the Socialist campaign, a visiting speaker declared that Lincoln and Jefferson were not patriots and the anti-Socialist press retorted to these demonstrations by appearing with the slogan "Americanism vs Socialism." In the days of Moses, history says, that the Jews marked their gates to warn away the angel of death that visited the homes of the Egyptians. Tuesday morning the Hebrew story was duplicated in this city by the display of thousands of American flags, to label the houses where nonpartisans lived. The Socialist campaign badge was a tiny red flag and the city was inflamed by the raising of this issue.

Present indications are that Senator La Follette will have practically a complete delegation from Wisconsin and the Clark candidates were defeated as well as the Taft men. The Taft supporters hope that the complete returns will show that they have carried some of the scattering delegates on that former Governor Hoard, a candidate for delegate at large, beloved in all the rural districts, may have been victorious. In the stress of efforts of Socialists to carry many of the important cities of the state the counting of the ballots for the presidential convention delegates is being delayed. The outlook, however, is anything but favorable to Clark and Taft. Few of the counties of the state have given any decisive figure for Taft, the preliminary estimate giving him small majority in Jefferson and Kenosha counties.

CHICAGO ELECTION RESULTS

Twenty-five Democratic and Eleven Republican Aldermen Are Chosen at the Polls.

Chicago, Ill.—Twenty-five Democratic and 11 Republican aldermen were elected and bond issues with an expenditure of $5,630,000 were carried at the election held in the Windy City.

The bond issues which carried follows: $5,000,000 for outer harbor improvements, $250,000 for bathing beaches, $380,000 for a contagious disease hospital. The proposed issues which failed were $2,315,000 for new police stations and $1,814,000 for new fire engine houses.

Generally speaking the election was quiet.

KANSAS CITY IS DEMOCRATIC

Voters Register Against Continuing in Office Republican Incumbent by About 3,000

Kansas City, Mo.—Henry L. Jost, aged 31, Democrat, was elected mayor of Kansas City over Darius A. Brown, Republican incumbent, by a majority estimated at 3,500. With Mr. Jost the entire Democratic ticket outside of a few aldermen, was elected. The council stands 18 Democrats and six Republicans. Mayor Brown, who formerly was president of the League of American Municipalities, ran on a platform that favored municipal ownership of gas and electric light plants. Mr. Jost is an assistant prosecuting attorney.

Governor Osborn Is Hurt

Lansing, Mich.—Governor Osborn while out tramping alone in the woods southeast of this city slipped into a snow covered hole and fractured the bones of the instep of his left foot. In this condition he hobbled a mile and a half to a factory just inside the city limits and telephoned for assistance. He was taken to his residence.

The governor has been in the habit of tramping or riding out in the country every afternoon, but usually some of his friends have accompanied him.

Says He Loves the Devil

Springfield, Mass.—Following a grilling of the Rev. John Ellis, pastor of the Chicopee Unitarian church, Judge Charles L. Long gave Mrs. Ellis custody of their daughter. Mr. Ellis denied he was a believer in free love.

Asked if a poem he had written was not dedicated to a certain woman Mr. Ellis replied calmly: "No, to the devil." The verses ended with the statement in French, "After all I am in love with one person only, it is the devil."

OUTLAWS SEND MESSAGE

TWO UNCAUGHT MEMBERS OF GANG SAY, NO SURRENDER.

Mountain Scouts Capture Freel and Claude Allen and Land Them Behind Prison Doors.

Hillsville, Va.—"It will be a battle to the death. If the detectives ever take us back to Hillsville it will be in a wagon, with our toes turned up and our boots on. And there will be some of them in the same wagon. Neither of us expect to see home or family again. We have three revolvers and a pump gun and plenty of ammunition. If we are sighted we will shoot to kill. We will never surrender."

This message from Sidna Allen and Wesley Edwards was brought into town by young Freel Allen, a girlish-looking lad of 17, who had been hiding out in the mountains most of the time since the courthouse slaughter. He was captured, unresistingly, hiding in the carriage house behind his father's home eight miles away from here. He left his Uncle Sidna and his Cousin Wesley two nights ago because, as he expressed it, he was "plum starved out."

In addition to thrilling defiance he brought in the grave and important news that the courthouse shooting really was the result of a conspiracy—that the Allens planned it in advance and that Sidna Allen and Wesley Edwards at least had their victims selected.

Hillsville, Va.—In one of the wildest sections of the Fancy Gap country, 22 miles south of here, Harry Lucas, a keen eyed detective scout, was making his way along a mountain side when he chanced to turn and look back over the trail he had been following. About 30 yards away from him, topping a thicket of laurel, he caught sight of a man's face, haggard and bearded with sunken eyes.

"Hold up your hands!" commanded Lucas, slinging his Winchester rifle to his shoulder.

As the other obeyed the scout advanced, still keeping his weapon ready for instant use. As he reached the thicket he recognized in the man before him Claude Allen, son of Floyd, and one of the most desperate of the clan that killed five persons in the court house here two weeks ago.

"You all needn't to worry none about me, mister," said the young giant, still keeping his hands in the air. "I could have killed you a half dozen times in the last five minutes if I'd a mind to."

HUFFMAN JURORS DISAGREE

Twelve Men, After Deliberating Many Hours, Fail to Reach Verdict and Are Discharged

Columbus, O.—Assuring the court that there was no chance for an agreement, the jury in the Isaac E. Huffman bribery case in the common pleas court here was discharged by Judge Rogers. It had been considering the case since 5 p. m. March 26.

This is the first mistrial that has arisen in the legislative bribery cases. In all other cases the jury has been able to reach a verdict without exceptional delay, although a somewhat prolonged consideration was given the Diegle case.

Failure to reach an agreement means that Senator Huffman must submit to another trial for which Prosecutor Turner and Attorney General Hogan will prepare early in the April term and will try to dispose of the case while others are being tried. There is no intention of abating the state's efforts to have the cases tried quickly.

It is understood that most of the time the vote of the jurors stood nine to three for conviction. It is also stated that several of the late votes stood eight to four for conviction. The figures are not official. No authentic information was allowed to filter out of the room during the 48 hours the jury was out.

The specific charge against Senator Huffman was that he accepted a bribe of $200 from Burns Detective Frank H. Smiley April 27, 1911, to report the Cetone-Whittemore insurance bill out of committee.

PLEDGES WOMEN HIS SUPPORT

Mayor Shank Tells New Yorkers He Will Help Them Fight High Food Prices

New York City.—After an address upon the cost of living at the Berkeley theater the big audience of fashionably gowned women surrounded Mayor Shank of Indianapolis and begged him to help organize the women of New York in an effort to reduce the high food prices. Mayor Shank told the women he would come here for that purpose whenever they want him.

"Women must fight the economic battles of the future," he said.

Prominent Man Gets Divorce.

Wilmington, Del.—The New Castle county superior court granted a divorce to John Bancroft, Jr., from his wife, Madeleine Dupont Bancroft. The families of the couple are among the most prominent in the state.

In addition to the divorce the husband is allowed the custody of the four-year-old son. The court also directed that a decree should be entered declaring that Max Hebler, Jr., an infant, made co-defendant with Mrs. Bancroft, is not the child of Mr. Bancroft.

English Solons Reject Suffrage Bill.

London, England.—By a vote of 222 to 208 the house of commons rejected the conciliation bill on its second reading. This measure would have conferred upon 1,000,000 women the right to vote. Last year a similar bill passed the second reading stage by a vote of 255 to 88 and was referred to a committee of the whole house, making no further progress. The reversal in the views of the members is attributed to the resentment aroused by the window-smashing tactics of the militant suffragists.

ANTHRACITE MEN LAY DOWN TOOLS

OBEY PRESIDENT WHITE'S ORDER FOR SUSPENSION OF WORK IN COAL MINES.

168,000 WORKERS AFFECTED

Union Leaders Assert There Is Plenty of Money Available for Long Struggle—Operators Are Prepared.

Cleveland, O.—President John P. White has wired George Baer at Philadelphia that he had a proposition to make relative to the anthracite situation. It is very possible that a strike in the anthracite region may be avoided, though the order for a suspension April 1 has been issued.

Word was received here later from Mr. Baer that he would be glad to grant the request and another parley is now assured.

It can be authoritatively stated that negotiations will begin within a week for a settlement in the anthracite fields. It is confidently declared here that the suspension will not last long.

Wilkesbarre, Pa.—President John P. White's order for a suspension of all the work in the anthracite fields on April 1, found the miners prepared and as a unit they walked from pits on afternoon of March 30 ready to stand by the national leaders and fight out their demands with the operators.

The defence forced upon the miners has so changed conditions that a mere wage concession could not restore peace. The feeling everywhere prevails that the question of recognition must be definitely decided in the meantime. The miners are ready to enter a struggle for the purpose of deciding this issue.

The suspension order does not create the fear that might be expected. Miners and their families have been preparing for a strike and their families appear happy. They are well supplied with provisions and union leaders say there is plenty of money available for a long struggle.

The coal companies are prepared to look after their interests. The large concerns decided that their clerical forces, which means about 6,000 men, have been ordered to get into overalls and do work about the collieries. This order has caused some disgust among the clerks but if they do not report at the collieries they will be forced to quit their positions. The whole hard coal region is alive with guards and strike breakers.

PEACE IN BITUMINOUS FIELDS

Coal Miners and Operators Come to Agreement and There Will Only be Short Suspension of Work.

Cleveland, O.—Peace by agreement was declared in the bituminous coal fields. There will be a short suspension in the bituminous fields to permit the operators and miners of the different stations to settle their internal differences but, according to the agreement made in the joint conference no change in present conditions will be made that will increase the cost of mining over the agreement reached here or keep the miners from earning as much as they can.

By the agreement the miners will receive an increase of five cents a ton for screened coal, three cents for mine run, 5.5 per cent for day labor and dead work and five hours work on Saturday with five hours pay. All other demands are waived. The additional rates demanded by the Illinois miners in their convention will be dropped.

Since the agreement is a compromise, it must now be submitted to a referendum vote of the miners. This will mean, it was said, at least a two-week suspension in soft coal mines.

FLOGS WIFE BEATER, GETS $10

Man Answers Ad Put in Newspaper by Wife and His Trashing Abilities Are Rewarded

Seattle, Wash.—The following advertisement appeared in the "Help Wanted" columns of a paper here:

"Wanted—A man to thrash a wife beater, $10 reward; easy work. Mrs. R. H. Gillies, 116 Nob Hill avenue."

Eight men applied for the job soon after the paper was on the street. The first applicant was a little fellow and Mrs. Gillies sent him away. The second, a big, husky youth, said it would be a pleasure to do the work for $5. Mrs. Gillies engaged him at once.

When Robert Bert Gillies, formerly a waterfront broker, returned home Mrs. Gillies and her "beater" were waiting for him. Mrs. Gillies, telling the story, said her young man's work was so excellent that she compelled him to take the full $10 fee.

Passes Substitute to Sherwood Bill.

Washington.—By a vote of 41 to 21 the senate passed the McCumber substitute to the Sherwood pension bill.

The McCumber bill carries an average appropriation of $11,000,000 to $14,000,000 for the first year, $13,000,000 the second year and an average for the first five years of $20,000,000. Under the bill the payments run from $13 a month for a veteran 62 years of age, who served 90 days in the military or naval service to $30 a month for a veteran of 75 years who served three years or more.

Suffragets Jubilant Ten Minutes.

Albany, N. Y.—The advocates of votes for women were given a chance to exult over victory in the assembly for about ten minutes.

At the expiration of that time their exultation came to an end but their confidence in ultimate victory was not in the least shaken.

The bill providing for the submission of the question to the people of the state passed by a vote of 76 to 67, but was quickly reconsidered and tabled by a vote of 69 to 67. The women will make another fight.

CONFESSES SLAYING 17

HALF BREED NEGRESS ADMITS DIRECTING OTHER MURDERS.

Southern Woman Believed She Might Gain Immortality by Sacrificing Human Life.

Lafayette, La.—Acting on her own amazing confession that she killed 17 persons with her own hands and directed the killing of as many more that she might gain immortality by sacrificing human life, the grand jury will at once return an indictment against Clementine Barnabet, a half blood negress. Furnished with convincing clews the authorities are now investigating one of the most astounding series of crimes ever committed. For weeks past the authorities of southwest Louisiana and southeast Texas have been completely baffled by murders of the most brutal description. Whole families would be slain in their homes, the assailants invariably using axes and apparently always making the slaughter a bloody orgy. No less than 35 negroes have been murdered in this manner.

Clementine Barnabet, suspected of having been implicated in the most recent killing, confessed that it was she who directed the slaughter. By her own admission she is the head of a cult known as the "Church of the Sacrifice," which is composed of negro religious fanatics who believe that by taking human life alone they can reach eternity. The cult had no regard for the law.

As many women belonged to the cult as men, and they shared equally with the men in the sacrifice of human lives.

It is believed that the victims were chosen indiscriminately. Usually the head of a family would be marked for slaughter and every person found in house when the members of the cult descended upon it would be killed. All the victims were horribly mutilated. Heads and limbs would be separated from the torso.

MOTHER FREED IN POISON CASE

Buckeye Woman, Accused of Killing Her Daughter With Arsenic, Is Acquitted.

Lancaster, O.—Mrs. Nancy Hall was acquitted of having murdered her four-year-old daughter Ruth by giving her pancakes containing arsenic. As the words "not guilty" were spoken by the clerk, Mrs. Hall with a cry of "Thank God" threw her arms around her husband's neck. For nearly a minute, the two stood in the center of the court room, the cynosure of a hundred eyes. Tears streamed down their faces while husband and wife were locked in a silent embrace which was broken only when friends approached to offer their congratulations.

"I knew they would free me," sobbed Mrs. Hall. Then she and her husband broke through the circle of their neighbors to grasp in turn each juror by the hand as he stepped from the jury box.

Little Mary Hall, one of the accused woman's children, for a moment did not grasp the meaning of the demonstration, but when she realized her mother had been acquitted, she clapped her hands, dropped her doll and danced about the court room. Her little squeals of joy were smothered by the kisses of motherly friends who dampened her cheeks with tears of gratitude.

SENATOR TAYLOR PASSES AWAY

National Lawmaker From Tennessee had Been in Failing Health for Several Months.

Washington, D. C.—United States Senator Robert Love Taylor of Tennessee, died at Providence hospital here. Senator Taylor had been in failing health for several months and on March 28 was operated upon in a final effort to save his life. Although he withstood the immediate shock of the operation, he began losing strength soon after lapsing into unconsciousness at 3 a. m., March 31, and did not again recover his faculties.

Mrs. Taylor was present at the end, as was Mrs. Taylor's brother, Charles St. John, Mrs. S. B. Williamson and Dr. Harrison Crook.

His body was taken to Knoxville for burial.

Ohio Republicans Meet.

Columbus, O.—At a meeting of the Republican state central committee held in this city the following program was adopted: Delegates from the 21 Ohio districts to the national convention to be chosen by primary, six delegates-at-large from Ohio to be selected by the state convention, convention to be held in Columbus, June 3 and 4, session to be held after the national convention to name state ticket. The committee indorsed the administration of president Taft.

Slugging Starts as Saloons Open.

Rock Island, Ill.—One murder, a vicious attack by sluggers, scores of fights and 80 men arrested, was the record of the first day of open saloons at Rock Island since the militia closed down the places after the recent fatal rioting.

The dead man is Rufus Phoenix, who was shot and his body thrown into an alley. The sluggers claim he was shot by the soldiers, while the commanding officer of the state forces declare his men have not fired a shot since they assumed charge of the city.

Hotels Quit as Bars Close.

Butler, Pa.—As a result of being refused liquor licenses on the ground they sold to minors, all the hotel managers of this city have decided to go out of business until January 1, 1913.

There are 11 hotels and the bars of all were compelled to suspend.

A movement has been started by business men, it is said, to erect a large hotel to look after visitors. This plan is not taken seriously by the present hotel proprietors, however.

FEAR GENERAL FLOOD

DANGER LURKS IN THE VICINITY OF MANY OHIO TOWNS.

Rivers of the State Are on the Rise and If Rains and Thaw Continue Damage Will Be Widespread.

Kenton.—Thawing weather and the rain of the last few days have made themselves felt here by the worst flood known in years. The Scioto river is far over its banks and the south end of the city is covered with water. Houses are entirely surrounded and streets have been converted from thoroughfares into streams.

Hundreds of acres of farm land along the river are under water and fences and many other small or loose objects are being swept down the river. The Ohio Central railroad yards are a small lake.

The flood is causing much distress in the river district, where many residents find themselves imprisoned in their own homes.

NAPOLEON MENACED BY FLOOD.

Ice Gorge Below City Piling Up the Waters

Napoleon.—With rain and thaw, situated between a five-mile gorge concentrated into a mile and a half, high and solid, below town, and a volume of ice and water on its way from above, Napoleon is in fear of a second thaw, rivaling or even exceeding that of last week.

DAYTON STREETS INUNDATED

Miami River Rising and Some Thoroughfares Impassable.

Dayton.—According to a warning telegram received by Major Strong, the local weather observer, from the head of the bureau at Columbus, the Miami river, which has been on a steady rise for several days, threatens to go higher by several feet during the next 24 hours. This may be checked by a fall in the temperature, and it is not believed there will be an inundation. Several streets on the west side of the city were partly inundated and impassable today.

TOLEDO IS IN GRAVE DANGER.

Rush of Ice and Water a Menace to the Bridges.

Toledo.—The Maumee river above this city is steadily rising and a great rush of water swept down stream and inundated territory in the vicinity of Grand Rapids. The water rose until it filled the boiler room of Pilliod's mills, putting that establishment out of commission.

MUCH OF FINDLAY INUNDATED.

Blanchard River Drove Many From Their Homes.

Findlay.—Many Findlay people rowed away from their homes in the lower portions of the city in boats because heavy rains caused Blanchard river to rise more rapidly than the water could be carried away, flooding the entire lower districts of the city. Several hundred people are in panic. The river is rising at the rate of three inches an hour.

LEGALIZE SUNDAY SHOWS

Ohio Exhibitors' League Also Desires to Make Censorship Change—Toledo Gets Next Meet.

Dayton.—National legislation for legal Sunday picture exhibitions is an aim of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' league of Ohio.

Efforts will be made to obtain an amendment to existing laws that will exempt the picture theater from Sunday closing and put it out of the hands of municipal authorities.

Government control of censorship of films and representation in all boards of censors also is sought by the exhibitors. There is no fight on with the manufacturers at this convention, according to league officers.

Toledo, with a delegation in the city boosting for the next convention, was selected. A banquet, attended by 300 exhibitors and their guests, closed the convention. It is the largest gathering of picture exhibitors ever held.

EDITOR INJURED.

Dayton.—James H. Chalmers, editor and owner of the Moving Picture World of New York, was probably fatally injured in a fall down an elevator shaft while on a visit to the plant of the National Cash Register company here.

WELL-KNOWN EDUCATOR DIES.

Newark.—Prof. J. L. Gilpatrick, for 30 years or more teacher of mathematics in Denison university at Granville, went over dead last evening. He was seventy-five years of age and leaves a widow and two children.

ATTORNEY ACCUSED OF FRAUD.

Cleveland.—Maurice W. Crafts, a young attorney of this city, was arrested on a warrant issued in Chicago, charging him with having used the mails to defraud, in an attempt to borrow $9,000 from the La Grange State bank of La Grange, Ill. The property offered as security is said to belong to J. Fieldhing Thatcher of New York. A United States officer left for Chicago with Crafts in charge. Crafts maintains his innocence.

180 DESCENDANTS.

Mrs. Rhoda Varvel, Adams County, Claims State Record.

West Union.—The claim is made that Mrs. Rhoda Varvel, Peebles, Adams county, who was 94 years old on March 11, has the longest line of ancestry of any person in Ohio. She is the oldest of five generations. She has living 8 children, 107 great-grandchildren and 13 great-great-grandchildren. She has been blind for 10 years and at present is very infirm.

NERVOUS DESPONDENT WOMEN

Find Relief in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Their Own Statements So Testify.

Platea, Pa.—"When I wrote to you first I was troubled with female weakness and backache, and was so nervous that I would cry at the least noise, it would startle me so. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies, and I don't have any more crying spells. I sleep sound and my nervousness is better. I will recommend your medicines to all suffering women."—Mrs. MARY HALSTEAD, Platea, Pa., Box 98.

Here is the report of another genuine case, which still further shows that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be relied upon.

Walcott, N. Dakota.—"I had inflammation which caused pain in my side, and my back ached all the time. I was so blue that I felt like crying if any one even spoke to me. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I began to gain right away. I continued its use and now I am a well woman."—Mrs. AMELIA DAHL, Walcott, N. Dakota.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Your Liver Is Clogged Up

That's Why You're Tired—Out of Sorts—Have No Appetite.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS will put you right in a few days. They do their duty. Cure Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion and Sick Headache

SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE.

Genuine must bear Signature

Brent Good

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY. No. 1, No. 2, No. 3.
THERAPION Used in French Hospitals with GREAT SUCCESS, CURES KIDNEY, BLADDER DISEASES, PILES, CHRONIC ULCERS, SKIN ERUPTIONS—EITHER SEX. Send address envelope for FREE booklet to DR. LE CLERC MED. CO., HAVERSTOCK RD., HAMPSTEAD, LONDON, ENG.

HIS LIMITATION.

Mrs. Praise—Your husband is a wonderful man in many ways. Nothing seems to escape him.

Mrs. Digge—That's so, my dear. He seems to observe everything but Lent.

Women to Wear Mantillas in Church.

Women of St. Francis De Sales Cathedral will introduce into this country the custom of wearing in church the graceful lace headdress of the Spanish women in place of hats. The innovation was suggested by Rev. Dr. O'Connor to the members of the Altar society and at the general communion of the society the scarfs will be worn.

"The hats of today have become a monstrosity," says Rev. Dr. O'Connor, addressing the society.—Toledo correspondence Cleveland Leader.

A Frequent Type.

"Spoonleigh is a connoisseur of happiness."

"How do you define a connoisseur of happiness?"

"A person who knows how to be happy but can't."

If You Are a Trifle Sensitive

About the size of your shoes, you can wear a size smaller by shaking Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder, into them. Just the thing for Dancing Parties and for Breaking in New Shoes. Gives instant relief to Corns and Bunions. Sample FREE. Address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

For people to live happily together the real secret is that they should not live too much together.—Sir Arthur Helps.

Malice is more easily disarmed by indifference than by conflict or retaliation.—Mrs. Sigourney.

Garfield Tea, the natural remedy for Constipation, can always be relied on.

Many a brave man has lost his nerve in a dentist's chair.

TWO WEEKS' TREATMENT AND MEDICINE FREE

no matter what your disease. If you suffer from Rheumatism, write. If you suffer from Kidney Trouble, write. No matter what you suffer from, write to

MUNYON'S DOCTORS
53d and Jefferson Sts., Philadelphia, Pa.

NOT A PENNY TO PAY

Offer is Good for the Next Thirty Days

---

SCOTT'S VIVID STORY OF HIS GREAT BATTLE TO REACH SOUTH POLE

Fails to Attain Coveted Goal but Enriches World's Knowledge of the Antarctic.

BRITISH EXPLORER TO CONTINUE HIS WORK

Remains Behind for Another Year While He Sends Out His Story of Achievement by Lieut. Pennell, Commander of Terra Nova.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Capt. Robert F. Scott's narrative of his explorations in the Antarctic, published below, was issued by the New York Times Co. March 31 as a book duly entered for copyright, and publicly exposed for sale, the same being its first publication anywhere in the world. Its reproduction in this newspaper is, of course, duly authorized. Its reproduction elsewhere in the United States in any form except by permission from the New York Times Co. is forbidden.

Copyright 1912 by the New York Times Co. (all rights reserved).
Copyrighted in the United Kingdom by the Central News, Ltd., London.
Registered in the Department of Agriculture, Copyright Branch, Dominion of Canada, by the Central News, Ltd., London.

(Special Cable to the New York Times.)

Akaroa, New Zealand, Tuesday, April 2.—Lieutenant Pennell, commander of the Terra Nova of the British Antarctic expedition of 1910, which arrived here yesterday, brought with him a long and intensely interesting account of the work and experience of the expedition up to January 3 last, written expressly for the New York Times by Captain Robert F. Scott, the leader of the expedition. Captain Scott's story is as follows:

(BY CAPT. ROBERT F. SCOTT.)

McMurdo Sound, Oct. 30, 1911.—Shortly after the departure of the depot laying party from Cape Evans on January 25, 1911, the sea ice broke at South Cape and severed communication with the station. The depot party, consisting of 12 men, eight ponies and two dog teams, occupied till January 31 in establishing a base camp at the barrier seven miles east southeast of Hut Point. Owing to the heavy weights to be transported the main part of the supplies was left at this camp. The party proceeded with single loads east southeast 27 miles to a spot named Corner Camp, before turning south to avoid the crevasses of White Island. The snow surface proved very soft, making terribly hard work for the ponies. A three days heavy blizzard at Corner Camp was a further severe trial to the animals, which were not in good condition.

On February 8 we proceeded south marching by night and resting by day. The weather was exceptionally bad, but the surface improved. The three weakest ponies were sent back, but these unfortunately were caught in another bad blizzard and two succumbed. With the remaining ponies and the dogs we reached latitude 79½ degrees on the 16th, when I decided, owing to the condition of the weather and the animals, to make a depot here and return. We left more than a ton of stores at this point, which we named One Ton Camp, and which should be a great help to us this season. We then returned to our base camp with dog teams.

Whilst cutting a corner of White Island in a bad light, the whole of one dog team fell into a crevasse, Meares, myself and the sledge were miraculously held up on part of a bridge across the crevasse along which we had been travelling and most of the dogs hung by their harness. With great difficulty and after three hours' work we extricated the animals. One, which was badly injured by falling 60 feet, afterward died.

At the base camp I found every single pony well, and visiting Hut Point, I received news of the Terra Nova and Fram. On February 24, with men on skis and a single pony, I started to take more stores to Corner Camp. On the outward journey we passed returning ponies going well. Returning from Corner Camp, I was held up by a blizzard on the 27th, but reached the base camp on the 28th. I found the storm had been phenomenal at this place, raging for three days and causing enormous accumulations of snow. Shifts of wind had baffled all efforts to shelter the ponies with snow walls and the animals had suffered very badly, so I decided to retire to Hut Point without delay.

Wilson and Meares' arriving dog teams reached Hut Point in safety. Oates, Gran and I remained to try and save one pony which had been badly hit by the blizzard, while Bowers, Cherry, Gerrard and Crean, with the four best ponies, set out to follow the dogs. Nearing Hut Point, they found badly working cracks in the sea ice, and hastily turned and marched four miles south.

There at 2 a. m. March 1 the tired condition of the ponies obliged the party to camp. At 4:30 Bowers, awakened by a noise, found the ice broken all around the camp and moving with the heavy swell. One pony had disappeared from the picketing line and was not seen again. Hastily packing their sledges the party decided to try and work southwest over the pack ice. With infinite difficulty the sledges were dragged, the ponies jumping from floe to floe toward the barrier. About noon the party neared the barrier, but found its ice wall unclimbable and the swell churning and breaking heavy floes against it. In this dilemma Crean was allowed to attempt to obtain help. He traveled east over the moving pack to find a break in the ice wall and eventually hoisted himself to the barrier surface by wedging his ski stick in a crack.

Ignorant of these events, after failing to save our sick pony, my own party had reached the barrier, where the ice breaking under foot forced us to retreat hurriedly, with the gravest anxiety for our companions. My fears were confirmed when Wilson, who had traveled out overland, reported having seen with glasses ponies adrift on sea ice. An hour later Crean was seen approaching and learning his news, Oates, Crean and I set off immediately to the west. Working around the bay we approached the barrier edge, and at 6 p. m. by good fortune discovered the missing party on a pack which had been drifting slowly northwest and had temporarily stopped, owing to the swell subsiding.

With Alpine ropes the men were rescued with difficulty. Working on through the night, we succeeded in salving the sledges and their loads, but could do nothing for the ponies which were only 30 yards away. At 4 a. m. the pack began to move again. We left the ponies with full nose bags and rested till 8 a. m., when the pack was again stationary. We marched north, found the ponies and made desperate efforts to save them. Bowers and Oates risked a long detour over the pack and led the animals over many jumps, while the remainder of us dug a trench to the lower part of the barrier. The edges of the floes were high above water and very uneven. Killer whales hung about within a few yards. The ponies failing at the jump were irretrievably lost. One pony only won through. The pack was moving again as we left it and drifted clear to the north.

On March 4 we ascended hills east of Castle Rock, and on the 5th the party with the two remaining ponies and the dog teams was safely housed at Hut Point. By this incident we lost three of our strongest ponies. This was a severe blow to the expedition, but not enough to wreck its plans if the remaining animals could be preserved. The heavy swell which caused this disaster broke more than ten miles of fast sea ice, large fragments of the barrier and two miles of glacier tongue, a feature which had remained otherwise unchanged since discovery in 1902. The hut was found almost completely filled with hard snow, the windows broken and the door unhinged. With much labor we cleared and repaired it. It then afforded good shelter.

While forced to wait for the sea breeze to blow over, we settled down to a very primitive life.

With old tins and discarded fragments of metal we constructed an excellent blubber stove and several blubber lamps. We fed almost entirely on seal meat. Seals could only be obtained at a distance over hills and were sometimes scarce, but the supply never failed entirely, thanks to the ingenuity shown by my companions in improvising arrangements with the slenderest resources. With splendid health we were quite comfortable and enjoyed the discovery of a box of old magazines.

On March 15 the western geological party returned, bringing our total to 16 persons. This party had spent six weeks making a close survey of the Dry Valley, Lower Ferrar and Koettlitz glacier regions, thus completing an important part of our plan for the geological survey of the coast.

After the return of the absentees we settled down very comfortably in our winter hut, its arrangements for lighting, heating, cooking and ventilation proving eminently satisfactory. A comfortable stable had been built for the ponies and some shelter improvised for the dogs during the four winter months. The temperature at the station was rarely below minus 40 degrees, at lowest minus 50 degrees. The wind averaged 15 miles an hour, but sometimes blew hard with the temperature minus 30 degrees. Everyone was very fully occupied with station and scientific work, exercising animals, etc. A series of lectures was organized and football was played to within a month of midwinter.

Frequent visits were made to Cape Royds and Hut Point. The animals steadily improved in condition. On June 27, middle of winter, Wilson, Bowers, Cherry and Gerrard started on a sledge journey to Cape Crozier to observe the incubation of emperor penguins at their rookery. Very heavy surface on the barrier forced the party to relay work during the main part and a fortnight was taken on the outward journey. The temperature was seldom above minus 60 degrees and often below minus 70 degrees, the lowest observed with a sling thermometer being minus 77 degrees.

Behind a land ridge on the slopes of Mount Terror the party spent three days in building a stone hut, which they roofed with canvas from this camp. The men had great difficulty in crossing the huge barrier pressure ridges in the dim noon twilight to reach the rookery. They were successful at a second attempt. They found comparatively few birds at the rookery, but these had begun to lay even at this early date. Fortunately some eggs at different stages of development were secured, which should give considerable information concerning the embryology of this interesting bird.

The same night a violent gale commenced and the ridge proved inadequate shelter from the hurricane gusts which swirled down on the hut. A tent and other carefully secured articles were blown away, and after straining for 14 hours the roof of the hut flew to ribbons. For 30 hours more the travelers were confined to their frozen sleeping beds half buried beneath snow and rock debris. Forty-eight hours elapsed before the wind decreased and they were able to get a meal. Searching for lost articles, they were fortunate in finding the missing tent among some morainic boulders, practically uninjured.

The state of their equipment now forced them to turn homeward. On the return journey they were held for two days by another storm, after which the temperature fell and remained below minus 60 degrees. The party returned after five weeks' absence, encased in ice and suffering from want of sleep, but otherwise well.

Having regard to the darkness and extreme temperatures this first winter journey in the Antarctic remains a remarkable feat of endurance.

On September 1 Meares and Dimitri, with dog teams made their head quarters at Hut Point, the dogs leaving for that depot in splendid form. At intervals since our arrival, however, some obscure disease has robbed us of four excellent dogs. In every instance the dog attacked appeared vigorously healthy but died in a few hours. It is thought the cause may be some minute thread worm entering the brain.

First Antarctic Telephone Line

At the end of the month telephone communication was established with Hut Point through 15 miles of bare wire. This telephone has already proved extremely useful for reporting the movement of parties pending changes of weather.

Lieutenant Evans, Gran and Forde traveled to Corner Camp to rebuild cairns. They experienced temperatures between minus 60 and 70 and Forde's hands were badly frostbitten but are now recovering rapidly.

With Bowers, Simpson and Petty Officer Evans, I traveled west on September 15. Ascending Ferrar glacier, we found by stakes planted by Wright that the ice stream had moved 30 feet in seven months.

Later, 45 miles northwest of our station we found part of the glacier tongue broken in March with the forage left by Campbell intact. Owing to work at the station and the need of increasing exercise for the ponies, we have been unable to undertake further Spring journeys.

The Western Geological party, consisting of Taylor, Debenham, Gran and Forde, delayed by Forde's accident, will leave in a few days for Granite Harbor.

Start Delayed to Save Ponies.

All plans and preparations for the journey now complete and despite the accident of last season we have got hope of success. The necessity of getting the utmost out of our remaining ponies has decided me not to expose them to great cold. We shall, therefore, start later than originally intended.

The motor sledge party consisting of Lieutenant Evans, Day, Lashley and Hooper started five days ago, with two motor sledges dragging fuel and forage. The motors experienced unexpected difficulty on sea ice where it was very thinly covered with snow, but were last seen going well on the surface of the barrier beyond the base camp of last season. They have, therefore, placed the possibilities of motor traction beyond question.

I shall greatly regret the departure of any member, as we have lived in the happiest social accord. Ponting probably returns with a large batch of photographs, material to which a second year might add little of importance. Owing to Ponting, the photographic results of the expedition are a most remarkable series of cinematograph pictures, giving a comprehensive record of our polar life. The plans arranged for the scientific work of the expedition have succeeded so far almost in their entirety.

November 24, latitude 81.15 S.—We left Hut Point on the eve of November 2, having decided to march by night and rest during the day to give the ponies the benefit of warmer day temperatures. We reached Corner Camp this morning. Traveling south for 60 miles we followed the tracks of the motors, then we found the machines abandoned. The party had proceeded onward as directed, were delayed by a blizzard on the eighth, but reached One Ton Camp on the morning of the nineteenth. The dog teams had caught us up some days earlier and the whole party proceeded in company. A day's rest was given the animals at the Ton Camp, which we left on the seventeenth. Having regard to the weight of the loads, the heavy surfaces and limited number of animals I decided to march 13 miles only every night. This distance has been maintained eight nights and so far as we can foresee it should be continued.

We are building snow cairns at intervals of four miles to guide the homeward parties and leaving a week's provision at every degree of latitude to the barrier. The surface was extremely bad and trying to the ponies up to One Ton Camp, but has been comparatively good since. The greater number of the ponies have been dragging over 650 pounds.

December 10, latitude 83 degrees 15 minutes.—After the return of the motor party from latitude 81 degrees, 15 minutes, we pushed steadily south, hopeful for better weather conditions. A second pony was destroyed at latitude 82 degrees, 10 minutes, a third at latitude 82 degrees, 45 minutes, and two more near the eighty-third parallel. None of these animals were exhausted, but were sacrificed on account of lightening loads and as food for dogs.

As we approached, the weather grew worse, snow storms were frequent, the sky continually overcast and land very rarely visible. Under these circumstances it was most difficult to keep a straight course and maintain steady marches. The ponies continued to pull splendidly. The excellent condition they retained under severe work I attribute entirely to the management of Captain Oates.

In spite of delays we reached latitude 83 degrees, 24 minutes, within 12 miles of Mount Hope, on December 4. We could have reached the glacier with five ponies on the following day but for the intervention of a southerly gale which lasted four days, during which we did not sight land, although only a few miles away. The wind was very violent at times, a prodigious amount of snow fell, and we had continually to dig out ponies and tents. The temperature rose to plus 33, the snow melting on our equipment and completely soaking everything with water. No such prolonged storm has hitherto been recorded in these regions in December.

Hard Work in the Deep Snow.

On the 9th, after the storm, 15 inches of wet snow covered the originally soft surface. We could not have advanced at all had not the leading pony worn snow shoes. The men hauled on skis. It took 14 hours without a meal to do eight miles. At the first halt the ponies were destroyed, as we had no more forage for them.

Today we have come through the pass and descended on Beardmore glacier but only with infinite difficulty and after 12 hours' work. The soft snow brought by the storm continued over the pass. Men on foot sank to their knees and sledges sank to their crossbars continually. The dogs have given some help, but could be only lightly laden on such a surface. I send this note by returning teams. The party is very fit, but cannot keep up the hours which we have been working. The storm has already cost us five days. Its effects may yet delay us further, which would be a serious matter. Otherwise everything has worked as planned. We hope to find better conditions as we advance up the glacier. We are necessarily dependent on the weather and the season thus far has been very unpromising.

Struggle to Achieve Five Miles a Day.

December 21.—Latitude 85 degrees, 7 minutes south, longitude 163 degrees, 4 minutes east, height about 6,800 feet, four miles south, 30 west of Mount Darwin. Largely as a result of the storm reported in my last dispatch, the lower reaches of the glacier were filled with terribly soft snow. Men on foot sank to the knee at each step. It would have been quite impossible to advance had we not pulled on skis. As it was, the runner surface of sledges proved inadequate. They frequently sank to crossbars, requiring to be extricated with standing pulls. For four days we struggled in this morass, scarcely advancing five miles a day, although working ten to eleven hours. It is difficult to pitch camp and load sledges on such a surface. On the fifth day the surface grew a little harder and we were able to push on, still pulling on skis. We did not get abreast of Cloudbreaker mountain until the 17th, so that the snow cost us a week's advance.

Since the 16th we have been able to make very good marches, working up from 13 to 23 statute miles per day. My program I arranged to push on from the 85th parallel with eight men and 12 units of provisions, but I hoped to reserve a margin over this. As we stand we are only half a day's food short on program and should have a good chance of getting through. The weather continues unsatisfactory. We had to march without sight of land on occasions. We are getting intermittent fog in this most crevassed part of the glacier. Everybody is in the best of health and spirits.

It has been most difficult to select the returning party of four which carries this note. Our position constitutes our upper glacier depot. Complete depots have been established on the homeward route. The track of the barrier is well marked with snow cairns. The members going forward are Scott, Lieutenant Evans, Wilson, Bowers, Oates, Lashley, Petty Officer Evans and Crean.

150 Miles From the Pole January 3.

January 3, 1912.—Latitude 87.32, height 9,800 feet. After leaving the upper glacier depot south of Mount Darwin, I steered southwest two days. This did not keep us clear of pressure ridges and crevasses which occurred frequently at first and gave us trouble, but we rose rapidly in altitude. Probably the difficult places were more snow-covered than farther eastward. The advantage of this course was mainly felt on the third and fourth days when, owing to our altitude, we got a splendid view of the distribution of land masses fringing the ice sheet and the arrangement of ice falls. Since leaving the depot our marches have averaged over 15 statute miles a day.

On Christmas day we were close up to the 86th parallel and the prospect of Christmas fare gave us an excellent march, 17 miles, but the effect was not so happy the following day. The surface grew more difficult as we approached the 87th parallel. On New Year's eve, in latitude 86 degrees, 56 minutes, we depoted there a unit of provisions and rebuilt our sledges with new short runners, which remarkable piece of work was performed by the seamen of the party, under adverse conditions. Although it cost us nearly a day's march, the change amply repaid us. We have been able to keep up our average and we are now within 150 miles of the pole.

Five Going on to the Pole.

I am going forward with a party of five men, sending three back under Lieutenant Evans with this note. The names and descriptions of the advance party are:

Captain Scott, R. N.

Dr. Wilson, chief of the scientific staff.

Captain Oates, Inniskilling Dragoons, in charge of the ponies and mules.

Lieutenant Bowers, Royal India Marine, commissariat officer.

Petty Officer Evans, R. N., in charge of sledges and equipment.

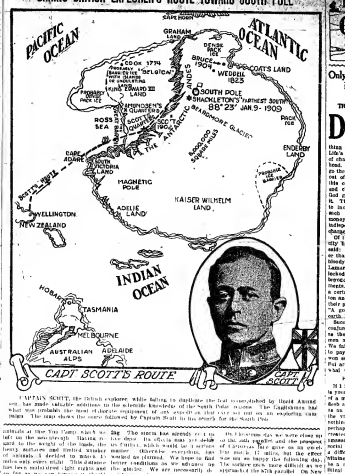
The advance party goes forward with a month's provisions and the prospects of success seem good, providing the weather holds and no unforeseen obstacles arise. It has been very difficult to choose the advance party, as every one was fit and able to go forward. Those who return are naturally much disappointed. Everyone has worked his hardest. The weather on the plateau has been good on the whole. The sun has never deserted us, but the temperatures are low now, about minus 20 degrees and the wind pretty constant. However, we are excellently equipped for such conditions and the wind undoubtedly improves the surface, so far all arrangements have worked out most satisfactorily. It is more than probable that no further news will be received from us this year as our return must necessarily be late.

Lieutenant Pennell expressed the utmost confidence in the ultimate success of Captain Scott and his party and declared that the scientific work being performed by the expedition was of an extremely valuable character. In addition to the southern party the Terra Nova was compelled owing to the bad ice conditions leave behind Lieutenant Campbell's party who were landed at Drygalski barrier and thence sledged into the interior. Both parties however were fully prepared for this emergency, says the commander of the Terra Nova, and no alarm need be felt for their safety.

The two geological expeditions on the west coast have produced good results, coal and fossils, which latter had not been discovered before, being found. The health of the members of the expedition is excellent, the only exception being Lieutenant Evans, who is now convalescing from scurvy.

The Terra Nova returns south in November next.

DARING BRITISH EXPLORER'S ROUTE TOWARD SOUTH POLE



CAPTAIN SCOTT, the British explorer, while failing to duplicate the feat accomplished by Roald Amundsen, has made valuable additions to the scientific knowledge of the South Polar regions. The Englishman had what was probably the most elaborate equipment of any expedition that ever set out on an exploring campaign. The map shows the route followed by Captain Scott in his search for the South Pole.

ADMITS SLAYING WOMAN DOCTOR

[illegible]DER OF DR. HELENE KNABE [illegible] MAN CONFESSES TO THE MUR[illegible] OF INDIANAPOLIS.

Portsmouth, N. C.—Seth Nichols, arrested here for carrying concealed weapons, confessed to the murder of Dr. Helene Knabe of Indianapolis, one of the most puzzling murders in the west. Nichols had been drinking heavily when he was arrested on complaint of a bartender and on the verge of a breakdown, whom he had threatened with a pistol. He was in a very nervous condition and on the verge of a breakdown, when after struggling with his emotions for some time he owned up to the murder. At first the police were rather doubtful of his story, but a telegram to the chief of police of Indianapolis confirmed the date given by Nichols and many of the facts.

Got $1,500 for the Job.

Nichols, who is 22 years of age, stated that he was born in Chicago. His parents died when he was young and when 18 years of age he enlisted in the navy. Last October he was attached to the United States S. Dixie, which was then lying at the Brooklyn navy yard being overhauled. He left the ship and drifted west to Indianapolis where he had a sister, Mrs. Grace Blackman, living at 242 East avenue. While he was there he met a man named Knight, whose first name he never remembered hearing. Knight kept him supplied with drink and money. One day he suggested that he had a job for him to do and finally agreed to give him, Nichols, the sum of $1,500 for doing away with Dr. Helen Knabe, prominent woman physician who had made a wide reputation for herself in the practice of medicine.

Cuts Sleeping Woman's Throat.

On the night of October 23 Nichols was taken to the apartment house where Doctor Knabe had a suite of rooms on the second floor, consisting of an office and living apartments. He obtained admission to the building and during the night succeeded in getting into her suite and, finding her asleep in bed, he killed her while she slept, cutting her throat. Leaving the building without being detected he was met by Knight and paid the money agreed upon and put upon a train for the east. Arriving in New York he went on a prolonged drunk and, with wine and women, he wasted his money and went back to the ship, as he claims, squaring himself with the ship's writer who he had by previous arrangement marked him present while the vessel was undergoing repairs. Nichols, in his confession, stated that on being discharged from the navy he had purchased the revolver which he was carrying for the purpose of committing suicide as the strain was becoming too great to bear.

Dresden, Germany.—Karl May, 70, the widely known writer of Indian tales and stories for boys, died here.

THE QUIET HOUR

Only Success That Is Clean in the Sight of God

TRUTH, UPRIGHTNESS, LOVE.

DYING, Horace Greeley said: "Fame is a vapor, popularity an accident, riches take wings; those who cheer today will curse tomorrow, only one thing endures and that is character." Life's one great task is the making of character, the making of fine manhood. Our world is a college. We all go through it, but only some get much out of the course of instruction. In this college events are the teachers, and character is the diploma which God gives man when he has earned it. There are many forces that help to increase happiness in this world, such as friends and position, and money; but one thing is absolutely indispensable to success, and that is character.

Of that noble Greek who governed a city by unwritten laws, the people said: "Phocion's character is greater than the constitution." During the bloody days of the French revolution, Lamartine lived with his doors unlocked. His character was a defense beyond rock walls or armed regiments. Emerson says that there was a certain power in Lincoln, Washington and Burke, not to be explained by their printed words. Milton exclaims: "A good man is the ripe fruit our earth holds up to God."

Success, in these days, is a word to conjure with. It is echoed on all sides as the one object of existence, and men are measured by its standards. We fall over each other in our hurry to pay homage to the man who has won success in the world's judgment. But are we not under a delusion as to what we really admire?

Hero Worship Tells Much.

If I knew what you admire and who is your hero I would know what sort of a man you are. This mountain of flesh and bone which has been trained as an ox for the prize ring? Of all the vapid and vacant countenances, nothing can equal that fraternity. Or perhaps you admire this man who has created an extensive business and amassed a fortune, or attained high social position. But does it not make a difference how these things were attained? Or perhaps your hero may be a man who has reached high political rank, the presidency of the United States. But does it not make a difference whether he was squeezed in by party politics, or whether he has risen by his own intrinsic worth, and is the choice of the people?

Success lies not so much in achieving what you aim at as in aiming at what you ought to achieve. Your one dread should be to pitch the scale of life so low that you can attain perfect success therein.

There is a success which is failure. What effect has success had upon this or that man? Has it made him a better man, nobler and kinder; or has it made him hard and unfeeling and arrogant? If so, then his success has been a failure. I could not congratulate you if you had succeeded in making a fire by burning up a priceless painting, neither can I admire a man who has destroyed his character and soul in ranking a fortune or attaining a position. That man has made a most terrible failure of his life. Success in business, literature, society, politics, is often purchased by a subtle and sinister compromise with Satan. He takes us up on a high mountain, and shows us all the glitter of the world, and says: "All these will I give thee if thou wilt fall down and worship me." And many there are who vow him allegiance in exchange for baubles.

Failure Sometimes Misjudged.

There is failure which is success. May we learn this lesson of human life, and it is one of its important lessons, that lives which aim at low ends are often redeemed by failure to attain them. Many men owe their soul's salvation to their failures. Mischance has shattered their plans, and they have been saved from careers which would have led to their ruin. Many a man whom the world counts a failure has attained good success. He may not have much evidence of it in the bank but he bears about with him the marks of success, in his body in clean living, in a cultured mind, and in an upright soul.

One of the most successful lives ever lived was that of St. Paul, and yet at the end of his life what did he have to show for it? Lying in a dungeon in Rome it does not take him long to count up his assets. He says, "I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus." He had lived a wonderful life, and that was all he had to show.

I hope you are making a success of your life. I do not want to know what your bank account is, nor what position you hold (but I want to know what marks are being stamped upon your body and soul. Are they the marks of indulgence of uncontrolled temper, of some besetting sin, of envy and avarice, and an evil mind? Or is your life growing sweeter and stronger as you grow older? Are you growing in truth and uprightness and in love? If so then you are attaining that success which leaves no regrets, which is clean in the sight of God and man, and which God promises to those who love him.

Men would fain find some personal friend who would lead him unto great personal worth. To fulfill that deepest need, Jesus Christ comes to us and says: "Learn of Me." He comes to hasten man's step along the pathway that leads from littleness to greatness, and greatness lies not in titles, but in the qualities of mind and soul raised to the highest power. Jesus is the Divine Husbandman, and good men are the richest fruit which our earth can yield.

Lake County Herald
PAINESVILLE, OHIO

A DEMOCRATIC NEWSPAPER

TELEPHONE NO. 75

PUBLISHED THURSDAY OF EACH WEEK

Entered in the Postoffice at Painesville, Ohio, as Second-Class Mail Matter.

Advertising Rates
DISPLAY

| | |
|---|---|
| Per Inch—First Insertion | 20c |
| Per Inch—Each Additional Insertion | 10c |

LOCALS

| | |
|---|---|
| Per Line—First Insertion | 10c |
| Per Line—Each Additional Insertion | 05c |
| Want Column—Three Lines, three weeks | 25c |

M. L. Hartey
R. A. Tuttle } Editors and Proprietors

WAIT TILL WOMEN VOTE.

When a woman purchases $10 worth of woolen dress goods, $4.87 of that $10 represents the value of the goods and the remaining $5.13 of the $10 the amount of the tariff. In other words, should the purchase be made in England, where there is no tariff on woolens, the woman would receive the same amount and quality of dress goods for $4.87 that she pays $10 for in this country.

This is because of the Payne-Aldrich ad valorem tariff rate of 105 per cent. When the Democrats came into power in the House of Representatives they framed a bill which would reduce the tax on woolens nearly 40 per cent. The Senate passed a similar bill. President Taft vetoed the bill, which prevented cheaper and better woolens to American consumers. The Democratic majority of the House now presents the bill again.

President Taft will have less excuse to veto the bill than before. He declared on the first occasion that a certain tariff board had not made its report, and that to permit a reduction of the duties might make it impossible for the woolen manufacturers to "protect" their workingmen.

The tariff board report justifies a downward revision of the woolen schedule. Then since the President vetoed the wool bill there has been a strike of the textile workers at Lawrence, Mass., which has revealed beyond argument and beyond contradiction that the woolen trust magnates have been fooling and cheating the public all the time. The strike of the $6, $7 and $8 a week men, women and children in the woolen mills brought to light the fact that while the mill owners have been declaring they were "protecting" their workers with fair wages and decent working conditions, they have been paying them starvation wages and treating them almost like animals.

The last log has been knocked from under the wool tax argument, and President Taft has no excuse left to explain a veto of the Democratic downward revision wool bill. The President vetoed the first wool bill not for the welfare of either consumers or woolen mill workers, but at the behest of the millionaire woolen trust owners who contributed to his campaign fund. If he vetoes the newly introduced wool bill it will be for the same reason, and the people will so understand it.

JUST LOOK AT THIS!

Anyone who thinks those millionaire woolen trust magnates at Lawrence, Mass., are increasing the salaries of their men, women and children mill workers out of the generosity of their hearts—and out of their own pocket books—are mistaken. They are making the American people pay not only the amount of the increased wages, but every penny of the expense of the long strike.

"The people sympathized with the strikers," is the slogan of the mill owners, "now let them shoulder the expense."

Before any wages were increased the woolen trust magnates who have been making profits of from 6 to 75 per cent on their investment, decided to advance the cost of clothing. And as a matter of fact, the consumers began to actually pay increased prices for woolen and cottons in anticipation of the increased wages to be paid by the woolen trust, before the announcement of the increased wages was made public.

Cotton prints, calicoes and the like have risen in price at wholesale in New York City a quarter of a cent in the last ten days, and mill agents predict the increases will reach 2 cents a yard.

This will make a difference of 5 cents in an apron, and 25 cents in the housewife's dress. Men's clothing is going up, and women's and children's woolen dress goods are declared to be next in line. The increases, it is estimated, will bring approximately $11,000,000 into the coffers of the woolen trust within a year. Thus all accomodating public will bear the cost of the strike and increases in wages.

The men who work such gam[e]s as this on both public and employees are but a handful in number. They are just a few rich men who own or control the majority of the stock of the woolen trust. It is practically these few men, and they alone, who are the sole beneficiaries of Schedule K.

Again the query: How long are 92,000,000 American citizens going to stand for a wool tariff which taxes them outrageously on every stitch of clothing they use merely in order that a few greedy woolen trust magnates may be still further enriched?

"DOPERS" ACTIVE IN WASHINGTON.

Drug makers and druggists' agents appeared before the pure food board in Washington and asked for permission in certain cases to take the skull and cross bones sign off bottles containing poisonous preparations. With the death's head label off the bottle, the druggists might do more business. Imagine the chagrin of the dopers when in the midst of their argument in walked Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, who resigned from the public service because his opposition to the doping of foods was not in sympathy with the Taft administration. When Dr. Wiley alluded to the petitioners as "dopers" it looked a free for all fight. When objection was made to the use of the epithet, "dopers," Dr. Wiley consented to withdraw that term if he could substitute "manufacturers of poison" in its place. The poison manufacturers angrily demanded to know whom Dr. Wiley represented anyway, and he replied: "One American citizen, and I expect to be here often."

Some folks are now predicting that Bryan's hat will be in the ring within the next thirty days. This is a great season for political millinery.—Manchester (N. H.) Union.

Well, Mr. Bryan himself will not fling it into the ring. If it lands there at all it will be because Democrats believe it is the logical place for it. The Democratic presidential candidacy question is in the hands of the Democrats, not in Mr. Bryan's.

Standard oil stock is up to $800 a share, or $200 higher than at any time before the trust was busted. Judge from the pleasant effects of trust busting, all the dinged little trusts ought to clamor at Washington to have a little busting done just for prosperity's sake.—Milwaukee Journal.

A Chicago mail order firm shipped ten thousand alarm clocks to China recently. Perhaps that accounts for China's awakening.—Satire.

RANDOM THOUGHTS
By Tom, Dick and Harry.

We notice from a news item that Painesville comes very near to having a post-office of the first class. Any reference to the building?

Out in Colorado they have a high school professor, who, if the paper don't lie, talks nutty like a squirrel. This high school person has come forth, reports say, with the suggestion that every time a fellow takes his sweetheart to the theatre he buy three seats. The third seat to remain vacant and be between he and his lady friend. Said seat to bear a card reading "Reserved for Christ." The idea of the Professor is that in this manner you could look at any old kind of a show without being vaccinated.

Queer place, that Colorado. If a fellow did a stunt like that in this country some one would be sure to notice him acting batty. Instead of a quiet little dinner at Faust's it would be the detention or the d. t. ward of the city hospital for him.

The protest from one of your subscribers last week, against the semi-private toilet room maintained by the C. P. & E. in its Painesville station was real information and a real surprise to the writer. In fact we would not believe the facts until they had been verified. It's hard to credit such little two-by-four things as that to any public service corporation and much less to one that tries to "grab" valuable franchises and public privileges. The very idea of requiring lady patrons of the C. P. & E. to ask for a key to a toilet room. If it were not an insult to decency it would be amusing. The city council could see no reason for not granting this company a franchise until the "Herald" pointed it out to them when here is a sufficient one in itself. Yes, such a petty policy is reason enough for taking its present franchise away from it, if that were possible. It's ridiculous.

At the same time here is a point for Painesville merchants. All over the country there are towns even smaller than Painesville where merchant organizations maintain public rest rooms for the convenience of visitors. In the city, nearly every downtown store, even drug stores, have public toilet rooms. Big department stores generally give over a half floor for elaborately furnished rest rooms. Is it any wonder that Painesville merchants loose business?

If we were in business in this city of Painesville we would install a toilet and rest room for ladies during the next week and week after next we would advertise it in the papers instead of saying a word about our goods. And if we ran a newspaper in Painesville we would give a half page advertisement to the merchant enterprising enough to do a real up-to-date thing. Not that the merchant would need it—for it would be as big a piece of advertising as ever was pulled off in this town, but just to show appreciation of a fellow who knows how to get business.

Let the agent of the C. P. & E. stand guard over his toilet room if he wishes, but for the love of Mike have at least some sort of a public toilet room in a town the size of Painesville. Instead of buying electric signs and Moose homes, contract for a little real "welcome to our city" and "watch us grow."

HOW'S THIS?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN,
Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

TRIUMPH FOR WRITER

FLASH OF THOUGHT SAVED THE SITUATION.

Frederick Upham Adams Turned Joke on O. H. P. Belmont, Being Helped Somewhat by His Experience as a Novelist.

Table sagacity is not invariably confined to picking out the right fork or spoon or to tilting either at the proper angle, writes Drury Underwood in the Chicago Post. A fledgling diner out, theoretically, may keep up a conversation with his designated companion and also an eager eye on a model across the way. A merely casual hesitancy will allow him to stall until he sees what weapon to choose for the fish.

The chances for the majority of us to decide what to do in an emergency are remote, but are to be considered. Place yourself in the situation of Frederick Upham Adams at Newport.

Mr. Adams had accepted an invitation from the O. H. P. Belmonts—the male one, to be exact—and after a Scotch overture luncheon was announced.

"Grizzly," said O. H. P., "Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish is to lunch with us, but that need not make any difference."

"Certainly not," said Oris. "Nobody can make me unhappy."

The meal proceeded smoothly, with the assistance of an assortment of butlers and a waiter for each person, but there was a crisis ahead.

The doors of the serving room flew open and a flunky came in, staggering under an imposing dish. It was a castle constructed of meats, with a wall of jelly and a moat of rice. There were parapets and towers and a portcullis; likewise a porte cochere, but this probably was a gastronomic anachronism.

Mr. Adams never batted an eye, because, being a novelist, he had to be familiar with such scenes for a proper standing in fiction. He had a tricky host to deal with, however, for O. H. P. indicated by a glance that the open spot in front of Mr. Adams' plate was to be the terminal for the pie.

Grizzly looked in vain for the sign of a mistake. Instead there was confirmation in the stony eyes of O. H. P. There was nothing for him to do but to proceed. He recalled "Ivanhoe" and the carrying of the castle by assault, but in brief reflection saw that the dismantling of the wall would be to undo the work of some chef, who, in all likelihood, had put in two or three days on the job. So he disengaged a rampart of ham without pulling down the structure and removed a chicken tower flying a flag of carved radish.

Then O. H. P. relaxed and gave a momentary gleam of approval.

"It was the quickest thought of my life," said Mr. Adams in review of the incident as he ordered pork shanks.

Tears in the Contract.

A southern lawyer has gained statewide repute for his success in pleading criminal cases. His claim to fame is that he sheds real tears while urging juries to save his innocent clients, and the clause "No tears, no pay!" is a part of every contract he makes.

He had a case not long ago that seemed easy on the start, but developed later into a most difficult one. Not long after he had turned on the tears the attorney had 11 of the jury weeping also. One stony-hearted juror sat and glared at him. Tears had no effect on him. The attorney redoubled his efforts and his tears. He devoted himself entirely to this adamant juror. Tears splashed from his eyes and dewed his whiskers and his waistcoat. He talked eloquently and cried still more eloquently. Presently the set features of the determined juror relaxed a bit.

Brushing away most of the tears the attorney turned his back to the juror and bent down to get a glass of water. As he stooped he whispered to his law partner, who sat near him: "John, I've never lost one yet! That darned old sucker can't hold out two minutes more."

And he didn't.—Saturday Evening Post.

Seldom.

It is seldom that a man succeeds in overestimating his own unimportance.

AUDITOR DAVIS

Instructs Township Assessors to Get Personal Property on the Duplicate.

The following instructions will be given to all township assessors by County Auditor Davis, and special efforts will be made to get all personal property in Lake County on the Tax duplicate.

ISSUED FROM THE OFFICE OF
THE TAX COMMISSION OF OHIO
COLUMBUS

General Rules to be Followed by Assessors in Listing Personal Property.

The following general rules are prescribed by The Tax Commission of Ohio for the government of Assessors in listing personal property for taxation.

1st—The Assessor must call upon every person of full age and sound mind, whether male or female, residing in his township, village, ward or precinct to list his or her personal property. A wife is required to list her property separate from the property of her husband.

2nd—The Assessor must require every person to list his or her property or make affidavit, on the blank provided for that purpose, that he or she does not own personal property subject to taxation of the value of $100.

3rd—The Assessor must ask every person whether he or she has in his or her possession or under his or her control as parent, guardian, trustee, executor, administrator, receiver, accounting officer, factor, agent or otherwise, any personal property subject to taxation. Such property must be listed upon a separate blank from such person's individual property.

4th—The Assessor must inquire of each person particularly as to the ownership of watches, jewelry, diamonds or other precious stones, stock or deposits in Building and Loan Companies, money on deposit in Banks, and moneys, credits or other effects converted into non-taxable securities during the past year.

5th—The Assessor must require each person to sign and swear to his or her statement and the oath must be actually administered by the Assessor. If any person refuses or neglects to list his or her property or take and subscribe the oath thereto, the Assessor must ascertain the amount and value of such person's property and return the same. For this purpose he may examine on oath any person whom he thinks has knowledge thereof, or if unable to obtain positive evidence of the items or value he may make the statement from general reputation and his own knowledge of facts and circumstances.

6th—The Assessor must not return a statement as "sworn" unless he has actually administered the oath to the person making such statement.

7th—Each Assessor is required to take an oath to be administered by the County Auditor or other official authorized to administer oaths, which is in part as follows: "That in no case have I knowingly omitted to demand of any person, of whom by law I was required to make such demand, a statement of the description and value of personal property * * * which he was required to list, or failed to endorse on any return made by me in cases in which the owner refused or neglected to list, or swear, the words, "refused to list," or "refused to swear," or failed to swear as required by law, any person who purports to have been sworn as returned by me."

8th—An Assessor who fails to call upon any person to list his or her property or returns a statement as "sworn" when the oath has not been actually administered, violates his own oath and it is the duty of the County Auditor to institute proceedings to have him fined not less than ten nor more than two hundred dollars as provided by Section 3355 of the General Code.

9th—A County Auditor is not permitted under the law to issue a warrant to an Assessor for his compensation until he is satisfied that the Assessor has fully performed his duty under the law.

10th—Assessors must not list and return the property of Public Utilities, and Incorporated Companies, but should make a memorandum of the name and address of each Incorporated Company located or doing business in his district and deliver the same to the County Auditor for his use.

11th—Assessors must urge and insist upon all property being returned and at its true value in money. (See Section 3355 of the General Code.) Every case of omission or undervaluation of property should be reported to the County Auditor for his information and that of the Boards of Equalization and Review.

12th—As the law now guarantees a low tax rate there can be no reasonable excuse for the failure of any one to return all his or her property at its true value and assessors are directed to use every effort to secure full and true returns, making special effort to discover property that has heretofore escaped taxation.

Her Motive.

Pretty well all the big things women do are done for men, I believe. Foolish it may be, but I suppose it's human nature. We are made so, and must put up with it.—Robert Hichens.

Why One Still Lived.

"How many deaths!" asked the hospital physician, while going his rounds. "Nine." "Why, I ordered medicine for ten." "Yes, but one wouldn't take it."

"My little son had a very severe cold. I was recommended to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and before a small bottle was finished he was as well as ever," writes Mrs. H. Silke, 29 Dowling Street, Sydney, Australia. This remedy is for sale by all dealers.

DR. BULL'S
Cough Syrup

Have you a cold with a hacking or racking cough, hoarseness, bronchitis, grippe; or an asthmatic or pulmonary cough with sore chest? Has the baby croup, whooping cough or measles cough?

SAMPLE, FREE.

Then test the old reliable Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, free. Write to A. C. Meyer & Co., Baltimore, Md. Mention this paper.

"I had a very bad cold and cough and I used the valuable Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup with the best results: one bottle cured me entirely."
Frances E. Loane, Bridgeville, Del.

REGULAR BOTTLE, 25 CTS.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup contains no morphine or chloroform. It is safest and best.

ORDINANCE 866

An ordinance to regulate the use and operation of motorcycles and motor bicycles on, upon or over the streets of Painesville.

Section 1. From and after the passage of this ordinance it shall be unlawful for any person or persons, firm or corporation to run, operate, propel or drive, or cause to be run, operated, propelled or driven on, over, or upon the streets or highways of the City of Painesville any motorcycle or motor bicycle, the motive power of which shall be electricity, steam, gasoline or any source of energy other than human power, except under the following restrictions and regulations:

Section 2. Every motorcycle or motor bicycle shall at all times when run, operated, used or driven upon the streets or highways of the City of Painesville be provided with a good and sufficient brake, which brake shall make it possible to check any forward or backward motion, and a suitable bell, horn or other audible signal, which shall be rung or blown by the operator whenever approaching any street intersection, he shall be riding not more than one hundred or less than thirty feet distant therefrom and in warning other vehicles and drivers upon the highways of his presence whenever there is danger of collision or accident.

They shall also be provided with all other appliances and apparatus such as sufficient condensers to prevent the unnecessary escape of steam or vapor, or improved mufflers to stop any unnecessary noise in the operation or management of said vehicle upon the highways.

Section 3. No person in charge of any motorcycle or motor bicycle shall run, operate, propel or drive the same on, upon or over any public street, alley, highway, road or driveway in the business portion in the City of Painesville at a rate of speed greater than eight (8) miles an hour, and in all other parts of said city the rate of speed of said motorcycles or motor bicycles shall not be greater than fifteen (15) miles an hour.

Section 4. No person while running, operating, propelling or driving any motor cycle or motor bicycle over any public street, alley, highway, road or driveway, shall carry any other person or a passenger except at the rear of the operator on a suitable seat provided for that purpose.

Section 5. No person in charge of any motorcycle or motor bicycle shall run, operate, propel or drive the same on, upon or over any sidewalk adjacent to any street, highway, road or driveway in any portion within the corporate limits of the said city of Painesville.

Section 6. Motorcycles or motor bicycles shall always exhibit during the period while in use, from twilight to dawn a suitable lamp showing a white light visible within a reasonable distance in the direction towards which the motorcycle or motor bicycle is proceeding.

Section 7. No person shall run, operate, propel or drive or cause to be run, operated, propelled or driven any such motorcycle or motor bicycle within the limits of the City of Painesville without first obtaining a license from the City Clerk. The fee for such license shall be One Dollar and Fifty Cents ($1.50) which shall be deposited in the general fund of the city. These licenses shall be granted annually, but they shall expire on December 31st following the date of issue. It shall be the duty of any applicant for such license to furnish the City Clerk his name and address with a brief description of the motorcycle or motor bicycle to be registered, including the name of the maker, factory number, style and motor power. Thereupon it shall be the duty of the said City Clerk to file such statement in his office, to register such motorcycle or motor bicycles in a book kept for that purpose and assign it a distinctive number. The City Clerk shall also furnish to each of said applicants for license under this ordinance a plate of such design and pattern as the City Clerk may prescribe, containing the number to be assigned to said motorcycle or motor bicycle, said number to be in Arabic numerals, white on black ground, each not less than three inches in height and each stroke to be of a width not less than one-half of an inch, which plate shall be rigidly attached and displayed at the rear of such motorcycle or motor bicycle in such manner as plainly to be visible at all times.

Section 8. Any person violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be fined not less than Five Dollars ($5) and not more than Twenty-five Dollars ($25) or imprisoned not more than ten (10) days, or both.

Section 9. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and legal publication.

Passed April 1, 1912.

ELBERT F. BLAKELY,
President of the Council.

Attest:
FRANK L. KELLY, Clerk.
Approved April 2, 1912.
WYNNE F. SMITH,
Mayor.

JUDICIAL CONVENTION

Painesville, Ohio, April 2, 1912

Be it resolved by a majority vote of the Democratic Judicial Committee of the common pleas district comprising Ashtabula, Geauga and Lake Counties that a delegate convention be and is hereby called to meet in Ashtabula, Ohio, City Hall, June 1, 1912, at 3 P. M. Central Standard time to nominate a judicial ticket for said district to be voted for at the coming November election; and each county shall be entitled to as many delegates to said convention as it is entitled to have by law in the coming state Convention, viz Ashtabula, 6, Geauga, 2, Lake, 3, who shall be chosen according to law as the several county committees shall determine.

C. A. CORBIN,
Chairman.
F. D. MALIN,
Sec'y Judicial Committee.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

State Highway Department,
Columbus, Ohio, March 28, 1912.

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Commissioners of Lake County, at Painesville, Ohio, until ten o'clock A. M., April 25th, 1912, for grading and paving with a bituminated concrete the Madison Southern Road in Madison Township, said County. Length 7455 feet or 1.41 miles; width of pavement 12 feet; estimated cost of construction $8788.85. A draft or certified check for $300 shall be deposited with each bid. The successful bidder shall be required to give bond for an amount equal to the contract price, for the faithful performance of the obligations within the contract. Date set for completion August 1, 1912.

Plans and specifications are on file in the offices of the County Commissioners and the State Highway Department.

The State Highway Commissioner reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

JAMES R. MARKER,
State Highway Commissioner.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed bids will be received at the office of the Board of Park Commissioners of Painesville Township at ................ Painesville, Ohio, until noon on April 4, 1912, for constructing a Bath House and Pavilion at Painesville Park at the north end of Hardy Road on the lake shore.

Plans and specifications are on file and blank proposals may be obtained at the office of the Board or from Stinchcomb and Boddy, Engineers, 627 B. of L. E. Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

Proposals must be made on blanks furnished by the Board and each bid must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars, payable to the Board of Park Commissioners of Painesville Tp. as a surety that if the proposal be accepted a contract will be entered into.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

The Board of Park Commissioners,
By R. S. BELKNAP,
Sec'y.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed bids will be received at the office of the Board of Park Commissioners of Painesville Township at ................ Painesville, Ohio, until noon on April 4, 1912, for constructing a Timber Retaining Wall at Painesville Park at the north end of Hardy Road on the lake shore.

Plans and specifications are on file and blank proposals may be obtained at the office of the Board or from Stinchcomb and Boddy, Engineers, 627 B. of L. E. Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

Proposals must be made on blanks furnished by the Board and each bid must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of Fifty ($50.00) Dollars, payable to the Board of Park Commissioners of Painesville Tp. as a surety that if the proposal be accepted a contract will be entered into.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

The Board of Park Commissioners,
By R. S. BELKNAP,
Sec'y.

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Insurance Of all kinds

FIRE, LIFE, AUTOMOBILE, AND LIABILITY INSURANCE

Twenty-five of the strongest and safest companies represented and all losses promptly paid.

E. D. BARBER
The Insurance Man.

FIRE INSURANCE
REAL ESTATE
ABSTRACTS
AND LOANS

A. M. WARN
P. O. BLOCK

HAVE YOUR STATIONERY EMBOSSED
Initials, Crests, Monograms,
Engraved to Your Order,
Stamped in Gold or Color, also Illuminating.
The Educational Supply Co., - Painesville
128 South State Street.

DR. E. L. NORTON and DR. H. D. RAND
DENTISTS
Nitrous Oxide Administered
Office hours: 9 to 12 a.m., 1 to 5 p.m.
Telephone, Metz 484.
Cor. Main and St. Clair, Painesville

MARTIN A. TUTTLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Painesville, Ohio,
Postoffice Block.

H. T. NOLAN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Pioneer Trust Bldg. Painesville, O.

MORLEY & WARREN,
GRANITE AND MARBLE WORKS
Painesville, Ohio
The Best Stock and First-class Work
Cor. State and Washington Streets

BURGESS GRANITE WORKS,
Cor. State and Erie Streets.
We give Eagle Stamps.
We are the only dealers in Lake, Geauga, Trumbull and Portage counties authorized to sell the celebrated White Bronze monuments with the greatly improved finish.

Johnson
Custom Tailor
131 N. State St.
WE DO SANITARY STEAM CLEANING AND PRESSING.

SEND $2.00
For a Gallon of this
Good Whiskey
Equal to $3.50 grade. $5 Whiskey at $3 per gallon.

Duffy Malt Whiskey Per Bottle - - - - 89c

Guckenheimer or Golden Wedding Rye
$2.69 Per Gallon
2 Gallons $5.00

All high grade, guaranteed liquor at reduced prices. Sent in plain packages to any address.

A. Cohn, Wholesale Liquor Store, 5819 ST. CLAIR, 4 doors East of 55th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the stockholders of The Dollar Savings Bank Company, it was duly determined to liquidate the affairs of said corporation and close its business. The creditors of said Corporation are hereby notified to present their claims against it for payment on or before May 1st, 1912.

THE DOLLAR SAVINGS BANK CO.
By A. L. ASSMUS, Vice President.
W. R. RADCLIFFE, Secretary.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of The Dollar Savings Bank Company will be held on the 2d day of May 1912, at 2:30 o'clock P. M., at the office of the Company, corner of Main and St. Clair streets, in the City of Painesville to consider the question of surrendering and abandoning its corporate authority.

THE DOLLAR SAVINGS BANK CO.
By A. L. ASSMUS, Vice President.
W. R. RADCLIFFE, Secretary.

The Idea, Quality and Style are all combined in our productions.

Let us prove this to you for we have the skill, facilities, capacity and disposition to do so. Will send samples and quotations on request.

Eclipse Electrotype & Engraving Co.
CLEVELAND

---

NEW FIRM

THE PAINESVILLE
COAL FEED & SUPPLY CO.
Successors to Cole Coal Co.

are doing business still at the same old stand that has for so many years been a feed store and coal yard.

The patrons of the Cole Coal Co. will find everything pertaining to the business methods about the same as usual as all the old employees will be retained.

Fair, Square Dealing is the foremost of our principles and that we intend to carry through our entire business.

We solicit a share of your patronage and would thank you for a call if only to get acquainted.

Where Cleanliness Reigns

Quality Groceries Await You Here

Our Prices Please and Are Worth Watching

Adapted to the saving pocket book

There's a reason for our growth

THESE WILL PLEASE

Elliott & Ruhling

French Dry Cleaning

Eliminates the soil from the finest and most delicate garments without loss of color or shrinkage and

Cleans Your Garments Clean

We French Dry Clean in a superior manner. Prompt service and prices the lowest consistent with first class work.

Painesville Dry Cleaning Co.
CHAS. FINK, Mgr.
Phone 219 R 109 South St. Clair St.
PAINESVILLE, O.

Work Called for and Delivered.

CHOOSE your bank carefully. Look for the safety of large capital and surplus; for capable, strong management; for modern facilities; for prompt, courteous attention on the part of the employees.

You'll find all these qualifications in The Cleveland Trust Company.

PAINESVILLE OFFICE
The Cleveland Trust Company
SAVINGS BANK
W. R. RADCLIFFE, Mgr.
W. C. TISDEL, Chairman

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION

The Lake County board of examiners will offer examinations for teachers' certificates on the first Saturday of each month in the year 1911. If first Saturday falls on holiday, examinations will be held one week later. Boxwell pupils will be examined the third Saturday in April and the third Saturday in May, 1911. All examinations will be held in the old High School building, Painesville, beginning at 8:15 standard time.

By order of the board,
J. R. ADAMS, Clerk,
Unionville, Ohio.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad

FLORIDA

Special round trip, via Washington and rail, or via Baltimore and boat. Stop over anywhere. Limit June 1st.

CALIFORNIA, OREGON, WASHINGTON

Colonist one way reduced fares. Beginning March 1st.

See Ticket Agent or write M. G. Carrel, D. P. A., 341 Euclid Ave, Cleveland, O.

The Eureka

POOL PARLORS and SMOKE HOUSE

SOFT DRINKS, CANDIES and a Full Line of CIGARETTES

ELECTRIC PIANO for the amusement of all patrons

J. H. MATHEWS, Prop.
118 So. State St., Painesville, O.

OUR SPECIAL OFFER

THE HERALD AND
La Follette's Weekly Magazine

BOTH A FULL YEAR FOR ONLY

$1.25

You can read every week what Senator Robert M. La Follette, the fearless champion of the people's rights, the leader of the progressive Republicans, thinks and says for

ONLY 25 CENTS MORE
Than the Price of The Herald Alone

A stirring and momentous campaign is opening. You will want to be posted. You will want the record of your congressman. Does he represent YOU? You will want information about the great political issues you and your friends are talking about. Senator La Follette knows what is going on at Washington. He is on the ground; behind the scenes. He tells you all about it in LA FOLLETTE'S WEEKLY MAGAZINE.

Sixteen pages of crisp editorials and interesting special articles each week.

La Follette's 1 yr. $1.00
Herald . . 1 yr. $1.00
OUR OFFER $1.25

ADDRESS

The Lake County Herald, Painesville, Ohio

A. A. CALLENDER
ALL KINDS OF
Light and Heavy Draying
FURNITURE AND PIANO MOVING A SPECIALTY.
Home Phone—Main 291 Bell Phone 143-R

TRUBY COAL CO.

COAL and COKE
LIME, CEMENT, SEWER PIPE, TILE, ETC.
BOTH PHONES 21

MENTOR

The weather has moderated very much, and mud is reigning just now, the snow having all melted except in small patches here and there in shady places. Grass is just beginning to show a suspicion of green, and all sorts of farm work is leisurely going on—quite a good deal of plowing having been accomplished during the past two weeks.

On Thursday evening of this week Union services are to begin and extend from April 4th to 14th. The Disciple church, the Y. M. C. A. and the Methodist church have all agreed to combine forces and try to have a good meeting. A "Gospel Team" of four students from the Western Reserve University comes down on Thursday, and will stay during their Easter vacation. It has been thought that words from consecrated Christian young men might have more influence with other young people than anything that older folks might say—and so, the experiment is to be tried. The services will be in the Methodist church Thursday and Friday evenings, and in the Disciple church Saturday and Sunday evenings, alternating after that, and remaining two evenings in each place. The two young new preachers are at the head of this thing, and we hope it will succeed.

The latest report from Dan McCarty is that the hospital physicians have never had the least idea from the first that he would recover. A drainage tube was put into the injured lung, but it does not drain and an operation to clear off the accumulated "pus" had to be resorted to, and will have to be done again—if he lives. The bullet is still in the liver.

While we have never thought to excuse our Mentor boys in anything not kind and gentlemanly, we certainly cannot excuse a rowdy coming to us from another village, armed with a gun, evidently intending to kill somebody.

Two of our young men went up to see Dan McCarty last week, and found him lying very white, very still, and very deaf. When asked if they could do anything for him, with wan lips he replied "Just look after my mother."

Mrs. O. C. McKane is at present visiting with friends down in Marietta.

Mrs. Edwin Hodge and her daughter, Mrs. Lillian Parmelee, are both on the road to recovery, if no farther complications ensue.

Mrs. Bertha McIntosh and Miss Florence Rose of Cleveland spent the day here on Friday, at the home of Mrs. Hodge, they having come down to see their sister, Mrs. Frankie Rose Hodge, who, with her husband, is still here, having hurried from their home in Indianapolis at the call of mother and sister. We are always quite sure that we have the best folks in the world, right here in Mentor, and these Rose girls and Will Hodge are Mentor folks and always will be—to some of us.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church, held a most successful anniversary meeting last Tuesday evening, and many of their friends were present and enjoyed the evening in the church parlors. They are still bending every energy towards raising money for a good pipe-organ.

Mr. Charles Johnson, who has been wintering in California, also Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Hart, are all expected to arrive at home sometime this week. W. P. Morley will stay a few days longer down in Florida, but about the middle of April expects to come home and go to work on his farm, but Mrs. Morley and her father, Mr. Samuel Whiting, will linger on in balmy Florida until May, (and then come home when it is just getting nice down there! One really ought to stay until June to see Florida at its best.)

Mrs. Frank Corcina, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. John Code, spent a day or so with Willoughby friends recently.

Stanley Kelly was taken very sick last week, and ordered by his doctor over in Willoughby, to go home and to bed. Accordingly, he came over here after his little new wife, and both drove down to the Plains in that horrid rain of Friday, to the Kelly home. Since then, we have not been able to hear a word!

Mr. and Mrs. John Brichford of Waite Hill spent a short time down here with relatives last week.

All the Mentor schools are having vacation, and most of the teachers have gone away for the time being, and to get a little needed rest.

George Hart has been on the sick list for a number of days, and his place in the Carleton grocery has been taken by Lloyd Carleton.

Neville Sryson has been very sick while down at Columbus at school, and had to be taken to a hospital there, his auntie Miss Jenny Yeoman going down to take care of him. At last hearing, he was getting along alright.

Miss Alta Griswold of Cleveland has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Phelps.

The ladies of North Mentor have formed a Home Missionary Society and Mrs. Jessie Brooks is the new president, while Mrs. Emma Hayes is vice president, and Mrs. Jennie Brooks is treasurer.

Mrs. Ed Sanborn is having a visit from her friend, Miss Emma Elter of Madison.

George Hagenberger is staying some weeks at Cambridge Springs.

The Easter services in the M. E. church are to be held in the morning instead of the regular preaching service and the Sunday school will do the "performing" with some good music by the choir.

Mr. Charles Lamb of Unionville, Ohio., is spending a little time here with the family of his son, Harry Lamb.

The third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cooper, a little girl probably twelve or thirteen years old, has recently been taken to Cleveland where she is with relatives and is being treated for tuberculosis. Your readers may remember that an older sister of this child, died not so very long ago, with consumption.

Alonzo Ritter has recently been putting electric lighting into his house, we hear.

Albert Hanson's sale passed off fairly well, in spite of the cold and disagreeable rain that set in soon after noon. Mr. Hanson's stock all brought fair prices, and we think he got off better than some who are obliged to sell valuable animals at public sale. Men came from all the adjoining territory to make their bids, and things were pretty well cleared up by night-fall. E. D. Barber of Painesville acted as clerk. Mr. and Mrs. Hanson will probably not leave for Canada much before May, probably not then, unless it gets thawed out up there.

Miss Virginia Sawyer is at home from Villa Angela for spring vacation and her brother, George Sawyer, has been at home for some days enjoying a mild case of mumps.

Miss Eva Richner was married a few days ago to Mr. Maynard Norris in their own furnished home here, which we think is a very nice plan, and wonder why more young people don't do in that way and so get rid of that everlasting throwing of rice and old shoes, or having to run for their lives, etc.

T. D. Morley has put in an "Electric Motor" which cuts up all sorts of "fodder" thereby saving much hard work, and recently it has taken to doing the family washing. More machines of that kind are surely coming this way.

If there is a chance to again see Conductor Johnny Lane, there will not be standing room at the Mentor depot for all who remember his kindness in the years that are past, and who would be glad to tell him so.

The name of Dr. Weber had often been a household name among our people, and his death was very much regretted by a number of persons here.

Mrs. Burton Smith has recently been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Bell of Black Lick, Pa., for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Merkle were in Cleveland over Sunday with relatives.

Mr. Norman Frost is putting in a "Power Corn Sheller" having concluded that to shell seven or eight hundred bushels of seed corn by hand was a trifle too much to undertake. Order for that "corn that grows" are coming in so fast, that any of our Lake County farmers will have to hustle to get in their orders before it is all gone. (This is not an "ad" but just a hint of a "fact.")

The Sabbath School class of Mrs. Harry King are to have the first sugar social of the year, the time set being Wednesday of this week. The class is composed of school girls who are paying the way for a girl in Ada Lee's school in Calcutta, in whom they have become very much interested, but they have to ask some help about a part of it, as school children seldom have much spending money of their very own.

Miss Mabel McLean of Union City, Pa., is expected at the residence of Mr. Franklin Murray next Saturday, for a little visit over Easter, (and to renew acquaintance with the new preacher, but don't tell anybody! Everybody is wondering if they will like "her" as well as they do "him.")

Our genial delivery man, George Hart, is the proud "papa" of the new little baby girl, "Harriet Elizabeth," who has come to his house to stay.

The next Miscellany Club is to be a social affair, at the home of Mrs. Marsh, the "mere man" not being invited this time.

We understand that Glenn McFarland is going onto the Lake this coming summer, it being his ambition to make a sailor of himself.

Clyde Allen of Kirtland, who recently married our Miss Norton, has already gone to Chicago, and expects to have charge of a boat this summer.

Mark Roberts who has been up in the city all winter, has returned, and will be kept very busy all season in hanging paper and house painting, as he, together with his brother, Mr. Ralph Roberts, worked up a very good trade in that line last year, and made many friends.

Mrs. Eliza Rexford has been very sick at the home of her only daughter, Mrs. Frank Smith, where she has been cared for, one may rest assured.

James R. Garfield and Mrs. Garfield are at "Holly Croft" where they are to soon welcome their student sons for the Easter vacation, the boys declaring it is no vacation at all, if they have to put it in up in a dirty old city.

Mrs. Clark Ordway has recently been called to her old home in North Girard, Pa., by the illness of her father, Mr. McCullough, who was better however, at last reports.

The W. C. T. U. are to have a county Conference here on the 23rd, at which there will be a contest, a basket dinner, etc.

VERY LOW ONE WAY COLONIST RATES VIA NICKEL PLATE ROAD to points in the West, Northwest and Southwest. Tickets good going March 1 to April 15, inclusive. Ask Agent or write J. C. Melenbacker, D. P. A., Erie, Pa. No. 2.

Sprung an Old One on Him.

By the way, I saw a string of exceptionally large monkeys. I mentioned that they looked like small men, and a darky broke in and said: "Boss, them monkeys can speak if they wanted to, but they are afraid that if they did they would be put to work."—Northwestern.

One Little Sin.

It is astonishing how soon the whole conscience begins to unravel if a single stitch drops; one little sin indulged makes a hole you could put your head through.—Charles Buxton.

Why He Was Late.

"What made you so late?"

"I met Smithson."

"Well, that is no reason why you should be an hour late getting home to supper."

"I know, but I asked him how he was feeling, and he insisted on telling me about his stomach trouble."

"Did you tell him to take Chamberlain's Tablets?"

"Sure, that is what he needs."

Sold by all dealers.

THE MARKETS.

Buyers are Paying for

| | |
|---|---|
| Wheat | 1 01 |
| Rye | .90 |
| Corn | .75 |
| Oats | .55 |
| Baled hay per ton | $22-$25 |
| Baled straw per ton | $11-$13 |
| Butter, No. 1 dairy | .28 |
| Eggs | .21 |
| Lard (home rendered) | .12 |
| Pork, dressed | .08½ |
| Chickens | 12-13 |
| Veal | 10-11 |
| Beef, dressed | 8-10 |
| Tallow, per pound | .05 |
| Potatoes | 1 10 |
| Honey | 18-16 |
| Maple syrup, per gal. | 90-$1 00 |

Retail Price for

| | |
|---|---|
| Flour, Royal Patent, per sk. | 1 60 |
| Flour, Golden Eagle, per sk | 1 40 |
| Flour, Elevator, per sk | 1.35 |
| Flour, rye, per sk | 1 60 |
| Graham Flour, per lb | .03 |
| Corn | 83 |
| Oats | 64 |
| Corn Meal | 1 60 |
| Chop feed, straight corn and oats | 1 70 |
| Middlings | 1 65 |
| Bran | 1 50 |
| Baled straw, cwt | 80 |
| Butter, creamery | 37 |
| Butter, dairy | 32 |
| Eggs, per dozen | 24 |
| Potatoes, per bu. | 1 30 |
| Potatoes, per pk | 33 |

Mentor Wall Paper Store
NEW STOCK ON HAND
Besides a Large Assortment in Books which I would be pleased to show you
R. M. CASE

HAVE YOUR FIRE INSURANCE WRITTEN AT HOME
We represent one of the Largest and Best Companies
The National Fire Insurance Co. of Hartford
R. M. CASE & CO.

NEW GOODS AND NEW FIXTURES
WE AIM TO CARRY THE VERY BEST IN
Staple and Fancy Groceries
WITH A STOCK OF
Cigars and Tobacco
In keeping with all other lines. We shall appreciate your trade and will endeavor to please.
BURR & RUST
CORNER STATE AND MAIN

Painesville's Leading Planing Mill.
DRESSED LUMBER IS LIKE A DEAD DOG.
The bark is all off. You'll find no bark to our lumber, although we do a good deal of barking about it. We have the stock, and feel justified in barking. When you want the best lumber, bark up this tree, and you'll find it.
S. L. MALIN & SON
"Focus on Lumber."
Phone 127

A. D. McLEAN
FIRE INSURANCE, REAL ESTATE
SINGER SEWING MACHINES
All makes of machines cleaned and repaired.
135 S. State St. Painesville, Ohio

A REMEDY FOR EVERY ILL IN
THE NYAL REMEDIES
—at—
PARK'S PHARMACY
"The Nyal Store"

Painesville's Leading Drug Store.
Registered Pharmacists in attendance at all times.
The Corner Pharmacy
J. G. DAVET, Proprietor.

FIRE, LIFE, ACCIDENT, HEALTH
—AND—
PLATE GLASS INSURANCE
FRANK L. KERR

Everybody Loves A Winner.

Year after year, as steadily as clockwork, the

UNDERWOOD TYPEWRITER

demonstrates its superiority in speed and reliability by winning every typewriting contest in every class at the Annual Business Show, Madison Square Garden, New York City.

1911 RECORDS

World's Professional Championship (One Hour)

1st—UNDERWOOD H. O. Blaisdell 112 words per minute
2nd—UNDERWOOD Florence E. Wilson 111 " " "
3rd—UNDERWOOD Rose L. Fritz 107 " " "
4th—UNDERWOOD E. A. Trefzger 107 " " "
5th—UNDERWOOD J. L. Hoyt 106 " " "

World's Amateur Championship (Thirty Minutes)

1st UNDERWOOD Gus F. Trefzger 98 words per minute
2nd—UNDERWOOD Margaret B. Owen 98 " " "
3rd UNDERWOOD Bessie Friedman 90 " " "
4th UNDERWOOD Lottie E. Betts 83 " " "

World's School Championship (Fifteen Minutes)

1st—UNDERWOOD William F. Oswald 77 words per minute

World's Edison Transcribing Contest (Ten Minutes)

1st—UNDERWOOD Lottie E. Betts 63 words per minute

NOTE—Above records are net. Five words were deducted for each and every error.

The Official Record of the UNDERWOOD for one hour's work is 26 words per minute greater than the best official record of any other competing machine.

Every UNDERWOOD used in above Championship Contests is a STOCK machine, an exact duplicate of which can be purchased in every large city in the world.

"The Machine You Will Eventually Buy"

Underwood Typewriter Co., Inc.

822 Huron Road, CLEVELAND

The GIRL from His Town

by Marie Van Vorst

ILLUSTRATIONS by M. G. KETTNER.

COPYRIGHT 1910 by The Bobbs-Merrill Company

SYNOPSIS.

Dan Blair, the 22-year-old son of the fifty-million-dollar copper king of Blairtown, Mont., is a guest at the English home of Lady Galorey. Dan's father had been courteous to Lord Galorey during his visit to the United States and the courtesy is now being returned to the young man. The youth has an ideal girl in his mind. He meets Lily, Duchess of Breakwater, a beautiful widow, who is attracted by his immense fortune and takes a liking to her. When Dan was a boy, a girl sang a solo at a church, and he had never forgotten her. The Galoreys, Lily and Dan attend a London theater where one Letty Lane is the star. Dan recognizes her as the girl from his town, and going behind the scenes introduces himself and she remembers him. He learns that Prince Poniotowsky is suitor and escort to Letty. Lord Galorey and a friend named Ruggles determine to protect the westerner from Lily and other fortune hunters. Young Blair goes to see Lily; he can talk of nothing but Letty and this angers the Duchess. The westerner finds Letty ill from hard work, but she recovers and Ruggles and Dan invite her to supper.

CHAPTER XI.—Continued.

"Yes," she accepted, "out of sight of Blairtown and everybody I ever knew. I went away the next day." She lifted her glass of champagne to her lips. "Here's one thing I oughtn't to do," she said, "but I'm going to just the same. I'm going to do everything I want this evening. Remember, I let you drink six glasses of chocolate soda once." She drained her glass and her friends drank with her. "I like this soup awfully. What is it?"—just touching it with her spoon.

"Why," Ruggles hastened to tell her, "it ain't a party soup, it's Scotch broth. But somehow it sounded good on the bill of fare. I fixed the rest of the dinner up for you and Dan, but I let myself go on the soup. It's my favorite."

She did not eat it, however, although she said it was splendid and that she was crazy about it.

"Did you come East then?" Dan returned to what she had been saying.

"Yes, that week, went to Paris and all over the place."

She instantly fell into a sort of melancholy. It was easy to be seen that she did not want to talk about her past and yet that it fascinated her.

"Just think of it," he exclaimed. "I never heard a word about you until I heard you sing the other night."

The actress laughed and told him that he had made up for lost time and that he was a regular "sitter" now at the Gaiety.

Ruggles said, "He took me every night to see you dance until I balked, Miss Lane."

"Still, it's a perfectly great show, Mr. Ruggles, don't you think so? I like it better than any part I ever had. I am interested about it for the sake of the man who wrote it, too. It's his first opera—he's an invalid and has a wife and five kids to look after."

And Ruggles replied, "Oh, gracious! I feel better than ever, having gone ten times, although I wasn't very sore about it before! Ain't you going to eat anything?"

She only picked at her food, drinking what they poured in her glass, and every time she spoke to Dan a look of charming kindness crossed her face, an expression of good fellowship which Ruggles noted with interest.

"I wish you could have seen this same author today at the rehearsal of the play," Letty Lane went on. "He's too ill to walk and they had to carry him in a chair. We all went round to his apartments after the theater. He lives in three rooms with his whole family and he's had so many debts and so much trouble and such a poor contract that he hasn't made much out of 'Mandalay,' but I guess he will out of this new piece. He hugged and kissed me until I thought he would break my neck."

London had gone mad over Letty Lane, whose traits and contour were the admiration of the world at large and well-known even to the newsboys, and whose likeness was nearly as familiar as that of the Madonnas of old. Her face was oval and perfectly formed, with the reddest of mouths—the most delicious and softest of mouths—the line of her brows clear and straight, and her gray eyes large and as innocent and appealing as a child's; under their long lashes they opened up like flowers. It was said that no man could withstand their appeal, that she had but to look to make a man her slave, and as more than once she turned to Dan, smiling and gracious, Ruggles watched her, mutely thinking of what he had heard this day, for after her letter came accepting their invitation he had taken pains to find out the things he wanted to know. It had not been difficult. As her face and form were public, on every post-card and in every photographer's shop, so the actress' reputation was the property of the public.

As Ruggles repeated these things to himself, he watched her beside the son of his old friend. They were talking—rather she was—and behind the orchids and the ferns, her voice was sweet and enthralling. Ruggles tried to appreciate his bill of fare while the two appreciated each other. It was strange to Dan to have her so near and so approachable. His sights of her off the stage had been so slight and fleeting. On the boards she had seemed to be an unreal creation made for the public alone. Her dress, cut fearlessly low, displayed her lovely young bosom—soft, bloomy, white as a shell—and her head and ears were as delicate as the petals of a white rose. Low in the nape of her neck, her golden hair lay lightly, and from its soft masses fragrance came to him. Ruggles could hear her say: "Roach came to the house and told my people that I had a fortune in my voice. I was living with my uncle and my step-aunt and working in the store. And that same day your father sent down a check for five hundred dollars. He said it was 'for the little girl with the sweet voice,' and it gives me a lot of pleasure to think that I began my lessons on that money."

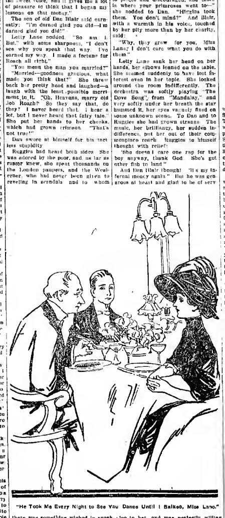
The son of old Dan Blair said earnestly: "I'm darned glad you did—I'm darned glad you did!"

Letty Lane nodded. "So am I. But," with some sharpness, "I don't see why you speak that way. I've earned my way. I made a fortune for Roach all right."

"You mean the man you married?"

"Married—goodness gracious, what made you think that?" She threw back her pretty head and laughed—a laugh with the least possible merriment in it. "Oh, Heavens, marry old Job Roach!" So they say that, do they? I never heard that. I hear a lot, but I never heard that fairy tale." She put her hands to her cheeks, which had grown crimson. "That's not true!"

Dan swore at himself for his tactless stupidity.



"He Took Me Every Night to See You Dance Until I Balked, Miss Lane."

Ruggles had heard both sides. She was adored by the poor, and, as far as rumor knew, she spent thousands on the London paupers, and the Westerner, who had never been given to reveling in scandals and to whom there was something wicked in speaking ill of a woman, no matter whom she might be, listened with embarrassment to tales he had been told in answer to his other questions, and turned with relief to the stories of Letty Lane's charity, and to [illegible] stories of her popularity and her success. They were more agreeable, but they couldn't make him forget the rest, and now as he looked at her face across the bouquet of orchids and ferns, it was with a sinking of heart, a great pity for her, and still a decided enmity. He disapproved of her down to the ground. He didn't let himself think how he felt, but it was for the boy. Ruggles was not a man of the world in any sense; he was simple and Puritan in his judgments, and his gentle nature and his big heart kept him from pharisaical and strenuous measures. He had been led in what he was doing tonight by a diplomacy and a common sense that few men east of the Mississippi would have thought out under the circumstances.

"Tell Mr. Ruggles," he heard Dan say to her, "tell him—tell him!"

And she answered:

"I was telling Mr. Blair that, as he is so frightfully rich, I want him to give me some money."

Ruggles gasped but answered quietly:

"Well, he's a great giver, Miss Lane."

"I guess he is if he's like his father," she returned. "I am trying to get a lot, though, out of him, and when you asked me to dine tonight I said to myself, 'I'll accept, for it will be a good time to ask Mr. Blair to help me out in what I want to do.'"

At Ruggles' face she smiled sweetly and said graciously:

"Oh, don't think I wouldn't have come anyway. But I'm awfully tired these days and going out to supper is just one thing too much to do! I want Mr. Blair," she said, turning to Ruggles as if she knew a word from him would make the thing go through, "to help me build a rest home down on the English coast, for girls who get discouraged in their art. When I think of the luck I have had and how these things have been from the beginning, and how money has just poured in, why," she said ardently, "it just makes my heart ache to think of the girls who try and fail, who go on for a little while and have to give up. You can't tell"—she nodded to Ruggles, as though she were herself a matron of forty—"you can not tell what their temptations are or what comes up to make them go to pieces."

Ruggles listened with interest.

"I haven't thought it all out yet, but so many come to me tired out and discouraged, and I think a nice home taken care of by a good creature like my Higgins, let us say, would be a perfect blessing to them. They could go there and rest and study and just think, and perhaps," she said slowly, as though while she spoke she saw a vision of a tired self, for whom there [illegible] place of retreat, "perhaps a lot of them would pull through in a different way. Now today"—she broke her meditative tone short—"I got a letter from a hospital where a poor thing that used to sing with me in New York was dying with consumption—all gone to pieces and discouraged, and there is where your primroses went to—" she nodded to Dan. "Higgins took them. You don't mind?" And Blair, with a warmth in his voice, touched by her pity more than by her charity, said:

"Why, they grew for you, Miss Lane; I don't care what you do with them."

Letty Lane sank her head on her hands, her elbows leaned on the table. She seemed suddenly to have lost interest even in her topic. She looked around the room indifferently. The orchestra was softly playing "The Dove Song" from "Mandalay," and very softly under her breath the star hummed it, her eyes vaguely fixed on some unknown scene. To Dan and to Ruggles she had grown strange. The music, her brilliancy, her sudden indifference, put her out of their commonplace reach. Ruggles to himself thought with relief:

"She doesn't care one rap for the boy anyway, thank God. She's got other fish to land."

And Dan Blair thought: "It's my infernal money again." But he was generous at heart and glad to be of service to her, and was perfectly willing to be "touched" for her poor. Then two or three men came up and joined them. She greeted them indolently, bestowing a word or look on this one or on that; all fire and light seemed to [illegible] gone out of her [illegible] said:

"You are tired. I guess I had better take you home."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

SHAKESPEARE, NAPOLEON—AND TY COBB

Artist Cesare Views Ty Cobb.

By HOMER CROY.

Residents of Royston, Ga., say this world has produced three great men: Shakespeare, Napoleon—and Ty Cobb. The bearded bard of Avon may have written a few plays that now give employment to Julia Marlowe and E. H. Sothern, but what did he know about the fallaway slide? The bow-legged little man who always wore his hat crossways may have won a war or two, but what sort of batting average did he have?

But speaking of real men whose names will go resounding, reverberating and re-echoing down the corridors of time, there is Mr. Tyrus R. Cobb who was born right in this town, sir! Picture cards showing his birthplace, the first goat he ever drove to a Proctor & Gamble soap-box wagon, and of his shaking hands with the president, three for five. The rubberneck wagon starts for Ty Cobb's old home in one minute—all aboard—seats a dollar! Yes, sir, right in that corner room 25 years ago last month. Yes, I used to go to school with him and we used to put frogs in the girls' desks and he calls me Pud to this day!

The first word he ever gurgled was "Ball bat," and before he could crawl the length of the room he would sit by the hour and suck the leather buckle of a fielder's glove. He was batting something over 290 before he knew who Santa Claus really was and by the day he had cut his milk teeth he had shaken his fist at two umpires and had spit at the coacher for the opposing team.

He was brought up on his grandfather's plantation, and when he would work he was one of the fastest cotton pickers in all the country, but it usually took his grandfather and two able bodied overseers to make him work.

His baseball experience began with his being shortstop for the Royston Midgets at the age of eight, and with the exception of one day during the summer of 1909 when he had an attack of biliousness, he has been in the prize automobile business ever since. His vocation is baseball, but his avocation is winning prize automobiles.

He was married in 1909, and has one son who can already converse in four baseball dialects and talk back to the umpire in words of three syllables.

Ty has flaxen hair and was named Tyrus by a maiden aunt who had had dyspepsia all her life. His middle name is Raymond, but when he is sitting in the half light with his back to the window you could never tell it.

He is the master of the slide, being able to coast in between the ankles of a knock-kneed man and never get touched. He could take a run from the dining room of a European plan hotel in Rogers, Ark., and slide through the trellis work on the front porch without getting touched or barking his shoulders. He never gets hurt. If he went into the aviation business or became an auto racer he would still live to be as old as Shem, who carpentered on the ark for Noah six hundred and twenty years, Ty needing only a package of court plaster or so every decade. In coming down in an aeroplane he would always hop out at the fourth floor, come in on the hook slide and his hip, and then get up as sound as a simoleon to see if the umpire had called him safe.

In winter time the Empire State Express of baseball lives in Augusta, sells automobiles and talks about the new baseball phenom he has discovered—Tyrus, Jr.

(Copyright, 1911, by W. G. Chapman.)

WILLIE KEELER COMES BACK

One of the Greatest Baseball Players of His Time Has Signed for Third Time With Brooklyn.

This is the third time Willie Keeler has tied up with Brooklyn. In his day Keeler was one of the greatest ball players that ever stepped on the diamond. He led the league in batting, rarely struck out and in a game in Baltimore stretched a single to left field into a home run. Keeler played on the pennant winning Baltimore Orioles and then went to Brooklyn, where he helped win a pennant. In 1902 he jumped to the New York Yankees and played with them for several years.

Willie Keeler.

Skuller Champion to Defend Title.

Eddie Durnan, the professional sculler of Toronto, Can., who holds the championship of America and Canada, is to defend his title against William Haines of Boston next summer, probably on Toronto bay.

Manager Davis as Coach.

Manager Harry Davis of the Naps feels that he is a competent coach for first basemen since he developed Jack McInnis and will give special attention to big Ed Hornhorst this spring.

DIAMOND GOSSIP

Toledo may play Art Griggs at first base, in case Derrick does not make good.

Chattanooga has given the veteran George Nill his unconditional release.

Detroit's new catcher, Kocher, pronounces his name as it spelled "Coker."

Harry Wolverton, manager of the Highlanders, thinks he has a team that can depose the champion Athletics.

Evidently Hugh Jennings doesn't think much of his pitching staff. He says the Tigers will depend on hitting this year.

Tommy Hayes, the star twirler of the Jersey Central league team, has signed a contract to play with the Brooklyn Nationals.

Del Gainer says that the arm which Pitcher Jack Coombs broke last May is as good as ever. He will play first base regularly for the Tigers this season.

Manager Wolverton of the Yankees, it is said, will name no field captain, but will lead his team in person, either from the bench or the third base line.

Manager Griffith may carry twenty-five players with him this season. The "old fox" believes in teaching his youngsters instead of letting them start wrong with the minors.

The batting average of the first six men of the Boston Nationals that face the pitcher is .324. Just scan those figures! Would you blame a pitcher for getting ague or palsy? Hardly.

Steve O'Neil, the Naps' promising young backstop, has had a meteoric rise in a few years. He started with Elmira in 1908 and attracted Connie Mack's attention with his work. Last season he was purchased by Cleveland.

ATHLETICS GOOD TEAM FOR PLAYERS TO START FROM

Philadelphians will play a most important part in shaping the American league race this year. No city in the country has been drawn upon for so much high class baseball talent as will be found in the Johnson circuit during the 1912 campaign as Philadelphia. Three managers and three others who might be called "assistant managers" have been secured from Philly to help pilot teams. The list reads:

- Athletics—Connie Mack, manager.
- New York—Harry Wolverton, manager.
- Cleveland—Harry Davis, manager.
- St. Louis—Monte Cross, assistant to Manager Wallace.
- Detroit—Joe Sugden, assistant to Manager Jennings.
- Chicago—"Kid" Gleason, assistant to Manager Callahan.

MIGHT NEED THE CLUB LATER

Old Scotch Caddie's Retort to the Golfer Who Got Out of "Hell" Bunker.

This is a new one, brought to town by Jack Pickard from the Mayfield Country club on the links whereof he frequently chases the elusive pill, says the Cleveland Leader. It has to do with an American golfer going over a Scotch links, attended by one of those hoary caddies who only begin to flourish after they are past the seventieth milestone. This caddie had a separate name, not only for each hole, but for every tee hazard and bunker. And for each name he had some philosophical reason.

"How far is it over to that bunker?" asked the American, preparing for a long drive.

"Aboot twa hun'red an' feefty yards, sir," from the caddie. "An' the bunker's name is hell. For once ye're in, sir, ye'll ne'er get oot."

Followed the drive, which brought the ball right where it wasn't wanted and the caddie ill concealed his merriment. Nothing daunted, the visitor selected his niblick and by a fortunate fall freed himself from an unfortunate situation, landing easily on the green.

"How about that hot place of yours now?" he demanded of his ancient caddie, not without a bit of exultation.

"Weel, sir," replied the man, "I'd advise ye to tak' this club wi' ye when ye coom to dee. Ye mebbe need it."

Not Always Lasting.

To marry one's ideal would be fine, if we could only be assured of not waking up.

And most of our troubles are magnified at short range.

For Constipation, Biliousness, Liver and Kidney Troubles, take Garfield Tea.

Talk to yourself if you want an appreciative audience.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle.

Dark.

Hewett—It is pretty cloudy.

Jewett—Yes, a sort of brunette day.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS
Your druggist will refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

There are two things calculated to make a man's head swim—a merry-go-round and a merry widow.

The Paxton Toilet Co. of Boston, Mass., will send a large trial box of Paxtine Antiseptic, a delightful cleansing and germicidal toilet preparation, to any woman, free, upon request.

An Objection.

"He gave you some sound advice."

"That's what he did. I would have liked it better without so much sound."

When Your Eyes Need Care
Try Murine Eye Remedy. No Smarting—Feels Fine—Acts Quickly. Try it for Red, Weak, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Illustrated Book in each Package. Murine is compounded by our Oculists—not a "Patent Medicine"—but used in successful Physicians' Practice for many years. Now dedicated to the Public and sold by Druggists at 25c and 50c per Bottle. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c and 50c.
Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

Candid Admission.

"What are your ideas about reform?"

"About the same as everybody's," replied Senator Sorghum. "I have a general impression that myself and my personal and political friends are the only people who do not need it."

The Reason.

"You mark all your compositions forte," said the friend.

"Yes," replied the composer. "They wouldn't have any vogue among people who live in flats if I had them played softly."

Idle Fund.

"That man has a vast fund of information."

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum; "but he can't put a dollar mark in front of it and use it for a campaign fund."

Means to Enjoy Closing Years.

Having made a million dollars by the practice of law since he quit politics, former Congressman and Governor Frank S. Black, aged fifty-eight, has confirmed the reports that he has retired. "After a certain point is reached it isn't money a man should work for, but time. You can't defy law in nature," he says.

Sad Case.

"I hear your husband has lost his public job."

"Yes."

"What does he expect to do now?"

"Well, he told me this morning that unless he could get reinstated pretty soon he would have to go to work somewhere."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Such Is Life.

Dugan—Oh my, oh my! Isn't Casey puttin' on grand airs wid his new automobile? An' over in the ould country I dare say he went barefutted.

Ryan—Faith, not be his own accounts. He says he had a turnout over there that attracted great attention.

Dugan—Av coorse; an eviction always does.

Cursory.

A huntsman called on Hodge to settle for damage done by a run to hounds, and found only Mrs. Hodge at home.

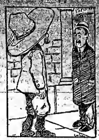
"Has your husband," he inquired, "made an examination yet?"

"That he have, sir," replied Mrs. Hodge, with a courtesy.

"Rather a cursory examination, I suspect."

"Oh, dreadful, sir! Such langwidge I never heerd—never!" And the good woman held up her hands at the bare recollection.—Judge.

SHE QUIT COFFEE
And Much Good Came From It.
It is hard to believe that coffee will put a person in such a condition as it did a woman of Apple Creek, O. She tells her own story:
"I did not believe coffee caused my trouble, and frequently said I liked it so well I would not quit drinking it, even if it took my life, but I was a miserable sufferer from heart trouble and nervous prostration for four years.
"I was scarcely able to go around at all. Had no energy, and did not care for anything. Was emaciated and had a constant pain around my heart until I thought I could not endure it. I felt as though I was liable to die any time.
"Frequently I had nervous chills and the least excitement would drive sleep away, and any little noise would upset me terribly. I was gradually getting worse until finally one day, it came over me, and I asked myself what is the use of being sick all the time and buying medicine so that I can indulge myself in coffee?
"So I thought I would see if I could quit drinking coffee, and got some Postum to help me quit. I made it strictly according to directions, and I want to tell you that change was the greatest step in my life. It was easy to quit coffee because I had the Postum which I like better than I liked the old coffee. One by one the old troubles left, until now I am in splendid health, nerves steady, heart all right, and the pain all gone. Never have any more nervous chills, don't take any medicine, can do all my housework, and have done a great deal besides.
"My sister-in-law, who visited me this summer had been an invalid for some time, much as I was. I got her to quit coffee and drink Postum. She gained five pounds in three weeks, and I never saw such a change in any one's health."
"There's a reason."
Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.



Eastman—Yes, I'm broke! Bank's suspended; what can a fellow do?

Alkali Bill—Well, I kain't tell what you'd do here, but out my way we'd suspend the banker! Savvy?

All in the Same Boat.

My aunt has a beautiful parrot, which, like many others of its species, is addicted to profanity. To break the bird of this habit, my aunt would "duck" him in water every time he would swear. On an April day he had been profuse in profanity, and had received the accustomed ducking. Now, it happened that a brood of newly hatched chickens had been drenched in a shower of rain and auntie brought them into the house and placed them in the kitchen to dry, beneath the parrot, who was drying his feathers. He seemed much interested and gazed intently at the little chicks for some time, and then exclaimed:

"D——n'd little fools; been swearing, too."

I Object to Giving My Baby soothing remedies that put him to sleep but I find that Kopp's Baby's Friend relieves baby when teething and keeps him laughing and playing till bed time, says Mrs. O. A. Brown, Wilmington, Ohio. Sold by druggists, 10c, 25c and 50c, or sent direct by Kopp's Baby's Friend Co., York, Pa. Sample by mail on request.

Measure.

Uncle Ezra—Then you think the battle of Wounded Knee was a greater event than the reformation?

Uncle Eben—Certainly. I've seen them both and I'll bet the "battle" took at least a thousand more feet of film.—Puck.

Noisy.

Gerald—What do you think of this suit?

Geraldine—It is a regular sound of revelry.

Knew His Weakness.

Benham—I like to linger over a bath.

Mrs. Benham—Yes, an internal one.

There is nothing heavenly about war,—or Dyspepsia. The world is outgrowing the first, and Garfield Tea will conquer Dyspepsia.

A woman thinks a man is extravagant because he would as soon pay $1 for anything he wants as 98 cents.

Save life, suffering and money by using Hoxsie's Croup Remedy for Croup, Coughs and Colds. Use promptly. All Druggists. 50 cents.

An optimist is a man who knows that his troubles might be worse.

Women's Best Interests demand that every woman should spare herself unnatural suffering by obtaining safe and proper help when physical ills and nervous depression occur. When ailments and suffering come to you remember there is one safe, effective gentle and well-tried remedy—
Beecham's Pills
of special value to women. Beecham's Pills remove the cause of suffering; they clear the system and by their tonic, helpful action relieve you of headaches, backaches, lassitude and nerve rebellion. Try a few doses and know the difference—know how Beecham's Pills will help your feelings; how they strengthen, invigorate
Preserve and Protect
Every woman should be sure to read the special directions with every box.
Sold everywhere. In boxes 10c., 25c.

The Farmer's Son's Great Opportunity
Why wait for the old farm to become your inheritance? Begin now to prepare for your future prosperity and independence. A great opportunity awaits you in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, where you can secure a Free Homestead or buy land at reasonable prices.
160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE
Now's the Time
—not a year from now, when land will be higher. The profits secured from the abundant crops of Wheat, Oats and Barley, as well as cattle raising, are causing a steady advance in price. Government returns show that the number of settlers in Western Canada from the U. S. was 50 per cent larger in 1910 than the previous year.
Many farmers have paid for their land out of the proceeds of one crop.
Free Homesteads of 160 acres and pre-emptions of 160 acres at $3.00 an acre. Fine climate, good schools, excellent railway facilities, low freight rates; wood, water and lumber easily obtained.
For pamphlet "Last Best West," particulars as to suitable location and low settlers' rate, apply to Sup't of Immigration, Ottawa, Can., or to Canadian Gov't Agent.
H. M. WILLIAMS
413 Gardner Bldg., Toledo, Ohio
Please write to the agent nearest you

THOMPSON'S EYE-WATER

---

Hints and Advice on Social Forms

By MME. MERRI

Advice to an Orphan Girl.

I am a young girl of fifteen, although I look much older. I am an orphan and live with my aunt. I am said to be very charming and pretty, and the boys all seem very fond of me. I would like to ask you if it is wrong to let the boys kiss and caress me when they are taking me home from parties and such places. Also is it wrong to go to lunch rooms with boys of seventeen and eighteen after dances or plays? The boys I am friends with all attend the same high school as I do and are approved of by my aunt. Please answer in your column as soon as possible and let me know how I should act, as I have no mother of whom I could ask advice. "LAUGHING EYES."

I am very glad you wrote to me on the subject and I do hope you will not think I am very old-fashioned and strict when I tell you not to let the boys kiss you or take any liberties with you whatever. It is just what your own mother would have told you. Be good friends and comrades and have all the good times possible, only keep the love-making out of it.

Then I would not go to public places for refreshment after theaters or after dances unless chaperoned or with a crowd of at least six or eight, and some of them should be older than you. It does not look right and you cannot be too careful. The boys will have far more respect for you and you will never be sorry if you maintain your dignity. No matter how hard it is, do it and you will not have any heartaches, and they are bound to come if you permit things you should not.

Suggestions for a China Shower.

When giving a china shower what should be served? Would also appreciate a few suggestions as to the decorations and how to entertain.

ANXIOUS READER.

There is no special decoration for a china shower besides flowers, and no entertainment is necessary besides opening the parcels and enjoying the bride-elect's pleasure with her pretty things. Cards are always permissible, providing the guests like to play. Serve a salad, sandwiches, olives, salted nuts and coffee.

Questions From "Faithful Readers."

We are two young girls, our age fifteen. Is it proper for girls of our age to have boys escort them home from a picture show? Is it proper for girls to be taken, by boy friends, to picture shows? FAITHFUL READERS.

I am always glad to answer questions from my girls, and I hope they will be able to get my ideas. It all depends upon the picture show; some are good and some should never see the light at all. So much depends upon [illegible] do not go too often and try to go in the daytime and not at night unless an older person goes as chaperon.

Reply to "Miss Mary."

Your letter is too long to print in detail, but I must say it is almost impossible for me to believe that young people can be so rude as to talk about you and make you uncomfortable, even when in Sunday school. Don't you suppose that you imagine a good deal and if you are not well everything seems so much worse. The only remedy I know is to try to forget yourself and think what you can do for others. There is room for everyone in this world and something for each one of us to do. Brooding over our own ills is just the worst thing possible, for nothing is ever so bad but it might be worse.

Marking the Bridal Linen.

In marking a bride's linen, is it proper to use the initial of her last name, or her future husband's? It has caused quite a discussion here, the majority thinking it should be the husband's since none would be used until after the marriage.

SHELLY.

All bridal linen, both personal and for the new home, is marked with the bride's initials and not those of her future husband, as it is always prepared before the wedding, and you know "There's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip."

Reply to "Chums."

As you say "mother does not object" to the young boys' calling upon you, I certainly do not, but, be sure that "mother" knows all about them, and I do not believe I would accept invitations from boys whom you have met "only twice." If you are allowed to go to "theaters and parties" and both, only wearing hair ribbons, the boys must certainly see you home, for you two girls should not be on the streets alone. I think there is no prettier way to wear the hair than looped up with ribbons or coiled around the head in braids with a ribbon bow on the side.

Invitation Etiquette.

In receiving an invitation to a card party is it proper to send acceptance, as well as regrets? What do the capital letters R. S. V. P. signify?

N. L. T.

An invitation to a card party should be accepted or regretted as soon as possible. The letters "R. S. V. P." stand for the French "Repondez s'il vous plait," and mean, in plain English, "Respond, if you please."

Reply to "Brown Eyes."

You did perfectly right to mail three cards to reach the hostess on the day of the "tea" or before the date, as long as you live out of town. I am very glad you find the department helpful and it is kind to have you say so.

MADAME MERRI.

Finishing Sleeves.

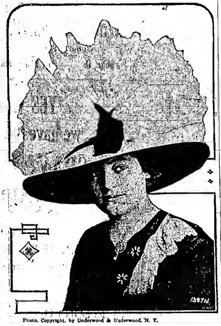
An excellent way to finish armholes in a fine lingerie waist is to sew the sleeves in by machine; then buttonhole around the edges with either a coarse thread or soft floss.

Lace Butterfly Hat Is a Feature of Spring Fashion



Photo, Copyright, by Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.

Here is an example of new Spring millinery fashions. The butterflies made of lace worn during the winter were so popular that the idea is now carried out in the lighter designs for the coming season.

Try a Single Rose

"We read," said Lucinda, "about how Adolphus brought Luella a great bunch of roses, and we can imagine their beauty, we are left to guess at their cost, but, do you know it isn't really necessary in order to make home beautiful to have a bunch of roses as big around as a barrel; that a single, lovely rose will do?

"Try this: If you have spent all your money for hats and gloves and Adolphus hasn't come—my brother Claude would say hasn't come to the bat—stop at the florist's and buy a single rose. It will cost very little, and take that home and set it in the proper vase, its red petals and green leaves to please the eye and its fragrance to fill the room, an individual dower of grace and beauty and joy.

"If you can't have a bunch try a single rose."

FENCES INCREASE VALUATION OF FARM LANDS CONSIDERABLY

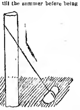
When Well Fenced and Divided Into Convenient Fields and Lots $10 Per Acre Is Added to Value of Property—Nothing but the Very Best of Material Should be Used.

(By H. F. GRINSTEAD.)

Any farm is worth $10 per acre more when it is well fenced and divided into convenient fields and lots. As there is more or less work and expense entailed in getting a good hog tight fence in place, one should get only the best material, and spend more time in setting and stretching than when the common barbed wire is used.

Woven wire, even of the 26 inch width, exerts several times the strain as that of the three-strand barbed wire, and the corner posts must be of good size, and well braced.

Posts cut in the winter and allowed to season till the summer before being set will be more satisfactory, but this plan is not always practicable.



Corner Post Anchored.

We have used posts a rod apart on our farm, but I have learned from experience that that is too far and now I am putting them 12 feet apart.

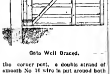
Set the corner or end posts first, then drive the others in line between them by stretching a wire on the ground. This wire must be stretched tight; and in driving do not let the post touch the wire, as it would push it out of line.

The work of "getting ready" is the most important item in making this kind of fence, since a quarter of a mile may be stretched and stapled by two men after everything is in place and the posts set.

Set corner posts at least three feet in the ground, and brace to overcome the direct tension of the wire as well as the tendency to pull up.

Eight or ten feet from the corner posts set the stray post, against which the corner post is to be braced. Cut a big square notch in this post a foot from the ground, to receive the end of the brace, and a similar notch should be cut in the corner post three feet from the ground to receive the other end.

This will throw a large part of the strain on the stray post, but in order to make this more effective, and overcome the tendency to pull upward on the corner post, a double strand of smooth No 10 wire is put around both posts from the top of the stray post to to the bottom of the corner post, or approximately at right angles to the brace, then twisted tight with a short stick.



Gate Well Braced.

The brace should not be less than six inches in diameter, and squared at the ends.

There is yet another way of bracing corner posts, to be commended for its simplicity and low cost where timber is scarce. It is best suited for back fences, where there is no passing around the corners.

This is an anchor placed in line with the fence for an end post, but where there is a corner it is midway between, or at an angle of 35 degrees with either line.

A pit two feet deep and a foot wide and four feet long is dug back six feet from the post to be braced. A log or chunk three feet long is buried in the hole, two strands of No. 9 wire tied around the middle of it, then secured to the top of the posts.

When this log or "dead man," as it is called, is covered and well tamped, the wire from it to the post should be twisted till the post leans slightly, then when the wire is stretched the post will give sufficiently to put it back straight.

One may think that this anchor would pull up, but there is no danger if it is put in two feet, and the wall of the pit straight down, or a little caved, with a notch cut in the bank for the wire to make a straight pull toward the top of the post. This form of brace tends to pull the post down—rather than up, as is the case with the other braces.

For a yard fence where appearances count for more than in other places, the brace may be hidden. A hole is dug to the desired depth, being as long as the distance between the posts the stay post being set in one end, and the corner post in the other.

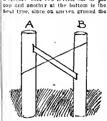
A brace is fitted in tight between them in the bottom of the hole, and the dirt filled in, then another is put in the same way at the surface of the ground.

A modification of the anchor brace is made by running the wire from the top of the second or stay post to the bottom of the corner post, then setting horizontal brace between the posts near the top.

For a good fence I prefer to have the posts set in the early spring and stretch the wire a month later, after the posts have settled, and the weather becomes warm.

There is considerable contraction and expansion due to heat and cold, so a fence stretched in midsummer is more likely to remain tight. In stretching the wire, always fasten the stretcher to the end or corner post, and not to some object beyond just because it is more convenient.

I have tried this and know that unless the end posts receive the tension when stretching, they will give as soon as the stretcher is removed. A stretcher with two levers, one at the top and another at the bottom is the best type, since on uneven ground the wire may be stretched to conform to the surface.



Brace and Wire. A, Corner Post; B, Stay Post.

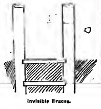
The most important thing in the construction of a fence is having posts well set, for without this it is impossible to stretch heavy woven wire. Never try to stretch more than 40 rods at once and if this is four-foot wire it will require enormous tension.

A part of the crimp should be drawn out of the wires. Nail to every post, but not to every wire. Staple a part of them to one post and the alternate ones to the next post.

Make substantial gates, light though strong. Our gates are 1 by 4 lumber, and usually 10 or 11 feet wide. In order to save waste, get 16-foot lumber.

Seven pieces of that length, and one ten will make the gate without any waste. There should also be another piece a foot wide and ten feet long, which may be sawed in two and nailed, one piece on either side where the hinges are bolted on.

The gate may be made 11 feet long and five feet high by cutting the 16-foot lumber this way, the short pieces being used in pairs for the uprights, one piece being sawed into two eight-foot pieces for the diagonal brace. Those short braces are better than when run the full length of the gate, and the extra pair of uprights keep the gate straight.



Invisible Braces.

Good hinges should be bolted on and bolts used in putting the gate together.

Give Fowls Chaff.

Give the fowls a basketful of that chaff from the bottom of the haymow. They will enjoy looking it over, and to your profit.

ADVANTAGES OF IMPROVED SILO

Farmer Equipped With Modern Structure Is Independent of All Kinds of Weather.

A silo saves all the corn you grow in the hill, from the roots to the tassel. It saves the part of the crop that evaporates, dries up and blows away when you shock the corn. It adds 40 per cent. to the value of the crop over the old way of harvesting. When corn is stored in a silo you can feed it at any time.

A silo should be filled at a time when the corn is at its best, and if left in the field longer would lessen its value. You have your corn crop where it can be fed this year, or next, or in three years from now, with no loss by age.

The total cost of filling a silo is only one-half the cost of shocking the corn crop. None of the silage is wasted or refused by the stock—they relish it every day in the year.

A man with a silo is independent of wet and dry weather, poor pasture and late springs. And he will have an abundance of food, succulent feed for the entire year.

Poultry Farms.

Despite the handicap of high priced grain it appears that the highly specialized poultry farms are able to stand present conditions fully as well as the individual farms. At any rate the large producers are likely to study the question more closely, and perhaps they are able to figure out a profit, everything considered, where the farmer is scared by the high cost of production.

Making Hens Lay.

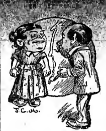
To make them lay keep them comfortable and busy, but don't overfeed. More pullets refuse to lay from being overfed than underfed. Our pullets get two regular feeds a day, a hot mash in the morning, grain for supper, with a scratch at noon.



"Well, Susan, you have been married a year. How do you like your husband?"

"Sober, sor."

"ECZEMA ITCHED SO BADLY I COULDN'T STAND IT."
"I suffered with eczema on my neck for about six months, beginning by little pimples breaking out. I kept scratching till the blood came. It kept getting worse, I couldn't sleep nights any more. It kept itching for about a month, then I went to a doctor and got some liquid to take. It seemed as if I was going to get better. The itching stopped for about three days, but when it started again, was even worse than before. The eczema itched so badly I couldn't stand it any more.
"I went to a doctor and he gave me some medicine, but didn't do any good. We have been having Cuticura Remedies in the house, so I decided to try them. I had been using Cuticura Soap, so I got me a box of Cuticura Ointment, and washed off the affected part with Cuticura Soap three times a day, and then put the Cuticura Ointment on. The first day I put it on, it relieved me of itching so I could sleep all that night. It took about a week, then I could see the scab come off. I kept the treatment up for three weeks, and my eczema was cured.
"My brother got his face burned with gun-powder and he used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The people all thought he would have scars, but you can't see that he ever had his face burned. It was simply awful to look at before the Cuticura Remedies (Soap and Ointment) cured it." (Signed) Miss Elizabeth Oehril, Forrest City, Ark., Oct. 16, 1910. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

Sunshine.

Surround the children with every possible cheer. . . . Smiles and laughter cost nothing. . . . Let the children have music, let them have pictures, let them have laughter, let them have a good time, not an idle time, but one full of cheerful occupation. Surround them with all the beautiful things you can. Plants should be given sun and air and the blue sky, give them to your boys and girls. I do not mean for a day or a month, but for all the years. We cannot treat a plant tenderly one day and harshly the next day; they cannot stand it.—Luther Burbank, in "The Training of the Human Plant."

When to Call the Doctor.

When to summon the doctor is a point which has probably puzzled most people at one time or another, but in the case of throat and intestinal troubles there should be no uncertainty, says a medical authority. The doctor should be summoned at once, for the sore throat may be diphtheria, and the intestinal symptoms may mean peritonitis, appendicitis or any one of a dozen complications of serious character. Valuable time and the golden opportunity may be wasted by waiting for symptoms that are severe enough to justify calling the doctor.

Facetious Operator.

"I say, mister," said the cadaverous man, entering the telegraph office, "could you trust me for a telegram. I want to send my wife? I pay you tomorrow."

"Sorry, sir," said the operator, "but we are terribly rushed these days and there isn't a tick in the office that isn't working overtime as it is."—Harper's Weekly.

Important to Mothers
Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
In Use For Over 30 Years.
Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

In Chicago.

Ella—What do you think of him?

Stella—He's too mean to pay alimony—even a dollar down and a dollar a month.

When a young widow makes up her mind to marry a bachelor he may possibly escape by dying.

To restore a normal action to Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels, take Garfield Tea, the mild herb laxative. All druggists.

Theory alone never accomplished anything worth while.

There are a few things that even a young man doesn't know.

A pretty girl never approves of men who flirt with other girls.

THINKS RESINOL EXCELLENT FOR SKIN
Mrs. O'Brien Could Not Well Do Without It.
So varied are the uses of Resinol that one instinctively turns to it when anything happens. Read what Mrs. John D. O'Brien, of Laurinburg, N. C., says:—
"I use Resinol Soap and Ointment regularly, and find they meet your every claim, and could not well do without them. Resinol Ointment is our household remedy for all ailments of the skin, and its results are always satisfactory. We think Resinol Soap excellent and prefer it to all others."
Not only is Resinol Soap highly effective in removing skin affections, but Resinol Ointment has no equal in relieving eczema, scalds and burns, tetter, ringworm, barber's itch, milk-crust, pimples, rash, chaps, chilblains, chafing, itching, blackheads, boils, etc. Dealers everywhere sell the Resinol preparations: the ointment in two sizes at fifty cents and a dollar; the soap at twenty-five cents a cake. Free sample of each sent on request. Address Dept. 2, Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

Troubles Laid to "In-Law."

The cause of more than half the family scraps that are scrapped to a finish, says an exchange, "is the 'in-law.' A man or a woman marries some one absolutely antagonistic to all the other members of the family, and then putting this person on a pedestal, demands that all shall do her or his will. For the sake of courtesy, often a whole family will yield many points, and gradually the 'in-law' becomes more and more insistent, and so things drift along, always the one side giving in until some straw, some trifle, will prove the drop too much, and after that the fracas. With the air cleared a beginning can be made over again on a basis of equal rights, or else all intercourse can cease. Either way much has been gained."

Gallant Blind Man.

"Ah, you're a pretty lady."

"What's that? I thought you were blind."

"In a sense only. I never see the ugly women."—Journal Amusant.

His Business to Know.

Wife—Look. I bought this fur coat today. They tell me we are going to have very cold weather soon.

Husband—Who told you so?

Wife—The furrier.

ONLY ONE "BROMO QUININE."
That is LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE. Look for the signature of E. W. GROVE. Used the World over to Cure a Cold in One Day. 25c.

When a man is completely wrapped up in himself the package is apt to be small.

"Pink Eye" is Epidemic in the Spring. Try Murine Eye Remedy for Reliable Relief.

An old toper is satisfied if he can keep his head above water.

BACKACHE A SIGNAL OF DISTRESS
Pain in the back is the kidneys' signal of distress. If this timely warning is ignored, there is grave danger of dropsy, gravel, uric poisoning, or Bright's disease.
When you have reason to suspect your kidneys, use a special kidney medicine.
Doan's Kidney Pills relieve weak, congested kidneys—cure backache—regulate the urine. Good proof in the following statement.
"Every Picture Tells a Story"
CONVINCING TESTIMONY
O. D. Kissler, 403 E. 6th St., Mendota, Ill., says: "I became so bad from kidney trouble, I was unable to work for weeks. I was thin, worn out and nervous, the doctors could not help me and my friends gave up hope. As a last resort, I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills and soon after passed a gravel stone. Later on, several more stones passed, and from then on I improved until cured."
AT ALL DEALERS 50c. a Box
DOAN'S Kidney Pills

PROTECT YOUR HOME
LOSSES
To ascertain what loss by lightning to life and property amounts to annually. See what the Insurance Companies reports show. Note what the U. S. Government reports reveal. The only effectual remedy to prevent such loss is found in a good Lightning Rod. Full details are furnished through Hunt & Leatherman Inc., Pittsburgh, and Reyburn Hunter & Co., Philadelphia and Chicago. Ask for their "Free Booklet" and secure the agency for the best Lightning Rod manufactured.

USE ABSORBINE, JR. LINIMENT FOR IT
Swollen, Varicose Veins, Bad Legs, Goitre, Wen, Gout and Rheumatic Deposits, Sprains and Bruises respond quickly to the action of ABSORBINE, JR. A safe, healing, soothing antiseptic liniment that penetrates to the seat of trouble assisting nature to make permanent recovery. Allays pain and inflammation. Mild and pleasant to use—quickly absorbed into tissues. Successful in other cases, why not in yours? ABSORBINE, JR., $1 and $2 per bottle at druggists or delivered. Book 1 G free.
W. F. YOUNG, P. D. F., 310 Temple Street, Springfield, Mass.

HOW TO SAVE MONEY WHEN BUYING LAND
If you want a home where you can enjoy a delightful climate, mild winters and good neighbors, where you can grow corn, wheat, oats, alfalfa and all farm products, as well as garden truck and fruit, in a county well watered for stock raising, and close to market. Write J. D. Arnold & Co., Little Rock, Ark., and you can own your own farm with small cash outlay, where lands are advancing surely and rapidly. Their customers don't have to pay the expense of a colonization scheme.

PATENTS START FACTORIES. Send for free book how to get Patents. Patent secured or fee returned. Sues & Company, Attorneys, Washington, D. C.

W. N. U., CLEVELAND, NO. 14-1912.

THE HEART
If the blood is poor and filled with the poisons from diseased kidneys or inactive liver, the heart is not only starved but poisoned as well. There are many conditions due to impure blood—such as dropsy, fainting spells, nervous debility or the many scrofulous conditions, ulcers, "fever sores," white swellings, etc. All can be overcome and cured by
Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery
This supplies pure blood—by aiding digestion, increasing assimilation and imparting tone to the whole circulatory system. It's a heart tonic and a great deal more, having an alterative action on the liver and kidneys, it helps to eliminate the poisons from the blood.
To enrich the blood and increase the red blood corpuscles, thereby feeding the nerves on rich red blood and doing away with nervous irritability, take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and do not permit a dishonest dealer to insult your intelligence with the "just as good kind." The "Discovery" has 40 years of cures behind it and contains no alcohol or narcotics. Ingredients plainly printed on wrapper.
Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of wrapping and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the French cloth-bound book. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y.

SPOHN'S DISTEMPER CURE
FOR PINK EYE DISTEMPER CATARRHAL FEVER AND ALL NOSE AND THROAT DISEASES
Cures the sick and acts as a preventive for others. Liquid given on the tongue. Safe for brood mares and all others. Best kidney remedy; 50 cents and $1.00 a bottle; $5.00 and $10.00 the dozen. Sold by all druggists and horse goods houses, or sent express paid, by the manufacturers.
SPOHN MEDICAL CO., Chemists, GOSHEN, INDIANA

W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES
$2.25 $2.50 $3.00 $3.50 $4.00 & $5.00
For MEN, WOMEN and BOYS
THE STANDARD OF QUALITY FOR OVER 30 YEARS
THE NEXT TIME YOU NEED SHOES give W. L. Douglas shoes a trial. W. L. Douglas name stamped on a shoe guarantees superior quality and more value for the money than other makes. His name and price stamped on the bottom protects the wearer against high prices and inferior shoes. Insist upon having the genuine W. L. Douglas shoes. Take no substitute. If your dealer cannot supply W. L. Douglas shoes, write W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass., for catalog. Shoes sent everywhere delivery charges prepaid. Fast Color Eyelets used.

Carbolated Vaseline
The best dressing you can find for wounds, bites of insects, abrasions, etc.
The Carbolic Acid helps to prevent infection; the "Vaseline" cleanses and soothes.
Especially valuable where there are children.
For sale everywhere in handy glass bottles. Be sure you get "Vaseline."
The various "Vaseline" preparations make up a complete medicine chest that should be in every home. Write for free booklet telling all about them. Address Dept. B.
Chesebrough Manufacturing Company
17 State Street (Consolidated) New York

CHEW SMOKE
MAIL POUCH
IT'S WORTH YOUR WHILE—TO GIVE IT A TRIAL

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES
Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c package colors all fibers. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. MONROE DRUG COMPANY, Quincy, Ill.

NOW the time has arrived for the Easter Outfit, and we are prepared to suit all tastes. Our Ladies' Suit and Coat Department is complete and the prices very reasonable. It will pay you to visit our Men's Department and see our fine display of Hats. Ask to see the $15 Special Blue Serge (all wool). The Shoe Shop has all styles and shapes to fit any foot gracefully.

The Gail G. Grant Co.
Service and Value Givers

The Washing Machine that Really Washes Clothes Clean

THIS is the famous "Boss"—the machine with the mechanical wash-board—improved by the high speed, fly wheel attachment. Can be operated by Electric, Water or Engine Power as well as by hand. Tell us the kind you want. A child can easily run it. The clothes are rubbed, squeezed and thoroughly washed, far better than they can be by hand. Made of everlasting Louisiana Red Cypress Wood. Order one on trial from your local dealer. Write direct to us for booklet on washday hints.

THE BOSS WASHING MACHINE CO., Norwood Station, Cincinnati, Ohio

New Spring Suits for Easter

Leopold Morse Co.'s New Styles

are in and ready for you to choose from in buying your Spring Suit. Come in and look at them.

$12.50 to $20.00

JOHN S. LOCKWOOD

Spring Has Come
SO THE CALENDAR SAYS

We Have All the Modern House-cleaning Appliances:
Washing Machines--Hand, Water and Electric Power; Wringers
Curtain Stretchers, Chemical Dust Mops
Dusters and Broom Covers
Step-Ladders, Muresco, Paints, Oils, Etc.

The Doolittle Bros. Company
RELIABLE HARDWARE

SPRING STYLES
ARE NOW READY

for your inspection. Our values cannot be equaled elsewhere. Our line is complete of Clothing, Dry Goods, Ladies and Men's Furnishings Notions, Boots, Shoes Etc.

M. HOROWITZ
WICKLIFFE, OHIO. Cuy. phone 67-R
All our goods guaranteed. Prices reasonable.

If you want a FLOUR that will satisfy in any kind of baking try our WHITE BEAUTY.

We have sold this brand for over fifteen years and we know it will please you.

W. M. WERNER
DRUGS, GROCERIES, CROCKERY, HOUSEFURNISHINGS

WILLOUGHBY

Mrs. H. R. Goodrich left Monday to spend a week with relatives in Cleveland.

The schools resumed their work Monday after a week's vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Manville of Cleveland are spending a few days with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Bolder will go to housekeeping in the house of Mr. H. King on River street soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Randall are moving from the Willoughby Inn to Barber Ave. this week.

Miss Maze Parmelee of Mentor was calling on friends Saturday.

Mrs. Henry Carr of Wickliffe was calling on friends in town Wednesday.

Mrs. John Keiser is spending a week or two with friends in Conneaut.

Died, Thursday, Mrs. E. O. Bliss of Second street. The funeral was held Saturday at her late home.

Mrs. Ray Kent of Elyria was visiting friends in town Wednesday.

Died, Wednesday, Mrs. Geo. Bilson aged 99 years. She leaves a husband to mourn her loss. The funeral was held Friday at her home, Rev. E. C. Beach officiating.

Mr. M. A. Cleveland and daughter, Mrs. Amy Tyler spent a few days in Huntsburg recently.

Little Ruth Tanner was taken to a hospital in Cleveland to undergo an operation for appendicitis, on Wednesday.

Mrs. Arthur Hoose spent a part of last week in Huntsburg.

The Presbyterian choir are preparing an Easter cantata for Sunday evening.

Special Easter music will also be rendered at the Methodist church Sunday evening.

Died, Wednesday, on her way to a hospital in Cleveland, Mrs. Perry Carrel, Jr. The funeral was held Saturday.

Mrs. G. W. Gibbs gave her annual millinery opening at her home Friday and Saturday.

The stores will be open evenings after April 1st.

The Sophomore class of the high school are preparing Arbor day exercises.

NORTH MADISON

Mr. Lyman Kent and family of Thompson were recent guests of his parents, Mrs. Geo. Haywood.

Mrs. Millard Sheppard and children were guests of Mr. Sheppard and son, Robert, in Lorain, returning Saturday.

Roy Jewel Crocker of Painesville was at home Sunday.

Miss Alma Graves was at home over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cone and children were recent guests of his parents in Geneva.

S. A. Baker and son Glenn, of Mentor were Sunday guests of old friends and neighbors.

Mrs. Jennie Hall was called to Nebraska by the illness of a sister.

Mrs. Sherman Corlett and little son have been at the home of her parents, D. Phelps, also at the Corlett home in town.

Byron Barr has shipped his goods to Big Prairie.

Mrs. Harriet Putnam is slightly on the gain her friends are glad to learn.

Mr. M. P. Trass of Rock Creek has been a guest of his brother, John, who is in very poor health.

Mr. Davis of Cleveland was Sunday a guest at the Robison home.

Mr. Wm. Davies returned home Wednesday from Cleveland where he has been spending a week at the home of Mrs. M. D. Clark.

John Perry and Wm. Davies were Geneva visitors Monday.

Mr. Henry Kellogg and family are soon to occupy the Frank Doebe tenant house.

Chas. Vesey was a Geneva visitor recently.

The Talcott saw mill is located in ... Graves' wood getting lumber out preparatory for building a new barn soon. There are also new barn buildings to be erected on Mrs. Celia Brown's farm.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Miller recently entertained her brother Joseph Fuller of Walla Walla, Wash.

Mrs. Celia Brown has returned from Florida where she has spent several weeks. She is now in Collinwood with Mrs. Kate Gage who accompanied her on her trip.

MADISON

Dr. Tribby has moved his family from the Driswold house to the Allen house on Lake street.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Phelps have moved from River street to the Vanderlip place.

F. M. Blanchard of Orwell was a guest of Mrs. Helen Blanchard Friday.

Miss Ada Hines will spend Easter with friends in Cleveland.

Mr. Harry Pierce of Cleveland was an over Sunday guest of Miss Ruth Blanchard.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Mullet of Berea Ky., were called to Madison Friday by the death of their daughter, Mrs. Oscar Weldy, also Mrs. W. J. Barnes of Coudersport, Pa., sister of Mrs. Weldy, arrived Friday evening.

Mr. Eli Brotaman has purchased the Whipple place on East Main St.

Little Viola, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. Keener, died Saturday morning after an illness of several days from spinal meningitis. A short service, conducted by the Rev. Yeager, was held at the bereaved home Monday afternoon. Burial in Madison cemetery.

Mr. Glen Griswold who has been very ill with typhoid fever, for the past four weeks was very low today, but at this writing, Monday evening, is little better, with more hopes of recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fuller and two daughters returned from Reading, Pa. Monday. Mrs. Fuller and children have been with friends in Reading about three months. Mr. Fuller arrived last week to accompany them back to their home in Washington state. They will spend a few days with Mr. Fuller's people before returning.

Miss Ethel Kneale of Oberlin has been the guest of her father, O. W. Kneale at the Home the past week.

Mrs. Jennie Griswold, matron of the Home, is visiting her mother, Mrs. E. Ferguson, in New Jersey.

Bert St. John of Ashtabula had business in town Wednesday.

Mrs. Fanny Weldy, wife of Mr. Oscar Weldy, passed away at her home on Main St. Wednesday evening, after an illness of only a few days. Mrs. Weldy had been in poor health for years, but her death came suddenly, as she was not considered dangerously ill until about fifteen minutes before she died, so her end came as a great shock to her many friends. The funeral was held at her late home Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, burial in Madison. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. The friends from out of town were, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Mullet, Berea, Ky. parents of the deceased, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Weldy, Windsor, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. M. Crum, Mesopotamia, Ohio, Mr. G. Kingsbury, Mrs. Fidelio Kingsbury, Miss Kingsbury and Mrs. Matson, Kingsville, Ohio, Mrs. Mary Whipple, Erie, Pa., Mrs. Wm. Hoose, Ashtabula, Ohio, Mrs. Van Volkenburg, Buffalo, N. Y., Mrs. W. J. Barnes, Coudersport, Pa. Mrs. Weldy leaves a husband and one son, father and mother, one sister, to mourn her loss.

The Misses Alta and Esther Graves Ruby Steele, Marguerite Lynch and Elsa Lockwood attended the physical culture exhibition at Lake Erie College, Tuesday evening.

Clyde Graves, of Painesville, visited his grandmother, Mrs. Esther Graves several days last week, returning home with his mother, Mrs. Chas. Graves Sunday evening.

Mrs. Charles Gunther, Miss Ethel Kneale, and Mrs. H. G. St. John of Madison, and Mrs. H. Syringer of Cleveland, were guests of Miss Alma Paige of Painesville Thursday.

Mrs. Anna Hoose of Ashtabula, after spending several days with her mother, Mrs. Maria Barnes, returned home Sunday afternoon. Her sister, Mrs. Van Valkenburg accompanied her home.

Marriage of State Pres. of W. C. T. U.

At the Hazelton homestead in Leroy, N. Y., Tuesday, March 26th, Miss Frances Ensign, state president of W. C. T. U., and Mr. William E. Fuller of N. Madison, were united in marriage. The Rev. Evan N. Jones officiated. They will reside in Madison at the Ensign home.

WICKLIFFE

The Men's Club gave a supper at the Wickliffe Presbyterian church Friday night of last week, which was followed by a concert given by the Cleveland Crane and Engineering Co.'s band of this place. Over two hundred partook of the great supper and was very much delighted with the good music, and also by the courteous treatment the men's club gave to all.

Mrs. D. Fuller and little daughter is visiting her brother, Mr. Frank Sherman, of Wickliffe.

Mr. Charles Morris was in Wickliffe Sunday on a short visit.

The Sloot family have moved to Cleveland.

Mrs. Charles West and son of Conneaut spent a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Dempsey of Wickliffe.

Mrs. O. E. Scatterday of Cleveland was a visitor at the Morris home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dud Merrils of Cleveland were visitors at the formers parents home, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Merrils of this town.

It is reported that the Beach family are going to move to Chardon, their old home.

Sunday, Miss Nellie Hoath of Painesville, visited her grand-parents Mr. and Mrs. Mark Forgason of Wickliffe.

So we are all aware this is the first week in April. Quite a number of Wickliffe folks forgot on the first and got fooled, thinking there were wild geese and all kinds of things flying about. The writer as well as her neighbor, was called to see some great flocks, only to hear April fool.

Miss Julia Tracy of Euclid was in Wickliffe Monday, giving Miss Jennie Wortman music lessons.

Miss Iola Holt was at home Sunday to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Holt.

UNIONVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Seifert of N. Madison spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Darrow.

Mrs. Ed. Sites spent a few days with relatives in Cleveland last week.

Miss Mildred Goddard has returned from a two weeks' visit with relatives in Cleveland.

Miss Mary Barnes has returned from Lake Erie College for a two weeks' vacation.

Mr. Victor Salkeld spent Sunday with his wife here.

Roy French is ill with German measles.

While at play with some other little folks, Dorine Detling had the misfortune to sprain her ankle.

Miss Isadore Warner has returned from Dyke and Stillwell business college in Cleveland for a vacation.

George Noff, son is detained from school [illegible] of illness.

Mrs. A. M. Lapham attended a shower Friday at Mrs. Norton's for her sister, Miss Edna Duncan, who is to be married soon.

Mr. Jo. Darrow who had been ill for a long time with dropsy, died Tuesday night. The funeral will be on Thursday P. M.

A. M. Wright and family have come to their farm here to spend the Easter vacation.

Miss Myrtle Morris of Perry was on Tuesday the guest of her brother E. L. Morris and family.

TOOL THAT MEANT VICTORY

Properly Tempered, It Always Will When in the Hands of a Man Who Means to Succeed.

"You can't!"

He did not exactly count the voices, but it seemed to him as if every voice in the world screamed at him, and from all sorts of queer places:

"You can't!"

When the voices had hoarsed themselves into silence, rude hands scrawled the words on bits of bark and paper and thrust them before his eyes.

Once the words formed themselves into opposing rocks in his path and he fell over them.

Again, they multiplied themselves like drops of water into an unfriendly sea and he nearly drowned.

He listened vainly at the lips of his kin for one fair word of cheer.

He prayed nightly to a stony-hearted and busy God and took back to his torn heart only the hollow echo of his prayer.

He saw many fingers tapping upon foreheads and knew that the motions of the fingers spelled Fool.

In the vales the brooks sang taunting songs to him; as he swung up the steep places to the forest the squirrels from the trees pelted him with empty, symbolic shells; upon the plains the wind, having a good chance, cut the skin of his cheek and scudded away through the grasses with sardonic laughter.

The hand of sickness pinned him to his cot for long seasons, his competitors in the race for achievement ran away from him as if he were tied; the very bigness of the looming cities jeered at him as he struggled with disappointment and delay.

"You can't!"

It stung him into greatness.

Somewhere within the locker of his being he found a tool and sharpened it. The tool was labeled Will. With this, through many patient days, he wrought upon the sneering face of Fate to make it smile. The while he worked the voices spat their jibe—"You can't!" "Oh! no!" he cried. He let his kin go hang. He ceased to rail at God's indifference. He discovered a mighty divinity within himself and bent him anew to his task. His Work—the Will to do it—these were his friends, his life, his all.

The work was never finished, quite—no good work ever is—but when at last his hands were still, upon his slab men carved the paradoxic phrase:

"He did!"—From the Magazine Business.

Continent That Was Lost.

One of the wonders of the world that men hear little about is the Lost Continent. Seagoing men are familiar with the chain of little islands that extend from the continent of Asia down to Australia. Should the ocean go down five hundred feet this Lost Continent would be restored. It is believed that a few aeons ago the Lost Continent really existed.

Doubtful About the Joke.

My daughter had tried to inculcate courage in her two-year-old boy by telling him when any accident befell him that "it was only a joke." One night a tornado struck the neighborhood, and while trees were crashing around them and they expected momentarily to be carried away he crept up to his mother and, pulling her dress, said, "Mamma, is this just a joke?"—Exchange.

Farmer's Column

FOR RENT on shares. Fine farm, 36 acres, tools, stock, etc. The F. P. Miller farm, ½ mile west North Madison, North Ridge. Must secure man by April 1st as my tenant has bought a farm and is going away. Party must furnish one horse and reference. Inquire Dr. J. R. Dell, dentist, 1414 New England Bldg., Cleveland, O.

FOR SALE—My services as auctioneer, at very reasonable terms. Roy Harrison, Painesville. Home phone 352J2.

FARMS WANTED—Large and small, either for sale or exchange for City property. We sell quick if your price is right. Joseph Sedivy & Son, 8379 E. 49th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

FOR SALE or Exchange for farm a store property with living rooms. Madison, Ohio, Lock Box 351, Madison, Ohio.

FARM HELP—We have a number of applications from good farm hands for employment on farms. Address, Joseph Sedivy & Son, 8379 E. 49th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

FOR RENT—Fine suite of 5 rooms for housekeeping. Steam heat. R. N. Whitcomb, Mentor, Ohio.

FOR SALE—Stove wood, seasoned hickory. Home phone 307L2, Painesville, Ohio.

FOR SALE—Farm suitable for stock or dairy farming, plenty of water and well timbered. Enquire of E. P. Brown, Painesville, R. F. D. 2.

NOTICE—A small ad. in this column costs little, but brings quick results. Try it.

Be in Fashion for Easter Sunday

Are you going to be ready to enjoy the Easter Dress Panorama and Promenade that ushers in the joyous Springtide—the glad season of Style, Sunshine, Song, Lillies and Birds?

We are admirably equipped to help you solve the Spring Clothes question. We are splendidly ready to show you the newest "Style-Craft" models for Women and Misses in the new cloths and color tones garments that are noted for style, service, quality and prices, bound to please the most exacting.

Correct Easter Footwear

This season of all others calls for the exercise of good taste in foot-dress. We have made a study of prevailing styles and are offering quite the most "FETCHING" line of Easter Shoes you have ever seen—Shoes to harmonize with any costume; dainty, stylish, comfortable.

The Up-To-Date
PAINESVILLE'S LEADING DEPARTMENT STORE

ORIGINAL INTERNATIONAL EVERLASTING

When buying
Ball Band Boots
Straight Line Rubbers
Dry Goods
Notions
Ladies' or Gents'
Furnishings
Shoes, Drugs
Patent Medicines
Graniteware, Tinware
OR
Light Hardware

You Receive Quality Goods at Reasonable Rates at

Wm. F. Wollpert's
General Store
Wickliffe, O. Cuy. Phone 4-R

YES we have the SPAY PUMP

The Complete Line of MYER'S PUMPS for both Deep and Shallow Wells.

HAWKINS-JEPSON CO.,
THE PLUMBERS
PHONE 333-R PAINESVILLE, OHIO
Branch Store, Arlington Block, Fairport, Ohio

Don't Be Deceived

When you want a SUCTION CLEANER get one that CLEANS the CORNERS and EDGES of the rooms; also Upholstered Furniture, Mattresses, Etc.

Electric machines do not depend on the speed of the operator for their power. We now have a neat, light and efficient machine which is greatly improved over the same make we sold last year.

CHARLES A. MILLER
Phone 149-R. PAINESVILLE, OHIO

---

The Lake County Weekly Herald

Volume XIV. No. 5 PAINESVILLE, OHIO, APRIL 11, 1912 One Dollar Per Year

LAKE COUNTY DEMOCRATS

Caucus of Democrats From All Over County Meets in Painesville.

Formulate a Strong County Ticket—Secret Ballot Gives Expression on Presidential Preference and Wilson Defeats Harmon by Two to One Vote

A large number of democrats from all the precincts in Lake county met at Painesville City Hall last Saturday and formulated a county ticket to be nominated at the primary election to be held next month. It was also decided to hold a county convention, for the purpose of electing delegates to the state and other district conventions. The delegates to the county convention will be elected at the primary election held May 21st and each precinct should see that delegates are elected. A member of the county central committee from each precinct will also be elected at the primary election.

The county ticket was not entirely completed at the meeting but selections for county commissioner, clerk of courts and surveyor will probably be made by the executive committee at a meeting held this week.

The ticket so far as it is now made up for the primary ballot is as follows:

Auditor—Frank Davet, of Madison.
Sheriff—Courtney Barrett, of Concord township.
Treasurer—E. J. Kelley, of Painesville.
Recorder—W. F. Provo, of Wickliffe.
County Attorney—Harry T. Nolan, of Painesville.
Probate Judge—Martin A. Tuttle, of Painesville.
Coroner—Dr. C. O. Hudson, of Painesville.
Representative to State Assembly—Fletcher D. Malin, of Painesville.

A more enthusiastic meeting of democrats was never held in Lake county and some speeches were made prophesying success at the coming presidential election, and it is believed that Lake county will elect some democrats to county offices this year.

A secret poll of those present was taken on presidential preference and resulted in 15 votes for Woodrow Wilson and 7 votes for Judson Harmon. A second ballot stood as follows. Bryan 8½, Wilson 6½, Harmon 7. Some of those present did not vote at all. The indications are that Woodrow Wilson will carry Lake county by a handsome majority at the primary election, but the Harmon men are enthusiastic and will put up a strong contest.

Petitions for the nomination of delegates to the national convention were liberally signed at the meeting, also one for the nomination of Attorney Wm. Gordon, of Cleveland, as the democratic candidate for Congress in the 20th district.

OFFICIAL REPORT

Ohio Department of Agriculture April 1, 1912

Present condition of Ohio's wheat crop is poor. Correspondents estimate it at 81 per cent compared with an average. One month ago condition was reported at 63 per cent. April 1st, last year, condition was estimated at 84 per cent. Generally over the state seeding was late, and the plant had made but small growth at commencement of winter. Early sown wheat is in fair condition. Many fields in northwestern section of state are still covered with snow and ice. In southeastern section plant appears to have suffered from insufficient snow protection and has been further damaged during past month by alternate thawing and freezing.

The backward season has made it impossible to accurately estimate fruit prospect. Compared with a normal yield, prospect is estimated at 67 per cent. Reports of damage refer almost wholly to peach crop. An unusually large number of correspondents report spraying and pruning in progress. The awakening to the proper care of the orchards is attributed to the teachings garnered from the recent visit of the Booster Train over the state, orchard demonstrations by the various agricultural institutions and exhibits by these latter at county fairs.

The present season is the most backward in years. Plowing and spring work have been retarded by the unfavorable weather conditions. In marked contrast is the present season compared with one year ago. We quote the following from report issued by this Department April, 1911. "Spring work is well advanced in many sections of the state oats seeding has been completed, while plowing is in progress."

Harbor at Geneva

There will be a new harbor on Lake Erie at Geneva, whenever the proposed Lake Erie and Ohio river ship canal project becomes financed to the point where its construction is assured.

This is one of the main features of the final report of the national waterways commission, of which Senator Burton of Ohio is chairman, which was presented to congress on Monday and which recommends that the government give its aid to the canal proposition.

With a harbor on the lake Geneva will be greatly boomed. The town has wanted a harbor for many years, but the waterways policy of Uncle Sam has been opposed to creating new ports, there being a heavy expense to maintain the present number. The only way Geneva can get a harbor, therefore, is through the canal project, and the favorable report of the waterways commission has brightened the hope perceptibly.

Indian creek is now nothing but a shallow rivulet, which enters the lake three miles east of Geneva and seven miles west of Ashtabula. Land at the mouth of the creek has been purchased by Jones & Laughlin, the Pittsburg steel makers, and with a canal entrance there it is predicted that steel mills would soon be reared on the bank of the lake.

MRS. LYNN MURRAY

Former Painesville Girl Dies at Hospital.

Mrs. Lynn Murray of Ashtabula, passed away at the hospital following an operation Saturday morning.

Mrs. Murray before her marriage in April, 1911, to Lynn Murray of this city, was Miss Lucy Rider, daughter of Councilman Z. P. Rider, of Mentor avenue. She was a graduate of the high school here and for many years was an efficient employe of Recorder F. T. Pyle and later secretary of the Pyle Abstract & Loan Co. Mrs. Murray was a young woman of exceptional qualities and through her sunny disposition endeared herself to her friends who were legion.

Besides a husband and a father, she is survived by four sisters and one brother, Misses Jennie, Elizabeth and Ellen Rider, Mrs. Gordon Kelsey and James Rider. Mrs. Murray was 27 years of age and always lived in Painesville prior to her marriage.

Gets Off Easy.

Raymond Druen, the young man from Wickliffe, who shot Dan McCarthy at a dance in Mentor several weeks ago, was brought before Justice E. O. Huntington last Thursday and pleaded guilty to the charge of carrying concealed weapons. Druen was fined $10.00 and costs.

Roosevelt Club

Several petitions for the organization of a Painesville Roosevelt Club are being circulated, and have also been left at the cigar stands of R. Jackson, Terman Levy and B. Doolittle.

The Daily Telegraph-Republican makes a very sour face at the appearance of this petition, probably because it is signed by the rank and file of the party.

The petition is interesting in one respect, however, in that it is not headed in signatures by Burrows, Reynolds, Blakely, Hunter, Shepherd, Huntington, Osborne, Nye, etc. as has been the custom with all republican petitions in this locality for, lo these many years.

The fact that Roosevelt has swept Illinois, beating Taft by a 2 to 1 vote will probably result in some of these prominent republican names appearing later on the roster of the Roosevelt Club.

"My little son had a very severe cold. I was recommended to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and before a small bottle was finished he was as well as ever," writes Mrs. H. Silks, 29 Dowling Street, Sydney, Australia. This remedy is for sale by all dealers.

ABOUT PEOPLE AND PLACES

Miss Pearl Warran has accepted a position with E. W. Hedeler.

—o—

Born, Sunday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Perry Ruhling, an eight-pound daughter, Esther Louise.

—o—

Mrs. L. P. Gage has offered a room in the Gage block for the use of the Red Cross nurse, who will arrive in this city the first part of this month.

—o—

The civil service board has at last been appointed. The members composing the present board are Prof. O. H. Lowary, R. W. Henderson and Dr. H. W. Grauel.

—o—

L. V. Axtell of the Old Homestead Guernsey farm at Perry, has sold W. A. Bartshe of Kent, Ohio, a fine registered Guernsey calf to place at the head of his dairy.

—o—

George W. Ingersoll, aged 77 years a well-known resident of North Mentor, died Tuesday morning at 1:45 o'clock of pleurisy. He is survived by one son, Howard Ingersoll.

—o—

S. H. Halle, a member of the firm of Halle Bros. of Cleveland, has purchased about 200 acres of land in Kirtland from Charles R. Harbaugh and it is expected that within a short time Mr. Halle will commence the erection of a palatial summer home.

—o—

"There's an old fellow living over beyond Grassy Hill who will argue by the hour that the earth is flat and the sun moves."

"Let him alone!" sagely commanded the Old Codger. "If you switch him he'll want to argue Socialism with you."—Puck.

—o—

The city council met last Monday evening. About all that was done was to discuss the lack of funds in nearly every department. Ever since the saloon license fund went glimmering the treasury of the city has been on the ragged edge of insolvency.

—o—

James Smart of Willoughby, who has spent the past few months in the county jail, was released last Wednesday on $1,000 bail and his case continued until May 10. Smart was arrested for sandbagging Charles C. Jenkins, the city clerk of the village, and robbing him of a small sum of money.

—o—

The republican senatorial convention for the purpose of nominating the two state senators from this district will be held in Akron on the first Saturday in June. The district comprises Lake, Ashtabula, Geauga, Portage and Summit counties. Lake county will be entitled to eighteen delegates to the convention.

—o—

The colored citizens have started evangelistic meetings in the St. John's Baptist church on West Washington street and will continue for two weeks or more. The Rev. H. B. Brown, district missionary of the Northern Ohio Baptist association, is conducting the meetings and will preach every night at 8 o'clock.

—o—

Mrs. Lucinda McFerron, aged seventy-five years, a resident of Heisley road, was found dead in her home on Monday morning by neighbors. Mrs. McFerron, who lived alone, was last seen on Sunday evening and when she failed to appear Monday the neighbors began to worry and tried to get into her house. A window was opened and Mrs. McFerron was found dead in bed.

—o—

It is interesting to note how the idea is finding lodgment in the minds of shrewd politicians in various parts of the country that the outcome of the Baltimore convention may be the nomination of William Jennings Bryan. It is recognized that the democrats are splitting up between candidates in a way that may soon lead them to exhibit such bitterness of feeling as the republicans are displaying.

—o—

E. E. Lawrence, of Fairport, celebrated the opening of his new store in the handsome new building Wednesday. The building is neat in appearance and two stories in height. The lower floor will be occupied exclusively by Mr. Lawrence with his groceries and meat business. The front of the second floor will be devoted to offices. The building is a great addition to Fairport and is located at the top of the hill diagonally across from the Arlington.

HARRIS R. COOLEY

Cleveland Superintendent of Corrections is Coming to Painesville.

It is announced that Harris R. Cooley will address the Men's Club at the Y. M. C. A. next Sunday afternoon. Mr. Cooley is sure to have a good audience as he has many admirers in this city.

Foster Locked Up.

Robert Foster was arrested on Wednesday by Chief Appleton, charged with being implicated in the robbery of Alonzo Babcock, which occurred in Concord on Saturday evening. Foster was brought before Justice Huntington on Thursday morning and the hearing was set for Friday. Bail was fixed at $1,000 which was not furnished so Foster was taken back to jail.

Socialist Paper.

Incorporation papers have been granted to the Ashtabula Free Press Publishing Company, a Socialist organization which it is expected will soon begin the publication of a weekly paper.

The names attached to the incorporation papers, aside from that of Mr. Whiting, are R. W. [illegible], William Henry Fox, E. A. Sidley, Edward Stenroos and S. E. Rice.

HEISLEY

Our professional sprayer, H. G. Edwards, is having more work than he can do.

Mr. Leonard has just purchased nine registered Jersey cows from Pennsylvania and can furnish his customers with choice Jersey butter.

We are sorry to lose our genial neighbor, Warner Trowbridge and family, who have moved to Painesville on Liberty street.

Mr. Frank Shaw has moved into the Wood house.

Will Prouty is making a large quantity of maple syrup so we can all get sweetened up for another year.

Mr. Widgreen has rented the Luther Gordon farm to work for a year.

Mr. Murphy has moved his tenant house farther into the woods and expects soon to move his family down from the city for the summer.

A. F. Bernard and Elmer Conklin, the Rosemont nurserymen, are doing the largest trade in the history of their business.

Mr. and Mrs. Widgreen enjoyed a visit over Sunday from their daughter and husband from Fairport.

Miss Leila Edwards of Lake Erie College is spending her Easter vacation at home.

Will Horton is setting out a large quantity of all kinds of small fruits.

Mr. Fowler Foshay is driving a handsome bay colt.

Mrs. Marion Minor of Ridgewood farm was in Cleveland a few days last week.

Mr. George Tucker purchased a fine Lumber Wagon at the Munson sale.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Van Deusen, of Ashley Falls, Mass., are the proud parents of a baby boy, born March 15th, 1912. Mr. Van Deusen will be remembered as foreman of the Viall farm for three years.

Mr. Will Diedrich of the Gilchrist farm had the misfortune to fall from a wagon two weeks ago and sprained his ankle, now having to walk on crutches.

Mr. Cooper of the King farm at Little Mountain was seen at Heisley Sunday.

Clinton Curtiss is working for Fred Beall this Spring.

We have not seen Mr. Douglass Carroll all winter but expect to see him out this way as soon as the roads are passable.

William Sawyer who has been very sick most of the winter is feeling some better now.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Whitney are expected soon to move from the city into their summer home on the Ridge.

Mrs. John Sayles, who has been sick all winter remains about the same.

Mr. Johnson who has been very ill is able to be out.

Mrs. Ralph Riddles and little daughter, Marion, of Cleveland, were guests of her sister, Mrs. Helen Beall last week.

PERRY

Miss Mildred Hodden was in town Sunday. She is spending her spring vacation with her parents, who now reside in Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Langshaw returned last Tuesday from their winter visit in the west.

Miss Bessie and Mr. Will Salkeld and Mr. D. Stephens celebrated their birthday anniversaries at the Baptist Chapel Wednesday evening. The use of the chapel afforded room for their many friends, and a very enjoyable evening was spent. A lunch of warm sugar, rolls and pickles was served.

Miss Stella McLeod of Womans' College is the guest of Miss Jessie Teaney.

Mrs. Ellen Mitchell spent the later part of the week with relatives and friends in Cleveland.

Easter was celebrated with suitable festivity at the Methodist church. The morning was given to the children's program and a cantata rendered by a chorus from the different churches of the town voiced the joy of the Christian people in their risen Lord. And not only people rejoice, the country round about seems to have been keeping a Lenten sobriety, but now has suddenly turned gay. The hepaticas are in bloom, the meadows are a bright green. Mr. R. S. West's narcissus and daffodil field shows plants several inches high, while Red Mill hollow seems to be the site of a multitudinous feathered orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. McNutt and daughter, Thelma were week-end guests at O. B. Tenney's.

Mr. and Mrs. Richardson and sons of Cleveland spent Easter at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Treat.

Prof. Kendall of Painesville was visiting the Perry school Monday.

A prayer meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. S. W. Hurlburt Thursday evening.

A party is to be held at Mrs. Barkalow's home Friday evening.

The Harolds have moved from their home in Cleveland to the country home purchased from R. S. West.

Tom Korpinen was accidentally shot last Saturday in Neuberi's woods. His funeral was held Monday.

The last number on the lecture course was held Wednesday evening. The ladies Olympic Quartette entertained the audience.

WICKLIFFE

Mr. C. Travers, Tailor avenue, fell from one of the McConnel buildings last week and broke one of his ribs.

Mrs. Estella Fuller and little daughter, who has been visiting at the Sherman's for the past week, returned to her home at Painesville.

Mr. Mark Furgason, Tailor avenue, has gotten a new cistern pump.

Mr. Mort Kaine one of the masons working on Mr. Robbins house, received painful injuries of a broken wrist.

Miss Dorothy Means entertained her Sunday school class Saturday afternoon. All the girls were present but two. After talk, light refreshments of cream and cake were served.

Mrs. Warren Vial who was on the sick list Saturday all day, is able to be about now.

Mr. M. Rockafellow of Willoughby and Alice Rudd called on Mr. and Mrs. Davidson at the Morris home Friday afternoon.

Lynn Wortman was at home for a few days ill with the grippe, but was able to resume his work Saturday.

Mrs. Frank Hardaker and grandson, Fred, went to McKeesport, Pa., to spend Easter with her son, Elmer and wife.

Mr. Dempsy is suffering with a sprained wrist caused from a fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Peck and children of Willoughby spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Ed. Claymon of Wickliffe, on the Ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Davy Wickliffe went to Cleveland Monday.

Mr. W. F. Means, a prominent merchant of this town, went to Cleveland on business Monday.

There were quite a number of Wickliffe people went to Painesville to attend a band concert Monday night, given by bandmaster Parsons of that town.

The Wickliffe Presbyterian church held their Easter services Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, which consisted of songs sung by the choir, solos by Mr. Arlen Garnett; duet by Mrs. Barber and Mrs. Dovee; reading by the pastor, Rev. Woollett, after which Mrs. Jennie Dowman sang a beautiful solo, title "A Morning in the Orient."

NORTH MADISON

Joseph Fuller, wife and two children, of Washington state, after a ten days stay with relatives started Sunday evening for their home.

Chas. Vesey returned from Cleveland Sunday after the Easter rush at mall.

Miss Marion Chapman who has been spending several days at the home of her grandfather and uncle, returned to her home in Cleveland Sunday.

Grant Miller of Virginia was called home by the sudden death of his father, Mr. E. C. Miller which occurred Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hall, S. A. and W. E. Foster were among those who were in Ashtabula Saturday to see the launching of the first steamer ever built there, the Louis R. Davidson.

Mrs. Warren Haywood is on the sick list.

Mrs. Davies and Perry were Ashtabula visitors Wednesday.

Mrs. Bomer of the Bennett Road has been very low but is some better. Mrs. Mary Burns is caring for her.

Mr. Millard Sheppard and son Robert were at home for Easter Sunday from Lorain.

Mrs. George Haywood was in Ashtabula Saturday, and Mr. Haywood in Painesville, on business.

Mr. Wm. Pope has returned from New Orleans where he has been visiting his daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Ed. Norton.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dill have his brother, Harry and mother, Mrs. M. L. Dill of Cleveland as guests for a few days.

Dr. Foljambe was in the city recently.

Mrs. Nellie Winchester of Cleveland has been a recent guest of her old neighbors and friends.

E. J. Foster has been a recent guest of his parents, L. A. Foster.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Chaffee of Geneva were over Easter guests of his parents, Chas. Chaffee.

Mrs. H. S. Kellogg and daughter, Bertha, returned Monday from a several days visit with relatives in Chardon and Mentor a guest of her sister, Pearl.

Mr. E. C. Miller an old resident of North Madison passed away very suddenly Tuesday night of heart failure. He had been in failing health for some time, but the end came very unexpected. Mr. Miller was 77 years of age and leaves a wife, four sons and a daughter to feel the loss of a kind and devoted husband and father. Mr. Miller was one of the few survivors of the civil war, belonging to the 7th Ohio Company D. The stars and stripes will wave over the grave of another true soldier. The funeral services were held at his late home on the Chapel Road Friday P. M. Rev. Yeager officiated. The many floral offerings spoke of the love those left felt for the one just gone a little before.

Miss Ina Miller returned to her school work Monday. Mr. O. E. Miller and family of Collinwood returned to their home Monday.

BIGELOW'S TRIUMPH IN OHIO

[From The Public]

More thoughtful, prudent, successful and conscientious work under adverse conditions and difficult circumstances, was never done than Herbert S. Bigelow's as a member and president of the Constitutional Convention of Ohio. It is a triumphant culmination, lacking now only the popular vote to make it complete, of ten years of truly democratic service by Bigelow in that State; a service which, beginning under the tutelage of Tom L. Johnson and pursued under Johnson's leadership while he lived, has been continued in Johnson's spirit since Johnson's death.

The task has not been easy. Like Johnson, Bigelow has ideals; like Johnson, like all other men with ideals, he yearns to pursue his ideals without turning either to the right or the left; but also like Johnson and all other men with gumption as well as ideals, he realizes that in leading in the common life no one can go straight to his goal. He "who would walk in a straight line," said Macaulay, "may do so in the desert but not on Cheapside." With Bigelow, therefore, as with Johnson, there have been not only enemies to misrepresent his cause, but "middle-of-the-road" friends to question methods, and professed comrades to make flank attacks from ambush. Tom L. Johnson went through it all, and Bigelow could escape none of it when Johnson's mantle in the Ohio leadership for Direct Legislation fell upon his shoulders and the crisis came.

But he has apparently come now into a generally recognized and justly earned victory. That some Singletaxers will grieve over the inhibition of Singletax legislation in the compromise amendment for Direct Legislation that Bigelow secured from the Ohio Constitutional Convention is probable, so prone are we all to value cherished names and plans above substance and results. But in truth the enemies of the Singletax have forced into the Ohio initiative measure what is likely to serve the Singletax cause with excellent effect. If the proposed amendment to the Ohio Constitution had not inhibited the use for Singletax legislation of the legislative initiative, a Singletax law could be voted on if petitioned for by 4 per cent of the voters; but this would have been useless without many more favorable voters than 4 per cent. The Singletax must have public opinion behind it to be worth while. As it is, the new Constitution can be amended by initiative so as to strike out the inhibition as soon as public opinion is behind the Singletax; all that will be needed being 8 per cent of the voters to petition for such an amendment. For Bigelow to have opposed that inhibition would have been to jeopardize the Initiative and Referendum, and this without benefiting the Singletax movement. By accepting the inhibition, he disarmed the black horse cavalry of the Ohio State Board of Commerce and its allies, and, defeating them, won his principal present fight. He also thereby allowed them all unconsciously to themselves (for they were not so very shrewd), to lay a basis for Singletax agitation, out of which an overwhelming Singletax sentiment in Ohio, especially in the farming regions, is almost certain to spring at no distant day.

This inhibition of the Singletax, written as it is into the Constitution of Ohio, will be a perennial object of public curiosity, wonder, discussion and debate all over the State. It advertises the Singletax better than posters could. Why is the Singletax inhibited? What is the Singletax that it must be inhibited? In whose interest is the Singletax Constitutionally barred? These are types of inquiries that will be discussed wherever and whenever any man, woman or school pupil chooses to raise the question. And then the answers. In the interest of farmers, for instance! But how? When that question once comes under discussion among farmers, it won't be long before they see into the bunco game of their Big Business protectors. They will speedily realize—for farmers are not the fools their Big Business guardians take them to be—that the Ohio Constitution prohibits their voting to reduce their own taxes.

Considered without reference to inhibitions upon any specific question, the Initiative and Referendum provisions of the proposed new Constitution of Ohio seem to be, on the whole, equal to any and superior to most of those of the other States. The direct initiative is available for Constitutional amendments on a 12 per cent petition; the indirect initiative through the legislature (quite as good if not better) is available for Constitutional amendments on an 8 per cent petition; the indirect initiative is available for all legislation except the Singletax and classifications of property for taxation on a 4 per cent petition; and the Referendum is well secured, as are both the Initiative and Referendum for municipalities. There is no weak point that we detect, unless a Governor's veto of legislation initiated by the people and adopted by the legislature might be obstructive. It probably would not be so; and even if it were, the defect could be easily cured. The present Constitutional Convention of Ohio has given promise of taking a high place in the history of that State.

WILLOUGHBY

Mrs. John Crobaugh is quite ill with a bad cold.

Died, Friday, at Pleasant Valley John Dodd, a well known citizen of that place. The funeral was held Monday at the home. The interment was in the Waite Hill cemetery.

Miss Nina Rockafellow of Mentor spent Thursday with friends.

Mr. G. F. Manville made a business trip to Bedford Friday.

Mrs. Henry Stowell of Cleveland, spent a day or two with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Moseley the past week.

Mr. Benj. Moseley is selling his stock of jewelry at auction for a few days.

Mrs. L. W. Penfield entertained her luncheon club Friday evening.

Mrs. Chas. Richardson entertained a number of lady friends Saturday afternoon.

The Car and Crane Co. band attended the band concert at Painesville high school Monday, and a number of others also attended. James A. McMahon, who sang, was the main attraction.

The Epworth League will give a social and entertainment at the Methodist church Friday, April 19.

An Easter Vesper service was given Sunday afternoon at the M. E. Church by the choir and Sunday school.

Mrs. Frank A. Seiberling of Akron will be in town this week to sing Friday at the concert given at the M. E. church. Mr. Lundolf of Cleveland, will also sing.

The Womans' Foreign Missionary society met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Samuel Austin, on Euclid St.

Mrs. Corydon Chapman spent Monday in Painesville.

Gus Drier, a German farmer, was struck Monday by a Nickle Plate train and injured. He was brought to this place for treatment, in L. P. Davis' ambulance.

You will look a good while before you find a better medicine for coughs and colds than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only gives relief—it cures. Try it when you have a cough or cold, and you are certain to be pleased with the prompt cure which it will effect. For sale by all dealers.

Obliging Eagle.

A golden eagle which has been in captivity in Maldon, Essex, for 46 years, has just died. It was a female, purchased in Leadenhall market, and for several years made a nest and laid eggs. On one occasion, says the Dundee Courier, hen's eggs being given to it to sit on, it hatched and reared a brood of chickens, but in other years the chicks were always eaten as soon as hatched.

Idleness the Root of All Sin.

Idleness is the unforgiveable sin, because it is the mother of all other sins.

In the Capitalist Class.

The man with health and strength and good character is a capitalist.

For rheumatism you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Liniment. Try it and see how quickly it gives relief. For sale by all dealers.

LAKE COUNTY HERALD
HALTER & TUTTLE, Proprietors
PAINESVILLE, OHIO

HUBBY NOT THE GUILTY ONE

Mrs. Hiltop Blushes Yet When She Recalls Her Experience as a Runner Down of Evil.

On one of the sun-kissed hilltops overlooking our fair city there dwells a pair whose married life for nigh a score of years had flowed along in unruffled serenity. But recently the cankering blight of suspicion fell upon the house of happiness, the green-eyed monster of jealousy took up its abode therein. It was all on account of "Sadie," who was entirely too good-looking for an ideal domestic.

Now it had always been the custom of Mr. Hiltop, upon returning from the day's business, to enter the house by way of the basement door, which was the most convenient way. Until Sadie's advent his action had always gone unquestioned. But of late Mrs. Hiltop had heard certain sinister sounds emanating from the lower regions, such as whisperings, titterings and sundry smacks, which, to the feminine ear, bore tidings of evil import. She determined to keep an eye on her husband—Also on Sadie.

The following evening at about the usual time for her husband's return, she arranged an errand for Sadie which would keep her busy upstairs for some time. Then she descended to the kitchen, hastily donned the natty cap and apron usually worn by Sadie, and as heavy footsteps sounded on the pavement outside she took her position in the dimly lighted hallway with her back to the door. Scarcely had she done so when the door was opened, there was a chuckle, then she was seized in a lusty embrace, a rough chin was thrust over her shoulder, and a resounding kiss planted on her cheek.

With eyes flashing fire and bosom swelling with jealous wrath, Mrs. Hiltop tore the disguising cap from her head, wheeled about—then tottered weakly into a corner.

Before her stood a grinning giant with a pair of ice tongs in his hand.—Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

Delays of Justice.

A man has been arrested in Australia for a murder committed at Chiswick in 1909. Legal records supply instances of a longer interval than this between the crime and the arrest. The leading case is that of Eugene Aram, who was hanged for the murder of Clarke fourteen years after the offense. In the eighteenth century a man named Horne was executed for the murder of his child 35 years after the crime. There is also the well known case of Governor Wall, who was hanged in 1802 for a murder committed in 1782. But Sir James Stephens recalls what is surely the most remarkable case on record. He prosecuted, as counsel for the crown, in 1863, a man who was charged with stealing a leaf from a parish registry sixty years before.

British Music.

"The English are not very musical," Walter Damrosch admitted at a dinner in New York. "The English are a little too cold, too self-conscious, to produce a Chopin or a Rimsky-Korsakov.

"Robert Louis Stevenson once went to hear Charles Halle play the piano at the Queen's hall. After the performance Stevenson in his black shirt walked in silence out Regent street to Oxford Circus. He stopped at Oxford Circus and, in a slow, meditative voice, pronounced this excellent criticism on the English musician he had heard:

"'The manner of the elderly statesman at the piano was somewhat austere and chilling.'"

Looking for a Quiet Life.

If your physical condition is perfect and you are a citizen of the United States, and over 18 years of age, and a good boatman, and have had some experience in machine shop work, handling of machinery, use of tools, etc., and can write a legible hand, you are qualified for a position as fourth assistant lighthouse keeper, and Uncle Sam will give you forty gallons of coal oil, three tons of coal and $513.50 per annum. You can have all the fish you can catch, all the ducks you can shoot, and all the vegetables you can raise and the company of the sea and the stars. There are about ten vacancies every year.

Too Much Ginger.

Another playwright, whose wife is an authoress, has discovered himself unhappily married and a new divorce is about to blossom at Reno. Temperament seems to be worth a lot more in books than at a family fireside. One genius at a time is as much as any family should be asked to suffer. Temperament plus temperament invariably equals domestic upheaval.

All Alike.

"There is a deal of sameness about life."

"Cheer up! Read some jokes."

"I have just been reading some jokes. That is what prompted my first remark."

Much Worse.

"I don't suppose there is anything worse than having the rheumatism."

"Oh, yes there is."

"What, pray?"

"Having the rheumatism and not being able to talk about it."

Wonderful Chicken.

One day small Harry saw a turkey gobbler strutting around in a neighbor's back yard—the first he had ever seen.

"Oh, mamma," he called, "come out here and see the big red-nosed chicken with a folding fan!"

Still Invited Out.

"There goes Townson. He's the author of a well-known epigram."

"You don't tell me!"

"I do tell you. And he's been dining on his reputation for ten years."

30 ARE DROWNED, 40,000 HOMELESS

LOSS TO DATE OVER $10,000,000 IN DISTRICT COVERED BY WATER FROM RIVERS.

CONDITIONS ARE IMPROVED

Mississippi Is Falling at All Points, According to Reports From Throughout the Flooded Valley.

Memphis, Tenn.—Two thousand square miles of rich farming country flooded, loss to date over $10,000,000, estimated 30 persons drowned and 40,000 persons homeless.

Reports received in Memphis from throughout the flooded Mississippi valley indicate that conditions are improved and that the worst of the flood is probably past. The river is falling at all points, having gone down two feet at Memphis from the stage which resulted in two breaks in the levees on the Arkansas side. At Hickman, New Madrid, Cairo and all points above Memphis a fall is reported.

The breaking of the levees near here relieved the situation greatly, although resulting in millions of dollars' damage to property. Two thousand square miles is now flooded and government steamers, boats of all kinds and trains, where possible, are being rushed to all points in an effort to rescue marooned flood victims and livestock.

The river appears to be falling steadily, and the danger is believed to be past except in the lower Yazoo levee line. The stage was a two-foot drop from Saturday. Six hundred square miles of the St. Francis basin is covered with water.

Memphis is filled with thousands of homeless, and the state has established a refuge camp in Montgomery park. Private homes and public buildings have been thrown open to the flood sufferers.

The property damage in eastern Arkansas will run into millions.

Water is pouring into Arkansas from three big breaks in the levees. Railroad traffic in the affected territory is paralyzed and telegraph and telephone communication is badly hampered. Of the persons driven from their homes, many have fled to towns less seriously affected than their own. Others have fled to the hills, where they are wandering, unsheltered and without food. Others are still floating without food on rafts or in boats or marooned on house tops or in trees near their submerged homes.

Heroic rescues are reported by the score.

Homes and outbuildings carried on the crest of the flood clearly show the enormous damage that has already resulted. Hundreds of head of livestock have been drowned and, after the waters recede, danger of an epidemic will ensue. Nothing but a vast sea of mud, covering 2,000 square miles, will be left behind the water. In this will be buried the carcasses of the livestock.

DOG STOPS FINING OF OWNER

Animal Voluntarily Gives Himself Up to Executioners at Pound When Found Running at Large.

Canal Dover, O.—To save his master from paying a fine and costs amounting to $10.30, a dog went alone to the city pound and gave himself up to the executioners.

Mayor Peter had published a notice that the owner of any dog found running at large would be fined $10 and costs. Officers in charge of the killing say this dog feared his owner would be liable to a fine and voluntarily gave himself up on the last day of grace. The dog followed Mayor Peter to the city building. Several times the mayor attempted to drive the dog away, but each time the animal returned, and when the city hall was reached he made his way to the pound.

WILL 'BUST' MILLINERY TRUST

Fifteen Thousand New York Suffragists to Wear Thirty-eight Cent Hats in May Parade.

New York City.—New York women suffragists busted the millinery trust with a 38-cent hat to be worn by 15,000 women at the suffragist parade up Fifth avenue May 4.

It is a creation of handsome, coarse white straw, with a slant up to windward and a slant down to leeward.

Every female of the species in the votes for women May party who does not possess the credentials which permit her to parade in mortar board and college gown will wear the official lid.

Lad Dies in Mother's Arms.

Erie, Pa.—Despite the fact that his back was broken when run over by a milk wagon, Waclaw Szymanowski, seven, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Szymanowski, ran to his home half a square away and died in his mother's arms.

The boy had been sent to the wagon by his mother with an armful of empty milk bottles. He climbed upon the step and was placing them in the wagon when the horse started up, throwing him to the pavement, the hind wheel passing over his back.

Insurance Chief Is Dead.

Medina, O.—J. C. Johnson, for 42 years president of the Ohio Farmers' Fire Insurance Co., died at his home in Ashtabula. Mr. Johnson had missed only one meeting of the insurance company's board of trustees during his long term of service.

He was a member of the Ohio legislature from 1849 to 1852 and speaker of the house for one term. He had served also as trustee of the Cleveland State hospital at Newburg. Mr. Johnson had practiced law for many years and was 93.

TORNADO INJURES MANY

BLOWS CARS FROM TRACKS AND WRECKS BUILDINGS.

Storm Makes Its Appearance in New York Town in the Guise of an April Shower.

Middletown, N. Y.—A terrific tornado which demolished buildings, blew railroad cars from the tracks, uprooted trees and caused injuries to a score or more people, struck South Fallsburgh, Sullivan county. South Fallsburgh is a village of 500 inhabitants 110 miles from New York City.

The storm made its appearance in the guise of an April shower. It had been raining for a time when a black cloud made its appearance in the west. It first seemed to strike the general store of Chester E. Couch. The three story frame structure moved off its foundations. The sidewalls fell out and the roof fell in. The postoffice was also in this building. Postmaster and Mrs. Charles Denniston and Mr. Couch occupied apartments upstairs. They had as guests Rev. Joseph C. Carley, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Atwell and Samuel Lynch.

All were rescued from the debris severely bruised.

Hatch's feed mill, Gardner's cider mill, the Fallsburgh hotel livery stable and several smaller buildings were also wrecked. Many houses were moved from their foundations and the streets were filled with wreckage.

New York, April 8.—At least one person was killed, more than a hundred were injured, several probably fatally, and inestimable damage was done to property by a tornado which left a circuitous path of destruction in its wake in this state and New Jersey.

Buildings were blown down, roofs torn off, trees uprooted and cars blown from the track.

URGES CONGRESS AID CANALS

National Waterways Commission Recommends in Report $60,000,000 Shipway to Pittsburgh.

Washington, D. C.—The national waterways commission of which Senator Burton is chairman in its final report submitted to congress recommended that the government give its backing to the proposed Lake Erie and Ohio river canal. The recommendation of the commission will give the canal project great impetus. With respect to the proposed canal the report says in part:

"In view of the great benefits which would result from the construction of this waterway, the commission believes that the federal government is justified in co-operating with the localities which are to furnish the funds to the extent of building the approaches to the canal and of lending them the army engineers to perform the engineering work necessary for its construction. The commission accordingly recommends that when $10,000,000 is available in cash and bonds to the amount of $40,000,000, or as much more as is necessary in the opinion of the secretary of war to insure its completion, have been authorized and the legality of such bonds has been certified by competent legal authority, he shall direct the chief of engineers to detail without charge for services such officers from the corps of engineers as he shall deem necessary to perform the engineering work necessary for the construction of the proposed canal."

ADVOCATES BEER VAT DEATH

Magistrate Would Drown Men Who Drink and Abuse Wife and Children.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Magistrate Grelis wants a new statute under which he may punish men who drink and abuse their families.

He wants this action to be made a capital offense, the offender to be sentenced to drowning in an immense beer vat in which he would have to swim until overcome with fatigue when he would sink and his dying breath create a bubble in the beer. At all events this is what the magistrate said in discussing the case of Joseph Harrington, who drove his wife and seven children into the street.

Smashes Weston's Record.

San Francisco, Cal.—Sergeant John Walsh, aged 61, came marching into the Presidio April 6 minus the soles of his shoes, but with the record for the round trip walk from San Francisco to New York and return as his. He completed his journey in 186 days, which smashes the previous record held by Edward Payson Weston by 18 days.

Walsh covered over 7,000 miles and averaged 40 miles a day during the trip.

Urges Trust Supervisor.

Washington, D. C.—The creation of a federal administrative office to supervise interstate industrial corporations is strongly urged by Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, in his annual report just made public.

Smith maintains that it is impossible to enforce effectively any real system of restraint upon business through the courts alone because of the vast complexity of corporate interests and the constantly changing business conditions.

Didn't Want to Wink at Truth.

Washington, D. C.—"Do you know why I forsook the practice of law in Indiana to enter politics?" asked Gov. Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana of his audience at a Y. M. C. A. mass meeting here.

"Well, it was to preserve my self-respect. I wanted to get into a profession where my conscience could be given breathing room; where I would not have to wink one eye at the truth."

The governor deplored decadence in the practice of the profession of law, medicine and theology.

ROOSEVELT WINS IN ILLINOIS PRIMARY

"COLONEL" APPEARS TO HAVE SWEPT STATE, ACCORDING TO INCOMPLETE RETURNS.

CHAMP CLARK ALSO IS VICTOR

Speaker of House of Representatives' Vote Is Approximately Twice That for Governor Wilson of New Jersey.

Chicago, Ill.—Incomplete returns from Illinois primary election precincts indicate that Col. Theodore Roosevelt led President Taft about two and a half to one in the preferential presidential primary and that Champ Clark's vote in the same primary was approximately twice that for Governor Wilson of New Jersey.

Colonel Roosevelt's state managers claimed his majority over President Taft as from 100,000 to 150,000. Returns indicate his vote was nearly five to two as against that for Taft. Presidential delegates were not named on the ballots, and will be elected by congressional districts and at large, the effect of Tuesday's vote being only to serve as a guide to party officials as indicating party feeling.

State candidates known to be friendly to Senator Lorimer are indicated by early returns to have lost in several contests. Chief of these was Len Small, who for governor, appears to have been defeated by Governor Deneen. John E. Wayman was running a strong third.

The Lorimer crowd, though virtually thrown out of the Cook county Republican organization again, managed, as usual, to keep some of its old wards. The ward organizations of the tenth, eleventh, thirteenth, fourteenth, twentieth and thirty-fourth wards were conceded to the Lorimer crowd by the committee of 100.

Woman's suffrage in Chicago appeared to have met a decisive defeat.

Edward F. Dunne, Democratic candidate for governor, appeared to be leading Samuel Alschuler in Cook county, but out in the state early returns indicated his strength to be less. Ben F. Caldwell ran well in the central part of the state.

Champ Clark will carry Cook county apparently by 85,000 majority. Early returns indicate that he will get nearly as large a plurality down state.

He will have the eight delegates at large to the Democratic national convention, and from the early indications 40 of the 50 district delegates at least.

Roosevelt's probable plurality in Cook county will be 27,000 for the delegates-at-large. Also the indications are that he will get the district delegates for seven of the ten Chicago districts with a chance to get them from nine of ten districts.

Senator Shelby M. Cullom has been beaten for the Republican indorsement for United States senator.

Gov. Charles S. Deneen seems to have scored an easy victory for his third nomination as the Republican candidate for governor.

In Chicago two malodorous political machines seem to have been sent to the scrap heap for good—Roger C. Sullivan's so-called Democratic machine and its close kinsman, the Lorimer Lincoln league.

INDORSE TAFT AS CANDIDATE

New York State Republicans Laud President, but Delegates to Chicago Are Not Instructed.

Rochester, N. Y.—New York state delegates-at-large to the Republican national convention were not instructed to vote for the renomination of President Taft. Instead the committee on resolutions of the Republican state convention reported a resolution to the convention favoring his nomination and urged the entire state delegation to carry out the party's choice. The committee which drafted the platform agreed to the following compromise:

"We applaud the patriotism, wisdom and undramatic courage of President William H. Taft.

"The overwhelming majority of the representatives of the party in the convention assembled favor his renomination and we urge that the delegates at large here elected in their action at Chicago carry out this choice of the Republicans of the state and that the district delegates unite to the same end."

The four delegates at large to Chicago are William Barnes, Jr., of Albany, Elihu Root of New York, William Berri of Kings and Edwin A. Merritt, Jr., of St. Lawrence.

The four alternates are Edgar T. Brackett of Saratoga, Charles W. Anderson (colored) and B. W. B. Brown of New York and George W. Whitehead of Niagara.

Mayor Is Fined for Bribery.

Freehold, N. J.—Edwin W. Packer, mayor of Long Branch, was fined $500 after his counsel had entered a plea of non vult to an indictment charging the mayor with having accepted a sum of money from the representative of an asphalt paving company with a view to having the mayor use his influence in the awarding of contracts.

The mayor also placed his resignation in the hands of the court.

He said he had no accomplices in the transactions.

Taft Condemns Lynching.

Washington, D. C.—President W. H. Taft condemned lynching in an address before the alumni of Howard university, the largest negro institution of learning in the country.

In defending law and order as against mob rule, Mr. Taft declared with emphasis, "The man who pulls the rope should hang by the rope."

President Taft later attended a dinner given in compliment to Mr. Justice Pitney of New Jersey, recently appointed to the United States supreme court.

WIFE LEAVES QUEER WILL

WOMAN DRAWS UP PECULIAR DEATHBED DOCUMENT.

Has No Property to Give Anyone, So She Begs Husband Who Deserted Her to Meet Her in Heaven.

Sharon, Pa.—Having no property to bequeath to her husband and children and desiring to leave them some reminder of her death, Mrs. Anna Green of Sharon, who died a few days ago, left a deathbed statement which follows:

"To whom it may concern: I, the undersigned, want the whole world to know that I leave this world without a grudge or hatred to anyone. The first one I want to speak to is my husband, John Green. Of course, he doesn't care to see me. And I had a good friend to come and do this writing for me so he can hear it after I have passed away.

"Mr. Green, I want to let your children know that I have raised them up as a mother should and feel that I have done my part. Oh! how I lie here on my bed of affliction and wish that I could see your face once more before I pass into the great beyond. How I would like to pass away in your arms. But I am thankful that one will be with me who has been with me all my life and will be with me when I die. Mr. Green, let me say to you: 'Prepare to meet thy God!'

"William Green, my dear son, be good to your wife, Ollie. Will, never forsake her and stand by her until death doth part you. And Josie, my dear boy, you have done the best you could and I often think of you. My heart and mind are with you. Raise Dorothy up in the fear of God for she is a good child.

"Mr. Green, my dear husband, when we stood on the floor the day that I became your bride, little did I think you would ever cast me aside, and that I would have to pass out of the world, away from you. Mr. Green, I loved you then and I love you now the same as when we were married. I fear it won't be long until my Savior comes for me. Mr. Green, I beg of you to meet me in glory. Goodby, Mr. Green; may God forgive you and take care of you. Your dear wife,

'Anna Green.

"Oh, how cold it is now. I think of the time when you brought me nice warm clothes and gowns. And just think that I hear your footsteps no more. I can almost feel the chilly waters of Jordan. The harbor will soon be reached. The boat is slowly coming up the river and I will soon step on board. May God help you to prepare to meet me."

Mrs. Green and her husband had been separated for several years.

BODY IS FOUND WITH MANIAC

Dead Professor Would Not Permit Woman to be Sent to Sanitarium and Protects Her for Years.

New York City.—The sudden death of Prof. Louis G. Parma of the New York conservatory of music caused the police to take charge of a "woman of mystery," who for years has been carefully watched over and protected by the aged professor. The police declare that the woman was his daughter and that because of his great love for her he would not permit her to be sent to a sanitarium. He has kept her in his home for years, never permitting anybody to question him concerning her.

Professor Parma was found dead in his chair after life had been extinct for 12 hours and near him partly dressed was the woman. She talked incoherently as she was taken away. Professor Parma's death was caused by cerebral hemorrhage.

WIRELESS OPERATOR A HERO

Sticks to Key as Flames Rage on Steamship and Brings Aid to 31 Passengers.

Montauk, N. Y.—The name of Hubert Ingalls was added to the roll of honor when the steamship Ontario was driven ashore near Montauk Point to save the lives of her passengers because of a fire in her hold.

With the paint of the room in which the wireless apparatus is installed cracking because of heat and tiny tongues of flames licking their way through the cracks in the floor, Ingalls, the wireless operator, stuck to his post sending out calls for aid. Due to his calls, 31 passengers were transferred from the burning ship to the tug Tasco.

One Hundred Persons Drowned.

Cairo, Egypt.—Nearly one hundred persons were drowned by the sinking of a Nile excursion steamer, after a collision with another steamer in the vicinity of the great dam on the river about 15 miles to the northwest of Cairo.

Lawyer Pleads for Richeson.

Boston, Mass.—The first move to save the life of Clarence V. T. Richeson, murderer of Miss Avis Linnell, who is sentenced to die the week of May 19, was made April 8.

The former minister's attorney had a conference with Executive Secretary Hamlin at the state house.

It was announced that on April 26 counsel for the condemned man will appear before Governor Foss and argue on the question of referring a petition to the executive council of the state.

Gets Year in Jail for Bigamy.

Allentown, Pa.—"I'll get a good one yet, even if I have to marry as many more."

This was the defiant announcement of Mrs. Jennie Schwerer, 28 years old, who was committed to prison for a year on a charge of bigamy. The young woman is alleged to have ten husbands living. It is also alleged that she has never resorted to the formality of divorce. When arraigned she pleaded not guilty, boldly declaring she had never been married at all.

REV. D. A. POLING FOR GOVERNOR

PROHIBITIONISTS AT DELAWARE CHOOSE COLUMBUS MINISTER TO HEAD TICKET.

LAW OF GOD PARTY PRINCIPLE

Brisk Debate Over Preamble to Platform, Which Rejects Local Option and Touches Vital Issues in General Reform Field.

Delaware.—Rev. Daniel A. Poling of Columbus was nominated for governor on the Prohibition ticket at the Prohibition convention.

He was given 84 votes on the first ballot to 12 for Rev. John A. Henderson of Dayton, 14 for Rev. R. W. Nairn of Zanesville and 15 for Aaron S. Watkins of Ada.

Other nominations were:

Lieutenant governor, J. H. Braithwait of Ottawa county, secretary of state, Addison Taylor of Scioto county, auditor, J. H. Ferguson of Delaware county, treasurer, Ed. H. McCarmick of Coshocton county; attorney general, Frank H. McCartney of Franklin county, judges of supreme court, H. L. Beeks of Erie county, E. J. Finey of Lucas county, clerk of supreme court, J. P. Keiser of Belmont county.

Threats to Bolt.

The convention recognized "the law of God" as the underlying principle of their party in the preamble to their platform, adopted by a vote of 61 to 55 after a long argument.

The minority report, which was finally adopted, read:

"The Prohibition party of Ohio recognizes Almighty God as revealed in Jesus Christ as the Author of civil government and Ruler among men, and accepting the law of God as the standard of right, herein make the following declarations of principle."

Rev. Aaron S. Watkins of Ada lead the fight for the majority report, declaring that there was too much religion and theology in the party, and that it should be more political. Rev. John A. Henderson lead the fight for the minority report, declaring that recognition of God was the underlying principle of the party. Threats were made to bolt the party by some delegates if the majority report prevailed.

The Platform.

In the platform adopted are the following planks:

Absolute prohibition of the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage throughout the state and nation.

Defeat at the polls of any license proposal whatsoever and retention of the present anti-license clause in the constitution.

Strict enforcement of the law instead of official tolerance and practical license of the social evil with its unspeakable traffic in girls.

Adoption of equal suffrage proposal to be submitted with revision of constitution, the initiative and referendum in all matters of legislation not distinctively moral, election of United States senators by direct vote of the people; uniform marriage and divorce legislation.

Adoption of an equitable, graduated income and inheritance tax.

Preservation of the American Sabbath.

RAIL DETECTIVE SLAIN

Negro Hoboes Resist Attempted Arrest by N. & W. Officer and Shoot Him—Are Captured.

Columbus.—James P. Gearin, who was employed as detective by the Norfolk and Western Railroad company, was fatally shot in a running fight with two negro hoboes near the Franklin county infirmary. He died in an ambulance on the way to Mt. Carmel hospital. The police captured his alleged murderers.

Gearin had attempted to place the hoboes under arrest and one resisted. Before Gearin could pull his gun one of the hoboes fired a shot. By this time Gearin's gun was in action and a fusillade took place. When the smoke had cleared, Gearin was lying beside the track with a bullet wound near his heart.

The negroes gave the names of Roy Sesics and William Cragg and confessed to the police.

TWO KILLED IN EXPLOSION.

Nelsonville.—Albert Herold, 35 years old, and Fred Ferguson, who is 26, both single, were instantly killed by the premature explosion of dynamite which they were thawing at the New York plant.

sillon asylum.

FIGHTS MADMAN IN RIVER.

Youth Rescues Lunatic After Fierce Battle in Water.

Akron.—Andrew Cheaton, 37 years old, went suddenly insane and ran a mile to the Cuyahoga river. He leaped into the water and was rescued by William Ahele, 18 years, who plunged into the swollen stream and dragged him to the shore. The crazy man fought and both were nearly drowned. Cheaton has been sent to the Massillon asylum, where he will be subjected to treatment.

FISHERY HELPERS STRIKE.

Sandusky Housemen and Dressers Walk Out of Two Plants.

Sandusky.—Housemen and fish dressers in the employ of the Booth Fisheries Co. and Lay Bros., struck without warning in sympathy with the few gill netters in the Great Lakes fishing region, who have been unable to adjust disputes of long standing with their employers. Pound net fishermen are talking of organizing hereabouts, and if they do the situation promises to become serious.

A NEW [illegible] FOR WOMEN

Denison University to Have Supervision Over Preparatory School for Ladies.

Granville.—Recently somebody has been found who apparently has the wisdom to appreciate the situation, and the enterprise to start at Summerland Beach a combined summer school and chautauqua of a very high order. Some weeks ago an organization was formed among a number of gentlemen prominent in religious and educational lines in this state, with this purpose in view. The first result of their labors, the organization of a summer school, is about to be realized.

To insure the establishment of a high grade school, this feature of the enterprise was put under the control of one of the colleges of the state, Denison university. It will be called, therefore, the Denison summer school. Denison men are at the head of it, and it is understood that full credit will be allowed in the university for the completion of any of the regular college courses.

Another thing of interest about this school is the rather ambitious beginning it is preparing to make. It has been the history of most summer schools that they have come up from rather small beginnings. But the Denison summer school will start out the first year with a full-fledged faculty. Besides a numerous body of instructors, arrangements have been made for a series of free lectures by a number of men eminent in educational lines.

A strong feature in the program for the coming summer is the normal department. This will be headed by Dr. Weber of the Normal Training school of Cleveland, who was for some time an instructor in the School of Education of Wisconsin university. Dr. Weber will have charge of the work in general methods. Professor Gregory of the same school will have charge of the work in geography and agriculture. Professor Gregory was at one time an instructor in Harvard university.

The primary work will be equally well taken care of. It will be under the direction of two or three of the leading primary teachers of the state. Altogether, so far as the educational feature is concerned, it looks as if the far famed Winona might be going to have a real rival in the state of Ohio. Extensive preparations are in progress with reference to the chautauqua, which follows the summer school, lasting for two weeks.

BENSE ACT IS SUSTAINED

Supreme Court Holds State Health Board Can Compel Municipalities to Provide Pure Water.

Columbus.—A decision by the supreme court practically upholds the constitutionality of the Bense act, clothing the state board of health with power to compel municipalities to install sewage disposal plants and filtration plants to provide for pure water supplies.

The decision is given in the case brought by the board to compel the city of Greenville, Darke county, to install plants of the kind mentioned. The city resisted the order and assailed the validity of the act. The common pleas court upheld the act, but the circuit court knocked it out on the ground that it was not a uniform application because it exempted cities along the Ohio river.

MAY INVALIDATE OFFICE.

Jackson.—For promising to pay his own deputy hire, George W. Brooke of this place, candidate for Republican nomination for recorder, has placed in jeopardy his right to hold office if elected. In a ruling to the prosecuting attorney of Jackson county, Attorney General Hogan says that this promise is contrary to the new corrupt practices act and constitutes attempted bribery.

LIMA WILL CELEBRATE OPENING.

Lima.—The mayors of two Ohio cities will be the central figures in the opening of the Ohio State league in this city on April 24. It was announced that both Mayor Corbin Shook of this city and Mayor Karb of Columbus would participate in the opening.

BURNS TO DEATH IN HOME.

Woman, Missing After Fire, Believed Victim of Flames.

Norwalk.—It is feared Mrs. Arthur Sanders, wife of a prosperous farmer residing near Fivepoints, five miles south of Norwalk, perished in a fire which destroyed their home. Mrs. Sanders, who is an invalid, was alone in the house at the time. All efforts made to find her have been futile. No trace of bones have ever been found. The search will be continued by the authorities and friends.

CELINA MAN FOUND SLAIN.

Body Discovered in Traction Waiting Room With Throat Cut.

Celina.—The body of David Deery, 71, was found in a traction waiting room near the Nickerson clubhouse, with his throat cut and skull fractured. It is believed Deery was robbed and murdered in Celina and carried to the waiting room. He was last seen preparing to take a train for Poncto, Okla., and is known to have had nearly $300 on his person at the time.

POWDER HURLS TWO TO DEATH.

Body of One Man Thrown Through Roof and Scattered to Bits.

Youngstown.—Andrew Kurato and Mike Morris were killed—the former instantly and the latter dying at the City hospital here—when a mill of the Burton Powder company exploded. The body of the man who was instantly killed was scattered over an area of more than 200 acres, while the other, frightfully maimed, was thrown 200 feet from the place of the explosion.

---

SHOWS HOW TO SAVE $10,000,000 A YEAR

TAFT POINTS OUT IT CAN BE DONE BY EXTENSION OF CLASSIFIED SERVICE.

SENDS MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Greater Economy and Efficiency in Departments of Treasury, of Postoffice, of Justice, of Interior and of Commerce and Labor.

Washington, D. C.—President Taft sent to both houses of congress on April 4 a second message on economy and efficiency in the government service. In this message he makes specific recommendations as to how the government can save at least $10,000,000 a year. He expresses his approval of the changes recommended by the special commission appointed in 1910. He says:

Local Offices in Classified Service.

I have several times called attention to the advantages to be derived from placing in the classified service the local officers under the departments of the treasury, of the post office, of justice, of the interior, and of commerce and labor. In my message submitted to the congress on January 17 I referred to the loss occasioned to the government because of the fact that in many cases two persons are paid for doing the work that could easily be done by one. In the meantime I have caused an inquiry to be made as to the amount in money of this loss. The results of this inquiry are that the loss amounts to at least $10,000,000 annually. For example, it appears that a very substantial economy would result from putting experienced and trained officers in charge of the first and second class postoffices instead of selecting the postmasters in accordance with the present practice. As the annual operating expenses of the first and second class offices aggregate the enormous sum of more than $80,000,000, undoubtedly if the postmasters of these offices were embraced in the classified service, and required to devote all their time to the public service, the annual savings would eventually represent many millions of dollars. The saving in salaries alone, not taking into account any saving due to increased efficiency of operation, would amount to about $4,500,000. At the present time the salaries of postmasters of the first and second class amount to $6,076,900, while the salaries of assistant postmasters of the same classes amount to $2,820,000. If the position of postmaster were placed in the classified service and those officers were given salaries equal to 20 per cent more than the salaries now given to the assistant postmasters, the latter position being no longer required, there would be a saving in salaries to the government of $4,512,000. In the case of postmasters at offices of the third-class a large annual saving could be made.

Pension Agencies.

An annual saving of nearly $62,000 could be made if the position of pension agent were placed in the classified service, since the work now done by a pension agent at a salary of $4,000 and a chief clerk at a salary ranging between $1,400 and $2,250 could easily be done by one person in the permanent classified service at a salary varying from $2,100 to $3,000. Greater economy and efficiency would result from the abolition of the pension agencies and from the adoption of a plan in accordance with which pensions would be paid by the pension office in Washington.

District Land Office.

What is true in the matter of payment of pensions is also true in the service under the general land office. The field service of this office could be more efficiently and economically operated if it were provided by law that the office of receiver of district land offices be abolished and the duties transferred to the register, assisted by a bonded clerk, and the register placed in the classified service. It has several times been estimated that more than $200,000 would be saved annually and the efficiency of the service greatly increased by the adoption of such a plan.

Internal Revenue and Customs Offices.

Large expenditures are made for salaries of political appointees in the internal revenue and customs services. In both services a direct saving in salaries, and an indirect economy through increased efficiency, would follow a transfer of such offices to the classified service.

Other Local Offices.

In the other field services the saving which would result from the classification of the local officers under the departments is not as marked or probably capable of an exact estimation as in those mentioned, but there is no doubt that substantial savings would follow. It is not to be doubted that where no saving would result, the classification of the local officers would increase the efficiency of the service. It would be desirable also to place all marshals, deputy marshals, and assistant attorneys in the classified service, although but little direct economy would result. Supervising inspectors in the steamboat inspection service and the members of the field service in the bureau of fisheries should be placed in the classified service.

Commission's Report on Local Offices.

The report on methods of appointment submitted to me by the commission, which covers fully the subject of appointments by the president by and with the advice and consent of the senate, and recommends that various local officers, such as postmasters, collectors of internal revenue, etc., and heads of bureaus in the departmental service, be included in the classified service, is transmitted herewith (Appendix No. 1). The report and recommendations are approved by me.

Consolidation of Lighthouse and Life-Saving Services.

The commission's report (Appendix No. 2) recommends that the life-saving service of the department of the treasury be discontinued as a separate organization and that the maintenance and operation of the life-saving stations of the country be made one of the duties of the bureau of lighthouses of the department of commerce and labor. I concur in this recommendation and urge that the necessary legislation for carrying it into effect be enacted.

Revenue Cutter Service.

The report of the commission on the revenue cutter service (Appendix No. 3) represents a detailed investigation of the history, organization and activities of this branch of the government service and its relation to other services. The conclusion is reached that all of the duties now being performed by this service can be performed with equal efficiency by other services and that a great economy will result by having these duties so performed. The commission accordingly recommends that the service be abolished as a distinct organization, that its equipment be distributed among other services requiring the use of marine craft, and that provision be made for the performance of the work now being done by it by such other services.

With these fundamental recommendations of the commission I am in full accord, and I recommend that the necessary action be enacted to put them into effect.

Consolidation of Auditing Offices.

The report upon the organization and methods of work of the accounting offices of the treasury (appendix No. 4), recommends that the offices of the six auditors be consolidated under one auditor, and that the auditors of customs accounts located at the principal ports, and known as naval officers, be made assistants to the auditors. An increase in the efficiency of the treasury audit will be one result of the carrying out of these recommendations, and the saving of expense when the consolidation has been fully completed will amount to at least $200,000 a year, based upon current appropriations. The present organization, under which six independent auditors are engaged in the one work of final audit of the government accounts, is certainly one that can produce only diversity of practice and procedure, inefficient use of personnel and equipment, and delay and uncertainty of requirements from which the public as well as officers of the government must suffer.

In my opinion a change in law to carry into effect these recommendations of the commission, which have my approval, will be in the interest of the public service.

The Returns Office.

The report upon the "returns office" of the department of the interior (appendix No. 5) recommends the abolition of that office and that provision for public inspection of government contracts be made through the office of the auditors of the treasury, in which offices the originals of all contracts are filed. It also recommends the substitution of a certificate for the affidavit required to be attached to the contracts of the departments of war, the navy, and the interior, and an amendment of the statute which now requires all the contracts of those departments to be in writing. I transmit letters from the secretaries of the departments referred to, concurring in the conclusions and recommendations of the commission. I approve the report and commend it to the favorable consideration of the congress.

Government Expenses for Travel.

The report upon "travel expenditures" of officers and employees of the government (appendix No. 6) presents a view of existing conditions that can lead to but one conclusion—that under the existing laws, and regulations and practices pursuant thereto, the allowances for travel are as varied as there are executive departments. The same classes of officers and employees are receiving different rates of allowances, depending only upon the department or bureau in which they are employed. Under similar conditions there should be uniformity. The report recommends that all allowances in the form of mileage be discontinued and that actual cost of transportation be paid; that in lieu of payment of actual cost of other expenses, commonly known as subsistence, which would include lodging, a scale of per diem allowances be established by the president for the several classes of officers and employees. It is also recommended by the commission that all accounts for reimbursement of traveling expenses shall be certified as to correctness in lieu of the requirement of law in many cases that the verification be by affidavit. The latter procedure is troublesome and expensive, and the penalty for a false certification is fully as valuable in its deterrent effect as the penalty for making a false affidavit.

With the report are the comments of the war and the navy departments, made at my request. The report of the commission has my approval, and the suggestions therein for a change in the law on the subject are submitted with a request for action in accordance therewith.

Filing of Correspondence.

The handling and filing of correspondence constitutes one of the business processes of the government to which, as pointed out in my message of January 17, the commission has paid especial attention. The investigations of existing conditions have brought out clearly that, in many cases, present methods are inefficient and entail large, unnecessary costs. The features of present practices which stand out most prominently as entailing large, unnecessary labor and expenses pertain to the briefing, press-copying and recording and indexing of communications. A statement has been prepared giving the results of an investigation of the salary cost entailed in performing these operations in the several departments at Washington. It is the opinion of the commission that the operations of briefing and press-copying letters can be entirely eliminated, and that the recording and indexing of incoming and outgoing letters can be reduced at least 50 per cent.

Distribution of Government Documents.

Attention is called to the report of the commission, transmitted to the congress with my message of February 5, and to the supplementary statement sent herewith (appendix No. 8) on the centralization of distribution of government publications. By adopting this recommendation it is conservatively estimated that $242,000 can be saved. This is exclusive of the saving which could be made by handling the congressional documents in the same manner. An account kept for 31 days with the volume of this business of handling congressional documents showed an average of 21 tons per day. These documents were first taken from the printing office to the Capitol, then from the Capitol to the post office, then hauled back to the Union Station, the latter being but a short distance from the printing office. An up-to-date plant at the printing office which could handle all this would entail an increased capital outlay for permanent equipment of only about $75,000. The recommendation for centralizing the distribution of documents from the departments, if acted on, will affect the appropriations of seven departments, five independent establishments, and the Washington post office.

Outlines of Organization.

The outlines of organization of the government, which were transmitted with the message of January 17, have been sent to each of the departments, with a request that orders issue which will require that the outline be kept up to date (appendix No. 9). This will not only make available at all times the information needed by congress or the administration when called for, and assist materially in the preparation of estimates of appropriations, but will make unnecessary the publication of the official register, thereby saving approximately $45,000 for each issue.

Conclusion.

In submitting these reports, with recommendations, I will state that in my opinion each of the foregoing recommendations, if acted on, will contribute largely to increased efficiency. Directly and indirectly the changes proposed will result in the saving of many millions of dollars of public funds. This will leave the congress free to determine whether the amount thus saved shall be utilized to reduce taxation or to provide funds with which to extend activities already carried on and to enter on beneficial projects which otherwise could not be undertaken for lack of funds.

Again I urge upon the congress the desirability of providing whatever funds can be used effectively to carry forward with all possible vigor the work now well begun. The $200,000 required for the prosecution of the inquiry during the ensuing year and the $50,000 estimated for the publication of results, are inconsiderable in comparison with the economies which can be realized.

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.

USE THEIR CLUBS ON GIRLS

Special Officers Beat Striking Millworkers Who Come to Do Picket Duty.

Passaic, N. J.—Twenty girl millworkers were beaten with police clubs by special officers in a clash between the girl strikers and the officers guarding the Garfield mill of Forstmann & Huffmann.

The clash occurred when 50 girls, accompanied by a few men, started to rally the pickets who were on duty. As they approached the gate they spoke to several strikebreakers who were bound for the mill, urging them not to go back to work. Out of the gate came 30 special deputies. The deputies ordered the girls to move on. Some did start away, but the bulk of strikers did not move fast enough to suit, and with drawn clubs the deputies charged into the crowd. Girls who were in the squad of pickets declared that they were beaten without the slightest warning.

Waif Becomes Head of City.

New York City.—There was rejoicing at the headquarters of the Children's Aid Society in this city because another of "our boys" had made good. In August, 1879, a man calling himself Simeon Jost, left at the old Five Points house of industry a dirty, ill-kempt two-year-old baby whom he could not longer care for. On April 3 the Children's Aid officers learned that this waif, Henry Lee Jost, had been elected mayor of Kansas City by a majority of 3,500 over his Republican opponent.

Alleged Dynamiter Caught.

Cincinnati, O.—James Foley, alias James O'Neill, an iron worker, was arrested here on a charge of forfeiting a $5,000 bond in Des Moines, Ia., on an assault to kill charge.

Foley, after fleeing the state, came to Cincinnati, married a Miss Langdon and settled here to live. His wife remained in ignorance of her husband's trouble until his arrest.

Detective Foster, who apprehended his man here, said he was to be questioned about some alleged dynamiting in the west.

Refuse to Sing 'Star Spangled Banner.'

Milwaukee, Wis.—An unprecedented situation arose in a school in the Twenty-second ward, a Socialistic ward, when pupils in several rooms refused to stand and join in the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" as the result of Socialist anger at the defeat in the election.

It has been the unvarying rule for the pupils to stand and sing one stanza of this song at the opening of the school and one stanza of America when the school closed in the afternoon.

Slays Another Man's Wife.

Chicago, Ill.—Mrs. Emily Shaw, who was married only a week, was murdered in her West Ohio street home by Clarence Carr, a boarder, who then tried to kill himself. He used a razor. According to the police, Carr, who has a wife and two children, was infatuated with Mrs. Shaw and before committing the crime wrote two notes, saying that the home of the woman he killed was his until Shaw appeared. He asked that he be buried from Mrs. Shaw's home. Carr was taken to the county hospital.

Hints and Advice on Social Forms

By MME. MERRI

For Music Pupils.

I want to give a little party to about ten little girls—music pupils. Kindly give me some idea as to how to entertain them; some musical game and contest. Also what shall I serve?

I enjoy your corner so much.—L. G.

I think the description of a musical party given below will assist you, and as the guests will be little people I am sure that nothing could please them more than to have ice cream and cake.

A MUSICAL PARTY

This party was given for a class of young students about the age of 12. First they played musical "stage coach," after the same fashion as we all used to play it years ago, only each child was given a musical term and rose when his or her word was mentioned and turned around. The forfeits were redeemed by playing a piece upon the piano.

Then they had a novel spelling match upon the piano. The hostess said the tones would spell words, any one who could tell the tones in letters was to do so, writing down the words upon slips of paper. This was, of course, invaluable as an ear test. The tone combinations were played very slowly and repeated several times. The following were the words spelled: Bag, abe, abed, bad, abbe, ace, add, dad, bed, bead, age, be, aged, beef, beg, ebb, added, fag, fed, fad, deaf, fade, egg, cage, faded, dab.

The prizes were candy boxes in the shape of musical instruments. There were ice cream and cookies for refreshments and to make fun the cookies were cut in letters, only the first seven being used, and the children had to tell the signature in sharps or flats of the key represented by the letter each took.

"What Would You Do?"

I have been having a great trouble with my girl friends. They are nearly all "angry" at me just because they say every young man they get to go with as soon as they meet me they loose them. Now, I don't intend to do this at all. I attend high school and have my own boy friend. But still this girl friend of mine refuses now to even speak to me. I miss her friendship and have told her I would give up this young man to her because I care more for a girl's friendship than a boy's, but to this she made no reply.

The young man says he never will go with her again and won't even speak to her because she treats me in this manner. What would you do?—H. E. H.

Being too popular seems to bring its own troubles, which I am afraid you will have to settle for yourself. The best plan you can work is to get the boys to defend you by saying you do not use any especial art to attract them but make them have such a good time that they can't help liking you, and perhaps you can win the girls back.

Question From "Uninformed."

I find your columns very helpful and will ask you to answer the following:

When a lady is visiting should she send cards to her gentleman friends at her home town, and should she on returning home send cards to the gentleman with whom she has made acquaintance while gone?

Should a lady assist a gentleman on with his overcoat?

When a boy asks a girl to dance what should she say and what answer should she give him on being asked to attend the theaters?

UNINFORMED.

I presume you mean, should post cards be sent? The post card habit seems to be a fixture, and I see no harm in it, aside from the inconvenience it causes the postmen, only I would not send more than one if away for a very short time. A man is quite capable of putting on his overcoat, unless he is quite elderly or an invalid. After a dance all you have to say is, "That was very pleasant," and if you accept the theater invitation, simply say: "Thank you, I would be very glad to go."

From "An Orphan."

I have been reading your columns for some time and as it has been so helpful to others I would like to have your advice. If a girl has been going with a certain boy for a year or two, would it be considered silly if she should show her affection for him in his company?

How is my writing? I am nearly fourteen.—An Orphan.

My dear, you are entirely too young to be thinking of the boys, and it would be decidedly improper for you to show affection for any boy at the age of fourteen. I would advise you to play with your dolls for awhile yet.

Form for Visiting Card.

I am a bride and wish to have cards engraved. Is it just as proper to have

MRS. CHARLES A. JONES

as

MRS. CHARLES ALLEN JONES?

I prefer the former.

Would appreciate your advice.—Mrs. C. A. J.

Either form you suggest for the cards is proper; the latter is more used but the former perfectly good form if you prefer it.

Send Self-Addressed Stamped Envelope.

Will you kindly tell me where I can get book or list of contests.—Pauline.

Names and addresses are not permissible in the department, so please send me a self-addressed envelope and I will gladly send you the desired information.

MADAME MERRI.

Corded Cottons.

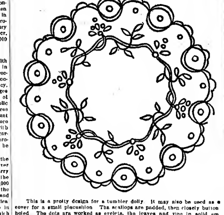
The cottons are lovely. Those in corded effects, especially corduroy and bedford cord, promise to be decidedly popular.

Pretty Design May Be Put to Either of Two Purposes



This is a pretty design for a tumbler doily. It may also be used as a cover for a small pincushion. The scallops are padded, then closely buttonholed. The dots are worked as eyelets, the leaves and vine in solid embroidery and the stems in the outline stitch. Mercerized cotton No. 25 should be used.

Fashion's Fancies

The short coat of lace has returned at the bidding of fashion.

The grelot or ball fringe is used to edge the tunics of voile and muslin dresses.

The evening gowns of demitrain length have straight, clinging, not in curving lines, and a pigeon tail back.

A few collarless utility coats are being shown, the nat being finished off with folds of silk, ratine or plain cloth.

Many of the new skirts are trimmed. Some show the tunic with under petticoat; others have side trimmings, and some have loops and buttons.

The newest note is the use of vivid colors in embroidery. Lace continues to be used on everything in every style and weight and every known design.

Suit coats are about 25 to 28 inches in length. The inclination is toward belt effects—a sort of modified Russian blouse, without the fullness about the waist or hips.

While the low side fastening is still a noticeable feature of many of the spring models the revers are so made that they do not disclose as much of the dress or waist as was formerly the case.

Newest Pendent.

Every one possesses a talisman of "good luck," whether it is a charm of ancient Egyptian workmanship or the "crooked sixpence."

At present it is the fashion to conceal these mascots of fortune, or rather enshrine them in a fitting case.

These pendents may be as elaborate as desired. Very often they are of wonderful Indian workmanship, richly incrusted with jewels.

The point is to have a secret clasp, known only to the wearer, which protects the charm from curious eyes.

Each heart must pass through the furnace for itself. To hear of the refining of others has no lasting effect on the heart's own alloy.—Florence Barclay.

WHEREIN DADDY WAS WRONG

Tommy Resented Injustice Done to Saw, After He Had Proved Its Temper.

Mr. A—, who was planning to build an outdoor sleeping porch at the back of his house, had an expensive new saw sent home from a hardware store. He left his office early the next afternoon, with the intention of getting the porch well under way before dinner; and, as he was very much interested in doing the work himself, he donned a pair of overalls and went at it in good spirits. An hour or so later he came tramping into the house, his face dark with exasperation, and flung himself down in disgust.

"That new saw I bought isn't worth five cents," he stormed. "Why, the thing won't cut butter!"

His small son Tommy looked up in wide-eyed surprise.

"Oh, yes, it would, daddy," he said, earnestly, "why, Ted and I sewed a whole brick in two with it just this morning!"—Harper's Magazine.

RASH ALL OVER BABY'S BODY

Itched So He Could Not Sleep

"On July 27, 1909, we left Boston for a trip to England and Ireland, taking baby with us. After being in Ireland a few days a nasty rash came out all over his body. We took him to a doctor who gave us medicine for him. The trouble started in the form of a rash and was all over baby's body, head and face, at different times. It irritated, and he would scratch it with all his might. The consequence was it developed into sores, and we were afraid it would leave nasty scars on his face.

"When we reached England we took baby to another doctor, who said his condition was due to change of food and climate, and gave more medicine. The rash got no better, and it used to itch and burn at night so bad that the child could not sleep. He was completely covered with it at different times. It was at this time that my mother advised us to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment for about nine months the places disappeared. There are not any scars, or other kind of disfigurement, and baby is completely cured by the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. We have no further trouble with baby's skin. Nothing stopped the itching and allowed baby to sleep but Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. Margaret Gunn, 29 Burrell St., Roxbury, Mass., March 12, 1911.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

AS TO REALISM.

Reggy—How is this in the second chapter of my great story: "The beautiful girl dropped her eyes?"

Peggy—How pathetic! Were they glass eyes?

Something the Matter, Anyhow.

Little Harold lives in Broad Ripple. His mother got him ready for bed one cold night, and to be sure he would be warm enough during the night she took extra precautions, relates the Indianapolis News. After she had put on his little fuzzy pajamas she tucked him carefully in between the wool blankets. Then, to make doubly sure, she got a hot water bottle for him—and the youngster was apparently as snug as could be, with only his little nose sticking out from beneath the covers.

When his mother had finished the tucking-in job she turned down the light. Soon the entire family was in bed. But Harold is like most youngsters. He loves his mother, and wishes lots of attention. So in his child mind he figured out a way to get her to his bed.

"Mamma," he wailed, "I'm cold!"

"Nonsense, son," replied his mother, and she never made a move to go to his rescue.

The little boy tried the opposite.

"Well, I'm too hot, then," he yelled.

Two Smiles.

Ezra Pound the poet was talking at the Authors' club in New York about Shelley's cremation.

"Cremation, although beautiful," he said, "lends itself to ridicule just in a way that sepulture doesn't.

"Who can forbear a smile at the thought of that devoted young matron, who, her front steps being covered with sleet, sprinkled her first husband's ashes over them in order that her second husband might descend in safety."

Smiling himself, Mr. Pound resumed:

"And who could forbear another smile at the thought of the young widow on the blustery March morning who entered her drawing room to find that the wind had overturned the vase which contained her husband's remains?

"'Pshaw,' she said, 'now isn't it just like George to throw his ashes all over my new Kirmanshah rug!'"

It takes a man of originality to pose as a successful liar.

Pure blood is essential to Good Health. Garfield Tea dispels impurities, cleanses the system, and eradicates disease.

It's difficult for a man who is broke to break into society.

BACKACHE IS DISCOURAGING

Until You Get After The Cause

Nothing more discouraging than a constant backache. Lame when you awake. Pains pierce you when you bend or lift. It's hard to work, or to rest.

You sleep poorly and next day is the same old story.

That backache indicates bad kidneys and calls for some good kidney remedy.

None so well recommended as Doan's Kidney Pills. Grateful testimony is convincing proof.

Here's Another Typical Case— "Every Picture Tells a Story"

Mrs. O. W. Erwin, 308 Third St., Little Falls, Minn., says: "My body became so bloated I had to gasp for breath. Kidney secretions were in terrible condition and to bend my back was agony. Life was one constant round of suffering and I thought death would be a relief. I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and am today a well, happy woman."

AT ALL DEALERS 50c. a Box

DOAN'S Kidney Pills

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure"

Do not let another day pass without getting a bottle of TUTTLE'S FAMILY ELIXIR.

Bathe the limbs well after hard work or violent exercise, and you will be rewarded by a healthy, natural circulation. You little realize how much better you will feel.

Tuttle's Family Elixir keeps the muscles pliable and reliable—produces a quick, speedy and permanent relief from rheumatism, sprains, bruises, sore throat, toothache, lumbago and many similar drawbacks which deprive you of good health.

Guaranteed under the pure food laws. Composed of gums, oils and vegetable extracts.

Ask your druggist. If he cannot supply you, send us 50 cents in stamps, together with his name, and we will send you promptly, prepaid, a large size bottle. Money back if unsatisfactory.

Tuttle Elixir Co.
17 Beverly St., Boston, Mass.

Gentle and Sure

You, also, should give approval to this efficient family remedy—your bowels will be regulated so surely and safely; your liver stimulated; your digestion so improved by

BEECHAM'S PILLS

Sold everywhere. In boxes 10c., 25c.

Misunderstood 'Gator.

The winter afternoon was like June, and, taking tea under a palm on the lawn of the Royal Poinciana at Palm Beach, a sportsman said:

"This morning I photographed an alligator. My boy, to get him, stripped and waded into the water up to his chin. The boy felt about with his feet in the mud till he found a big 'gator. Then he ducked down, grabbed the 'gator by the nose and dragged him slowly ashore to the waiting lens."

"But," said a girl in white, "wasn't it dangerous?"

"Not a bit."

"But I thought alligators ate men!"

"No, no," said the sportsman. "You are confusing the alligator with the crocodile. The Indian crocodile eats men and women, but the Florida alligator is as harmless, literally as harmless, as a cow."

Out.

Years had passed, the political equality of the sexes were fait accompli, and a certain candidate for the presidency had but now been knocked, in a dignified manner, into a cocked hat.

Her humiliation was complete. But, although she declined to talk for publication, her friends were less reticent.

"Hats of that shape," they protested, with much feeling, "went out ages ago."—Puck.

The more a man expects the more he will be surprised if he gets it.

A Tempting Treat—

Post Toasties

with cream

Crisp, fluffy bits of white Indian Corn; cooked, rolled into flakes and toasted to a golden brown.

Ready to serve direct from the package.

Delightful flavour!

Thoroughly wholesome!

"The Memory Lingers"

Sold by Grocers

Postum Cereal Company, Limited
Battle Creek, Mich.

Lake County Herald

PAINESVILLE, OHIO

A DEMOCRATIC NEWSPAPER

TELEPHONE NO. 75

PUBLISHED THURSDAY OF EACH WEEK

Entered in the Postoffice at Painesville, Ohio, as Second-Class Mail Matter.

Advertising Rates
DISPLAY
Per Inch—First Insertion ........ 20c
Per Inch—Each Additional Insertion ........ 10c
LOCALS
Per Line—First Insertion ........ 10c
Per Line—Each Additional Insertion ........ 05c
Want Column—Three Lines, three weeks ........ 25c

M. L. Harter
R. A. Tuttle } Editors and Proprietors

JUDICIAL CONVENTION

Painesville, Ohio, April 3, 1912

Be it resolved by a majority vote of the Democratic Judicial Committee of the common pleas district comprising Ashtabula, Geauga and Lake Counties that a delegate convention be and is hereby called to meet in Ashtabula, Ohio, City Hall, June 1, 1912, at 3 P. M. Central Standard time to nominate a judicial ticket for said district to be voted for at the coming November election, and each county shall be entitled to as many delegates to said convention as is entitled to have by law to the coming state Convention, viz Ashtabula 6, Geauga 2, Lake 3, who shall be chosen according to law as the several county committees shall determine.

C. A. CORBIN,
Chairman.
F. D. MALIN,
Sec'y Judicial Committee

WITHIN HIS RIGHTS.

Gov. Judson Harmon of Ohio, at Washington to appear before the supreme court in the rate cases, makes the rather superfluous statement that "the Democratic party is bigger than any one man or any half dozen men." Apparently he thinks some one has challenged or is in the way of challenging this truism. It is meant as a fling at Mr. Bryan and all of Mr. Bryan's enemies will hail it with satisfaction and point to it as a fitting rebuke to one who sets himself up as a "dictator." Yet what has Mr. Bryan said or done that was unseemly on his part or that should excite the rancor of those who do not happen to agree with him regarding the merits of presidential possibilities? Mr. Bryan has the same right to prefer Wilson or Clark that others have to prefer Harmon or Underwood and he has the same right to discuss the availability of candidates that the friends of the Ohio governor and the Democratic floor leader so freely exercise without rebuke from Mr. Bryan or from any one else.

Mr. Bryan is a Democrat. The fact that he happens to be somewhat more conspicuous than any other Democrat does not in the least limit his rights as a member of the party. He has resting upon him a duty precisely like that resting upon the humblest member of the party to do his utmost according to his rights to advance the party welfare and to preserve its ideals. That he has millions of friends while others are able to influence only a very limited circle should impose no obligation of silence upon him. His larger influence indeed imposes upon him a higher and more important obligation; and we believe he would be unworthy of the place he occupies in the hearts and the confidence of his countrymen were he capable of standing aside at this critical juncture to permit reaction to take its undisputed way.

Mr. Bryan frankly distrusts Gov. Harmon, less because of the man himself than by reason of the forces behind him. Mr. Bryan knows precisely as every other discerning Democrat knows that back of Gov. Harmon stand all the reactionary elements of the party. He knows that Gov. Harmon appeals especially to Big Business. He knows that all the organs of Wall street are favorable to the Buckeye governor. He knows that the men who forced Parker on the party in 1904 are plotting to force Harmon upon it in 1912. And he believes, as we believe, that if this shall be accomplished the same disastrous results will follow.

Mr. Bryan does not propose that this shall occur if he can prevent it. He gives plain warning well in advance that whatever influence he may possess will be thrown unhesitatingly and with the utmost decision on the side of the progressive forces. He says that he will cheerfully accept either Wilson or Clark, believing them both to be genuinely progressive. But if his state shall instruct for Harmon as a result of a division of the progressive vote between the New Jersey governor and the speaker of the house, Mr. Bryan, if elected a delegate-at-large, will resign his commission, as in honor he would be bound to do, to go to Baltimore as a private citizen to do what may lie in his power to prevent an issue which he feels would be fatal to Democratic success.

In all this Mr. Bryan is pursuing a course entirely honorable. He could not pursue any other course and remain the candid man he has always shown himself to be. Other Democrats who hold really serious convictions regarding candidates and policies are proposing to go to Baltimore to fight with all their strength and with all their resources to carry out those convictions. And this is all that Mr. Bryan is doing or proposes to do. He hopes his state may not fall into reactionary hands, but should it do so in spite of all he can do, he is determined that he himself shall not be bound and he intends to go in that case a free man to act with other free men at Baltimore as every honest Democrat would surely have him act.

THEIR FATAL ERROR

It should now be clear to the real progressives in the Republican party that they committed a fatal error when they swung away from Senator La Follette and cast in their lot with ex-President Roosevelt. The latter has failed utterly to arouse the popular enthusiasm which was anticipated and the only effect his candidacy has had on the situation has been to stiffen the administration backbone and to weaken that of the progressive forces through a most unfortunate division.

La Follette's clean sweep in his own state, following a not less signal victory in North Dakota, affords ample evidence of the actual strength of the man. He possesses the confidence of the progressives to the fullest degree and he has none of the weaknesses which are serving to make Mr. Roosevelt impossible. If there were nothing else to handicap the ex-president except the third term tradition this alone would be sufficient to drag him down to defeat. But in Mr. Roosevelt there are many other elements of weakness. He is widely distrusted by reason of his close relations with the Steel Trust, the Harvester Trust and other of the "good" trusts from which he is known to have had vast sums in support of his campaign for the presidency. He is equally distrusted on account of his lawless methods in dealing with weaker countries. He is distrusted as a man lacking in balance, in moral restraints, in that poise of mind which avoids extremes. Even his advanced radicalism has failed to modify the distrust in which he is held by radicals in both parties who have implicit faith in men of the La Follette, Bryan and Wilson type.

It is quite possible that the Roosevelt movement has reached about as high a level as it will be able to attain. We rather expect to see the currents set in more favorably to La Follette. How progressives can fail to perceive the trend of popular sentiment we cannot understand. They must by this time begin to realize that Mr. Roosevelt has shot his arrow and that it has missed its mark. He is making no actual progress and his ravings have ceased to attract serious attention. The only effect his swing around the circle is having is to bring confusion into the ranks of the anti-Taft forces and to solidify those of the standpatters. The president is undoubtedly in better position today than he was the day Mr. Roosevelt tossed his hat into the ring.

It is not too late for the genuine progressives to get in right. They can do this by dropping an impossible third term movement and taking up the fight for La Follette. The Wisconsin seems to have recovered himself thoroughly. Apparently he is in better fighting trim than ever before, and certainly his smashing victory at home should have the effect of enhancing his prestige in states where the issues between progressive and standpatter are still to be tried out. Were the former to switch even at this comparatively late date to Senator La Follette it would reassure the country regarding the sincerity of progressive professions and throw obstacles in the path of the administration which might well be found insurmountable.

THE REVERSE IN MILWAUKEE

The defeat of the Socialists in Milwaukee through a combination of Democrats and Republicans was to have been expected. Such reversals are quite in the nature of things. Every new party must be prepared for happenings of this sort. They have a disciplinary effect which in the end must prove wholesome, and they serve to furnish a basis for comparisons that the people need in determining political values.

The Socialist party made very large promises. Much therefore was expected of it. But doubtless it fell very far short of fulfilling expectations. It is one thing to map out a program; a very different thing to reduce it to a working basis. That the Socialists had given Milwaukee a decent and orderly government we think is generally recognized. They found the city deeply in debt, with an empty treasury; they will leave it with a treasury well supplied and with the financial conditions reasonably improved.

Some of the things undertaken by the Socialists were perhaps doubtful in character. Certainly they did not appeal to the mass of the people and we see now that the latter had tired of the Socialist way and were anxious to go back to the old familiar practices.

But the Democratic-Republican coalition cannot last long. War will break out among the so-called non-partisans before the new regime has gone far and before the end of the term to which he has been elected Dr. Bading is almost certain to find his path a thorny one. The Socialists in the interim will have time for a proper study of their mistakes and two years hence they may be expected to be on the firing line again, with a better program than before and without a united opposition. For the now-triumphant alliance is not a natural one and it cannot last. We should rather expect two years hence to find the alliance between Republicans and Socialists rather than between Democrats and Republicans. A wider fundamental gap separates the Democrat from the Republican than that which separates the Republican from the Socialist.

MISLED, BETRAYED, DESERTED

"Misled, betrayed, deserted"—this will be the epitaph written on democracy's tombstone the day after the election if it allows Wall street to lead it into the nomination of Governor Harmon or any other reactionary. President Taft is the choice of Wall street—no one can get it away from him. If Wall street were authorized by the democratic convention to write the democratic platform and nominate the democratic candidates, Wall street would not support our ticket as against President Taft. Wall street has no politics, it worships money and money only. Its heart is a pocketbook. A surrender to Wall street would mean the alienation of the rank and file of the party and, after having disgraced the party, Wall street would desert it. That is what it did in 1904. Why go through that humiliating experience again? And yet some of our democratic leaders, forgetting 1904, favor Governor Harmon. Mr. Harmon's nomination and defeat would end for some time the power of the reactionaries to deceive but why postpone success. Mr. Bryan is anxious for A DEMOCRATIC VICTORY now, and he is trying to get it in the only way possible, namely by the selection of a positive, aggressive candidate on a progressive platform.—Bryan's Commoner.

WHAT DIDN'T HAPPEN

Newspapers report that in the recent bond election in San Francisco, women voters conducted themselves well. Ninety per cent of those registered went to the polls, while only fifty per cent of the men turned out. It appears, too, that the votes of the women were largely favorable to civic center improvements.

Readers of the daily press looked in vain for accounts of rioting at the polls. They found no mention of neglected homes. There were no "human interest" stories of abandoned children, crying for the return of a mother who unfeelingly left the doorstep for half an hour to cast her vote. Apparently nothing came under the eyes of the alert reporters on which to hang a tale of crowding, jostling, and ungentlemanly treatment of women at the polls—or of surroundings supposed to be "for men only." All appeared to be as quiet, orderly and as little calculated to "unsex" women as an afternoon jaunt to the park on a street car. Remarkable, is it not?—LaFollette's Magazine.

---

Congressman Victor Berger feels delighted because Milwaukee stands before the country with a grand army of 30,000 class conscious socialists. Probably 20,000 of them voted the Seidel ticket as a protest against the old party machines and are neither socialists nor class conscious.

---

Mr. Morgan may now safely return from Egypt. The Stanley steel probers have decided not to hold the hearings open any longer on his account. The great wizard of finance may therefore bring his long vacation to a close and resume his personal supervision of Big Business.

---

The Judicial Recall may boast as fine a collection of plutocratic enemies as ever debauched a legislature or owned a judge.—The Public.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

By Tom, Dick and Harry

A man that really likes to fight on the losing side in any game is as rare as flowers in March. To the victor belongs the spoils and we like spoils. That's why it took some people so long to make up their minds as to which presidential candidate to support—which one to come out in favor of. It took a few falling straws to tell them which way the wind was blowing. Then how positive they are in their convictions. Their choice is always the embodiment of all the virtues and the exact type of what a presidential candidate should be. Funny, isn't it?

---

Last week we suggested through this column that some merchant or merchants establish a rest room for ladies. Did it after we had almost our little mallet once or twice at the C. P. & E. for its system of espionage in conducting the toilet room in the Painesville waiting room. Making the ladies ask the agent for a key, you know. We thought and still think that it is ridiculous and indecent. Evidently the Telegraph-Republican don't agree with us, judging from the editorial comment in answer to the article. At least that was about all we could get out of the editorial. We believe it must have been run as a "filler." Anyhow we pass. In the first place you can hardly argue with a man for merely saying that he don't agree with you. Then again a toilet room is a devil of a subject to get into an argument about. Yes, thinking it over, "we pass."

---

To one who used to follow the village band all over town, who used to wish that there was some way to hear the dozen bands of the circus parade all at the same time, the band concert given by the Painesville Military Band on Monday evening was a musical treat. Now, as then, we are not critical in things musical though more discerning. We can manage to tell music from noise and a saxaphone from a trombone—(no insinuations intended). We are competent to say therefore that the concert was good.

The program was a happy selection of pieces—the display of technique and the bursts of the popular. Both were equally well given and showed excellent training on the part of the members of the band. Of course it wasn't an Innes, a Creatore or a Sousa concert but it listened mighty good.

McMahon as the vocal soloist was a decided hit. He has a clear pleasant baritone that one likes to hear. Then he had the songs. Of course he had the audience with him since perhaps most of it knew what to expect. It didn't forget his favorite and after repeated encores Mr. McMahon had to sing "Forgotten." It evidently means to him what "My Wild Irish Rose" means to Chauncey Olcott. It is always demanded.

The other special feature was not such a hit. We refer to the lady trombonist. The execution of the music was done well enough but no audience can quite get away with seeing a woman trying to do ungraceful things. A Painesville audience is no exception. A slide trombone is a funny thing to look at and when a woman tries to manipulate it, it becomes a "comic section." In this case it contrasted unpleasantly with the grace and ease with which Mr. McMahon carried himself.

Altogether it was a nice evening and everybody seemed to enjoy it—until the last piece on the program. At that point about half the audience got up, crawled over their neighbors and went out. The other half of the audience put on their bonnets and prepared for a good start. Why? Some one explained that the half that went out did so in order to catch a car—a very good reason where cars run every once in a while and less often late in the evening. So perhaps it wasn't such a holy show of bad taste or displeasure after all. Extenuating circumstances excuse a lot of things. And anyhow one can listen to good music in pretty noisy surroundings.

HOW'S THIS?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN,
Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Woman of Many Names.

The public examination was concluded at the London (Eng.) bankruptcy court recently, of a woman who was sworn as Alice Mabel Frances Emily Paola Bianca Mary Catherine Stewart, which, she said, was her full name.

Evidently Not.

Mrs Malaprop—No, I never was strong on literature. To save my life I couldn't tell you who wrote Gray's Elegy.—Life.

Ballads of British Origin.

The ballads of the "mountain whites" of Kentucky and Georgia are transplanted relics of the British Isles, recalling the Anglo-Saxon origin of most of the early colonists.

Christianity and Citizenship.

Whatever makes men good Christians makes them good citizens.—Daniel Webster.

MONEY TRUST BACKING TAFT

Two Billion Dollar Committee Asks for Subscription.

SECRET CIRCULAR FOUND

Begging Letter from Sponsors of the Financial End of the Taft Campaign—Who the Anti-Roosevelt Alarmists Are, the Concerns They Represent, and Their Combined Wealth.

Washington, April 6.—The financial end of the Taft campaign was revealed somewhat the other day by the capture in New York by Amos Pinchot of a copy of a nifty little circular letter which was being sent around to men in Big Business in a very confidential way. The capture of the letter was made with some difficulty, but it was made. The letter read like this:

"Col. Roosevelt is endeavoring to secure a nomination for a third term, contrary to a widely established precedent, on a platform favoring the recall of judges and the recall of judicial decisions, which, in the opinion of thinking men would nullify the constitution and menace the fundamental principles of Republican government.

"We believe that President Taft, by reason of his wise, conservative and efficient administration, is entitled to renomination by the Republican party.

"To bring these facts properly before the electorate and to insure the renomination of President Taft a vigorous campaign is essential. We earnestly solicit your support and ask you to contribute to the necessary expenses of carrying on the work. Checks should be made payable to Robert F. Huse, acting treasurer, care Redmond & Co., 23 Pine street."

Wall Street Sponsors.

At the head of the letter was the list of sponsors in the form of the committee seeking to raise the spondulix for Taft. It included some of the men down in the Wall street country who do nothing all day long but attend meetings of boards of directors and pocket gold coins for so doing. Amos Pinchot, who is a good deal of a lawyer, with offices at 60 Broadway, says the letter in reality constitutes a violation of the criminal code of the state of New York, because it is a device to gain money by false pretenses. He bases this opinion upon the fact that the writers of the letter are plainly trying to scare moneyed men into contributing by setting up the charge that Col. Roosevelt is trying to secure the recall of the justices of the United States Supreme court and their decisions, to break down the constitution of the United States and to destroy the government.

As Col. Roosevelt's treatment of the recall question, as far as the courts are concerned, has been confined distinctly to state courts and then only to certain well defined cases, Mr. Pinchot believes this makes the letter a direct violation of the New York penal code as expressed in Section 1290, covering the offense of securing money by false pretenses. However, as it is likely that the recipients of the letter were perfectly willing to be scared about Col. Roosevelt, it is not probable that any of them will seek to prosecute the members of the money raising committee.

Committee "A Peach."

As far as that committee is concerned it is a peach. There are 19 members, as stated on the letter head, and these 19 men represent among a multitude of other things the following institutions, all notorious as constituent parts of the money trust:

New York Trust Co., New York Central Railroad, Mercantile Trust Co., Michigan Central Railroad Co., Corporation Trust Co., Bethlehem Steel Corporation, Astor Trust Co., Guaranty Trust Co., National City Bank, Brooklyn Mutual Life Insurance Co., Delaware & Hudson Railroad, West Shore Railroad, Chicago & Northwestern Railroad, Metropolitan Trust Co., Trust Company of America, Bankers Trust Co., Title Guarantee & Trust Co., Manhattan Life Insurance Co.

It is too bad that no manual in the library of congress gives the capital of all of these trust companies and their allied concerns. The total would certainly be more than all the money in the world. But by the aid of such manuals as are to be found here a glance at the concerns represented by about half of the committee of 19 will go some distance toward establishing that Big Business is for Taft and no other need apply. As a spectacle of bilious begging the letter speaks for itself. Following is what is learned about a few of these 19 anti-Roosevelt alarmists:

OTTO T. BANNARD—Pres. New York Trust Co., director Mahoning & Shenango R. R. & Light Co. ........ $ 10,000,000
10,000,000

CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW—Officer or Director in fifty-one corporations of capitalization ranging from $200,000,000 to $30,000 ........ $888,386,000

BENJ. F. TRACY—Director Manhattan Life Ins. Co. ........ 100,000
Director Mutual Life Ins. Co. (assets) ........ 494,000,000
Total ........ $494,100,000

GEO. R. SHELDON—Officer and Director in twenty-five corporations of capitalization ranging from $50,000,000 to $500,000 ........ 260,500,000

EDGAR L. MARSTON—Officer or Director in nineteen corporations of capitalization ranging from $130,000,000 to $3,000,000 ........ 450,000,000

JULIEN T. DAVIES—Director Bond & Mortgage Co. ........ $ 3,000,000
Director Mutual Life Ins. Co. (assets) ........ 494,000,000
Director Title Guarantee & Trust Co. ........ 4,000,000
Total ........ $501,000,000

WILLIAM BERRI—Director in five corporations of capitalization ranging from $10,000,000 to $150,000 ........ 18,150,000

HENDRICK S. HOLDEN—Director Syracuse Trust Co. and 1st National Bank ........
Director Com. Nat. Bank, Syracuse ........

R. ROSS APPLETON—Pres. 12th Street Bank, New York ........
Director Industrial Savings & Loan Co. ........
Director Metropolitan Safe Deposit Co. ........
Director New York Mortgage Co. ........
Director Northern New Jersey Trust Co. ........

JOHN HENRY HAMMOND—Director Eastern Steel Co. ........ $ 3,000,000
Director Standard Roller Bearing Co. ........ [illegible]
Total ........ $14,000,000

GRAND TOTAL ........ $2,082,548,000

Full List of "19."

The full list of the 19 reads like this:

Benjamin F. Tracy, Chairman; Otto T. Bannard, Nicholas Murray Butler, George Blagden, Charles N. Bernheimer, Julien T. Davies, Marcus M. Marks, William N. Cohen, Carlton A. Chase, William Berri, Andrew B. Baird, Almet R. Latson, Marcus M. Marks, Chauncey M. Depew, George R. Sheldon, Edgar L. Marston, Hendrick S. Holden, R. Ross Appleton, James R. Sheffield, Richard Young.

It is supposed that the necessity for the letter lies in the change from the good old times when there were no corrupt practices acts and no laws compelling publicity of campaign contributions. It is personal checks the boys must have now, no matter where the money really comes from.

Wanted—Cheap Corks.

If any ingenious person can invent a substitute for corks in champagne bottles he may be sure of a very comfortable fortune, for champagne corks are expensive, a really good cork costing as high as ten cents.

The reason for this high cost is principally the length of time that must elapse before a cork grower can realize on his investment. Champagne corks are made only from the finest Catalonia corkwood. After the tree is planted 30 years must elapse before it is ready for the first stripping, but this bark is too coarse for champagne corks, as is the second bark, taken off eight years later. Another eight years must pass before a champagne cork crop is gathered, making in all 46 years that the grower must wait before he can get any material return from his trees.

Furthermore, champagne corks are cut by hand and not by machinery, as are less expensive corks, as they must be perfect in size and shape, or else the quality of the wine will suffer.—Harper's Weekly.

Don't Talk About Your Troubles.

Learn to keep your own affairs locked up in your heart, but be willing to listen to others' sorrows.

That's the way to do.

There is no use in the world in harping on the crazy tear-making events of life.

Be patient with the faults of others and be patient with your own. But don't talk about the worries and trials of everyday existence.

There is no sense in that at all. It is a tremendous waste of energy. No one wants to hear about individual troubles. Constant talking about one's troubles is a sure path to chronic fault finding, bickering, and family rows that cause more misery than anything else on earth. And what good does the talking do? The sympathy you get doesn't amount to a row of pins.

Individuals of the right sort resent being pitied. Don't be a sympathy beggar.

Smiles lead you back to youth; tears drag you quickly to old age.

A Truthful Girl.

"I am very sorry, Captain Snobb, that circumstances over which I have no control compel me to say no."

"May I ask what the circumstances are?"

"Yours."—Lippincott's.

She Knew.

Jack—When I asked Ethel if she would be mine she fell on my breast and sobbed like a child, but finally she put her arms around my neck and—

Maud—Oh, yes, I know all about that; I rehearsed it with her.

Daily Thought.

We live in an ascending scale when we live happily, one thing leading to another in an endless series.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Frown on Originality.

In the eyes of certain persons original sin is the sin of originality.—Exchange.

LEGAL NOTICE

Roger B. Sherman, whose place of residence is unknown, is hereby notified that Charlotte Brooks Sherman has filed her petition against him for divorce and restoration of former name in the Court of Common Pleas of Lake County, Ohio, and that said cause will be for hearing on or after May 24th, 1912.

CHARLOTTE BROOKS SHERMAN,
By HARRY T. NOLAN,
Her Attorney
Painesville, Ohio, April 8, 1912.

DR. BULL'S Cough Syrup

The child feverish with a cold, running nose, tight or loose cough with wheezing or rattling of phlegm as it breathes, (mothers put your ear to child's back or chest and listen) should have DR. BULL'S COUGH SYRUP. Has No Morphine or Chloroform in it. It's the only right medicine to give. 25c.

"My four children had bad colds and coughs. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup cured them." Mrs. E. vom Lehn, 670 E. 89th St. Brooklyn, N. Y.

SAMPLE SENT FREE
Write for it today, Mention this paper, Address A. C. MEYER & CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Insurance Of all kinds
FIRE, LIFE, AUTOMOBILE, AND LIABILITY INSURANCE
Twenty-five of the strongest and safest companies represented and all losses promptly paid.
E. D. BARBER
The Insurance Man.

FIRE INSURANCE
REAL ESTATE
ABSTRACTS
AND LOANS
A. M. WARN
P. O. BLOCK

HAVE YOUR STATIONERY EMBOSSED
Initials, Crests, Monograms,
Engraved to Your Order,
Stamped in Gold or Color, also Illuminating.
The Educational Supply Co., - Painesville
128 South State Street.

DR. E. L. NORTON and DR. H. O. RAND
DENTISTS
Nitrous Oxide Administered
Office hours: 8 to 12 a.m., 1 to 5 p.m.
Telephone, Main 494.
Cor. Main and St. Clair, Painesville

MARTIN A. TUTTLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Painesville, Ohio,
Postoffice Block.

H. T. NOLAN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Pioneer Trust Bldg. Painesville, O

MORLEY & WARREN,
GRANITE AND MARBLE WORKS
Painesville, Ohio
The Best Stock and First-class Work
Cor. State and Washington Streets

BURGESS GRANITE WORKS,
Cor. State and Erie Streets.
We give Eagle Stamps.
We are the only dealers in Lake, Geauga, Trumbull and Portage counties authorized to sell the celebrated White Bronze monuments with the greatly improved finish.

Johnson Custom Tailor
123 N. State St.
WE DO SANITARY STEAM CLEANING AND PRESSING.

SEND $2.00
For a Gallon of this
Good Whiskey
Equal to $3.50 grade. $5 Whiskey at $3 per gallon.
Duffy Malt Whiskey Per Bottle . . . . 89c
Guckenheimer or Golden Wedding Rye $2.89 Per Gallon
2 Gallons $5.00
All high grade, guaranteed liquor at reduced prices. Sent in plain packages to any address.
A. Cohn, Wholesale Liquor Store, 5818 ST. CLAIR, 4 doors East of 55th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the stockholders of The Dollar Savings Bank Company, it was duly determined to liquidate the affairs of said corporation and close its business. The creditors of said Corporation are hereby notified to present their claims against it for payment on or before May 1st, 1912.

THE DOLLAR SAVINGS BANK CO.
By A. L. ASSMUS, Vice President
W. R. RADCLIFFE, Secretary

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of The Dollar Savings Bank Company will be held on the 2d day of May 1912, at 1:30 o'clock P. M., at the office of the Company, corner of Main and St. Clair streets, in the City of Painesville to consider the question of surrendering and abandoning its corporate authority.

THE DOLLAR SAVINGS BANK CO.
By A. L. ASSMUS, Vice President.
W. R. RADCLIFFE, Secretary.

An Advertisement
like a woman, may be pretty or plain, but isn't a success unless it attracts.
Write us today.
Eclipse Electrotype & Engraving Co., Cleveland

NEW FIRM
THE PAINESVILLE COAL FEED & SUPPLY CO.
Successors to Cole Coal Co.
are doing business still at the same old stand that has for so many years been a feed store and coal yard.
The patrons of the Cole Coal Co. will find everything pertaining to the business methods about the same as usual as all the old employees will be retained.
Fair, Square Dealing is the foremost of our principles and that we intend to carry through our entire business.
We solicit a share of your patronage and would thank you for a call if only to get acquainted.

Where Cleanliness Reigns
Quality Groceries Await You Here
Our Prices Please and Are Worth Watching
Adapted to the saving pocket book
There's a reason for our growth
THESE WILL PLEASE
Elliott & Ruhling

French Dry Cleaning
Eliminates the soil from the finest and most delicate garments without loss of color or shrinkage and
Cleans Your Garments Clean
We French Dry Clean in a superior manner. Prompt service and prices the lowest consistent with first class work
Painesville Dry Cleaning Co.
CHAS. FINK, Mgr.
Phone 219 R 109 South St. Clair St.
PAINESVILLE, O.
Work Called for and Delivered.

CHOOSE your bank carefully. Look for the safety of large capital and surplus; for capable, strong management; for modern facilities; for prompt, courteous attention on the part of the employees.
You'll find all these qualifications in The Cleveland Trust Company.
PAINESVILLE OFFICE
The Cleveland Trust Company
SAVINGS BANK
W. R. RADCLIFFE, Mgr.
W. C. TISDEL, Chairman

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION

The Lake County board of examiners will offer examinations for teachers' certificates on the first Saturday of each month in the year 1911. If first Saturday falls on holiday, examinations will be held one week later. Boxwell pupils will be examined the third Saturday in April and the third Saturday in May, 1911. All examinations will be held in the old High School building, Painesville, beginning at 8:15 standard time.

By order of the board,
J. R. ADAMS, Clerk,
Unionville, Ohio.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad
FLORIDA
Special round trip, via Washington and rail, or via Baltimore and boat. Stop-over anywhere. Limit June 1st.
CALIFORNIA, OREGON, WASHINGTON
Colonist one way reduced fares. Beginning March 1st.
See Ticket Agent or write M. G. Carrel, G. P. A., 341 Euclid Ave, Cleveland, O.

The Eureka
POOL PARLORS and SMOKE HOUSE
SOFT DRINKS, CANDIES and a Full Line of CIGARETTES
ELECTRIC PIANO for the amusement of all patrons
J. H. MATHEWS, Prop.
119 So. State St., Painesville, O.

OUR SPECIAL OFFER
THE HERALD AND La Follette's Weekly Magazine
BOTH A FULL YEAR FOR ONLY
$1.25
You can read every week what Senator Robert M. La Follette, the fearless champion of the people's rights, the leader of the progressive Republicans, thinks and says for
ONLY 25 CENTS MORE
Than the Price of The Herald Alone
A stirring and momentous campaign is opening. You will want to be posted. You will want the record of your congressman. Does he represent YOU? You will want information about the great political issues you and your friends are talking about. Senator La Follette knows what is going on at Washington. He is on the ground; behind the scenes. He tells you all about it in LA FOLLETTE'S WEEKLY MAGAZINE.
Sixteen pages of crisp editorials and interesting special articles each week
La Follette's 1 yr. $1.00 | OUR OFFER
Herald . . 1 yr. $1.00 | $1.25
ADDRESS
The Lake County Herald, Painesville, Ohio

A. A. CALLENDER
ALL KINDS OF
Light and Heavy Draying
FURNITURE AND PIANO MOVING A SPECIALTY
Home Phone—Main 291 Bell Phone 142-R

TRUBY COAL CO.
COAL and COKE
LIME, CEMENT, SEWER PIPE, TILE, ETC.
BOTH PHONES 21.

MENTOR

Last Tuesday there suddenly came a fall of four or five inches of snow, which undoubtedly made everything look very beautiful (to the persons who have been south all winter and so have not seen enough of that particular kind of "beauty" to last a life-time), but it went away gradually, and today there is not a suggestion of it, and even the roads are getting very nice and dry.

Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Hart arrived safely at home on Thursday, after being detained several days in Nebraska by high water—some five thousand other pilgrims being likewise detained at the same place, so there was considerable "doing" first to last. Mrs. Hart declares they have had the "time of their lives" but are glad to get home, nevertheless.

Mr. Charles Johnson arrived from spending the winter in Pasadena, California earlier in the week, and W. P. Morley came in on Thursday or Friday, the pleasant springtime of Florida not being able to keep him longer.

Mrs. Harry King and Mrs. Albert Hanson were called to Hudson by the death of their old teacher, Prof. Seese, under whom they both taught in the Hudson high school, and went down on Sunday afternoon to be present at the funeral. Mrs. King will doubtless remain the week out with her mother, Mrs. William Ellsworth, and other relatives there.

The "Gospel Team" went back to Cleveland this morning, having had a pleasant Easter vacation down here having made many friends, and having the consciousness of having lent a willing hand to the meetings which will continue through this week under the auspices of the two young preacher pastors, Messrs. Schauffner and Clark, who may be able to work well together in harness, and if they are, it will be a great thing for Mentor.

Mr. Harmon Pinney, of Des Moines, Iowa, was in our village last week renewing acquaintance with some of his old schoolmates over in the "Root District." It is astonishing how many have drifted over here! Let's see! There is Ed and Emery Harrington, Charlie Losey, John Warren, Anna Warren Shumaker, Frank Jenkins, Clare Camp, Net and Nell King, Alda Hart Johnson, and, guess that's all.

Mrs. Jessie Doty Fay, one of our old Mentor girls, now living in N. Y. City, was around calling on a few old friends last week.

The silly "wild geese" that came up too soon and got their toes cold so had to put back to warmer quarters, a couple of weeks ago, are now being watched for, as really and truly spring will not be here until they have all passed through this region. (So say the old timers.)

Mr. and Mrs. Will Hodge returned to Indianapolis one day last week, their mother and sister both being convalescent. Mrs. Eva McCrea is with Mrs. Hodge at present, having been released from caring for a case in Painesville, just in time to help out here.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Hoyt have recently returned from Philadelphia, where they have been spending the winter with their daughter and her family.

Mrs. May Deadway Freeman of Cleveland, together with her three small sons, is at her father's house for a few days at present.

The Easter services at the Methodist church passed off very successfully and satisfactorily, the entire program being in the hands of Miss Jeannette Munson and her cousin Miss Frances Cleveland, assisted very ably by Miss Sarah Armstrong. The decorations were Pussy-Willows of which they were able to find large quantities, and which were piled high upon the platform in a most artistic manner, with swarms and swarms of butterflies flying in and out among them. The little dialogues and pieces by the children were well taken and rather better than usual. The music by the choir was affected somewhat by the universal "cold" that kept many away entirely, but the music was very good indeed, what there was of it.

The Disciple church was very beautifully decorated, we understand, with lilies, potted plants, ferns, etc., and the last service of the Gospel Team was down there last evening, where Mr. Ryall and another Y. M. C. A. man from Cleveland helped.

The "Social Day" of the Miscellany Club which was enjoyed at the home of Mrs. Marsh last week, was the last of its kind this year. But one more meeting which is to be with Mrs. T. D. Morley and then comes the annual election of officers at the next meeting which is to be in West Mentor with Mrs. Heath.

The Sugar Social held by Mrs. King's class on Wednesday evening seemed to be enjoyed by everybody present, and somewhere about six good dollars was cleared, which was considered very well done.

Mrs. Robert Case has gone to Scranton, Pa., where she will visit her mother, Mrs. Jane Lawrence and her brother, and will probably take a little trip over to New York City before returning home again.

We noticed in a recent exchange, that an "Ohio Club" had been formed in Wenatchee, Wash., of some three hundred members, and that Philip Ward of Willoughby had been elected the first president. It may be remembered that Mr. Ward was the high school teacher here for several years, and in that sense belongs to Mentor, so that anything of interest concerning him or his family will be enjoyed by our people. This Club is nearly as large as that in Eustis, Fla., and without doubt Ohio folks draw other Ohio folks to a place, and greatly help to make one feel at home.

Mr. Stanley Kelley has developed a fine case of measles, and is under the doctor's care at his father's home on the Plains, where we hear he is getting along all right.

Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Frost returned to "Echo Hill Farm" on Friday, and will be at home for the summer.

There is a great deal of sickness here, more than at any time during the winter. The little child of Mr. Consla is very sick with pneumonia, and most everybody is more or less "under the weather."

Work has been begun on the new house of T. P. Cadle and will be pushed right along until completion, sometime during the summer.

Miss Doris Doty of Painesville, has been out here with her aunt, Mrs. Col Parker, and her grandmother, Mrs. Amelia Hudson, for a few days.

We understand that Will Hart has rented a part of the Robert Radcliffe store, and will put in a supply of good candy and ice cream sodas for summer use, and will probably make it an object for our people to buy their ice cream in quantities, of him, instead of sending off for it.

Robert Case has the handsomest line of wall paper this spring that we have ever seen in our village, but as usual, the prettiest costs.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Markell have moved back from Collinwood where they have passed the winter, and will occupy their own house here.

We hear that Mr. William Mills has been taken to a Sanitarium in Pasadena, and that our Mentor girl, Mrs. Mills is with him.

A purse has been raised here for Dan McCarty, so that he is now in a room by himself with a nurse in constant attendance. The physician in the hospital says that the fact that he has never had any bad habits so that his blood is good, will be the means of saving his life, if he lives. At last report, yesterday, he was thought to be a very very little better.

A very wrong impression seems to have taken possession of the minds of some of the Painesville people in regard to the shooting of Dan McCarty.

---

FOR SALE or exchange for house and lot in Painesville, about 10 acres with good buildings, fruit, onion ground and everything for a nice country home on Middle Ridge. One of the finest locations in Northern Ohio. Address Lock Box 351, Madison, Lake County, Ohio.

MADISON

Mr. and Mrs. George Moodey have been recent guests of Mrs. Moodey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Corlett.

B. P. St. John of Ashtabula and R. G. St. John of Cleveland spent Thursday night with their parents.

H. G. St. John is raising and repairing the building on the Kellogg place and when completed the lower story will be used for the printing office, and living rooms above. It will be occupied by Mr. Dewey who has not been able to start the new paper for lack of floor room.

Mrs. E. J. Foster and Mrs. George Heywood were in Ashtabula Wednesday.

Miss Marian Lockwood of Lorain spent the Easter vacation with their parents.

Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson of Ashtabula spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Byron Winchester.

Mrs. W. J. Barnes, called to Madison by the death of her sister, Mrs. Fanny Woldy, left Saturday morning for Ashtabula where she will spend several days with Mrs. Anna House, before returning to her home in Coudersport, Pa.

Mrs. Van Valkenburg, who has been with her mother, Mrs. Maria Dernes, for some time, returned to Buffalo last week.

Mr. Oscar Weldy and son, Carl, spent Saturday in Ashtabula.

Mrs. A. J. Bollard and son, Cutler, were in Geneva, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Woodworth have moved from the Corlett house to the Wood house on River street. Mrs. Maggie Freeman will occupy the rooms vacated by Mr. Woodworth.

Six new members were added to the Congregational church Easter Sunday.

A large crowd attended the Annual Glee Club concert Wednesday evening. Quite a number of people from Painesville and Geneva were present.

Rev. S. B. Salmon of the Gilmore-Smith M. E. Church of Ashtabula, occupied the pulpit of the M. E. Church Wednesday evening.

Dr. and Mrs. Mygat of Ashtabula, Miss Mayme Domer and Mrs. Munger of Geneva, attended the church supper and Glee Club concert Wednesday evening.

Sultan St. John of Painesville was in town Friday.

Mr. Simpson of Salem spent Thursday in Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mullot, called here by the death of their daughter Mrs. Oscar Woldy, returned to their home in Berea, Ky., Thursday evening.

Geo. Haywood has purchased the Everts place on Lake street owned by Elisha Wood. Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Foster will take possession soon.

---

Don't be surprised if you have an attack of rheumatism this spring. Just rub the affected parts freely with Chamberlain's Liniment and it will soon disappear. Sold by all dealers.

---

VERY LOW ONE WAY COLONIST RATES VIA NICKEL PLATE ROAD to points in the West, Northwest and Southwest. Tickets good going March 1 to April 15, inclusive. Ask Agent or write J. C. Melenbacker, D. P. A., Erie, Pa. No. 2.

Why He Was Late.

"What made you so late?"

"I met Smithson."

"Well, that is no reason why you should be an hour late getting home to supper."

"I know, but I asked him how he was feeling, and he insisted on telling me about his stomach trouble."

"Did you tell him to take Chamberlain's Tablets?"

"Sure, that is what he needs."

Sold by all dealers.

THE MARKETS.

| Buyers are Paying for | |
|---|---|
| Wheat | 1.01 |
| Rye | 90 |
| Corn | 75 |
| Oats | 55 |
| Baled hay per ton | $22-$25 |
| Baled straw per ton | $11-$13 |
| Butter, No. 1 dairy | 28 |
| Eggs | 18 |
| Lard (home rendered) | 12 |
| Pork, dressed | 08-09 |
| Chickens | 12-13 |
| Veal | 10-11 |
| Beef, dressed | 8-10 |
| Tallow, per pound | 05 |
| Potatoes | 1.20 |
| Honey | 16-19 |
| Maple syrup, per gal. | 90-$1.00 |
| Retail Price for | |
| Flour, Royal Patent, per sk | 1.60 |
| Flour, Golden Eagle, per sk | 1.40 |
| Flour, Elevator, per sk | 1.40 |
| Flour, rye, per sk | 1.60 |
| Graham Flour, per lb | .03 |
| Corn | 86 |
| Oats | 66 |
| Corn Meal | 1.65 |
| Chop feed, straight corn and oats | 1.75 |
| Midlings | 1.65 |
| Bran | 1.50 |
| Baled straw, cwt | 80 |
| Butter, creamery | 39 |
| Butter, dairy | 32 |
| Eggs, per dozen | 22 |
| Potatoes, per bu | 1.50 |
| Potatoes, per pk | 38 |

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

State Highway Department
Columbus, Ohio, March 28, 1912

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Commissioners of Lake County at Painesville, Ohio, until ten o'clock A. M., April 25th, 1912, for grading and paving with a bituminated concrete the Madison Southern Road in Madison Township, said County. Length [illegible] feet or 1.41 miles, width of pavement 12 feet; estimated cost of construction $[illegible]. A draft or certified check for $[illegible] shall be deposited with each bid. The successful bidder shall be required to give bond for an amount equal to the contract price for the faithful performance of the obligations within the contract. Date set for completion August 1, 1912.

Plans and specifications are on file in the offices of the County Commissioners and the State Highway Department. The State Highway Commissioner reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

JAMES R. MARKER,
State Highway Commissioner

Mentor Wall Paper Store
NEW STOCK ON HAND
Besides a Large Assortment in Books which I would be pleased to show you
R. M. CASE

HAVE YOUR FIRE INSURANCE WRITTEN AT HOME
We represent one of the Largest and Best Companies
The National Fire Insurance Co. of Hartford
R. M. CASE & CO.

NEW GOODS AND NEW FIXTURES
WE AIM TO CARRY THE VERY BEST IN
Staple and Fancy Groceries
WITH A STOCK OF
Cigars and Tobacco
In keeping with all other lines. We shall appreciate your trade and will endeavor to please.
BURR & RUST
CORNER STATE AND MAIN

Painesville's Leading Planing Mill.
DRESSED LUMBER IS LIKE A DEAD DOG.
The bark is all off. You'll find no bark in our lumber, although we do a good deal of barking about it. We have the stock, and feel justified in barking. When you want the best lumber, bark up this tree, and you'll find it.
S. L. MALIN & SON
"Focus on Lumber."
Phone 127

A. D. McLEAN
FIRE INSURANCE, REAL ESTATE
SINGER SEWING MACHINES
All makes of machines cleaned and repaired.
135 S. State St. Painesville, Ohio

A REMEDY FOR EVERY ILL IN
THE NYAL REMEDIES
—at—
PARK'S PHARMACY
"The Nyal Store"

Painesville's Leading Drug Store.
Registered Pharmacists in attendance at all times.
The Corner Pharmacy
J. G. DAVET, Proprietor.

FIRE, LIFE, ACCIDENT, HEALTH
—AND—
PLATE GLASS INSURANCE
FRANK L. KERR

Everybody Loves A Winner.
Year after year, as steadily as clockwork, the
UNDERWOOD TYPEWRITER
demonstrates its superiority in speed and reliability by winning every typewriting contest in every class at the Annual Business Show, Madison Square Garden, New York City.

1911 RECORDS

World's Professional Championship (One Hour)

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1st | UNDERWOOD | H. O. Blaisdell | 112 words per minute |
| 2nd | UNDERWOOD | Florence E. Wilson | 111 " " " |
| 3rd | UNDERWOOD | Rose L. Fritz | 107 " " " |
| 4th | UNDERWOOD | E. A. Trefzger | 107 " " " |
| 5th | UNDERWOOD | J. L. Hoyt | 106 " " " |

World's Amateur Championship (Thirty Minutes)

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1st | UNDERWOOD | Gus F. Trefzger | 98 words per minute |
| 2nd | UNDERWOOD | Margaret B. Owen | 98 " " " |
| 3rd | UNDERWOOD | Bessie Friedman | 90 " " " |
| 4th | UNDERWOOD | Lottie E. Betts | 81 " " " |

World's School Championship (Fifteen Minutes)

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1st | UNDERWOOD | William F. Oswald | 77 words per minute |

World's Edison Transcribing Contest (Ten Minutes)

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1st | UNDERWOOD | Lottie E. Betts | 63 words per minute |

NOTE—Above records are net. Five words were deducted for each and every error.
The Official Record of the UNDERWOOD for one hour's work is 26 words per minute greater than the best official record of any other competing machine.
Every UNDERWOOD used in above Championship Contests is a STOCK machine, an exact duplicate of which can be purchased in every large city in the world.

"The Machine You Will Eventually Buy"

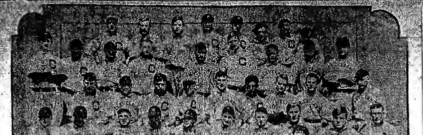
Underwood Typewriter Co., Inc.
822 Huron Road, CLEVELAND



CLEVELAND BASEBALL CLUB SQUAD FOR 1912—Front Row (left to right)—Ziegler, Sweitzer, Bronkie, Steen, Easterly, Captain Olson, Swindell, Livingston (lying down), Butcher, Adams. Second Row—Whaling, O'Neill, Manager Davis, Birmingham, Lajoie, Gregg, Ball, Kahler. Third Row—George, Barr, Jackson, DeMott, Hornhorst, James, Ryan, Fisher, Blanding. Fourth Row—Peckinpaugh, Mitchell, Hendryx, Cook, Talbot, Krapp, Baskette, Stansbury. (Photo by Doc Rollins.)

THE NAP TEAM LOOKS FIT FOR 1912 BASEBALL SEASON

Enthusiasm Runs High Among Fans For the Cleveland Club's New Line-up Under Davis' Management.

THE FIRST GAME AT HOME WITH DETROIT ON APRIL 11,

Baseball is a wonderful game. The strange thing about it is, that the older it grows the more wonderful it becomes. Other sports come and go but the grand old national game goes on forever. A decade ago, it would have been impossible to find anyone with the possible exception of Byron Bancroft Johnson, president of the American League, who would have been rash enough to have forecasted that baseball would be enjoying such immense prosperity as it does today.

And the end is not yet. The prosperity of today will grow and grow and grow. Else the major league club owners would not be looking to the future and expending immense sums of money in the erection of modern plants and accommodations for as many as 10,000 people in some instances.

It is but natural that the people of Northern Ohio should manifest more interest in the Cleveland Naps than any other major league club. The Naps are "close to home" and every lover of baseball in the small towns and villages of Northern Ohio are hoping against hope that one of these days they will surprise the baseball world and win a pennant. It is with this hope in mind that they journey to Cleveland two, three and in some cases as many as 20 times each season, to root for the Naps.

This year the Naps start out in a sort of new dress. They have a new manager, Harry Davis, former captain and first baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics, champions of the world, who supplanted George Stovall. They are also without a veteran pitcher, strictly speaking, as Fred Falkenberg, the last of the line of veteran twirlers, has been sold to the Toledo club of the American Association. Falky joined the Naps in 1908. Cy Young was sold to the Boston Nationals in mid-season in 1911. He became a Nap in the spring of 1909.

Addie Joss, the other veteran hurler of the Naps' roster last season, died just after the season opened.

The veteran pitchers in point of service with the Naps are White Mitchell, Geo. Kahler, Fred Blanding and Harrison DeMott, the last three of whom joined the Cleveland club late in the season of 1910. Mitchell reported in the fall of 1909. All of the other pitchers either made their debuts as Naps last season or still have to make their bows in Cleveland uniforms.

Then, too, the catching department will be new. Paddy Livingston, who was a teammate of Manager Davis at Philadelphia for three years, will be the mainstay behind the bat. He will have as backstopping mates Steve O'Neill, a youngster who saw his first major league experience last fall, and Ted Easterly, who has been with the Naps since the start of the 1909 campaign. It is Manager Davis' plan to have Easterly abandon all ideas about playing the outfield and devote his time to perfecting himself as a catcher, the position where he shone when he became a Nap.

Of course, the fans are greatly interested in the days the Naps will play at home. Seventy-seven games, or one-half of the scheduled shows, will be staged at League Park. A goodly number of these will be "holiday" affairs.

Included in the plums landed for the fans of Cleveland and Ohio are 13 Saturday games, 14 Sunday games with probably two additional Sundays, and morning and afternoon appearances on Memorial day, May 30, and Labor day, September 2.

This makes a total of 31 plums sure for the fans and possibly 33, almost one-half of the scheduled games at home.

The schedule is given below.

| AT HOME | |
|---|---|
| April 11, 12, †13, ‡14 | Detroit |
| April 15, 16, 17 | St. Louis |
| April 23, 24, 25, 26 | Chicago |
| May ‡12 | Washington |
| May †25, ‡26, 27 | St. Louis |
| May 28, 29, *30, *30 | Chicago |
| June †1, ‡2, 3, 4 | Boston |
| June 5, 6, 7, †8 | New York |
| June ‡9, 10, 11, 12 | Philadelphia |
| June 13, 14, †15, ‡16 | Washington |
| June 25, 26, 27 | Detroit |
| July †6, ‡7 | St. Louis |
| July †27, ‡28, 29 | Washington |
| July 31, Aug 1, 2, †3 | Philadelphia |
| August ‡4, 5, 6, 7 | Boston |
| August 8, 9, †10, ‡11 | New York |
| August 12 | Chicago |
| August 30, †31 | Chicago |
| Sept ‡1, *2, *2 | St. Louis |
| Sept 10, 11, 12 | Washington |
| Sept 13, †14, ‡15 | Philadelphia |
| Sept. 17, 18, 19 | Boston |
| Sept 20, †21, ‡22 | New York |
| Sept 26, 27, †28, ‡29 | Detroit |

†Saturday games
‡Sunday games
*Holiday games

NOTE

It is also probable that the Naps will play at home on Sunday, July 14, with Philadelphia, and on Sunday, August 18, with Washington. These changes are planned to avoid conflict with the Grand Circuit races.

| ABROAD | |
|---|---|
| April 18, 19, †20, ‡21 | Detroit |
| April †27, ‡28, 29, 30 | St. Louis |
| May 2, 3, †4, ‡5 | Chicago |
| May 7, 8, 9, 10 | Philadelphia |
| May †11, 13, 14, 15 | Washington |
| May 16, 17, †18, 20 | New York |
| May 21, 22, 23 | Boston |
| June 18, 19, 20, †22 | Detroit |
| June ‡23 | Chicago |
| June 28, †29, ‡30 | St. Louis |
| July 1, 2, 3 | Detroit |
| July *4, *4 | Chicago |
| July 5 | Philadelphia |
| July 9, 10, 11, 12 | Washington |
| July †13, 15, 16 | Philadelphia |
| July 17, 18, 19, †20 | New York |
| July 22, 23, 24, 25 | Boston |
| August 14, 15, 16 | Philadelphia |
| August †17, 19, 20 | Washington |
| August 21, 22, 23, †24 | Boston |
| August 26, 27, 28 | New York |
| September 5, 6, †7, ‡8 | Chicago |
| October 2, 3, †5, ‡6 | St. Louis |

†Saturday games
‡Sunday games
*Holiday games

Naps play 13 Saturday games at home and 13 abroad.

Naps play 14 Sunday games at home and 7 abroad.

Naps play 4 holiday games at home and 2 abroad.

DOPE FOR THE FANS ON THE NAP SQUAD

Harry H. Davis—Born July 18, 1873, at Philadelphia, Pa. His nickname is Jasper. He began playing professional ball in 1891. He has been with Camden, N. J., Pawtucket, R. I., Providence, R. I.; New York Giants, Pittsburgh, Pa., Washington, D. C.; Philadelphia Athletics and Cleveland. He batted .197 in 1911 and fielded .977. He bats and throws right handed.

Napoleon Lajoie—Born September 5, 1875, at Woonsocket, R. I. His nicknames are Larry and Nap. He began playing professional ball in 1896. He has been with Fall River, Mass.; Philadelphia Nationals, Philadelphia Athletics and Cleveland. He batted .365 in 1911 and fielded .990 at first base and .948 at second. He bats and throws right handed.

Patrick J. Livingston—Born January 14, 1881, at Cleveland, O. His nickname is Paddy. He began playing professional ball in 1905. He has been with Wheeling, W. Va., Cincinnati, O.; Indianapolis, Ind., Philadelphia Athletics and Cleveland. He batted .239 in 1911 and fielded .977. He bats and throws right handed.

Terrence L. Turner—Born February 28, 1881, at Sandy Lake, Pa. His nicknames are Terry, Tuck and Cotton. He began playing professional ball in 1901. He has been with Pittsburgh, Pa., Columbus, O., and Cleveland. He batted .252 in 1911 and fielded .970. He bats and throws right handed.

Neal Ball—Born April 22, 1882, at Grand Haven, Mich. His nickname is Trip. He began playing professional ball in 1904. He has been with Montgomery, Ala., New York Americans and Cleveland. He batted .296 in 1911 and fielded .945. He bats and throws right handed.

Ed H. Hohnhorst—Born January 31, 1885, at Covington, Ky. His nickname is Hohny. He began playing professional ball in 1908. He has been with Anderson, S. C., Augusta, Ga., Atlanta, Ga., San Antonio, Tex., Toledo, O., and Cleveland. He batted .302 in 1911 and fielded .985. He bats and throws left handed.

Herman C. Bronkie—Born March 30, 1885, at South Manchester, Conn. His nickname is Dutch. He began playing professional ball in 1906. He has been with Newark, N. J., Waterbury, Conn., Hartford, Conn., Nashville, Tenn., Toledo, O., and Cleveland. He batted .277 in 1911 and fielded .923. He bats and throws right handed.

S. A. Gregg—Born April 13, 1885, at Chehalis, Wash. His nicknames are Vean and Lefty. He began playing professional ball in 1909. He has been with Spokane, Wash.; Portland, Ore., and Cleveland. He batted .165 in 1911 and fielded .949. His pitching average was .767. He bats right handed and throws left handed.

J. E. Swindell—Born July 5, 1885, at Rose Hill, Kas. His nickname is Josh. He began playing professional ball in 1907. He has been with Wichita, Kas.; Winston-Salem, N. C., and Cleveland. He batted .230 in 1911 and fielded .985. His pitching average was .784. He bats and throws right handed.

Gus Fisher—Born October 2, 1885, at Pottsboro, Tex. His nickname is Gus. He began playing professional ball in 1907. He has been with Waco, Tex., Toledo, O.; Newark, O., Portland, Ore., and Cleveland. He batted .261 in 1911 and fielded .959. He bats left handed and throws right handed.

Ivan M. Olson—Born October 11, 1885, at Kansas City, Mo. His nicknames are Ole and Swede. He began playing professional ball in 1906. He has been with Muskogee, Okla., Webb City, Mo., Hutchinson, Kas., Portland, Ore., and Cleveland. He batted .261 in 1911 and fielded .909. He bats and throws right handed.

Jos. L. Birmingham—Born December 3, 1884, at Elmira, N. Y. His nickname is Dode. He began playing professional ball in 1906. He has been with the A. J. and G. team, New York State League, and Cleveland. He batted .304 in 1911 and fielded .973. He bats and throws right handed.

J. G. Graney—Born June 10, 1886, at Thomas, Canada. His nicknames are Jack and Mickey. He began playing professional ball in 1900. He has been with Erie, Pa., Fulton, N. Y., Rochester, N. Y., Wilkesbarre, Pa., Columbus, O., Portland, Ore., and Cleveland. He batted .269 in 1911 and fielded .927. He bats and throws left handed.

J. B. Ryan—Born October 6, 1886, at Denver, Col. His nickname is Buddy. He began playing professional ball in 1907. He has been with Pueblo, Col., Portland, Ore., and Cleveland. He batted .333 in 1911 and fielded .985. He bats left handed and throws right handed.

Hyder Barr—Born October 6, 1886, at Bristol, Tenn. His nickname is Hy. He began playing professional ball in 1908. He has been with Greenville, S. C., New Orleans, La.; Atlanta, Ga.; Montgomery, Ala.; Mobile, Ala.; Philadelphia Athletics and Cleveland. He batted .278 in 1911 and fielded .969. He bats and throws right handed.

John Stansbury—Born December 6, 1886, at Philipsburg, N. J. His nickname is Jack. He began playing professional ball in 1908. He has been with Williamsport, Pa., Louisville, Ky., and Cleveland. He batted .283 in 1911 and fielded .900. He bats and throws right handed.

T. H. Easterly—Born April 20, 1886, at Lincoln, Neb. His nickname is Ted. He began playing professional ball in 1907. He has been with Los Angeles, Cal., and Cleveland. He batted .324 in 1911 and fielded .910. He bats left handed and throws right handed.

H. T. Butcher—Born July 12, 1887, at Chicago, Ill. His nickname is Hank. He began playing professional ball in 1909. He has been with Rockford, Ill., Evansville, Ind., New Orleans, La., and Cleveland. He batted .210 in 1911 and fielded .984. He bats and throws right handed.

W. J. Steen—Born November 11, 1887, at Pittsburgh, Pa. His nickname is Bill. He began playing professional ball in 1907. He has been with Newcastle, Pa., Toledo, O., Grand Rapids, Mich., Bloomington, Ill., Portland, Ore., and Cleveland. He batted .230 in 1911 and fielded .907. His pitching average was .667. He bats and throws right handed.

James Baskette—Born December 10, 1887, at Athens, Tenn. His nickname is Jim. He began playing professional ball in 1907. He has been with Greenville, S. C., Chattanooga, Tenn.; Toledo, O., and Cleveland. He batted .189 in 1911 and fielded .941. His pitching average was .590. He bats and throws right handed.

W. H. James—Born January 20, 1888, at Detroit, Mich. His nickname is Bill. He began playing professional ball in 1910. He has been with Jackson, Mich., Toledo, O., and Cleveland. He fielded .851 in 1911. His pitching average was .250. He bats and throws right handed.

G. N. Cook—Born February 1, 1888, at Deerfield, N. C. His nickname is Doc. This is his first attempt at professional ball, his experience being limited to pitching for U. S. A. teams at Old Point Comfort, Va., and a few games in the Tidewater League. He bats and throws right handed.

Fred J. Blanding—Born February 8, 1888, at Redlands, Cal. His nickname is Fritz. He began playing professional ball in 1909. He has been with Ellsworth, Kas., San Antonio, Tex., and Cleveland. He batted .262 in 1911 and fielded .934. His pitching average was .389. He bats and throws right handed.

Eugene Krapp—Born May 12, 1887, at Rochester, N. Y. His nickname is Gene. He began playing professional ball in 1906. He has been with Tecumseh, Mich.; Flint, Mich., Portland, Ore., and Cleveland. He batted .230 in 1911 and fielded .931. His pitching average was .600. He bats and throws right handed.

Joe Jackson—Born July 16, 1888, at Easely, S. C. His nicknames are Joe and Jax. He began playing professional ball in 1908. He has been with Greenville, S. C., Philadelphia Athletics, Savannah, Ga., New Orleans, La., and Cleveland. He batted .408 in 1911 and fielded .958. He bats left handed and throws right handed.

F. A. Sweitzer—Born July 21, 1888, at Kingsville, Md. His nickname is Sweitz. He began playing professional ball in 1911. He has been with Danville, Va., and Cleveland. He batted .282 in 1911 and fielded 1000. His pitching average was 1000. He bats left handed and throws right handed.

William Mitchell—Born December 1, 1889, at Sardis, Miss. His nickname is Willie. He began playing professional ball in 1909. He has been with San Antonio, Tex., and Cleveland. He batted .108 in 1911 and fielded .907. His pitching average was .233. He bats right handed and throws left handed.

B. H. DeMott—Born April 2, 1899, at Green Village, N. J. His nickname is Ben. He began playing professional ball in 1910. He has been with Omaha, Neb., and Cleveland. He batted .235 in 1911 and fielded .922. His pitching average was .533. He bats and throws right handed.

Bert Whaling—Born June 25, 1889, at Los Angeles, Cal. His nickname is Bert. He began playing professional ball in 1908. He has been with Portland, Ore.; Seattle, Wash., and Cleveland. He batted .265 in 1911 and fielded 1000. He bats and throws right handed.

T. E. George—Born August 13, 1889, at Pittsburgh, Pa. His nickname is Lefty. He began playing professional ball in 1909. He has been with York, Pa.; Indianapolis, Ind.; St. Louis Americans and Cleveland. He batted .113 in 1911 and fielded .875. His pitching average was .231. He bats and throws left handed.

George R. Kahler—Born September 6, 1889, at Athens, O. His nickname is Crum. He began playing professional ball in 1909. He has been with Newark, O., Lima, O.; Columbus, O., and Cleveland. He batted .167 in 1911 and fielded .957. His pitching average was .529. He bats and throws right handed.

Patrick Talbot—Born July 19, 1890, at Newberg, W. Va. His nickname is Dick. He began playing professional ball in 1910. He has been with Fairmount, Va., Adrian, Mich., and Cleveland. He bats left handed and throws right handed.

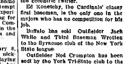
J. H. Ziegler—Born October 15, 1890, at Columbus, O. His nickname is Jim. He began playing professional ball in 1909. He has been with Lancaster, O., Wilmington, Del., and Cleveland. His pitching average in 1911 was .333. He bats and throws right handed.

T. G. Hendryx—Born January 31, 1891, at LeRoy, Ill. His nickname is Tim. He began playing professional ball in 1910. He has been with Yazoo City, Miss., and Cleveland. He batted .270 in 1911 and fielded .957. He bats and throws right handed.

R. T. Peckinpaugh—Born February 5, 1891, at Wooster, O. His nickname is Peck. He began playing professional ball in 1910. He has been with New Haven, Conn., Portland, Ore., and Cleveland. He batted .253 in 1911 and fielded .924. He bats and throws right handed.

John B. Adams—Born June 21, 1891, at Tipton, Tex. His nickname is Jack. He began playing professional ball in 1909. He has been with San Antonio, Tex., Victoria, Tex., Toledo, O.; Memphis, Tenn., and Cleveland. He batted .191 in 1911 and fielded .967. He bats and throws right handed.

Stephen O'Neill—Born July 6, 1891, at Minooka, Pa. His nickname is Steve. He began playing professional ball in 1910. He has been with Elmira, N. Y.; Worcester, Mass., and Cleveland. He batted .282 in 1911 and fielded .974. He bats and throws right handed.



Quincy, Ill., will spend $15,000 in building its new ball park.

It has been rumored that Manager McGraw has sold "Bugs" Raymond, the eccentric twirler.

Ed Konetchy, the Cardinals' classy first baseman, is the only one in the majors who has no competition for his job.

Buffalo has sold Outfielder Jack White and Third Baseman Written to the Syracuse club of the New York State league.

Outfielder Ned Crompton has been sold by the York Tri-State club to the Binghamton club of the New York State league.

Jack Teuscher, with Spokane and Tacoma last year and signed by Spokane for this season, has been released to Duluth.

Pitcher Bunny Hearne, released by the St. Louis Cardinals to Louisville last year, has been bought from the latter club by Omaha.

Pitcher Swormstedt, last year with Lynn, Haverhill and Worcester in the New England league, has signed a contract with New Bedford.

Another Wagner has come into the fold. Joe of the famous name has signed his contract to play second base with York in the Tri-State.

The Washington Senators have purchased another shortstop. Eddie Gagnier is the youngster. He came from the Lincoln club of the Western league.

Manager Bresnahan believes that Louie Laudermilk is going to be another "Slim" Sallee. The young southpaw possesses many foolers and he is developing very fast.

The Springfield (Ill.) Journal is authority for the statement that Dick Kinsella is the highest paid scout in the business, the St. Louis club paying him $5,000 per annum.

"Josh" Swindell, pitcher of the Cleveland team, has a peculiar "hop ball." Josh has shown enough in the few practice sessions to date to warrant the prediction that the name Swindell will be famous in the future.

STREAM CHANGED ITS COURSE

North River in One Night Moved Its Mouth Three Miles to the Northward.

There is a stream in this state called the North river. It starts in a pond near Hanson and runs to the sea at Scituate. It is ten miles by air line from Hanson to Scituate and the river is 40 miles long.

This river is probably the most remarkable body of water, barring the Dead sea, on this footstool and has stood more abuse and bad language than the Chicago river. When the tide is coming in the river runs upstream and not only that, but the upper part of it, which is fresh water, also runs up, and the spectacle of a fresh water river beating it up hill is alone enough to call attention to itself. But there is much more to it than that.

This North river is noted for being the scene of the last Indian raid on the coast settlements. It is notable for having given birth to the ship Columbia, whose captain discovered and named the Columbia river and was the first American vessel to circumnavigate the world. It is notorious for having suddenly changed its mind on its course on the night of November 27, 1898, when it moved its mouth three miles to the northward, presented the town of Marshfield with a deep harbor, killed three men and converted about 200,000 acres of prime meadow land into a salt marsh.

But the chief thing about this river is its crookedness. This river is so crooked that it double crosses itself. If you don't believe it go and see. There is one place in Hanover where by making three loops the river moves toward the sea for a distance of almost fifty feet and meanders about for 15 miles in doing it.—Boston Transcript.

From the Blue Bird.

In Maeterlinck's "Blue Bird" little Tyltyl goes to some far-off heavenly place to learn that love abides with him at home. There he meets Mother Love. He says he wishes to stay with her always, where she looks so beautiful to him. She answers, "But it's just the same thing; I am down below, we are all down below. . . . You have come up here only to realise and to learn, once and for all, how to see me when you see me down below . . . Do you understand, Tyltyl, dear? . . . You believe yourself in heaven; but heaven is wherever you and I kiss each other. . . . There are not two mothers, and you have no other. . . . Every child has only one; and it is always the same one and always the most beautiful; but you have to know her and to know how to look."

WANTED IT ALL FORGOTTEN

Willard's Plea for Closed Incident at Least Had Merit of Perfect Straightforwardness.

The minister had been invited to dinner, and five-year-old Willard was warned that he must use his "Sunday" manners at the table. As the plate of potatoes was passed to him, after everyone else had received a helping, Willard emptied the contents onto his plate. His mother, blushing, put back a greater part of the potatoes.

"Hog," said the little fellow, whereupon he was immediately sent to bed.

The next morning Willard sat opposite his mother at breakfast. The look on his mother's face soon told the boy an unusual atmosphere was surrounding the family meal, and he became suspicious that he was the cause.

"Well," he said, looking his mother straight in the eye, "you don't need to get sore about it. You got me, didn't you?"

Method With Disadvantages.

"Will you make any rear platform speeches next summer?"

"I don't know," replied the candidate. "It's kind of embarrassing to have an engineer blow the whistle, ring the bell and pull out just as you get to the grand climax on which you relied for applause."

The Sailor's Chest.

Bobby—This sailor must have been a bit of an acrobat.

Mamma—Why, dear?

Bobby—Because the book says, "Having lit his pipe, he sat down on his chest."—Sacred Heart Review.

If You Are a Trifle Sensitive About the size of your shoes, you can wear a size smaller by shaking Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder, into them. Just the thing for Dancing Parties and for Breaking in New Shoes. Gives instant relief to Corns and Bunions. Sample FREE. Address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

Defined.

Freddie—Say, dad, what's morbid curiosity?

Cobwigger—That's what the fellow has who butts in ahead of you and keeps you from seeing anything.

A splendid and highly recommended remedy for tired, weak, inflamed eyes, and granulated eyelids is Paxtine Antiseptic, at druggists, 25c a box or sent postpaid on receipt of price by The Paxton Toilet Co., Boston, Mass.

The woman who suffers in silence usually manages to make a lot of noise about it.

As we grow more sensible we refuse drug cathartics and take instead Nature's herb cure, Garfield Tea.

Beginning a proper name with a small letter is a capital offense.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY Take LAXATIVE BROMO Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box. 25c.

Alimony is the cement that is sometimes used to mend a broken heart.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle.

The more a trust magnate wants the less the other fellow gets.

Hoxsie's Croup Remedy should be kept in every house where there are children. Nothing like it for Colds, Coughs and Croup. 50 cents.

Better a strong prejudice than a weak conviction.

"Pink Eye" is Epidemic in the Spring. Try Murine Eye Remedy for Reliable Relief.

Widows oft rush in where young girls fear to tread.

YOUNG WIFE SAVED FROM HOSPITAL

Tells How Sick She Was And What Saved Her From An Operation.

Upper Sandusky, Ohio.—"Three years ago I was married and went to housekeeping. I was not feeling well and could hardly drag myself along. I had such tired feelings, my back ached, my sides ached, I had bladder trouble awfully bad, and I could not eat or sleep. I had headaches, too, and became almost a nervous wreck. My doctor told me to go to a hospital. I did not like that idea very well, so, when I saw your advertisement in a paper, I wrote to you for advice, and have done as you told me. I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, and now I have my health.

"If sick and ailing women would only know enough to take your medicine, they would get relief."—Mrs. BENJ. H. STANSBERY, Route 6, Box 18, Upper Sandusky, Ohio.

If you have mysterious pains, irregularity, backache, extreme nervousness, inflammation, ulceration or displacement, don't wait too long, but try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound now.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and such unquestionable testimony as the above proves the value of this famous remedy and should give every one confidence.

The Wretchedness of Constipation

Can quickly be overcome by CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS. Purely vegetable—act surely and gently on the liver. Cure Biliousness, Headache, Dizziness, and Indigestion. They do their duty.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE.

Genuine must bear Signature

Brent Good

DR. J. D. KELLOGG'S ASTHMA Remedy for the prompt relief of Asthma and Hay Fever. Ask your druggist for it. Write for FREE SAMPLE. NORTHROP & LYMAN CO., Ltd., BUFFALO, N.Y.

THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY. No. 1, No. 2, No. 3. THERAPION Used in French Hospitals with GREAT SUCCESS, CURES KIDNEY, BLADDER DISEASES, PILES, CHRONIC ULCERS, SKIN ERUPTIONS—EITHER SEX. Send address envelope for FREE booklet to DR. LE CLERC MED. CO. HAVERSTOCK RD., HAMPSTEAD, LONDON, ENG.

Pettit's Eye Salve QUICK RELIEF EYE TROUBLES

PATENTS Watson E. Coleman, Washington, D.C. Books free. Highest references. Best results.

DEFIANCE STARCH never sticks to the iron.

W. N. U., CLEVELAND, NO. 15-1912.

Facts for Weak Women

Nine-tenths of all the sickness of women is due to some derangement or disease of the organs distinctly feminine. Such sickness can be cured—is cured every day by

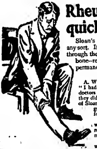
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

It Makes Weak Women Strong, Sick Women Well.

It acts directly on the organs affected and is at the same time a general restorative tonic for the whole system. It cures female complaint right in the privacy of home. It makes unnecessary the disagreeable questioning, examinations and local treatment so universally insisted upon by doctors, and so abhorrent to every modest woman.

We shall not particularize here as to the symptoms of those peculiar affections incident to women, but those wanting full information as to their symptoms and means of positive cure are referred to the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser—1008 pages, newly revised and up-to-date Edition, sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only; or, in cloth binding for 31 stamps.

Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.



Rheumatic Pains quickly relieved

Sloan's Liniment is good for pain of any sort. It penetrates, without rubbing, through the muscular tissue right to the bone—relieves the congestion and gives permanent as well as temporary relief.

Here's Proof.

A. W. LAY of Lafayette, Ala., writes:—"I had rheumatism for five years. I tried doctors and several different remedies but they did not help me. I obtained a bottle of Sloan's Liniment which did me so much good that I would not do without it for anything."

THOMAS L. RICE of Easton, Pa., writes: "I have used Sloan's Liniment and find it first-class for rheumatic pains."

Mr. G. G. JONES of Baldwins, L.I., writes:—"I have found Sloan's Liniment par excellence. I have used it for broken sinews above the knee cap caused by a fall, and to my great satisfaction I was able to resume my duties in less than three weeks after the accident."

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

is an excellent remedy for sprains, bruises, sore throat, asthma. No rubbing necessary—you can apply with a brush.

At all dealers. Price, 25c., 50c. & $1.00.

Sloan's Book on Horses, Cattle, Sheep and Poultry sent free. Address

Dr. EARL S. SLOAN, BOSTON, MASS.

---

PART OF FREE SAMPLE CURED TETTER

Everybody Surprised at Quick Results from Resinol.

Often you hear of the continued use of advertised preparations effecting a cure, but whoever heard of a free sample being so successful? Here is the proof in the mother's own words:—

"I am more than pleased with Resinol Ointment and Soap. Part of the sample of Resinol Ointment cured my baby's face of tetter."

—Mrs. Bertha Hodnett, Stovall, Va.

Wonderful, isn't it? But you will find nothing which is such a successful remedy for all irritations, inflammations and itching of the skin, from piles, scalds and burns, to cuts, sores, felons, carbuncles, boils, eczema, tetter, barber's itch and other skin troubles. It can be instantly applied and as easily as cold cream and has the recommendation of thousands of physicians back of it. Resinol Soap contains the same medicinal qualities as the Ointment and should be used for all toilet purposes and in connection with the ointment. Dealers everywhere sell the Resinol preparations; the ointment in two sizes at fifty cents and a dollar; the soap at twenty-five cents a cake. Free sample of each sent on request. Address Dept. 4, Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

To Take a Different Route.

"Sistern and brethren," exhorted Uncle Abraham, a recent promotion from the plow to the pulpit, "on de one side er dis here meetin' house is a road leading to destruction, on de udder is a road gwine to hell and damnation. Which you gwine pursee? [illegible] Which is you gwine pursee?"

"Law, Brer Abraham," spoke Sister Eliza from the back pew, "I speck I'm er gwine home too' de woods!"—Lippincott's.

Baby Cried Day and Night with Colic till she was 3 months old, then we got Kopp's Baby's Friend and that cured her. Used it also when she was teething and cannot speak too highly of it, so writes Mrs. L. P. Plummer, Rockland, Me. Sold by druggists, 10c., 25c. and 50c., or sent direct by Kopp's Baby's Friend Co., York, Pa. Sample by mail on request.

Extra Inducement.

Cohen, the clothier, followed a customer out to his buggy.

"Dot's a pretty fine horse you are driving," he commented approvingly.

"Yes, he's a good one."

"How much would you sell him for?"

"Seventy-five dollars."

"Mein Gott! Is he silk lined?"—Everybody's.

Accounted For.

"The boy has the aviation fever."

"That accounts for the rise in his temperature."

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS Your druggist will refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

It must be some satisfaction to sailors to know that buoys will be buoys.

To overcome constipation and resultant ills, take Garfield Tea, a pure herb laxative.

A man isn't necessarily worthless because his neighbor is worth more.

Get This FREE Book Before You Decorate

Walls and how to decorate them. The Alabastine Book

It shows 20 pretty rooms in modern homes and how to get the very latest designs for your home. We will send you FREE color plans made by expert designers for any rooms you want to decorate.

Alabastine

The Beautiful Wall Tint

is more fashionable than wall paper or paint and costs far less. It is too refined and exquisite in color to compare with any kind of kalsomine. Goes further on the walls, does not chip, peel or rub off, lasts far longer. 16 Beautiful Tints. Comes all ready to mix with cold water and put on. Easiest to use—full directions on every package. Full 5 lb. pkg., White, 50c; Regular Tints, 55c.

Get the FREE Book of 20 Beautiful Rooms

Write today.

Alabastine Company

53 Grandville Road, Grand Rapids, Mich.
New York City, Desk 3, 105 Water Street

Why Rent a Farm

and be compelled to pay to your landlord most of your hard-earned profits? Own your own farm. Secure a Free Homestead in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, or purchase land in one of these districts and bank a profit of $10.00 or $12.00 an acre every year.

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

Land purchased 3 years ago at $10.00 an acre has recently changed hands at $25.00 an acre. The crops grown on these lands warrant the advance. You can

Become Rich

by cattle raising, dairying, mixed farming and grain growing in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Free homestead and preemption areas, as well as land held by railway and land companies, will provide homes for millions.

Adaptable soil, healthful climate, splendid schools and churches, good railways.

For settlers' rates, descriptive literature "Last Best West," how to reach the country and other particulars, write to Sup't of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or to the Canadian Government Agent.

H. M. WILLIAMS
413 Gardner Bldg., Toledo, Ohio
Please write to the agent nearest you

MOTHER GRAY'S SWEET POWDERS FOR CHILDREN

Relieve Feverishness, Constipation, Colds and correct disorders of the stomach and bowels. Used by Mothers for 22 years. At all Druggists 25c. Sample mailed FREE. Address A. S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM [illegible]

The GIRL from His Town

by Marie Van Vorst

ILLUSTRATIONS by M. G. KETTNER

COPYRIGHT 1910 by The Bobbs-Merrill Company

SYNOPSIS.

Dan Blair, the 22-year-old son of the sixty-million-dollar copper king of Blairtown, Mont., is a guest at the English home of Lady Galorey. Dan's father had been courteous to Lord Galorey during his visit to the United States and the courtesy is now being returned to the young man. The youth has an ideal girl in his mind. He meets Lily, Duchess of Breakwater, a beautiful widow who is attracted by his immense fortune and takes a liking to her. When Dan was a boy, a girl sang a solo at a church, and he had never forgotten her. The Galoreys, Lily and Dan attend a London theater where one Letty Lane is the star. Dan recognizes her as the girl from his town, and going behind the scenes introduces himself and she remembers him. He learns that Prince Poniatowsky is suitor and escort to Letty. Lord Galorey and a friend named Ruggles determine to protect the westerner from Lily and other fortune hunters. Young Blair goes to see Lily; he can talk of nothing but Letty and this angers the Duchess. The westerner finds Letty ill from hard work, but she recovers and Ruggles and Dan invite her to supper. She asks Dan to build a home for disappointed theatrical people.

CHAPTER XI.—Continued.

She did not appear to hear him. Indeed she was not looking at him, and Dan saw Prince Poniatowsky making his way toward their table across the room.

Letty Lane rose. Dan put her cloak about her shoulders, and glancing toward Ruggles and toward the boy as indifferently as she had considered the new-comers who formed a small group around the brilliant figure of the actress, she nodded good night to both Ruggles and Blair and went up to the Hungarian as though he were her husband, who had come to take her home. However, at the door she sufficiently shook off her mood to smile slightly at Dan.

"I have had 'lots of fun' and the Scotch broth was great! Thank you both so much."

Until they were up in their sitting room her hosts did not exchange a word. Then Ruggles took a book up from the table and sat down with his cigar. "I am going to read a little, Dan. Slept all day, feel as wide-awake as an owl."

Dan showed no desire to be communicative, however, to Ruggles' disappointment, but he exclaimed abruptly:

"I'll be darned, Ruggles, if I can guess what you asked her for!"

"Well, it did turn out to be a pretty expensive party for you, Dannie, didn't it?" Ruggles returned humorously. "I'll let you off from any more supper parties."

And Dan fumed as he turned his back. "Expensive? There you are again, Ruggles, with your infernal intrusion of money into everything I do."

When the older man found himself alone, he read a little and then put his book down to muse. And his meditations were on the tide of life and the bede it runs over, the living whirlpool as Ruggles himself had seen it coursing through London under fog and mist. It seemed now to surge up in the dark to his very windows, and the flow mysteriously passed under his windows in these silent hours over which the waters go. Out of the sound, as it flowed on, the cries rose, he thought, kindly to his ears: "God bless her—God bless Letty Lane!" And with this sound he closed his meditations, thinking of a more peaceful stream, the brighter, sweeter waters of the boy's nature, translucent and clear. The vision was happier, and with it Ruggles rose and yawned, and shut his book.

CHAPTER XII.

The Green Knight.

The Duchess of Breakwater had made Dan promise at Osdene the day he went back to London that he would take her over to her own place, Stainer Court, and with her see the beauty, ruins and traditions of the place.

When Dan got up well on in the morning, Ruggles had gone to the bank. Dan's thoughts turned from everything to Letty Lane. With irritation he put her out of his mind. There had come up between himself and the girl he had known slightly in his own town two years ago a wall of partition. Every time he saw her Poniatowsky was there, condescending, arrogant, rude and proud. The prince the night before had given the tips of his fingers to Dan, nodded to Ruggles as if the Westerner had been his tailor, and had appropriated Letty Lane, and she had gone away under his shadow. The simplicity of Dan's life, his decent bringing up, his immaculate youth, for such it was, his aloofness from the world, made him naive, but he was not dull. He waited—not like a skeptic who would fit every one into his pigeonholes—on the contrary, he waited to find every one as perfect as he knew they must be, and every time he tried to think of Letty Lane, Poniatowsky troubled him horribly and seemed to rise before him, and sardonically look at him through his eye-glass, making the boy's belief in good things ridiculous.

He wrote a note to Ruggles, saying that he would be back late and not to wait for him, and set out in his own car for Blankshire, where the duchess was to meet him at Stainer Court at noon. On his way out he decided that he had been a fool to discuss Letty Lane with the Duchess of Breakwater, and that it had been none of his business to put her duty before her, and that he had judged her quickly and unfairly. He fell in love with the lovely English country over which his motor took him, and it made him more affectionate toward the English woman. He sat back in his car, looking over the fine shooting land, the misty golden forests, as through the misty country his motor took its way. The [illegible] of England [illegible] his cheeks, he breathed in its odors fresh and sweet, the wildness air was cool and fragrant. His cheeks grew red, his eyes shone like stars, and he was content with his youth and his lot. When they stopped at Castelen, the property belonging to Stainer Court, he felt something of proprietorship stir in him, and at Stainer Arms ordered a drink, bought petroleum, and then pushed up the avenue under the leafless giant trees, whose roots were older than his father's name or than any state of the Union. And he felt admiration and something like emotion as he saw the first towers of Stainer Court finally appear.

The duchess waited for him in the room known as the "Green Knight's Room," because of a figure in tapestry on the walls. The legend in wool had been woven in Spain, somewhere about the time when Isabella was kind, and when in turn a continent loomed up for the world in general out of the mist. The subject of the Green Knight's tapestry was simple and convincing. On a sheer-cut village of low ferns, where daisies stood up like trees, a slender lady poised her dark sandaled feet on the pin-like turf. Her figure was all swathed round with a spotless dress of woolly white, softened by age into a golden misty tone, and a pair of friendly and confidential rabbits sat close to her golden slippers. The lady's face was candid and mild, her eyes were soft, and at [illegible] fillet [illegible] tone, [illegible] softened to a coral pink by time. This lady in all her grace and virginal sweetness was only half of the woven story. To her right stood a youth in forest green, his sword drawn, and his intention evidently to kill a creature which, near to the gentle rabbits, out of the daisied grass lifted its cruel snakelike head. For nearly five hundred years the serpent's venom had been poised, and if the serpent should start the Green Knight would strike, too, at the same magic moment.

Prince Poniatowsky Making His Way Toward Their Table Across the Room.

Close to the tapestry a fire had been laid in the broad fireplace, and the duchess had ordered the luncheon table for Dan and herself spread with the cold things England knows how to combine into a delectable feast. The room was full of mediaeval furnishings, but the Green Knight was the best of all. The Duchess of Breakwater took him for granted. She had known him all her life, and she had only been struck by his expensive beauty when the offer came to her from the National Museum to buy him, and she wondered how long she could afford to stick to her price.

When Dan came in he found her in a short tweed skirt, a mannish blouse, looking boyish and wholly charming, and she mixed him a cocktail under the Green Knight's very nose and offered it with the wisdom of the serpent itself, and the duchess didn't in the least suggest the white-robed, milk-white lady.

The friends drank their cocktails in good spirits, and Dan presented the lady with the flowers he had brought her, and he felt a strong sentiment stir at the sight of her in this old room, alone and waiting for him. The servants left them, the duchess put her hands on the boy's broad shoulders. Nearly as tall as he, she was a good example of the best looking English woman, straight and strong and her eyes were level, and Dan met them with his own.

"I am so glad you came," she murmured. "I've been ragging myself every minute since you went away from Osdene."

"You have? What for?"

"Because I was such a perfect prig. I'll do anything you like for Miss Lane. I mean to say, I'll arrange for a musicale and ask her to sing."

The color rushed into Dan's face. How bully of her! What a brick this [illegible] He said: "You [illegible] sweet as a peach!"

The duchess' hands were still on his shoulders. She could feel his rapid breath.

"I don't make you think of a box of candy now?" she murmured, and the boy covered her hand with his own.

"I don't know what you make me think of—it is bully, whatever it is!"

If the Spanish tapestry could only have reversed its idea, and if the immaculate lady, or even one of the rabbits, could have drawn a sword to protect the Green Knight, it would have been passing well. But the woven work, when it first had been embroidered, was done for ever; it was irrevocable in its mistaken idea, that it is only the woman who needs protection!

CHAPTER XIII.

The Face of Letty Lane.

As Dan went through the halls of the Carlton on his way to his rooms that same evening, the porter gave him two notes, which Dan went down into the smoking-room to read. He tore open the note bearing the Hotel Savoy on the envelope, and read:

"Dear Boy: Will you come around tonight and see me about five o'clock? Don't let anything keep you." (Letty Lane had the habit of scratching out phrases to insert others, and there was something scratched out.) "I want to talk to you about something very important. Come sure. —L. L."

Dan looked at the clock; it was after nine, and she would be at the Gaiety going on with her performance.

The other note, which he opened more slowly, was from Ruggles, and it began in just the same way as the dancer's had begun:

"Dear Boy: I have been suddenly called back to the United States. As I didn't know how to get at you, I couldn't. I had a cable that takes me right back. I get the Lusitania at Liverpool and you can send me a Marconi. Better make the first boat you can and come over.
"Joshua Ruggles."

Ruggles left no word of advice, and unconscious of this master stroke on the part of the old man, whose heart yearned for him as for his own son, Dan folded the note up and thought no more about Ruggles.

When an hour later he came out of the Carlton he was prepared for the life of the evening. He stopped at the telephone desk and sent a telegram to Ruggles on the Lusitania:

"Can't come yet awhile; am engaged to be married to the Duchess of Breakwater."

He wrote this out in full and the man at the Marconi "sat up" and smiled as he wrote. With Letty Lane's badly written note in his pocket, and wondering very much at her summons of him, Dan drove to the Gaiety, and at the end of the third act went back of the scenes. There were several people in her dressing-room. Higgins was lacing her into a white bodice and Miss Lane, before her glass, was putting the rouge on her lips.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

PHILANDER AND THE ROSE

Little Joke That Clever Women Played on a Male Flirt at Coronado Beach.

All that you have to do to bring ire to a certain stock and bond broker down among the marts of Mammon is to wear a red rose.

The stock and bond broker has a reputation of being quite a philanderer—a "devil among the wimmen," as it were. And on a recent visit to Coronado he was looking about with a view to conquest—looking about so obviously that a clever woman who was a guest at the hotel determined upon a little plan.

She dropped him a note intimating that she would like to make his acquaintance. He answered the note with celerity. He wasted no time. He asked her if she would have dinner with him in San Diego that evening.

"And, that I may know you accept," he concluded, "will you wear a red rose in the dining room at lunch time tomorrow?"

At the appointed lunch time every woman in the big dining room wore a red rose!

The stock and bond broker left Coronado on the first train. Oh, you red rose!—San Francisco Chronicle.

Literal Obedience.

Figg—Talk about green servant girls! My wife told ours to put a little nutmeg in the custard she was making this afternoon.

Fogg—And she didn't do it?

Figg—Oh, yes, she put a little nutmeg in, all right! I came near choking over the blame thing.

WHY PEOPLE GO TO CANADA

Those who are wondering why the number of Americans going to Canada year by year increases in the rates that it does, would not be so surprised were they to accompany one of the numerous excursions that are being run under the auspices of the Government from several of the states, and remain with the settler until he gets onto the free homesteads, which, as stated by Speaker Champ Clark, in the U. S. senate the other day, comprises 160 acres of the most fertile soil and with remarkably easy settlement conditions. Then watch the results, whether it be on this free homestead of 160 acres or on land which he may purchase at from $15 to $20 per acre, fully as good as the $100, and $150, [illegible] which his means will not permit his purchasing. On the part of the members of the U. S. Senate and Congress there is nothing but praise for Canada. Canadian laws and Canadian lands although the reasonable desire is shown in their remarks, that they pass legislation, (which is very praiseworthy) that will make the land laws of the United States much easier.

It is the success of the American settler in Canada that attracts others, and when experiences such as the following are related to the friend "back home" is it any wonder that increased interest is aroused and a determination arrived at, to participate in the new-found way up in Canada that means wealth and health and all that accompanies it.

William Johnston, who formerly lived at Alexandria, Minn., settled in the Alberta District near Battle River and in writing to one of the Canadian Government agents, located in the United States says: "We have had no failures of crops during our nine years in Canada. I threshed 1298 bushels of wheat and 1083 bushels of oats in 1911, off my 160 acres. This is a beautiful country. I keep six good work horses and milk seven cows, getting good prices for butter and eggs. We get our coal for $2.00 per ton at the mine, about one mile from the farm. Am about one and a half miles from a fine school. As for the cold weather it is much milder here than in Minnesota, where I lived for 21 years. Our well is 35 feet deep and we have fine water. Wild land is selling for $18 to $25 per acre. Improved farms are much higher. I am well satisfied with the country, and would not sell unless I got a big price, as we have all done well here."

Good reasons to account for the number going to Canada.

Denied the Allegation.

"You are being trodden under foot," howled the campaign orator. "You are surrounded by neurotics—there is a paranoiac standing at your very elbow, an—" "Stop right there," yelled Pat, "stop there. There's not a par—por—there's not one of thim there fellers in the whole crowd. Me and Mike don't associate with such bloomin' furriners."

Saving His Money.

Owens—Say, lend me a fiver, old man.

Bowens—If you'd save your own money you wouldn't have to borrow from your friends.

Owens—But it's because I want to save my own money that I borrow from my friends.

Shocked.

He—Well, my dear, what did the landscape gardener I sent out from town say about making the artificial lake where he wanted it?

She—He was most profane about it. He told me the site he wanted wasn't worth a dam.

In a Hurry.

Magistrate—What is the charge against the old man?

Officer—Stealing some brimstone, your honor. He was caught in the act.

Magistrate (to prisoner)—My aged friend, couldn't you have waited a few years longer?

She Knew.

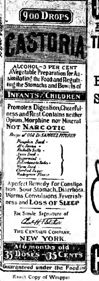
Miss Gusher—Oh, please tell me! Do you think poets have to be born?

The Poet's Wife—Yes, borne with.



900 DROPS

CASTORIA

ALCOHOL—3 PER CENT

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of INFANTS & CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

Recipe of Old Dr. SAMUEL PITCHER

Pumpkin Seed -
Alx. Senna -
Rochelle Salts -
Anise Seed -
Peppermint -
Bi Carbonate Soda -
Worm Seed -
Clarified Sugar -
Wintergreen Flavor

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP

Fac Simile Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK.

At 6 months old
35 DOSES—35 CENTS

Guaranteed under the Food and [illegible]

Exact Copy of Wrapper

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES

$2.25 $2.50 $3.00 $3.50 $4.00 & $5.00

For MEN, WOMEN and BOYS

THE STANDARD OF QUALITY FOR OVER 30 YEARS

THE NEXT TIME YOU NEED SHOES give W. L. Douglas shoes a trial. W. L. Douglas name stamped on a shoe guarantees superior quality and more value for the money than other makes. His name and price stamped on the bottom protects the wearer against high prices and inferior shoes. Insist upon having the genuine W. L. Douglas shoes. Take no substitute. If your dealer cannot supply W. L. Douglas shoes, write W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass., for catalog. Shoes sent everywhere delivery charges prepaid. Fast Color Eyelets used.

THEIR TROUBLES.

Smith—My wife can cook, but she insists on playing the piano.

Jones—Well, my wife can play the piano, but she insists on cooking.

Filipinos Dislike Autos.

The reckless and insolent automobilist is hated the world over. In the Philippines, where most of the automobilists are foreigners, and where the natives have been used to loiter comfortably in the roads after the fashion of easy going southern countries, the automobiles have long been a grievance, and, failing to secure effective regulation, the Filipinos have adopted the practice of rolling big boulders into the roadway as a hint not to turn corners at a breakneck speed.

FOR HUBBY TO PONDER OVER

Innocent Answer of Quiet Little Wife Got Him Started on Train of Thought.

The husband and wife were on their way to the theater, when the husband began kicking because his wife took such a long time dressing.

"What delayed you this time?" he growled.

"Seeing the children to bed," she responded quietly.

"What's the nurse for?" snapped the man.

"The nurse is for our convenience—yours and mine, especially mine," she answered. "But the joy certainly takes after you. He asked the same kind of a fool question just as I was kissing him good night."

"Fool question, eh? Well, what was it?"

"I asked him if he had said his prayers. And he said no. And I asked him if he didn't want God to take care of him during the night. He answered: 'What's the nurse for?'"

For the remainder of the way the man pondered on this answer.

Some Are So by Nature.

A certain young man, who prided himself on a brusqueness that he mistook for wit, met an eminent, but touchy, sculptor at a studio supper.

"So you're the chap," he said, on being introduced, "that makes mud heads?"

"Not all of them," the sculptor replied, quietly.—Youth's Companion.

Why Should a Chicken Lay a Soft-Shelled Egg?

Because, Willie, the chicken don't know how to create a hard-shelled egg unless it has some food with lime in it.

So chicken-raisers often provide limestone gravel, broken oyster shells or some other form of lime.

Let the chicken wander free and it finds its own food and behaves sensibly.

Shut it up and feed stuff lacking lime and the eggs are soft-shelled.

Let's step from chickens to human beings.

Why is a child "backward" and why does a man or woman have nervous prostration or brain-fag? There may be a variety of reasons but one thing is certain.

If the food is deficient in Phosphate of Potash the gray matter in the nerve centres and brain cannot be rebuilt each day to make good the cells broken down by the activities of yesterday.

Phosphate of Potash is the most important element Nature demands to unite albumin and water to make gray matter.

Grape-Nuts food is heavy in Phosphate of Potash in a digestible form.

A chicken can't always select its own food, but a thoughtful man can select suitable food for his children, wife and himself.

"There's a Reason" for

Grape-Nuts

Postum Cereal Company, Limited, Battle Creek, Michigan

High grass or low grass, it's all the same to COLDWELL LAWN MOWERS

You can adjust them instantly. Just turn one screw and the large cutting knife is brought to any desired angle with the bottom cutter. We guarantee every Coldwell Lawn Mower.

The experience gained in forty years of lawn-mower-making goes into its manufacture.

A "Coldwell" keeps out of the scrap heap—it's a mower without a "kick."

The Doolittle Bros. Co.
RELIABLE HARDWARE

SPRING STYLES
ARE NOW READY

for your inspection. Our values cannot be equaled elsewhere. Our line is complete of Clothing, Dry Goods, Ladies and Men's Furnishings, Notions, Boots, Shoes Etc.

M. HOROWITZ.
WICKLIFFE, OHIO. Cuy. phone 67-R
All our goods guaranteed. Prices reasonable.

Farmer's Column

FOR RENT on shares. Fine farm, 36 acres, tools, stock, etc. The F. P. Miller farm, ½ mile west North Madison, North Ridge. Must secure man by April 1st as my tenant has bought a farm and is going away. Party must furnish one horse and reference. Inquire Dr. J. R. Bell, dentist, 1414 New England Bldg., Cleveland, O.

FOR SALE—My services as auctioneer, at very reasonable terms. Roy Harrison, Painesville. Home phone 352J2.

FARMS WANTED—Large and small, either for sale or exchange for City property. We sell quick if your price is right. Joseph Sedivy & Son, 3379 E. 49th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

FOR SALE or Exchange for farm a store property with living rooms. Madison, Ohio, Lock Box 351, Madison, Ohio.

FARM HELP—We have a number of applications from good farm hands for employment on farms. Address, Joseph Sedivy & Son, 3379 E. 49th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

FOR RENT—Fine suite of 5 rooms for housekeeping. Steam heat. R. N. Whitcomb, Mentor, Ohio.

FOR SALE—Stove wood, seasoned hickory. Home phone 307L3, Painesville, Ohio.

FOR SALE—Farm suitable for stock or dairy farming, plenty of water and well timbered. Enquire of E. P. Brown, Painesville, R. F. D. 3.

NOTICE—A small ad in this column costs little, but brings quick results. Try it.

Life in Town.

One nice thing about loafing in a big town is that if a man has money enough he can get shaved twice a day without exciting comment.—Galveston News.

UNIONVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Emery Woodworth have moved into a house owned by Mr. R. S. Warner. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Adams will move into the house vacated by Mr. Woodworth.

Mr. Chas. Riley of Los Angeles has requested that his household goods which have been stored here, be sent to him.

Rev. G. A. N. Richards of Newton Falls was in town on business Wednesday.

A missionary tea was held at the home of Mrs. E. L. Morris Wednesday afternoon. About twenty attended. Dr. Lean Hitchrock of Geneva, and Mrs. McIntosh gave very interesting addresses upon the White Slave traffic.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Austin have moved from Geneva into a house here owned by Mr. Pritshan.

Mrs. Harley Grover and two daughters, Charlotte and Dorothy, of Ashtabula, are spending a few days at the home of her sister, Mrs. Geo. Olden.

Mr. John Riato of Jefferson was a guest of his sister, Mrs. Geo. Kelley, for a few days last week.

The funeral of Mr. Joseph Darrow was held at the home Thursday afternoon. Interment was made in the Unionville cemetery. Rev. W. C. Delling officiated and Capt. Harry Lyons furnished the music. Mr. Darrow is survived by his wife and five children, Mrs. J. O. Close of Girard, Pa.; E. L. Darrow and C. J. Darrow of Unionville; Mrs. M. R. Cady and Mrs. A. G. Follotte of Geneva.

Miss Edna Duncan of the Dock Road was an over-Sunday guest of her aunt, Mrs. A. M. Lapham.

Mr. Herbert Nellus and friend of Akron, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Harper.

Messrs. William and Ellis Hider spent Sunday with their mother, Mrs. Silas Pierce.

Merely Part of Machine.

A man used as a cog in a wheel ceases to be a man.—Exchange.

If you want a FLOUR that will satisfy in any kind of baking try our WHITE BEAUTY.

We have sold this brand for over fifteen years and we know it will please you.

W. M. WERNER
DRUGS, GROCERIES, CROCKERY, HOUSEFURNISHINGS

SPOILS SYSTEM USED FOR TAFT

Machine Hard at Work to Override Will of Republican Voters.

DEBAUCHERY IS THE RULE

Disgraceful Tactics Observed in Indiana, Kansas and Other States to Prevent Real Popular Expression.

Washington.—Outrages more flagrant than any that ever disgraced Republican politics have characterized the fight in behalf of the renomination of William Howard Taft to date.

The brutal force of organization, backed by the tremendous influence of the spoils system and the debauching and intimidating effects of corporation activities in politics, have produced, in a number of recent instances, results which cannot fail to arouse the general indignation of the voters everywhere.

By the sheer force of organization methods, the Taft men are seeking to override the will of the people, obviously believing that the people will submit supinely and fail to resent an open denial of their rights in their own system of government. Some of these instances make plain why the Taft supporters have so persistently and so stubbornly resisted the election of delegates by a direct vote of the people.

Kansas as Example.

This is what happened recently in Kansas. Twenty-seven members of the state committee, which is composed of one hundred and five members in all, met and refused to permit a presidential preference primary in that state—notwithstanding almost unanimous Republican sentiment for the primary—and declared in favor of the renomination of Taft. This action was effected in this way: Fifty-one members of the state committee, less than a quorum, met and without any right to transact business of any kind, held this meeting. The state committee is made up of the chairmen of the different counties who are regularly elected in primaries. Under the law, no member can give his proxy to another member. He must represent his county in person. In the meeting of the committee held twenty-four of the members present were Roosevelt men. They raised the point of no quorum, and to meet this the Taft men presented several federal office holders, not members of the committee, who presented what they claimed were proxies from absent committee members.

Playing the "Game."

These proxies were without value. Notwithstanding this, the proxy holders were seated by the Taft organization men, until a bare numerical quorum but not a legal quorum was established. Then they proceeded to take the action set forth. There was not a semblance of legality in the proceedings, yet under the circumstances the public was powerless to prevent the outrage. Its effect is to deprive the voters of Kansas of the right to choose their national delegates, and leaves the selection to the discredited bosses of a machine which was supposed to have been wrecked long ago.

Debauching Oklahoma.

Another illustration is furnished by the third district of Oklahoma. In this district when the convention assembled the Roosevelt delegates numbered 645 and the Taft delegates 170. The Taft men controlled the chairman and other officers of the district committee. When the latter found they were outnumbered they withdrew with the other 170 Taft delegates and held a convention of their own. The Roosevelt men, outnumbering the Taft supporters nearly four to one, proceeded to elect delegates pledged to support Theodore Roosevelt. The bolting minority elected two delegates pledged to Taft. Under no principle of right or justice could the Taft delegates establish the slightest claim to seats in the convention. But under the organization system, merely because the district committee was controlled through federal office holders by the Taft administration, the Taft delegates are heralded to the country as the regularly elected delegates and the men chosen by the overwhelming majority of regularly chosen district delegates and directed to support Theodore Roosevelt must appear before the national committee at Chicago as contestants.

If the national committee pursues organization methods they will be refused admittance to the convention.

Tactics in Indiana.

In the first Indiana district, where former Senator Hemenway directed the Taft forces, the Roosevelt men had fifty-two out of ninety-seven members of the convention. But here again the organization controlled the district chairman and the district committee proceeded to organize the convention in behalf of Taft, seating arbitrarily and without permitting a vote by the convention, a number of contesting Taft delegates. The Roosevelt men could not obtain recognition and could not make themselves effective except by resorting to physical force. Under these conditions they withdrew from the convention and organized one of their own and elected their delegates. Although holding a clear majority of the convention, they were forced to assume the attitude of bolters in order to escape the Taft steam roller, and the delegates they have chosen are also classed as contestants. The same methods have been pursued in other districts.

Elected by Corruption.

The plain and obvious result of these outrageous proceedings is that of the total number of delegates claimed for Taft in states where the Republican party has a fighting chance in the election, nearly all of them, if not quite all, have been illegally elected by the exercise of the worst form of corruption, that which deprives the voters themselves of any voice in the selection of men who will assume to represent them in naming a candidate for the presidency of the United States. The continuance of these methods will in a short time disclose general political conditions in the United States more startling and more abhorrent than was ever known before. It cannot fail to become evident that conscienceless men controlled by patronage, by their own greed for power and by the particular special interests they represent are engaged in a great conspiracy to steal from the American people their right of self-government. They are pursuing a rule or ruin policy, the effect of which cannot be limited to the disaster it will certainly bring to the Republican party, but will extend to the nation itself, destroying, as nothing else has done confidence in public men, in the great business institutions of the country, and in the government itself. Nothing can stop this but the aroused conscience of the voters themselves and their determination to prevent mere political manipulators, backed by money and government influence, from setting aside and overriding the real sentiment of the public.

Taft Approves Methods.

Showing how thoroughly in sympathy with these methods are the Taft managers and the president himself, the former recently made public a dispatch from E. L. Morse, one of the Taft managers in Missouri, respecting the situation in one congressional district of that state. The dispatch says: "Congressional committee which makes roll of convention is evenly divided, we controlling chairman and secretary, which will enable us to elect two Taft delegates."

Here the proposition is so plainly put that it illuminates the whole situation. The control of the chairman and secretary of the district committee, two men out of several hundred, is relied upon by the Taft forces to give them the two delegates from that district of Missouri. The Taft managers attempt no concealment of the purpose in view. They are simply determined that representative government in the United States so far as the naming of a candidate for president is concerned shall be destroyed.

THE UP-TO-DATE WE WISH TO ANNOUNCE THE THE UP-TO-DATE

Greatest Sale of Rugs and Floor Coverings Ever held in Lake County

Commencing Saturday, April 13 and Continuing Through Saturday, April 27th

Our tremendous stock of floor coverings is the largest in the county, affording almost an unlimited selection. We want you to get acquainted with our prices, the high character of the goods we carry, the enormous up-to-the-minute assortment we show, and innumerable other advantages that has placed this store in the lead.

This will be a sale without an equal. Old Records broken, New Records made incomparable Money-Saving Values that appeal irresistibly. This will be the most Sensational Price-Cutting, Money-Saving event ever known to the people in this vicinity. Prices guaranteed against any and all competition.

NOTICE. Railroad fares will be paid on all purchases amounting to $10.00 or over. All goods will be kept until wanted, with a payment of 20 per cent on same.

Eagle Stamps given with all purchases

THE UP-TO-DATE

ALL SALES STRICTLY CASH

To a Poet.

To learn poetry "for recreation" is doubtless a means of cultivating a knowledge of literature; but schoolboys sometimes regard the authors of poems learned as task-masters and personal enemies. This view is amusingly expressed in a letter found among the papers of the venerable German poet Geibel. It was written to him by some schoolboys of Lubeck, and signed, "Karl Beckmann, II. Klasse."

After stating that two boys had been flogged because they could not learn Herr Geibel's "Hope of Spring," the letter reads:

"We suppose that you did not think of such things when you wrote the poem. The Herr Lehrer says it is a very beautiful poem; but there are so many beautiful poems, and we are obliged to learn them. Therefore we beg and entreat you, esteemed Herr Geibel, make no more beautiful poems. And to make it worse we have to learn the biography of every poet, what year he was born in, and what year he died in. We write to you because you are the only poet still living, and we wish you a very long life."—The Sunday Magazine.

Newspaper Has Record for Size.

The largest newspaper in the world was the Illuminated Quadruple Constellation, which appeared in New York on independence day, 1858. Its dimensions equaled that of a billiard-table—eight feet long by six feet wide; and, strange to say for an American publication, it had no advertisements. A copy of this mammoth raw world production can be seen at the Newspaper Museum of Aix-la-Chapelle, France. Its price was fifty cents.

May Have Home in the Air.

On the analogy of the houseboat, a Manchester inventor has devised a flying machine that can be converted into a two-story cottage and made to serve the uses of a home for the aviator.

Blindness is in Mankind.

Fortune has often been blamed for our blindness; but fortune is not so blind as men are.—Samuel Smiles.

TEMPERAMENT IS ALL RIGHT

Quality the World Seems Ever Willing to Condone, but Beware of Temper.

Of the prima donna who throweth a dish of spaghetti at her butler the world saith: "She hath the artistic temperament." And of the washerwoman who scaldeth her husband with a pot of bean soup the husband's relatives saith: "She hath a devilish temper."

Cultivate temperament if thou wilt, but beware of temper. The rich man, in a burst of temper, bursteth a blood vessel and droppeth dead. The poor man getteth hot in the collar, and the collar, being celluloid, igniteth and burneth him to death. While angry at the woman he loveth, a man marryeth a woman he doth not love. And, behold, it costeth him half his fortune to regain his temper—and his freedom.

Yet temper hath its uses. It giveth a man courage to do that which he lacketh the nerve to perpetrate in cold blood. And it serveth as an admirable excuse. If he saith: "Pardon me, I have such an ungovernable temper," he is forgiven, as if he were a lunatic and not responsible.

Temper maketh Johnny to go into tantrums. And, behold, his mother announceth proudly: "Johnny is such a high-strung child. So much temperament, don't you know." Which remark Johnny often overheareth, and, being wiser than thou wouldst expect of such a mother, he stringeth her some more and himself still higher, until father steppeth in with a shingle paddle and breaketh the string.

Temper maketh madam to snap at the hand of her husband when it petteth her. And hubby, saying: "She is so nervous," putteth on a glove that his hand may not be lacerated, and caresseth her more tenderly than ever.

Temperament, like temper, is greatly overworked as an excuse. The man who defraudeth the barber and doth his best to keep the clothescleaner and presser from earning a living, pleadeth in extenuation the poetic temperament. And the one who keepeth irregular hours and worse company, and whose shirt bosom feeleth the imprint of a rouged cheek more often than the touch of a laundress' hand, attributeth his delinquencies to the Bohemian temperament. The supposed possession of a literary temperament hath led many a woman to take a course in the literature of the Italian renaissance when the needeth far worse a course of treatment by a manicurist, a modiste and a hairdresser. Verily, yea, verily, a sweet temper is more to be desired than a sweetheart, and is easier to keep.—Terrell Love Holliday, in Puck.

Out of Place.

"Why all those contortions?" "Oh, I wish I had an idea for a poem." "What do you want to put an idea into a poem for?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Secret Worth Answering.

Wouldn't you give a good deal for a waiter's secret of getting money without asking for it?—Atchison Globe.

Repentance.

The man who repents before he is found out is generally pretty sure that somebody has picked up the right clew.

ORDINANCE NO. 866.

An ordinance authorizing and directing the director of Public Service in advertising for bids for coal for use in sub-departments of water and of light.

Be it ordained by the Council of the City of Painesville, State of Ohio.

Section 1. That in accordance with Section 4328 of the General Code of Ohio the Director of Public Service be and he hereby is authorized and directed to advertise for bids for furnishing the City of Painesville with two thousand (2000) tons bituminous run of mine, three-quarter and slack coal for the sub-department of water and two thousand (2000) tons bituminous, three-quarter and slack coal for the sub-department of light of said City of Painesville.

Section 2. That the Director of Public Service be and he hereby is authorized and directed to enter into a contract for furnishing said supplies with the lowest and best bidder after advertising for not less than two weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in said City.

Section 3. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and legal publication.

Passed April 2, 1912.

ELBERT F. BLAKELY,
President of the Council.

Attest:
FRANK L. KELLY,
Clerk.

Approved
WYNNE S. SMITH,
Mayor.

When buying
Ball Band Boots
Straight Line Rubbers
Dry Goods
Notions
Ladies' or Gents'
Furnishings
Shoes, Drugs
Patent Medicines
Graniteware, Tinware
OR
Light Hardware

You Receive Quality Goods at Reasonable Rates at

Wm. F. Wollpert's
General Store
Wickliffe, O. Cuy. Phone 4-R

ORIGINAL INTERNATIONAL EVERLASTING

The Washing Machine that Really Washes Clothes Clean

THIS is the famous "Boss"—the machine with the mechanical wash-board—improved by the high speed, fly wheel attachment. Can be operated by Electric, Water or Engine Power as well as by hand. Tell us the kind you want. A child can easily run it.

The clothes are rubbed, squeezed and thoroughly washed, far better than they can be by hand. Made of everlasting Louisiana Red Cypress Wood. Order one on trial from your local dealer. Write direct to us for booklet on washday hints.

THE BOSS WASHING MACHINE CO., Norwood Station, Cincinnati, Ohio

New Spring Suits for Easter

Leopold Morse Co.'s New Styles

are in and ready for you to choose from in buying your Spring Suit. Come in and look at them.

$12.50 to $20.00

JOHN S. LOCKWOOD

Don't Be Deceived

When you want a SUCTION CLEANER get one that CLEANS the CORNERS and EDGES of the rooms; also Upholstered Furniture, Mattresses, Etc.

Electric machines do not depend on the speed of the operator for their power. We now have a neat, light and efficient machine which is greatly improved over the same make we sold last year.

CHARLES A. MILLER
Phone 148-R. PAINESVILLE, OHIO

---

The Lake County Weekly Herald

Volume XIV. No. 6 PAINESVILLE, OHIO, APRIL 18, 1912 One Dollar Per Year

A FINE TRIP

Ohio Experiment Station Will Give Boys and Girls

Who Compete in Agricultural Contests—Entries are Rapidly Rolling In—Made Possible by Lake County Fair Board

The enrollment in the Boys' and Girls Agricultural Contests conducted by the Rural Schools, Granges, County Fair Board and Lake County Y. M. C. A., are coming in fast, and will unquestionably exceed all previous records. The great feature this year is that every boy and girl who faithfully carries out the work will be absolutely sure of a splendid reward, namely a trip, absolutely free of cost, to the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station at Wooster, Ohio. This work has been made possible by the splendid cooperation of the Lake County Fair Board. In addition to this prize, which alone is worth all the effort, there will be the usual first, second and third prizes. A silver loving cup gold lined first prize and silver and bronze medals for second and third prizes respectively. There are seven contests in which the contestants will be eligible for this trip to Wooster. They are strawberry, corn, potato, onion, poultry, vegetable and cut flower contests. All boys and girls under eighteen years of age and residents of the county are eligible to enter.

In addition to above, special prizes have been offered for the following contests. Entry in these will not entitle to trip to Wooster.

Specimen Collections.
Best collection of stamps.
Best collection of native woods properly named.
Best collection of weed seeds properly named.
Best collection of photographic work. Amateur.
Best piece of mechanism.

A silver medal will be awarded as the first prize and a badge as a second prize. In all cases the collections shall be made by persons exhibiting and shall not have been shown at any previous exhibit. Those who intend to enter must have enrollment in by June 1st, 1912. These classes are open to any boy or girl under eighteen who lives in Lake County.

School Collections:

A splendid first and second prize will be awarded in each of the following groups for the best display of school work:

Primary.
Grammar.
High School.

The prize will be given to the school and not to any individual.

Domestic Science Contests.

Group I. Girls under 14 years of age.

Sewing
Best sofa pillow.
Best dressed doll.
Best piece plain sewing.
Cooking
Best plain cake.

Group II. Girls under 18 years of age.

Sewing
Best sofa pillow.
Best piece crochet.
Best piece solid embroidery.
Best piece eyelet embroidery.
Best piece cross stitch.
Best piece outline.
Best kitchen apron.
Best fancy apron.
Best piece plain sewing hand made.
Cooking
Best loaf of white bread.
Best plate of biscuits.
Best plain cake.
Best layer cake.
Best plate of doughnuts.

In each of the above a souvenir spoon engraved with event and initial of winner will be awarded as first prize. A second prize will also be awarded.

A silver loving cup will be awarded to the girl showing the best exhibit of the following collection:

Loaf of white bread.
One cake.
One pie.
Plate of doughnuts.

Suitable second and third prizes will also be awarded. These contests are open to all girl residents of Lake County who are under the age limits stated.

For further information write Secretary Lake County Y. M. C. A., Painesville, Ohio, or any member of the following Committee:

Committee

T. B. West, chairman, Perry; B. F. Aldridge, Kirtland; J. R. Adams, Unionville; Wm. Gillespie, Willoughby Twp.; J. R. Williams, Painesville; R. R. Ryall, Painesville, Sec'y Lake Co. Y. M. C. A.; A. M. Thompson, Perry; T. D. Morley, Mentor; Maurice Wood, Madison; W. N. Morley, Mentor; Frank Upham, Kirtland.

For rheumatism you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Liniment. Try it and see how quickly it gives relief. For sale by all dealers.

ABOUT PEOPLE AND PLACES

Watch the Roosevelt Club grow! There will be some of the old leaders among the "jiners" yet.

—o—

The Roosevelt vote in Illinois and Pennsylvania proves that Rev. E. Lee Howard is a mighty poor political prophet.

—o—

It looks pretty dubious for President Taft, notwithstanding the support of Squire Ned Huntington and Rev. Lee Howard.

—o—

If the country is really sincere about wanting a progressive President it should hesitate no longer about electing William Jennings Bryan.

—o—

If Teddy wins out Frank Crofoot, Wm. Ostrander, E. E. Gould, C. A. Hine and Squire Wyman will be in line for dividing up the federal patronage of Lake county.

—o—

Charles Merriman, aged 56 years, one of the best known citizens of Geauga County, and for years an extensive timber buyer, died at his home at Burton Station, Thursday, April 11th.

—o—

The Telegraph-Republican referred to the Roosevelt petitions as a "joke." Mr. Freshly, republican leader of Kirtland says it may all be a joke but it is a joke that all the republican voters of Kirtland have joined the club.

—o—

That speech of John O. Fackler, of Cleveland, at the meeting of the Roosevelt Club in this city last Saturday night was about as good a democratic speech as we ever heard. All these Roosevelt fellows are really democrats at heart and we like them.

—o—

The new civil service board organized on Saturday by electing O. H. Lowary, chairman, R. W. Henderson, secretary, and Dr. H. W. Grauel treasurer. The board will hold an examination on Saturday, April 27, for applicants to the police and fire departments.

—o—

The United Light & Power Co., purchasers of the old Commercial Electric Co's plant, will quit business in Painesville the last day of April. All users of this company's power and light have been notified to this effect. The Painesville equipment will be taken out and installed elsewhere.

—o—

In throwing his influence to the Roosevelt movement in Lake county, while the other old line politicians are sitting on the fence again proves that S. Frank Crofoot is a mighty clever fellow and that he can sniff the political pie counter when windward to the kitchen.

—o—

Where was Reynolds, Shepherd, Blakely, Nye, Osborn, Huntington and Burrows last Saturday night when the Roosevelt club was organized. Is it possible that B. Frank Crofoot is the shrewd one of the whole bunch of republican leaders. B. Frank is on the Roosevelt platform with both feet.

—o—

Dominie Frandi, a section hand on the Lake Shore railroad, was almost instantly killed on Monday morning when he stepped in front of an eastbound freight train on the Lake Shore tracks, between Owego and Richmond streets. Frandi was a resident of Storrs street and is survived by a wife and three children.

—o—

Roosevelt men in Lake county wear suggestive smiles upon their faces. The report of the big Roosevelt landslide in Pennsylvania following right on the heels of the organization of a Roosevelt club, in Painesville has increased the value of the Roosevelt stock here several points per share in the minds of the workers.

—o—

Mrs. Charles Lockwood who had an operation at the Painesville hospital three weeks ago was taken in the ambulance to her home on Railroad street Saturday. Her mother, Mrs. Ezra Williams of Geneva, is caring for her. She is doing nicely and wishes to thank her many friends for flowers and Easter post card shower.

—o—

Midnight on Saturday, April 20th, is the last minute that candidates for nomination can file their petitions with the board of elections. The petitions can be left with President R. G. Hanlington of the board of elections or Clerk C. E. Booth. It is expected that many petitions will be filed as there are many candidates for most of the offices.

—o—

Window smashing is got a new form of protest. Indeed, the London Chronicle thinks that "next to kicking a cat……it is the most elementary." There is one classical case. A negro from the West Indies hurled a brick through a window in a London store. When asked why he had done so he replied, "Because dis am a country where de sun am nebber a-shining."

RANDOM THOUGHTS

By Tom, Dick and Harry.

It is the thing out of the ordinary that makes the complexity of life. How much easier it would be to steer a steady course if everything ran in undeviating channels? As it is, how difficult!

A surgeon would be able to plat and to know the human anatomy. No anomalous veins, arteries or tissues would be there to stop his progress. How close he could get to the secret of life? But always there is the unexpected, the part out of place, the organ conformity or obeying no given law. Hence the difficulty, the interest, the complexity of every operation and the impossibility of complete mastery.

It was the thing out of the ordinary that sank the palatial Titanic in mid-ocean—that sent scores of lives back to the great unknown and converted the bottom of the great ocean into a Golconda of wealth. A ship built to defy the elements. A floating creation that personified to the last ounce man's marvelous skill. Built so that it might be cut in two from port to star board or from stern to bow and still ride the surface of the stormiest sea. It was pronounced unsinkable. And yet on her maiden trip, bearing two thousand human beings, jewels among men and women, and a nation's wealth she sank in fathoms of water. Cut neither in two nor on a stormy sea one of the exigencies of nature was her destruction. Though a master-piece in the art of ship-building which has been progressing since the creation of the world she never "made port" a single time.

We are reminded of the Biblical story of the building of the Tower of Babel. When men purposed building a tower that would reach into the blue sky above and solve the infinite, but were frustrated in their plans by a confusion of tongues. A towering wreck marked as a monument, unnumbered days of toil—the effort of a nation. How fundamentally alike to the building of the Titanic and her destruction!

What severe lessons! But thus and thus only are we taught the limitations of man.

There is one part of the letter, written for the Lake County Republican Committee by the Rev. E. Lee Howard and published in the Telegraph-Republican, with which no one can take issue. That is the first part in which he says that there are thousands standing in amazed silence while Theodore Roosevelt is trying to snatch the nomination for the presidency away from President Taft. It is amazing even, to the friends of the former president—not that he is trying to do it but the way he is doing it. When a man can get sixty-seven delegates out of seventy-six in a state where he was opposed by an unbeaten machine and had scarcely any organization to support him, it is truly amazing. Yes, amazing is the word. We say it is amazing and we say it without the fear of successful contradiction. Eh!

The rest of that long and eloquent letter, however, listens like the usual political campaign stuff, hence is open to argument. To delightful argument we might say and we sincerely wish we had the time, the place to pick it to pieces. There are some who do not relish an easy task but we do.

We would like to start right in at the first and say that we hold it to be sacrilegious to mention the name of Lincoln and Taft in the same sentence. The one with infinite confidence in the American people the other a half century later regarding the same people, plus a half century of advancement, as a rabble. How much they are not alike.

What has Taft really done to deserve a renomination? Is it because he was not acquainted with the "wiles of the mere politician" and you want to educate the man at the expense of the country? Is it because he lacked the knowledge of human nature and placed confidence in the wrong men and you think he has grown wiser? Do you think he has grown big enough to dominate his own cabinet, his friends, to say nothing of his political enemies? Is it because he has failed utterly to put through his tariff reform, the big plank on which he was elected, and you want to give him another chance. Or is reciprocity with Canada or his arbitration treaties at which you want to give him another chance? Does he deserve the nomination because he is a fine fellow and has a "fine judicial mind?" Or does he deserve it, not because of the man but because of the things for which he stands? What are they? Isn't it because he doesn't drink?

If Taft is nominated at the Chicago convention as the candidate of the Republican party and, regardless of the candidate of the opposing party, is elected President of the United States next fall, the writer will firmly believe that the age of miracles is not past but just beginning. Tell us the story of Jonah and the whale and we shall predict to you that some day a Jonah will swallow a whale and spit it up in seven days. We will strike out myth and fairy story from our vocabulary and roll a peanut from in front of the Herald office to Jerusalem.

We simply can't see anything that looks like a warrant for that article, in the dope sheet. Read it again Brother, read it again.

When a man crowds up close to the track where he can see the machines go 'round, he must expect to have a little dust kicked into his eyes. When he goes where small boys are throwing snowballs he has got to look out for his dicer. When he plays football he can be surprised if someone don't sit on his ear. When he takes a little dip into politics he is risking his feelings as well as his anatomy. If someone don't call him a liar the system isn't working right. All of which leads us to remark that people who talk a lot, ought to live in caves.

How's that for epigramatic, ragtime philosophy?

ROOSEVELT CLUB

Organized in Painesville Last Saturday Night.

The Roosevelt republicans met at Maccabees hall in Painesville Saturday night and the audience was addressed by John D. Fackler of Cleveland, progressive candidate for Congress.

Buttons and pictures were liberally distributed and a permanent organization was effected for Lake county by the election of E. E. Gould chairman and Frank Crofoot secretary of the club. Precinct committeemen will be named all over the county.

Clarence A. Hine was named as an alternate from Lake county to the republican national convention.

Reports from all over the county show that the rank and file voters of the county are overwhelmingly opposed to President Taft.

Poultry Report

The State Department of Agriculture shows the leading breeds of pure bred stock as follows:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Plymouth Rocks | 3,356 | flocks |
| Leghorns | 2,041 | " |
| Rhode Island Reds | 1,695 | " |
| Wyandottes | 903 | " |
| Orpingtons | 771 | " |
| Minorcas | 284 | " |
| Brahmas | 163 | " |
| Anconas | 101 | " |
| Langshans | 93 | " |
| Cochins | 74 | " |
| Game | 51 | " |
| Hamburgs | 30 | " |
| Bantams | 20 | " |
| Spanish | 13 | " |
| French | 12 | " |
| Andalusian | 8 | " |
| Java | 3 | " |
| Polish | 1 | " |

On Her Way.

Beginning a 1000-mile walk to Chicago, on a diet of raw food, Mrs. David Beech started from the New York Globe office at 10 a. m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Beech started the long walk without breakfast and throughout the trip she expects to dispense with the morning meal. For her two meals a day she will eat nothing but raw food, largely eggs, milk, fruit and nuts.

Mrs. Beech was confident that she would be in Chicago by June 1. Her route will take her through Painesville.

Marriage License

Lee H. Egleston, 21, Hambden, Hattie B. Brown, 20, Leroy.

Orlando A. Brumell, 20, Willoughby, Ida F. Wright, 20, Willoughby.

John Berce, 23, Painesville, Elizabeth Lariarati, 18, Painesville.

WICKLIFFE

The ladies missionary meeting was held at the Wickliffe Presbyterian church Thursday afternoon of last week. There was quite a large attendance. Mrs. Bascom was hostess.

The Thimble Club will be held at Mrs. L. Gidley's Thursday of this week.

A private dance was given by the old club at the town hall Friday night. The music was furnished by the Wallace and Pas band. After dance lunch was served.

The Literary Club will be held at Mrs. Dr. F. Stork's Wednesday afternoon this week. Mrs. Warren Vial has paper.

Mrs. Mattie Edwards has been ill for a long time. It is reported she is better now.

Miss Pauline Wilson, Alice Rudd, Newel Rockafellow, Willoughby, called on Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Davidson Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Clayman, Wickliffe, spent Saturday night and Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Peck of Willoughby.

Miss Jessie Stork, nurse from the Huron Road hospital, spent Thursday afternoon with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dr. F. Stork this town.

Mrs. Heath and son from Kirtland spent Sunday with the Ferguson family.

Mr. Charles Morris, Willoughby, spent Sunday afternoon and evening with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Morris.

Mrs. Fred Witte Cleveland, was a visitor at the Vial home Monday night.

Mrs. Kaine is spending a few days in Cleveland with friends.

WILLOUGHBY

Mrs. James Roper, who died last week in a neighboring town, was formerly well known here.

Mr. James A. McMahon left Sunday for Toronto to keep a week's engagement there.

Miss Arvilla Currel of Kingsville, spent Saturday and Sunday with her mother on Erie St.

The Brott family moved from Clarke avenue to River street the past week.

Mr. Ray C. Taft formerly of this place was in town a day or two last week.

Mr. Wade Lockwood was in Perry on business the greater part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith and family moved here from Madison the first of last week.

The K. of P.'s gave their closing dancing party at their hall Tuesday evening.

A fire alarm was turned in Thursday from the home of Mrs. Libbie Jennison. The damage was slight.

Mrs. O. E. Manville spent Saturday in Cleveland.

Mrs. Haydon of Prospect street is moving to Detroit.

Prof. S. O. Shankland went to Wooster on business Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. James McMahon spent Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Code on the Plains.

The K. of P.'s are preparing to give a play for the benefit of the lodge soon.

James Call is erecting a garage on Erie street.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Storm and friends spent Sunday in Painesville.

Mrs. Kate Mosher who has been spending several weeks with Cleveland friends has returned home.

Mrs. Perkins gave an address Thursday at the Library.

Mrs. Minnie Reese of Painesville, spent a few days with friends.

C. C. Jenkins will have a new gas well dug soon.

Mrs. Laura Edwards of Cleveland spent Saturday with her sister, Mrs. James Lyons, of River street.

The Concert given at the Methodist church Friday evening was a musical treat. Mrs. Frank Sieberling and Mrs. Landolf had charge of the entire program.

One Day Sale at S. S. Wilson's Friday, the 19th.

Miss Elizabeth Bales spent Monday in Painesville.

Mrs. Louis Merkes of Mentor spent Thursday in town.

Mr. Vaugo Lockwood and brother Wade Lockwood were in Painesville on business Monday.

NORTH MADISON

Mr. Millard Sheppard of Lorain was at home Sunday with his family.

Mrs. Eliza Twiggs, aged 78 years, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Alice Wohr on the Hubbard Road. She leaves an aged husband, her daughter and two sons of Cleveland, besides a host of other friends to mourn her loss. Her illness was of only about a week.

Mr. Griffith has recently had business at Red Bird Beach.

Thursday evening about seventy-five friends met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wort Mosley to remind Mr. Mosley it was his birthday. His exact age is not known by the writer and no doubt Mr. Mosley would not care to have it published. They came with well-filled baskets and spent a pleasant evening.

Miss Alma Graves of Cleveland was at home over Sunday.

Bert Vincent spent Sunday with Mrs. Fanny Burns.

Mrs. Mary Nye returned from Painesville Saturday where she has been spending a few days.

Miss Martha Davis of Cleveland was a guest of her parents over Sunday.

Mr. James Hill has started the erection of a new barn on his farm on the Platt Road.

Mr. and Mrs. George Haywood had business in Ashtabula Monday.

The L. A. S. met at the church parlors Thursday P. M.

H. S. Kellogg and family are now located in the Frank Beebe tenant house.

Mrs. Fannie Burns recently spent the day with Miss May Burns in town.

Mrs. Maria Lazello was surprised one evening recently by a large company of her friends stepping in upon her to remind her that she had reached another mile stone. A very sumptuous lunch was served and all had a fine time.

MADISON

Mr. A. S. Stretton who has been spending the winter in California, returned to his home in Madison the first of the week.

Mrs. Kathryn Brown and Mrs. Britton spent Tuesday in Cleveland.

Miss Ethel Williams spent Saturday in Painesville.

D. D. Smead had business in Cleveland Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Codner of Cleveland spent Thursday in town.

The Misses Sanderson of Cleveland were in town Saturday.

Whitney Bollard of Oberlin was at home over Sunday.

Prof. R. J. Crocker of Lake Erie College was in town Sunday.

Miss Myrtle Graves, representative of Empire Lyceum Bureau of Syracuse, N. Y., was an over Sunday guest of her mother, Mrs. Esther Graves.

Mr. and Mrs. Ell Brotzman have moved to their new home "The Whipple Place," on East Main St.

Miss Inn Baker, who has been caring for G. O. Griswold, returned to Painesville last week.

Mrs. Jennie Griswold, matron of the Home, after a two weeks absence visiting friends in New Jersey, is back to her duties again.

Dr. Lynn of Ashtabula was called to Madison last week to assist Dr. Good.

Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Good of Ashtabula were guests of their son and wife, Dr. and Mrs. S. D. Good, Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Good spent the winter in Florida.

Mrs. C. O. Warren and daughter, Lucile, spent Saturday with friends in Painesville.

D. L. Phelps was at the County Seat Saturday.

ROCKEFELLER FOR TAFT.

Standard Oil Magnate's Interview Illumines President's Claim to be a Progressive.

In a recent speech at Philadelphia, President Taft declared himself to be a Progressive. Colonel Roosevelt, in commenting upon that speech, has pointed out that there are no better judges of what is a real Progressive than the men who are now supporting Mr. Taft for renomination.

"Four years ago," said Colonel Roosevelt, "the Progressives supported Mr. Taft for President and he was opposed by such representatives of special privileges as Mr. Penrose of Pennsylvania, Mr. Aldrich of Rhode Island and Mr. Gallinger of New Hampshire; as Messrs. Lorimer, Cannon and McKinley of Illinois; and he was opposed by practically all the men of the stamp of Messrs. Guggenheim and Evans of Colorado, and Mr. Patrick Calhoun of San Francisco. These men were not Progressives then, and they do not pretend to be Progressives now. But, unlike the President, they know who is a Progressive and who is not. Their judgment in the matter is good. After three and a half years of association with and knowledge of the President, these and their fellows see now the President's chief supporters; and they and the men who feel and act as they do in business and in politics give him the great bulk of his strength. The President says he is a Progressive. These men know him well and have studied his actions for three years, and they regard him as being precisely the kind of Progressive whom they approve."

This gives special point to an interview given by John D. Rockefeller at his offices at 26 Broadway, New York, on October 30, 1908, just a few days before the election at which Mr. Taft was chosen to the Presidency.

Mr. Rockefeller declared that he intended to support Mr. Taft because, as he said, "I find the balance of fitness and temperament entirely on his side. The election of Mr. Taft will, I believe, make for law and order and stability of business. He is not a man, I judge, to adventure with rash experiments or to impede a return to prosperity, by advocating measures subversive of industrial progress.

"It cannot be said that the present administration (President Roosevelt's) has in any way favored the special interests to which my life has been devoted."

Mr. Rockefeller had not been at the offices of the Standard Oil Company for several years when he gave out this interview, but he regarded his declaration for Mr. Taft as of such importance that he went to the office for the special purpose of giving the interview. No one has ever accused Mr. Rockefeller of being a Progressive.

"Whenever I hear a man talking about a third presidential term as a 'menace to American institutions,'" says the Albany Sage, "I ask him confidentially what is his real objection to Roosevelt."

Recovered Courting Expenses.

A man sued another in the Liverpool (Eng.) county court for the expense of a courtship. They formed the acquaintance of two young ladies, and when the two couples went out together the plaintiff in the case paid all the expenses for the time being. The defendant married his young lady, and the plaintiff sued him for $40, his share of the courting expenses, and recovered the same.

Half a Million Animals.

There are 505,000 known species of animals, according to a paper read at the session of the American Society of Naturalists, held at Princeton, N. J.—The Argonaut.

Wise Philosophy.

When anyone has offended me, I try to raise my soul so high that the offense cannot reach it.—Descartes.

"My little son had a very severe cold. I was recommended to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and before a small bottle was finished he was as well as ever," writes Mrs. H. Silbs, 29 Dowling Street, Sydney, Australia. This remedy is for sale by all dealers.

WILLOUGHBY

Schram District

Otto and Doris Bornemann were out of school several days sick with the grip.

Ruth Boftsman of Cleveland spent her vacation with her Foss relatives at "Rose Lawn."

The Fields family who were burned out, have moved into their granary for the summer.

Our mail carrier was off his route on Monday last a week ago, on account of attending the funeral of John Oodd of Pleasant Valley.

Wilhelmina Dane of Euclid spent her vacation with her cousins, Stephen and Minnie Grover.

The Franz house which is occupied by Philip Fleck, was recently re-shingled.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Parker of Mayfield have moved onto the Frank White farm.

Parties from Wickliffe are hauling maple trees through here from the Andrew Clark farm, to be reset for shade trees.

Miss Jennie Lenty of Bishop Rd., and Miss Ruey Knaisley of Leroy were guests at "Evergreen Place" on Wednesday last.

Several of the pupils of our schools will take part in the entertainment to be given by the district schools, at Willoughby village, April 27.

Miss Freida Wieland has returned home after several weeks stay with Mrs. Ferguson of Mayfield Center.

Our schoolma'ams attended teachers' meeting at Willoughby on Saturday last. Miss Orcans also visited her parents over Sunday.

Mr. Enter met with no accident while working in a shop in Cleveland. He was taken to a hospital in the city.

The A. F. White house which is occupied by the Weiland family caught fire from a spark but it was put out before further damage was done.

CONCORD

The roads are in fine condition in most parts of the town. Farmers have made King drags and are using them to good advantage. Surely an hour or two spent in smoothing over the rough roads at this time of the year will never be missed and helps the mail carriers to wear a smile that won't come off.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Warren spent Saturday night and Sunday at B. P. Warren's, South Mentor.

An old land mark went up in smoke one evening last week. A vacant house belonging to Henry Alexander near Wilson's Corners, was burned to the ground.

Sereno Pomeroy and family spent Sunday with Mrs. Ella Radcliffe.

Otis Fenton has rented the John Anderson place on Johnny Cake ridge, and is moving there. Henry Stone will live with them.

Mrs. George Miller was home over Sunday.

L. E. Winchell of Lane spent Monday at Sidney Winchell's.

Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Warren spent Tuesday at A. C. Warren's.

Mrs. Nora Winchell visited Perry relatives last Thursday.

W. and D. Hilbish placed a car load of holstein cows on their farm Tuesday.

UNIONVILLE

Mrs. Flavia Day met with quite an accident Wednesday. She and her husband had been moving their furniture to their new house in a small express wagon and on returning she had jumped into the cart and Mr. Day, who was riding a bicycle, drew her along. When they reached home he dropped the tongue of the cart, and in some way it caught and upset, throwing her to the ground and dislocating her elbow and arm.

Mrs. Amand French is seriously ill. Mrs. Peck of Chardon has come to care for Mrs. French.

Mrs. E. L. Morris spent Friday with relatives in Ashtabula.

Mr. E. N. Warner, Mr. Clark Martin, Mrs. Fenton and Mrs. Darrow and daughter were in Jefferson on business Friday.

Mr. Emery Woodworth, Mr. Frank Hamilton, Mr. Geo. Kelley and Mr. Homer Kelsey attended the base ball game in Cleveland Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. David Hutchins of Ashtabula are visiting her mother, Mrs. Hattie Kelsey.

Mrs. Geo. Kelley spent Sunday with her sister in Ashtabula.

Benefit Claims of Moose Home

$1,000,000 a year would be spent here.

Would bring 10,000 students here.

$500,000 to be spent for buildings within first 18 months.

Postoffice receipts would be increased $500 a month.

Income of express companies in city would be increased $300 to $900 a month.

Population of city would be increased from 7,000 to 10,000.

Great educators and mechanics of United States would make their home here.

Painesville would become much better known.

Visitors from all parts of the world would come to this city.

Children of Painesville residents could finish their education in this city and be at home every night.

LAKE COUNTY HERALD
HARTER & TUTTLE, Proprietors
PAINESVILLE, OHIO

NO BEAUTY IN TYPEWRITERS

Man Who Made This Statement Meant, of Course, the Machines, Not Their Operators.

"Did you ever notice?" said a man in a party of men, "how far from beautiful all typewriters are?"

All his listeners began to protest violently.

"Hold on," he said. "I don't mean that kind. I mean the machines." There was a chorus of "Ohs" of relief, and he went on. "Now, if you will look over all the makes of writing machines you will see that beauty has been invariably sacrificed for utility, or the exigencies of machinery. Other machines are not entirely lacking in lines of beauty, but the typewriter, which is one of the most intellectual of machines, as I might say, seeing that only educated people use it, is homelier than any girl that ever pounded it.

"Several years ago one was put on the market which did have some lines of beauty, but it has dropped out of sight, from which I conclude that beauty in typewriters is not popular. Whether one could be made which would be both useful and ornamental I don't know, but I do know that no manufacturer is turning out that kind now. There is no pretty typewriter, but some are less homely than others, which counts for a little to the good, maybe."

Disquisition on Luck.

"There is no doubt that what men call bad luck is often the result of bad conduct," said Capt. Charles R. Tully of Abilene, Kan., at the New Howard. "Men suffer for violations of the moral law, but, instead of mending their ways, they rail at their ill fortune.

"Aside from this, however, I am positive that some few of the human race are favorites of fortune. One of the most prosperous men of my acquaintance won $20,000 in a lottery, and it was the foundation of a big fortune made in the mercantile business. After that one big coup he never bought another lottery ticket.

"Years ago I was in the cattle raising business, and the owner of a big ranch that adjoined mine, a capital fellow of the name of O'Brien, was, I think, the recipient of luck that was simply marvelous. Many a time when the whole surrounding country would be blistered and scorched by a long-continued drought showers would fall in O'Brien's pasture, filling the water holes and reviving the range, but not a drop would descend on mine. The truth is that I have seen it raining on his ranch while praying with anxious heart for the moisture to reach me, only to note that when the line of my pasture fence was reached the downpour would cease."

Burdened With Goodness.

Dr. J. Wesley Hill of New York, speaking at Chicago recently, illustrated his point that too much attention to one thing may work harm by a story.

"A colored Methodist preacher down south," he said, "was exhorting at a revival and declaring that 'the Lord is good and is watching us and working with us always,' and then called on Brother Johnsing to 'testify.' Mr. Johnson was attending his first meeting of the year. He had been laid up with rheumatism, his wife had died and his little farmhouse had been burned down recently. But he was willing to 'testify,' although he didn't agree fully with the preacher's remarks.

"'The Lord may be good,' he said, 'an' I guess he is, but I wish he'd quit watching me for a spell, 'cause if he don't he'll sure ruin me.'"

Pidgin English.

Several correspondents have been asking what is really "pidgin English"—for which we have demanded a dictionary. It has no connection with "pigeon." It is just the Chinese pronunciation of "business," and consists mainly of words which imply trade and the main necessaries of life. The language has many phases. In China "topside" corresponds with the Anglo-Indian "pukka" as the indispensable denotation of excellence. There should be some dictionary maker to make an amusing compilation of the "business English" which is talked and understood from China to Peru—but not in England.—London Chronicle.

Literature and Literacy.

"Yes, sir," said the shabby individual seated in an arm chair of the hotel, "I've followed literature for a living all my life, and I can't read a line."

"Followed literature for a living," repeated the stranger in the next arm chair, "and can't read a line! Quit your kidding."

"No kid about it. I peddle second hand books from a push cart."

A Doubtful Commendation.

"Have you read my latest speech?" asked the young statesman.

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum. "And there is one thing about it that I must commend. You have avoided saying anything so striking that people will remember it against you in case you want to change your mind."

The Idea.

"Time is money."

"Is it? Then, how much do you suppose has been stolen from the business community by the coal cart hold up?"

A Surmise.

"That," said the musician, "is a Stradivarius. It is worth thousands."

"H'm!" replied Mr. Cumrox, rather wearily. "I suppose music is something like the drug business. Things cost more when you call 'em by their Latin names."

Valuation.

"Politeness costs nothing," said the ready-made philosopher.

"Yes," replied Mr. Growcher. "If it had a market value there would be more of it."

1,600 MAY HAVE PERISHED WHEN TITANIC DOVE TO THE BOTTOM OF ATLANTIC OCEAN

REVISED LIST OF SURVIVORS, RECEIVED BY WIRELESS FROM LINER BRINGING PASSENGERS TO NEW YORK CITY, CONTAINS ONLY THREE HUNDRED AND NINE NAMES.

GRIEF STRICKEN RELATIVES AND FRIENDS AWAIT NEWS

Officials of White Star Line in Metropolis Describe What Happened When Huge Vessel Struck Submerged Iceberg, From Their Intimate Knowledge of Captain Smith and the Men They Knew Him to Be.

Wireless Station, Wanamaker Building, New York City.—Latest wireless bulletin received here states that the steamer Carpathia which rescued the sunken Titanic's passengers is still headed for New York. According to latest reports she has 868 survivors on board. She probably will reach New York late Thursday night or early on Friday.

Latest estimates of deaths placed the number at more than 1,300. A partial list of those saved is now being received by wireless. Many well known persons on board among them who are thought to be lost are John Jacob Astor, Major Butt, President Taft's aide; Charles M. Hays, president of the Grand Trunk railway, J. Bruce Ismay, Benjamin Guggenheim, Isadore Straus, Henry B. Harris and William Stead.

New York City.—Revised figures given out by the officials of the White Star line place the number of dead in the sinking of the liner Titanic at 1,512. It is stated that the total number of people aboard the Titanic was 2,358, comprising 1,468 passengers and a crew of 890 and that 846 are aboard the Carpathia.

New York City.—At least 1,400 and possibly 1,600 persons perished when the giant liner Titanic dove to the bottom of the Atlantic, 500 miles off Cape Race at 2:20 o'clock on the morning of April 15.

These figures represent the minimum and maximum of the estimates of loss of life made here at a late hour by newspapers, the officials of the White Star line and of other steamship companies and by independent agencies.

A revised and corrected list of the survivors, received by wireless from the liner Carpathia, which is bringing the survivors to this port, contains only 309 names. This fact has caused great anxiety among the throngs besieging the steamship and newspaper offices, as earlier reports led to the belief that many more first and second cabin passengers than that number had been saved and that there were not as many as 150 members of the crew picked up.

To the scores of grief stricken relatives and friends of those who sailed on the Titanic April 10, only this one bit of definite news is available at present.

Late messages contain nothing to indicate that any of the distinguished men who have been reported missing have been found to be alive. Scores of private messages have been sent to the Carpathia inquiring for John Jacob Astor, Isidor Straus, William T. Stead and others of the notable list have brought no tidings that they escaped.

Survivors Are in a Pitiful State.

The steamer Carpathia, carrying the survivors, will reach port Thursday night or Friday morning. Her captain reports that she is making all speed possible and at a late hour asked that special docking arrangements be made. All these arrangements have been completed. Orders have been received from Washington to waive all customs regulations, and similarly the port officers will not detain the ship at quarantine. The Carpathia will be given the right of way over all other ships bound in and will proceed directly to her dock at the Cunard piers.

She will be met by the scout cruiser Chester, commanded by Benton C. Decker, now at Newport. The navy department has ordered the Chester to get in wireless communication with the Carpathia and proceed toward her with all possible speed. The Chester, which has an excellent wireless station on board, will attempt to disseminate press matter for the newspapers of the country.

From what can be learned, many of those who came through the harrowing scenes of the wreck are in a pitiful state. Most of them had retired and were forced to leave the vessel in their night garments. Then for eight hours they were buffeted about in the sea of ice. Exposed to the icy blasts of the ocean they drifted in the small life boats and saw the great ocean palace, with its wonderful illumination, slowly sink, carrying with it the husbands, fathers, brothers and sweethearts to whom they had said a last farewell.

Officials of the White Star line graphically described what happened when the vessel struck the submerged iceberg from their intimate knowledge of Captain Smith and the man they knew him to be.

When the ship struck, stopped and vibrated with the terrific pounding of her engines—engines that were powerless in a path obstructed by nature—Captain Smith's first thought was for the safety of the human lives entrusted to his care. He immediately ordered all hands on deck. That all did not answer the summons and that many of those occupying forward cabins were killed by the impact is regarded as certain.

Then followed moments of fearful terror. Half-clad men and women, too frightened and stunned probably to cry out, clinging to each other and shrinking from the spectacle of the towering spectre-like iceberg above them, the gnashing of the detached floes of ice against the sides of the ship, the grinding of the steel prow of the entrapped monster as the reversed engines throbbed frantically to extricate her.

But the crew, if the men performed true to the records which recommended them for service on the new leviathan, alert to the commands of their venerable commander, who stood in his place on the bridge, took their place at the rails to guard against any insane attempts to escape. When it was seen that the vessel might sink the order came to lower the lifeboats. There was no time to find warm wraps, no time to collect valuables—scarcely time for the pitiful farewells.

Women and Children Rescued First.

It was not necessary to invoke the unwritten law of the seas of "women first" if man acted in this crisis as he has done from time immemorial on land and sea. Women and children were taken from husbands and fathers, placed in the boats and then lowered away over the towering sides of the doomed ship into impenetrable darkness, with only men enough among them to man the craft.

What deeds of heroism were enacted in this hour of peril will never all be known, some of them will be told when the few eye witnesses are brought home by the Carpathia.

Some one will probably tell of the divine devotion of Mrs. Isidor Straus, who is reported as among the missing. It is also reported that Mr. Straus has perished. As the women were given the first opportunity to leave the ship, the fact that Mrs. Straus is not among the reported rescued, it is inferred by her friends that she preferred death to parting from her husband. Her age was such that even among the women she would be given choice before the younger ones.

How long the lifeboats drifted in the open seas before the Titanic took her fatal plunge cannot be conjectured. Indeed it is not certain that she sank while the crew were yet engaged in lowering the lifeboats. No doubt many men took their chances with the deep as they felt the vessel sinking, leaped to the sea with some object which they thought might support them in the water, but sober senses told them that this was futile. The suction of the great ship was so powerful that she was a menace even to boats large enough to ply the seas. The mighty plunge came and the horrors of those few brief hours were past for the brave souls aboard—passed for the one man who could have fittingly described such a terrible spectacle. That was the venerable William T. Stead, accounted the most famous journalist of the day.

The hours that followed for those tossing about on the swells were hours of intense suffering and anxiety. For hours they strained their eyes for the vessels that they knew had been spoken to. As a consequence of this harrowing experience many women are returning to their homes mentally and physically broken. There is but one physician on the Carpathia and women accustomed to the utmost ease and luxury are returning in the steerage, scantily clothed, dazed by the ordeal through which they have passed, caring for themselves as best they can. While lifeboats drifted, the hunt was going on away to the north in the neighborhood of the position first given by the Titanic. Eyes were strained to penetrate the darkness for the first faint glimmer of the lights on an approaching ship, but it was not until day began to break that the smoke of the tall Carpathia appeared on the horizon. But she was too late to prevent the appalling wreck. Nature had chosen to mock man's boasts of conquest and achieved her purpose.

REVIEWS ERDMAN ACT OPERATIONS

COMMISSIONER NEILL DISCUSSES EFFECT OF ARBITRATION IN LABOR CONTROVERSIES

Washington, D. C.—Conciliation and arbitration in labor controversies forms the subject of bulletin No. 98 soon to be issued by the bureau of labor, department of commerce and labor. Recent experience in this and in a number of foreign countries under various plans is presented in a series of articles. Commissioner Charles P. Neill discusses "Mediation and Arbitration of Railway Labor Disputes in the United States Under the Erdman Act," in the first official report upon this subject.

The federal law known as the Erdman act, which provides for the mediation and arbitration of controversies affecting railways and their employes engaged in interstate train service, has now been on the statute books of the United States for more than 13 years. During the first eight and one half years following the enactment of the law in June, 1898, one attempt only was made to utilize its provisions. This attempt, which was made within a year after the passage of the law, proved entirely fruitless. During the past five years the provisions of the law have been invoked in nearly 60 different controversies. During that period its provisions have been invoked with increasing frequency, and from the middle of 1908 to the present time there has been only one period as long as three months during which the mediators have not been called upon to act in some pending controversy.

The controversies which have been brought before the mediators have ranged in importance all the way from a few instances of small roads involving less than 100 miles of line and fewer than 100 employes, up to cases of exceptional magnitude embracing over 60 roads.

RAPS TRUST OFFICIALS

POMERENE SPEAKS IN FAVOR OF HIS RESOLUTION.

Buckeye Senator Denounces Big Guns of Standard Oil and American Tobacco Companies.

Washington, D. C.—Officials of the dissolved Standard Oil and American Tobacco companies were denounced in scathing terms on the floor of the senate by Senator Pomerene of Ohio, who spoke in behalf of a resolution introduced by himself, urging that congress go on record as demanding the criminal prosecution of those officials and prison sentence if convicted.

"It ought not be said of any just government," said the senator, "that the rich are favored before the law, while the poor are unprotected. Examination of the opinions of the supreme court in these cases will convince any fair-minded man that the court is of the opinion that those two companies knowingly, deliberately and defiantly violated the law. What excuse can be given for the failure to prosecute officials of those two corporations who have violated the law of the land? It was not a case of the uncertainty of the law, but of open defiance of it. They drove the price of raw materials down to suit their own convenience, and increased the price to the consumer at will. Out of a pooling agreement of Kentucky tobacco growers came the conviction of eight or ten growers who were fined in the aggregate $3,500. In the meantime the men who organized the American Tobacco trust built up an enormous property worth $300,000,000 in stocks, bonds and physical assets. I don't see why the tobacco growers, who were forced to combine for self-protection against the tobacco trust, should be punished, while the officials of the trust go free. The price movements of stocks since the dissolution of these two trusts shows what has been done. It shows how the rich stock jobbers and trust magnates have manipulated to the advantage of their pocketbook."

WHITE STAR LINER TITANIC

Gigantic Steamship, Which Collided With an Iceberg and Sank Off the Banks of Newfoundland While on Her Initial Trip.

LIST OF TITANIC SURVIVORS ON BOARD CARPATHIA

Cape Race, N. F.—Following is the revised list of survivors of the Titanic on board of Carpathia bound for New York:

Harry Anderson
Miss E. W. Allen
Mrs. E. E. Appelton
Mrs. John Jacob Astor and maid
A. H. Barkworth
Mrs. James Baxter
Georgia Brayton
Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Beckwith
Karl H. Behor
Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Bishop
Henry Blank
Miss Caroline Bonnell
Miss G. C. Bowen
Miss Elsie Bowerman
Mrs. J. M. Brown
Mrs. J. J. Brown
E. P. Calderhead
Mrs. Churchill Cardell
Mrs. J. W. Cardeza
Thomas Cardeza
Mrs. Lucile Carter
Mrs. William E. Carter
Master William Carter
Howard B. Case
Mrs. T. W. Cavendish and maid
Mrs. H. F. Chafee
Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Chambers
Miss Gladys Cherry
Paul Chevre
Mrs. E. D. Crosby
Mrs. Crosby
Robert W. Daniel
Mrs. Thornton Davidson
Mrs. Dettlersk
Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Dick
Mr. and Mrs. Washington Dodge & son
Mr. Frederick Douglas
Mrs. Walter Douglas
J. J. Flynn
Mrs. Mark Fortune
Miss Lucille Fortune
Miss Alice Fortune
Dr. and Mrs. Frauenthal
Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Frauenthal
Miss Margaret Frolicher
Mrs. Jacques Futrelle
Mrs. Leonard Gibson
Miss Dorothy Gibson
Mrs. Samuel Goldenberg
Miss Ella Goldenberg
Sir and Lady Cosmo Duff Gordon
Col. Archibald Gracie
Mr. Graham
Miss Margaret E. Graham
Mrs. Lee D. Greenfield
Mr. William B. Greenfield
Mrs. William Graham
Henry Harmer
Mr. and Mrs. George A. Harder
Henry S. Harper and man servant
Mrs. Henry S. Harper
Henry J. Hawkesford
Mrs. Charles M. Hayes and daughter
Mrs. Henry B. Harris
Miss Jean Hippach
Mrs. John C. Hogeboom
Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Hoyt
J. Bruce Ismay
Mrs. A. F. Leader
Mrs. Ernest Lines
Miss Mary C. Lines
Miss G. F. Longley
Miss Georgetta A. Madill
Pierre Marschal
Mrs. D. W. Mervine
Mrs. W. E. Minnehan
Miss Daisy Minnehan
Miss Madeline Newell
Miss Marjorie Newell
Miss Helen Newsome
E. C. Ostby
Miss Helen R. Ostby
Mr. E. Ormond
Major Arthur Peuchen
Mrs. Thomas P. Potter, Jr.
Mrs. George Rheims
Mrs. Edward S. Robert
I. Roymano
Miss Edith Rosebaum
Mrs. Martin Rothschild
Countess of Rothes
Adolphe Saalfeld
Abraham Salaman
Mrs. P. Schabbert
Frederick Seward
Mrs. W. M. D. Silver
Col. Alfonse Simonius
William T. Sloper
Mr. and Mrs. John Snyder
Mrs. W. A. Spencer and maid
Dr. Max Stahelin
Mr. and Mrs. C. E. H. Stengel
Mrs. George M. Stone
Mrs. Frederick J. Swift
Miss Ruth Taussig
Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Taylor
Gilbert M. Tucker
Mrs. F. M. Warren
Mrs. J. Stuart White
Miss Mary Wick
Mrs. George D. Widener and maid
Miss Constance Willard
Hugh Woolner
Miss Mary Young
Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Thayer
Mrs. Ida S. Hippach
Mrs. Walter Clarke
Mrs. John B. Cummings
J. Spencer Silverthorne

Among the survivors (whether first or second cabin is not known) whose names do not appear on passenger list are:

Edith Brown
F. W. Brown
William Charlton
Renardo Camarcion
Miss H. Driscoll
Miss Ellen Formery
Mrs. Mary Gerrior
Miss Norah Healy
Mrs. Jennie Hanson
Miss Annie McGowan
Miss Lelia Minderson
Mrs. Florence Marc
Miss Rose Pinsky
Mrs. William S. Kelley
Mrs. Jessie Front
Karl Barrett
Miss A. Bassma
Miss Bessette
Mrs. G. M. Burns
Mrs. William Bucknell
Mrs. H. Cuschere
Miss Victorine Chambsin
Miss Sarah Daniel
Miss Dessette
Alfred Drauchenstel
Phillip Emock
Miss Francatell
Miss Antoinette Elegpelm
James Ghogel
Mrs. Alexander Malversen
Mark Haussig
Henry Romer
Miss Roberta Maimy
Madame Mellcard
Olive Middler
Miss Bertha Lavery
Gustav Lesuer
Miss N. Panhart
Mrs. Mahan
J. Rongo
Miss Appleranell
Miss August Seupera
Robert D. Shaddell
R. H. Steffanson
Miss Emma Segesser
Mrs. P. Smith
Miss Hilda Slater
Robert D. Shadell
Mrs. Lucien Smith
Miss Emma Ward
Miss Ella Thor
Mrs. Fiker and maid
Mrs. Osby
W. E. Carter
Mrs. Boulton Earnshaw
Miss Caroline Endres

Of the second class passengers the following were saved:

William Angle
Hanna Abelson
Ada R. Ball
Miss Kate Bliss
Edward Beane
Miss Ethel Beane
Miss Dagmar Bryhl
Mrs. Carolina Bystrom
Mrs. Charlotte Collier
Miss Marjorie Carriter
Mrs. Alice Christy
Miss Julia Christy
Mrs. Ada M. Clarke
Miss Cameron
Mrs. Stuart Collet
Alberton Caldwell
Mrs. Sylvia Caldwell
Alden G. Caldwell
Mrs. Lola Drew
Miss Agnes Davis
John M. Davis
Florentina Duran
Asuncion Duran
Miss Mary Davis
Mrs. Ada Doling
Miss Elsie Doling
Mrs. Lizzie Faunthrope
Miss Ethel Garside
Miss Mary D. Hewlett
George Harris
Mrs. Jane Herman
Miss Kate Herman
Miss Alice Herman
Miss Annie Hold
Mrs. Esther Hart
Miss Eva Hart
Miss Nina Harper
Anna Hamalainer and son
Mrs. Elizabeth Hocking
Miss Nellie Hocking
Mrs. Amie Jacobsohn
Miss Nora Keane
Miss Fannie Kelly
Miss Louis Laroche
Miss Jessie W. Leitch
Mrs. Lanore
Mrs. Alice Touch
Miss Bertha Lehman
Mrs. Elizabeth Mellinger and child
Mrs. A. Mallet
Master R. E. Mallet
Mrs. Elizabeth Nye
Miss Alice Phillips
Emilie Pallas
Julian Padro
Mrs. L. Parin
Mrs. Emile Portaluphi
Mrs. Jane Quick
Miss Phillips Quick
Mrs. Lillie Rebouf
Mrs. Lucy Ridsdale
Miss Emily Rugg
Mr. and Mrs. Emile Richardson
Miss Maude Sincock
Mrs. Marion Smith
Miss Edna Trout
Mrs. Matilda Weiss
Miss Susan Webber
Miss Marion Wright
Miss Bessie Watt
Miss Bertha Watt
Mrs. West and two children
Mrs. Addie Wells
Miss J. Wells
Ralph Wells
Charles Williams

OHIOANS DROWN AS LINER SINKS

ELEVEN ARE NAMED IN LIST OF THOSE BELIEVED TO BE LOST IN TITANIC DISASTER.

OTHERS REPORTED AS SAFE

Thirty-seven Persons Are Known to Have Been Bound for Buckeye Cities and Towns When Palatial Boat Founders.

BELIEVED DROWNED.

W. F. Hoyt, Cleveland.
Ernest Crease, Cleveland.
Roland Stanley, Dorset, England, Albert Stanley's brother, Cleveland.
Henry Rouse, Cleveland.
Mr. and Mrs. George O. Wick, Youngstown.
Richard Otter, Middleburg township.
Herbert F. Chaffee, Brecksville, O.
Henry Mitchell, Guernsey Islands, England, brother of Mrs. Anna Jeffrey, Toledo.
Brother of William Witt, Conneaut.
Miss Catherine Gowan, formerly of Cleveland.
George Hocking, Akron.
Mrs. John Sibley, Akron.
Mrs. Elizabeth Hocking and daughter Nellie, Akron.
Mrs. A. H. Wells and two children, Akron.
Mr. and Mrs. William Rickards and son.
Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Beckwith, Columbus.
Miss Helen Newsome, Mrs. Beckwith's daughter.

REPORTED SAVED.

Mrs. Bowerman-Chibnall, guest of T. W. Guthrie, Cleveland.
Miss Elsie Bowerman, her daughter, Cleveland.
Miss Elizabeth Bonnell, sister of William F. Bonnell, Cleveland.
Miss Caroline Bonnell, Youngstown, her niece.
Miss Natalie Wick, Youngstown.
Mrs. Herbert F. Chaffee, Brecksville.
Mrs. George M. Stone, Cincinnati.
Mrs. A. O. Becker and three children, Springfield.
Mrs. J. C. Hageboom, Newark.
Mrs. Carl Weisand, her cousin.
Miss K. Andrew, her aunt.

***

Cleveland, O.—Among the many cities of two continents that are stunned at the loss of their people in the wreck of the Titanic, Cleveland has a place. Among the bodies in the depths in which the Titanic foundered are relatives and friends destined for Cleveland homes.

Some of them will come to tell the tales of the tragedy, the night when the giant liner and giant iceberg met, the fearsomeness of their plight adrift on the ocean and to tell of the most stupendous event of all, the steady settling and final downward plunge of the biggest ship ever launched, with hundreds of her people. Some will come to tell these things. Others will remain in the press of the Atlantic deeps.

Thirty-seven persons are known to have been bound for Cleveland and other Ohio cities and towns. Twenty-six of them are reported safe aboard the Carpathia—14 women and six children and two men. Of the others no real hope is maintained. All but one of them are men.

VESSEL WAS FLOATING PALACE

Titanic, Fifteen Stories High, Able to Accommodate 4,200 Passengers and Employes.

New York City.—The Titanic was the largest ship afloat. She was nearly 1,000 tons greater than her sister ship, the Olympic, and like her, was 100 feet longer than their next rivals. She was 882½ feet long, 92½ feet in the beam and 94 feet deep. She was of the 46,000 tons register and had a displacement of 66,000 tons. At the same time, she was a floating marvel of luxury and carried literally a townful of people.

The Titanic was 15 stories high. The floors were named the bottom, double bottom, bed plates, lower orlop, orlop lower, middle, main saloon, upper, promenade, upper promenade, boat and sun decks and extra compass platform.

With officers and crew numbering 860, the Titanic was capable of carrying 3,000 to 3,500 passengers—cabin and steerage. She was built to be the last word in size, speed, power and sea luxury and it would take a powerful imagination to conceive the magnificence and detail for comfort, luxury and pastime on the great ship. Its exterior more closely resembles a huge hotel, with heavy balustraded, wide stairways, elevators running up and down for nine stories, its great saloons and restaurants, its miniature theater, squash and tennis courts, swimming pools and Turkish bath rooms, its great smoking room, card rooms and beautiful music rooms.

Dies in Burning House.

Alliance, O.—Mrs. Malinda Grimes, aged 67, an invalid for many years, frightened by an electrical storm, arose from bed and lighted a lamp. A clap of thunder caused her to drop it, and it set the house afire. Her son Richard, aroused by her screams, found her in flames. After trying in vain to carry her out, he ran to call his father and three other persons in the house to assist him. When he got back to the room in which his mother had fallen it was a seething furnace, and he couldn't approach her.

Three Die in Trolley Wreck.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—Three were killed and 15 injured in a wreck on the Detroit United Railway at Lima Center, half way between Ann Arbor and Chelsea. The injured were rushed to the University hospital in this city. Reports received here state that the limited car, due here from Jackson, jumped the track at the foot of a steep hill. A number of the passengers injured cannot live, according to physicians. Two special cars loaded with physicians were sent to the scene of the wreck.

125,000 AMERICANS GO TO CANADA IN 1911

THE YEAR 1912 WILL SHOW A GREAT INCREASE.

In a report of the House Committee (Washington) appears the following: "Canada offers a three-year homestead upon good land, easily reclaimed and cultivated, with six months' leave of absence each year and most lenient regulations."

All of which is true and it is now the part of the careful reader to consider the opportunities that exist in Western Canada which, in addition to the above, are attractive features. The evidence of these is found in the letters contributed by some of the settlers. For instance: A former Minnesotan, writing from Warner, Southern Alberta, speaks of that district, but what he says applies generally to all of Southern Alberta. He says:

"I have seen six crops, four of them were first class, one of them a very good crop, and the other a poor crop. Government statistics for the last fifteen years show that this country has averaged about fifteen or sixteen inches of moisture. In 1910 there was only seven inches, and in 1911 twenty-two inches. The 1909 crop was about as good as I have seen in this country and we had about twelve inches of moisture, so that I am thoroughly convinced that with normal conditions, that is, from twelve to fifteen inches of moisture, and with the natural increase of population and immigration, that Southern Alberta will be one of the very best mixed farming districts in the world. We have good soil, good water, and a good climate, and altogether just as desirable a country to live in as Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, or Wisconsin."

Hundreds of letters are on file from former American settlers, which give good reasons why the Western Canada lands are being settled so rapidly. Full particulars can be had of any Canadian Government Agent, who will furnish literature and give low rate certificates. Excursions are being run daily.

NOT HIM.

Preacher—Here, stop fighting, little boy.

Little Boy—What, stop, and my girl standing on the corner eyeing me! Not on your life! She'd think I was a quitter.

PIMPLES ON FACE 3 YEARS

"I was troubled with acne for three long years. My face was the only part affected, but it caused great disfigurement, also suffering and loss of sleep. At first there appeared red, hard pimples which later contained white matter. I suffered a great deal caused by the itching. I was in a state of perplexity when walking the streets or anywhere before the public.

"I used pills and other remedies but they failed completely. I thought of giving up when nothing would help, but something told me to try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for a Cuticura Booklet which I read carefully. Then I bought some Cuticura Soap and Ointment and by following the directions I was relieved in a few days. I used Cuticura Soap for washing my face, and applied the Cuticura Ointment morning and evening. This treatment brought marvelous results so I continued with it for a few weeks and was cured completely. I can truthfully say that the Cuticura Remedies are not only all, but more than they claim to be." (Signed) G. Baumel, 1015 W. 20th Place, Chicago, Ill., May 28, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

If Not Better.

Copy Reader—Say, this line, "In the Clutches of a Loan Shark," is a few letters too long. How shall I change it?

Night Editor—Perhaps the word "jaws" will convey the idea just as well as "clutches."

Always remember to be a gentleman—unless you are a woman.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS
Your druggist will refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

I O U are vowels that have caused many a man's downfall.

"Pink Eye" is Epidemic in the Spring. Try Murine Eye Remedy for Reliable Relief.

If a girl really wants a man's love she returns it.

Since it is worth while to be well, take Garfield Tea, Nature's Medicine.

The deserving poor do not always deserve to be.

TWO WEEKS' TREATMENT AND MEDICINE FREE

no matter what your disease. If you suffer from Rheumatism, write. If you suffer from Kidney Trouble, write. No matter what you suffer from, write to

MUNYON'S DOCTORS
53d and Jefferson Sts., Philadelphia, Pa.

NOT A PENNY TO PAY
Offer is Good for the Next Thirty Days

---

Our Most Useful Holiday

PALM TREES IN THE SOUTH

A SHADED ROAD IN THE WEST

TANGIBLE RESULTS OF "ARBOR DAY" IN THE WEST

A SOUTHERN GRAPE VINE SEVEN FEET IN CIRCUMFERENCE

SCENE OF LUTHER BURBANK'S EXPERIMENTS

It is but natural that the people of the United States should take an especial interest in Arbor Day, because Arbor Day has been from the outset a distinctly American holiday. Year by year it has come to have a more and more general observance. All over this country and in parts of Canada this interesting annual occasion receives, each successive year, an increasing amount of attention from the public. It has also become the custom in later years for the president of the United States to issue a proclamation to the school children urging them to devote the day not only to special exercises but also to actual tree planting.

Nor is it difficult to discover the main cause of this growing attention to the observance of Arbor Day. It lies in a deepening realization of the importance of trees to us as a nation. The American people have suddenly awakened to the fact that not only is the lumber supply of the country being exhausted at a dangerously rapid rate, with no prospect of replenishing, but, worse yet, the wanton waste of our forests has a sequel in climatic changes that may mean hardship for many citizens of the republic. Indeed, some experts go so far as to attribute to this cause the terrific heat of last summer and the approximately exceptional cold of the past winter.

"Tree Day" would be quite as appropriate a name as Arbor Day for the spring holiday and a notable feature of its observance in the average community consists in the planting of trees and shrubs along roadsides and in other suitable places. In some instances the work devolves, by decree of time-honored custom, upon magistrates, local officials or public-spirited citizens, but for the most part it is in the hands of the teachers and pupils of public and private schools. It is not too much to say that Arbor Day, like several other of the spring festivals, is primarily a young people's holiday.

For all that most communities observe Arbor Day in April, the fact remains that it is a movable festival, and there are some sections of the country where, owing to the climate, it is desirable to have the tree planting exercises at some other time of year. In a majority of our states the date for Arbor Day is either selected by the state legislature or by the governor of the state acting under legislative authority. Usually, superintendents of schools supplement the gubernatorial proclamations on the subject of Arbor Day by the issuance of open letters bearing upon the aim and object of the holiday and with due reference to the lessons it teaches.

The state of Nebraska gets credit for originating Arbor Day, for it was the pioneer in what has become a national movement. The individual who was the original author of the scheme was none other than Mr. J. Sterling Morton, who afterward became Secretary of Agriculture in the Cabinet of President Cleveland during the latter's second term in the White House. It was in 1872 that Mr. Morton conceived the idea of this unique holiday and he forthwith introduced before the Nebraska State Board of Agriculture, of which he was a member, a resolution setting apart April 10 of that year as "tree planting day."

The legislature finally adopted the resolution as proposed by Mr. Morton, although some of his colleagues thought that "Sylvan Day" would be a better title for the newly-created festival, and there is a portion of the public that inclines to this belief today. The new scheme proved an emphatic success and more than one million trees were planted throughout Nebraska on that first Arbor Day. Not only were the children of the public schools interested from the outset, but individuals and local societies of various kinds participated. This was due in part, no doubt, to the fact that the Nebraska State Board of Agriculture, which created the holiday, offered a prize of one hundred dollars to the agricultural society of that county which planted properly the largest number of trees, and provided a farm library and a purse of twenty-five dollars for the person who planted the largest number of trees.

The next year Arbor Day was observed throughout Nebraska with increasing enthusiasm and in 1874 the governor, by official proclamation, designated the second Wednesday of April as Arbor Day for Nebraska. In 1885, when the legislature of the state formally designated Arbor Day as a holiday the date was changed to April 22. If Nebraska can be taken as an example, the influence of Arbor Day is certainly most beneficial and the only pity is that other states could not have placed the holiday on their official calendars as early as did Nebraska. Statistics show that in a period of sixteen years following the date on which Farmer Morton secured the adoption of the Arbor Day project a total of three hundred and fifty million trees and vines were planted in Nebraska as the direct outcome of this movement.

The first states to follow the example of Nebraska in adopting Arbor Day were Michigan and Minnesota, which took action in 1876. Thereafter there followed a steady procession of other states, the legislatures of which became converts to the popular idea. In 1887 the movement took root in Canada, the Educational Department of Ontario setting apart a day on which the trustees of every rural school and incorporated village were desired to plant shade trees and make flower beds. Oddly enough, the State of New York did not fall into line in this movement until the year 1888, but when the state legislature did take up the matter it enacted very explicit legislation, prescribing for exercises in the public schools tending to encourage the planting, protection and preservation of trees and shrubs.

Thus far only one foreign country has adopted the American holiday known as Arbor Day. The nation that has paid us this compliment of imitation is Spain, but in the land of the Dons the festival is known as Festa del Arbol, meaning the Fete of the Tree. The Spanish holiday was inaugurated in 1896 and is celebrated earlier than in this country—namely, on March 28. On the first Tree Day in Spain the young King Alfonso with the queen regent and the ladies of the court proceeded to grounds situated near the village of Hortazela, some two miles distant from Madrid. Here the king planted a pine sapling and two thousand children selected from the schools of Madrid, immediately followed his example. Then gold medals commemorative of the event and duly inscribed with the date were distributed among the youthful tree planters. Although only Spain has actually copied the Yankee customs of Arbor Day, several other countries, notably France, Great Britain, Japan and New Zealand, have holidays that are very similar to our tree-planting festival.

It is probable that very few of the children who plant trees or assist in planting trees on Arbor Day realize that the United States government maintains a big institution the primary purpose of which is not merely to encourage but actually to carry on tree planting. This establishment, for the employes of which every day in the year is Arbor Day, is known as the Division of Silviculture and is a branch of the U. S. Forest Service. In the average year Uncle Sam's official tree planters set out upwards of half a million trees, most of them located in the national forests. Moreover, not only does Uncle Sam maintain his own nurseries as a source of supply for his perpetual tree planting campaign, but he also aids private owners who desire to set out trees on their property. Finally, Uncle Sam is conducting valuable experiments in nursery operations and planting work in co-operation with nine different universities and state agricultural experiment stations. The object of these experiments is to ascertain what species are best adapted to different regions and to improve methods of planting and cultivation.

Hurt Her Womanly Dignity

Fair American Would Not "Stand for" Time-Honored Custom of House of Lords.

"At his wife's behest, a travel-stained American whom I met in London wrote innumerable letters and made six different trips to the American embassy to secure a ticket admitting them to the House of Lords," said the traveler. "Even when backed up by an embassy, gaining admission to the House of Lords is no trivial performance. Through historic halls and lobbies and up staircases guarded by policemen the applicant makes his halting progress until the door of the lords is reached, where he sits cooling his heels for another ten minutes while the seal-bedecked doorkeeper without and the Black Rod within debate the genuineness of his credentials. After an interval which strained the Americans' patience to the breaking point they were ushered into the august chamber, where the woman was given a seat in a little back pew on the main floor, while the man was accorded the privilege of standing behind her. Once inside the hall, the man's political instinct asserted itself, and he became deeply interested in the debate, but, to his dismay, his wife got up after about five minutes and said:

"'Come on. I can't stand this.'

"Wonderingly he followed her into the lobby. 'What on earth is the matter?' he asked.

"'Matter?' she said. 'Just look at those men. They've got their hats on. You don't suppose I am going to stay any place where men keep their hats on in my presence, do you? I've never been used to it at home, and I shan't get used to it here.'

"With one regretful look backward at the noble earl who then held the floor, the man said, 'Very well,' and humbly accompanied her home."

Oath of Sentimentality.

Of John Grier Hibben, the new president of Princeton, a Peoria man said the other day: "Hibben had a keen intellect. Hence I'm not surprised at his success. Why, his fine, strong mind, his hatred of sentimentality and gush, were remarkable even in his boyhood here in Peoria.

"As a boy I was rather a gusher myself. I once went to a matinee with Hibben. The play was one of Daly's—a sentimental piece—and in the second act I began to blubber. Miss Rehan spoke beautifully her silly, sentimental lines, and big tears flowed, one after another, from my eyes.

"'Why, you're crying,' whispered Hibben.

"'Well,' said I, 'in a play as sad as this I ain't ashamed to show a little feeling.'

"'Feeling?' Hibben looked at my wet and teary cheeks. 'Oh,' he said, 'feeling is all right, but you don't need to wash your face in it.'"

Make it easier for your fat friends by calling them portly.

Wants a Rational Calendar

British Columbia Man Boldly Asserts That He Can Improve on the Present One.

The calendar and the hours of the day seem to most of us almost like part of the natural and immutable order of things, and however much trouble the present indefensible system caused, men have felt that it was almost impious—to suggest a change in it. "Give us back our eleven days!" cried the mob when the Gregorian calendar was introduced into Great Britain. From the days of Julius Caesar to our own he has been a bold reformer indeed who would suggest changes in the disorderly procession of months. Now enters Moses B. Cotsworth of Victoria, B. C., with a proposal for a rational calendar. He would divide the year into thirteen months, each of twenty-eight days, which would leave one extra day in the year, and this he beautifully plans as a free day for every one—free from interest charges on money, the necessity of work, the wage scale, etc. Then each month would commence on Sunday, and the first, eighth, fifteenth and twenty-second days of each month would be Sundays. President Hadley of Yale is quoted as saying that the month of four weeks "will come as a commercial necessity." The adjustment to the change would be very small compared to that necessitated when standard time was introduced on transcontinental railways. Mr. Cotsworth has literature to distribute, poking fun at the present system. If he wins, school children need no longer learn "Thirty days hath September."—Medical Journal.

Women need not be beautiful every day of their lives; it is sufficient that they have moments which one does not forget and the return of which one expects.—Victor Cherbuliez.

DOES NOT WANT WILLIAM H. LEWIS

CON. CON. RESCINDED ITS ACTION OF INVITING COLORED MAN TO SPEAK.

SAYS IT IS NO SLAP AT HIM

Delegate Harris Said in His Remarks That the Action Was No Affront to Federal Attorney.

Columbus.—The constitutional convention neatly backtracked from its former action in inviting W. H. Lewis, colored assistant attorney general of the United States, to address it. On motion of Delegate Harris of Hamilton county, the convention reconsidered its invitation and ended by referring its invitation to the committee on rules. This means virtually a rescinding of the invitation.

In moving for reconsideration of the vote, Mr. Harris said he meant no discourtesy to the invited guest, but argued that the convention must save its time. Delegate Bowdle of Cincinnati, who presented the invitation resolution, and who, as a result, faced the charge that he was bidding for the colored vote in Hamilton county in his prospective race for the congressional seat of Nick Longworth, ineffectually opposed reconsideration. However, none of the delegates went on record in rescinding the invitation, the vote being viva voce.

Resume Peck Resolution.

The convention resumed consideration of the Peck proposal at once and succeeded in adding one important compromise amendment before business ended. The amendment provides that except when the court of appeals itself declares a law unconstitutional the supreme court may not so do unless at least five of the six members of the supreme court are of the opinion that the law is unconstitutional.

Adjournment Date.

May 11 is the day on which the constitutional convention would like to finish its work, although there is still some question if the work will be completed by that time. The convention went so far as to adopt the Beatty resolution, which provides for cessation of work April 26, resumption of work May 6, and final adjournment May 11, but the general understanding was that the resolution is meant only to set a tentative date toward which the work can be adjusted. In the meantime, the time limit for debate is to be shortened.

ALL GAME DATES ARE SET

Season Started With Kansas City at Columbus, Milwaukee at Toledo in This State.

Toledo.—The American Association season is on in full blast, with promises of a successful season and a close race.

Kansas City, St. Paul, Columbus, Milwaukee and Toledo clubs have all had plenty of indoor practice, but have been unable to get in more than five days of good solid work on a baseball diamond and consequently many of their players are still overweight and their pitchers far from being in first-class form.

Several new managers will have charge of clubs in the American association this year.

The new leaders are Topsy Hartsel of Toledo, formerly of the world champion Athletics; Hugh Duffy of Milwaukee, who last year managed the Chicago White Sox; Charles Carr of Kansas City and Jack Tighe of Louisville. All are capable officials, who should weld together strong clubs.

PHI SIGMA CHI'S CONVENTION.

Newark.—Members of the Phi Sigma Chi fraternity from Ohio chapters met in their annual province convention. A silver loving cup was awarded to the chapter sending the largest delegation. Lancaster, Zanesville, Coshocton and Mt. Vernon are the contenders.

JEALOUS, SHOOTS WIFE.

Pomeroy.—William H. Hudnall, a young man employed on the Ohio Central at Middleport, fatally shot his wife and then committed suicide. The tragedy was witnessed by the two little daughters of the couple. Jealousy was the cause of the shooting.

WANTS CURFEW FOR MEN.

Cincinnati.—Miss Jennie Black, at a meeting of the W. C. T. U. advocated a curfew law for the men of Cincinnati. An attempt to have such a law passed will be made.

$10,000 FOR BROKEN NECK.

Youngstown.—A verdict of $10,000 was awarded Frank Lindsey in common pleas court from the Belmont Stone company for injuries sustained in October, 1911, when he was caught in the patent dump doors of the wagon he was driving for the company. His back was broken.

Chillicothe.—The county Democratic committee decided to hold the judicial and senatorial conventions in this city June 12.

PROBABLE MURDER.

Cleveland.—Jacob Van Guten, a hermit living in Brooklyn township, was found dead in his lonely home. It is believed that he was murdered, as the body was found bound hand and foot with the head crushed in.

Nelsonville.—Albert Herold, 25 years old, and Fred Ferguson, who is 25, both single, were instantly killed by the premature explosion of dynamite which they were thawing at the New York plant.

FINISH A LONG CHASE

Officials at Last Catch Forger After They Had Followed Him Into Many States.

Canton.—William R. Shaver, 35, former president of the Golden Rule Coupon company, disappeared from Canton last Christmas. Miss Ethel Wynn, 26 years old, a stenographer, vanished also at that time.

Shaver afterward was indicted on forgery charges, specifying the sum of $450, but his associates say the total amount of his alleged peculations will be between $12,000 and $15,000.

Shaver has been arrested at Winnipeg, Man., ending a chase in which Stark county officers have pursued the prisoner and the woman over thousands of miles in the Northwest and in Canada.

Shaver, it is charged, deserted a wife, Mary Dillon Shaver of 306 South Harrison avenue, this city, and two infant daughters.

Miss Wynn is a first cousin of Mrs. Shaver, with whom she boarded. Before leaving Canton, on December 24, Miss Wynn told acquaintances that she was going to Pittsburgh to visit friends.

ATTACK SHERMAN LAW

Attorneys for Indicted Officials of Cash Register Company File Their Demurrer.

Cincinnati.—Attorneys who are representing President John A. Patterson of the National Cash Register company of Dayton, O., and 29 other officials of the company, charged with the use of criminal methods in monopolizing the manufacture and sale of cash registers throughout the United States, began attack upon the constitutionality of the federal Sherman anti-trust law criminal features.

Before Federal Judge Howard C. Hollister a demurrer to the 30 indictments was presented and argued. Attorneys here say the demurrer will result in the dismissal of the criminal charges of stifling competition by "secret spy" operation and the organization of "knockout schemes," and "grave yard" exhibits at Patterson's model factory at Dayton, O., intended to discourage capitalists who considered investing in opposition cash register companies. The defendants are scattered throughout the United States.

FIRE EATING STUNT FAILS

Eureka Man Loses His Teeth and Also Confidence in the Salamandric Experiment.

Youngstown.—George Helsey, residing at Eureka, was very badly burned and lost two teeth while trying to imitate a fire eater he had seen perform at a vaudeville show in Youngstown. George recently attended the performance and was particularly taken with the act in which the fire eater soaked a ball of cotton in alcohol, lighted it and apparently swallowed it. It looked so easy Helsey wanted to show friends the trick, he accordingly got the flaming ball of cotton in his mouth, but it failed to go out. A friend, in trying to aid the frightened and squirming Helsey, knocked out two of his teeth. George will get over the injuries received, but he will never look the same.

NEXT BRIBE TRIAL MAY 6.

Columbus.—According to advices from Prosecuting Atty. Turner, there will be no more bribery trials until May 6. At that time either Senator Isaac Huffman of Butler county, in whose first trial a jury disagreed, or Senator George K. Cetone of Montgomery county, will be placed on trial.

FIRE CREATES ALARM.

Kent.—Seven persons narrowly escaped death or injury when the O'Grady hotel burned. Smoke in his room awakened Fred Short, 60, and he aroused the sleeping occupants of other rooms by pounding on their doors. The flames originated in a defective chimney.

GIVEN MAXIMUM SENTENCE.

Cleveland.—John Smith of Buffalo was given the maximum burglary sentence of seven years in the penitentiary by Judge Kennedy in criminal court for breaking into the parish house of St. Paul's Croatian Roman Catholic church, on April 1.

POSSE AFTER TRAMP.

Waverly.—Determined farmers, headed by Sheriff Givens, surround a woods in which a tramp, who attacked Mrs. John Friedley, the wife of a prominent farmer residing near Gregg's Hill, is thought to be hidden.

IS DYING OF HICCOUGHS.

Oxford.—Clem Conn, a wealthy farmer, living west of here across the Indiana line, is dying at his home from an attack of hiccoughs. He has been hiccoughing for nine days and the efforts of three physicians to stop him have been unavailing.

Middletown.—Mrs. Bertha Murphy is dying at the home of her sister, Mrs. Luda Earnhart, from a self-inflicted pistol wound. She had become crazed by sickness.

DIES WHILE IN CEMETERY.

Woman Visits Husband's Grave and Stricken Nearby.

Columbus.—Stricken down by apoplexy while she was seated in a buggy with her son at the gate of Green Lawn cemetery, Mrs. Mary Barricklow, 48, of 1842 North Fourth street, widow of Dr. Joseph L. Barricklow, former local dentist, died a few minutes after she had been carried into the cemetery office. With her son, Paul Barricklow, she had visited her husband's grave.

WHAT WILL CURE MY BACK?

Common sense will do more to cure backache than anything else. 'Twill tell you whether the kidneys are sore, swollen and aching. It will tell you in that case that there is no use trying to cure it with a plaster. If the passages are scant or too frequent, proof that there is kidney trouble is complete. Then common sense will tell you to use Doan's Kidney Pills, the best recommended special kidney remedy.

A TYPICAL CASE—

Edward Porsche, 1833 Cleveland Ave., Chicago, Ill., says: "My eyes were puffed from dropsy and my hands and feet terribly swollen. For three months I was completely laid up. Doan's Kidney Pills relieved the awful back pains, stopped the swelling and made me feel one-hundred per cent better."

"Every Picture Tells a Story"

AT ALL DEALERS 50c. a Box
DOAN'S Kidney Pills

The Army of Constipation
Is Growing Smaller Every Day.
CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are responsible—they not only give relief—they permanently cure Constipation. Millions use them for Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Sallow Skin.
CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.
SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE.
Genuine must bear Signature
Brent Good

STARTED THE BALL ROLLING

Artist, Guest of Honor at Dinner, Rose to the Occasion When Conversation Flagged.

Robert Henri, the noted artist, paused before a landscape at the Philadelphia Academy of Fine Arts and said:

"Dawb, who painted this, has sprung from humble circumstances to great wealth and eminence.

"Dawb made his first success in Paris. He was diffident and abashed in those days. When he would sally out from his garret in the Rue Vaugirard to a duchess' in the Avenue de Champs Elysees or a princess' in the Rue de l'Universite, his heart would be in his mouth.

"They say that once, at a dinner party at Paillard's, Dawb, the guest of honor, didn't open his mouth from the marennes vertes to the souffle.

"Finally, when the dessert came on, the beautiful and elegant hostess smiled and said:

"'Come, dear M. Dawb, do say something!'

"Dawb blushed at this challenge, racked his brain and stammered, with a bashful smile:

"'Have you noticed, ladies and gentlemen, that this year's pawn tickets are all green?'"

Invading the Enemy's Country.

"In pursuance of a plan I have had in mind for some time," announced Pastor Goodsole at the close of his sermon, "I have rented a small room in an apartment house in a fashionable neighborhood and expect to open a mission Sunday school there in the first Sunday in May. I don't know, brethren, where the children who attend it are to come from, if, indeed, any children attend it at all, but it will be there all summer, and may be regarded either as an opportunity or as a reproach. We will now sing our closing hymn."

Fact and Fancy.

"Great Scott, Maria, that's a daring dress!"

"It's a fancy costume."

"Well, if I were you, I would stick a little closer to fact."—Judge.

COFFEE HURTS
One in Three.

It is difficult to make people believe that coffee is a poison to at least one person out of every three, but people are slowly finding it out, although thousands of them suffer terribly before they discover the fact.

A New York hotel man says: "Each time after drinking coffee I became restless, nervous and excited, so that I was unable to sit five minutes in one place, was also inclined to vomit and suffer from loss of sleep, which got worse and worse.

"A lady said that perhaps coffee was the cause of my trouble, and suggested that I try Postum. I laughed at the thought that coffee hurt me, but she insisted so hard that I finally had some Postum made. I have been using it in place of coffee ever since, for I noticed that all my former nervousness and irritation disappeared. I began to sleep perfectly, and the Postum tasted as good or better than the old coffee, so what was the use of sticking to a beverage that was injuring me?

"One day on an excursion up the country I remarked to a young lady friend on her greatly improved appearance. She explained that some time before she had quit using coffee and taken to Postum. She had gained a number of pounds and her former palpitation of the heart, humming in the ears, trembling of the hands and legs and other disagreeable feelings had disappeared. She recommended me to quit coffee and take Postum and was very much surprised to find that I had already made the change.

"She said her brother had also received great benefits from leaving off coffee and taking on Postum." "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Lake County Herald

PAINESVILLE, OHIO

A DEMOCRATIC NEWSPAPER

TELEPHONE NO. 75

PUBLISHED THURSDAY OF EACH WEEK

Entered in the Postoffice at Painesville, Ohio, as Second-Class Mail Matter.

Advertising Rates

DISPLAY

| | |
|---|---|
| Per Inch—First Insertion | 20c |
| Per Inch—Each Additional Insertion | 10c |
| LOCALS | |
| Per Line—First Insertion | 10c |
| Per Line—Each Additional Insertion | 05c |
| Want Column—Three Lines, three weeks | 25c |

M. L. Harter, R. A. Tuttle } Editors and Proprietors

SENATORIAL CONVENTION

Resolution fixing the time and place of the Convention.

Resolved that the Democratic delegate convention to nominate a candidate for State Senator for the 24th and 26th State Senatorial district of Ohio be held at the Democratic Club Rooms, in the Arcade Building, in Akron, Ohio, July 6th, 1912, at 1:30 o'clock P. M.

Resolution determining apportionment of said convention.

Resolved that the ratio of representation in the convention to be held at the Democratic Club Rooms, in the Arcade Building, Akron, Ohio, on the 6th day of July, 1912, to nominate a Democratic a Democratic candidate for State Senator of the 24th and 26th Senatorial District of Ohio shall be as follows:

To each of the counties composing the said 24th and 26th Senatorial District of Ohio, namely Ashtabula, Geauga, Lake, Portage and Summit, one delegate and one alternate for each five hundred votes and fraction of two hundred and fifty votes or more cast for Judson Harmon for Governor by said counties at the election held on the 8th day of November, 1910.

Resolution providing for selection of delegates.

Resolved that the County central of the counties of Ashtabula, Geauga, Lake, Portage and Summit respectively be authorized and directed to determine the method of choosing the delegates from each of said counties either by direct vote at the primary or at County Conventions composed of delegates elected at the primary, to the convention to be held at the Democratic Club Rooms in the Arcade Building in Akron, Ohio, on July 6th, 1912, for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for State Senator of the 24th and 26th Senatorial district of Ohio.

We the undersigned Chairman and Secretary, respectively of the 24th and 26th Senatorial Democratic Committee of said district of Ohio hereby certify that the above and foregoing are true and correct copies of the resolutions duly adopted by a unanimous vote of the said committee duly and regularly held pursuant to call, at Kent, Ohio, on the 6th day of April, 1912, at which meeting a majority of the members of said committee were present.

C. A. CORBIN,
Chairman
CHAS. W. DICKERSON,
Secretary

JUDICIAL CONVENTION

Resolution fixing the time and place of the convention.

Resolved that the Democratic delegate convention to nominate a candidate for circuit judge for the seventh judicial circuit of Ohio be held at the Secor Hotel in Toledo, Ohio, on Wednesday the 5th day of June at 1:30 o'clock P. M.

Resolution determining apportionment to said convention.

Resolved that the ratio of representation in the convention to be so held at the Secor Hotel in Toledo, Ohio, on the said 5th day of June 1912, to nominate a Democratic candidate for judge of the seventh judicial circuit of Ohio shall be as follows:

To each of the counties composing the seventh judicial circuit of Ohio, namely Ashtabula, Belmont, Columbiana, Carroll, Geauga, Guernsey, Harrison, Jefferson, Lake, Mahoning, Monroe, Noble, Portage and Trumbull, one delegate and one alternate for each five hundred votes and fraction of two hundred and fifty votes or more cast for Judson Harmon for Governor by said counties at the election held on the 8th day of November, 1910.

Resolution providing for the selection of delegates.

Resolved that the County Central committee of the said counties of the said judicial district respectively, is authorized and directed to determine the method of choosing the delegates from each of said counties either by direct vote at the primary, or at the county conventions composed of delegates elected at the primary, to the convention to be held at the Secor Hotel at Toledo, Ohio, on the said 5th day of June 1912 for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for judge of the seventh judicial circuit of Ohio.

We, the undersigned Chairman and Secretary, respectively, of the Democratic Circuit judicial committee of the seventh Judicial Circuit of Ohio, hereby certify that the above and foregoing are true and correct copies of the resolution duly adopted by the committee of said judicial circuit at a meeting held by said committee at Kent, Ohio, April 6, 1912.

JOHN BOYLE,
Chairman
C. A. CORBIN,
Secretary

JUDICIAL CONVENTION

Painesville, Ohio, April 3, 1912

Be it resolved by a majority vote of the Democratic Judicial Committee of the common pleas district comprising Ashtabula, Geauga and Lake Counties that a delegate convention be and is hereby called to meet in Ashtabula, Ohio, City Hall, June 1, 1912, at 2 P. M. Central Standard time to nominate a judicial ticket for said district to be voted for at the coming November election, and each county shall be entitled to as many delegates to said convention as is entitled to have by law in the coming state Convention, viz Ashtabula 6, Geauga 2, Lake, 3, who shall be chosen according to law as the several county committees shall determine.

C. A. CORBIN,
Chairman
F. D. MALIN,
Sec'y Judicial Committee

Call For Democratic County Delegate Convention

The following call is made under authority of a majority vote of the Democratic County Central Committee of Lake County.

Three delegates and three alternates to the various Democratic State, District, Judicial, Congressional and Senatorial Conventions to represent Lake County shall be chosen at a County Delegate Convention hereby called to meet in Painesville City Hall, Saturday, May 25th at 2 p. m.

The above named delegates shall be chosen by a set of delegates to said County Convention which shall be apportioned one delegate to each [illegible] major [illegible] cast for Gov. Harmon, November, 1910, as follows in the various [illegible] of the county:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Painesville | Ward 1 | 2 |
| Painesville | Ward 2 | 1 |
| Painesville | Ward 3 | 2 |
| Painesville | Ward 4 | [illegible] |
| Painesville | Precinct F | 2 |
| Painesville | Precinct G | 2 |
| Perry | | 2 |

and one delegate for each of the other precincts, a total of 29 delegates to be chosen at the May primaries according to law.

The County Central Committee is also called to meet at the above named time and place for organization.

F. D. MALIN,
Chairman
F. A. MURPHY,
Sec'y.

Call for State Democratic Convention

Pursuant to the order of the Democratic State Central committee, notice is hereby given that the convention of the Democrats of the state of Ohio to nominate candidates for state offices to be voted for at the November election, 1912, will be held at Toledo, Ohio, on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 4-5 1912.

Each county will be entitled to one delegate and one alternate for each 500 votes cast for Judson Harmon for Governor of Ohio, at the November election, 1910, and one additional delegate and alternate for the remainder of votes exceeding 250.

The apportionment of delegates and alternates in the convention shall be as follows for Lake County:

Lake [illegible]
Total delegates [illegible]
Necessary to choice ....477

The Democratic State Central Committee at a meeting held in Columbus on Tuesday afternoon, March 19, 1912, adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, that for the purpose of ascertaining the Presidential preference of the Democratic electors of Ohio, and of selecting six delegates-at-large and six alternates-at-large, to the National Democratic Convention, called to meet at Baltimore, Md., on the 25th day of June, 1912, a state wide Presidential preference primary be held on the 21st day of May, A. D., 1912, during the same hours and at the same polling places wherein other primary elections are held on that day.

The candidate who shall receive the largest number of votes at such primary election shall select the names of six delegates-at-large, and six alternates-at-large, Democratic electors of the State of Ohio, to be by him presented to the Democratic State Convention for its ratification.

E. W. HANLEY,
Chairman
JOSEPH H. HARPER
Secretary

WILL THE BAIT TEMPT?

A few days ago the Harmon headquarters at Columbus sent out a letter to every Democratic precinct committeeman in Ohio, signed by E. H. Moore, chairman, enclosing a petition for Judson Harmon for President, and asking them to secure signers for same and return by April 11. This was fully within the rights of the Harmon managers.

One paragraph of the letter, however, is open to most serious criticism. This part of the Harmon letter reads as follows:

"If you are willing to assist, kindly sign and return at once the enclosed postal card, not only that we may have it for future reference, but that in the event of success we may know to whom our thanks are due."

This paragraph is beneath the dignity of any candidate for the Presidency, for it is little short of a bribe offered to the Democratic committeemen of the state to support the Harmon candidacy. Governor Harmon cannot afford to descend to such depths no matter how great his desire to secure the high office of President.

From the fact that these letters have been sent broadcast over the state, it would appear that the governor has possibly had the names of all these committeemen for nearly four years. During this time he has had ample opportunity to have rewarded many of them if he had desired to do so. But how few of them have received any reward!

Governor Harmon is and has been under obligation since 1908 to those chosen workers who have carried the banner of Democracy in their various precincts through rain and shine, in victory and defeat. And yet the governor, after being in office for almost four years, still retains something like 2,000 Republicans on the payrolls of the state!

When the people of Ohio voted to oust the Republican party from control they meant, we believe, to change parties from governor down. Many Republicans, we know, voted with us because they wanted to shake off some of their office-holding leeches.

Since Governor Harmon has the names of the party workers why has he not recognized them before? As he must have known of their services in the past, why must they pledge themselves to him again by sending him a postal card so that he "may know to whom thanks are due?" Doesn't Governor Harmon know to whom his thanks are due now?

The Signal has ever fought for the Democratic party because of its belief in Democratic principles and not for hope of office. But we are practical enough to believe that when a party victory is won, the party workers are entitled to something more than the cold shoulder and the icy stare.

It is but human that the faithful workers in the Democratic party, having given Governor Harmon an unselfish support, should feel that their political enemies from whom they had won two hardfought battles should not be left in possession of many of the public positions that Governor Harmon has at his disposal instead of looking after those who have been loyal and faithful he has been only too prone to choose Republicans or, what was equally as bad, those Democrats who have been unfaithful to the party and who have been stabbing it in the back for the past sixteen years.

When Harmon was elected the first time, Governor Harris sent to the senate, a week prior to Harmon's inauguration, the names of Republicans to various positions that the people of the state had by their vote handed over to the Democracy, and then when Governor Harmon was urged to appoint Democrats to these positions he made the answer that if these Republicans were allowed to remain in office, it would be better for him in 1910 for he would have no issue to go to the people on for his second term. Did he believe that all other Democrats should be sacrificed to his own ambition? Do the Democrats of the state approve of such selfishness upon the part of a man who calls himself the leader of a party?

What will he do with the postal card answers when the boys in the trenches write to him at Washington? Hundreds and hundreds of Democrats can testify to the fact that their letters did not receive as much as a cold answer, and those who called in person usually received scant consideration. But now Governor Harmon hangs out the promise of an office to those faithful workers who have previously been forgotten, just as a sheaf of oats is held out in front of a balky horse.

This spirit of selfishness is what makes Governor Harmon's candidacy for President dangerous to the party, for if he can gain his ambition through Wall street influence, it would seemingly not matter what the damage might be to the Democratic party.

For sixteen years, except in the Parker campaign, the Democratic party has been battling for the rights of the common people. There are mighty few workers in the party throughout the state who, even with the promise of a job, would desert those principles at a time when Democratic victory is in sight, for they know that success is assured if the party remains true to the principles for which it has fought under the leadership of the great commoner, William Jennings Bryan.—Zanesville Signal (Dem.)

A PREACHER IN POLITICS

It is the general supposition that the people of a church pay a preacher to teach them the laws of right living as exemplified by Christ and to supplement that teaching by as near an example of right living on his own part as is possible for man to attain. The church and government secured a divorce from each other several decades ago. Church government never secured more than a foothold in this country and not even that in the general government of these United States.

Consequently ministers have never been called upon to set themselves up as examples of political right living. Occasionally one of them with perhaps an inherent tendency to dabble in unknown and forbidden water or an abnormal desire for the bright light of the calcium, breaks over the traditional bounds and gets his little fat tootsy-wootsy wet in politics. The wiser ones, however, stay on the bank and watch the stream go by and especially if the stream is supposed to carry more or less sewerage. Not that they don't take an interest in government or that they don't preach civic righteousness but that they are wise enough to recognize the fact that men have strong feeling on self with the one side or the other simply means circumscribing ones field of influence for the things that count. A man can not hope to be a "red hot" Republican, for instance, take part in a political fight and at the same time tell a Democrat how he should live. Mr. Democrat simply feels sure that he is right and that the preacher is wrong and if wrong in politics why not in the great things of life or even the Bible truths he trys to expound? And his logic is as right as the theory of hell.

Not only that but people have been taught respect for a preacher's position—for the long black coat he wears. Not even a drunk man will offer a preacher a drink—he is protected by the inherent respect for the good, that is in every man. Nor can he get away from his position. People simply will not let him and he must take his coat with him into politics. The public will not suffer him to do otherwise but they will resent his doing it. Resent it because he is doing things he is not paid for doing, occupying his time with things he is not supposed to occupy his time with, lowering his dignity, and lessening his influence.

Imagine yourself paying for the privilege of hearing a man preach whom you knew to be using his church influence, either consciously or otherwise, to have a certain man nominated as a candidate for the presidency of the United States when you had a positive conviction in your heart that the candidate favored was an enemy to your interests?

How would you feel? Could you forget it? Could you listen to him with respect? Could you even prevent the sneer from showing on your face? If you can then you have something of the forgiving spirit shown by the Great Teacher himself and you overtop the writer by a thousand feet.

TWO IRRESISTIBLE MEASURES.

The bill repealing the tax on sugar which will reduce the price to the consumer 2 cents a pound if the measure is enacted into law, and the bill to place a tax on all incomes of more than $5,000 a year, are two of the most important measures passed by the House of Representatives in the last quarter of a century.

These sister bills, conceived and framed by Democratic committees, were so good in fact, that eighty Republicans were forced to vote for them. "Forced to vote for them" is the correct expression, because the Republicans refused steadfastly when in power to pass such legislation, or even to consider it, but when the Democrats forced them to vote one way or the other, they were afraid to vote against either bill lest their constituents retire them to private life.

There is food for thought in Mr. Bryan's suggestion of Herbert S. Bigelow for the presidential nomination. It is not a bouquet idly chosen and carelessly tossed to a flattered champion. Mr. Bryan knows Herbert Bigelow. He has taken his measure. He has appraised his qualities. And he knows that here is a real leader as well as a true thinker and a splendid orator. The Cincinnati preacher is a growing figure in American politics. It is doubtful if any other champion of the people's cause in the country could have achieved so great and so signal a victory as he has won in the Ohio constitutional convention. His leadership was superb in its patience, its enlightened enthusiasm, its inspiring effect on a chosen body of men who followed his standard. Mr. Bryan may well direct the eye of the nation to this young man who has already traveled so far. He may not indeed be considered for the presidency—this year—but that Ohio progressives will allow him to retire to private life with the ending of the convention now sitting at Columbus is not to be believed.

The Appeal to Reason, the socialist weekly paper printed in Girard, Kan., has not suspended publication, and, furthermore, the thought of suspending publication evidently has not entered the publisher's head. The false report originated with a Kansas City paper, and was telegraphed far and wide. Usually, no possible motive can exist for maliciously spreading such a report concerning a publication, and, on that account, many at a distance accepted the telegraphed story as a fact. The Appeal has not been injured, apparently. It was advertising of a sort that came to it at no expense, and the capitalist system can now be bothered harder than ever.

Illinois Democrats did themselves proud at least in nominating ex-Mayor Edward F. Dunne for governor. Mr. Dunne is a democratic Democrat and one of the finest men in the party today.

You will look a good while before you find a better medicine for coughs and colds than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only gives relief—it cures. Try it when you have a cough or cold, and you are certain to be pleased with the prompt cure which it will effect. For sale by all dealers.

Curious White Island.

What is perhaps the most extraordinary island in the world is that which lies thirty miles to the northeast of New Zealand. White island is an enormous mass of rock nearly three miles in circumference, rising 900 feet above the sea, and is perpetually enveloped in dark clouds that are visible for nearly 100 miles. This island consists almost entirely of sulphur, with a small percentage of gypsum. Some years ago an attempt was made to float a company to work the sulphur, which is of high quality, but sufficient capital was not subscribed. The export of sulphur from White Island is therefore still very small. In the interior is a lake fully fifty acres in extent, the water of which has a temperature of 110 degrees Fahrenheit, and it is strongly impregnated with acids. On one side of this lake are craters from which steam escapes with great force and noise. This steam and the vapor from the lake form the dark clouds that envelop the island.

Explained.

"I am sorry to see you here again," said the judge.

"You're not half as sorry as I am, judge," said the prisoner.

"Bad company, my man, as I told you before, is sure to bring you back," said the judge.

"Yes, judge," said the prisoner. "But I can't help myself. I tried to avoid this vulgar cop, but he just reg'larly thrust hisself upon me."—Harper's Weekly.

Not Good Testimony.

Patient (feebly)—"Doctor, my wife says that you have charged too much for operating on me." The Doctor—"But, my dear sir, you don't mean to tell me that you would take your wife's opinion as to your value?"—Life.

This Happened on Mars.

Allen—Hello, Duncan, old man! How're things?

Duncan—Pretty good, pretty good. And with you?

Allen—Can't complain particularly. Get a little short of cash sometimes—business is growing fast and I have to pretty near pawn my watch on occasions to keep going. You know how it is; prosperity is sometimes actually a drag on your pocketbook. That's a preliminary to asking you if you've $10 loose that you can let me have until next week Thursday. Got to get the wife a little present for her birthday, and haven't a cent to do it with.

Duncan—Why, sure. More, if you want. And never mind about paying me Thursday; wait until I want some money and come to you.

Allen—Nix. Thursday goes and ten is all. Thanks. So long.

Duncan (Thursday)—Morning, Allen. Great weather.

Allen—All to the good. You're looking fine. Say, here's that ten. Much obliged. Nothing like having friends to help a man once in a while.

Duncan—Oh, you needn't have hurried. I'd clean forgotten about this, too.

Allen—Well, I don't forget the money I owe or what's owed me. Thanks again for your loan. S'long.—Exchange.

Explained.

Stranger—What a dear child! How tenderly she kisses her sister's hand! Willie—Kiss nothin'! Her sister is packer in a candy factory.—Meggendorfer Blaetter.

Example of Folly in Litigation.

A suit growing out of a fire set in a patch of heather and involving damages fixed by one judge at $1.25, has been fought through six courts in England, finally reaching the court of appeal.

DON'T get the idea because this is a big bank, that we don't want your account unless you have a large amount to deposit.

We welcome small accounts and give them painstaking attention.

PAINESVILLE OFFICE

The Cleveland Trust Company

SAVINGS BANK

W. R. RADCLIFFE, Mgr.
W. C. TISDEL, Chairman

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION

The Lake County board of examiners will offer examinations for teachers' certificates on the first Saturday of each month in the year 1911. If first Saturday falls on holiday, examinations will be held one week later. Boxwell pupils will be examined the third Saturday in April and the third Saturday in May, 1911. All examinations will be held in the old High School building, Painesville, beginning at 9:15 standard time.

By order of the board,
J. R. ADAMS, Clerk,
Unionville, Ohio.

French Dry Cleaning

Eliminates the soil from the finest and most delicate garments without loss of color or shrinkage and

Cleans Your Garments Clean

We French Dry Clean in a superior manner. Prompt service and prices the lowest consistent with first class work.

Painesville Dry Cleaning Co.

CHAS. FINK, Mgr.

Phone 218 R 109 South St. Clair St.

PAINESVILLE, O.

Work Called for and Delivered.

All Painesville Coughing

Death from a gun-shot wound less to be feared than Death from pneumonia.

A great number of our city's men, women and children have colds and coughs today. The air seems to be fairly laden with these throat and lung troubles. There is great danger of contracting pneumonia or consumption from them. Nearly every case has its beginning in a cold or cough, and many people die as a result. Beware!

A sudden chill, stopping fever, sore throat, hoarseness, running nose, racking cough, rattling and wheezing in chest, painful breathing, signify that your cold borders on pneumonia.

There are many remedies offered for colds, but there is one certain, reliable article that we know of—Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. It is best for soothing and subduing the inflamed, sore, bronchial tubes and lungs. It wards off pneumonia. It checks cough at once. Cuts a cold short. Don't wait to see if your cold or cough wears away of itself, as pneumonia may come over night.

Test it first by sending a postal for a free sample. Address A. C. MEYER & CO., Baltimore, Md. But, to have no delay, get a regular bottle of the remedy; price, 25 cents, from your druggist today. This is the best advice we can give to avoid pneumonia. (ADV.)

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

State Highway Department,
Columbus, Ohio, March 28, 1912.

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Commissioners of Lake County, at Painesville, Ohio, until ten o'clock A. M., April 23th, 1912, for grading and paving with a bituminated concrete the Madison Southern Road in Madison Township, said County. Length 7866 feet or 2.01 miles; width of pavement 12 feet; estimated cost of construction $9768.34.

A draft or certified check for $300 shall be deposited with each bid. The successful bidder shall be required to give bond for an amount equal to the contract price for the faithful performance of the obligations within the contract. Date set for completion August 1, 1912.

Plans and specifications are on file in the offices of the County Commissioners and the State Highway Department.

The State Highway Commissioner reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

JAMES R. MARKER,
State Highway Commissioner.

ORDINANCE 865.

An ordinance to regulate the use and operation of motorcycles and motor bicycles on, upon or over the streets of Painesville.

Be it ordained by the Council of the City of Painesville, state of Ohio.

Section 1. From and after the passage of this ordinance it shall be unlawful for any person or persons, firm or corporation to run, operate, propel or drive, or cause to be run, operated, propelled or driven on, over, or upon the streets or highways of the City of Painesville any motorcycle or motor bicycle, the motive power of which shall be electricity, steam, gasoline or any source of energy other than human power, except under the following restrictions and regulations:

Section 2. Every motorcycle or motor bicycle shall at all times when run, operated, used or driven upon the streets or highways of the City of Painesville be provided with a good and sufficient brake, which brake shall make it possible to check any forward or backward motion, and a suitable bell, horn or other audible signal, which shall be rung or blown by the operator whenever in approaching any street intersection he shall be riding not more than one hundred or less than thirty feet distant therefrom and to warn other vehicles and drivers upon the highways of his presence whenever there is danger of collision or accident.

They shall also be provided with all other appliances and apparatus such as sufficient condensers to prevent the unnecessary escape of steam or vapor, or improved mufflers to stop any unnecessary noise in the operation or management of said vehicle upon the highways.

Section 3. No person in charge of any motorcycle or motor bicycle shall run, operate, propel or drive the same on, upon or over any public street, alley, highway, road or driveway in the business portion in the City of Painesville at a rate of speed greater than eight (8) miles an hour, and in all other parts of said city the rate of speed of said motorcycles or motor bicycles shall not be greater than fifteen (15) miles an hour.

Section 4. No person while running, operating, propelling or driving any motor cycle or motor bicycle over any public street, alley, highway, road or driveway, shall carry any other person or a passenger except at the rear of the operator on a suitable seat provided for that purpose.

Section 5. No person in charge of any motorcycle or motor bicycle shall run, operate, propel or drive the same on, upon or over any sidewalk adjacent to any street, highway, road or driveway in any portion within the corporate limits of the said city of Painesville.

Section 6. Motorcycles or motor bicycles shall always exhibit during the period while in use, from twilight to dawn a suitable lamp showing a white light visible within a reasonable distance in the direction towards which the motorcycle or motor bicycle is proceeding.

Section 7. No person shall run, operate, propel or drive or cause to be run, operated, propelled or driven any such motorcycle or motor bicycle within the limits of the City of Painesville without first obtaining a license from the City Clerk. The fee for such license shall be One Dollar and Fifty Cents ($1.50) which shall be deposited in the general fund of the city. These licenses shall be granted annually, but they shall expire on December 31st following the date of issue. It shall be the duty of any applicant for such license to furnish the City Clerk his name and address with a brief description of the motorcycle or motor bicycle to be registered, including the name of the maker, factory number, style and motor power. Thereupon it shall be the duty of the said City Clerk to file such statement in his office, to register such motorcycle or motor bicycles in a book kept for that purpose and assign it a distinctive number. The City Clerk shall also furnish to each of said applicants for license under this ordinance a plate of such design and pattern as the City Clerk may prescribe, containing the number to be assigned to said motorcycle or motor bicycle, said number to be in Arabic numerals, white on black ground, each not less than three inches in height and each stroke to be of a width not less than one-half of an inch, which plate shall be rigidly attached and displayed at the rear of such motorcycle or motor bicycle in such manner as plainly to be visible at all times.

Section 8. Any person violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be fined not less than Five Dollars ($5) and not more than Twenty-five Dollars ($25) or imprisoned not more than ten (10) days or both.

Section 9. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and legal publication.

Passed April 15, 1912.

ELBERT F. BLAKELY,
President of the Council.

Attest:
FRANK L. KELLY, Clerk.
Approved April 15, 1912.

WYNNE S. SMITH,
Mayor.

ORDINANCE NO. 866.

An ordinance authorizing and directing the director of Public Service to advertise for bids for coal for use in sub-departments of water and of light.

Be it ordained by the Council of the City of Painesville, State of Ohio.

Section 1. That in accordance with Section 4329 of the General Code of Ohio the Director of Public Service be and he hereby is authorized and directed to advertise for bids for furnishing the City of Painesville with two thousand (2000) tons bituminous run of mine, three-quarter and slack coal for the sub-department of water and two thousand (2000) tons bituminous, three-quarter and slack coal for the sub-department of light of said City of Painesville.

Section 2. That the Director of Public Service be and he hereby is authorized and directed to enter into a contract for furnishing said supplies with the lowest and best bidder after advertising for not less than two weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in said City.

Section 3. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and legal publication.

Passed April 8, 1912.

ELBERT F. BLAKELY,
President of the Council.

Attest:
FRANK L. KELLY,
Clerk.

Approved
WYNNE S. SMITH,
Mayor.

NOTICE

Sealed proposals for printing the ballots and all accessary blanks for the primary election to be held in Lake county, May 21st, 1912, will be received by the Board of Deputy State Supervisors of Elections of Lake county at the office of said board up to Thursday, April 25th, at 10 a. m. Specifications will be on file at the office of said board on and after Wednesday, April 23, 1912.

Each proposal for printing must be accompanied by a bond executed in due form by the bidder with at least two good and sufficient sureties satisfactory to the Board of Deputy State Supervisors of Elections in a sum double the amount of his bid, conditioned for a faithful performance, pursuant to contract of such printing as may be awarded to him, and for the payment as liquidated damages by such bidder to the Board of Deputy State Supervisors of Elections of any excess of cost over the bid or bids of such bidders which the Board of Deputy State Supervisors of Elections may be obliged to pay for such work by reason of the failure of such bidder to complete his contract, the bond to be null and void if no contract is awarded to him. No bid unaccompanied by such bond shall be entertained by the Board of Deputy State Supervisors of Elections.

E. B. HUNTINGTON,
Chief Deputy.
CHARLES E. BOOTH, Clerk.
Painesville, O., April 19, 1912.

LEGAL NOTICE

Roger B. Sherman, whose place of residence is unknown, is hereby notified that Charlotte Brooke Sherman has filed her petition against him for divorce and restoration of former name in the Court of Common Pleas of Lake County, Ohio, and that said cause will be for hearing on or after May 24th, 1912.

CHARLOTTE BROOKS SHERMAN,
By HARRY T. NOLAN,
Her Attorney.
Painesville, Ohio, April 8, 1912.

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Insurance Of all kinds

FIRE, LIFE, AUTOMOBILE, AND LIABILITY INSURANCE

Twenty-five of the strongest and safest companies represented and all losses promptly paid.

E. D. BARBER
The Insurance Man.

FIRE INSURANCE
REAL ESTATE
ABSTRACTS
AND LOANS

A. M. WARN
P. O. BLOCK

HAVE YOUR STATIONERY EMBOSSED

Initials, Crests, Monograms, Engraved to Your Order, Stamped in Gold or Color, also Illuminating.

The Educational Supply Co., - Painesville
128 South State Street.

DR. E. L. NORTON and DR. H. D. RAND
DENTISTS

Nitrous Oxide Administered
Office hours: 8 to 12 a. m., 1 to 5 p. m.
Telephone, Main 434.
Cor. Main and St. Clair, Painesville

MARTIN A. TUTTLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Painesville, Ohio,
Postoffice Block.

H. T. NOLAN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Pioneer Trust Bldg. Painesville, O.

MORLEY & WARREN,
GRANITE AND MARBLE WORKS
Painesville, Ohio
The Best Stock and First-class Work
Cor. State and Washington Streets

BURGESS GRANITE WORKS,
Cor. State and Erie Streets.
We give Eagle Stamps.

We are the only dealers in Lake, Geauga, Trumbull and Portage counties authorized to sell the celebrated White Bronze monuments with the greatly improved finish.

Johnson
Custom Tailor
123 N. State St.

WE DO SANITARY STEAM CLEANING AND PRESSING.

SEND $2.00
For a Gallon of this
Good Whiskey

Equal to $3.50 grade. $5 Whiskey at $3 per gallon.

Duffy Malt Whiskey Per Bottle - - - - - 89c

Guckenheimer or Golden Wedding Rye
$2.69 Per Gallon
2 Gallons $5.00

All high grade, guaranteed liquor at reduced prices. Sent in plain packages to any address.

A. Cohn, Wholesale Liquor Store
5819 ST. CLAIR, 4 doors East of 55th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the stockholders of The Dollar Savings Bank Company, it was duly determined to liquidate the affairs of said corporation and close its business. The creditors of said Corporation are hereby notified to present their claims against it for payment on or before May 1st, 1912.

THE DOLLAR SAVINGS BANK CO.
By A. L. ASSMUS, Vice President.
W. R. RADCLIFFE, Secretary.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of The Dollar Savings Bank Company will be held on the 9d day of May 1912, at 2:30 o'clock P. M., at the office of the Company, corner of Main and St. Clair streets, in the City of Painesville to consider the question of surrendering and abandoning its corporate authority.

THE DOLLAR SAVINGS BANK CO.
By A. L. ASSMUS, Vice President.
W. R. RADCLIFFE, Secretary.

THE GOOD OF A GOOD THING

is in seeing it—and seeing it first.

Our endeavor will be to please you.

We will answer your letter promptly

Eclipse Electrotype & Engraving Co.
CLEVELAND

Farmers Take Notice

We sell Fertilizers for every crop. Don't plant your potatoes, corn, tomatoes, onions, grass and grain or any other crop without using some fertilizer as it will surely pay you according to the proportion used. I say this from my own personal experience. We sell the best I know of at a reasonable price.

Also Drain Tile any size.

THE PAINESVILLE COAL FEED & SUPPLY CO.
Successors to Cole Coal Co.
114 and 506 North State Street
PAINESVILLE, OHIO

Where Cleanliness Reigns

Quality Groceries Await You Here

Our Prices Please and Are Worth Watching

Adapted to the saving pocket book

There's a reason for our growth

THESE WILL PLEASE

Elliott & Ruhling

Notice of Presenting County Road Petition

Notice is hereby given that a petition will be presented to the Commissioners of Lake County at their next session June 3, 1912 praying for the laying and establishing of a County Road on the following line to-wit: Beginning at center of road running easterly from Lane Station to South Ridge at a point between E. D. and J. L. Shepard's running north across the Cleveland Painesville & Eastern and the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern right of ways thence easterly along the north side of said L. S. & M. S. Ry. across lands owned by E. D. Shepard, J. D. Thompson, J. H. Brown, J. V. Haskell, E. H. Morehouse and Mrs. Marion Benton, intersecting road running north from South Ridge called Maple Avenue. The width of said road to be not less than 40 feet.

B. B. HOLCOMB and others

The Eureka

POOL PARLORS and SMOKE HOUSE

SOFT DRINKS, CANDIES and a Full Line of CIGARETTES

ELECTRIC PIANO for the amusement of all patrons

J. H. MATHEWS, Prop.
119 So. State St., Painesville, O.

LOW ROUND TRIP
Homeseeker's Rates
Via Nickel Plate Road

to points in the West, Northwest & Southwest

Good going on the 1st and 3rd Tuesdays of the month. Liberal return limit and "Stop over privileges.

Get full information of Agent or write J. C. Melenbacker, D. P. A., Erie, Pa.

Low Round Trip Rates
Nickel Plate Road
Portland, Seattle Tacoma

and other North Pacific Coast & Northwestern Points on certain dates in May, June, July and October.

Los Angeles, Oakland, San Diego on certain dates in April, May, June & August.

San Francisco on certain dates in April, May, June, July, August & October.

J. C. Melenbacker, D. P. A., Erie, Pa.

Mentor Wall Paper Store
NEW STOCK ON HAND
Besides a Large Assortment in Books which I would be pleased to show you
R. M. CASE

HAVE YOUR FIRE INSURANCE WRITTEN AT HOME

We represent one of the Largest and Best Companies

The National Fire Insurance Co. of Hartford
R. M. CASE & CO.

NOTICE

An examination for applicants for the police and fire departments of the city of Painesville will be held by the civil service board on Saturday, April 27, at 1 o'clock at the city hall. All applicants must pass a physical examination before Dr. H. W. Gruel before the above date.

The Civil Service Commission,
R. W. HENDERSON, Sec'y.

OUR SPECIAL OFFER

THE HERALD AND La Follette's Weekly Magazine

BOTH A FULL YEAR FOR ONLY

$1.25

You can read every week what Senator Robert M. La Follette, the fearless champion of the people's rights, the leader of the progressive Republicans, thinks and says for

ONLY 25 CENTS MORE
Than the Price of The Herald Alone

A stirring and momentous campaign is opening. You will want to be posted. You will want the record of your congressman. Does he represent YOU? You will want information about the great political issues you and your friends are talking about. Senator La Follette knows what is going on at Washington. He is on the ground; behind the scenes. He tells you all about it in LA FOLLETTE'S WEEKLY MAGAZINE.

Sixteen pages of crisp editorials and interesting special articles each week.

La Follette's 1 yr. $1.00 | OUR OFFER
Herald . . 1 yr. $1.00 | $1.25

ADDRESS

The Lake County Herald, Painesville, Ohio

Painesville's Leading Drug Store.
Registered Pharmacists in attendance at all times.
The Corner Pharmacy
J. G. DAVET. Proprietor.

A. A. CALLENDER
—ALL KINDS OF—
Light and Heavy Draying
FURNITURE AND PIANO MOVING A SPECIALTY
Home Phone—Main 291 Bell Phone 143-R

TRUBY COAL CO.
COAL and COKE
LIME, CEMENT, SEWER PIPE, TILE, ETC.
BOTH PHONES 21

MENTOR

The weather has come off wonderfully warm and nice for this time of the year, roads are well dried off, school children are going back and forth bare-headed, women are appearing with light dresses on, and the new spring hat blossoms out on every street.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Dille and little daughter of Painesville were out at the home of Mrs. Jackson (Mrs Dille's mother) for Sunday dinner.

The road-scraper, well manned and horsed, has been after our streets and much improved them. Doubtless the next thing will be to pile on a lot of nasty black coal-oil, that shall spoil all the white shoes and ruin the lace petticoats of the Mentor women, to say nothing of spoiling rugs by being tracked into the houses! Oh hum!

Quite a fire got started at "Lacwood" the residence of Mr. Edmund Cadle a few days ago, and but for discovery and prompt as well as vigorous attention, the house would probably have gone up in smoke.

Again, the question comes up, "Is our Chemical Fire Extinguisher in good working order?" If so, whose business is it to run with it to any fire? If it is the business of any one person, how much does he get per fire? All these are pertinent questions for these busy times when everybody has all he can do to attend to his own affairs, without having to stop and tote that thing to the extreme limits of the village corporation, free gratis, for nothing. Huh!

Mr. Albert Healey of Greenwich, Ohio, has just been visiting his two nieces, the Misses Nellie and Mary Rexford and their father.

The Mentor Ladies Aid Society held their regular annual election of officers on Tuesday last, when Miss Sarah Armstrong was again chosen president, Mrs. William Taylor, first Vice Pres., Mrs. Ed Baker, second Vice Pres., Mrs. Frank Sandberg, Secretary, and Mrs. David Galloway, Treasurer. These ladies are bending every energy towards collecting money enough to buy a fifteen hundred dollar pipe-organ, and have already nearly four hundred towards that much desired end. The organ is for the M. E. church building here.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Dickey of Willoughby have returned from spending the winter since holidays in Florida, and were out here a few days ago with Mrs. Blish, who is Mr. Dickey's sister.

Mrs. Alva Hart has her mother with her, Mrs. Lucy Tuttle, who has been very sick recently, we understand.

Something was the matter with the electric lighting in our village a few evening last week, it failed entirely; and horrid old coal-oil lamps had to be brought out, cleaned up and lighted again. If it is true that "blessings brighten as they take their flight," the new system will be more appreciated than ever, and probably (whatever it was) will never happen again.

Mrs. George Marsh was called over to South Mentor last week by the very serious illness of her brother, Mr. Ross Duer, who we understand is some better at date.

Mr. and Mrs. Dye have been with their daughter, Mrs. Moffet in Cleveland for a few days, going up there before Easter and still remaining in order that Mr. Dye may take some sort of treatment at one of the city hospitals.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Curtiss of Kirtland came over here last fall to spend the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Curtiss, and be taken care of as both were well advanced in years and very feeble. Mr. Curtiss died on Sunday and was buried from his brother's house on Tuesday having lived to be over eighty-four years old.

The last Missionary meeting of the Methodist Society was held with Mrs Spindle, the program being in charge of Mrs. Taylor and Miss Sarah Armstrong.

Mrs. Harry King returned from her Hudson trip on Thursday leaving the friends there all well, but feeling much bereaved over the loss of Prof. Seese who has been the Educational Head there for many years, and who has probably done more than any other one person to make Hudson the model village that it is today.

The special meetings closed Sunday evening, having been well attended, the two young preacher boys working well together, and apparently being good friends.

Mr. W. P. Murray has a company of painters at work on his Mentor house as usual putting everything in apple-pie order. His youngest daughter and her husband, Mr. Clifford Dangler, of Cleveland are to spend the summer down here, much to the delight of their many friends.

The wife of Allen Parker, once a Mentor boy, died in St. Louis very recently, her body being brought east for burial.

Mrs. Bostwick's new cement block at the Center is about ready for use and whether the rumors of a new general store will materialize or not, will soon be determined now.

Helen Parker has been spending a part of her Easter vacation up in the city with her little school friend, Helen Rexford, at the home of the latter.

Mr. George Ingersoll died at the home of his son, Mr. Howard Ingersoll on last Tuesday of grip, at the age of seventy-seven, and was buried from there on Thursday afternoon.

The Clark Parker place at the Center is for sale we understand, and that it must be sold this summer in order to settle up the estate. This property will be remembered by your "away from home" Mentor folks, as the George Wheeler property, and is the most desirable of anything left for sale on the avenue.

Speaking of places for sale, there are many more this spring than for a number of years, but very few for rent. "Echo Hill Farm" the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Frost is for sale, and also the old Harrison Carpenter homestead, now owned by Mr. George Black of Pittsburgh. Both of these are beautiful summer homes and perfectly comfortable all the year 'round.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Carver of Lorain, this state, have been visiting Mrs. Ben Warren, who is a sister of Mrs. Carver.

Miss Beatrice Spindle has just entered the store of Sidney Wilson over in Willoughby, and will prove quite an attraction to Mentor people to go there to trade.

So many are superstitious in regard to a sunny day for a wedding, and always feel dreadfully if it storms, that when last Thursday dawned so bright and nice, there was a general feeling of gladness that our dear Margaret Murray was going to have such a pleasant life. The ceremony was performed in St. Paul's church last Thursday evening by Rev. Dr. Walter Breed, the bridal party entering to the music of the Lohengrin chorus. The ushers were Mr. Myron Wilson, Mr. George Comey, Mr. Ned Dangler and Mr. William Averill, all of Cleveland, Mr. Benjamin Benton of New York, Mr. Carl Schunsman of Minneapolis, and Mr. William Stanley of Great Barrington, Mass. The brides-maids were Miss Lois Scott and Miss Beryt Scott, Miss Jeannette Kinney, Miss Elizabeth Strong, Miss Matilda Pattersen and Miss Elise Hunter of Memphis, Tenn. Miss Helen Murray was her sister's maid of honor and immediately preceded the bride, who entered with her father, Mr. William Parmelee Murray, and was given away by him in marriage, the groom meeting her at the altar with the best man, his brother Mr. Frank Dangler. The bride looked very lovely indeed in her white satin gown, with a boquet of her favorite flowers Lillies of the Valley. Some five hundred guests witnessed the ceremony, but so far as we know only Mrs. Geo. Blish and the Misses Antoinette and Eleanor King were invited from Mentor, they being old family friends and near neighbors.

Don't be surprised if you have an attack of rheumatism this spring. Just rub the affected parts freely with Chamberlain's Liniment and it will soon disappear. Sold by all dealers.

PERRY

Mr. and Mrs. Brack have moved from the city to their summer home near the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright and daughter accompanied by Mrs. Morgan were the guests of honor at the Ladies Guild of St. Anne's Thursday at the home of Mrs. West.

Perry had another fire scare Thursday morning. The grist mill operated by the Kneale Bros. burned to the ground. As yet there are no means of conquering the flames. Men and boys work bravely but they cannot save buildings without apparatus.

Prof. R. G. Few and Mr. Kimpton attended the Teachers' Convention at Wooster Saturday.

The house now occupied by Prof. Few's family has been purchased from Mr. Knight of Cleveland by J. H. Brown.

Miss Dessie Balkeld was in Cleveland last Monday.

The Standard Bearers of the M. E. Church had a meeting at the home of Mrs. Maurice Coppock Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Bowen who has been very ill in a Cleveland hospital was able to return home last Thursday.

The Ladies Guild of St. Anne's gave another supper and dance at the I. O. O. F. hall Tuesday evening. The supper was a dainty menu affair, and in the dance that followed Schwerm's orchestra furnished the music.

The first base ball game of the season in Perry was played Friday afternoon on the high school diamond. The Painesville high team vs Perry high. One of the players states that it was a very close game, eleven to three in favor of Painesville.

Mr. Harold Peters is home for a few weeks from Mexico.

Mr. Will Seith has purchased a five passenger automobile. He brought it home from Painesville Monday.

The Christian church is holding a series of cottage prayer meetings in different parts of the town each Thursday evening. For Thursday evening the following schedule has been decided upon. On the North Ridge a meeting will be held at the home of George West; on the Antioch Road it will be at Mr. Carl Seith's home, a meeting will be held at the church and another at the Center at the home of Mrs. Sarah Salkeld.

The play "Red Acre Farm" which has been prepared by the Methodist young people will be held Wednesday evening, April 24th.

Rev. Backles tendered his resignation to the church Sunday. He expects to accept a pastorate in the south in a few months.

Rev. O. W. Hearn handed his resignation to the board Tuesday evening; the resignation is to take effect in August.

HOW'S THIS?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN,
Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Apt Description.

A little girl four years old in trying to describe a young man to her mother said: "O, don't you know the man with the jewelry in his teeth?"

Place of the Sublime in Art.

The beautiful is the most useful in art; but the sublime in art is the most helpful to mortals, for it elevates the mind.—Joubert.

Value of the Eucalyptus.

In Europe and Africa the eucalyptus tree is in high favor because of its efficiency in draining swamps.

Why He Was Late.

"What made you so late?"

"I met Smithson."

"Well, that is no reason why you should be an hour late getting home to supper."

"I know, but I asked him how he was feeling, and he insisted on telling me about his stomach trouble."

"Did you tell him to take Chamberlain's Tablets?"

"Sure, that is what he needs."

Sold by all dealers.

THE MARKETS.

Buyers are Paying for

| | |
|---|---|
| Wheat | 1.10 |
| Rye | 90 |
| Corn | 80 |
| Oats | 56 |
| Baled hay per ton | $22-$26 |
| Baled straw per ton | $11-$13 |
| Butter, No. 1 dairy | 30 |
| Eggs | 18 |
| Lard (home rendered) | 12 |
| Pork, dressed | 08-09 |
| Chickens | 12-13 |
| Veal | 10-11 |
| Beef, dressed | 8-10 |
| Tallow, per pound | .05 |
| Potatoes | 1.25 |
| Honey | 18-18 |
| Maple syrup, per gal | 90-$1.00 |
| Retail Price for | |
| Flour, Royal Patent per sk | 1.65 |
| Flour, Golden Eagle, per sk | 1.40 |
| Flour, Golden Eagle, per sk | 1.45 |
| Flour, Elevator, per sk | 1.45 |
| Graham Flour, per lb | 03 |
| Corn | 90 |
| Oats | 67 |
| Corn Meal | 1.65 |
| Chop feed, straight corn and oats | 1.75 |
| Midlings | 1.65 |
| Bran | 1.50 |
| Baled straw, cwt | 80 |
| Butter, creamery | 39 |
| Butter, dairy | 35 |
| Eggs, per dozen | 22 |
| Potatoes, per bu | 1.60 |
| Potatoes, per pk | 40 |

NEW GOODS AND NEW FIXTURES

WE AIM TO CARRY THE VERY BEST IN

Staple and Fancy Groceries

WITH A STOCK OF

Cigars and Tobacco

In keeping with all other lines, We shall appreciate your trade and will endeavor to please.

BURR & RUST
CORNER STATE AND MAIN

Painesville's Leading Planing Mill.

DRESSED LUMBER IS LIKE A DEAD DOG.

The bark is all off. You'll find no bark to our lumber, although we do a good deal of barking about it. We have the stock, and feel justified in barking. When you want the best lumber, bark up this tree, and you'll find it.

S. L. MALIN & SON
"Focus on Lumber."
Phone 127

A. D. McLEAN
FIRE INSURANCE, REAL ESTATE
SINGER SEWING MACHINES
All makes of machines cleaned and repaired.
135 S. State St. Painesville, Ohio

A REMEDY FOR EVERY ILL IN
THE NYAL REMEDIES
—at—
PARK'S PHARMACY
"The Nyal Store"

SPRING STYLES
ARE NOW READY

for your inspection. Our values cannot be equaled elsewhere. Our line is complete of Clothing, Dry Goods, Ladies and Men's Furnishings Notions, Boots, Shoes Etc.

M. HOROWITZ.
WICKLIFFE, OHIO. Cuy. phone 67-R
All our goods guaranteed. Prices reasonable.

The Largest Typewriter Sale in History.

Ten Thousand Underwood Typewriters

have been sold to the Western Union Telegraph Company for use in all offices throughout its vast organization

All Telegrams, Night and Day Letters in the future will be typewritten on the Underwood.

Every well known writing machine was carefully considered by the purchasing committee and the Underwood won from the standpoints of practical utility and mechanical construction.

"The machine you will eventually buy."

Underwood Typewriter Co., Inc.
822 Huron Road Cleveland, O.

The Girl from His Town

by Marie Van Vorst

ILLUSTRATIONS by M. G. KETTNER

COPYRIGHT 1910 by The Bobbs-Merrill Company

13

SYNOPSIS.

Dan Blair, the 27-year-old son of the fifty-million-dollar copper king of Blairtown, Mont., is a guest at the English home of Lady Galorey. Dan's father had been courteous to Lord Galorey during his visit to the United States and the courtesy is now being returned to the young man. The youth has an ideal girl in his mind. He meets Lily, Duchess of Breakwater, a beautiful widow, who is attracted by his immense fortune and takes a liking to her. When Dan was a boy, a girl sang a solo at a church and he had never forgotten her. The Galoreys, Lily and Dan attend a London theater where one Letty Lane is the star. Dan recognizes her as the girl from his town, and going behind the scenes introduces himself and she remembers him. He learns that Prince Poniatowsky is suitor and escort to Letty. Lord Galorey and a friend named Ruggles determine to protect the westerner from Lily and other fortune hunters. Young Blair goes to see Lily; he can talk of nothing but Letty and this angers the Duchess. The westerner finds Letty ill from hard work, but she recovers and Ruggles and Dan invite her to supper. She asks Dan to build a home for disappointed theatrical people. Dan visits Lily.

CHAPTER XIII.—Continued.

"Hello, you," she nodded to Dan. "I am awfully sorry not to have shown up at five. Just got your note. Just got in at the hotel, been out of town all day."

Dan saw that none of the people in the room was familiar to him and that they were out of place in the pretty brocaded nest. One of them was a Jew, a small man with a glass eye, whose fixed stare rested on Miss Lane. He had kept on his overcoat, and his derby hat hung on the back of his head.

"Give Mr. Cohen the box, Higgins," Miss Lane directed, and bending forward brought her small face close to the glass and her hands trembled as she handled the rouge stick.

Mr. Cohen in one hand held a string of pearls that fell through his fat fingers, as if eager to escape from them. Higgins obediently placed a small box in his hand.

"Take it and get out of here," she ordered Cohen. "Miss Lane has only got five minutes."

Cohen turned the stub of his cigar in his mouth unpleasantly without taking the trouble to remove it. "I'll take box," he said rapidly, "and when I get good and ready I'll get out of here, but not before."

"Now see here," Blair began, but Miss Lane, who had finished her task, motioned him to be quiet.

"Please go out, Mr. Blair," she said. "Please go out. Mr. Cohen is here on business and I really can't see anybody just now."

Behind the Jew Higgins looked up at Dan and he understood—but he didn't heed her warning; nothing would have induced him to leave Letty Lane like this.

"I'm not going, though, Miss Lane," he said frankly. "I've got an appointment with you and I'm going to stay."

As he did so the other people in the room took form for him: a blind beggar with a stick in his hand, and by his side a small child wrapped in a shawl. With relief Dan saw that Poniatowsky was absent from the party.

Cohen opened the box, took its contents out and held up the jewels. "This," he said, indicating a string of pearls, "is all right, Miss Lane, and the ear-drops. The rest is no good. I'll take or leave them, as you like."

She was plainly annoyed and excited, and as Higgins tried to fuss her, moved from her dressing-table to the sofa in a state of agitation.

"Take them or leave them, as you like," she said, "but give me the money and go."

The Jew took from his wallet a roll of bank notes and counted them.

"Six," he began, but she waved him back.

"Don't tell me how much it is. I don't want to know."

"Let the other lady count it," the Jew said. "I don't do business that way."

Dan, who had laid down his overcoat and hat on a chair, came quickly forward, his hands in his pockets, and standing in front of the Jew, he said again:

"Now you look here."

Letty Lane threw the money down on the dressing table. "Please," she cried to Dan, "let me have the pleasure of sending this man out of my room. You can go, Cohen, and go in a hurry, too."

The Jew stuffed the pearls in his pocket and went by Dan hurriedly, as

"How Does It Feel to Stand There and Hear Them Clap Like a Thunder Storm and Call Your Name?"

though he feared the young man intended to help him. But Dan stopped him:

"Before this deal goes through I want you to tell me why you are—"

Miss Lane broke in. "My gracious Heavens! Can't I even sell my jewels without being bossed? What business is it of yours, Mr. Blair? Let the man go, and go all of you—all of you. Higgins, send them out."

The blind man and the child stirred, too, at this outburst. The little girl wore a miserable hat, a wreck of a hat, in which shook a feather like a broken mast. The rest of her garments seemed made of the elements—of dirt and mud—mere flags of distress, and the odor of the poor filled the room; over the perfume and scent and smell of stage properties, this miserable smell of stage properties, this miserable smell held its own.

"Come, Daddy," whispered the child timidly, "come along."

"Oh, no, not you, not you," Letty Lane said.

Job Cohen crawled out with ten thousand pounds' worth of pearls in his pockets, and as soon as the door had closed the actress took up the roll of notes.

"Come here," she said to the child. "Now you can take your father to the home I told you of. It is nice and comfortable—they will treat his eyes there."

"Miss Lane—Miss Lane!" called the page boy.

"Never mind that," said the actress. "It is a long wait this act. I don't go on yet."

Higgins went to the door and opened it and stood a moment, then disappeared into the side scenes.

Letty Lane ruffled the pile of bank

"Take It and Get Out of Here," She Ordered Cohen.

notes and without looking drew out two or three bills, putting them into the child's hands. "Don't you lose them; stuff them down; this will keep you and your father for a couple of years. Take care of it. You are quite rich now. Don't get robbed."

The child tremblingly folded the notes and hid them among her rags. The tears of happiness were straggling over her face. She said faintly, finding no place to stow away her riches: "I expect I'd best put them in daddy's pocket."

And Dan came to her aid, taking the notes from her; he folded and put them inside the clothes of the old beggar.

"Miss Lane," said Higgins, who had come in, "it is time you went on."

"I'll see your friends out of the theater," Blair offered. And as he did so, for the first time she looked at him, and he saw the fever in her brilliant eyes.

"Thanks awfully," she accepted. "It is perfectly crazy to give them so much money at once. Will you look after it like a good boy and see something or other about them?"

He thought of her, however, and caught up a great soft shawl from the chair, wrapped it around her tenderly and she flitted out, Higgins after her, leaving the rest of the money scattered on her dressing table.

"Come along," said Blair kindly to the two who stood awaiting his orders with the docility of the poor, the obedience of those who have no right to plan or suggest until told to move on. "Come; I'll see you home." And he didn't leave them until he had taken them in a cab to their destination—until he had persuaded the girl to let him have the money, look after it for her, come to see her the next day and tell her what to do.

Then he went back to the theater and stood up in the rear, for the house was crowded, to hear Letty sing. It was souvenir night; there were post-cards and little coral caps with feathers as bonbonnieres. They called her out before the curtain a dozen times, and each time Dan wanted to cry "Mercy" for her. He felt as though this little act had established a friendship between them; and his hands clenched as he thought of Poniatowsky, and he tried to recall that he was an engaged man. He had an idea that Letty Lane was looking for him through the performance. She finished [illegible] flowers were strewn [illegible] her, and Dan found himself, in spite of his resolution, going back into the wings.

This time two or three cards were sent in. One by one he saw the visitors refused; and Dan, without any formality, himself knocked at Letty Lane's small door, which Higgins opened, looked back over her shoulder to give his name to her mistress, and said to Dan confidently, "Wait, sir; just wait a bit." Her lips were affable. And in a few moments, to Dan's astonished delight, the actress herself appeared, a big scarf over her head and her body enveloped in her snowy cloak, and he understood with a leap of his heart that she had singled him out to take her home.

She went before him through the wings to the stage entrance, which he opened for her, and she passed out before him into the fog and the mist. For the first time Blair followed her through the crowd, which was a big one on this night. On the one side waited the poor, who wished her many blessing, and on the other side her admirers, whose thoughts were quite different. Something of this flashed through Dan's mind—and in that moment he touched the serious part of life for the first time.

In Letty Lane's motor, the small electric light lit over their heads and the flower vase empty, he sat beside the fragrant human creature who London adored, and knew his place would have been envied by many a men.

"I took your friends to their place all right," he told her, "and I'm going to see them myself tomorrow. I advised the girl not to get married for her money. Say, this is awfully nice of you to let me take you home!"

She seemed small in her corner. "You were great tonight," Dan went on, "simply great! Wasn't the crowd crazy about you, though! How does it feel to stand there and hear them clap like a thunderstorm and call your name?"

She replied with effort. "It was a nice audience, wasn't it? Oh, I don't know how it feels. It is rather stimulating. How's the other boy?" she asked abruptly, and when Dan had said that Ruggles had left him alone in London, she turned and laughed a little.

Dan asked her why she had sent for him today. "I'm mighty sorry I was out of town," he said warmly. "Just to think you should have wanted me to do something for you and I didn't turn up. You know I would be glad to do anything. What was it? Won't you tell me what it was?"

"The Jew did it for me."

And Dan exclaimed: "It made me simply sick to see that animal in your room. I would have kicked him out if I hadn't thought that it would make an unpleasant scene for you. We have passed the Savoy." He looked out of the window and Letty Lane replied:

"I told the driver to go to the Carlton first."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

TAKES PHOTOS OF THOUGHTS

French Scientist Says He Has Got Impressions of Them on Sensitive Plates.

Much interest has been aroused in Paris by the announcement of the well-known scientific investigator Commander Darget, of the success of experiments in photographing human thought.

Commander Darget, who has devoted a long time to the study of hypnotism and kindred subjects, stated to the Academy of Science that after many trials he had succeeded in obtaining photographic impressions of thoughts of concrete objects. He produced as evidence two photographs, one showing a walking stick and the other a bottle, in each case the image being perfectly distinct.

In explanation of his achievement, Commander Darget gave the following account of the process:

After staring a long time on the object to be photographed in a strong red light, concentrating all his attention on it, he fixed his gaze with all the will power at his command on a photographic plate that had previously been immersed in a weak developer in a dark room. At the end of a quarter of an hour the image of the object appeared on the negative.

According to the commander's theory, these astonishing results are due to certain obscure light rays which he calls "V" rays.

Hints and Advice on Social Forms

By MME. MERRI

To Raise Money for Banquet.

Our class in high school is very "hard up" for money. We are to give a banquet to the seniors and we only have 16 cents in the treasury. Can you please suggest some way for us to make some money?—H. M.

With only 16 cents in the treasury I think the seniors stand a very poor chance of getting anything to eat. You have asked me a difficult question, for I do not know what resources you have for making money or what are the capabilities of each one. But where there is a will there is always a way. I am sure the girls could have a home delicacy sale on Saturday afternoon which would be well patronized, and the boys could sell popcorn, peanuts and take orders for all sorts of odd jobs that only boys can do. Suppose you write and tell me what success you have, and I will in turn tell the department readers.

For a Leap Year Dinner.

I am to have guests to dinner, after which we will go to a dance. Kindly suggest courses, favors, etc., as it is to be a leap-year affair.—Interested Reader.

For the table centerpiece get the tinsmith to make you the figures 1912 and do them in small flowers. Then for the favors have cleverly written proposals at the men's places, with little mittens (doll size) at the girls'. The place cards should be attached to these favors. They may be plain, with the hostess' monogram or crest in gold, or hand painted, to correspond with the color scheme.

Serve raw oysters, cream of celery soup, crown roast of lamb, browned potatoes, rice croquettes, peas in pastry shells, hot rolls, nut bread, banana salad with nuts, cheese and bar le duc, heart kisses filled with ice cream, coffee.

Calling Card Etiquette.

I should like very much if you would give me the correct information in regard to leaving calling cards. I am a married lady and am in doubt when I should leave my husband's cards and when I should not.—A Reader.

Two of your husband's cards are left when you call upon a couple; a safe rule is to remember that one of his cards is left for each woman and one for each man. For instance, when calling upon a widow who might be living with her father or a grown-up son, a card of your husband's would be left for her and one for the father or son.

From "A Mississippi Girl."

Please suggest some interesting games that would be appropriate for a gathering of young folks between the ages of eighteen and twenty. Can you tell me where I can obtain a book of plays for such a gathering? What would be nice to serve? Please give me a recipe for making punch?

Please suggest a suitable costume to wear at such a gathering.—Mississippi Girl.

All the best party schemes I find go right into the department, and I trust you will find something to suit your needs. If you will send me a self-addressed envelope in care of the paper, I will be glad to furnish you with the names of several books that tell of entertainments of all kinds. To me no party is complete for young people without ice cream and cake, and I like a variety of small, fancy cakes instead of layer ones, that are so hard to eat nicely without soiling the fingers with the filling. I cannot take space for writing out recipes unless for something very unusual. I am sure you will find a rule for several kinds of punch in a recipe book, or ask the best cook you know; she will help you out.

For a gown, I would suggest some pretty, lightweight material, like silk, voile or marquisette, made up in princess style with a sash and round neck, elbow sleeves.

Words of Song.

I am very anxious to secure the words of an old song which my mother sang, "Welcome to Lafayette." The following is the first verse:

"Welcome! Welcome Lafayette,
Thee we never can forget,
Friend of man, we love thee yet,
Friend of liberty!"

Thank you in advance for any interest you may take. You have been a great deal of assistance to me in the past.—N. R. N.

I am very sorry not to personally be able to give you the words of the song, but I haven't them. The best I can do is to lay the question before the department readers, in the hope that some one will know them and kindly send to me in care of the paper, then if you do not see them printed you will know I have done all I could to get them.

Sending Wedding Announcements.

Should I send separate wedding announcements to each member in a family of two grown-up sons and daughters? Should anything be written on the inner envelope?—K. A. M.

In a family where there are two daughters you may address the envelope "The Misses Margaret and Helen Jones," and the sons could also have a joint envelope reading "The Messrs. Harris." The inner envelope bears the name with no address.

MADAME MERRI.

STAYED RIGHT WITH HIS JOB

One Thing, at Least, Hopeful Mother Might Say With Truth of Her Scapegrace Son.

Aunt Julia, Mrs. B——'s colored washerwoman, is a thrifty, respectable and self-respecting representative of her race, but is unfortunate in having an utterly worthless scapegrace son, who lately served a richly deserved sentence in the penitentiary at Pittsburg. Notwithstanding his disgrace, Aunt Julia is exceedingly proud of him and misses no occasion of chanting his praises. Some time ago, on her weekly mission at the B——'s, she observed:

"Ah s'pose yo'all didn't know ah'm gwine to hab my boy home for Christmas?"

"Indeed?"

"Yes, ma'am, he done wrote yisterday he comin' home Tuesday."

"You must be very glad, Aunt Julia. How long has he been away?"

"Eighteen months. Ah tell you, honey, he jest stuck right to it."—Harper's Magazine.

Life Sentence.

The marquis of Queensberry, apropos of the long sentence of Foulke E. Brandt, said at a dinner in New York:

"It reminds me of an incident in London. A certain peer drove in a taxicab to Westminster and, when he got out, gave the driver a very small tip.

"The driver mistook him for a member of the house of commons and snarled:

"'I hope you get turned out next election and don't never get in again!'

"'Don't worry, my friend,' said the peer, as he set off for the house of lords. 'Don't worry—I'm in for life.'"

Doctor Endorses Children's Remedy.

Dr. D. R. Rothrock, New Berlin, Pa., writes that he has used Kopp's Baby's Friend with excellent results. He considers it the best remedy for children, invaluable in Teething Troubles, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea. 3 sizes, 10c, 25c, 50c, at druggists or sent direct. Kopp's Baby's Friend Co., York, Pa. Sample by mail on request.

His Work.

"An electrician ought to be a social success."

"Why an electrician especially?"

"Because he is so well posted on current topics."

To keep artificial teeth and bridgework antiseptically clean and free from odors and disease germs, Paxtine Antiseptic is unequaled. At druggists, 25c a box or sent postpaid on receipt of price by The Paxton Toilet Co., Boston, Mass.

A world of acquaintances, but how many friends?

Garfield Tea, by purifying the blood, eradicates Rheumatism, Dyspepsia and many chronic ailments.

If you don't love your neighbor ask him to raise geese.

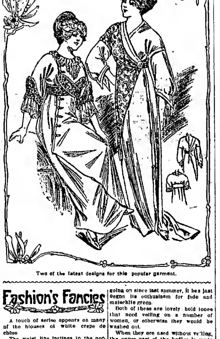
For Congestive Colds, Croup and Sore Throat give Hoxsie's Croup Remedy. It is safe, swift and sure. No nausea. Sold by all Druggists. 50 cents.

Ambition is a good thing, but don't fly higher than you can roost.

Garfield Tea insures a normal action of the liver.

Many a married man has a chaperon in his wife.

Silk Negligee Holds Its Place in Favor of Women of Fashion



Two of the latest designs for this popular garment.

Fashion's Fancies

A touch of sericee appears on many of the blouses of white crepe de chine.

The waist line inclines to the normal rather than to any exaggerated short waisted effects.

Large draped hats of changeable silk have a single rose of some bright hue as the only trimming.

Large hats have towering pyramids of feathers, while tiny bonnets are trimmed with masses of plumes at the back.

A highly favored gown material is flowered mousseline de soie in tones of blue, cerise and violet, brocaded in dull gold.

Foulards in lovely shades of blue and rose are to be much in favor for the one piece gown, so practical for spring wear.

Malachite Green.

While Paris has almost exhausted its favoritism for red, which has been going on since last summer, it has just begun its enthusiasm for jade and malachite green.

Both of these are lovely bold tones that need veiling on a number of women, or otherwise they would be washed out.

When they are used without veiling, the upper part of the bodice is made of tulle in white or flesh pink, to take the shade of the green from the face, and when a woman cannot wear the unrelieved tone it is veiled with a dark shade of green tulle instead of black tulle.

On these gowns there is an opportunity to use many jade and malachite stones as trimmings and as ornaments.

Too Literal a Change.

One night when Viola Allen was playing Parthenia in "Ingomar," she once leaned pensively against a set piece and soliloquised sadly: "What sudden change has come upon the world!" On the instant the set piece overturned with the actress, leaving only one sandaled foot projecting in sight of the amused spectators.

Write For This Free Book—Shows 20 Beautiful Modern Rooms—tells how you can get the very latest effects on your walls. Contains a sample of the Color Plans our artists will furnish you, FREE, for any rooms you wish to decorate.

Alabastine
The Beautiful Wall Tint
comes in 16 exquisite tints. More artistic than wall paper or paint at a fraction of the cost. Kalsomine colors are harsh and common beside the soft-hued water color tints of Alabastine. Absolutely sanitary—easiest and quickest to use, goes furthest and will not chip, peel, or rub off. Doesn't need an expert to put on. Easy directions in every package. Full 5 lb. Pkg., white, 50c; regular tints, 55c.
Alabastine Company
11 Grandville Road, Grand Rapids, Mich.
New York City, Desk 4, 105 Water Street
DON'T FAIL to WRITE FOR THE FREE BOOK

Splendid Crops
In Saskatchewan (Western Canada)
800 Bushels from 20 acres of wheat was the thresher's return from a Lloydminster farm in the season of 1910. Many fields in that as well as other districts yielded from 25 to 35 bushels of wheat to the acre. Other grains in proportion.
160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE
LARGE PROFITS are thus derived from the FREE HOMESTEAD LANDS of Western Canada.
This excellent showing causes prices to advance. Land values should double in two years' time. Grain growing, mixed farming, cattle raising and dairying are all profitable. Free Homesteads of 160 acres are to be had in the very best districts; 160 acre pre-emptions at $3.00 per acre within certain areas. Schools and churches in every settlement, climate unexcelled, soil the richest; wood, water and building material plentiful.
For particulars as to location, low settlers' railway rates and descriptive illustrated pamphlet, "Last Best West," and other information, write to Sup't of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or to Canadian Government Agent.
H. M. WILLIAMS
413 Gardner Bldg., Toledo, Ohio
Please write to the agent nearest you

PROTECT YOUR HOME
Attention
Do you need to make money? Are you looking for a profitable business? Do you want to become a public benefactor? Do you believe in the use of Lightning Rods? If so Hum & Leatherman Inc of Pittsburgh Pa. or Reyborn Hunter & Co., of Chicago & Philadelphia will send you their "Free Booklet" on application if you desire a special line of goods and an exclusive territory in which to operate.

PATENTS START FACTORIES. Send for free book how to get Patents. Patent secured or fee returned. Sues & Company, 440 7th St., Washington, D.C.

Women
From Forty-Five to Fifty Are Much Benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The "change of life" is a most critical period in a woman's existence, and the anxiety felt by women as it draws near is not without reason.

When her system is in a deranged condition, she may be predisposed to apoplexy, or congestion of some organ. At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to form and begin their destructive work.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness, are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

These symptoms are calls from nature for help. The nerves are crying out for assistance and the cry should be heeded in time.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is prepared to meet the needs of women's system at this trying period of her life. It invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system. It has carried many women safely through this crisis.

Mrs. Estella Gillispie
ONE CASE OUT OF MANY TO PROVE OUR CLAIMS.
St. Anne, Ill.—"I was passing through the change of life and I was a perfect wreck from female troubles. I had a displacement and bearing down pains, weak fainting spells, dizziness, then numb and cold feelings. Sometimes my feet and limbs were swollen. I was irregular and had so much backache and headache, was nervous, irritable and was despondent. Sometimes my appetite was good but more often it was not. My kidneys troubled me at times and I could walk only a short distance.
"I saw your advertisement in a paper and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I was helped from the first. At the end of two months the swelling had gone down, I was relieved of pain, and could walk with ease. I continued with the medicine and now I do almost all my housework. I know your medicine has saved me from the grave and I am willing for you to publish anything I write to you, for the good of others."—Mrs. Estella Gillispie, R.F.D. No. 4, Box 34, St. Anne, Illinois.

SPOHN'S DISTEMPER CURE
For DISTEMPER Pink Eye, Epizootic, Shipping Fever & Catarrhal Fever
[illegible]
SPOHN MEDICAL CO., Chemists and Bacteriologists, GOSHEN, IND., U. S. A.

HARRY STEINFELDT AS A COME-BACK

Third Baseman Steinfeldt.

Out of the goodness of his heart Manager Bresnahan opened the gates of his training camp to two would-be come-backs this spring and there is a prospect that the bread cast upon the waters may be returned to him, for both Bob Ewing and Harry Steinfeldt are said to be giving indications of real worth. Bresnahan can use a good, steady pitcher like Ewing and Steinfeldt's presence was calculated to have a good effect on the holdout Mowrey if nothing else. Steinfeldt, however, believes he can be more than a catspaw. He was ill last season after his release by Chicago, but a rest during the winter has made him well again, and he is eager to stay in the game. He may at least win a utility berth with the Cardinals. Ewing says there was nothing really wrong with him in his last engagement with Philadelphia, except that Dooin would not give him a chance to work, and, of course, he also wants to stay and prove it.

NAVIN SPOILS TIGER TRADE

Prevented Exchange of Wood and Carrigan for Pitcher Eddie Summers and Catcher Schmidt.

It's cause for jubilation and thanksgiving to the other clubs of the American league that a little deal planned for at one time did not go through. John I. Taylor was sore on Bill Carrigan because the backstop wanted more money.

So he planned to trade Joe Wood and Bill for Eddie Summers and Schmidt of the Tigers and Jennings grabbed at the offer. The Tigers would have got all the better of the trade, and with Wood pitching in front of a team like the Tigers he would be unbeatable.

Just as Jennings had everything arranged to give a useless catcher for one of the best backstops in the league, together with a half-rater in the pitching line for a swell twirler, President Navin stopped in and crabbed the deal. He heard stories about the physical condition of Wood that made the president feel he was not in good shape, and he swallowed them, bait, hook and anchor. Otherwise the umps around the circuit would have the megaphone man bellowing, "For Detroit, Wood and Carrigan."

GETS EVEN WITH BLACKBURNE

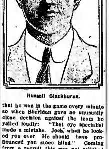
Umpire Jack Sheridan's Quick Retort Effectually Squelches Injured White Sox Player.

Russell Blackburne fell a victim to an injury about the time that Umpire Jack Sheridan began having trouble with his eyes. Sheridan's case had been diagnosed by an eye specialist, while Blackburne's physician had advised an operation on his knee. While unable to play, Blackburne was trying to earn his salary and was sent out to coach. Sheridan was working the bases and a number of close decisions had gone against the Sox on the paths early in the game. Blackburne wanted to impress the crowd with the fact that he was in the game every minute, so when Sheridan gave an unusually close decision against the team he yelled loudly: "That eye specialist made a mistake, Jack, when he looked you over. He should have pronounced you stone blind." Coming from a recruit this was not relished by Sheridan, but quick as a flash he retorted: "Yes, and if that surgeon knows his business he will operate on your head instead of your knee." And Blackburne hiked to the bench as fast as his lame knee would let him.



Russell Blackburne.

Doubt McGuire's Ability.

When Hughie Jennings signed Jim McGuire as coach and scout for the Detroit Tigers he made a hit with the home fans in that city, but it is a question whether McGuire can tip the Tiger pitchers off on the weaknesses at bat of Nap Lajoie and Joe Jackson. Many deluded ball players have thought they had Larry's weakness in days that are gone and lived to discover their mistake.

Jennings as a Kidder.

Hughie Jennings of the Tigers is some kidder. A traveling man down in Monroe saw Jennings. He knew Hughie very well. "Say, what is Ty Cobb, a pitcher or a shortstop?" asked the inquisitive T. M. "Neither," returned Hughie, "he's a catcher." "Oh, that's all right," said the T. M. "I remember seeing him catching in New Orleans last year."

Only Live Ones Wanted.

John M. Ward, head of the Boston Nationals, and Clark Griffith, head of the Washington Senators, can shake hands over the proposition. Both of them have declared themselves against making Boston and Washington the dumping grounds of the other clubs in the league. Only live ball players can be disposed of to these two clubs in the future.

Street Praises Caldwell.

Charlie Street, the sensational catcher of the Yankees, says that "Slim" Caldwell is destined to have a great year in the box this season. Street forgets his attachment to Walter Johnson when he sees Caldwell perform.

BALL AND BAT NOTES

Almeida, the Cuban player on Hank O'Day's team, is likely to get his walking papers.

The veteran Brooklyn battery, Pitcher Bell and Catcher Bergen, will perform the coming season for Joe McGinnity's Newark team.

Fort Smith failed to come up with its forfeit in the new Oklahoma State league, and the franchise has been awarded to a town named Holdenville.

Before offering the Indian Smith to Louisville, Manager Chance of the Cubs tendered him to New Orleans, but Charley Frank could not see him.

Manager Bresnahan wants to trade Mike Mowrey, the hold-out, as he believes Harry Steinfeldt has "come back" and can take care of third base.

The Chillicothe (O.) club has signed Harry McCall, last year with Marion, for first base, and Orlando Keller, last year with Erie, for third base.

Dan Brown, an outfielder picked up from the Tidewater league for the New York Americans last fall by Scout Irwin, has been turned over to Bridgeport.

Jack Reidy, last year at Macon, failed to come to terms with Cleveland, Tenn., and Zimosky will as a consequence be retained as manager of the Appalachian league team.

Pitcher Johnny Bush, who was hit on the head by a pitched ball last season and so badly hurt he decided to quit the game, has reconsidered and signed his contract with Utica.

Manager Mike Kelly of St. Paul failed to make any deals as a result of his visit to the major league camps at Hot Springs, but has hopes of landing something to bolster his Saints.

Bert Delmas, for five years shortstop on the Los Angeles team, has quit the game and will this year act as manager-captain of the independent team at Modesto, Cal., his home town.

Bill Cristall, the veteran southpaw giant disposer, has signed with the Holyoke club of the Connecticut league. Cristall has forsaken the mound, his arm having lost speed, and will try for the outfield.

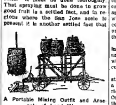
Memphis, which thought it had secured Catcher Tonneman from the Boston Americans when the New York club refused to waive, has now purchased him from Wolverton, paying the waiver price of $1,500.

IMPORTANCE OF SPRAYING IS TOO OFTEN UNDERESTIMATED

Upon Many Farms are Matured Apple Orchards That Have Been Neglected for Years, but Which May, With Small Investment and Little Work, be Made to Return Good Income.

(By S. B. HARTMAN.)

The chief difficulty in caring for a small orchard is the spraying. Fairly good fruit can be grown without cultivation, if some mulching or manure is applied, and a home orchard can often be utilized as a hog pasture much of the season. The pruning is not difficult if the trees are not too badly neglected, and there is a latitude of time in which to do it, time, too, when the farm work is not pressing, but the spraying, or at least a part of it, must be done at certain times, for a delay of a week will make a great difference in the results. It must be done thoroughly. That spraying must be done to grow good fruit is a settled fact, and in regions where the San Jose scale is present it is another settled fact that spraying must be done to save the trees. This spraying could be done by those who make it a business to furnish apparatus and materials and go from farm to farm spraying small orchards for less than it would cost the farmer who owns a few trees. If some reliable party can be found to do it on time, by all means secure him, and pay the price without grumbling. But few can command such service, and must do the work for themselves, if it is done at all. The outfit need consist only of a good brass pump with barrel, 25 feet of hose, a good 2 to 10-foot extension rod, and one or more standard nozzles.



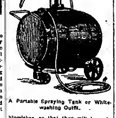
A Portable Mixing Outfit and Arsenate of Lead Mixer.

If San Jose scale is present an iron kettle is needed in which to cook lime and sulphur wash, unless one prefers to purchase the ready-made commercial preparations. A barrel or two for mixing the materials and a one-horse buggy or wagon, to carry the spray barrel, can be found on every farm, and generally there is a spare horse to draw the outfit. A half-day, or at most a day, two to four times a year, will suffice to spray an orchard of from 25 to 50 trees, according to size.

Spraying must be made a regular practice. The neglected trees have probably sheltered insects and diseases for some years that must be subdued by thorough and regular spraying. Good judgment must be used in all the operations. Do not carry any one operation to excess or to the neglect of others. The trees are being stimulated along several lines as pruning, cultivating, fertilizing and spraying, and each must be an accompaniment to the others.

Success depends upon many things, but the first thing is the man. To undertake this work in a half-hearted way will discourage success.

Apple orchards cannot be relied upon to bring forth crops of clean, sound apples in paying quantities unless thoroughly sprayed. Apples must be of good size, attractive in appearance and sound, free from worms and blemishes, so that they will keep in storage for their normal length of time, and unless the trees, fruit and foliage are insured against the attacks of insects and fungous troubles that are apt to come at any time, such fruit cannot be expected to mature.



A Portable Spraying Tank or Whitewashing Outfit.

Fruit and foliage are kept free from these troubles by a very thin film of spraying mixture, the spore, which is the seed of the disease, being unable to grow through this substance, hence, the great importance of having the material upon the foliage and fruit before the disease starts.

Insects are destroyed by eating parts of plants upon which has been sprayed a little poison, or by having their bodies struck by some penetrating substance, such as oil.

The standard material to insure protection against fungous troubles is called Bordeaux mixture, the name "Bordeaux" was taken from the place in France where the mixture originated.

There are but three things used in its preparation, water, lime and copper sulphate. The water acts as a carrier, the lime neutralizes the caustic action of the copper sulphate and also makes the mixture stick to whatever it is sprayed upon, and the copper sulphate is the chemical that prevents the growth of the spore of the disease.

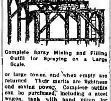
The equipment necessary for spraying orchards should depend upon the amount of work to be done, and herewith are briefly described the most common types.

A barrel outfit consists of a good strong pump and agitator adjusted in a barrel holding 50 gallons can be carried about in any kind of a wagon. One man can drive and pump, while the other attends to the spraying. Such an outfit is satisfactory for small orchards, and costs from $12 to $20.

A tank outfit with hand pump consists of a tank holding 100 or more gallons which is set upon a wagon bed, and on the tank is fitted a pump, usually of greater power than a barrel pump. Generally a tower is built upon the tank from which the tops of good-sized trees can be sprayed. One man can drive and pump and one or two can spray. Some device to keep the mixture agitated should be provided. This is frequently driven by the sprocket gear attached to one of the wagon wheels. The man who pumps can give the mixture frequent agitation with a paddle or large wood en hoe.

A tank holding about 200 gallons will cost about $10. The pump costs about $25.

A gas power outfit consists of a tank of 50 to 200 gallons capacity to hold the spray liquid, into which is fitted an agitator. An iron tube containing carbonic acid gas furnishes the power. The tubes of gas are purchased from manufacturers in cities or large towns and when empty are returned. Their merits are tightness and saving power. Complete outfits can be purchased, including a steel wagon, tank with hand pump for filling, and steel tower for about $190.



Complete Spray Mixing and Filling Outfit for Spraying on a Large Scale.

Gasoline engines for spraying have been greatly improved in recent years, and more are being used every season. Their use is economy for owners of large orchards and the engine can be used for various purposes on the farm. The engine is usually mounted on the rear of the wagon, and also runs the agitator; canvas curtains protect it from exposure. The tank is of any size desired and frequently a tower is built upon it. A complete outfit costs from about $175 up.

The first spraying should be done just before the blossoms open. A poison, Paris green, about one-fourth pound, or arsenate of lead about one and one-half pounds, is added to the Bordeaux.

The second time just after the blossoms fall, and again, it is desirable to use poison.

The third time about two weeks after the second application, and with poison.

The fourth time early in August. Experience has shown that this is a timely spraying to destroy the second brood of codling worms and check a late development of apple scab. Use only about one-half as much copper sulphate, but the same amount of poison as in the other sprayings.

Old Trees.

In some parts of China are many camphor trees, some of which are known to be over 1,000 years old.

MOST SERIOUS INSECT PESTS

Corn Root Worms Undoubtedly Most Injurious Nuisance Corn Grower Has to Contend With.

(By R. L. WEBSTER.)

The corn root worms are undoubtedly the most serious insect pests with which the corn grower has to contend.

The presence of root worms in a field is generally indicated by the withering of the young plants, the failure to produce well developed ears or a general retarding of the growth without any visible cause. A search among the roots of such stalks may bring to notice the tiny root worms.

The root worms themselves are small, slender white grubs about half an inch long when they are full grown. Infested stalks of corn may be pulled out easily and will break off at the place where the root worms are at work, leaving the greater part of the roots in the soil.

Frequently stalks infested by the root worm are blown to the ground by the wind, the root system having been so cut off that the stalks cannot stand the strain.

A continuous cropping of corn on the same ground will very soon increase the number of root worms to an alarming extent and consequently decrease the yield.

Rotation of crops is the most effectual preventive of root worms. The beetles of the root worms usually deposit their eggs in the old infested fields. By changing the corn from such a field to another which was not in corn the preceding year, these eggs are left behind.

Seed Planting.

The germination of seed requires three essentials—heat, moisture and air. Therefore it is folly to put seeds in the ground until it has been warmed by the sun. Corn planting time in your locality is about the proper time for the majority of seeds.

What is Castoria.

CASTORIA is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic, all Teething Troubles and Diarrhoea. It regulates the Stomach and Bowels, assimilates the Food, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

900 DROPS CASTORIA ALCOHOL 3 PER CENT. AVegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of INFANTS CHILDREN. Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC. A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP. Fac Simile Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. NEW YORK. At 6 months old 35 DOSES—35 CENTS. Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act. Exact Copy of Wrapper.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. Albert W. Kahl, of Buffalo, N. Y., says: "I have used Castoria in my practice for the past 26 years. I regard it as an excellent medicine for children."

Dr. Gustave A. Eisengraeber, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "I have used your Castoria repeatedly in my practice with good results, and can recommend it as an excellent, mild and harmless remedy for children."

Dr. E. J. Dennis, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have used and prescribed your Castoria in my sanitarium and outside practice for a number of years and find it to be an excellent remedy for children."

Dr. S. A. Buchanan, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have used your Castoria in the case of my own baby and find it pleasant to take, and have obtained excellent results from its use."

Dr. J. E. Simpson, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."

Dr. R. E. Eskildson, of Omaha, Neb., says: "I find your Castoria to be a standard family remedy. It is the best thing for infants and children I have ever known and I recommend it."

Dr. L. R. Robinson, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria certainly has merit. Is not its age, its continued use by mothers through all these years, and the many attempts to imitate it, sufficient recommendation? What can a physician add? Leave it to the mothers."

Dr. Edwin F. Pardee, of New York City, says: "For several years I have recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."

Dr. N. B. Sizer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I object to what are called patent medicines, where maker alone knows what ingredients are put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use."

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

A Believer.

Gifford Pinchot, at his brother's house, in Park avenue, New York, listened quizzically to a political story that was being submitted to him for verification by a political reporter.

When the reporter finished his narrative Mr. Pinchot laughed and said:

"I'll reply to that as the old Italian peasant replied to the statement that his fellow-countryman loved birds too well ever to eat them:

"'Well, I don't mind believing that myself,' the old man said, 'but there's a good many who wouldn't.'"

When Your Eyes Need Care
Try Murine Eye Remedy. No Smarting—Feels Fine—Acts Quickly. Try it for Red, Weak, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Illustrated Book in each Package. Murine is compounded by our Oculists—not a "Patent Medicine"—but used in successful Physicians' Practice for many years. Now dedicated to the Public and sold by Druggists at 25c and 50c per Bottle. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c and 50c.
Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

Supreme Faith.

"I gave my wife a check for $1,000 yesterday."

"What was the cause of your liberality?"

"I knew she'd never have the nerve to try to cash it."

If You Are a Trifle Sensitive
About the size of your shoes, you can wear a size smaller by shaking Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder, into them. Just the thing for Dancing Parties and for Breaking in New Shoes. Gives instant relief to Corns and Bunions. Sample FREE. Address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

Very Far.

"That's a pretty far-fetched story."

"Yes, I got it by long distance telephone."

Garfield Tea, for the ills resulting from impure blood, is a remedy of tried efficacy. Drink before retiring.

A man is always willing to pay what he owes—if it is a grudge.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle.

He who lends money without security borrows trouble.

ONLY ONE "BROMO QUININE." That is LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE. Look for the signature of E. W. GROVE. Used the World over to Cure a Cold in One Day. 25c.

What the world needs is less good advice and more good example.

Serious Costly Sickness
is far too sure to come when your bodily strength has been undermined by the poison of bile. Headaches, sour stomach, unpleasant breath, nervousness, and a wish to do nothing are all signs of biliousness—signs, too, that your system needs help. Just the right help is given and the bodily condition which invites serious sickness
Is Prevented By timely use of Beecham's Pills. This famous vegetable, and always efficient family remedy will clear your system, regulate your bowels, stimulate your liver, tone your nerves. Your digestion will be so improved, your food will nourish you and you will be strong to DO and to resist. You will feel greater vigor and vitality, as well as buoyant spirits—after you know and use
Beecham's Pills
The directions with every box are valuable—especially to women. Sold everywhere. In boxes 10c., 25c.

Pomade Vaseline
A choice dressing and preservative for the hair. Highly refined, delicately perfumed. Checks dandruff and keeps scalp in healthy condition. Pomade Vaseline is put up in attractive bottles and in collapsible tubes. Insist on Pomade VASELINE. If your dealer does not carry it, write us. We will also be glad to send you free illustrated booklet, describing other "Vaseline" preparations for toilet and family use. Address Dept. K.
Chesebrough Manufacturing Company
17 State Street (Consolidated) New York

W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES
$2.25 $2.50 $3.00 $3.50 $4.00 & $5.00
For MEN, WOMEN and BOYS
THE STANDARD OF QUALITY FOR OVER 30 YEARS
WEAR W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES
You can save money because they are more economical and satisfactory in style, fit and wear than any other makes. W. L. Douglas name and price stamped on the bottom guarantees full value and protects the wearer against high prices and inferior shoes. Insist upon having the genuine W. L. Douglas shoes. Take No Substitute.
[illegible]

A BLOOD MEDICINE WITHOUT ALCOHOL.
Recently it has been definitely proven by experiments on animals that alcohol lowers the germicidal power of the body and that alcohol paralyzes the white corpuscles of the blood and renders them unable to take up and destroy disease germs. Disease germs cause the death of over one-half of the human race.
A blood medicine, made entirely without alcohol, which is a pure glyceric extract of roots, such as Bloodroot, Queen's root, Golden Seal root, Mandrake and Stone root, has been extensively sold by druggists for the past forty years as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The refreshing influence of this extract is like Nature's influence—the blood is bathed in the tonic which gives life to the blood—the vital fires of the body burn brighter and their increased activity consumes the tissue rubbish which has accumulated during the winter.
Dr. R. V. Pierce, the founder of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, and a physician of large experience and practice, was the first to make up an ALTERATIVE EXTRACT of roots, without a particle of alcohol or narcotic.
[illegible]
Mrs. Byrne.
Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate liver and bowels.

ABSORBINE
[illegible]
W. F. YOUNG, P. D. F., 310 Temple St., Springfield, Mass.

THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY. No. 1, No. 2, No. 3.
THERAPION
[illegible]

$8.00 PER 100 [illegible]

Pettit's Eye Salve TONIC FOR EYES

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES
Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c package colors all fibers. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. MONROE DRUG COMPANY, [illegible]

Monthly Department Sales

JANUARY 1st this store was departmentized and systemized by Ernst & Ernst, expert accountants. One of the results is to show the manager, monthly, the exact condition of each stock. The old way was to have a sale twice a year to balance stocks and sell broken lots. Our modern way will be to introduce monthly sales about the middle of each month. These sales will mean a great saving to the thrifty buyer, as every department head will offer you specials that will pay you to come many miles to take advantage of.

This First Sale Will Last 4 Days — Opening Wednesday, April 17th — and Closing Saturday, the 20th

Ready-to-Wear Specials
For Ladies and Misses
A few handsome Model Suits Values $30.00, $25.00 at $25.00

Other Specials in Ladies' and Misses' All-Wool Suits
Values $30.00, $35.00 at $25.00
Others ........ $14.75

A Special Purchase
All wool Coats, every size. Choice ........ $10.00
All Wool Skirts, values up to $6.50 at ........ $4.75
All early models of Wool or Silk Dresses at ........ 1-4 off

House Dresses
Ladies' House Dresses, choice 89c
Children's broken lots of sizes 45c

Housefurnishing Specials
White Curtains, Swiss with colored stripes and figures, 12½c and 15c values ........ 8c yd.
Fancy Silkolines, 12½c values 9c
35c to 50c Madras ........ 25c yd.
Mostly short lengths
All 1 and 2 pairs of curtains at 1-3 or 1-2 off
Many specials in muslin and lace curtains from regular stock

Special Sale of Tapestry Rugs
7x9, 8-3x10-6 and 9x12 sizes. Values up to $13.75 Choice ........ $10.00
Regular 25c fancy Matting Special ........ 19c yd.
All Couch Covers and Portiers at ........ 1-4 off

Men's and Boys' Clothing Department
Broken sizes Boys' Suits, $5.00 to $6.00 values at ........ $3.75
Broken sizes Men's Suits, $16.50 to $20.00 values at ........ $14.75
Broken assortment Men's Fancy $1.00 Shirts at ........ 75c
Special lot Men's Shirts at ........ 25c
Canvas Gloves, 3 prs for ........ 10c
Children's $1.00 Cloth Hats ........ 25c

Men's Shoe Department
40 pairs Men's $3.50 and $4.00 Oxfords at ........ $2.45
48 pairs Men's $3, $3.50 and $4 Oxfords at ........ $1.95
12 pairs Boys' $3.00 Shoes at ........ $1.95
18 pairs Men's $2.50 Tan Shoes at ........ $1.95

Dress Goods and Domestic Department
32 in. Dress Ginghams at ........ 9c yd
20c and 25c White Wash Goods at ........ 17c
50c Fancy Wash Voiles at 35c yd
25c Voiles and Foulards ........ 17c yd
Fancy Batiste, special at ........ 10c yd
8c Unbleached cotton at ........ 6c yd
Lonsdale Cotton at ........ 9c yd
Ladies 50c Silk Boot Hose ........ 35c
20 small pieces Wool Dress Goods ........ 1-2 price

Ladies' Shoe Department
36 pr. Ladies' $2.50, $3.00 and $3.50 Oxfords, 2½ to 4 at $1.95
24 pr. Ladies' $2.00, $2.50 and $3.00 Oxfords, 2½ to 5 at $1.45
48 pr. Ladies' $3.00 and $3.50 shoes, 2½ to 5 at ........ $1.95
12 pr. Ladies' $3.00 and $3.50 shoes, 2½ to 3½ at ........ 95c
24 pr. Misses' $2.25 Shoes, 11½ to 2, at ........ $1.45

REMEMBER, we will redeem all cash sale slips, giving in exchange for same, china, cut glass or other household articles when total amount reaches $25.00 or more. Some new special gifts, in addition to the old, will be announced just as soon as they reach us. Begin to save your slips now if you have neglected to do so before. Instruct your men folks to save them. It will pay you.

The GAIL G. GRANT CO. Service and Value Givers

If you want a FLOUR that will satisfy in any kind of baking try our WHITE BEAUTY.

We have sold this brand for over fifteen years and we know it will please you.

W. M. WERNER
DRUGS, GROCERIES, CROCKERY, HOUSEFURNISHINGS

BOSS
SELF WORKING WASHER
BOSS

The Washing Machine that Really Washes Clothes Clean

THIS is the famous "Boss"—the machine with the mechanical wash-board—improved by the high speed, fly wheel attachment. Can be operated by Electric, Water or Engine Power as well as by hand. Tell us the kind you want. A child can easily run it.

The clothes are rubbed, squeezed and thoroughly washed, far better than they can be by hand. Made of everlasting Louisiana Red Cypress Wood. Order one on trial from your local dealer. Write direct to us for booklet on washday hints.

THE BOSS WASHING MACHINE CO., Norwood Station, Cincinnati, Ohio

Pingree
Ladies' Shoes
Ladies' Pumps and Oxfords
Men's Shoes
Men's Oxfords
John S. Lockwood

FIRE, LIFE, ACCIDENT, HEALTH
AND
PLATE GLASS INSURANCE
FRANK L. KERR

Farmer's Column

FOR SALE—Team of horses, five or six years old, weight about 2600. Inquire on Brown farm Mentor Headlands or address O. S. Foster, R. D. 4, Painesville.

FOR SALE—Asparagus, Pie-plant and Grape Roots. Enquire of S. D. Carroll, 240 Newell St., Painesville.

FOR RENT on shares. Fine farm, 36 acres, tools, stock, etc. The F. P. Miller farm, ½ mile west North Madison, North Ridge. Must secure man by April 1st as my tenant has bought a farm and is going away. Party must furnish one horse and reference. Inquire Dr. J. R. Bell, dentist, 1414 New England Bldg., Cleveland, O.

FOR SALE—My services as auctioneer, at very reasonable terms. Roy Harrison, Painesville. Home phone 352J2.

FARMS WANTED—Large and small, either for sale or exchange for City property. We sell quick if your price is right. Joseph Sedivy & Son, 3379 E. 49th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

FOR SALE or Exchange for farm a store property with living rooms. Madison, Ohio, Lock Box 351, Madison, Ohio.

FARM HELP—We have a number of applications from good farm hands for employment on farms. Address, Joseph Sedivy & Son, 3379 E. 49th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

FOR RENT—Fine suite of 5 rooms for housekeeping. Steam heat. R. N. Whitcomb, Mentor, Ohio.

FOR SALE—Stove wood, seasoned hickory. Home phone 307L3, Painesville, Ohio.

FOR SALE—Farm suitable for stock or dairy farming, plenty of water and well timbered. Enquire of E. P. Brown, Painesville, R. F. D. 3.

NOTICE—A small ad. in this column costs little, but brings quick results. Try it.

IN GETTING AN ELECTRIC SUCTION CLEANER

DON'T BE DECEIVED and buy one with a cheap motor, a small vertical shaft which will soon wear and drop, especially when in connection with a small fan which must necessarily be run at high speed in order to get sufficient power. Such machines make a neat appearance and may do good work while new, but are SHORT LIVED.

When you buy the MAGIC ELECTRIC you have a cleaner with a five year guarantee certificate, a motor designed especially for it by the WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC MFG. Co., having a large horizontal shaft, a good sized fan which even at low speed gives sufficient power.

The MAGIC is the most simple in construction, having no pumps, valves, connecting rods, gears, belts, etc., to give out.

After three years' experience with various makes, we sell the BEST the market affords.

CHAS. A. MILLER
Phone 149-R PAINESVILLE, OHIO

Crucible of Criticism.

The alchemy of public opinion in a country where thought and speech are free and untrammeled transmutes many a baser metal into pure gold. The crucible of criticism is the final process through which everything and everybody that comes before our public must pass. The least of us is jealous to his right in that regard. We are all from Missouri when it comes to the matter of being shown. And up to the degree of sordidness this is a saving element in our life, but, of course, beyond that it would not be.

It is not only right, but necessary, that we subject untried theories, or unknown persons to this refining crucible. We do not give heed to anyone who fears to submit his proposition to the test, either. Such as these get small hearing. The people suspect them immediately of spuriousness, of having a scheme which they, themselves, do not believe in or they would not seek to evade the common judgment.—Omaha Bee.

Don't Cuff a Child.

"Don't box a naughty child's ears. Don't allow any provocation to tempt you to strike a child on the head," is the injunction contained in an article on skulls issued by the International Hygiene Exposition at Dresden. Corporal punishment of any kind, says the writer, is wrong, but when the head is the point of contact between the angry parent and the child the former may easily become a murderer. In a collection of skulls at the exposition, lent by the Wurzburg university, there are many of children as well as adults which show that the abnormally thin skull is not unusually found, even in otherwise normal human beings, and the causes of death, which are stated on cards attached to the skulls, are intended to serve as warnings to parents, teachers and guardians.

A Motoring Trip.

"Well, Binks, I see you've returned from your thousand-mile tour in New England," said Bjones.

"Yep," said Binks.

"How did you find the hotels en route?" asked Bjones.

"Hotels!" retorted Binks. "We didn't stop at any hotels. We passed all our nights in the county jails."—Harper's Weekly.

MUST BE A LIVE WIRE

SUCCESSFUL MAN GETS FATE'S MESSAGE INSTANTLY.

He Is Quick to See Each Opportunity, Small or Big, for Advancement and Is Prompt to Act at Right Time.

In the present trend of the times when every movement is regarded by a pendulum of value there are thousands of opportunities going to waste for want of people to take them when they come. As a matter of fact the history of reverses in business might be summed up in two words, "Lost Opportunity."

Daily we hear the cry, "If I had only taken hold at the time." But when fate knocked at his door no one opened.

In such cases the man who was asleep wakes up to the realization of the chance that has passed. There is no one who has not had the chance to climb higher some time or other. But when the psychological moment arrived he was not alive to the issue.

Contrary to the general belief, a man is not confronted once, but many times, with possibilities for better things. To succeed he must be quick to see and prompt to act.

The live wire to business is ready to receive the message the moment it arrives. In truth, he constitutes the third rail by which the wheels of industry are kept on the move. He feels every vibration that means advancement for himself; he also recognizes the other fellow who is traveling in the same line. He accords him the square deal that he would be accorded because he realizes to the full what the step-by-step striving for success means. Thus the growing pains of each are minimized. If the business world were full of wide-awake individuals we would evolve economic principles of industry heretofore undreamed.

One of the great problems that confronts the people is the conservation of waste. Waste is the result of misdirected energy. That is to say, the attention has been focused to the opposite direction.

In a word, the man who might have saved the situation was "napping" at the time when he was needed most. Thus it resolves itself to a pivotal point showing that the man who is caught napping not only injures himself, but causes a sequence of loss.

Another momentous matter on the subject is the fact that many men are on the lookout for a big opportunity and overlook the smaller or seeming lesser thing—which of itself is a fallacy. It is the small opportunities seized and realized that have made the big men.

They have grasped the little measures and have made them measures to the full. They have appreciated the small profit, and thus the larger has come to accordance.

It is a rare thing for a big success to come knocking at a man's door until he has heard and answered the small one.—Business.

Dead Mental Tonic.

As appearance means so much to the average woman, mentally as well as socially, the question often arises, "is she justified in aiding or improving nature if she sees fit?" Many of our well-known medical men think that "makeup" is as good a mental tonic as anyone can take and greatly advises its use, especially for the girl who has some slight personal defect—a scar, a poor complexion or bloodless lips, for the knowledge of her defects makes her shy and oftentimes sulky and miserable.

We owe it to our friends as well as to ourselves to look our best at all times and the girl who can improve her appearance without harming herself, should do so. Nothing gives us quite the self-confidence as to feel we look well.

Actresses are usually warm-hearted, sensible and cheerful. That is because they make the best of themselves in face and form. An old saying is true, "The face is often a index of the mind," and in a measure it is no less true that the mind is a index of the face.

When Grant Flinched.

At the beginning of Grant's administration a large body of ministers called upon him at the White House and made a long address, to which, says the author of "Grant, the Man of Mystery," the president was compelled to reply.

After a sentence or two, Mr. Fish, then secretary of state, noticed that his voice faltered, and fearing that he might be at a loss what to say, the secretary, standing next to him, created a diversion by beginning to cough violently.

Afterward Grant said to Mr. Fish: "How fortunate it was for me that you had that cough! I had felt my knees begin to shake, and I do not think I could have spoken another word!"

Extemporaneous expression was difficult to Grant until after his presidential career, when he became practiced in public speaking.—Youth's Companion.

Bump of Curiosity.

"This large bump running across the back of your head means that you are inclined to be curious to the point of rashness."

"I know it. I got that by sticking my head into an elevator shaft to see if the elevator was coming up, and it was coming down."

Salt in Chimney.

In building a chimney it is recommended to put a quantity of salt into the mortar with which the intercourse of brick is laid. The effect, says the Commoner, will be that there will never be any accumulation of soot in the chimney, for the reason that the salt in the portion of mortar which is exposed will absorb the moisture on damp days, and the soot, becoming damp, will fall down from the walls of the chimney and may be easily removed.

The Great Sale of Rugs
and Floor Coverings is now in full.

Have you been in yet? If not, now is your opportunity. It will be to your mutual advantage to come in and see the hundreds of live money-saving, inspiring values offered. This is a sale without an equal. Prices guaranteed against any and all competition.

Sale Continues Through Saturday, April 29th

The Up-to-Date
Painesville's Leading Dept. Store
EAGLE TRADING STAMPS GIVEN WITH PURCHASES

High grass or low grass, it's all the same to
COLDWELL LAWN MOWERS
You can adjust them instantly.

Just turn one screw and the large cutting knife is brought to any desired angle with the bottom cutter. We guarantee every Coldwell Lawn Mower.

The experience gained in forty years of lawn-mower-making goes into its manufacture.

A "Coldwell" keeps out of the scrap heap—it's a mower without a "kick."

The Doolittle Bros. Co.
RELIABLE HARDWARE

Free! Free!

High Grade, Natural Tone Talking and Singing Machine—FREE

Call at our store and hear the specially prepared Records of Bands and other Instrumental Music, Songs, Stories, Recitations, Etc., and assure yourself that this is the best offered. You Buy Only the Records. THESE RECORDS ARE FAMOUS FOR THEIR TONE AND QUALITY.

As a home entertainer it has no equal. The best talent in the country is brought right to your fireside to while away the long evenings with comical recitations and songs. Or you may wish to learn a song, and what better instructor can you have than one of the peerless singers to phrase a song over and over again if need be. The possibilities of this wonderful machine for instruction and amusement are endless.

ONE STANDARD TALKING MACHINE with handsome FLOWER HORN FREE to every customer whose purchases amount to $25.00.

See and hear this wonderful instrument and learn how easy you can obtain one. ONE MACHINE TO EACH HOME.

Wm. F. Wollpert's
(Successor to J. L. Parris' General Store)
GENERAL STORE
Dry Goods, Boots and Shoes, Ladies' and Gents' Furnishings, Notions, Drugs, Patent Medicines, Sundries, Chinaware and Graniteware
C., P. & E. Main Line, between Stop 51 and 55 — Cuyahoga Phone—Wickliffe, 4-R — WICKLIFFE, OHIO
WE GIVE S. & H. GREEN TRADING STAMPS

Don't Be Deceived

When you want a SUCTION CLEANER get one that CLEANS the CORNERS and NOOKS of the rooms; also Upholstered Furniture, Mattresses, Etc.

Electric machines do not depend on the speed of the operator for their power. We now have a neat, light and efficient machine which is greatly improved over the same make we sold last year.

CHARLES A. MILLER
Phone 149-R. PAINESVILLE, OHIO

---

The Lake County Weekly Herald

Volume XIV. No. 7 — PAINESVILLE, OHIO, APRIL 25, 1912 — One Dollar Per Year

SHALL THE PEOPLE RULE?

Progressive Democracy Means a Government of the People, by the People and for the People

NO SURRENDER TO WALL STREET.

J. Pierpont Morgan Cannot Pick Candidates for the Democratic Party—Bryan's Great Speech

Columbus, O.—William Jennings Bryan, after a rousing day of speech making in a dozen Ohio counties before enthusiastic audiences was the guest of the Jefferson club at a banquet Monday night at Memorial hall, where he was welcomed by a thousand party warriors and cheered to the echo by as many more who crowded the gallery to have an opportunity to learn more of the gospel of politics he has been teaching nearly a score of years.

In his speech before the Jefferson club Mr. Bryan said:

Ladies and Gentlemen: I am greatly obliged to the club for changing the date so that I could attend both the New York banquet and yours. I have not been more cordially received in the west than in New York last Saturday night, (applause), and I talked Democracy as Democracy is written in our book. (Applause.) It was Jeffersonian Democracy, and before I spoke Mayor Gaynor had made a very radical speech and told what Jefferson would say, and Governor Wilson had made a radical speech telling what Jefferson would do, and I told them I felt like changing my subject and talking on the subject,—"What would you do to Jefferson if he were here." (Laughter and applause). And then I told them I knew what they did to me when I tried (applause and laughter, and cries of "Try it again." "They can't do it again.")

I am glad, therefore, to be here on this occasion, and my subject tonight, while not on Jefferson, will be in line with Jeffersonian ideas. We are in the beginning of a campaign. We have made a little progress so far, but we haven't gone far enough yet to make it possible to discern what will be the result in either convention. And I am devoting my time to the effort to help get a progressive Democrat nominated for the presidency. And the best way to get a progressive nominated is to keep a reactionary from being nominated. And I am in Ohio at this time to try to show the people of this state—the Democrats—why they shouldn't allow state pride to lead them into the endorsement of the Prince of Reactionaries.

Now, I am going to show the Democrats of Ohio how two gentlemen can oppose each other. There is nothing personal in my opposition to Governor Harmon. I am just as friendly to him as he is friendly to me.

The issue this year is exactly the same as it was in 1896, namely, the people versus Wall Street. The money question was merely an incident of the campaign of '96, just as the tariff question is merely an incident of the present campaign. The real question is whether the government is to be run by the people in the interests of the people, or by Wall Street in the interests of Wall Street. The fight made by the Democratic party in 1896 was the first great protest made against the control of the government by the predatory interests. And the Wall Street Democrats joined the Republican party and, with the aid of the largest campaign fund ever used and by means of coercion such as was never practiced before, defeated the Democratic ticket.

Harmon's Course in '96.

Governor Harmon, who was then fifty years old—older than I was after I had run for the presidency three times, and therefore old enough to know what he was doing, a member of President Cleveland's cabinet—not a private in the ranks, but a standard-bearer in the army, joined with President Cleveland and the rest of the Cleveland cabinet in opposing the Democratic party and electing as the Republican president the high priest of protection. I affirm that Governor Harmon has not changed in sympathies since that time. I affirm that his sympathies today are with Wall Street, as they were then, and that his nomination would put control of the party in the hands of Wall Street. If Governor Harmon denies this, let him show where he has ever publicly admitted that he and President Cleveland were wrong in assisting the Republican party in 1896. If he was right in '96, then the nearly half million of Democrats of Ohio who voted for me that year were wrong.

We hope that the primary May 21 will show whether the Democrats of this state, after the gallant fight they have made for the protection of the people against the Wall Street plunderbund are ready to walk under the yoke and surrender the government into the hands of those who have for a generation resorted to every means of deception, corruption and intimidation to exploit the masses. This is the issue in Ohio as it is all over the country. In this state, your choice is limited to Harmon and Wilson, and I urge you to vote for Wilson and Wilson delegates. If the issue were between Harmon and Clark I would urge you to vote for Clark and Clark delegates. If the issue were between Mr. Harmon and any other progressive, I would urge you to vote for the progressive and for progressive delegates, whoever the progressive might be. And I will further add that if the issue were between any other reactionary and any progressive, I would urge you to vote for the progressive and against the reactionary. In other words, I am for any progressive against any reactionary, for the people and against Wall Street.

And now I want to prove to you that Mr. Harmon has not changed; that he is today just as he was in 1896,—on the side of the predatory interests, and not on the side of the mass of the people, and if I don't satisfy you that he is not a progressive, then, my friends, I cannot expect you to take my advice in voting against him. But if I can prove to you that he does not and cannot represent the progressive thought of the nation, then you cannot vote for him without abandoning your own position that you have maintained in three campaigns, in which I have been your standard bearer.

Not a Personal Matter.

I told you in the beginning that it was not a personal matter. Friendship don't run along political lines. My law partner was a Republican. We became acquainted when we were in college. We were together all the time that I practiced law in Nebraska. He was born a Republican and bred that way and at one time he was chairman of the Republican City Committee and I was chairman of the Democratic City Committee, and when a man came into the office and asked for the chairman, we asked him, which one. And yet there is no man outside of my own family that I have loved or do love more dearly than that Republican partner, and I think I can say that there is no one outside of his family that he has loved and does love more dearly than he does me. I only mention this to show you that our friendship don't run along political lines entirely. I have had good Republican friends who have never voted for me and for whom I wouldn't vote for national positions simply because we don't agree as to the policies that are best for the country, and so when Mr. Harmon voted against me or rather opposed me without voting in '96, I have never thought for one moment that it was because of any personal objection that he had to me. I have believed and now believe that Mr. Harmon entertains very friendly feelings towards me personally, and I entertain them towards him. Personally I think as much of him as I do of progressive candidates, but he has never allowed his personal friendship to influence him on these political questions, and I don't allow mine.

When he opposed me in '96, he did it on the ground that my election would be injurious to the country. And he never has favored my nomination so far as I know. He has voted for me twice, but I want you to know that it is one thing to vote for a man after he is nominated and another thing to desire his nomination. I voted for Judge Parker after he was nominated, but no one will ever accuse me of wanting him nominated.

Now, when Mr. Harmon opposed me in '96, he was old enough to know what was going on. He knew that I was nominated by the progressive element of our party. I had two-thirds of that convention, and after I got that I got more. But I had to have two-thirds first. So I had the indorsement of my party, and we had won our fight against the administration of which he was a part and in spite of all the patronage that they could use. Not only that, they had nearly every important Democratic paper to help them in the North. They had all the great influence of combined wealth to help them, and yet we won. And then he knew that the Republican party, with which he was acting, had the largest campaign fund that was ever used by any party, and I think more than the Republican party had used in all its campaigns prior to that time. He knew that every head of every favor-seeking corporation was against me and helping the Republicans. He knew that every form of coercion that the ingenuity of men could conceive was being used to defeat me and elect the Republican candidate. He knew that banks were withholding credit from men unless they agreed to vote the Republican ticket. He knew that laboring men were threatened with starvation unless they voted the Republican ticket. And knowing all of those things and that I was out fighting with nothing but an unpurchased citizenship back of me, he was not only not with me, but he was against me, and so far as I know, he has never said that it was because of any personal hostility to me or any personal unfriendliness. I take it that his convictions were so deep that he was willing to take the responsibility for helping to defeat a tariff reform Democrat and put into the White House the man who wrote the high tariff bill of 1890 and gave his name to it.

Now, I tell you this so you will know how deep his convictions were and how much change he would have to undergo to get on our side. Now has he undergone the change? Let me see. Now, he supported me in 1900 and that was after the gold Democratic party had gone out and tried to organize a new Democratic party and had failed and the Democrats who were against me in '96 had to decide whether they would go over to the Republican party or come back and some of them came back because they thought they had to come back in order to get control of our party again.

But he was not one of the men who helped me to secure the nomination in 1900. I have never in sixteen years heard of his advocating the nomination of a progressive Democrat to the presidency. But, you say, he voted for me. Yes, he did, and within a year afterwards he was a member of the committee on resolutions in the Ohio state convention and stayed there way into the night fighting against the endorsement of the platform that I ran upon, showing that he didn't support me because he believed in my platform, or if he did he changed his opinion in a year after my second defeat, and from that time on to 1904 whatever influence he had was thrown on the side of taking the Democratic party back and putting it in the hands of Wall Street. And in the convention of 1904, at St. Louis, he was a candidate and tried to get the nomination from a Wall Street controlled convention.

But you say maybe he learned something in 1904. I now come to tell you he didn't; that after he had helped to organize the party—reorganize it and put it in the control of Wall Street, and they got a man whom Wall Street wanted, and that man polled a million and a quarter votes less than I did, and when many of the leaders of that Parker movement came and told me they had made a mistake, Mr. Harmon never confessed to making a mistake. In spite of the fact that that control had destroyed our chance for election and in spite of the fact that he had every reason to know that with that control our party was helpless and hopeless, still he was with them and as late as February of 1908 he was still hoping that Wall Street would nominate him for the presidency.

Now, he didn't change then. But you say he went to New York and spoke for me in '08, of 1908. Yes, and for himself, for he was a candidate for governor that year. And Tom Johnson had denounced him in the convention and accused him of representing the interest of J. Pierpont Morgan in Ohio, and, my friends, he was more interested in getting the Bryan vote in Ohio than he was of getting me the Harmon vote in New York.

Harmon's Speech in Nebraska.

But if you want to discuss his travels, don't go back four years ago when he went all the way to New York to help me. Just take the present year, when he makes a longer trip to Nebraska to keep me from going as a delegate to a national convention. He tells the Democrats of Ohio, who have supported me, that state pride ought to lead them to give him their support for the presidency. But he goes out to Nebraska, where every friend he has has a knife in both hands and is after me, and state pride doesn't count in Nebraska. I have carried it twice for the presidency. I have been their leader for twenty years, and I have led them all the time in behalf of progressive Democracy. And yet the Harmon men of Nebraska think I am not fit to be one of a thousand delegates at Baltimore to help to nominate a president.

Well, my friends, I have never yet purchased an honor at the expense of my country. I have told the Democrats of Nebraska that if they desire that I shall represent them to the convention at Baltimore, if they desire that I shall be one of the sixteen delegates, that I shall be glad to serve them, provided they instruct for a progressive, but that if they instruct for Governor Harmon or for any other reactionary, I shall not represent them; that I shall resign and let their instructions be carried out by somebody else who can carry them out in spirit as well as the letter.

I shall be in Baltimore whether a delegate or not. The special interests that are supporting Mr. Harmon in Nebraska will not be permitted to silence my voice or tie my hands in this campaign. I owe something to the six million and a half of Democrats who have voted for me, and I will be at Baltimore to help pay one installment.

Now, I have given you a brief history of his career for sixteen years. I charge that he is the choice of the men who have defeated the Democratic party in three campaigns and have led it to a more disastrous defeat when they were allowed to control it. J. Pierpont Morgan picked him out more than two years ago as the Democrat candidate, and J. Pierpont Morgan can't pick candidates for me.

Jim Hill was one of the men who helped to pick him out, and I don't go to Jim Hill for advice. I have never found him friendly when I have been a candidate. In every campaign he has been with the Republicans against me, and just before the last election he said to a newspaper man, who was traveling with Mr. Taft, that I must be defeated that year; that if they could defeat me then they would be through with me; that I would be done.

Now, my friends, I know what I fought for and I know that if Jim Hill fought me and wants Harmon it isn't because Mr. Harmon is like me or thinks like me.

I know that Mr. Hill tried to pick out the candidate in 1908. He told three congressmen in Washington that if they would let him name the Democrat to be nominated that he would finance the campaign. "How much will you furnish?" He said "Don't ask me how much. Go and spend it and draw on me." Now, that kind of a man can't pick candidates for me.

Mr. Hill organized the merger and the supreme court held it unlawful; held that it violated the criminal law, although they were not prosecuted criminally; but they were charged with violating a criminal law. The merger has been declared unlawful, but it hasn't yet dissolved. And I am not willing that Mr. Hill shall pick the president who is going to pick the judges to decide his case.

Mr. Morgan is defendant in a suit brought to dissolve the Steel trust. He is accused to being party to the violation of a criminal law. He made sixty-nine million dollars organizing this gigantic conspiracy against ninety millions of people, and I am not willing that he shall pick the president who is to pick the judges to decide his case. I know something about politics. I have been in politics and close to the center, and there hasn't been a campaign in which I have been a candidate in which I could not have purchased the presidency if I had been willing to sell the people of this county. Just before the last election I had a chance to make some friends in Wall Street if I would just say that I would appoint judges like so and so. Men who represented great interests expressed it as the opinion that I would placate some of the opposition if I would just announce that I would appoint judges such as they named. And I shall not knowingly assist in nominating as a Democratic candidate for the presidency the choice of men like Morgan and Hill and allow the people to be turned away from the front door while they go in the back door of the White House to dictate the policies.

Governor Harmon went all the way to Nebraska to answer charges, and when he got there he didn't answer the charges that I had made. Read his speech: And he doesn't answer one single charge that I have made, and he can't answer these charges. Not only that, but he actually admitted my chief charge. My chief charge is that he is the choice of every Democrat or man who calls himself a Democrat who wants to make this government his private asset in business. You can't find a magnate who looks down in contempt on the people and wants to use them as his prey who isn't for Harmon as against any progressive. Now, that is my charge, and it is a serious charge, and yet Mr. Harmon virtually admits the charge in his speech at Omaha. He bragged that he had the support of big business and little business. Well, we take a man's confessions against him but not his boasting, and so we will take his confession that big business wants him, and then we will wait until he proves that little business wants him.

Big Business for Harmon.

When he admits that big business wants him, he admits my charge. Not only that, but he warns the people not to nominate a man who didn't have the confidence of the business interests. Did you ever hear that phrase before? I have heard it three times. First in '96, second in 1900 and third in 1908. The chief argument made by Republicans against me in three campaigns was that I didn't have the confidence of the business interests.

And who are the business men according to those people? The farmers? Oh, no. They just work; they are not business men. The toilers in mine and factory? No, they just produce; they are not business men. The ordinary merchant? No. The ordinary lawyer? No. Who are the business men? The big business men who want to use the government, these men who organize the great institutions with their watered stock, and then coerce a helpless people into paying dividends on money never invested. These are the business interests that Mr. Harmon says the candidate must have the confidence of.

Now, when Mr. Harmon uses Republican language, the language that Republicans used against me in three campaigns, he shows that he takes the Republican standpoint on this subject. And thus he admits the charge I make against him, that he stands, not for the whole people, but for a few of the people, and those few the ones who reach their larcenous hands in the

(Continued on Eighth Page)

K. O. T. M. No. 139

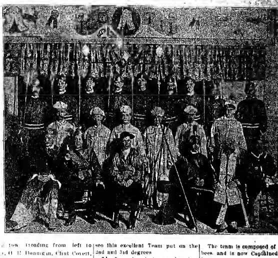
F. G. Holland Degree Team of Western Reserve Tent



Top row (reading from left to right), O. E. Donnigan, Clint Covert, C. L. Islam, E. A. Callender, O. L. Brooks, Sam'l Wright, J. H. Armsey, M. P. Hatter, S. E. Helston. Second row, J. S. Maunder, L. Z. Fought, L. Burr, L. B. Rust, P. D. Belgert, Fred Crosby. Front row, L. D. Dayton, F. W. Rust (candidate), F. W. Andrus, B. J. Rice, W. L. Prentice.

The above is a flash light photograph of the F. G. Holland degree team of Western Reserve Tent [illegible] and was taken at a recent visit [illegible] by Photographer Miller, who accompanied Centennial Tent of Cleveland to Painesville to see this excellent Team put on the 2nd and 3rd degrees.

The Team has just recently taken the name of F. G. Holland, not so much of his training under which the Team became so proficient in the Ritualistic work, but more from the fact that Sir Knight Holland embodied the true spirit of fraternalism and won the lasting friendship of every member of the Team, the statement that "Friendliness begets Friendship" was indeed proven true by him.

This Team have, on many occasions received highest commendation by Great Camp officers, who have pronounced them the Peer of any Team in the State of Ohio.

The team is composed of 21 Maccabees and is now Captained by L. D. Dayton who is untiring in his endeavor to keep the Team in good working order, and maintain the enviable reputation they have won in the past.

The leading parts are taken by F. W. Rust, King; Ford Andrus, Judas; B. J. Rice, Eleazer; L. D. Dayton, John. These men are all masters of their parts. The Guards and Sons are indeed very skillful in their maneuvers.

The Team are planning to purchase new paraphanalia soon; and this added to a Team of their proven ability, will be an added credit to the Maccabees generally.

ABOUT PEOPLE AND PLACES

Now the fight is on for sheriff.

o

The Painesville High School boys are bragging about their high school team.

o

May 21st will be the big day at the primaries.

o

It looks like Roosevelt on one side and Bryan on the other again.

o

Uncle Jud's platform didn't look very strong to Nebraska citizens.

o

Nebraska seems to have heard of "what Uncle Jud has done for Ohio."

o

Every candidate on the democratic county ticket will win at the primary sure.

o

The people of Ohio are just beginning to realize what Mr. Bryan told them last week.

o

Mr. Bryan's principles will sweep the country from one end to the other next November.

o

Ernest Moseley left Sunday night for Chicago, from which place he takes a trip up the lakes to be gone several weeks.

o

How would a joint debate between Frank Crofoot, representing Roosevelt, and Ned Huntington representing Taft, do.

o

The only thing that is held against William J. Bryan is that he always blocks traffic in his travels about the country.

o

It is reported that Dr. H. M. Amidon made a talk at the last meeting of the Roosevelt Club that made the Taft men very wrathy.

o

We wonder what E. Lee Howard thinks of the independent voters by this time, but it probably does not matter what Howard thinks about it.

o

The Cowles House has a large colored picture of the steamship Titanic hanging in its lobby. The picture gives a fine view of the ill-fated vessel.

o

It is reported that Hewitt Murray is the only Taft man in Concord township. Now that is a lonesome minority worse than any democrat ever endured in that township.

o

It was necessary to coax candidates out for the city jobs where the salaries are low, but there is no scarcity of candidates to fill the offices at the court house, where the salaries are large and the hours short.

o

Frank Hains, aged 26 years, stepson of C. Conks, formerly of the Latimore street rug factory, died April 20, at his home at 3738 Carnegie street, after a lingering illness of Bright's disease. He was well-known here and was a short time a member of the Citizens' band.

The Painesville Grange will entertain the Lake County Pomona Grange at Woodmen's hall on Saturday, April 27. The master of the Painesville grange requests all members of the grange to be present. Dinner will be served at noon.

—o—

I. P. Curtiss was over from Willoughby Monday organizing the Socialist forces so that a Socialist county ticket will be in the field. Mr. Curtiss will stand for the legislation and says a complete ticket will be in the field with the exception of candidates for probate judge and prosecutor.

—o—

Boxwell-Patterson pupils were numerous here last Saturday. They came from all parts of the county and their object was to secure admission to the local high school by the examination route as provided by law. There were just 191 of these scholars who took the examinations here Saturday.

—o—

There is a kind of affinity between democrats and those fellows wearing Roosevelt buttons. Probably it is because they are wearing that same style coat we democrats adopted back in 1896. Frank Crofoot is acting on the new battle cry "The Rule of the People" and has it down almost pat.

o

Probate Judge Nye has no opposition at the primaries, but there is plenty of time for independent candidates to get into the race later. We don't see why Judge Nye should have a life position at the court house when there are so many other men who would make good as head of the probate court.

o

Every Democrat in Lake county should remember that the central committeemen and delegates to the county convention for the various precincts are to be voted at the coming primary election May 21. Blank spaces will be provided on the ticket for the writing in of the names you choose to elect to your precinct. Democrats in the various precincts should get together on primary election day, or before, and decide on some men whose names they will write in for these places.

o

Ed Moore is the appointee of Gov. Harmon as state insurance commissioner, and draws $2000 more per annum than any former state commissioner. In return for the favor bestowed by Gov. Harmon, Moore is managing the governor's campaign for president. When Mr. Bryan was in Ohio last week he referred to "the economy of the governor in paying his campaign managers out of the state treasury," and to make it a little worse Mr. Bryan further commented on Ed Moore's trip to Nebraska by saying the "Insurance Commissioner was probably sent out there to insure Wall street against any trouble at the Democratic National Convention."

Candidates at the Primary

Following is a list of candidates filed for county offices, to be voted upon at the primary election. The democrats have no contest and are as follows:

COUNTY CLERK
Elias Warren
SHERIFF
Courtney Barrett
TREASURER
E. J. Kelly
RECORDER
W. F. Pruvo.
PROSECUTOR
Harry T. Nolan.
COMMISSIONERS
J. H. Cook, A. P. Squires, F. M. Howard.
CORONER
Dr. C. O. Hudson.
REPRESENTATIVE
F. D. Malin.

The republican ticket is as follows with many contests:

COUNTY SURVEYOR
J. C. Ward and H. P. Cumings.
COUNTY AUDITOR
W. Albert Davis
SHERIFF
Ora Spink, F. T. Johnston, R. O. Goff, Ed. Spaller, D. L. Phelps.
COUNTY TREASURER
S. A. Haskell, C. J. Scott, E. M. Orcutt
COUNTY COMMISSIONER
E. L. Rouse, F. H. Rood, E. H. Williams, F. W. Rust, D. E. Stevenson, W. B. Blair, J. C. Phillips.
CORONER
M. H. Farmedy, George F. Barnett.
PROBATE JUDGE
C. H. Nye
CLERK OF COURTS
J. C. Barto, J. H. Williams
RECORDER
George A. Bates
PROSECUTING ATTORNEY
Homer Harper, B. C. Shepherd, T. P. Cadle.
MEMBER LEGISLATURE
L. A. Winans

Hits Harmon Hard

Cleveland, Ohio, April 23.—Newton D. Baker, mayor of Cleveland, today addressed an open letter to Gov. Harmon, candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. In it Mayor Baker protests against slanderous reports which Harmon's lieutenants are circulating against Gov. Wilson in Ohio, and asks that Harmon state for the benefit of the voters of Ohio and the country where he stands on the vital national questions.

The letter is quite the hottest document of the presidential campaign and shows the width of the breach between Harmon and the so-called Johnson Democrats.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors, also to the minister, Mr. Schaffner, and the singers, for their many kindnesses and words of comfort to us in our recent sorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. [illegible]
Mentor, Ohio.

1,595 PERISHED ON TITANIC, SAY SURVIVORS OF ILL-FATED BOAT

VALUABLE MAN TO EMPLOYERS

Philadelphia Worker Clinched His Job by Inventing a Most Ingenious Excuse.

Several mornings ago a young West Philadelphia man entered the office in which he was employed as a clerk with lagging steps and a look on his face that convinced his austere employer that the young man was burning the candle at both ends. Later in the morning he summoned the dissipated looking young fellow into his private office and, because he had known his father, proceeded to administer a lecture on the foolishness of hearkening to the lure of the flesh.

"But, sir, I never drink, nor smoke, neither do I gamble or indulge in any other sort of dissipation," declared the young man wearily.

"It is useless to try and deceive me," said the employer severely. "I can see that you had no sleep last night, you look as though you had been drawn through a keyhole."

The reply nearly knocked the employer from his chair "Did you ever sleep in your cellar? Well, I did last night. I attended a meeting of the Y. M. C. A. and, arriving home late, found my wife in bed As customary, I went downstairs and fixed the fire, closing the cellar door behind me to avoid drafts When I came upstairs again I grasped the knob and when it stuck I gave it a heavy jerk. It came off in my hand I tried every way I could to open that door. I pushed it, I rattled it, but without result. I was in the ridiculous position of being locked in my own cellar. Desperately I pounded on the door, but my wife is a sound sleeper and she had her bedroom door closed and locked. After an hour spent in making the most unearthly noises I gave it up I tried to find a warm place to sleep, but sleep was out of the question, and I spent the night walking the cellar floor My wife released me half an hour before I came into the office and I guess that accounts for my condition and appearance"

The employer swung around in his chair "Young man, that may not be true, but a man who can get away with a story like that is too valuable a man to lose Take the day off, your salary is increased $5 a week"

Prophet in His Own Country.

Hanover has its prophet His name is Voight and he dwells in the little town of Einbeck Voight is obsessed with the idea that the world is to come to an end in the immediate future, on a date which he has set. He has even fixed the hour at 10 p. m.

The local police are stubborn in heart and mock the prophet's prediction, which he published in a little book Moreover, they have arrested him on a charge of being a disturber of the peace—for many people have become alarmed—and he has been fined 10 marks. "Ten marks" were raised upon the prophet by his admirers from all parts of the country—From the London Globe

Bamboo Logs for Buoys.

The lighthouse inspector for California is planning an innovation for buoys on the rough bars of the coast. He is preparing to use immense bamboo logs instead of pine piles as buoys on the Eureka bar and will install them at other places where he has found difficulty in maintaining pine buoys He says that bamboo, being much lighter than pine, can be anchored with rope and will not require so much attention He has ordered 25 bamboo logs 10 feet long and about 20 inches in circumference for this purpose

Met Seeking Each Other's Grave.

Each believing that the other was dead Mrs Lulu Day of Oakland, Cal, and Claude Fitzgerald an auditor for the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad, met suddenly at the Union depot yesterday morning The two are brother and sister, but had been separated for more than 20 years

Mrs. Day came to this city to seek the location of her brother's grave here Fitzgerald was on his way to Emporia, Kan, where he had supposed the body of his sister was buried The brother and sister were orphaned when they were small children They were adopted in separate families and afterward lost trace of each other—Kansas City Journal

Aristocratic Potatoes.

Potatoes are pretty high but nothing like in Auchtermuchty, where some fine ones sold for $5 apiece But the flesh of these fine ones when cooked is almost as white as Hungarian flour And then these potatoes are not to be eaten but are saved for seed single ones being picked out from hundreds of thousands New York Press

Of Course.

"Why do you scorn that young man?"

"Because he talks only of love in a cottage."

"Well what's the matter with that? He has the right idea. What you save on the house you can put into the automobile."

Defined

Knicker—What is a band laundry?

Bocker—One that cuffs the collars and collars the cuffs Harper's Bazar

Elastic

The Lady—How much milk does the old cow give a day, Tom?

Tom—About eight quarts, ma'am

The Lady—And how much of that do you sell?

Tom—About 12 quarts, ma'am.—The Sketch.

Some Objection.

"Does your wife object when you stay out late at night?"

"She couldn't file more objections, my dear sir, if she were a corporation lawyer."

CARPATHIA ARRIVES AT NEW YORK WITH PEOPLE WHO WERE SAVED AT SEA.

MAJOR BUTT AND JOHN J. ASTOR NOT ABOARD SHIP

Expression of Human Emotion of 25,000 People on Shore Reaches Far Beyond Limits of Written or Spoken Description.

CAPT. E. J. SMITH

Captain Smith, commander of the ill-fated Titanic, was commodore of the White Star line fleet In his 40 years of experience he never had a serious accident until last year, when the Olympic, of which he was captain was rammed by the British cruiser Hawke

New York City—The Cunarder Carpathia, laden with sorrow for a world, crept to her pier in the North river at 8:45 on the night of April 18 and discharged to the hysterical embraces of hundreds of half crazed friends and relatives 710 survivors of the $10,000,000 Titanic which went to the bottom of the Atlantic ocean on April 15

The expression of human emotion of 25,000 people on shore and from those racked souls who lined the ship's rail reached far beyond the limits of written or spoken description. The closing chapter of the greatest of all sea tragedies was enacted amidst the most stupendous and overwhelming sorrow Joy at seeing again loved kin or dear friends was allayed by grief for the fate of one equally close who perished. The searchlights of 20 boats placed the scene in a lurid spotlight Women who had been first cabin passengers on the Titanic stumbled down the gang plank and were rushed to waiting limousines or taxi cabs and hurried to mansions or hotels men and women of the steerage were received by customs officials and entrusted to the care of physicians and nurses and members of the stock exchange who carried in their hands $25,000 for the immediate relief of the needy

Eye witnesses told of a brave death in the sea that had been his life, of Captain Smith Mrs. John Jacob Astor came haltingly down the gang plank and was rushed away to the home of her parents by her fatherless son in law, Vincent Astor

Five Buried at Sea

There were no dead on shipboard Five bodies had been buried at sea. All accounts of the disaster agreed in the main There was a crash at midnight on Sunday, a concerted rush to the deck to learn the trouble, a return to the berths, only to be summoned back an hour later, cheerful partings at the vessel's rail as men tore their wives from them and thrust them into the lifeboats the escape to the ocean waste the sinking of the great Titanic a short time afterwards, the terrible hours of drifting before being picked up by the Carpathia

And first in every account of the disaster was the story of how the Titanic's band sank beneath the waves with the strains of "Nearer My God to Thee" coming from their instruments

Traveling at 23 knots an hour, the Titanic struck the berg, which was 75 feet out of water The blow was glancing and ripped the boat from the bow clear to the engine room The extent of the calamity was not realized The blow was so slight that not until the boat began to settle did the officers appreciate that the ship was in danger

The officers and crew busied themselves rousing the passengers and it was decided to place the women and children in the lifeboats

At 2:20 the Titanic suddenly rose in the middle and bows and stern plunged downward into the sea

Butt and Astor Not on Board

There were 16 lifeboats one smashed as soon as lowered Scores jumped overboard and some were pulled into the lifeboats

Those in the lifeboats could see plainly every detail of the sinking

The Titanic's side must have been cut open as if by a can opener She listed to starboard and then rolled over to port She slipped under quietly after breaking in two in the middle The condition of the survivors on the Carpathia is good, aside from shock and exposure None with frozen feet or any mangled persons were picked up except one man with a broken arm

NUMBER OF LIVES LOST.

New York City.—The following tabulation of the passengers and crew on board the Titanic, together with those saved and lost, has been compiled from the figures in the statement issued by the committee of passengers:

APPROXIMATE NUMBER OF PASSENGERS ABOARD.

| | |
|---|---|
| First-class | 330 |
| Second-class | 320 |
| Third-class | 750 |
| Total | 1400 |
| Officers and crew | 940 |
| Grand total | 2340 |

NUMBER OF PASSENGERS SAVED BY CARPATHIA.

| | |
|---|---|
| First-class | 210 |
| Second-class | 125 |
| Third-class | 200 |
| Total | 535 |
| Members of crew saved | 210 |
| Grand total saved | 745 |
| Total number perished | 1595 |

Bruce Ismay went to the lifeboats in the first place, although the crew of the liner was unwilling to leave the Titanic, believing that the liner was in little danger

The last seen of John Jacob Astor was when he was talking to his wife before she took to the boats

The last information concerning Major A W Butt was that the gallant officer was with a group of the ship's officers and passengers on the upper deck as the giant of the seas sank.

Ship Begins to List.

Still dazed and half stunned from the shock of that appalling night, amid all their grief the survivors in sentences interrupted by sobs and ejaculations, told of brief moments of their experience that had to be pieced together to make a coherent narrative.

The ocean was calm as a mill pond when the Titanic crushed into the iceberg Most of the passengers were in the cabins Then came the shock of the collision, not so violent a crash as had been depicted but enough to disquiet all who felt it

There was a general and orderly exodus to the decks Sailors were scurrying hither and thither crying "Nothing to be afraid of! There's no danger"

Then with perceptible suddenness the ship began to list "All passengers on deck with life belts," was shouted Then for the first time the gravity of the situation began to dawn upon the passengers

Sailors Help Women and Children.

The sailors helped the nearest women and children into the boats And it was the beginning of excitement Other sailors began to lower the boats

Thus far the men standing idly by, failing entirely to grasp the significance of the moment, had helped the sailors Many of the passengers report that the men were laughing

"We'll be safer here in the ship than in that cockleshell!" one man cried to his wife as she was helped over the rail But the Titanic began to settle in the ocean and it was difficult for the men to remain on their feet Then it was that the appalling nature of it all dawned upon these men And then also it was that the officers of the ship drew their revolvers

"Stand back!" they cried "Only women and children go into the boats

The ship sank lower and lower Three revolver shots were heard Three passengers in the steerage had attempted to force their way past the sailors and had been ruthlessly shot down.

The ship had now listed to a terrible angle Men in the throes of panic attempted to reach the boats and were pushed back. And in that moment the heroism of hundreds asserted itself It was the passengers who pushed back these panic stricken few, and not the sailors. Of the individual deeds of heroism, only a few have as yet been told.

Weaker Men Jump Overboard.

Finally all the boats were lowered. Then the sailors, seeing women standing and running about cried

"All women to the lower deck!"

There began a rush to the lower deck, and here it was that the nearest semblances to a panic began Some of the women were seized by sailors and deliberately thrown over the rail into the boats The weaker men by scores began to jump overboard. The lifeboats began to draw away from the ship As they drew away those who were floating among the cakes of ice in the sea cried aloud piteously for help Those who could seized the sides of the lifeboats In many cases they were pulled overboard

Several more pistol shots were heard on board the ship and then, suddenly above the murmur of the sea and the crunching of the ice floes there rose a steadily increasing cry from the doomed ship—a cry in which hundreds upon hundreds of voices mingled And the women in the lifeboats were screaming each to her husband or her brother

"Jump! We'll pick you up!" was heard on every side

Then suddenly above all the wailing of that desolate scene there rose the strains of the ship's band playing "Nearer My God to Thee." And for the first time those in the lifeboats realized that those who were left behind knew that they were doomed

The last light went out and the music ceased

The peerless Titanic had sunk

TITANIC'S LOOKOUT HAD NO GLASSES

WITNESS SAYS THERE WERE NO BINOCULARS IN CROW'S NEST TO SEE THE ICEBERG.

NARRATES STORY OF DISASTER

Survivor Tells of Awful Chorus of Cries and Moans That Went Up When Leviathan Sank to Bottom of Ocean.

Washington, D. C.—A pair of marine binoculars, costing at the most $50, would have saved the lives of the 1,635 men, women and children who perished when the Titanic went down.

"They told me they wouldn't buy any glasses," testified Lookout Fleet, who sighted the iceberg from the crow's nest of the doomed vessel, when he was asked about them before the special senate committee.

"If we had them we could have seen the berg quite a bit sooner—time enough to have cleared it."

Fleet said that he had always had glasses on the Oceanic, poor ones, but of sufficient power to be of help in seeing ahead. Glasses had been furnished the lookout till the ship left Southampton. Then when they asked for them they were told that there were none, and would be none for the voyage.

J. BRUCE ISMAY

Bruce Ismay is the managing director of the White Star liner and was one of the few men saved when the Titanic went down.

Fleet's story, together with the dreadful narratives of Maj Arthur Peuchen, a passenger, and Third Officer Pittman gave Mr. Ismay rather an uncomfortable day But he sat stolid and unmoved throughout them all, and even when Peuchen and the officer told of the awful chorus of cries and moans that went up when the Titanic sank and continued growing fainter and still more faint for more than an hour while the other lifeboats lay still or pulled away, the chief owner of the Titanic remained, to all appearances, unaffected.

ISADOR STRAUS

Among the men who perished when the Titanic sank was Isador Straus, the millionaire merchant and philanthropist of New York.

Fleet, the lookout is a dull and unprepossessing British seaman. His very dullness undoubtedly assisted the truth about the company's parsimony to come out He told of sighting the iceberg, so far away that it seemed no larger than a table. Bigger and bigger it grew as the ship rushed upon it till at last when, despite the swing to port that followed his warning to the bridge the starboard bow crashed into it, it stood full 50 feet out of the water high enough to send a shower of ice down on the deck. The glasses that were denied him, he said, would have enabled him to see it "quite a bit earlier" As it was, he had barely time to sound his warning Hardly had the words "thank you" come back from the bridge to the crow's nest than the ice was tumbling aboard and the submerged frozen reef was tearing a great gaping hole in the vessel's bilge.

William T. Stead, the famous English editor and author who lost his life in the Titanic disaster, was on his way to America to take part in the Christian Conservation congress in New York.

Pittman, who preceded Fleet on the stand and Major Peuchen, who followed him, both told in different ways the story of the terrible cries of distress that came across the water when the Titanic finally disappeared

Pittman was calm and master-of-fact One of the lifeboats fell to his charge, a boat loaded with women He got her safely away from danger of the ship's suction, then lay on his oars as she went down

First there were loud screams, and cries for help, that gradually became unintelligible, dying away into a continuous chorus of low moans For an hour these continued while the women in Pittman's boat sat frozen with horror There was room in the boat for more 16 more at least Some of those who were struggling in the icy sea might have been taken aboard, but Pittman made no effort to go back for them

When at length, after more than an hour, the last faint moaning had died altogether away the men in the boat again bent to the oars and the boat moved out blindly over the water till dawn and the lights of the Carpathia were sighted almost together

Major Peuchen told the same story of the cries, "the dreadful cries and moans," he called them A little while before a call had come from the ship. But Hitchens, the quartermaster, refused to go back

"It is our life now, not theirs" he said

Some of the women pleaded with them. "Our husbands are on the ship, we cannot leave them. Please go back," they begged. "There's nothing there but a lot of stiffs," said Hitchens brutally, and refused to bring the ship about

This quartermaster, who Peuchen said was utterly unfit for his position, refused to take an oar, or to perform any service but sit at the helm Peuchen said Hitchens swore horribly all the time, and was unutterably brutal to the women

Asked why he did not interfere, Peuchen said "He was a large, powerful man." I could not reach him from where I was without a struggle. I had had a row with him once. I thought it better not to talk to him."

Peuchen said that he was surprised that there were so few men aboard to man the boats "If they were there they were not at their stations," he said. "I had supposed that there would have been a drill or something of the kind, but I saw none.

He said that no general alarm was sounded to his knowledge

The shock of the collision was like that of a great wave striking the vessel. But he knew that the night was calm, and went on deck to see what had happened He found ice in quantities about the forward deck. Later the list of the vessel disturbed him, and then going to the boat deck for the first time, he read in the horrified faces of the passengers who had gathered there that the ship was in grave danger.

Jokes in Electric Chair.

Eddyville, Ky "I reckon this jar will shake out my false teeth," said Willard Richardson, 29, as he was being strapped in the electric chair at the penitentiary here, preparatory to forfeiting his life for the murder of John Violet, a Carlisle county farmer, two months ago

"Cut out all of that confounded beefing," he said to his gray haired father as the latter sobbed his farewell. "What's it to you anyway?"

Richardson was dead after the first shock.

Primaries in Nebraska and Omaha.

Omaha, Neb—Champ Clark is the choice of Nebraska Democrats for the presidency and in the primaries his followers defeated both Harmon and Wilson

In the Republican primaries Roosevelt simply ran away from his opponents, with LaFollette bringing up the rear. Roosevelt has received the state instruction by probably four to one.

Portland, Ore.—Colonel Roosevelt will carry Oregon by about 5,000 over Taft. Wilson is the complete choice of the Democrats, with a good lead.

Aged Man and Girl Elope.

Scranton Pa—On their way to Brick church where they were to be married James Leary, 60, and Irene Lunn, 16 were arrested on a Lackawanna train here Leary was fined and allowed to go, but the girl was given to the custody of the Associated Charities

The couple are residents of Nichols N Y When Leary's wife died a few months ago he came to live with the Lunns and formed a deep attachment for the girl She reciprocated and they planned to elope

Fight Battle Against Fever.

Memphis, Tenn.—With the battle against the Mississippi river flood ended so far as more breaks to levees are concerned, conditions grow daily more acute as regards suffering among those rendered homeless by the spreading waters from the various breaks. In the St. Francis basin in Arkansas, opposite Memphis, water from the two breaks in the levee has spread for 40 miles. At the extreme western end of this inland sea, Madison, Ark., a battle against fever is being fought.

Puts on Wedding Gown to Die.

New York City—Andrew Kanges, a carpenter, returned to his home in Brooklyn at night from work to find the dead bodies of his wife and nine-year-old daughter clasped in each other's arms, with a tube leading from a flowing gas jet in the room to his wife's mouth

The woman was clad in her wedding gown and the child dressed in her new Easter finery

Kanges said his wife had been ill and despaired of being restored to health

Buckeye Man is Fleeced.

Detroit, Mich—That E. S. Gardner of Painesville, O., lost $2,000 at Detroit gambling tables, and a like amount in the same manner in Chicago, became known when his son engaged Attorney Louis McClair to look after his interests.

The father is at present in St. Joseph's retreat, in Dearborn, Mich., a physical wreck following a three weeks' delirium, and the Detroit police are searching for "card sharks" who are said to have got more than $3,000 of Gardner's money here.

DECLARE MEXICAN BANDITS TORTURE

REFUGEES AT GALVESTON SAY BRIGANDAGE IS RAMPANT IN [illegible]

ONE AMERICAN IS BEHEADED

Woman Has Every Bone in Her Feet Broken When Husband Refused to Turn Over Money to Band of Outlaws.

Galveston, Tex.—Forty-seven passengers, all but one citizens of the United States, who arrived from Vera Cruz on the steamer Texas, tell of alleged torture and assassination of Americans in the republic. All the refugees left their lands, homes, furniture and everything they possessed, except enough money for passage and the clothes on their backs. Among the entire number there are only four or five trunks. M. H. Ish, one of the refugees, told of the murder of an American citizen named Wait.

American Is Beheaded.

"Mr. Wait was a neighbor to me," said Mr. Ish "He had sold several head of cattle and hidden the money. A band of desperadoes came to his hacienda and demanded money. Failing to get it, they deliberately beheaded him with their machettes, herded his cattle together and drove them off. There are many instances just like this We lived in a little settlement, where a colony of 11 American families had founded the town of Sanburo All of these 11 families left because we were afraid to remain longer, knowing we would all be killed or tortured I am 64 years old. I went to Mexico one year ago, put all I had, $1,650, in land and improvements there and today I have only this"—showing his two hands—"and the clothes on my back Before leaving we filed our claims for damages with the American consul in Mexico City"

John T McGee, a wealthy planter who went to Mexico two years ago returned to America minus more than $20,000, and left behind land and live stock

Mr. McGee tells of alleged cruelties practiced on an American woman now in the hospital at Mexico City

Woman Is Tortured.

"The bandits visited the home of Mr Shay, one of my neighbors, about a week before I left the settlement," said Mr. McGee, "and demanded money and guns. He gave them about $12 and one gun, saying that was all he had on the place.

"The band then left, but returned to Shay's place and demanded more money and arms. Being refused, they took Mrs Shay tied her down and began beating her feet

"Mr Shay and his son, to stop the torture gave four guns and $800 in money to the desperadoes, who after a final beating of the woman left the place

"Mrs Shay was carried to the hospital at Mexico City, where it was found that nearly every bone in her feet had been broken

"What has been true of the Shay family has been likewise true of scores of other Americans, and by staying there we took our lives in our hands

PRIMARIES IN TWO STATES

Taft Wins in New Hampshire, While Roosevelt Is Victorious in Kansas.

Concord, N. H.—President W. H. Taft swept New Hampshire in the first state presidential primaries ever held here At a late hour the tabulation made up from the combined returns covering 172 of 290 towns and cities gave Taft 366 delegates in the state convention to 169 for Roosevelt. The primary was significant from a local standpoint, as Robert P. Bass, the young progressive governor, staked his political future upon the caucus of the Roosevelt boom. The result was not only emphasized by the overwhelming majority in the state convention, but by the loss of his home town, which gave the Roosevelt delegates 105 votes to 110 for Taft. Winston Churchill, another Roosevelt leader, was defeated in his home town by a majority of 20. Speaker Frank A. Musgrove was the only Roosevelt leader who succeeded in carrying his home town, Hanover, which voted nearly two to one for the ex-president.

Kansas City, Mo.—Col Theodore Roosevelt made a clean sweep of the Kansas primaries, swinging into control of three districts In the Fourth district convention he will have 80 out of 95 delegates, in the Fifth, 60 out of 100, and in the Eighth, 67 out of 77, returns show Both the Fourth and the Fifth will have an additional county primary, but the result will not be changed The Eighth is complete, four counties voting, one having done so previously

Defy "No Smoking" Sign.

Zion City, Ill—Defying the injunction "No smoking allowed here" posted on a sign at the entrance to Zion City, a gang of workmen, smoking pipes, cigars and cigarets, walked through the street, while a crowd of the followers of the late John Alexander Dowie surrounded them in an attempt to eject the offenders

Finally the workmen, who had come from Waukegan, began to throw bricks and bottles to keep back the crowd. W. F. Miller, the acting mayor, averted further trouble.

Escapes Penitentiary Term.

Medina, O.—As a result of the ruling of the supreme court at Columbus in which the decision of the circuit court was affirmed, Judge Robert M. Campbell of this county, charged with embezzling $800 from Paul Oliver, for whom he was guardian, escapes the penitentiary.

Campbell was found guilty in the Medina county common pleas court and sentenced to serve two years in the penitentiary. The circuit court reversed the decision and its action was affirmed by the supreme court.

[illegible]

The One Thing Above All That a Woman Should Be Quick to Learn and Remember.

The woman who makes good must be blessed with strength and health, and an ambition to learn and take advantage of every opportunity that comes her way. She must work with all her heart and play with all her heart; above all things avoiding indifference.

Here is the temperament that recognizes that encouragement is all nice and pretty, but if one is going to do the thing that counts one doesn't need it; that refuses to be dismayed by repeated failures and that has a certain faith that what has been done by many may be done by another; that nobody goes through life without disappointments, heartaches and the breaking of pet illusions; that there is nothing more common than trouble, but that it is the wise ones of earth that keep it in the background. That's the great lesson of life.—Exchange.

ALMOST CRAZY WITH ECZEMA

"I, the undersigned, cannot give enough praise to the Cuticura Remedies. I had been doctoring for at least a year for eczema on my foot. I had tried doctor after doctor all to no avail When a young girl I sprained my ankle three different times, paying little or no attention to it, when five years ago a small spot showed upon my left ankle I was worried and sent for a doctor He said it was eczema. He drew a small bone from the ankle about the size of a match and about an inch long The small hole grew to about the size of an apple, and the eczema spread to the knee. The doctors never could heal the hole in the ankle. The whole foot ran water all the time

"My husband and my sons were up night and day wheeling me from one room to another in the hope of giving me some relief I would sit for hours at a time in front of the fireplace hoping for daybreak The pain was so intense I was almost crazy, in fact, I would lose my reason for hours at a time One day a friend of mine dropped in to see me. No more had she glanced at my foot than she exclaimed 'Mrs. Finnegan, why in the world don't you try the Cuticura Remedies?' Being disgusted with the doctors and their medicines, and not being able to sleep at all, I decided to give the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment a trial After using them three days that night I slept as sound as a silver dollar for eight long hours. I awoke in the morning with but very little pain, in fact, I thought I was in heaven After using the Cuticura Remedies for three months I was perfectly restored to health thanks to the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I will be sixty-four years of age my next birthday, hale and hearty at present' (Signed) Mrs Julia Finnegan, 2234 Hebert St, St Louis, Mo, Mar. 7, 1911 Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept L, Boston.

Reduced.

Potash—Cohen can never make a goot golluf player.

Perlmutter—For vy not?

Potash—He neffer hollers fore—always he yells dree ninety-eight.—Wisconsin Sphinx.

Important to Mothers
Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher
In Use For Over 30 Years.
Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

Nothing pleases a woman more than her inability to show her age

No harmful drugs in Garfield Tea. It is composed wholly of simple health-giving herbs.

Dream of marriage signifies madness.

We Pay Your Fare to Detroit
If you visit our factory and buy one of our new 1912
Amazing Detroit Kerosene Engines
Sold on 15 days' trial. Only engine made that runs successfully on Coal Oil. Uses Gasoline, Alcohol, Benzine or any liquid fuel (Also artificial or natural gas). Starts without cranking. Only 3 moving parts—no cams—no sprockets—no gears—no valves. Simple, Powerful and strong. All sizes from 2 to 20 H. P. in stock, ready to ship at once. Will do any work where power is required. Thousands in use. Seeing is believing—you know that. Get yours getting. Come and see us.
Detroit Eng. Works, Bell. and Bellevue Aves., Detroit, Mich.

Make the Liver Do its Duty
Nine times in ten when the liver is right the stomach and bowels are right.
CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS gently but firmly compel a lazy liver to do its duty.
Cures Constipation, Indigestion, Sick Headache, and Distress After Eating.
CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.
SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE.
Genuine must bear Signature
Brent Good

DR. J. D. KELLOGG'S ASTHMA
Remedy for the prompt relief of Asthma and Hay Fever. Ask your druggist for it. Write for FREE SAMPLE
NORTHROP & LYMAN CO., Ltd., BUFFALO, N.Y.

MOTHER GRAY'S SWEET POWDERS FOR CHILDREN
Relieve Feverishness, Constipation, Colds and correct disorders of the stomach and bowels. Used by Mothers for 22 years. At all Druggists 25c. Sample mailed FREE. Address A. S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.
TRADE MARK

THOMPSON'S EYE WATER
Quickly relieves [illegible]
JOHN L. THOMPSON SONS & CO., Troy, N. Y.

---

MASKED MEN HOLD UP TRAIN

TWO BANDITS, ARMED WITH REVOLVERS, ROB EVERY PASSENGER ON SLEEPER.

MOST DARING PIECE OF WORK

Highwaymen Shoot Hole Through Air Brake Hose, Thereby Setting Emergency Brakes, and Make Escape.

Chicago, Ill.—Two masked robbers boarded the Golden State Limited on the Rock Island railroad at Bureau, Ill., wearing masks and carrying revolvers, robbed every passenger on the sleeper "Nottingham" and then pulled the air rope to signal the engineer to stop. The latter disregarded the signal and one of the robbers then shot a hole through the airbrake hose at the end of the car, thereby setting the emergency brakes, and away they went across country

One of the most daring robberies in the history of train hold-ups, the affair is especially striking in that the highwaymen only robbed the occupants of one car, though there were several, all Pullman sleepers on the train and they could have gone through the entire train. Among the victims were.

W. L. LePiano, New York, lost $135 in cash, ticket to El Paso and Tucson, watch and stick pin.

Mrs. Mary Horron and daughter, Chicago, lost $96 cash.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis L. Benton, Oberlin, Kan., lost $150 cash, gold watch and diamond ring valued at $150.

The Golden State Limited left Chicago at 9 o'clock at night and halted at Bureau for passengers, coal and water. Just as the porter on the car "Nottingham" was about to close the door of the car at the starting of the train, two men dressed entirely in black, with black hats drawn down over their faces and handkerchiefs covering all but their eyes, suddenly stuck a pair of revolvers under the porter's nose.

"Get aboard and be quick about it," said one of them, and the frightened porter obeyed. Once inside the car they made the porter parade ahead of them through the car with hands upraised over his head and one by one the passengers were hustled out of their berths and robbed. While one robber kept his revolver trained on the porter and the passengers, the other went through their belongings. Each was forced to stand in the aisle of the car, hands upraised. One robber then reached into every berth, snapped on the electric light and personally examined the effects of the passenger, lest the latter, in handing out his or her valuables, might suddenly produce a gun

Less than half an hour sufficed to complete the round up of that car and then, forcing passengers and porter into a smoking compartment at one end of the car, the robbers ordered the porter to stop the train. He explained with chattering teeth that the only way he could do so would be to pull the signal rope, and when ordered to do it, he grabbed the rope and gave it three lusty pulls. The train at this time was speeding along about five miles from Sheffield on its way to Moline and the engineer either failed to understand the signal or refused to obey it, for on went the train. Then the robbers displayed the one clue which may lead to their identity and capture. While one mounted guard over the victims the other opened the door, leaned down at the junction with the next car, took careful aim and with one shot cut the air brake hose. This instantly threw the emergency brakes and the train began to jolt along at the sudden stoppage with such force as to waken the other passengers on the train. Quickly as it had slowed down to almost a stop the robbers leaped off the train and disappeared in the darkness.

ONE SLAIN, THREE STABBED

Woman Is Murdered, Other Women and Man Are Badly Wounded in Fight Over Children.

New Castle, Pa.—In a melee started by a quarrel over children, one woman was murdered and three other women and a man were badly wounded here. The victims:

Mrs. Emma Davis, 25, stabbed in left chest, died on way to hospital

Mrs. Sadie Barnes, cut in the left side and arm

Mrs. Hattie Hood, Mrs. Barnes' daughter, arteries in left wrist gashed.

Charles Barnes Mrs. Barnes' son, head and right hand gashed.

Mrs. Patrick Lawler, left arm gashed.

The trouble started when the children of Mrs. Davis and some American neighbors began quarreling with the children of some foreign-born neighbors.

The women interfered to take their children's part and two men attacked them with knives

Two Die as Boats Crash.

Galveston, Texas.—The freight steamer El Sud of the Southern Pacific line and the passenger boat Denver of the Mallory line crashed together in a dense fog off the Galveston bar. Two lives were lost, those of deck hands who were knocked overboard.

The crash occurred about 15 miles from the Bolivar light. For a time it was feared that the El Sud would sink down at the bow but raced for the shore and was beached on the Galveston bar.

Financiers Get Together.

Washington, D. C.—The government of the United States and the business interests of the country will undertake to get in closer touch, through the organization here of a national commercial body.

Responding to the call of President Taft, representatives of chambers of commerce and boards of trade from nearly every quarter of the globe in which the American flag floats assembled and formed an association broadly representative of the nation's business interests.

100 DEAD, MANY HURT

RECORD OF CYCLONE THAT SWEPT TWO STATES.

Houses Are Levelled as if They Were Made of Cardboard in Illinois and Indiana.

Chicago, Ill.—One hundred people killed, twice as many badly hurt and $1,000,000 property damage was the record estimated for the terrific tornado that swept Illinois and Indiana. Chicago escaped by a margin of less than 50 miles. From a point several miles this side of Grant Park, Ill., to the southern extremity at Cairo, a whirling, death-dealing storm swept the state, killing some, maiming others and levelling houses as if they were made of cardboard.

As an indication of the awful force of the wind that struck Grant Park, where 40 persons were injured, 12 box cars loaded with brick were blown from a railroad sidetrack and overturned.

Bush, Kankakee, West Frankfort, Campus, Grant Park, Willisville, Murphysboro, Freeman, Limestone and Lowell, Ill., and various towns in Indiana were nearly swept from the map.

Farming regions lying between those towns all felt the full force of the storm

Numerous instances are recorded where persons were driving when the storm struck them. Near Morocco, Ind., Miss Meta Hamlin and Bruce Hanger were in a buggy, racing to get home ahead of the storm. They lost the race and when rescuers came along the road later they found both of them with their clothing hanging in shreds lying among the wreckage of the buggy, while the horse had disappeared. The whirling storm had picked buggy, occupants and horse up as if they had been straws, hurled them 100 feet from the road and flung them into a gulley. Both the persons were injured but will recover.

At Campus, Ill., Nelson Husie, his wife and their oldest daughter were all killed when their house crashed down upon them and two other children were badly injured.

The village of Bush, in Williamson county, was almost entirely razed. Eighteen were killed outright and several others died after being removed to hospitals in St. Louis.

Seventy-five houses, the hotel, post office, mining company's office and the railroad roundhouse were all torn from their foundations and hurled to the ground.

Near Benton, Ill., in Franklin county, William Gambill and two daughters were killed and one son fatally injured. About 50 people were injured. The property loss is enormous.

At Willisville the coal company's building and two rows of 25 houses were swept flat to the ground, several miners being killed

THREATENED STRIKE AVERTED

Uncle Sam Will Use His Good Offices in Trying to Adjust Differences Between Engineers and Railroads.

New York City—The threatened strike of the 28,000 engineers on the eastern railroads has been averted. This result was brought about by the intervention of the federal government with its good offices, proposing that an armistice be declared pending negotiations looking to arbitration under the Erdman act.

Martin A. Knapp, presiding judge of the court of commerce, and Charles P. Neill, national labor commissioner, sent a letter to the strike managers deploring the action earlier in the day which precipitated a situation that denoted the probability of the greatest railroad strike in the history of the country. They suggested earnestly to Grand Chief Warren S. Stone, who has been in New York from Cleveland off and on for three months, urging acceptance of the demands of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers for an increase in their wages, that they be permitted to invoke mediation through the Erdman law. To this letter Grand Chief Stone promptly responded that he welcomed the prospect of averting the strike through the means proposed.

The identical letter was sent to J. C. Stuart, vice president of the Erie railroad, who has been acting as chairman of a joint committee of railroad managers

From the inception of the negotiations it is known that the railroads have wanted to submit the whole case to a board of arbitration to be named under the terms of the Erdman law, but they have claimed that men were opposed to this form of arbitration.

Judge Knapp and Commissioner Neill were notified that their offer has been accepted by the engineers

The action of the engineers in accepting mediation means a truce in the strike preparations until the mediators report that the railway managers also have accepted or refused the offer There is no thought that they will refuse

Cyclone in Southern States

Atlanta, Ga—Alabama and Georgia suffered heavily from a cyclone which swept over the two states, taking many lives and causing the loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of property. The loss of life is divided, according to reports, between certain mining towns in Alabama and the valley of the Ocmulgee river in Georgia The storm passed over Adamsville, Pinckney City, Brookside and other mining towns, killing between twelve and fifteen persons.

Ten Fires in One Day.

Waterbury, Conn.—Ten fires of seemingly incendiary origin destroyed the city hall, swept through St. Patrick's church parish building and badly damaged several other structures. A number of false alarms added to the confusion and alarmed the people.

The fire in the city hall was set in the basement directly beneath the police station in a quantity of paint and varnish left by workmen. The building was valued at $200,000. The several other fires also started in basements.

19 OHIOANS LOST ABOARD TITANIC

THE PATHETIC WORD "MISSING YET" STANDS AGAINST NEARLY A SCORE FROM HOME.

CORRECT ERRONEOUS REPORTS

Early Advices Placed Number in Access of Actual Count, But In This Case Knowledge of Error is Gladly Received.

Youngstown.—"Missing" still stands against the names of the 19 of the 41 Titanic passengers known to have been bound for Ohio points.

The name of Mrs. George D. Wick of this place has been removed from those believed drowned and added to the living There is a possibility that this family, which included Col. Wick and daughter, Miss Natalie Wick, may have been saved in its entirety

Doubt is cast on the reported loss of Col. Wick by a dispatch from Paris saying that he transferred his sailing from the Titanic and remained on business in that city

Through publication of erroneous reports sent out from New York gloom and fear was cast on several families in Ohio This was so in the case of the following Cleveland people. Miss Elizabeth Bonnell, a sister of William F. Bonnell, 1372 Forder N. E.; Mrs. Bowerman-Chibnall, guest of T. W. Guthrie, 3326 Euclid av. and Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Beckwith, and Miss Helen Newsome, Mrs. Beckwith's daughter, of this city.

Safety is Confirmed.

Advices placed them among the missing Confirmation of their safety has been received

The Ohio list of dead still includes the names of two women One Mrs Percy C. Corey, niece of Rev R A George, 3602 Cedar avenue S. E., was a young bride coming to visit here from Upper Burma, India, where her husband is a missionary. Mrs. Corey was a daughter of John Alexander Miller, Steuben street, Pittsburgh. She was married in that city last August

The other woman is Miss Catherine McGowan. She lived in Cleveland for several years, but latterly resided in Chicago. Returning from a visit to Ireland, Miss McGowan was bringing her sister, Anna, to live with another sister, Mrs. Margaret McCarthy. The sister was among those on the Carpathia.

O'HARA FOR SUPREME BENCH.

Cincinnati Jurist Is Appointed to Succeed Judge Price

Columbus — Mr Joseph W O'Hara of Cincinnati succeeds the late Judge James L. Price of Lima as supreme court judge He is a Democrat This appointment was made by Governor Harmon Tuesday evening Judge Price died several weeks ago He was a Republican Mr O'Hara's appointment makes the court bipartisan for the first time for more than 30 years

During the past seven years Judge O'Hara has been practicing by himself. He was a member of the board of penitentiary managers six years.

Governor Harmon also appointed Robert H. Pugh, a teacher in the Cincinnati law school, to succeed the late Judge Prescott Smith on the superior court bench in Cincinnati He is a Democrat.

TELLS OF SEA WRECK.

Survivor of Central America Sinking Is Recalled.

Bellefontaine — Blanchard Chamberlin of this city has a vivid recollection of the horrors of a disaster at sea He was on board the Central America, which went down Sept. 12, 1858, off Cape Hatteras, and he says no tongue can tell the details of such a calamity Chamberlin's home was in Cleveland at the time and he was a sailor on a whaling vessel that was lost and had boarded the Central America were rescued by an America and was on his way to the United States The survivors of the American schooner and a Swedish brig Only a short time ago the auditor of the war department wrote to Chamberlain, asking for his personal recollections of this maritime disaster of 1858 He is the sole survivor of the marine disaster now alive

Cleveland—B F Bower, former editor of the Cleveland News, died here of cancer He had been connected with the Cincinnati Tribune and a number of other papers and was founder of the Cleveland World

Cincinnati A failure which is indirectly responsible for the condition of the Second National bank was recorded here when a receiver was asked for the Smith book company It is charged that the bank has a demand note for $1,700 against the book company which it cannot meet and which the bank is about to call in The amount the stockholders will be required to pay into the bank will aggregate $1,000,000. The losses of the bank on poor loans and investments will aggregate $2,102,100, according to National Bank Examiner Goodhart.

Columbus.—Because the Minneapolis, Minn, board of education a year ago refused to re-employ him, Albert N. Oziss, once science instructor at Central High school, Columbus, died at his home in Minneapolis from a broken heart. His physician, Dr. Drisbach, asserted that worry over loss of his position had brought on heart trouble, the direct cause of death. Mr. Ozias had been principal of West High school at Minneapolis for a number of years, but was let out of his position a year ago. Reasons were not given.

MAY REOPEN LEG. PROBE

Intimation That Grand Jury Will Again Take Up Legislative Case.

Columbus.—Without returning indictments in legislative scandals, the April grand jury made a partial report to Judge Thomas M. Bigger, sitting in the absence of Judge Frank Rathmell

The grand jury is known to have examined several persons concerned in general assembly affairs notably Senator R. H. Finnefrock of Prospect, and the fact that an adjournment was taken indicates that the jury intends to do something in this connection.

Senator Finnefrock was a witness for the defense in the Huffman case, and others who are said to have appeared before the grand jury were witnesses for the defense in other cases tried in the criminal court and growing out of the general assembly expose All of the transcript cases have been disposed of by the grand jury and just what that body intends to take up, if not general assembly affairs, is not known

Among those indicted by the grand jury were Roy Scales and William Cragg, indicted for first degree murder for the killing of the railroad detective, James P. Gearen, on April 1 Also Milan A. Coe, first degree murder for the killing of Anna Muddox on March 2 Others indicted were Eldridge Kilgore, Frank Green, Eugene Benadem, John Bowman, George Regling, William Jennings, Edward Carter and William Thompson, burglary and larceny, Eliza Patterson and Salvatori Zicarelli, larceny; Effie Merchant, Norman Berry, John Jefferson and Wilbur Patterson, pocket-picking; Charles Lehman and Charles Schaefer, burglary; Monroe Harris, attempted burglary; Thomas Wells, maliciously entering a house and attempting to commit a felony; George Rowe and John Fitzgerald, forgery.

LUCKY 13 SAVES OHIOAN

George D. Wicks of Youngstown Took No. 13 in Sweepstakes and Canceled Passage on Titanic.

Paris.—The unlucky or, rather, in this case the lucky number 13, probably saved George D. Wicks, a prominent resident of Youngstown, O., from meeting death on the Grand Banks when the ill-fated Titanic sank.

The day before her sailing Mr. Wicks entered the Hotel Maurice and was immediately attracted by the sweepstake pool for the Grand Prix. Mr. Wicks selected No. 13, saying: "Just to show I'm not superstitious, I'll take this number. I believe it is a luck number. Watch what this will do for me."

That evening, according to reports, Mr. Wicks canceled his passage on the Titanic for business reasons He insists that 13 is his lucky number

FOUR TRYS AT SUICIDE.

Edward Myers, Accused of Assault, Would Kill Self.

Columbus—Edward Myers, twenty seven years old, 110 Chicago avenue, made two unsuccessful attempts to end his life by hanging in the city prison, after he had been arrested for alleged mistreatment of Grace Taylor, 8, daughter of C. E. Taylor of 1268½ West Broad street, and Daisy Stansberry, 2, of 14 Chicago avenue

The Taylor girl was wheeling the Stansberry child in a go-cart along West Broad street when a man, said to have been Myers, appeared and, with offers of candy and a visit to a picture show, induced her to accompany him.

Her cries attracted the attention of persons living in the vicinity and the man fled The child was found with her clothing badly torn and in a hysterical condition. The entire neighborhood was aroused and a crowd of more than 500 scoured streets and alleys in the vicinity searching for the child's assailant.

Policeman Shaw arrested Myers, who answered the description of the man seen with the children Detectives Shellenbarger and Creedon took Myers to the Taylor home, where the girl identified him as her assailant. Dorothy Porter, 16, of 113 North Princeton avenue, identified him as the man she saw leading the children

Myers denied he had ever seen the children before A few minutes after he was locked in the city prison Myers attempted suicide by hanging himself with a belt He was cut down and revived by Police Surgeon Pickering Later Myers was discovered making a second attempt to hang himself with his shoestrings.

Myers has a reputation for making unsuccessful efforts to end his life Some time ago he took carbolic acid while in front of the McKinley monument on High street, and a few days later he stood in front of the city prison and attempted to end his life by taking poison

Dayton Declaring that she intended to send and keep her children in school, and further that they should not be vaccinated regardless of the orders of the board of education Mrs Anna M Seybold accompanied her three children to school and defiantly spent the day at the school building After a conference between the health officer, city solicitor and mayor wherein it was determined that the board of health has plenary powers in the matter, the school authorities were directed to enforce vaccination

Canton.—Mlle. Clifford, the sword swallower, whose everyday name is Edith Holmes, and Signor Zanton, the acrobatic hand balancer, who is known here as Karl Bauer, were married in St. Peter's Catholic church. Although the ceremony was simple, the romance which preceded it in the sawdust rings of a circus was thrilling. They fell in love while the mademoiselle was swallowing long, jagged swords, and Signor Zanton arrayed in red tights, was balancing a lighted lamp on the tips of his fingers.

HOW TO FOOL MAJOR LEAGUE SLUGGERS

Emil Richter of the Chicago Cubs.

"Go, get a curve ball to mix with your smoke." That's the admonition given with the best approved managerial intent with the view of doubling the slab effectiveness of Emil (Reggy) Richter, Cub right-hander. With more zip to his curve Reggy should develop into a whale of a pitcher. He now has the speed; in fact, he tops all the other Cub hurlers in this particular department.

Prior to catching on with the West Side club "Rick" starred in several close games for the Louisville Colonels, where, under the tutelage of Heine Peitz, former Cincinnati backstop, he learned the rudiments of serving an outcurve and outdrop which blended successfully with his known smokeball prowess. Reggy will tell you he possessed little more than speed and a prayer when he was identified with the Rogers Parkers, appearing on semi-pro fields around Chicago.

Sometimes more than "smoke" is needed to win ball games in major society. Hence the instructions given Reggy to keep busy. Much is expected from the giant this year and just as soon as he masters a sharper curve his name will likely be seen at regular, and stated intervals in box scores of championship combats. Jimmy Archer, who has been working with Reggy, reports the latter as well advanced in his pursuit of greater curving knowledge

LEFT-HANDERS NOT SO WILD

Statistics Show Right-Handed Pitchers Issued Almost as Many Passes—Leifield Steadiest.

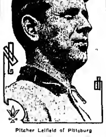
The weird performances of some left-handed pitchers have given huge the impression that practically all southpaws are of the wild and woolly variety. The averages tell a different story. A comparison of the records of the five leading right-handed pitchers of the major leagues with those of the five best left-handers shows that the control of the southpaws is almost as good as that of the starboard flingers.

National League right-handers were somewhat steadier than left-handers and the port hurlers of the National were a trifle wilder than those in the American

Render, Coombs, Ford, Johnson and Walsh are the leading American league right handers. The five gave 469 passes in 1,525 innings, or 169 nine-inning games, making an average of little over two passes per game. Gregg, Plank, Collins, Vaughn and White, the leading southpaws gave 296 passes in 1,050 innings or an average of two and one-half per game in 117 nine-inning games

Alexander, Mathewson, Brown, Adams and Suggs, five of the crack right-handers of the National league, averaged two passes for every nine innings." Marquard, Sallee, Willse, Rucker and Leifield the crack left-handers of the same organization averaged two and two-thirds bases on balls a game

Christy Mathewson the steadiest of National League pitchers averaged one pass for every nine innings he pitched. Ed Walsh's average was about one and one-half per battle. "Doc" White was the steadiest of all left-handers, with only one and one-half passes per nine innings Leifield of the Pirates was the steadiest National left-hander, with two and one-third passes per nine innings.



Pitcher Leifield of Pittsburg

The most consistent hitter on Griffith's team to date has been Jack Flynn

Cornell's baseball prospects are poor. The team lost every infielder by graduation last year.

Aside from his pitchers, Griffith has but three regular left-handed hitters with his Washington team.

George Mullin says he has set his heart on this being his best year To make it that he will have to go some, all will admit.

George Kahler it is and not Kaler The Nap pitcher says he is German and that his name contains all the letters that go with it

Washington sent a scout to sign Pitcher Moran of Washington Lee university, but Hughey Jennings beat him to the prize and landed Moran for Detroit

Tom Stark, last year manager of Monmouth and this year slated to manage Rock Island until that town lost its franchise has signed with Wichita.

An investigation of the baseball trust is all very well but many a ball player is in favor of the conviction of umpires for unreasonable restraint of bases on balls

Complaints are already coming from the Detroit inner circle that Gutfield or Hank Perry secured from Providence, lacks ambition and he may not fill the bill as Jennings expected.

ATHLETICS TOTAL $152,240

Even at That Harvard Could Not Pay Expenses—Deficit Is $10,458 for the Season.

Although Harvard's receipts from all its branches of athletics aggregated $1[illegible] during the college year 1910-11, the financial report of Graduate Treasurer of Athletics Wallace F. Garrison shows that there was a deficit of $10,4[illegible] for the season

The report shows that the cost of athletics was $162,698 during the term. Compared with the preceding year Harvard's expenses were reduced by about $1,500, but the net receipts were approximately $10,000 less. The football and baseball teams provided the assets which practically paid for all other sports, although the receipts for lawn tennis courts exceeded the expenditures by about $400.

Rowing cost Harvard more than $16,000 about $1,000 being received from the sale of observation car seats for the regatta at New London

During the year football, with no Yale game at Cambridge, provided net receipts of $96,049, leaving a profit of $15,428. The baseball team cost more than $23,000, but earned more than $30,000.

"Every Picture Tells a Story"
BAD BACKS DO MAKE WORK HARD
Backache makes the daily toil, for thousands, an agony hard to endure. Many of these poor sufferers have kidney trouble and don't know it.
Swollen, aching kidneys usually go hand in hand with irregular kidney action, headache, dizziness, nervousness and despondency.
Just try a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, the best-recommended special kidney remedy. This good medicine has cured thousands.
HERE'S A TYPICAL CASE—
J. L. Richardson, Red Key, Ind., says: "My back ached as if it would break. I could not move without intense pain. The kidneys were in such shape it was necessary to draw the secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me completely after doctors gave up hope and I have not had the slightest trouble since."
Get Doan's at any Drug Store, 50c. a Box
DOAN'S Kidney Pills

Sound Sleep
is usually impossible to the bilious. But biliousness yields—and headaches, sour stomach, indigestion go—when the bowels are regulated and the liver and kidneys stimulated by
BEECHAM'S PILLS
Sold everywhere. In boxes 10c., 25c.

OVER 100 YEARS OLD Pettits Eye Salve

The more birthdays a woman has the less she has to say about them.

For torpid, inactive or disordered liver, take Garfield Tea. All druggists.

Beauty specialists encounter many hard lines.

Relieves and Rests Teething Babies.
Mrs. Burton Gary, Toledo, Ohio, writes that she has given Kopp's Baby's Friend to her babies when teething; finds it gives them rest without making them sleep. Invaluable to mothers. Three sizes 10c, 25c and 50c, at druggists or sent direct by Kopp's Baby's Friend Co., York, Pa. Sample by mail on request.

Not Resentful.

"Those people say they don't believe you ever reached the pole."

"That's all right," replied the explorer as he looked up from his manuscript. "The more doubts there are as to whether I landed or not, the longer this rather remunerative discussion is going to last."

THEN HE WENT.

Myrtle—Have you ever tried to figure out what Shakespeare meant by the words, "Stand not upon the order of your going?"

George—No. Have you?

Myrtle—Yes. The definition is "Don't wait for a house to fall on you"

Every Crisp, Little Flake Of Post Toasties has a flavour all its own.
"Toasties" are made of selected white Indian corn; first cooked, then rolled into wafer-like bits and toasted to an appetizing golden brown.
A favorite food for breakfast, lunch or supper in thousands upon thousands of homes where people are particular.
"The Memory Lingers"
Sold by Grocers
Postum Cereal Company, Limited Battle Creek, Mich.

Lake County Herald

PAINESVILLE, OHIO

A DEMOCRATIC NEWSPAPER

TELEPHONE NO. 75

PUBLISHED THURSDAY OF EACH WEEK

Entered in the Postoffice at Painesville, Ohio, as Second-Class Mail Matter.

Advertising Rates

DISPLAY

Per Inch—First Insertion ........ 20c
Per Inch—Each Additional Insertion ........ 10c

LOCALS

Per Line—First Insertion ........ 10c
Per Line—Each Additional Insertion ........ 5c
Want Column—Three Lines, three weeks ........ 25c

M. L. Harter
R. A. Tuttle } Editors and Proprietors

Call For Democratic County Delegate Convention

The following call is made under authority of a majority vote of the Democratic County Central Committee of Lake County

Three delegates and three alternates to the various Democratic State, District, Judicial, Congressional and Senatorial Conventions, to represent Lake County, shall be chosen at a County Delegate Convention hereby called to meet in Painesville City Hall, Saturday, May 25th at 2 p. m.

The above named delegates shall be chosen by one set of delegates to said County Convention which shall be apportioned one delegate to 58 votes or major fraction thereof cast for Gov. Harmon November, 1910, as follows in the various Precincts of the county:

| | |
|---|---|
| Painesville, Ward 1 | 2 |
| Painesville, Ward 2 | 3 |
| Painesville, Ward 3 | 2 |
| Painesville, Ward 4 | 2 |
| Painesville, Precinct F | 2 |
| Painesville, Precinct G | 2 |
| Perry | 2 |

and one delegate for each of the other precincts, a total of 29 delegates to be chosen at the May primaries according to law

The County Central Committee is also called to meet at the above named time and place for organization

F. D. MALIN
Chairman
E. A. MURPHY,
Sec'y

NOT FORGETTING BRYAN

Although the deplorable accident on the Newfoundland banks has blanketed Mr. Bryan's trip through Ohio so far as newspaper reports go, it is not safe to deny the significance that belongs to it. Although the hearts of the 50,000 Ohio voters who listened to Mr. Bryan's impassioned appeal against the domination of Wall Street over our government go out in full measure of sympathy for the stricken ones left by the disaster, they will not allow the visit to pass without result. Their eager and intelligent presence in vast numbers at all the meetings speak an interest far beyond curiosity and from which votes are sure to come in corresponding strength at the May primaries. The men who are to decide the event in the primaries are not those who stayed away from the Bryan meetings but those who went to hear him. Of his coming it may be said as it was of old—"And the common people people heard him gladly."

Of course they did not hear him gladly, or hear him at all, unless he had something to say. And what he said can safely be measured not only by the test that many came to hear it, but better and safer by the weight and truthfulness of it. His arguments cannot be answered, and no attempt will be made to answer them. To attempt to answer them by any material challenge of either their truth or their cogency would be fatal to the Harmon candidacy. The foundation of them, the unshakable premise upon which all of them rest is the fact that Harmon is the candidate of big business. This Harmon neither denies nor wants to deny. To do so would take from him his only political asset and put him out of the running. He wants to be considered as the exponent of big business. He says so in his Omaha speech. Of course he couples in that speech little business with big but to one who knows the kind of clients he has had and the small figure that little business cuts among those with whom he has trained all his life, will understand that it can have in him nothing that comes from either experience or sympathy.

And the same result follows when Harmon boasts that he has the confidence of business, big and little. A man who up to 65 has been a corporation lawyer could not if he would shake off the associations or habits of thinking or way of looking at things that must cling to a man with a past of that kind. By that time he has the railroad mind shackled upon him beyond any mortal power that can unlock it. And a few receiverships would complete the enslavement if it were not complete without them. The conundrum that was troubling Nicodemus was easy compared with any new birth to Judson Harmon, if any was claimed, and none is claimed. None dare be claimed. To claim it with any suspicion of sincerity would bring upon him the instant hostility of Wall Street, and this he neither desires nor can afford to have. That the interests that travel that thoroughfare are open and loud in his praise and in praise of no other Democratic candidate, is a converse but equally convincing evidence that he is their man, and the people of Ohio know what being their man means.

This single consideration ought to be, and will be decisive against Harmon with every man who is not a reactionary and a Bourbon. And as nine out of ten Ohio Democrats are neither, the thanks of the nine are due to Mr. Bryan for coming into the state and telling them so in the way he alone can do.

We are not unmindful of other collateral but equally cogent evidence to the same conclusion. A man who has twice sought and obtained the office of governor on a platform committing him to the principle of the initiative and referendum, and who then goes into a constitutional convention and makes the same speech that Foraker did on that subject, urging delegates whom he knew the people had sent there to adopt that principle, to betray the people in that respect, just as he was himself doing at that time, and to break the promise implied in their election, even as he was himself breaking the promise implied in his own,—that kind of man we submit, could not be a reformer if he wanted to be, and it would be impossible for him to wish to be.

He disobeys the people's command himself and, like a real political procurer and pander, he strives to drag others into his course of disobedience. Harmon fulfills every condition of Bourbonism and has not a single evidence of progress in him. A blind person listening to his speech and that of Foraker in the convention could not have told which one of the two was making either of them.

These things, conclusive as they are as to the fitness of Harmon to be the Democratic candidate and the propriety of keeping him at home, have been emphasized by Mr. Bryan's tour and his work here will bear fruit.

We are glad he came and that he is coming again.—Akron Times-Democrat.

LORIMER

No Senator who voted to retain William Lorimer in the United States Senate has since been reelected. Ten senators—Hale, Scott, Kean, Bulkeley, Depew, Piles, Dick, Burrows, Carter and Flint—who voted for Lorimer, retired from the Senate March 4. Three others—Paynter, Bailey and Guggenheim, announced their retirement after their vote for Lorimer, and two—Foster of Louisiana and Cullom of Illinois, both of whom voted to keep the Blond Boss, were defeated recently in primaries. Jones of Washington, who voted to sustain Lorimer in committee, probably will be defeated when he runs again, as the people of his state are in an uproar because of his vote.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

By Tom, Dick and Harry.

Could J. Bruce Ismay have foretold the scathing denunciation that was to be heaped upon him from street corner, pulpit and press there is little doubt but that he would have committed suicide as it seems the American people wish him to have done. He has been called a liar, a coward, "the man without a country," a degenerate and all the harsh names in the whole category of vituperate adjectives. No man has ever been subjected to worse humiliation or more bitter criticism than this Englishman who happened to be the president of a steamship company whose best ship proved the means of snuffing out several hundred lives. The press, ministers and the public generally are at a loss to find words adequate to express their utter contempt for this man.

And why? Because the American people have the opinion that this man saved his own life in a great disaster at the expense of possibly a woman or child—that he played the coward. And why has the public formed such an opinion? Well, principally because the public don't think and we are sorry to say that the "public" includes in this case the ministers who stood in their pulpits on last Sunday and condemned a man without evidence. It includes United States senator Rayner who in a formal official speech said:

"Mr. Ismay claims, according to reports, that he took the last lifeboat. I do not believe it, and if he did it was cowardly to take any lifeboat, for the managing director of the line with his board is criminally responsible for this appalling tragedy. I have not the slightest doubt that the northern route was taken in obedience to Mr. Ismay's direct orders."

Ismay may be shown up to be a coward or even worse but he had not been when this speech was made nor has he been at the time this is written. On the other hand he has denied every rumor that the yellow newspapers put in circulation and no one has come forth with evidence against him. His story has even been corroborated by one or two of the survivors. And yet the American people, champions of justice, denouncers of lynch law, have condemned and sentenced this fellow. Is it fair play. Is it a square deal?

He is a millionaire, he owned the ship and he saved his life. For these reasons he has been blamed for the speed of the ship, for its northern route, for the lack of life boats, for the manner in which they were handled, for the kind of boats they were, for suppressing the news, for sending out false reports, for saving his life, for trying to reach his home as quickly as possible, for seeking seclusion after being rescued, for being a coward, for building the ship, for furnishing it with tennis courts and palm gardens, for everything under the sun to which blame could be attached. And all without evidence or deliberation. It isn't fair play, it isn't a square deal.

A United States Senator who violates every principle of fairness as did Senator Rayner, "is not fit to be elected to the office of constable." A minister who has denounced Ismay is not preaching Christ by example. A paper that dubs him a degenerate deserves the consideration due a yellow newspaper to which class it places itself.

"My little son had a very severe cold. I was recommended to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and before a small bottle was finished he was as well as ever," writes Mrs. H. Silks, 29 Dowling Street, Sydney, Australia. This remedy is for sale by all dealers.

Big Apple Orchard

Cleveland people have purchased and have under option about 1,000 acres of land a mile west of Concord including the Fairchild Smith farm and other property in the vicinity. It will be devoted to the raising of fine apples. This orchard will be operated by professional orchardists upon the latest and most approved scientific methods. When trees are in full bearing 1,000 car loads annually of quality apples, it is said, will be shipped from the orchards.

Planting is well under way, under the supervision of skilled fruit men. Dr. D. J. Merriman, of this city, owner of the Merriman fruit farm, near Little Mountain, who was for years president of the Lake County Horticultural society and a member of the State Horticultural society, has entire charge of the planting and will oversee the placing of the spraying plant.

Six thousand five hundred apple trees will be planted in addition to the bearing trees now on the farm. The greater portion of these trees will be Northern Spy, Baldwin, Rhode Island Greening, the varieties held in highest favor in this climate, the supply always being greatly short of the demand.

For rheumatism you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Liniment. Try it and see how quickly it gives relief. For sale by all dealers.

MADISON

Mrs. Lottie Kellogg of Oberlin was the guest of Madison friends several days last week.

Mrs. Amanda Hall of Perry visited friends in town recently.

Miss Sanderson of Cleveland has purchased the Reed farm south of town and will have immediate possession. The deal was made through R. D. St. John.

Sam Morehouse of Ashtabula spent Sunday at the home of N. D. Bailey.

Andrew Smith has resigned his position with the Madison Grocery Co. to accept a more lucrative one with a firm in Huron, O. Mr. and Mrs. Smith have made many friends while in Madison, who regret to have them leave town but wish them success in their new venture.

Mr. Byron Winchester has sold his beautiful little home on E. Main St. to Mr. Eugene Werner of Unionville. Captain Lyons and family will occupy the place. Mr. Winchester and family will move to the Bartlett place vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Smith.

Miss Sanderson of Cleveland was down Saturday to see about repairs on her recently purchased home.

Mrs. Nellie Ensign spent Wednesday in Cleveland.

Thursday was "clean up day" for our town and we are glad to say we can see a decided improvement.

Mr. and Mrs. John Perry were at the home of Mrs. Perry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eli Brotsman, Sunday. They also attended the funeral of Mrs. Harriet Smead.

Miss Alta Graves was in Ashtabula Saturday evening.

Mrs. Mary Emington Styles of Denver, Col., is expected at the Emington home in the near future.

Mrs. Chas. Gunther who has been with her daughter, Mrs. Syringer in Cleveland, for a week or two, returned home Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bates who have been in California for the winter, returned to their home last week.

Mrs. Kathryn Brown was a Geneva visitor Monday afternoon.

Miss Ethel Williams was shopping in Cleveland Saturday.

Dr. and Mrs. Mygatt of Ashtabula, Mrs. Dio. Carter and Victor Wright of Geneva, were among those from out of town that attended the funeral of Mrs. Smead, Sunday.

The Farquharson family have moved from the Kheals house to the rooms in the Burns house recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Eino Foster.

Mrs. H. M. Rand and Miss Pearl Rand spent Saturday in Cleveland.

Dudley Smead was at home from Cleveland over Sunday.

Death of Mrs. Smead

Mrs. Harriet Smead, aged 80 years passed away at her home on East Main street, Thursday at 5:30 p. m. Death came rather suddenly at the last, though not unexpected. Aunt Hattie, as she was familiarly called, will be greatly missed, as none knew her but to love her, and her many kind deeds and charitable acts will perpetuate her memory.

The funeral was held at her late home Sunday afternoon, Rev. Freeman officiating. Mr. C. R. Kimball sang two beautiful selections "Crossing the Bar," and "Good night." A profusion of beautiful flowers covered the casket, mute tokens of love and esteem for the departed. The following friends from out of town attended the funeral: Mr. and Mrs. Will Dayton and daughter, Julia, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Dayton, of Conneaut, Ohio; Dr. and Mrs. Parke, Mrs. Sylvester Smead, Miss Mary Smead, Miss Marguerite Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wyman, Cleveland; Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Childs, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bliss, Painesville; Mr. Willard Dayton and Mr. G. N. Dayton of Hudson, Mich.

UNIONVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Wright and family of Cleveland spend the week end at their farm here.

Miss Castle of Painesville is a guest of Mrs. Hattie Peck.

Mr. and Mrs. Halliday and two sons were all taken suddenly ill last week. The doctor said that they had been poisoned by something which they had eaten, but they could not imagine what it could be.

Mrs. Jennie Safford of Piqua spent a few days last week with her niece, Mrs. E. L. Morris.

Rev. W. C. Detling attended a convention of the Congregational church in Cleveland on Tuesday.

Miss Minnie Cobb of Mentor was an over Sunday guest of her cousin, Miss Dorothy Darrow.

Those who from here attended the Boxwell examination Saturday were: Nathan Nash, Glen Nash and Vincent Morris at Painesville; Ralph Miller and Blanche Greif at Jefferson. Their teacher, Miss Ida Chaffee and Miss Joy Miller accompanied those who went to Jefferson.

Capt. Harry Lyons has purchased the house in Madison formerly owned by Mr. Winchester.

Mr. Chas. Harper who is working in Big Prairie, Ohio, is home for a few days.

Mrs. Frank Harper has been quite ill during the past week.

Miss Jackson, who has been spending the winter with Miss Gleason has returned to her home in Ashtabula.

Capt. Harry Lyons has gone to Milwaukee to take charge of his boat there, the "William Hawgood."

Mr. Townsley has set out a 1000 fruit trees on his farm on the River Road. The trees are mostly apple.

WICKLIFFE

The Wickliffe Charity and Study Club met at the home of Mrs. Stork on Wednesday last. Fifteen ladies being present. Devotional was led by Mrs. Young. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. J. L. Young; vice president, Mrs. D. C. Hills; secretary, Mrs. F. Stork; treasurer, Miss C. B. Jones; critic, Mrs. W. A. Barber; parliamentary law, Mrs. F. I. Woollett; program committee, Mrs. Barber, Mrs. Woollett, Mrs. Stork. North America and its possessions was the study decided upon for the ensuing year. A note of thanks was given Miss Shepherd of the associated charities and Mrs. Saymore of the 20th Century Club, for their interest shown in the club. Mrs. Viel read a very interesting paper on "Emigration" followed with solos by Mrs. Barber, accompanied by Miss Flora Young. The meeting adjourned to meet on Wednesday, May 1st at the home of Mrs. Geo. Fairman.

Mr. Gillespie and family are boarding with Mr. and Mrs. Yeoman of this town.

The Cleveland Crane and Engineering Co. have gotten a new whistle which makes quite an improvement to the shop.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parkte and little son spent Sunday with Mrs. Kreighbaum of Collinwood.

Mrs. G. E. Scatterday of Cleveland was a visitor at the Morris home Sunday afternoon.

It is reported that Mrs. C. Traver has been quite ill for the last few days, but is improving some.

Mrs. Ferguson and daughter, Mrs. F. Sherman, went to Cleveland shopping last Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. L. A. Morris is reported on the sick list.

Mrs. Fred Wittee spent Saturday night and a part of Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Vial.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Coughlin of Cleveland, called on Mr. and Mrs. Mert Kaine one evening last week.

The two Mr. Fenner's, also a Mr. Cox, called at the Ferguson home in their auto Sunday afternoon. The parties were from Waite Hill.

Mrs. Geo. Beach and children spent a week in Chardon. They expect to move there the first of the month.

Mr. Styre from Madison, visited his daughter, Mrs. Jennie Bowman last Saturday and Sunday.

Marriage License

Grover W. Gilroy, 29, Collinwood; Auguste J. Ferron, 29, Painesville.
James Arthur Barnes, 22, Fairport; Mary M. Kraynik, 26, Fairport.
Claud A. Warren, 19, Painesville; Elsie F. Newton, 18, Painesville.

WILLOUGHBY

Ed. Stokes has moved into the house owned by Otis Sheffield on Wilson Ave.

Mrs. Bertha Brush has moved into the Nickel Plate house on Erie street.

Miss Gertrude Brick who has been ill for sometime is able to be out.

A special meeting was held Wednesday evening at the Presbyterian church.

Mr. and Mrs. John Crobaugh who have been ill with the grip are improving.

Mrs. Erwin Hedlock and sons of Cleveland spent Saturday and Sunday at the home of her uncle, H. R. Goodrich.

Mr. F. M. Wood of Cleveland was in town Saturday.

Bert Dayton left last week for Minnesota, where he expects to locate. Mrs. Dayton and little daughter will remain here with his parents for a few weeks.

Mr. Grant Lamus is very ill with pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Quino called on relatives in Collinwood Friday evening.

Mr. Fred Goodrich is in Indiana for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Hills moved to Cleveland the past week.

Rev. W. M. Jeffers, pastor of the Methodist church of Youngstown, was in town Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Lamus lost a little child, who died with pneumonia. The funeral was held last Monday.

Married, at the Catholic church, Thursday morning, Miss Bessie Furlong and Edward Chalmers, both of this place. The young people are making a trip to Detroit, after which they will reside on Vine street.

Mrs. M. H. Carmody of Painesville was visiting relatives in town Saturday.

James Narkell, who has been in the hospital for treatment, died Wednesday. The remains were brought here to the home of his sister, Mrs. Charles Harvy, and the funeral held at that place. The interment was at Mentor his former home.

An entertainment will be given this week for the benefit of the library, by the high school, Andrews' school and others. Special entertainment each evening. Thursday and Friday evening concerts will be given.

Mr. Rigley Burton, a conductor on the C. P. & E. was taken to a hospital in Cleveland Friday, ill with appendicitis.

Mrs. James A. McMahon entertained a number of lady friends friends Thursday afternoon.

A new laundry is being erected on the Andrews school property.

DON'T get the idea because this is a big bank, that we don't want your account unless you have a large amount to deposit.

We welcome small accounts and give them painstaking attention.

PAINESVILLE OFFICE

The Cleveland Trust Company
SAVINGS BANK

W. R. RADCLIFFE, Mgr.
W. C. TISDEL, Chairman

French Dry Cleaning

Eliminates the soil from the finest and most delicate garments without loss of color or shrinkage and

Cleans Your Garments Clean

We French Dry Clean in a superior manner. Prompt service and prices the lowest consistent with first class work.

Painesville Dry Cleaning Co.
CHAS. FINK, Mgr.
Phone 219 R 109 South St. Clair St.
PAINESVILLE, O.

Work Called for and Delivered.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup

For coughs, colds, hoarseness, bronchitis, croup, influenza, whooping cough, measles cough, and for asthmatic and consumptive coughs in all stages of the disease. Good for man, woman and child. Nothing better. Price, 25 cts.

NO MORPHINE OR CHLOROFORM

"I had a cough for four weeks and took 3 or 4 renewals of a doctor's prescription without any result, but after taking two bottles of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup the cough was all gone." James W. Byrd, 3026 S. 15th St., Phila., Pa.

SAMPLE SENT FREE

ORDINANCE 86

An ordinance to regulate the use and operation of motorcycles and motor bicycles on, upon or over the streets of Painesville.

Be it ordained by the Council of the City of Painesville, state of Ohio:

Section 1. From and after the passage of this ordinance it shall be unlawful for any person or persons, firm or corporation to run, operate, propel or drive, or cause to be run, operated, propelled or driven on, over, or upon the streets or highways of the City of Painesville any motorcycle or motor bicycle, the motive power of which shall be electricity, steam, gasoline or any source of energy other than human power, except under the following restrictions and regulations:

Section 2. Every motorcycle or motor bicycle, shall at all times when run, operated, used or driven upon the streets or highways of the City of Painesville be provided with a good and sufficient brake, which brake shall make it possible to check any forward or backward motion, and a suitable bell, horn or other audible signal, which shall be rung or blown by the operator whenever in approaching any street intersection he shall be riding not more than one hundred or less than thirty feet distant therefrom and to warn other vehicles and drivers upon the highways of his presence whenever there is danger of collision or accident.

They shall also be provided with all other appliances and apparatus such as sufficient condensers to prevent the unnecessary escape of steam or vapor, or improved mufflers to stop any unnecessary noise in the operation or management of said vehicle upon the highways.

Section 3. No person in charge of any motorcycle or motor bicycle shall run, operate, propel or drive the same on, upon or over any public street, alley, highway, road or driveway in the business portion in the City of Painesville at a rate of speed greater than eight (8) miles an hour, and in all other parts of said city the rate of speed of said motorcycles or motor bicycles shall not be greater than fifteen (15) miles an hour.

Section 4. No person while running, operating, propelling or driving any motor cycle or motor bicycle over any public street, alley, highway, road or driveway, shall carry any other person or a passenger except at the rear of the operator on a suitable seat provided for that purpose.

Section 5. No person in charge of any motorcycle or motor bicycle shall run, operate, propel or drive the same on, upon or over any sidewalk adjacent to any street, highway, road or driveway in any portion within the corporate limits of the said city of Painesville.

Section 6. Motorcycles or motor bicycles shall always exhibit during the period while in use, from twilight to dawn a suitable lamp showing a white light visible within a reasonable distance in the direction towards which the motorcycle or motor bicycle is proceeding.

Section 7. No person shall run, operate, propel or drive or cause to be run, operated, propelled or driven any such motorcycle or motor bicycle within the limits of the City of Painesville without first obtaining a license from the City Clerk. The fee for such license shall be One Dollar and Fifty Cents ($1.50) which shall be deposited in the general fund of the city. These licenses shall be granted annually, but they shall expire on December 31st following the date of issue. It shall be the duty of any applicant for such license to furnish the City Clerk his name and address with a brief description of the motorcycle or motor bicycle to be registered, including the name of the maker, factory number, style and motor power. Thereupon it shall be the duty of the said City Clerk to file such statement in his office, to register such motorcycle or motor bicycles in a book kept for that purpose and assign it a distinctive number. The City Clerk shall also furnish to each of said applicants for license under this ordinance a plate of such design and pattern as the City Clerk may prescribe, containing the number to be assigned to said motorcycle or motor bicycle. Said number to be in Arabic numerals. White on black ground, each not less than three inches in height and each stroke to be of a width not less than one-half of an inch, which plate shall be rigidly attached and displayed at the rear of such motorcycle or motor bicycle in such manner as plainly to be visible at all times.

Section 8. Any person violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be fined not less than Five Dollars ($5) and not more than Twenty-five Dollars ($25) or imprisoned not more than ten (10) days, or both.

Section 9. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and legal publication.

Passed April 15, 1912.

ELBERT F. BLAKELY,
President of the Council

Attest:
FRANK L. KELLY, Clerk.
Approved April 15, 1912
WYNNE S. SMITH,
Mayor

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

State Highway Department,
Columbus, Ohio, March 28, 1912.

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Commissioners of Lake County, at Painesville, Ohio, until ten o'clock A. M., April 26th, 1912, for grading and paving with a bituminated concrete the Madison Southern Road in Madison Township, said County. Length 7485 feet or 1.41 miles, width of pavement 12 feet; estimated cost of construction $9799.85. A draft or certified check for $300 shall be deposited with each bid. The successful bidder shall be required to give bond for an amount equal to the contract price, for the faithful performance of the obligations within the contract. Date set for completion August 1, 1912.

Plans and specifications are on file in the offices of the County Commissioners and the State Highway Department.

The State Highway Commissioner reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

JAMES R. MARKER,
State Highway Commissioner.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION

The Lake County board of examiners will offer examinations for teachers' certificates on the first Saturday of each month in the year 1912. If first Saturday falls on holiday, examinations will be held one week later. Boxwell pupils will be examined the third Saturday in April and the third Saturday in May, 1912. All examinations will be held in the old High School building, Painesville, beginning at 8:15 standard time.

By order of the board.

J. R. ADAMS, Clerk,
Unionville, Ohio.

NOTICE

Sealed proposals for printing the ballots and all necessary blanks for the primary election to be held in Lake county, May 21st, 1912, will be received by the Board of Deputy State Supervisors of Elections of Lake county at the office of said board up to Thursday, April 25th, at 10 a. m. Specifications will be on file at the office of said board on and after Wednesday, April 23, 1912.

Each proposal for printing must be accompanied by a bond executed in due form by the bidder with at least two good and sufficient sureties satisfactory to the Board of Deputy State Supervisors of Elections in a sum double the amount of his bid, conditioned for a faithful performance, pursuant to contract of such printing as may be awarded to him, and for the payment as liquidated damages by such bidder to the Board of Deputy State Supervisors of Elections of any excess of cost over the bid or bids of such bidders which the Board of Deputy State Supervisors of Elections may be obliged to pay for such work by reason of the failure of such bidder to complete his contract, the bond to be null and void if no contract is awarded to him. No bid unaccompanied by such bond shall be entertained by the Board of Deputy State Supervisors of Elections.

E. G. HUNTINGTON,
Chief Deputy.
CHARLES E. BOOTH, Clerk.
Painesville, O., April 15, 1912.

LEGAL NOTICE

Roger B. Sherman, whose place of residence is unknown, is hereby notified that Charlotte Brooks Sherman has filed her petition against him for divorce and restoration of former name in the Court of Common Pleas of Lake County, Ohio, and that said cause will be for hearing on or after May 24th, 1912.

CHARLOTTE BROOKS SHERMAN,
By HARRY T. NOLAN,
Her Attorney.
Painesville, Ohio, April 8, 1912.

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & CO. New York

Insurance Of all kinds

FIRE, LIFE, AUTOMOBILE AND LIABILITY INSURANCE

Twenty-five of the strongest and safest companies represented and all losses promptly paid.

E. D. BARBER
The Insurance Man.

FIRE INSURANCE
REAL ESTATE
ABSTRACTS
AND LOANS

A. M. WARN
P. O. BLOCK

HAVE YOUR STATIONERY EMBOSSED
Initials, Crests, Monograms,
Engraved to Your Order,
Stamped in Gold or Color, also Illuminating.
The Educational Supply Co., - Painesville
128 South State Street.

DR. E. L. NORTON and DR. H. D. RAND
DENTISTS
Nitrous Oxide Administered
Office hours: 8 to 12 a.m., 1 to 5 p.m.
Telephone, Main 404.
Cor. Main and St. Clair, Painesville

MARTIN A. TUTTLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Painesville, Ohio,
Postoffice Block.

H. T. NOLAN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Pioneer Trust Bldg. Painesville, O.

MORLEY & WARREN,
GRANITE AND MARBLE WORKS
Painesville, Ohio
The Best Stock and First-class Work
Cor. State and Washington Streets

BURGESS GRANITE WORKS,
Cor. State and Erie Streets.
We give Eagle Stamps.
We are the only dealers in Lake, Geauga, Trumbull and Portage counties authorized to sell the celebrated White Bronze monuments with the greatly improved finish.

Johnson Custom Tailor
125 N. State St.
WE DO SANITARY STEAM CLEANING AND PRESSING.

SEND $2.00
For a Gallon of this
Good Whiskey
Equal to $3.50 grade. $6 Whiskey at $8 per gallon.
Duffy Malt Whiskey Per Bottle ........ 89c
Guckenheimer or Golden Wedding Rye
$2.69 Per Gallon
2 Gallons $5.00
All high grade, guaranteed liquor at reduced prices. Sent in plain packages to any address.
A. Cohn, Wholesale Liquor Store 5819 ST. CLAIR, 4 doors East of 55th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the stockholders of The Dollar Savings Bank Company, it was duly determined to liquidate the affairs of said corporation and close its business. The creditors of said Corporation are hereby notified to present their claims against it for payment on or before May 1st, 1912.

THE DOLLAR SAVINGS BANK CO.
By A. L. ASSMUS, Vice President.
W. R. RADCLIFFE, Secretary.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of The Dollar Savings Bank Company will be held on the 2d day of May 1912, at 6:30 o'clock P. M., at the office of the Company, corner of Main and St. Clair streets, in the City of Painesville to consider the question of surrendering and abandoning its corporate authority.

THE DOLLAR SAVINGS BANK CO.
By A. L. ASSMUS, Vice President.
W. R. RADCLIFFE, Secretary.

We Design, Draw, Etch and Engrave

We nickeltype, electrotype and stereotype.

There are many methods—we operate them all—under one roof and management. Perhaps we can do something for you. Write us.

Eclipse Electrotype & Engraving Co.
CLEVELAND

Farmers Take Notice

We sell Fertilizers for every crop. Don't plant your potatoes, corn, tomatoes, onions, grass and grain or any other crop without using some fertilizer as it will surely pay you according to the proportion used. I say this from my own personal experience. We sell the best I know of at a reasonable price.

Also Drain Tile any size.

THE PAINESVILLE COAL FEED & SUPPLY CO.
Successors to Cole Coal Co.
114 and 506 North State Street
PAINESVILLE, OHIO

The Eureka
POOL PARLORS and SMOKE HOUSE
SOFT DRINKS, CANDIES and a Full Line of CIGARETTES
ELECTRIC PIANO for the amusement of all patrons
J. H. MATHEWS, Prop.
110 So. State St., Painesville, O.

LOW ROUND TRIP
Homeseeker's Rates
Via Nickel Plate Road
to points in the
West, Northwest & Southwest

Good going on the 1st and 3rd Tuesdays of the month. Liberal return limit and "Stop over privileges.

Get full information of Agent or write J. C. Molenbacker, D. P. A., Erie, Pa.

Where Cleanliness Reigns

Quality Groceries Await You Here

Our Prices Please and Are Worth Watching

Adapted to the saving pocket book

There's a reason for our growth

THESE WILL PLEASE

Elliott & Ruhling

Low Round Trip Rates
Nickel Plate Road
Portland, Seattle Tacoma
and other North Pacific Coast & Northwestern Points on certain dates in May, June, July and October.
Los Angeles, Oakland, San Diego on certain dates in April, May, June & August.
San Francisco on certain dates in April, May, June, July, August & October.
J. C. Molenbacker, D. P. A., Erie, Pa.

Mentor Wall Paper Store
NEW STOCK ON HAND
Besides a Large Assortment in Books which I would be pleased to show you
R. M. CASE

HAVE YOUR FIRE INSURANCE WRITTEN AT HOME
We represent one of the Largest and Best Companies
The National Fire Insurance Co. of Hartford
R. M. CASE & CO.

Notice of Presenting County Road Petition

Notice is hereby given that a petition will be presented to the Commissioners of Lake County, at their next session June 3, 1912, praying for the laying and establishing of a County Road on the following line, to-wit: Beginning at center of road running easterly from Lane Station to South Ridge at a point between E. D. and J. L. Shepard's running north across the Cleveland, Painesville & Eastern and the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern right of ways, thence easterly along the north side of said L. S. & M. S. Ry. across lands owned by E. D. Shepard, J. D. Thompson, J. H. Brown, J. V. Haskell, E. R. Morehouse and Mrs. Marion Beaton, intersecting road running north from South Ridge called Maple Avenue. The width of said road to be not less than 40 feet.

D. R. HOLCOMB and others

Not by an Old Hand

Mrs. Exe—It isn't right to charge Willie with taking that money out of your pocket. Why don't you accuse me? Mr. Exe—Because it wasn't all taken.—Boston Transcript.

High grass or low grass, it's all the same to COLDWELL LAWN MOWERS

You can adjust them instantly.

Just turn one screw and the large cutting knife is brought to any desired angle with the bottom cutter. We guarantee every Coldwell Lawn Mower.

The experience gained in forty years of lawn-mower-making goes into its manufacture.

A "Coldwell" keeps out of the scrap heap—it's a mower without a "kick."

The Doolittle Bros. Co.
RELIABLE HARDWARE

Painesville's Leading Drug Store.
Registered Pharmacists in attendance at all times.
The Corner Pharmacy
J. G. DAVET, Proprietor.

A. A. CALLENDER
ALL KINDS OF
Light and Heavy Draying
FURNITURE AND PIANO MOVING A SPECIALTY
Home Phone—Main 201 Bell Phone 143-R

TRUBY COAL CO.
COAL and COKE
LIME, CEMENT, SEWER PIPE, TILE, ETC.
BOTH PHONES 21

MENTOR

The weather has come off so very nice, that persons are beginning to think that the old saying that an early Easter brings an early spring, has some foundation. It is some consolation to know that Hicks, the Almanac man of St. Louis, who has been promising a very late spring with snow until into May, has not hit it right, this time! All sorts of work is moving along finely, the setting out of trees and shrubs, getting in of early crops, the plowing of gardens, and the everlasting spring house-cleaning, the bane of every man's life all are going along as they should.

Mrs. Roberts is at home after spending the winter down in Mesopotamia.

The Miscellany Club met last week with Mrs. T. D. Morley at their pleasant home "Chesney Wold," when Mrs. Bliss read a most interesting and instructive paper on "Diaz," and Mrs. Hart gave some account of her pleasant winter in southern California, when Mrs. W. H. Johnson read a paper on Mark Twain, together with some selections from his humorous writings, and when Mrs. Morley served maple sugar to the fortunate members present. Miss Antonette King was to have read a paper on "The Men Who Can't Come Back" dealing somewhat with our traditional laws, but was kept away by a bad attack of grippe. The roll call was responded to by naming minerals of Mexico.

Mrs. Robert Case has just returned from spending two or three weeks in Scranton, Pa., and also in New York City, having had a most satisfactory visit with relatives, and trip generally.

We understand that the C. P. & E. authorities are about to establish an express office in the new block at West Mentor, which will be in charge of Mr. Will Sawyer, the post master.

Mr. N. C. Frost is on the sick list, and more people are down with colds than at any time in the history of the village, which goes to show that a strenuous winter is not good for us so let's not have another—ever!

Mr. Clarence Ingersoll of Greenwich, Ohio, has been a recent guest of his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ingersoll.

Mrs. John Code, nee Miss Phoebe Corning, has been spending a few days with friends over in Willoughby recently.

Little Grace Reichart had a birthday party on Saturday afternoon when a number of her little friends had a most "buful time."

Mrs. Benjamin Curtiss has recently gone to Dayton, where she will make her home with the family of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Whitney.

Mrs. Julia Northcote has been enjoying a visit from her brother, Mr. Clarence Chase and his wife of Cleveland, very recently.

The W. C. T. U. Conference which is to be held in the Methodist church here this week, and the "oratorical contest" for the county, to be held in the evening, is attracting considerable interest, and we shall all wait with great trepidation, the outcome to see who "bests."

Mrs. Warren Dickey is on the sick list with grippe, also, we understand, and that there are mumps, measles, chicken-pox and whooping cough raging among the little folks, thereby making things lively.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cadle of Cleveland were down at the home of their father, Mr. Edmund Cadle over Sunday.

The new meat market of Mentor owned and run by Harry Lamb, has just put a wagon on the road, calling at our homes on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. The prices, we understand, are about the same as those charged at the West Mentor market, both are furnishing good meats.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Woodford have the sympathy of all their friends in the loss of their little son Albert, who died last week of pneumonia. After getting a child up to the year old stage, it is hard lines to then have to lose one of them.

Miss Mame Case of Hudson having spent the winter with her sister, Mrs. Laubdine, at her home in Greenwich, Conn., is now for a few days here with her brother, Mr. Frank Case and his family at their country home.

Dr. Lowe and Mrs. Lowe have arrived at home from Eustis, Florida, some two weeks earlier than was expected, having rather hurried home on account of Mr. Ackley, Mrs. Lowe's father. The Lowe's have been with our neighbors Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Sweet we understand, where they were near neighbors of Mr. Harrison and his daughter, also of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hopkins.

Mrs. Maggie Lott Cudney, wife of James Cudney of Cleveland, both of them Mentor folks, was buried here in our Mentor cemetery on Wednesday, having died of pneumonia early in the week. Mrs. Cudney has several sisters and other relatives living here, besides many friends who remember her with great affection, and mourn her loss.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Pinney of Kirtland, together with Miss Electa Pinney, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Curtiss.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harrington of Glenville, were recent guests of their brothers here, also of their niece, Mrs. Howard Ingersoll.

Miss Virginia Sawyer returned early in the week to her school duties at "Villa Angela" the Catholic Convent up at Nottingham.

Mr. Francis Story, an aged veteran of the Civil War, and brother of our Miss Martha Story, died a few days ago at the Soldier's Home, and his body was brought here for burial, the ceremony taking place yesterday afternoon. Mr. Story was over seventy years of age, and suffered as all the old soldiers do, from the effects of the life in Camp during all those dreadful years of carnage.

The Methodist Sunday school board held their annual meeting last week Tuesday evening, and the following officers were either elected or else re-elected for another year: Supt., Harry C. King; Asst. Supt., Perry Smith; Primary Supt., Miss Frances Cleveland; Secretary, Mrs. Frank Sandberg; Asst. Sec., Mrs. T. D. Morley; Treas., Miss Mary Rexford; Librarian, Lynn Carleton; Missionary Supt., Miss Jeannette Munson; Missionary Supt. Asst., Miss Nellie King; Cradle Roll Supt., Mrs. Henry Sandberg; Home Dept. Supt., Mrs. Spindle; Temperance Dept. Supt., Mrs. A. D. Carleton; Organist, Miss Josephine Johnson; Asst. Organist, Miss Martha Spindle.

The West Mentor Post Office was moved yesterday and late Saturday to the new quarters in the Bostwick block, where Uncle Sam's business was attended to with the usual regularity and dispatch today, as he is a most thorough-going master, who suffers no delay, and permits no such small matters as house-cleaning and moving, to interfere with the usual work connected with the mails. Some anxious mothers are not at all pleased that their children have to cross the street-car track in order to get the mail before going home from school, but it may only serve to teach them to be careful.

As some of the campaign speakers are saying that voters must line up for Roosevelt, else see the government pass out of the hands of the people, we have heard the wonder expressed, "Does he think we shall have a monarchy over here? Not much!" and "Does he fancy the people had their way before, when Mr. Roosevelt was at the helm?" and "How much good did his investigation of the beef trust do us?" and usually a finally, "No Sir! we're going to have some new one now—someone that don't belong to either of the rotten old parties, for sure a its six one 'n half a dozen tother, n the pot shouldn't call the kittle black!"

You will look a good while before you find a better medicine for coughs and colds than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only gives relief. It cures. Try it when you have a cough or cold, and you are certain to be pleased with the prompt cure which it will effect. For sale by all dealers.

NORTH MADISON

Mrs. Celia Brown was found dead in bed Sunday morning. Her cousin, Mrs. Maud Hall on going to call her to breakfast found she had passed away some time during the night. It is thought she had a stroke of apoplexy. She had retired feeling as well as usual. The funeral services will be held Tuesday p. m. at the North M. E. Church of which she was a faithful member.

Miss Nettie Sheppard and cousins, the Misses Gouldings of Cleveland were over Sunday guests of Miss Sheppard's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Haywood of Geneva were over Sunday at the home of his parents, M. L. Haywood.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beebe were in Cleveland Wednesday.

Cecil Graves, Francis Hell, Clara and Clarence Brew, attended the Boxwell examination in Painesville Saturday.

Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Graves in honor of Mrs. Nettie Cockran's birthday, a company of friends gathered with well-filled baskets to wish her many happy returns of the day.

Miss Gloona Snyder was at home over Sunday.

Floyd Wellman was at the home of his parents on the County Line Road over Sunday.

Chas. Vesey is getting ready for extensive repairs on his house.

Mr. George Shaw has purchased the Martain place at the North Ridge known as the Branch place, and will move there some time in June.

Mr. Rice Harper and family of Perry were Sunday to call on Mrs. Harriet Putnam who has been confined to her bed for the past three months.

Miss Ice Miller of Willoughby was at home over Sunday.

The L. A. S. will meet this Thursday P. M. in the church parlors.

George Haywood was in Perry on business Saturday.

Leroy Haywood has a position at the Soda Ash plant in Fairport, was at home for a few days recently, returning Saturday.

Mrs. Kate Gaee of Collinwood who was visiting in Ashtabula was called here Sunday by the death of her friend, Mrs. Celia Brown.

Mr. Horace Tuttle was called to Cleveland by the death of his stepfather. He returned Monday to his farm.

Don't be surprised if you have an attack of rheumatism this spring. Just rub the affected parts freely with Chamberlain's Liniment and it will soon disappear. Sold by all dealers.

WILLOUGHBY

Schram District

Miss Nellie Rogers was in your city over Sunday.

The following pupils took the Boxwell examination: Esther Langshaw, Ernst Christensen, Herbert Leuty and Raymond Smith. That they stood well, is the wish of the writer.

Miss Elizabeth Leuty visited her sister at Bishop's Corners on Thursday last.

Mrs. A. Dumm and Miss Alice Greene were shopping in Cleveland last Saturday.

Mrs. Geo. Foss entertained a lady friend from Cleveland week before last.

There is Sunday school at the school house every Sunday at 2:30 standard. All invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Parker and family of South Euclid were Sunday guests at Jackson Leuty's.

Wedding bells will soon be ringing on the White Road.

Miss Linda Walland visited her friend, Anna Franz, on the Wilson Mills Road on Thursday.

Mothers' Day, May 12

Columbus, O., April 22—Governor Harmon today issued a proclamation making Sunday, May 12, Mothers' Day in Ohio. He asks that everyone wear a white carnation that day and make it a day of respect for the mothers of the land.

Why He Was Late.

"What made you so late?"

"I met Smithson."

"Well, that is no reason why you should be an hour late getting home to supper."

"I know, but I asked him how he was feeling, and he insisted on telling me about his stomach trouble."

"Did you tell him to take Chamberlain's Tablets?"

"Sure, that is what he needs."

Sold by all dealers.

THE MARKETS.

Buyers are Paying for

| | |
|---|---|
| Wheat | 1 15 |
| Rye | 90 |
| Corn | 80 |
| Oats | 56 |
| Baled hay per ton | $22-$26 |
| Baled straw per ton | $11-$13 |
| Butter, No. 1 dairy | 30 |
| Eggs | 15 |
| Lard (home rendered) | 12 |
| Pork, dressed | 9-10 |
| Chickens | 12-13 |
| Veal | 10-11 |
| Beef, dressed | 8-10 |
| Tallow, per pound | .05 |
| Potatoes | 1 25 |
| Honey | 18-19 |
| Maple syrup, per gal | 90-$1 00 |

Retail Price for

| | |
|---|---|
| Flour, Royal Patent, per sk. | 1 75 |
| Flour, Golden Eagle, per sk | 1 55 |
| Flour, Elevator, per sk | 1 55 |
| Graham Flour, per lb | .03 |
| Corn | .90 |
| Oats | 67 |
| Corn Meal | 1 65 |
| Chop feed, straight corn and oats | 1 75 |
| Middlings | 1 65 |
| Bran | 1 50 |
| Baled straw, cwt | 80 |
| Butter, creamery | 39 |
| Butter, dairy | .35 |
| Eggs, per dozen | 20 |
| Potatoes, per bu | 1 00 |
| Potatoes, per pk | 40 |

NEW GOODS AND NEW FIXTURES
WE AIM TO CARRY THE VERY BEST IN
Staple and Fancy Groceries
WITH A STOCK OF
Cigars and Tobacco
In keeping with all other lines. We shall appreciate your trade and will endeavor to please.
BURR & RUST
CORNER STATE AND MAIN

Painesville's Leading Planing Mill.
DRESSED LUMBER IS LIKE A DEAD DOG.
The bark is all off. You'll find no bark to our lumber, although we do a good deal of barking about it. We have the stock, and feel justified in barking. When you want the best lumber, bark up this tree, and you'll find it.
S. L. MALIN & SON
"Focus on Lumber."
Phone 127

A. D. McLEAN
FIRE INSURANCE, REAL ESTATE
SINGER SEWING MACHINES
All makes of machines cleaned and repaired.
135 S. State St. :-: Painesville, Ohio

A REMEDY FOR EVERY ILL IN
THE NYAL REMEDIES
—at—
PARK'S PHARMACY
"The Nyal Store"

SPRING STYLES
ARE NOW READY
for your inspection. Our values cannot be equaled elsewhere. Our line is complete of Clothing, Dry Goods, Ladies and Men's Furnishings Notions, Boots, Shoes Etc.
M. HOROWITZ.
WICKLIFFE, OHIO. Cuy. phone 67-R
All our goods guaranteed. Prices reasonable.

The Largest Typewriter Sale in History.

Ten Thousand Underwood Typewriters

have been sold to the Western Union Telegraph Company for use in all offices throughout its vast organization

All Telegrams, Night and Day Letters in the future will be typewritten on the Underwood.

Every well known writing machine was carefully considered by the purchasing committee and the Underwood won from the standpoints of practical utility and mechanical construction.

"The machine you will eventually buy."

Underwood Typewriter Co., Inc.
822 Huron Road Cleveland, O.

May Day Festivities

WHAT a varied and versatile holiday is May Day, meaning, of course, the First of May—an occasion which has significance of one kind or another in a number of different countries. For us latter-day Americans probably the greatest prestige comes from the circumstance that May Day is also "Dewey Day," meaning the anniversary of that memorable spring morning when our most notable living naval hero took his fleet into Manila Bay and dealt the blow which did more than any other single incident to determine the outcome of the Spanish-American war. To be sure, it is not the custom of the nation to indulge in spectacular observances of "Dewey Day," but there is a general display of the flag on residences and public buildings in honor of the occasion and it is a favorite occasion for banquets and speech making.

To go at once to the other extreme in cataloguing the functions of May Day it may be noted that May Day is also "moving day," meaning the date on which expire most leases of residential property and when, in consequence, there is a general flitting to and fro of the folk who live in rented houses and in apartments or flats. In some communities April 1 is more generally observed as "moving day" than is May 1, but in most sections of the country the later date is preferred. In more recent years, too, custom has given October 1 some significance as a moving day, but for the great majority of our people who move only once a year, at most, May 1 still has the call as a fixed festival for the shifting of household shrines.

May Day is a date marked for its own by organized labor not only in the United States, but pretty much throughout the civilized world. In many cities there are on this day each year monster parades of the union labor organizations, and it has long been accepted as the most auspicious occasion for inaugurating great general strikes in the various trades. Some May Days have been rendered memorable by riotous disturbances, but during the past few years the observance of the holiday has, for the most part, passed off quietly.

To all American children May Day is an event to be looked forward to. There are May-pole dances and frolics of various kinds in the parks if the weather permits and these are so organized as to enlist the participation of the kindergarteners and the smallest children as well as the older ones. When weather or other conditions prevent the festivities in the open air, special exercises are held in the school rooms. In short, May Day is for the whole body of American young people an occasion of relaxation and jollity, but for all that there are so many frolics, dancing parties and social gatherings on the date, there is one discordant note in the dearth of weddings May 1, and indeed every day in May would seem to be ideal for weddings, but the old superstition that May marriages are unlucky restricts the number of brides on May Day and on the thirty days that follow.

May Day, although not always, of course, known by that name, is one of the oldest holidays on the calendar. In the church calendar the first of May is the combined day of St. Philip the Apostle and St. James the Less, but the festivities which mark the day in Great Britain, France, Germany and other countries are what may be termed the direct descendants of the ancient Roman Floralia and the Druidic feasts in honor of the god Bel—the Baal of the Scriptures. Indeed, the origin of the holiday seems to date still farther back in the history of India and Egypt, and in both of those ancient countries the May pole was a recognized and conspicuous emblem.

History relates that the Druids celebrated the first of May by lighting immense fires in honor of this deity, and it is interesting to note that this same custom (for all that it has lost its religious significance) is yet followed by the Irish and the Scotch Highlanders. Among these remnants of the Celtic stock the festival is to this day referred to as Beltine or Beallaine—meaning, literally, "the day of Bel's fire." There are other reminders of the ancient May Day rites yet to be observed in certain portions of Ireland and Scotland, but these have lapsed to a certain extent with the advance of time and the invasion of a new population and the curious person who would behold the observance of the traditions of May Day in all its pristine glory must penetrate nowadays to some remote or isolated hamlet in the Highlands.

Where the old customs yet obtain all the youths of a township or village meet on May Day on the nearest moor. A round table or altar is cut in the green sod and the entire company station themselves in a trench which is formed around the table. A fire is kindled and a custard prepared of eggs and milk, a large cake of oatmeal being meanwhile kneaded and baked on the embers. The custard is eaten but the cake is merely divided into as many pieces as there are persons in the company and these pieces are all thrown into a bonnet, one piece having first been blackened with charcoal. Then all those present are blindfolded and each draws a piece of the cake from the bonnet. It falls to the lot of the lad who draws the blackened piece to leap three times through the flames of the bonfire, although according to tradition the man who in ancient times was unfortunate enough to draw the blackened piece was supposed to give himself a literal sacrifice to the flames in the hope that the god Baal might be induced to grant a prosperous and productive year. To this same origin is traced the modern Irish custom of making the cattle pass between fires, lighted at short distances, or of having fathers jump or run through the flames with their children in their arms.

The ancient Romans, unlike the Druids, made May Day a festival of flowers instead of an occasion for sacrifices, and consequently it is reasonable to suppose that most of our present-day ideas as to the May holiday in this country may be traced back to the Romans. Indeed, the images of Flora that graced the Roman festivals had their prototypes in the May-dolls which were until a few years ago universally popular in England and which, in some sections of the country, are yet paraded on this eventful holiday. Some people are inclined to believe that these May-dolls in turn suggested the Queen of the May, who was once an indispensable sovereign at every May Day festivity and who yet presides over every such merry making that attempts to fully live up to tradition.

The crowning of the Queen of the May (and her possible consort, the King) and the dance around a May pole are easily the most picturesque of the May Day customs which have come down to the present generation and been more or less generally accepted by them. The regulation May pole should be of birch and adorned with flowers and ribbons. The latter day custom has been to set up the pole for the occasion on May Day eve, but in London some years ago there were May-poles standing permanently in the streets. One famous May-pole, erected with much ceremony, was of cedar, was put in place by twelve seamen and had the astonishing height of one hundred and thirty-four feet. The Puritans who settled our New England states frowned upon the custom of frolicking at a May-pole and one of the early governors of Massachusetts cut down a May-pole in God's name.

The celebration of May Day in Sweden is very picturesque and embodies many reminders of its ancient origin. On the previous evening huge bonfires are built in every hamlet and around these the young people dance merrily until all hours. May Day itself is characterized by a fantastic sham battle in which the opponents represent, respectively, Winter and Summer. Of course, Winter is always defeated, as becomes an occasion that ushers in the true Spring season, and at the conclusion of the struggle a figure representing Winter is burned or buried in effigy. May Day is in fact the chief and almost the only gala day of the Swedish children and they are wont to include as a feature of the occasion a splendid banquet to which all the housewives are expected to contribute good things to eat.

In the United States May-pole dances can be made especially effective from a spectacular standpoint by reason of the fact that our national colors, red, white and blue, when utilized in the streamers or festoons of the May-pole, make for a color scheme that is particularly pleasing as the streamers are entwined during the progress of the dance. There is no May-pole dance more pleasing to the eye than that in which the dancers skip lightly in their encircling mazes on a level greensward, but May-pole dances on roller skates, on bicycles and on horseback are among the novelties which have been introduced by persons who love the bizarre. May Day has become a favorite for pantomime performances and for out-door comic plays in which the always popular clowns play a most prominent part.

ADMIRAL DEWEY, WHO GAVE HISTORICAL SIGNIFICANCE TO MAY DAY

SCENES AT A MAY DAY FESTIVAL

MAKING FUN ON FUN DAY

MAY DAY CELEBRANT IN KILTIES

A PARTICIPANT IN A MAY DAY FESTIVAL

Abdul Hamid's Days

Abdul Hamid, otherwise nicknamed as "Abdul the Damned," is now sixty-nine years old. In his Aladdin-like villa, where he is closely kept out of sight, it is said that he occupies himself with working at the carpenter's bench and arranging elaborate dinners with his chief cook. The Young Turks have not sought to take away a reasonable amount of what the old man considers necessary to his comfort and amusement, provided he will not plot to return to power, in which case they will cut off his subsidy. "Since his dethronement," says Le Cri de Paris, "he has added 20 Circassian girls to his household, and to these, quite recently, four more, and the Ottoman treasury pays the expense of these acquisitions."

It is said that the old sultan as thoroughly detests his jailer, Rassi Bey, as did the great Napoleon his jailer, Hudson Lowe, at St. Helena, and has not addressed ten words to Rassi since his captivity began.

Call to Duty

"I try to do my duty," said the exceedingly sincere person, "and I do not hesitate to remind others of their duty."

"Go ahead," replied the easy-going citizen. "You may prove to be a very useful member of society. But when you get through you'll have about as many sincere friends and admirers as an alarm clock."

"Shorty" Was An Angel

Batsman's Good Right Arm Responsible for Credit Given to Heavenly Agency

"Shorty" [illegible] the old [illegible] five feet two [illegible] and with such [illegible] fag from the [illegible] he ran into an amateur [illegible] could never pass [illegible] team. The score was [illegible] ninth. The team [illegible] was eager to win at all hazards [illegible] upon a scheme to [illegible] in their best hitter out of turn. A warm argument ensued.

"Shorty" [illegible] who entered the [illegible] an effort to straighten matters [illegible] right the difficulty [illegible] by the time [illegible] was located he was at the plate, [illegible] sleeves rolled up, borrowed [illegible] on his head, [illegible] in hand awaiting the pitcher's offering. A fast [illegible] was delivered and "Shorty" swung heavily.

A few blocks away [illegible] little boy heard something drop with a resounding crack a foot away. Picking up the ball, he ran home and cried:

"Oh, mother! See—see the baseball an angel threw to me!"

New Honey.

On general principles the provident Scotsman objected to paying import duties, yet he expressed his willingness to pay whatever the government demanded for a jar of heather honey, says the New York Sun.

"That is about the only good thing in the eating line that the New York palate has never learned to crave," he said. "I have inquired in many a New York market, but nowhere have I found pure heather honey. Clover honey abounds, and buckwheat honey and the common raised honey, but heather honey, which is best of all, seems a luxury that New York epicures have not yet learned to appreciate."

It Often Happens.

"I guess I got a little too gay," admitted the landlord. "I wouldn't paint a doorstep for the old tenant."

"And he moved?"

"He moved, and now I've got to paint the entire house before I can get a new tenant."

Show Liking for Americans

Duke and Duchess of Connaught Have Many Friends Hailing From the United States.

No members of the reigning house of England, with the possible exception of Edward VII., have shown a greater predilection for Americans than the duke and duchess of Connaught and their children; and there is no English palace where Americans have been made more at home than at Clarence house, the portion of St. James' palace which for many years has been the London residence of the duke and duchess of Connaught. The most intimate friends of the duke's two daughters, the crown princess of Sweden and Princess Patricia, have been young American girls, and the entire Connaught family have spent at least two Christmases at Cliveden as the guests of Mrs. Waldorf Astor. The duchess' most trusted confidante, adviser and chum is Mrs. Jack Leslie, who was Miss Leonie Jerome, daughter of Leonard Jerome of New York and sister of Mrs. George Cornwallis-West, who is best known by her former name of Lady Randolph Churchill. Indeed, Mrs. Leslie, whose husband is Col. John Leslie, formerly of the Grenadier guards, can boast of being the only woman of American birth who has ever held any official position at the court of St. James, having been appointed lady-in-waiting to the duchess of Connaught on the occasion of her visit with the duke to India in 1902, to attend the coronation durbar of Edward VII.—Metropolitan Magazine.

Wealth From South Africa.

South African gold mining companies paid out £8,088,318 in dividends last year, and diamond mines £3,783,340. The Transvaal gold mines have now distributed £85,312,389 in dividends.

TOP-WORKING OF OLD FRUIT TREES IS CONSIDERED BEST

Method Gives Very Desirable Crops and Brings Quicker Returns Than by Replanting of Young Tree—Practice of Grafting Is Not Mysterious Art—Few Important Points.

(By PROF. O. B. WHITE, Colorado.)

It has been proven by long experience that if properly done, the grafting over of old trees by top-working brings quicker returns than the replanting of young trees. In fact, it is not uncommon to see a fairly good crop on the three-year-old top of a top-worked tree.

Top working, as a means of establishing a weak-growing variety on a stronger root system than its own, is coming into high favor.

The practice of grafting is not a mysterious art, as many suppose, but is so simple that any careful orchardist can and should do it himself. All common fruit trees can easily be budded or grafted.

The apple and pear may be intergrafted upon each other, and this is true of the peach, plum, apricot and almond. However, such wholesale mixing is not good practice, and the pear and apple never take a good union.

Peach grafts start vigorously upon apricots, and plums upon the peach trees.

Growth in diameter of the tree only takes place in a very small region between the bark and the sap-wood. This part of the stem is called the cambium, and in this thin layer of tissue the cells are still active while the activity of each succeeding layer on each side grows less and less.

The important point in grafting is to see that the cambium layers of the stock and the scion are matched at some point. When the growth is active we say the bark "peels." Budding is done during this period, not only because the ease with which the bark separates from the wood simplifies the work of inserting the bud, but as the growth is more active the tissues of the bud and the stock are more likely to unite.

It does not pay to graft trees which show poor growth, and it seldom pays to top-work any crab. It is also questionable as to whether it pays to top-work stone-fruit trees. While good tops may be grown on either peach, apricot or almond, it is doubtful whether these crops will bear much quicker returns than young trees set in the place of the old ones.

There are various methods of grafting, the most common in the west being cleft and kerf grafting. These operations are simple and are known to most orchardists.

In cleft grafting, the limb is sawed off squarely, the stub split down about two inches with the grafting chisel, and the clefts wedged open with the scion inserted as a wedge.

The first bud should be left a little below the top of the wedge, cutting the edge of the wedge opposite the bud a little thinner than the other. The scion is then driven firmly into place with the lower bud to the outside, and a little below the top of the cleft.

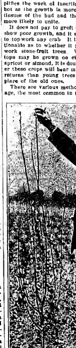
It is important that the inner bark on the outer edge of the wedge should be brought in contact with the inner bark on the stub. It is between these parts that the union takes place.

Kerf grafting is almost the same as cleft grafting, only the stub is prepared by saw cuts instead of splitting. These are made on opposite sides of the stub and trimmed to thin V-shaped grooves with a saddler's knife; the scion is then trimmed to fit, driven firmly into place and waxed as in cleft grafting.

It is not good practice to remove the whole top of the tree the first year and graft all the stubs. Often this proves too much for the tree and it fails even after the grafts have made a good start. They may linger two or three years and then die.

A better plan is to cut away only enough limbs to set scion for a good top, generally about half of the tree. Working of more stubs results in too dense a top, or necessitates their removal later.

The remaining limbs may be shortened, but some foliage is needed to protect the stubs and trunk from sunscald, as well as to supply nourishment.



Teaching Tree How to Grow.

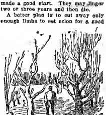


Fig. 1. Attempt at Working Over Old Transcendent Crab Tree, Showing About as Good a Selection of Stubs as Is Possible With Such a Subject.

Fig. 2. Same Tree One Year Later With Quite a Promising Top, but Enlargement at Base of Scions Shows That the Union Is Not Perfect.

FARM ANIMALS CRAVE FOR SALT

If Placed Within Easy Reach They Will Consume Just What They Need and No More.

All farm animals have an instinctive craving for salt. But if it is so placed as to be always within their reach, they will consume just as much as they need and no more. It is only when it has been kept from them for a long period that there is danger of their eating too much. It is therefore an excellent practice to keep it in a box or boxes where they can have access to it whenever they desire. When they are salted, as is the practice with many farmers, only once a week, while some may get enough, others may suffer from a deficient supply. Salt promotes an active circulation of the blood, which never becomes thick and sluggish so long as the supply is plentiful; it assists digestion, and is often a preventive of disease. It is so cheap that no stock-raiser can really afford to deny to his animals all they want of it.

Root Crops for Cows.

Roots can form to advantage a part of many rations, particularly where silage is not available. They contain too much water to form the entire ration. Potatoes contain the largest amount of digestible matter, but are not readily eaten unless cooked. Mangolds are the heaviest yielders, but contain so large a percentage of water that they are rather expensive to handle. Sugar beets contain much less water, but are more difficult to grow and do not produce so heavy a yield. Artichokes often make a profitable hog feed, where the hogs are permitted to do the harvesting.

Value of Stover.

When it is known that three tons of corn stover is practically equal to one ton of mixed clover and timothy hay, any farmer can easily figure out whether it will pay him to save his clover or not.

Best Grades and the Price.

To a hungry person any old hen may taste tender and good, but to the epicure only the best grades sell well, and it is to this class that the market poultrymen must cater. They pay the price.

KEEPING LITTLE CHICKS HEALTHY

Mixture of Lard and Coal Oil Applied to Head of Youngsters Will Be Found Excellent.

(By HELEN JACKSON.)

I want to tell how I got rid of the white diarrhoea in chicks. When they are old enough to take off the nests, say about 20 hours after they are hatched, take lard and coal oil in equal quantities, mix thoroughly and rub one drop on top of the head and on the vent.

Put them in a box and give them some sand and a little ground oats and no other feed until they are one week old. The second week they may show signs of the white diarrhoea, but repeat the treatment described.

I raised 300 chicks last year and never lost one with the white diarrhoea. This is the way I always treat my chicks.

Do not give the chicks any more feed than they will eat up clean every time. I always feed German millet to the chicks when I can get it as I think it better than chick food.

When the chicks are first taken off the nests I feed them about every two hours—just a little mother's oats. For the first week you can give the mother hen some corn or oats but always have some sand in the box so the chicks can get it.

Never let the chicks get wet or chilled as that stunts them.

Early Testing Is Best.

Seed corn that was saved last fall should be looked after. It is not too early to begin testing. Remember the man who finds that he must buy corn and gets in his order first gets the choice purchase.

Coarse Feed for Colts.

Stuffing the colt with hay or straw, or any very coarse weed, will spoil its looks. Keep this ration down by the use of some grains and less coarse feed.

SUFFERED EVERYTHING

For Fourteen Years. Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Elgin, Ill.—"After fourteen years of suffering everything from female complaints, I am at last restored to health. "I employed the best doctors and even went to the hospital for treatment and was told there was no help for me. But while taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began to improve and I continued its use until I was made well."—Mrs. HENRY LEISEBERG, 743 Adams St.

Kearneysville, W. Va.—"I feel it my duty to write and say what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered from female weakness and at times felt so miserable I could hardly endure being on my feet.

"After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and following your special directions, my trouble is gone. Words fail to express my thankfulness. I recommend your medicine to all my friends."—Mrs. G. B. WHITTINGTON.

The above are only two of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which show clearly what great things Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound does for those who suffer from woman's ills.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair.
Promotes a luxuriant growth.
Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color.
Prevents hair falling.
50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

Money sometimes talks when you want to keep it quiet.

Good health cannot be maintained where there is a constipated habit. Garfield Tea overcomes constipation.

The man with money speaks the truth.

Hoxsie's Croup Remedy for Croup, Coughs and Colds stands at the top—a success for thirty years—Prevents Pneumonia. Druggists. 50 cents.

The first thing a kindness deserves is acceptance, the next transmission.—George MacDonald.

Women's College for Buddhists.

A university is to be founded by the Buddhists for the high education of women. A meeting is reported to have taken place at the Nishi-Honganji temple, Kyoto, in which it was unanimously decided to carry on the undertaking as a work of the Women's Association of this Buddhist sect. The cost for the institute is estimated at 280,000 yen.

MUST BE SO.

Johnnie (aged seven)—Say, mamma, ain't Uncle Jim in his second childhood?

His Mamma—Why, Johnnie?

Johnnie—Well, he's bald-headed just like our baby.

THANKSGIVING PSALM

A Rhythmical and Grateful Chant.

A teacher in a Terre Haute public school joins in the chorus:

"Teaching is a business which requires a great deal of brain and nerve force. Unless this force is renewed as fast as expended the teacher is exhausted before the close of the year. Many resort to stimulating tonics for relief.

"For 3 years I struggled against almost complete exhaustion, getting what relief I could from doctors' tonics. Then in the spring of 1903 I had an attack of la grippe and malaria which left me too weak to continue my work. Medicine failed to give me any relief, a change of climate failed. I thought I should never be able to go back in school again.

"I ate enough food (the ordinary meals—white bread, vegetables, etc.), but was hungry after meals.

"I happened at this time to read an article giving the experience of another teacher who had been helped by Grape-Nuts food. I decided to try Grape-Nuts and cream, as an experiment. It was a delightful experience, and continues so after a year and a half of constant use.

"First, I noticed that I was not hungry after meals.

"In a few days that tired feeling left me, and I felt fresh and bright, instead of dull and sleepy.

"In three months, more than my usual strength returned, and I had gained 15 pounds in weight.

"I finished the year's work without any kind of tonics—was not absent from duty even half a day.

"Am still in best of health, with all who know me wondering at the improvement.

"I tell them all, 'Try Grape-Nuts!'" Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new [illegible]

---

The GIRL from His Town

by Marie Van Vorst

ILLUSTRATIONS by M. G. KETTNER

COPYRIGHT 1910 by The Bobbs-Merrill Company

SYNOPSIS.

Dan Blair, the 22-year-old son of the fifty-million-dollar copper king of Blairtown, Mont., is a guest at the English home of Lady Galorey. Dan's father had been courteous to Lord Galorey during his visit to the United States and the courtesy is now being returned to the young man. The youth has an ideal girl in his mind. He meets Lily, Duchess of Breakwater, a beautiful widow, who is attracted by his immense fortune and takes a liking to her. When Dan was a boy, a girl sang a solo at a church, and he had never forgotten her. The Galoreys, Lily and Dan attend a London theater where one Letty Lane is the star. Dan recognizes her as the girl from his town, and going behind the scenes introduces himself and she remembers him. He learns that Prince Poniotowsky is suitor and escort to Letty. Lord Galorey and a friend named Ruggles determine to protect the westerner from Lily and other fortune hunters. Young Blair goes to see Lily, he can talk of nothing but Letty and this angers the Duchess. The westerner finds Letty ill from hard work, but she recovers and Ruggles and Dan invite her to supper. She asks Dan to build a home for disappointed theatrical people. Dan visits Lily, for the time forgetting Letty.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued.

She was taking him home then!

"Well, you've got to come in and have some supper with me to that case," he cried eagerly, and she told him that she had taken him home because she knew that Mr. Ruggles would approve.

"Not much you won't," he said, and put his hand on the speaking tube, but she stopped him.

"Don't give any orders to my motor, Mr. Blair. You sit still where you are."

"Do you think that I am such a simple youth that I—"

Letty Lane with a gesture of supreme ennui said to him impatiently:

"Oh, I just think I am pretty nearly tired to death; don't bother me. I want my own way."

Her voice and her gesture, her beauty and her indifference, her sort of vague lack of interest in him and in everything, put the boy, full of life as he was, out of ease, but he ventured, after a second:

"Won't you please tell me what you wanted me to do this afternoon?"

"Why, I was hard up, that's all. I have used all my salary for two months and I couldn't pay my bill at the Savoy."

"Lord!" he said fervently, "why didn't you—"

"I did. Like a fool I sent for you the first thing, but I was awfully glad when five o'clock came you didn't turn up. Please don't bother or speak of it again."

And burning with curiosity as to what part Poniotowsky played in her life, Dan sat quiet, not venturing to put to her any more questions. She seemed so tired and so overcome by her own thoughts. When they had turned down toward the hotel, however, he decided that he must in honor tell her his news.

"Got some news to tell you," he exclaimed abruptly. "Want you to congratulate me. I'm engaged to be married to the Duchess of Breakwater. She happens to be a great admirer of your voice."

The actress turned sharply to him and in the dark he could see her little, white face. The covering over her head fell back and she exclaimed:

"Heavens!" and impulsively put her hands out over his. "Do you really mean what you say?"

"Yes." He nodded surprisedly. "What do you look like that for?"

Letty Lane arranged her scarf and then drew back from him and laughed.

"Oh, dear, dear, dear," she exclaimed, "and I . . . and I have been . . ."

She looked up at him swiftly as though she fancied she might detect [illegible] had not observed before, but she saw only his clear, kind eyes, his charming smile and his beautiful, young ignorance, and said softly to him:

"No use to cry, little boy, if it's true! But that woman isn't half good enough for you—not half, and I guess you think it funny enough to hear me say so! What does the other boy from Montana say?"

"Don't know," Dan answered indifferently. "Marconied him; didn't tell him about it before he left. You see he doesn't understand England—doesn't like it."

A little dazed by the way each of the two women took the mention of the other, he asked timidly:

"You don't like the Duchess of Breakwater, then?"

And she laughed again.

"Goodness gracious, I don't know her; actresses don't sit around with duchesses." Then abruptly, her beautiful eyes, under their curled dark lashes, full on him, she asked:

"Do you like her?"

"You bet!" he said ardently. "Of course I do. I am crazy about her." Yet he realized, as he replied, that he didn't have any inclination to begin to talk about his fiancee.

They had reached the Carlton and the door of Letty Lane's motor was held open.

"Better get out," he urged, "and have something to eat."

And she, leaning a little way toward him, laughed.

"Crazy! Your engagement will be broken off tomorrow." And she further said: "If I really thought it would, why I'd come like a shot."

As she leaned forward, her cloak slipping from her neck, revealing her throat above the dark collar of the simple dress she wore, he looked in her dove-gray eyes, and murmured:

"Oh, say, do come along and risk it. I'm game, all right."

She hesitated, then bade him good night languidly, slipping back into her old attitude of indifference.

"I am going home to rest. Good night. I don't think the duchess would let you go, no matter what you did!"

Dan, standing there at her motor door, this beautiful, well-known woman bantering him, leaning toward him, was conscious of her alone, all snowy and small and divine in her enveloping scarf, lost in the corner of her big car.

"I hate to have you go back alone to the Savoy. I really do. Please let me—"

But she shook her head. "Tell the man the Savoy," and as Dan, carrying out her instructions, closed the door, he said: "I don't like that empty vase in there. Would you be very good and put some flowers in it if they came?"

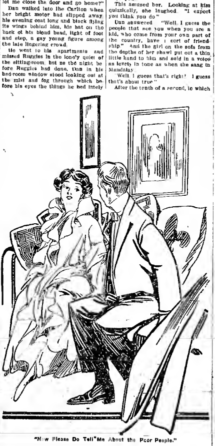
She wouldn't promise, and he went on:

"Will you put only my flowers in that vase always hereafter?"

Then, "Why, of course not, goose," she said shortly. "Will you please let me close the door and go home?"

Dan walked into the Carlton when her bright motor had slipped away, his evening coat long and black flying its wings behind him, his hat on the back of his blond head, light of foot and step, a gay young figure among the late lingering crowd.

He went to his apartments and missed Ruggles in the lonely quiet of the sitting-room, but as the night before Ruggles had done, Dan in his bed-room window stood looking out at the mist and fog through which before his eyes the things he had lately seen passed and repassed, specter-like, winglike, across the gloom. Finally, in spite of the fact that he was an engaged man with the responsibilities of marriage before him, he could think of but one thing to take with him when he finally turned to sleep. The face of the woman he was engaged to marry eluded him, but the face under the white hood of Letty Lane was in his dreams, and in his troubled visions he saw her shining, dovelike eyes.



"Now Please Do Tell Me About the Poor People."

CHAPTER XIV.

From India's Coral Strands.

Mrs. Higgins, in Miss Lane's apartment at the Savoy, was adjusting the photographs and arranging the flowers when she was surprised by a caller, who came up without the formality of sending his name.

"Do you think," Blair asked her, "that Miss Lane would see me half a minute? I called yesterday, and the day before, as soon as I saw that there was a substitute singing in Mandalay. Tell her I'm as full of news as a charity report, please, and I rather guess that will fetch her."

Something fetched her, for in a few minutes she came languidly in, and by the way she smiled at her visitor it might be thought Dan Blair's name alone had brought her in. The actress had been ill for a fortnight with what the press notices said was influenza. She wore a teagown, long and white as foam, her hair rolled in a soft knot, and her face was pale as death. Frail and small as she was, she was more ethereal than when in perfect health.

"Don't stand a minute." And by the hand she gave him Dan led her over to the lounge where the pillows were piled and a fur-lined silk cover thrown across the sofa.

"Don't give me that heavy rug, there's that little white shawl." She pointed to it, and Dan, as he gave it to her, recognized the shawl in which [illegible] scenes, you [illegible]

He sat down by her. She began to cough violently and he asked, troubled, "Who's taking care of you, anyway?"

"Higgins and a couple of doctors."

"That's all?"

"Yes. Why, who should be?"

Dan didn't follow up his jealous suspicion, but asked in a tone almost paternal and softly confidential:

"How are your finances getting on?"

Her lips curved in a friendly smile. But she made a dismissing gesture with her frail little hand.

"Oh, I'm all right; Higgins told me you had some news about my poor people."

The fact that she did not take up the financial subject made him unpleasantly sure that her wants had been supplied.

"Got a whole bunch of news," Dan replied cheerfully. "I went to see the old man and the girl in their diggings. Gosh, you couldn't believe such things were true."

She drew her fine brows together. "I guess there are a good many things that would surprise you. But you don't need to tell me about hard times. That's the way I am. I'll do anything, give anything, so long as I don't have to hear hard stories." She turned to him confidentially. "Perhaps it's acting in false scenes on the stage; perhaps it's because I'm lazy and selfish, but I can't bear to hear about tales of woe."

What she said somewhat disturbed his idea of her big-hearted charity.

"I don't believe you're lazy or selfish," he said sincerely, "but I've got an idea that not many people really know you."

This amused her. Looking at him quizzically, she laughed. "I expect you think you do."

Dan answered. "Well, I guess the people that see you when you are a kid, who come from your own part of the country, have a sort of friendship." And the girl on the sofa from the depths of her shawl put out a thin little hand to him and said in a voice as lovely in tone as when she sang in Mandalay:

"Well, I guess that's right! I guess that's about true."

After the tenth of a second, in which she thought best to take her little cold hand away from those big warm ones, she asked:

"Now please do tell me about the poor people."

In this way giving him to understand how really true his better idea of her had been.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

PEST OF THE SOUTH PACIFIC

Jack London's Description of the Now Now, Which Rivals the New Jersey Mosquito.

The following story from Jack London's recently published "The Cruise of the Snark" indicates that the Jersey mosquito has a rival in the "now now:"

"I made the strategic mistake of undressing on the edge of a steep bank where I could dive in, but could not climb out. When I was ready to dress I had a hundred yards' walk on the bank before I could reach my clothes. At the first step fully 10,000 now-nows landed upon me. At the second step I was walking in a cloud. By the third step the sun was dimmed in the sky. After that I don't know what happened.

"When I arrived at my clothes I was a maniac. And here enters my grand tactical error. There is only one rule of conduct in dealing with now-nows. Never swat them. Whatever you do, don't swat them.

"They are so vicious that in the instant of annihilation they eject their last atom of poison into your carcass. You must pluck them delicately between thumb and forefinger, and persuade them gently to remove their proboscises from your quivering flesh. It is like pulling teeth. But the difficulty was that the teeth sprouted faster than I could pull them.

"This was a week ago. At the present moment I resemble a sadly infected smallpox convalescent."

Hints and Advice on Social Forms

By MME. MERRI

From "An Anxious Girl."

I have been reading your part in the paper every Sunday and am wondering if you can help me. I am sixteen and a half years old and engaged to be married to a young man twenty years old. My parents have consented to my engagement. Do you think it would be wise to get married when I am seventeen? I would like you to tell me next Sunday, please.

"ANXIOUS GIRL."

I am truly sorry that I could not tell you "in next Sunday's paper," but when your letter came it had already gone to press. I am very much afraid you will not like my advice, for I most certainly think seventeen is too young for any girl to be married. Wait at least until you are twenty. You will then have had some girlhood and realize a bit more the responsibility of the step which, you know, is for life, and for better or worse. Enjoy these next few years and you will be better fitted to be a wife.

Two Questions.

Will you please tell me the best thing to use in polishing a brass bedstead? What is the most stylish goods for spring suits?

MRS. O.

Neither one of your questions come under my department, but as I always dislike to disappoint a correspondent I will say that I was told not to attempt to polish a brass bed, but to wipe it carefully with a soft cloth. Most brass is lacquered and only needs care. If in the process of time the brass wears off it should be relacquered.

Whipcords, lightweight broadcloths, serges, shepherd's checks, all sorts of novelty suitings, are being worn; also Ottoman silks and taffetas made into suits.

Proper Way to Leave Cards.

Kindly tell in your "Questions and Answers" how to leave cards in paying an afternoon call, if there is no maid to answer door.

HELEN.

If the lady of the house comes to [illegible] hall or living room as you are taking your leave. If a child or an unknown member of the family should answer the bell you may hand your cards and ask that they be given to the one on whom you intend to call.

Reply to "Pussy-Willow."

Is it ever proper to send a postal card to a boy before he sends you one? Do you consider it wrong for a boy to kiss a girl good-night when they have been chums all their lives? How can a girl refuse a boy's invitation to the theater when she just prefers going with her girl friends?

"PUSSY-WILLOW."

You may think me very strict, but I most honestly do think it wrong for girls and boys to kiss each other, unless they are relatives. A girl cannot be too careful, and I wish I could explain just what harm might come. Won't you ask mother all about it? I see no harm in sending the first postal, especially if you are on a trip. Just tell the boy that you are obliged to him, but you girls would rather go together; but how about coming home? You know I do not approve of girls being unprotected on the street at night.

Suggestions for a "Shower."

I'll be very thankful if you will please help me. I want to give, in honor of a friend of mine, a "White Shower." Please tell me how to decorate, just what would be nice to serve and some games to play.

HOPEFUL.

As far as possible use white flowers and you can serve vanilla cream or pineapple sherbet with white iced cakes. I do not think you will need any special games, as opening the parcels usually furnishes enough excitement. If the guests like cards you could have a few rubbers of "Hearts."

Tin Wedding Dinner Menu.

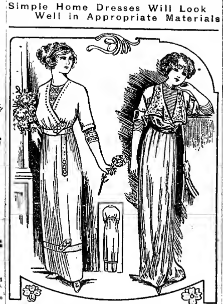
Please suggest refreshments for my tenth wedding anniversary next month. We want to have dinner about seven.

M. E. H.

I am afraid you want something more than "refreshments" at a dinner, so I would start it with soup, then a meat course with vegetables, a salad, and dessert with a cake bearing ten candles in tin holders. I would use tin cups for coffee, have a tin wedding bell over the table and a tin breadpan to hold fruit and flowers for a centerpiece.

MADAME MERRI.

Simple Home Dresses Will Look Well in Appropriate Materials



THE first is quite charming in its simplicity, and might be made in any fine woollen material. It has the skirt trimmed at foot by a strap of darker material, which is continued up in a point at the side of front; buttons are sewn here.

The cross-over bodice has a braided material vest, and under-sleeves to match; the over-sleeves are edged with buttons to match fronts. The waist-band and skirt are of the darker material trimmed with buttons.

Materials required: 4 yards 44 inches wide, 9 large and about 4 dozen small buttons; ½ dozen yards braid of the design favored.

An elegant style is shown in the second sketch; it is made up in pewter grey cashmere satin, and has a skirt which is quite plain and cut with a slight train; there is slight fulness gathered in at the waist.

The bodice has a fold on each shoulder, and material revers partly covered in figured ninon; tucked ninon is used for yoke, also for under-sleeves.

Materials required: 4½ yards satin 44 inches wide, ⅝ yard tucked ninon 18 inches wide.

SIMPLICITY SHOULD BE AIM

Always a Charm Therein, Whereas Over-Ornamentation Destroys All Good Effects.

Women, speaking generally, have been very slow to realize the charm of simplicity. The inestimable value of a few graceful lines, and the wisdom of trusting rather to the carrying out carefully of one good idea than to the over elaboration of several schemes of decoration and contrasts of color, in one and the same unfortunate garment.

Most of us must have come across, now and again, that weak-minded and irresolute individual who can never leave well enough alone, and who adds rosettes of velvet here and groups of buttons there, tucks and flounces, frills and furbelows, until all the original grace and elegance of the gown disappears entirely under a mass of extraneous and altogether unnecessary adornment. To these more or less meaningless trimmings, the great French dressmakers have always been strongly opposed, and it is really a matter of congratulation that their good influence in this respect should be making itself felt at last, more especially as the beautiful fabrics which have been prepared for the winter season are so lovely in themselves as regards both color and texture.

To Mend Neatly.

A patched corset cover is unsightly showing through thin waists. When worn under the arms place a new piece of material over the old and stitch lace or embroidery insertion around the edge, cutting away the goods underneath and leaving an edge to turn back and stitch again, making firm. Do both sides alike and it will not appear to have been patched, but trimmed that way. Patches may be any shape.

Let the Hair Show.

Don't make the mistake that many do of putting their hats down over their foreheads without letting a lock of hair show. It is really necessary to have the hair arranged around the face to soften the features as well as the line between the hat and forehead.

TWENTY YEARS OF TERRIBLE ITCHING

Untold Agony, Ashamed to Be Seen. Nothing Helped. Resinol Instantly Relieved and Trouble Passed Away.

Such is the story of Thomas G. Hull, New Haven, Conn. Every sufferer from tormenting skin troubles should profit by his experience, told in his own words:

"For twenty years or more I was troubled with terrible itching of the body, arms and legs. I suffered untold agony; could hardly sleep at night, and was actually ashamed to be seen. I obtained a small jar of Resinol Ointment, applied same, and was instantly relieved. I then purchased a cake of Resinol Soap and used it in connection with the Ointment. The itching soon became less, and in a short time entirely passed away."

As Mr. Hull's letter shows, Resinol Ointment stops itching instantly. Used with Resinol Soap it is the quickest, easiest, and most economical treatment for eczema, rashes, tetter, ringworm, pimples and other skin affections, as well as for burns, scalds, boils, ulcers and itching, bleeding and inflamed piles. Recommended and sold by your druggist, (Soap, 25c., Ointment, 50c. and $1). Sample of each sent free. Address Dept. 1 K, Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

Right in His Line.

"Who was that man I had for a partner at bridge last evening?"

"He's a writer of farces."

"I might have known it."

"Why?"

"He made some mighty funny plays."

If You Are a Trifle Sensitive

About the size of your shoes, you can wear a size smaller by shaking Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder, into them. Just the thing for Dancing Parties and for Breaking in New Shoes. Gives instant relief to Corns and Bunions. Sample FREE. Address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

All Interested.

"Is your bookkeeper's heart in his office work?"

"Everybody's heart is in the office work since the blonde stenographer came."

A better thing than tooth powder to cleanse and whiten the teeth, remove tartar and prevent decay is a preparation called Paxtine Antiseptic. At druggists 25c a box or sent postpaid on receipt of price by The Paxton Toilet Co., Boston, Mass.

In a Restaurant.

"What will you have, sir?"

"Some kind of riotor's living for two."

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle.

A girl can be sentimental even about the way she eats pickles.

Health is the fashion. Take Garfield Tea, the herb laxative which purifies the blood and brings good health.

Some men never brag about themselves and don't blame them.

Free Color Plans for any rooms you want to decorate

You can have the prettiest walls in your home at the least cost. Our expert designers will plan the work for you FREE.

Get This Book 20 Pretty Rooms—we will mail you a copy Free. It tells how to have the best decorating at least cost. Is full of pretty color schemes and shows pictures of the exquisite Alabastine tints, famous for their soft, velvety qualities.

Walls and how to decorate them
Alabastine Book

Alabastine
The Beautiful Wall Tint

is more in vogue in modern homes than wall paper or paint and costs far less. All kalsomine colors are harsh and crude beside Alabastine tints. Absolutely sanitary, goes farther, does not chip, peel or rub off. Easy to use—just mix with cold water and put on. Directions on each package. Full 5-lb. package, White 50c; Regular Tints 55c.

Alabastine Company
55 Grandville Road, Grand Rapids, Mich.
New York City, Desk 5, 105 Water Street

44 Bu. to the Acre

is a heavy yield, but that's what John Kennedy of Edmonton, Alberta, Western Canada, got from 40 acres of Spring Wheat in 1910. Reports from other districts in that province showed other excellent results—such as 4,000 bushels of wheat from 120 acres, or 33 1-3 bu. per acre. 25, 30 and 40 bushel yields were numerous. As high as 132 bushels of oats to the acre were threshed from Alberta fields in 1910.

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

The Silver Cup at the recent Spokane Fair was awarded to the Alberta Government for its exhibit of grains, grasses and vegetables. Reports of excellent yields for 1910 come also from Saskatchewan and Manitoba in Western Canada.

Free homesteads of 160 acres, and adjoining pre-emptions of 160 acres (at $3 per acre) are to be had in the choicest districts.

Schools convenient, climate excellent, soil the very best, railways close at hand, building lumber cheap, fuel easy to get and reasonable in price, water easily procured, mixed farming a success.

Write as to best place for settlement, settlers' low railway rates, descriptive illustrated "Last Best West" (sent free on application) and other information, to Sup't of Immigration, Ottawa, Can., or to the Canadian Government Agent.

H. M. WILLIAMS
413 Gardner Bldg., Toledo, Ohio
Please write to the agent nearest you

THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY. No. 1, No. 2, No. 3.
THERAPION. Used in French Hospitals with GREAT SUCCESS, CURES KIDNEY, BLADDER DISEASES, PILES, CHRONIC ULCERS, SKIN ERUPTIONS—EITHER SEX. Send address envelope for FREE booklet to DR. LE CLERC MED. CO., HAVERSTOCK RD., HAMPSTEAD, LONDON, ENG.

$8.00 PER 100 Paid Collecting Orders. Stamp for reply. Harrison & Co., 1308-10 31st St., N.W. Washington, D.C.

PATENTS Watson E. Coleman, Washington, D.C. Books free. Highest references. Best results.

W. N. U., CLEVELAND, NO. 17-1912.

HAPPY THO' MARRIED?

There are unhappy married lives, but a large percentage of these unhappy homes are due to the illness of the wife, mother or daughter. The feelings of nervousness, the befogged mind, the ill-temper, the pale and wrinkled face, hollow and circled eyes, result most often from those disorders peculiar to women. For the women to be happy and good-looking she must naturally have good health. Dragging-down feelings, hysteria, hot-flashes or constantly returning pains and aches—are too great a drain upon a women's vitality and strength. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription restores weak and sick women to sound health by regulating and correcting the local disorders which are generally responsible for the above distressing symptoms.

"I suffered greatly for a number of years and for the past three years was so bad that life was a misery to me," writes MRS. B. F. DICKOVER, of Utica, Ohio, Route 4. "The doctors told me I would have to go to a hospital before I would ever be better. A year ago this winter and spring I was worse than ever before. At each period I suffered like one in torment. I am the mother of six children. I was so bad for five months that [illegible] Dr. R. V. Pierce, telling him as nearly as I could how I suffered. He outlined a course of treatment which I followed to the letter. I took two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and a fifty-cent bottle of 'Smart-Weed,' and have never suffered much since. I wish I could tell every suffering woman the world over what a boon Dr. Pierce's medicines are. There is no use wasting time and money doctoring with anything else or any one else."

MRS. DICKOVER.

The Medical Adviser by R. V. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y., answers hosts of delicate questions about which every woman, single or married ought to know. Sent free on receipt of 31 stamps to pay for wrapping and mailing only.

W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES
$2.25 $2.50 $3.00 $3.50 $4.00 & $5.00
For MEN, WOMEN and BOYS
THE STANDARD OF QUALITY FOR OVER 30 YEARS
WEAR W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES

You can save money because they are more economical and satisfactory in style, fit and wear than any other makes. W. L. Douglas name and price stamped on the bottom guarantees full value and protects the wearer against high prices and inferior shoes. Insist upon having the genuine W. L. Douglas shoes. Take No Substitute.

If your dealer cannot supply W. L. Douglas shoes, write W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass., for catalog. Shoes sent everywhere delivery charges prepaid. Fast Color Eyelets used.

SOLVE THIS PUZZLE

It Can be Done! and Win a Beautiful Diamond Electrical Stick Pin

All correct solutions of the puzzle will be entitled to a special proposition on our pianos. Out-of-town people are especially invited to send in their answers.

HERE IS THE PUZZLE. TRY YOUR LUCK

DIRECTIONS AND RULES.—Write your answer on this or a separate sheet of paper and mail or bring to our store. Not more than one answer from any one family not owning a piano or owning a piano over seven years old.

Send in your answer at once. Your chance is good now. All who answer will be entitled to the Electrical Diamond Stick Pin. Answers must be sent in by May 5, 1912.

Mail or bring your answers to

GOODMAN PIANO CO.
220 SUPERIOR AVENUE NW, CLEVELAND

SOME DAY WE EXPECT

All the men of this town will get the true idea of this store; the idea that our real object in running this business, and advertise it as we do, is not so much to get you to do something for us, as to get a chance to do something for you.

We really feel that way about it; we put at your service our knowledge of the business; we get together the goods that we believe are best; put prices on them that are perfectly fair to both of us; give you as good a profit as we take; give you good quality. To prove to you how good the quality is, we are the exclusive agents in Lake County for Hart, Schaffner & Marx, Stein Bloch Co. and Clothcraft Clothes; Knox and Stetson Hats; Manhattan and Wilson Bros. Shirts, and Walk-Over Shoes, Mentor Underwear.

BETTER INVEST A PART OF YOUR MONEY IN A SAFE THING.

THE GAIL G. GRANT CO.

SERVICE AND VALUE GIVERS

Free! Free!

High Grade, Natural Tone Talking and Singing Machine—FREE

Call at our store and hear the specially prepared Records of Bands and other Instrumental Music, Songs, Stories, Recitations, Etc., and assure yourself that this is the best offered. You Buy Only the Records. THESE RECORDS ARE FAMOUS FOR THEIR TONE AND QUALITY.

As a home entertainer it has no equal. The best talent in the country is brought right to your fireside to while away the long evenings with comical recitations and songs. Or you may wish to learn a song, and what better instructor can you have than one of the peerless singers to phrase a song over and over again if need be. The possibilities of this wonderful machine for instruction and amusement are endless.

ONE STANDARD TALKING MACHINE with handsome FLOWER HORN FREE to every customer whose purchases amount to $25.00.

See and hear this wonderful instrument and learn how easy you can obtain one. ONE MACHINE TO EACH HOME.

Wm. F. Wollpert's

(Successor to J. L. FARGIS' GENERAL STORE)

GENERAL STORE

Dry Goods, Boots and Shoes, Ladies' and Gents' Furnishings, Notions, Drugs, Patent Medicines, Sundries, Chinaware and Graniteware

C., P. & E. Main Line, Between Stop 21 and 22
Cuyahoga Phone—Wickliffe, 4-R
WICKLIFFE, OHIO

WE GIVE G. & H. GREEN TRADING STAMPS

Farmer's Column

FOR SALE at a bargain. One "Reliable" incubator with brooder, nearly new. M. J. Wood, Hart St., East Mentor, O., Stop 59. Phone.

FOR SALE—Team of horses, five or six years old, weight about 2600. Inquire on Brown farm Mentor Headlands or address O. S. Foster, R. D. 4, Painesville.

FOR SALE—Asparagus, Pie-plant and Grape Roots. Inquire of S. D. Carroll, 240 Newell St., Painesville.

FOR RENT on shares. Fine farm, 36 acres, tools, stock, etc. The F. P. Miller farm, ½ mile west North Madison, North Ridge. Must secure man by April 1st as my tenant has bought a farm and is going away. Party must furnish one horse and reference. Inquire Dr. J. R. Reil, dentist, 1414 New England Bldg., Cleveland, O.

FOR SALE—My services as auctioneer, at very reasonable terms. Roy Harrison, Painesville. Home phone 352J2.

FARMS WANTED—Large and small, either for sale or exchange for City property. We sell quick if your price is right. Joseph Sedivy & Son, 3379 E. 49th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

FOR SALE or Exchange for farm a store property with living rooms. Madison, Ohio, Lock Box 351, Madison, Ohio.

FARM HELP—We have a number of applications from good farm hands for employment on farms. Address Joseph Sedivy & Son, 3379 E. 49th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

FOR RENT—Fine suite of 5 rooms for housekeeping. Steam heat. R. N. Whitcomb, Mentor, Ohio.

FOR SALE—Stove wood, seasoned hickory. Home phone 307L3, Painesville, Ohio.

FOR SALE—Farm suitable for stock or dairy farming, plenty of water and well timbered. Enquire of E. F. Brown, Painesville, R. F. D. 3.

Japan Fosters Home Industries.

The Japanese are making great strides in the woolen industry, and by importing the latest modern machinery are striving to manufacture all classes of woolen goods that find a market in Japan.

Demonstration of this machine by Experts from factory at my store

Tuesday, April 30 Afternoon

F. W. Langshaw

PERRY, :: OHIO

South End Paving

Councilman E. D. Mayhew called the attention of the council Monday night to the question of doing some paving in the south part of town. Mr Mayhew stated that it was imperative to pave either Walnut street between St. Clair and State streets and State street from Walnut street to the Nickel Plate tracks, or else pave State street from the Nickel Plate tracks to the end of the present pavement at Washington street. After considerable discussion the matter was left in the hands of the street committee.

HOW'S THIS?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN,
Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Making the Home.

A house is no home unless it contains food and fire for the mind as well as for the body.—Margaret Fuller.

Knowledge Must Be Put to Use.

The mere possession of knowledge is nothing—it is totally useless unless it is used.—Herbert Kaufman.

Shall the People Rule?

(Concluded from First Page)

pockets of ninety millions of people.

But, my friend, I want to give you more than his confession, for I have been giving you his confessions. I now want to give you proof that he is not fit to represent the Democratic party as a presidential candidate. I remind you that he went before your constitutional convention and made an argument against the initiative and the referendum. I believe Mr. Foraker also made an argument against the initiative and referendum. Well, my friends, he is entitled to whatever credit he can get for mixing his speech up with Mr Foraker's speech. But Mr Foraker had a better right to make his speech than Mr Harmon had to make his. For Mr Foraker was never elected to any office on a platform that endorsed the initiative and the referendum. And I charge here and I challenge him to meet this issue, he never touched upon it in Nebraska, and he dare not meet it in Columbus. I charge that no man is fit to be a candidate for president on the Democratic ticket who doesn't believe in the binding force of a platform. It is no trifling matter to betray a people.

Now, let him answer this if he can. I am in the state where he is. And I tell you that Governor Harmon can't defend his position. If Governor Harmon's position is right, then he ought to have no platform. A platform that isn't binding is a fraud, a deliberate fraud on the public. And if you nominate him for president you ought to be honest and not have any platform; just say to the public: "Here he is, take him for better and worse, and it is your own look out." (Great applause.) Or if you must go through the form of having a platform, you ought to have a plank in it saying that while these are your sentiments you want it understood that your candidate isn't to be embarrassed by anything that the people want; that they don't care what he thinks and he doesn't care what they think, and the platform is a mere matter of form.

Is that the kind of a man to nominate for president at a time like this? Why, my friends, he might have done in the Stone Age, but not now. You will have to go back to the time before he was born to make him fit into conditions. We have passed his day. Why, my friends, we commenced to repudiate presidents who didn't represent the people sixteen years ago. The Republican party has just got up to that point now.

Harmon Opposed Initiative.

Why, even Mr. Taft, while he is opposed to initiative and referendum, didn't say a word against it when he was here. Mr. Harmon did. If Mr. Taft had done so, he would not have been subject to as much censure because he never ran on a platform that declared for it. But even Mr. Taft didn't attempt to tell you not to do this. Mr. Harmon not only told you that he was against the initiative and referendum, but he told the convention, a majority of whose delegates had already been instructed for it, that they ought not to carry out their instructions, for that is what it meant to advise them against submitting it. And not only that, he didn't want that convention even to let the people vote on that subject. This convention had no power to fasten the initiative and referendum on you. It wasn't the legislature that was about to pass a law. It was a convention that was about to submit the proposition to let the people vote whether they wanted it or not. But Mr. Harmon was not willing that you should let the people even vote as to whether they wanted it or not.

And why? Because he does not trust the people. Because he hasn't faith in the common man. His environment has been against it. He has not mingled with the struggling masses. Oh, my countrymen, if he only knew the heart of our common people, he would have more faith in them than in the men he hobnobs with when he goes to New York.

You tell me that he is popular in this state. You tell me that he has carried your state twice. He went out to Omaha and he bragged about that, and he said they elected him the first time because they knew what he stood for. And then he told some of the things that didn't count in his campaign. He didn't tell them the facts. He ought to have told them to be frank: that he was elected in 1908 when I was defeated because I helped to bring him the votes of the [illegible] elected, and then he went out and got the special interests to give him enough more to elect him governor of this state. Why is he ashamed to let the world know why he was elected in 1908 and I was defeated?

But he told them that his administration had been so satisfactory that he was elected a second time by a bigger majority. Why didn't he tell them the facts, that he got 75,000 votes less the second time than he did the first time, and that he was elected, not because his record was indorsed, but because 200,000 voters stayed away from the polls that day. Why didn't he tell them that he was elected the second time in spite of the fact that he ran 75,000 votes behind his first vote; that he was elected because progressive Republicans revolted against the Taft administration. That is why.

Suppose he had been elected first on his merits and second on his record. Why didn't he tell those people what he had done since that time to forfeit all claim upon the party.

Suppose you had a candidate for treasurer who ran as Honest John and got a big vote as an honest man, and then when he got in he took all the money in the treasury and absconded. Would you go back to the time you elected him, if you wanted to show how popular a candidate he would be for president, or would you take into consideration the embezzlement of the money since that time?

Respect Forfeited by Harmon.

Why, then, do his friends overlook the fact that since he was elected the second time he has embezzled power and forfeited his claims upon the people? Why don't they tell you the result of his advice in the convention. You talk about his being popular and influential. He went before a constitutional convention and with all the power and prestige of a governor he opposed the initiative and referendum and then, after they listened to him they adopted it by a vote of 97 to 15. Does that show great popularity? And why doesn't he tell them that out of 56 Democrats in the constitutional convention he is supported by about 22? Does that show popularity?

Now, my friends, this is the man who is being urged as a candidate for the presidency on the ground that he can win. But the strongest argument in his favor is that the Republicans are so divided that anybody can win this year, and therefore it is safe to nominate him. Well, don't be too sure. Things are bright, but I have known things to be bright even as late as the 1st of October and yet a frost came in November. It does look bright now, and I am glad. I never was gladder in my life. I never have had such a good time as I have had recently. My friends, it has got me busy keeping up with the growth of the things I have advocated.

Take the election of senators by direct vote of the people. I commenced advocating it 21 years ago last fall. I have seen it grow. I have helped to put it in three national platforms. I have seen it pass the house six times. I have seen two-thirds of the states indorse it, almost two-thirds, and then I saw it pass the senate by a vote of nearly three to one. It is now in conference. I am glad that we are going to get the election of senators by the people.

And then we want publicity as to expenditures and the contributions to aspiring candidates for nomination. Mr. Moore, who is in charge of Mr. Harmon's campaign in this state and who can spare enough time from the arduous duties of his office to go all the way to Nebraska—the man whose predecessor resigned to take charge of Mr. Taft's campaign and gave as a reason that he didn't think he ought to spend time in politics away from his office—this man was succeeded by Mr. Harmon's appointee, whose salary has been raised two thousand dollars and who has time now to go around and look after the political interests of the man who appointed him. He came out to Nebraska, and he has been giving us instructions and we have replied to him and we have resented those objections, and, my friends, this man is not in position now to give us further instructions on his candidate until he lets us know who is subscribing to Mr. Harmon's campaign fund. He charged in his letter that Mr. Wilson was receiving and spending large sums, and I answered him that until he told us what he was spending he couldn't ask for a disclosure from other people, but that we were insisting that all of these men let the public know who is footing the bills, and I ask you whether Mr. Harmon has done anything to get publicity along this line? We are going to get it and know who is putting up the money for these presidential candidates.

Republican Split Suits Bryan.

And then we have the division in the Republican party. And, my friends, I will admit to you in confidence that I have never seen the Republican party split up just to suit me before. I have seen slivers off the side, but I never saw it split down the back. I never expected to live to see the time when a Republican president would be leading one wing of the Republican party and when a Republican ex-president would be leading the other wing, and when the Republican party would be like a hawk—all wings and no body.

Mr. Taft says that Mr. Roosevelt ought not to be nominated for a third term, and Mr. Roosevelt says that Mr. Taft ought not to be nominated for a second term. And as they have both beaten me, I have got to respect them and say I think they are both right.

Now, my friends, I know both these men. I don't know Mr. Taft as well as Mr. Roosevelt thought he did (laughter). And I don't know Mr. Roosevelt as well as Mr. Taft will before he gets through. But I have more than a casual acquaintanceship with them both, and if they will just tell the public what they know on each other, fiction will be laid aside for two months for lack of interest.

Why, my friends, Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy is an indictment of Mr. Taft's administration, and it cannot be withdrawn. If Mr. Taft is nominated, we will have this indictment to stand; and in addition to that we already [illegible]

[illegible] Roosevelt. Is the Democratic party going to dissolve? No, my friends. We will just shift the line of the campaign. For we are able to make a fight against Mr. Roosevelt as well as against Mr. Taft. If Mr. Roosevelt is nominated, his very nomination is an indictment of the Republican party. His candidacy is an indictment of the administration, but his nomination would be an indictment of the party.

Circumstances Favored Bryan.

Now, it was not due to any special merit of mine, but to circumstances. I have been the child of favorable circumstances. They conspired to make my nomination logical, and when I believed that I was the strongest Democrat who could be named, I made the race, and I did the best I could. It isn't material now to discuss whether I was the strongest or not. I will not dispute it if you say I might have been so biased in my own favor I decided the case in my own favor without sufficient evidence, and yet I remind you that I didn't nominate myself. I was nominated by the voters of the party. In the first convention I was nominated by the delegates, but not afterwards. In two campaigns I was nominated by the voters in their homes, and I had no organization, and I spent no money. I was nominated by the people. And if any mistake was made, they made it. I had no power to control or to coerce them.

But no matter about the past. We have got a new condition to deal with. I believe today I am not the strongest candidate. (Cries of "You are," and tremendous applause). No, my friends, I know this situation better than you do. And I believe, and I think I have ample ground for it, that there are a number of Democrats who, as conditions exist today, can poll more votes than I can poll, and they are entitled to your consideration.

You have seen me fight when I have been a candidate. I have done the best I could. But you ought to see me fight when I have not somebody to fight for and am not handicapped by the suspicion that I have a selfish interest in the fight.

I have been paid for all I have ever done for the American people, and no matter how long I live I will not be able to repay the debt I owe to them.

PERRY

Mrs Howard and daughter, Lou, for several weeks guests at the Wood homestead left Wednesday evening for their Nebraska home.

T. P. Haley of Cleveland was in Perry Sunday.

Mrs. Frank Beardsley was unable to fill her position in the primary Monday on account of illness.

Miss Ethel Hadden is planning to take a course in Business College. She is preparing to start in May.

The Baptist church is cooperating with the Christian church in holding weekly prayer meetings. On Thursday evening meetings will be held at Mrs. S. W. Hurlburt at the Center, at the Christian church, at the home of Mrs. Prentice in the Antioch neighborhood and at Mrs. Wm. Lapham's on the North Ridge.

Mr O. B. Tenney has purchased the agency and store business hitherto conducted by Chas. Armstrong. Mr Armstrong has retired to his recently bought farm, and Miss Jessie Tenney is acting as ticket agent now on the electric line in Perry.

A convention of Christian churches is to be held Wednesday evening in the Painesville church. Mr. Hearn from this place will attend.

The M. E. Play "Rod Acre Farm" will be produced Wednesday, April 30th at the I. O. O. F. hall.

Misses Carrie and Maude Shook are to entertain a party of young people at a leap year party Thursday evening.

Miss Emlyn Ford took dinner with Nettie Homley Sunday.

Rev. Wright, the pastor of St. Anne's, gave an address Sunday afternoon on the Wreck of the Titanic.

God permitted the disaster,
He allowed the ice to form
On the frigid coasts of Greenland
Then sent them down to regions warm,
He did not forget to pilot
The strong Titan ocean queen,
The blue sea was made the background
Of this era's noblest scene.
Men had need of an example
What Christ had taught men to be,
Unselfishness and Christ-like bravery
Marked the wreck upon the sea.

Mr Burnett was on the sick list last week.

Welcomes News

Dr. John W. Lowe who has spent the winter in Eustis, Florida, returned during the past week to his home in Mentor. Judging by a letter received at the Herald office this week from Dr Lowe in his sunny southern home, he is glad and quite willing to risk encounter with any lake breezes that may still be abroad, in order to be back home.

He has the following to say anent news, which, next to a check is the most welcome thing one may receive from home:

Eustis, Florida, April 15, 1912

Editor Lake County Herald:

We will leave Eustis, Florida, on Wednesday, April 17th. We have enjoyed all Lake County items. It is when one is away from home that a local newspaper is enjoyed the most. Lake County tourists seem to be especially favored in this particular. The friendly difference of opinion on many subjects is interesting, and we think profitable. May the wholesome competition continue, in both editors and correspondents. Let there be light, let there be more light, let there be a great light. We are glad that we are living in a time-light age. We appreciate moral courage and free press. Let the good work go on. Yours truly, [illegible] LOWE.

Now for the Final Wind-up

Here is your last opportunity. Remember! The great Sale of Rugs and Floor-coverings ends Saturday, April 27th. Greater Eccentric Values for the remaining days.

Now is the time to act.

It's up to you!

We give Eagle Stamps with all purchases.

The Up-to-Date

Painesville's Leading Department Store.

The Washing Machine that Really Washes Clothes Clean

THIS is the famous "Boss"—the machine with the mechanical wash-board—improved by the high speed, fly wheel attachment. Can be operated by Electric, Water or Engine Power as well as by hand. Tell us the kind you want. A child can easily run it.

The clothes are rubbed, squeezed and thoroughly washed, far better than they can be by hand. Made of everlasting Louisiana Red Cypress Wood. Order one on trial from your local dealer. Write direct to us for booklet on washday hints.

THE BOSS WASHING MACHINE CO., Norwood Station, Cincinnati, Ohio

If you want a FLOUR that will satisfy in any kind of baking try our WHITE BEAUTY.

We have sold this brand for over fifteen years and we know it will please you.

W. M. WERNER

DRUGS, GROCERIES, CROCKERY, HOUSEFURNISHINGS

Pingree
Ladies' Shoes
Ladies' Pumps
and Oxfords
Men's Shoes
Men's Oxfords
John S. Lockwood

IN GETTING AN ELECTRIC SUCTION CLEANER

DON'T BE DECEIVED and buy one with a cheap motor, a small vertical shaft which will soon wear and drop, especially when in connection with a small fan which must necessarily be run at high speed in order to get sufficient power. Such machines make a neat appearance and may do good work while new, but are SHORT LIVED.

When you buy the MAGIC ELECTRIC you have a cleaner with a five year guarantee certificate, a motor designed especially for it by the WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC MFG. CO., having a large horizontal shaft, a good sized fan which even at low speed gives sufficient power.

The MAGIC is the most simple in construction, having no pumps, valves, connecting rods, gears, belts, etc., to give out.

After three years' experience with various makes, we sell the BEST the market affords.

CHAS. A. MILLER

Phone 149-R PAINESVILLE, OHIO

FIRE, LIFE, ACCIDENT, HEALTH AND PLATE GLASS INSURANCE

FRANK [illegible]

---

The Lake County Weekly Herald

Volume XIV. No. 8 PAINESVILLE, OHIO, MAY 2, 1912. One Dollar Per Year

CHAMPION OF ROOSEVELT ON PEOPLE'S RULE

Defends Proposal for Recall of Judicial Decisions.

POINTS OUT ITS WISDOM

Hon. Augustus M. Wessels of the Pennsylvania Bar Says: "The Constitution Will Be Safely Guarded by Mr. Roosevelt"—The Forceful Expression of the People, the Backbone of the Nation.

Washington, D. C., April 27.—Both in its editorial columns and in those devoted to news of national politics the Philadelphia (Pa.) Public Ledger has been one of the stoutest pro-Taft organs. But its readers are not blinded by sophistry or abuse, as witness the tremendous wave of approval of Colonel Roosevelt and his principles which marked the presidential preference primary in the Keystone state.

The Hon. Augustus M. Wessels, a distinguished member of the Pennsylvania bar, in a signed communication to the Public Ledger, in which he declares Roosevelt's principles the "Forceful expression of the belief of the people," stands staunchly and convincingly by Colonel Roosevelt's proposal for the recall of certain judicial decisions.

Mr. Wessels, after stating that he has read in the newspaper in question a series of articles on "The American Constitution and the New Radicalism," asks "the opportunity of pointing out some very glaring inconsistencies in the interpretation of important principles in those articles."

The learned student of "New Radicalism," as the Ledger calls Mr. Roosevelt's proposed reform, goes on to say.

"It seems to me that the point at issue is, Shall the people rule? Are the American people capable of passing wise and careful judgment upon those vital questions which affect the people as a whole and are at the root of social and industrial justice? It is perfectly true that the struggle now going on between President Taft and ex-President Roosevelt is one over fundamental principles, and not a test of personal popularity or a combat for party chieftainship. In the first paper on the American Constitution and the New Radicalism your writer says:

"'Americans have never yet acted at the polls without grave and intelligent reflection beforehand upon the probable consequences of their voting. They are not insensate dolts, and they are not hysterical followers of the loudest shouter. They must know what they are voting for and what they are voting against.'

This seems a very fair and creditable estimate of the civic intelligence of the American people, and no sane man can help but have full confidence in the final judgment of a people possessing such ability. Yet your writer, speaking of the constitution and the recall of judges and judicial decisions, says:

"'How are the people who are not lawyers to know what the law or the constitution is? The judges have made it a study of a lifetime. How is a mass-meeting to decide? Would you honestly consider yourself competent to discuss them? Remember that the proposition involves deliberation, not merely noisy or perfunctory assent to some proposition vociferously urged by a loud talker indulging in platitudes; it is a question as to what shall be the law, what shall be the rule of action binding all men, high or low, rich or poor, without any difference as to class or condition.'

"Is it not peculiar that the 'grave and intelligent reflection beforehand upon the probable consequences of their voting' should disappear altogether when the people come to express their will and judgment on a fundamental question vital to their common good and justice, which perchance has been declared unconstitutional by a too strict interpretation of the law? Is it not peculiar, notwithstanding the fact that the constitution is the expressed, written will of the people, made by them, your writer says they know nothing about the constitution or the laws? Is this good reasoning? Is this convincing logic?

"I maintain that the questions which would ultimately come before the people for judgment under the recall would of necessity be of such importance that the people would know their minds and would be perfectly capable of rendering a decision to the best interest of society. For, as ex-Chief Justice Campbell of Michigan said, 'The greatest knowledge that we have in this world is the common knowledge of the common people.' Your writer's high esteem of the capabilities of the American people seems to have considerably dwindled when at the close of the first paper he says, 'Come, hard-headed men, and tell me would you let your clerks or your workmen decide what you should do on a question which you had studied all your life and which they had never considered?' I ask, are the people, whose will is acknowledged to be the supreme law of the land (I here quote Justice Bradley, speaking for the United States Supreme court, 'The power of the people is superior to all legislatures and all courts and expresses the will of the ultimate sovereignty of the whole country'), I ask, are the people to be placed in a subordinate position, likened to clerks and workmen, while the judges are conceived to be the masters of the people? A very striking example of the tyranny of the minority!

"My learned friend apparently forgets the cardinal principle in the American government, that the representatives of the people and those holding public positions of trust and honor are the servants of the people and are chosen or appointed expressly to carry into effect the will of the electorate.

"In the second paper your writer states that the moderates stand for the preservation of the American system of government and that the radicals stand for such changes in method and principle as would plunge the government into chaos. Also, that the number of cases in which courts have upheld acts of congress and state legislatures is 20 times greater than those in which they have declared such acts to be unconstitutional, and finally the article closes with this rash and unfair statement, which I cannot allow to stand unchallenged:

"'Are you prepared to admit that it is your purpose to overthrow American representative government? Mr. Taft says no. Mr. Roosevelt says yes. Which shall it be?'

"If it is a fact that the courts sustain the representatives of the people in the ratio of 20 cases to one, how can any intelligent man reason that the government is to be thrown into chaos by the use of the restricted recall in such a limited number of cases? For it is not reasonable to suppose that every time a court declares an act of the legislature to be unconstitutional every such case will be important and vital enough to warrant the use of the recall. The writer should give the subject a little more 'grave and intelligent reflection.'

"Let us now examine carefully and justly in the true American spirit, the so-called attitude that Mr. Roosevelt has taken to overthrow American representative government. Does my friend know the principles Mr. Roosevelt advocates? It might be well to cite the most important and the most radical. The short ballot, direct nominations, direct election of United States senators, the initiative and referendum and the very restricted recall. In his speech in New York on March 20 Mr. Roosevelt says:

"'So that no man may misunderstand me, let me recapitulate: I am not proposing anything in connection with the Supreme court of the United States or with the federal constitution. I am not proposing anything having any connection with ordinary suits, civil or criminal, as between individuals. I am not speaking of the recall of judges. I am proposing merely that in a certain class of cases involving the police power, when a state court has set aside as unconstitutional a law passed by the legislature for the general welfare, the question of the validity of the law be submitted for final determination to a vote of the people, taken after due time for consideration.'

"If there any principle advocated here which will 'plunge the government into chaos?' The Supreme court and the federal constitution are preserved, so our national government remains intact. Does the use of the short ballot, which but fixes responsibility more definitely on the representatives of the people, destroy representative government? Would the amendment to the federal constitution necessary for the direct election of United States senators destroy representative government?

"When we come to consider direct nominations and the necessary changes to the state constitution this much needed reform would work havoc with the indirect representative government we have today. The kind of rule we have at present, boss-ruled legislatures and machine-controlled primaries, absolutely ignores the right of the people to choose the best candidates. If this is the kind of representative government, which is now being so strenuously upheld by professional politicians, that your writor fears for, it were better, indeed, that it should be swept away and a true, honest system of direct representative government put in its place."

Mr. Wessels says in conclusion.

"The constitution will be safely guarded, never fear, by Mr. Roosevelt and those who believe in his principles, and as for his new radicalism, it is the forceful expression of the belief of the people, those who are the backbone of the nation, who maintain the balance of the country. I fail to see where these principles endanger representative government, for we must trust the people, they have guided our country in the past and are capable of doing so in the future. Mr Roosevelt's influence for good is far reaching and powerful, for he is bringing before the young men of today questions which are vital to the welfare of the nation tomorrow, and these young men who will soon take up the reins of government and business are giving careful consideration to this new radicalism, and when the time is ripe the dark stains of corruption, fraud and abuse of money power, which are a disgrace to our political system, will be swept away, and our people will have to a fuller degree the opportunities for the pursuit of life, liberty and happiness."

Kansas City Star: Chairman McKinley announces that Taft is sure of the Hawaiian delegation, and it is believed the president may carry Porto Rico, the Philippines, Guam, Wake island and the Canal Zone, which, in the eyes of the Taft managers, will fully offset the loss of Pennsylvania, Illinois, Maine, Wisconsin, North Dakota, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Oregon and California.

Toledo Blade: Give them a fair chance to vote, and the people have little trouble determining what they want.

Don't be surprised if you have an attack of rheumatism this spring. Just rub the affected parts freely with Chamberlain's Liniment and it will soon disappear. Sold by all dealers.

ABOUT PEOPLE AND PLACES

Mr Baker isn't the only Ohio citizen who would like to know where Uncle Jud stands.

—o—

The Farmers' Institutes will now proceed to stage some joint debates on the question of the Single Tax.

—o—

Judging by the way they're calling out the militia and police at the state conventions, they'll need the army and navy at Chicago.

—o—

Born—To Mr and Mrs George Thoirs of Cleveland, Sunday, April 28th, a son, at the home of Mr Thoirs parents on Jefferson street this city.

—o—

The constitutional delegates probably figured that the initiative and referendum would be enough to worry about without giving Ohio the recall right away.

—o—

There isn't a candidate for County office who will declare whether he is for Roosevelt or for Taft. About 90 candidates in Lake county sittin' on the fence and waitin'.

—o—

Mayor Smith believes in keeping campaign promises and is urging the council to proceed to build the Lake Shore Ry subway. And don't forget the Mentor avenue pavement.

—o—

Wanted—A candidate for Probate Judge who will disturb Judge Nye's nervous temperament. Squire Huntington might have turned the trick if he wasn't so busy electing Taft.

—o—

It is generally conceded that Harry T. Nolan is going to be the next county attorney, and we don't see why there should be so many republican candidates anxious for the licking.

—o—

Safer Murphy had a hard time getting the civil service examinations but he finally comes out on top just as we expected he would. Murphy is making good on the Board of Safety in spite of the knockers.

—o—

The new electric sign recently purchased by contributions to be placed on the City Hall is so large that a suitable place on the building cannot be found for its erection. How would it do to enlarge the building?

—o—

It is reported that Dr Winans is training hard for the pace he must go to beat F. D. Malin as a candidate for the state legislature. The doctor hasn't yet decided whether to ride in the Taft or Roosevelt band wagon but two wagons worry him.

—o—

James A. Price died at four a. m. on April 23, at his residence, 614 South Evans avenue, McKeesport, Pa., from a complication of diseases. Mr Price was a brother of Wm. L. Price and Mrs Chas Carroll of this city. He was also a former resident of this city.

—o—

The Bristolville Jackson Club is making a holler because the Western Reserve Democrat of Warren would not print the resolutions it adopted favoring the election of progressive delegates from the Nineteenth District. Print the news and give every faction a square deal, Brother Holbrook.

—o—

Champ Clark in a speech once proposed to burn down all the custom houses. He compared President Cleveland to Benedict Arnold and Judas Iscariot. He suggests the annexation of Canada. Of course Clark has admirers, but democrats would have to fight hard to elect him to the presidency.

—o—

The Painesville Socialists have organized a "local," whatever that is. It costs 25 cents per month to belong and requires a pledge to never vote anything but a Socialist ticket, no matter how good a man happens to be on the opposition ticket.

—o—

A free Mass Meeting by the Woman Suffragets will be held at Gray's Armory in Cleveland on Wednesday, May 8th, at eight P. M. Dr Anna Shaw, President of the National Woman's Suffrage Party will speak on Equal Suffrage, being introduced by the Rev. Minot Simons, Chairman, acting for the Men's League. Mrs Maud Wood Park will also deliver a short address.

—o—

Mr Al Bryan, the eccentric millionaire bill poster has brought suit of injunction against Safer E. A. Murphy prohibiting him from appointing a policeman from the civil service examination applicants. Probate Judge Nye granted the temporary injunction, but we did not learn upon what grounds. The Probate Court must have had some important reason for interfering in what has generally been considered a petty quarrel between Bryan and the city officials.

—o—

Lake county fell asleep on one very important item not many years ago. And that was when they allowed private interests to jump in and buy Little Mountain and placard every roading leading to the summit with the "Private Property" sign. The mountain is owned by a bunch of millionaires who are very stingy about allowing anyone without a pedigree and a wad of money to even so much as take a peek at the hill. Lake county should have purchased the property for a county park so that all could have enjoyed its beauties. One of these days the millionaires may grow tired of it and be willing to sell it.—Daily Telegraph.

—o—

Some fellows are trying to stir up opposition to Woodrow Wilson by working on the religious prejudice of Roman Catholics, and quote something Wilson said about the English Catholics of the seventeenth century. Anyone who reads history knows that a discussion of either Catholicism or Protestantism in the Seventeenth Century wouldn't be very eulogistic of either, and probably both protestants and catholics of the Twentieth Century would be glad if a lot of Seventeenth Century religious history could be blotted out. Those great, great, great grandads of ours were a bad lot and didn't think it wrong at all to chop off your head if you didn't agree with him. But that was 300 years ago.

—o—

Many political observers are concluding that the primary system, as now being exhibited, is calculated to make parties fight within themselves so bitterly that they will be unable to fight each other after primaries have been held. The tendency under the old convention system was to keep contests for nominations fairly within the limits of brotherly amenities. It was not an unusual triumph for the politicians of the old school to fight desperately for delegates and then when all was over, join in a campaign against the common enemy without having said a word the enemy could use as ammunition for his batteries. The new system, from this point of view, seems capable of playing the deuce with party organizations.

Council Meeting.

The meeting of the city council was held Monday night and two Mausoleum Company representatives appeared before the city council asking for privileges at the Cemetery. The matter was postponed for further consideration.

A number of petitions were also referred.

The subway committee asked for more time.

The First National Bank was selected for city depository.

Councilman Mayhew of the street committee reported in favor of paving State street from the Nickel Plate tracks to the present pavement at Washington street. The matter was carried over until next meeting.

An ordinance authorizing the issuing of bonds for improvements to the electric light department for the sum of $1500 was passed by a full vote of the council. These bonds will take care of the certificate of indebtedness issued last week for the same amount.

More Defeats for Mr. Taft

In Oregon, where the progressive vote was split between Mr Roosevelt and Mr. La Follette, the progressives were afraid Mr. Taft might have a plurality. Their fears have not been realized. The Oregon presidential primary has put Mr Roosevelt in first place, Mr. Taft being about 5,000 votes behind him, and Mr La Follette third. Mr. Taft had the support of the Portland Oregonian, one of the strongest newspapers in the country.

In Nebraska only one thing is uncertain—the size of the Roosevelt victory over Taft. Some reports say the Roosevelt vote may be ten times the vote for Taft. The lowest estimate is three times. All reports agree that Mr Taft's defeat is crushing. He and Mr La Follette have had a close race for second place.

Wherever the voters have had a chance to express themselves freely, at genuine primaries, Mr Taft's defeat has been severe. The progressives have won in North Dakota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Oregon, and Nebraska. Mr Taft's victories have been won in states still in the grip of political machines.

The nomination of Mr Taft, in the face of this evidence, by the votes of southern delegates, can have only one meaning that of Republican old guard would rather have their party defeated than permit its majority to control it.

Soft Shell Progressive.

J. C. Heald, the LaFollette candidate for congress in this district made a speech in Medina last week. The speech was criticised by H. G. Rowe, editor of the Medina Gazette, and a Roosevelt progressive. This is the reply Heald sent to the editor of the Gazette. Isn't it warm?

April 22, 1912

Henry G. Rowe,
Editor Gazette:

Kindly accept my thanks for your criticism of my speech at Medina.

It is gratifying to me indeed to have my economic address criticised by a soft shell progressive who is always listening for the rumble of a band wagon.

Yours respectfully,
J. C. Heald.

Boxwell Graduates

Sixty-eight pupils passed the first Boxwell-Patterson examination from a total of 191 applicants. The names are as follows:

Concord township—Minnie Pease.

Kirtland township—Mary Ward.

Leroy township—Harry McGee, Josephine Davis.

Madison township—Charles Arthur, Donald Allen, Mildred Benjamin, Helen Billington, Robert Frissell, Mildred Chaffee, Edward Dorner, Vernon De Forest, Rhoda Jones, Hazel Jameson, Ellen Kubach, Vincent Morris, Nathan Nash, Glenn Nash.

Mentor township—Emma Barstow, Vernon Clapp, Helen Hart, Tenno Hervey, Walter Keary, Florence Northcote, Laura Otis, Elijah Roberts.

Perry township—Wade Brewster, Mirabelle Elliott, Amber Garner, Kenneth Graves, Harry Johnson, Harold Morehouse, Grace McNeill, Ellen Manchester, James West, Mildred West, Bertha West, Esther Wilson.

Painesville township—Elizabeth Laczko, Wayland Rust, Ollie Rust, Edyth Trall, Barrett Cole, Anna Carrig, William Gordon, Jack Hyland, Bryan Horton.

Fairport—Alice Bailey, Jenny Kontiainen, Francis McCrone, Lempi Palo, Andrew Pillar, Senia Quella.

Willoughby township—Wallace Bruce, Glenn Babcock, Llewellyn Barber, John Broderick, Kenning Birchford, Ernst Chrestensen, Elmer Hayward, Edward Koiz, Herbert Leuty, Esther Langshaw, Charles Minegan, Hazel Rush, Leland Smith, Raymond Smith, Charlotte Wellner.

Teddy and the Tariff

No amount of prodding can force the colonel to state his position on the vital tariff question. Once there was a darkey who had been converted at "big meetin." He had been a notorious thief, and when he applied for full membership in the church after a few months probation the colored pastor was a little dubious as to the sincerity of his new profession. "You all ain't stole no chickens sence you dun got religion?" he inquired. "No, sah." "An' no turkeys?" "No, sah." "An' no pigs?" "No, sah." "Well, den brudder, you is admitted a member of dis yeah Zion church." "How you all dun come out?" asked a friend of the new convert, when the latter emerged from the examination. "Ah done come fru all right," was the exultant reply, "but dat preacher sure got me if he say ducks."

The colonel is voluble enough, God knows, about every other topic under the sun, but de preacher sure got him if he say "tariff."

Plenty of Chance for Farmer

So great is the demand for agricultural imports in this country that our sales abroad are falling off and we are importing large quantities. The recent shipment of potatoes from Ireland are fresh in everyone's mind, and we take considerable shipments from Canada and Mexico. A recent agricultural item in the consular report states that last year 197,698 crates of tomatoes were shipped to this country from Cuba, besides 41,813 crates of okra, eggplant, peppers, etc. The farmer still has room to expand his market.

Civil Service

A civil service examination was held for applicants for positions in the police and fire departments last week, and the three highest in the test for policemen were Ed. Spaller, Fred Taylor and Harry McClellan. Safer Elmer Murphy announces that he will retain Mr Spaller in the force and appoint Fred Taylor to the vacancy now existing.

John Maunder and Wm. Kidd are the lucky appointees of the fire department.

Socialists of Painesville

They have rented a room upstairs at 125 South State street, where they will have a reading room open every day after working hours and will meet every Friday evening at 7 30 for a study of economics from a political standpoint as well as to transact any business that may come up. Those who are interested are welcome.

Marriage License

Alfred G. McGurer, 23, Mayfield, Linda W. Wieland, 18, Wickliffe.

Fred J. Montgomery, 38, Geneva, Mrs Frances E. Winchester, 26, Madison.

George Polak, 21, Fairport, Anna Madvig, 19, Fairport.

William E. Ness, 21, Painesville, Rose A. Snow, 23, Painesville.

A Conservative

An old colored barber is responsible for this gem. When asked if he favored the abolishing of capital punishment, he replied: "No, sah, I don't. Capital punishment was good enough fo' my fo'fathers, an' it's good enough fo' me."

For rheumatism you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Liniment. Try it and see how quickly it gives relief. For sale by all dealers.

PERRY

Raymond Shook, forced to leave the baseball team he was playing with at Ironton last fall on account of illness, spent the winter in Perry and left for Ironton last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Herriann and the babies intend to motor to Chagrin Falls Wednesday in order to attend a wedding there.

Mr. Stanley Lapham and Mr. Clarence Owen, both employed in Cleveland spent Sunday at home.

Friday afternoon, the second ball game was played on the P. H. S. diamond. Madison high vs. Perry. The score was ten to nine in favor of Perry.

Miss Esther Wood was the guest of friends in Cleveland over Sunday.

The Ladies Guild of St. Annes will meet Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. F. Hamley.

Mr and Mrs W. J. Seith and children accompanied by Miss Bertha Child, visited Miss Pearl Southard last Sunday.

Next Sunday evening Mr. Hearn will present "The Story of Joseph" in dramatic reading form. You are invited to be present.

The young people of the Perry M. E. Church gave their comedy "Rod Acre Farm" at the I. O. O. F. Hall Tuesday evening. The cast of characters was: Josiah Armstrong, David Shearer; Colonel Barnaby Strutt, Clifford Stephens; Jonah Jones, farm helper, R. P. Bowles; Harry Harcourt, Marshall Tribby; Squire Harcourt, Geo. Densmore; Dick Rendall, Fortune Hunter, Maurice Coppock; Tom Busby, Merchant, Harry Joiner; Amanda Strong, Josiah's wife, Grace Schiefer; Nell Armstrong, Inez Smith; Laura Armstrong, Ethel Call; Mrs. Mrs. Barnaby Strutt, Mrs M. Coppock; Junior, adopted daughter of Strutt's, Nina Stephens. This amateur theatrical company is really a benefit to the town, it made it laugh and a laugh often smooths over rough places and makes folks forget their quarrels.

Tuesday afternoon from two to five a demonstration of the Wonder Washer was made at F. W. Langshaw's store.

Mrs. Ellen Mitchell, the newly appointed superintendent of the Baptist S. S. is organizing a Sunbeam choir of all the children in the Intermediate and Primary classes in the Sunday school. The children will be trained in singing every Saturday afternoon by Misses Bessie Salkeld and Gertrude Stephens, and after the rehearsals games will be played. This Sunbeam choir is to furnish the Sunday school with music each Sunday.

It's almost to be lamented that the Call of the Woods and the Call of the Vacuum Cleaner are heard at the same time. This is the ideal time of the year to visit the woods. The children realize this and after school each day make expeditions to the woods for wild flowers.

Mrs. Albert Henning is visiting her parents in Batavia.

A prayer meeting will be held Thursday evening at Bartholomew's in the Antioch neighborhood, at the church and in the village.

WILLOUGHBY

Schram District

Frank Foss of Cleveland, is spending some time at his brother's. Mrs. Hurter and sons were also recent guests at the Foss home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McCargo of Cleveland visited Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Baillie on Sunday a week ago.

The four Boxwell pupils who took the examination all passed.

Schools here were dismissed Friday afternoon on account of teachers and several of the pupils attending the entertainment at Willoughby.

Married, at M. E. Parsonage, at Mayfield, April 24, by Rev. Thos. Hughes, Linda Weiland of this place and Alfred McGurer of Mayfield. Congratulations.

Miss Nellie Rogers attended the funeral of Mrs. Adaline Valentine in Leroy on Tuesday last.

Mrs. Alvin Barnett is home again, also Mrs. A. Haus is back after wintering with her children.

Guests at "Evergreen Ha[illegible]" during the past week were the Misses Rogers, Greene, Knowlsley and G. W. Leuty.

UNIONVILLE

Miss Agnes Webb who works at the Madison home spent Sunday with her parents, Capt. and Mrs. Arthur Webb.

Miss Loretta Delling of Cleveland is visiting her brother, Rev. W. C. Delling.

Mildred and Vincent Morris spent the week end with relatives in Ashtabula.

Mr. Geo. Kelley is working for H. M. Rand in Madison.

Mr. Geo. Woodward is the new man behind the counter at E. L. Morris' store.

Miss Charlotte Gruver of Ashtabula was an over-Sunday guest of relatives here.

Miss Veta Miller is on the sick list.

Mrs. Amanda French, who has been very ill, is recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. Rob Lilseby and child of Conneaut were over-Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Martin.

Mrs. A. B. Wright and daughter, Martha, of Cleveland, spent last week at their farm here.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. P. Diamond on Sunday.

A very large and enthusiastic audience attended the concert given by the Olympia Ladies' Quartette at the Congregational church Friday evening. The concert was very fine and the ladies responded to many encores.

Mr. Frank Harper returned home from Big Prairie Saturday night. Mrs. Harper and little son, Theodore, returned with him Monday. Nile and Ora Harper will stay with their sister, Mrs. O. French, until school is out, when they will join their parents in Big Prairie.

Mrs. Showalter and sister, Miss Ethel Van Dyke, of Cleveland, were over Sunday guests of their aunt, Miss Josephine Whipple.

Rev. W. C. Delling went to Rock Creek on Tuesday to attend the meeting of Grand River Association of Congregational churches.

Mrs. Isham and Miss Louise Church were in town one day last week.

Mrs. J. O. Close of Dirard, Pa., was a recent guest of her mother, Mrs. Jo Darrow.

NORTH MADISON

Mr and Mrs L. S. Miller and little daughter of Painesville were Sunday guests of his mother, Mrs. Maria Miller and brother, J. R. Miller and family.

Edward Smith of Cleveland who formerly made his home with Mrs. Hattie Heywood was her guest recently.

Mr. Roy Burkholder of Willoughby was Sunday at the home of his parents.

Mrs. Carrie Billington and Mrs. Lottie Graves were Saturday shopping in Ashtabula.

Mrs. Lell Williams and Mrs. Bessie Williams were Sunday guests of Prof. J. R. Williams of Painesville.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Roff, Vere Foster and wife, also Mr. and Mrs. James Patchen were in Ashtabula Thursday attending the funeral of Mr. Patchen's brother. The burial was at Perry.

Miss Ina Miller of Willoughby arrived home Friday morning and was a guest until Monday morning at the home of her mother.

Miss Alma Graves of Cleveland was at home over Sunday.

Orrie Hickock of Painesville recently visited at the home of his mother, Mrs. Alice Hickock.

Mrs. John Shepperd of Cleveland has been a guest of her old neighbors and friends.

The team belonging to Lawrence Wheeler ran away Wednesday morning, on the Lake Road. They were hitched to a school hack, but fortunately there were no children in the hack at the time. They whirled in the yard of Mr. James Thompson and around the house finally getting caught among some trees. No damage was done only to the wagon.

Mrs. Kate Gogo returned to Ashtabula Thursday to the home of her son, Tom, who has met with an accident, injuring his foot quite badly.

Men have been working with tugs all week on the mud scow that came ashore last winter. They think it will soon be raised.

Mrs. L. A. Foster was Saturday in Geneva and Ashtabula. She was also a guest at the home of her son, E. J. Foster in Madison Friday and Saturday evenings.

Mrs. N. H. Crippen was in Painesville on business Friday, also to Cleveland. In her absence Mrs. Emma Hill spent the day with Mr. L. Oale who is at the Crippen home.

Mrs. Francis Winchester was united in marriage Thursday P. M. by Justice Lloyd Wyman, to Mr. Fred Montgomery of Geneva. They left that P. M. for Youngstown where Mr. Montgomery has a brother.

The L. A. S. met Thursday P. M. in the church parlors. A picnic supper was served.

Miss Ina Baker of Mentor has been a guest of North Madison friends.

The friends of Mrs. Adelia Cooper of Baraboo, Wisc., may be interested to hear she was united in marriage recently to Mr. Milton Newell and will reside at her own homestead. Her many friends here wish her much happiness in her new life.

Mrs. Harriet Palmer is not as well of late. She seems to be failing gradually.

Miss Treva Hill spent a day recently with her aunt, Mrs. Carrie Crippen.

Mrs. Henry Cone very pleasantly spent her birthday Wednesday evening by entertaining a large company of her friends. Refreshments were served and a pleasant time enjoyed.

The Ashtabula Way

Ashtabula will borrow $35,000 to pay its share of the new South Main street subway. This was finally decided upon at the meeting of the council Monday night when every member with the exception of Corrado voted in favor of a bond issue for this amount. Peck made the motion to suspend the rules which was seconded by Briggs.—Ashtabula Standard.

World Accepts One's Own Valuation.

Every man stamps his value on himself; the price we challenge for ourselves is given us.—Schiller.

LAKE COUNTY HERALD
HARTER & TUTTLE, Proprietors
PAINESVILLE, OHIO

IS MOST HYBRID OF WORDS

Remacadamizing Comes From Latin, Gaelic, Hebrew, Greek and Finally English.

The most hybrid word in the English language, according to Prof. A. F. Chamberlain of Clark university, is "remacadamizing." Prof. Clarke points out that this word is derived from five languages—Latin, Gaelic, Hebrew, Greek and English. He resolves it into five factors as follows:

1. re, a Latin prefix, signifying a repetition or doing over again.

2. mac, a Gaelic word for son, in common use as a prefix for genealogical purposes.

3. Adam, the representative in many European languages of the Hebrew name of the first man, according to the Mosaic account of the creation as given in the book of Genesis.

4. iz (or ize), the modern English representative, through the French, iser, of the Greek verbal terminal izein.

5. ing, the English suffix of the participle present, verbal noun, etc.

The root of the word "macadam" illustrates in another way the vitality of our English speech and its ability to draw new words into its vocabulary whenever the need arises. The term "macadam" is really the family name of the man, John Macadam, who in 1819 devised the now common method of paving roads with small broken stones, etc.

Celtic and Semitic had already combined to produce Macadam, meaning "son of Adam," which the English language then took up and further molded to suit its genius. There are many such hybrids but this is probably the worst.—Popular Science Monthly.

Songs of Day Before Yesterday.

We made up a catalogue recently of popular songs of the last two decades. Hardly was it set in type before those omitted began to swarm to memory. 'Shoo Fly' 'Don't Bother Me' might have been added to the old timers. There were "Put Me Off at Buffalo," "And Her Golden Hair Was Hanging Down Her Back," "On the Banks of the Wabash Far Away," "Rosie O'Grady," "Take Me Back, Back, Back to Baltimore," and "I'd Leave My Happy Home for You-oo-oo-oo-oo," "Goodby, Dolly Gray," "She Was Happy Till She Met You," "Bedalia," "Sammy," and "Teasing" had their intense and fleeting existence. Too popular to be overlooked were "Mr. Dooley," "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree," "Everybody Works but Father," "Waiting at the Church." Of the whole crop it seems as if all were transitory except "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."—Collier's Weekly.

Urges Farmers to Raise Fish

"There are signs that the time is not far distant," said William E. Meehan, former state commissioner of fisheries and present state director of the public aquarium in Fairmount Park "when farmers will consider fish culture as important a part of their calling as the raising of grain or potatoes or poultry. When that day arrives the fish industry of Pennsylvania will rank as high as any other industry.

"There are few farms in Pennsylvania without springs, a stream and swampy land of which no use is made and upon which the farmer pays taxes without any return. Most of the streams and the springs and the swamp land could be utilized for the rearing of fish. Under intelligent care an otherwise useless piece of wet land can be made to yield as much, acre for acre, as the most fertile land."—Philadelphia North American.

Stone Venus 20,000 Years Old.

Prof. Camile Juan read a paper at the last meeting of the French Academy of inscription describing the discovery in the Dordogne of the oldest known representation of the human form. The find was due to Dr. Lalanne, who has spent some time in excavating in the grottoes of Laussel. It consists of a piece of stone some 18 inches high, showing a low relief of a woman, and is estimated to be at least 20,000 years old. The figure has been named the "Laussel Venus." Scientists believe the work is of the Aurignacian epoch between the ages of the mammoth and the reindeer when the artist would have used sharpened flints as tools.

Thief Returns Gold Watch.

A gold watch was received at the Chicago postoffice in a box, with the following inscription:

"Please deliver to the chief of police of the city of Chicago."

The timepiece is believed to have been stolen and the thief remorse stricken, dropped the package in a mail box without postage.

Crystals in Yellow Pigment of Egg

Two German scientists have just isolated the yellow pigment from the yoke of the egg, the resultant being in the form of crystals. Investigations made into the chemical nature of this substance point to its being closely allied to the xanthophyll of withered leaves, which is formed from the chlorophyll. In this most important scientific study 6,000 hens eggs were simultaneously treated, and these have yielded only 62 grains of pure pigment.

Rivals in Boot and Shoe Trade.

The United Kingdom is the chief rival of the United States in the supplying of boots and shoes to the world. Her exports of boots and shoes are greater, both in number of pairs and value, than those of the United States, but the growth in her case is far less rapid than of this country.

Perfection in Crystals.

Crystals of sodium nitrate have been made in Paris so pure and perfectly formed that they can be used in optical instruments.

---

DESPERATE MEN ARE SHOT DOWN

AUTO ROBBERS WHO HAVE TERRORIZED PARIS FOR TWO YEARS KILLED BY POLICE.

GENDARMES USE DYNAMITE

Wreck Garage in Which Two Criminals Had Taken Refuge and Then Slay Offenders in Hand-to-Hand Encounter.

Paris, France.—After their lair had been wrecked by two terrific charges of dynamite, the bullets of police, detectives and gendarmes, advancing under cover of artillery having failed to dislodge them, Dubois, the world-famous anarchist, and Bonnot, the "Demon Chauffeur" of the "phantom death car" of the automobile bandits, who have terrorized Paris for two years, were shot dead in a hand-to-hand encounter in a small garage at Choisy Le Roi on the outskirts of Paris. The battle, which was the most sensational ever fought in France between police and hunted criminals, was witnessed by a crowd of more than 10,000 persons. The entire city has been thrown into an uproar of excitement by the conflict. Dubois was instantly killed by the advancing police after he had raised himself from the automobile tonneau in which he was hiding and fired his four last shots, and Bonnot was mortally wounded as he raised himself to fire from between two mattresses to which he had sought safety from the dynamite blasts. Two of the detectives participating in the fight were seriously wounded.

Police Surround Garage.

Bonnot within the past few months had become one of the most daring murderers in the criminal history of France. A score of robberies in the execution of many of which several persons were killed were planned by Bonnot. The bandits always escaped in a taxicab and it was Bonnot who piloted the machine from the clutches of the law. It became known that Bonnot and some of his gang were lurking at Choisy Le Roi, a township southeast of Paris and not far from Ivry. Finger prints left by Bonnot on an automobile by one of his gang enabled the police to confirm this information. At dawn six automobiles laden with detectives, led by M. Lepine, prefect of police and detectives under Chief of Detectives Guichard rushed to the suburb and surrounded a small garage which the two bandits had been seen to enter early in the morning. The garage was little more than a small shed. Local gendarmes were called out and all the neighboring dwellings were ordered evacuated. At 10 a. m. when the police were still busy with their preliminary operations a crowd of 5,000 persons had gathered. Fire lines were drawn to keep the throng outside the zone of danger. More than a hundred inhabitants of Choisy armed with shotguns volunteered their services and were accepted by M. Lepine. At 10:30 the first advance was made on the garage and the attacking party a moment later hastened back to cover before a rain of bullets fired from a small window in the front of the garage. Realizing that the bandits were making their last stand police operations were suspended until artillery from Vincennes could be requisitioned and a corps of army engineers hastened to the scene.

Shed Is Dynamited.

Another advance was made on the bandits' stronghold in the meantime but with the same result. The desperadoes were apparently equipped with an unlimited supply of ammunition and the way they used it showed that neither had been hit during the first attack. At noon the first charge of dynamite was placed in the rear of the garage, the police holding the attention of the bandits by firing at the shed from the front and priming the artillery guns as if to begin a bombardment. The blast exploded ten minutes later. It damaged the garage but not sufficiently to permit the police to rush it. Before the smoke had cleared away another charge had been set. As the fumes blew away debris fell in all directions. Windows in nearby buildings were shattered and the crowd, which now numbered at least 10,000, for a moment was panic-stricken. The police swarmed into the wreckage. No sign of life was noticeable until a form arose from the tonneau of a partly demolished automobile and a man subsequently identified as Dubois grazed the heads of the invaders with four bullets. A volley of shots answered his charge and he fell dead with a piercing shriek. Two large mattresses lying on the floor one on top of the other, were seen to move slightly and the police stood by with pointed revolvers. Suddenly throwing the top mattress Bonnot raised his gun to fire but was shot down.

Boys Held Not Guilty of Murder.

Bloomfield, Ind.—Edward and Ray Stibbings, who were on trial here for the murder of their father, George W. Stibbins last October were acquitted by a jury which reported at a special session of court.

Despite the injunction by Judge Henderson that there be no demonstration, the crowded court room cheered loudly when the verdict was read. The aged mother of the two boys, who was in court, said: "I knew that if we could get the truth before the jury I would take my boys home."

Fight Duel Over Women.

Philadelphia, Pa.—After an unsatisfactory fist fight over a woman with whom both were infatuated, John Larkins, 21, and Frank Roddy, 30, fought a duel with shotguns at Martine village, in which the former was killed and the latter mortally wounded. Neither man being able to gain the advantage with bare fists, Larkins suggested a settlement acording to the code duello and Roddy accepted. Going to their homes each man secured a shotgun and engaged a friend as a second and repaired to a field.

---

ENEMIES OF WEED IN RIOT

ZIONISTS AND FACTORY WORKERS ENGAGE IN BATTLE.

Four Men, Two of Them Elders, Are Seriously Hurt and Scores Receive Minor Bruises.

Zion City, Ill.—The anti-tobacco crusade of the Zionists against the factory workers reached the riot stage and in a pitched battle between the factions, four men, two of them elders, were seriously injured, two were placed under arrest and scores of men and women received minor injuries.

The followers of Wilbur Glen Voliva shun tobacco as they would a rattlesnake. Recently a number of large factories have located near Zion City and the workers insist on indulging in tobacco. The Zionists for the past week have been campaigning among the factory workers, urging them by prayers and song to give up the "filthy weed." Several minor disturbances have occurred. Signboards were erected facing the factory of the Cook Electric plant and the workers were plainly told in capital letters what the disciples of Voliva thought of tobacco users. Signboards were burned down.

Later a platform, surrounded by wire fencing, was erected near the factory entrance and the Voliva faction planned to hold a meeting at 5 p. m., when the tobacco users poured from the building.

Shortly before the hour set for the meeting 200 men and women, under the leadership of Elder F. M. Royal, marched through the streets of Zion to their temporary meeting place.

Acting under orders from Mayor Hiller, Chief of Police John Hoover, with a score of deputies, also marched to the meeting place. The first song was the signal for action.

"You will have to disperse," shouted Chief Hoover.

"We are on our own land and you have no right to interfere with us," was the defiance of the Volivaites.

"At 'em, men," commanded Chief Hoover.

The attacking party, reinforced by the workmen, headed for the fence that inclosed the temporary platform. The wires were cut. Some of the Volivaites fled, others remained to fight while still others calmly rear their Bibles.

But the free use of clubs in the hands of Chief Hoover and his men soon had its effect. The 200 were routed from their meeting place and headed toward the main part of town. The dozen elders on the platform soon followed. The platform was then torn down and the fence demolished.

ATTACKS HARVESTER COMBINE

Uncle Sam Seeks Dissolution of Company by Filing Civil Suit in the City of Minneapolis.

Washington, D. C.—A civil anti-trust suit seeking the dissolution of the International Harvester Co. under the Sherman law has been filed in St. Paul. This is the culmination of an investigation extending over five years.

During the past few months Attorney General Wickersham and counsel for the corporation have made strenuous efforts to agree upon a plan of disintegration which would meet the ends of the law. Their endeavors were futile and the problem will be fought out in the courts. The one insuperable obstacle was the refusal of the Harvester company to separate the McCormick and Deering harvesting machine companies, which are subsidiaries, in any plan of dissolution.

TWO DIE FOR WOMAN'S LOVE

One Blows Out His Brains, While the Other Ends Life When He Finds His Affection Unrequited.

Atlantic City, N. J.—Unrequited love caused Howard Fisher, 42, a visitor from Perryville, Md., to end his life here by gas in his apartment at the Hotel Netherland. Miss Edna M. Baier, 27, daughter of J. Leonard Baier, wealthy merchant, the woman in the case is prostrated over the affair.

Two years ago Clarence Albertson, a young lawyer and assistant county prosecutor, blew out his brains a few days before he was to have led Miss Baier to the altar.

Starving Woman Attempts Suicide

New York City.—Mrs. Mary Amalfi, whose family was facing starvation, attempted suicide by drinking a solution of oxalic acid.

Mrs. Amalfi told the police after a doctor had saved her life that her husband, a waiter, had been unable to obtain employment for the past four months and that most of their furniture having been pawned to buy medicine for their fifth baby, a girl born three months ago the family had been living on a loaf of stale bread a day for the last two weeks.

Kills Wife, Takes Own Life.

New York City.—Stricken with remorse after having cunningly planned to dispose of the body of his wife, whom he had strangled to death more than 60 hours before, Albert Debrahms, a musician with an international reputation, committed suicide in his apartment here. Mrs. Pauline Debrahms, 30, was the murdered woman's name. It was her beauty, friends of the couple say, which caused her husband to kill her. He was extremely jealous of her and she was equally jealous of him.

"Sailor Bill" Falls Dead.

Coshocton, O.—William Barker, who was known as "Sailor Bill" throughout Eastern Ohio, dropped dead at Helmick, aged 75. He was born in England, but ran away from home when 12 years old, sailing around the world eight times. Barker contended that he was heir to an estate in Hull, England, worth $1,000,000. C. W. and C. L. Henderson, lawyers of Hammond, Ind., and Canton, O., declare he had a valid claim, which probably would have been proved this summer.

---

ISMAY TESTIFIES BEFORE PROBERS

PUTS BLAME FOR THE TITANIC DISASTER ON ASSOCIATES AND EMPLOYES.

READS 'YAMSI' TELEGRAMS

Managing Director of White Star Line Makes Many Admissions and Denials While Facing the Senate Investigators.

MACKAY-BENNETT PICKS UP 306 BODIES.

The result of the Mackay-Bennett voyage for the recovery of bodies of Titanic victims is summarized as follows:

Number of Titanic dead brought to Halifax, 190.

Number of identified dead brought to Halifax, 130.

Unidentified dead at morgue, 60.

Identified dead buried at sea, 57.

Unidentified dead buried at sea, 59.

Total dead buried at sea, 116.

Adding 190 dead brought to port and 116 buried at sea, total dead found by Mackay-Bennett, 306.

---*-

Halifax, N. S.—Owing to a conflict of wireless messages, some of which contradicted others and were misunderstood by Captain Lardner, 116 bodies of Titanic victims were buried at sea by mistake. With very few exceptions, perhaps less than ten, the bodies consigned to ocean graves were as well preserved as the 190 brought here when the cableship docked at the navy yard after days of suspense and disappointing delays. These facts have been obtained by the writer on indisputable authority. The discovery that 116 had been committed to the deep and 190 brought ashore shows for the first time that the Mackay-Bennett recovered 306 instead of 205 as had been reported from time to time in desultory telegrams.

---*-

Washington, D. C.—After applying to himself a thick coat of whitewash Mr. J. Bruce Ismay was released from the technical custody of the United States senate and departed from Washington. Mr. Ismay's testimony which he has just completed scattered the blame for the Titanic disaster among half a dozen of his associates and employes.

Public Not Informed.

He admitted that the public was not informed of the sinking of the Titanic until Monday night, but he swore that he sent out the news himself at 8 o'clock that morning. That put the blame on the Marconi Co.

He admitted that he had received a warning of ice Sunday. But he said the captain also got it and the captain alone was responsible for not heeding it.

He admitted that he had occupied the surgeon's stateroom on the Carpathia to the exclusion of the passengers on his line, but he said the surgeon practically forced him into the room and kept him there.

He admitted wiring for the removal of the lifeboats of the Titanic at Quarantine, but he said he did this on the order of the captain of the Carpathia.

He admitted trying to hold the Cedric for his departure, but he said no one had told him there was to be an inquiry by the senate.

Exercised No Influence.

He admitted that he had general control of the great International Mercantile Marine, but he denied that he exercised or attempted to exercise any influence over the captain or the crew of the Titanic at any time.

He denied that he had done anything to justify the "horrible accusation" of trying to reinsure the Titanic after she had sunk, he denied that he asked any preference in sending of dispatches from the Carpathia, he denied that he was responsible for the fact that his ship did not have aboard lifeboats enough for one-third of her passengers.

Asked how he happened to leave the ship, he said: "It was the last boat to leave; I felt the ship was sinking and I got into the boat."

Officer Lightoller's romance about Ismay's being driven into the boat by Chief Officer Wilde was too fanciful even for the managing director. He denied it absolutely.

Reads "Yamsi" Telegrams.

Ismay made no apparent effort at concealment. He read all the "Yamsi" telegrams himself. He offered to give the committee all the information in the company's possession.

But when the last question was asked and smiling he shook hands with the chairman and started for his train he had not explained why as chief owner of the line he left a ship on whose decks as Colonel Gracie afterwards described it, "was a great crowd of frantic men and women, swarming from below just ahead of the water that surged up to the boat," leaving them to fight and struggle for their lives and finally lose them in the maelstrom that whirled over the sinking vessel.

The Ismay testimony occupied most of the morning and afternoon sessions but it was largely a repetition of his story told to the committee in New York.

Three Die as Train Hits Auto

Chicago, Ill.—Three persons were killed and two seriously injured on the Illinois Central railroad tracks at North Riverside, a suburb, when an automobile was struck by the engine of a passenger train.

Those killed were Robert Puffer, 25 years old, and wife and Mrs. C. M. Sebree.

The injured are H. E. Puffer, salesman for the Studebaker Co., and father of Robert Puffer, and W. V. Logan, salesman for the Studebaker Co.

Aged Rope Skipper Falls Dead.

Toledo, O.—"Come on, grandma, show us how you used to skip the rope when you were a girl," said the grandchildren of Mrs. Urania Champion, 78, of Holland, when she arrived at Maumee to visit her daughter, Mrs. Patrick Dunn.

Mrs. Champion took the rope from the children and began to jump at a fast gait. The children clapped their hands. Suddenly Mrs. Champion staggered, then fell. She was dead in a few minutes. The unaccustomed exercise had brought on heart failure.

---

TEDDY WINS IN MISSOURI

ROOSEVELT CAPTURES EIGHT DELEGATES-AT-LARGE.

Taft Supporters Meet After Convention Adjourns and Name Contesting Delegation.

St. Louis, Mo.—Gov. Herbert S. Hadley and his friends swung the Missouri states Republican convention for Colonel Roosevelt after a 24-hour deadlock, in which the Taft leaders finally were driven to surrender.

Eight delegates-at-large to the national Republican convention, all Roosevelt men and all instructed for him, were elected after two Taft leaders had been elected and then had resigned their places on the Missouri delegation when the convention voted instructions for Roosevelt.

The convention will go down in the annals of Missouri politics as one of the most stubborn and dramatic fights in the history of the state Republican organization.

Mayor Frederick H. Kreismann of St. Louis and Charles D. Morris of St. Joseph, the latter chairman of the state committee, were the Taft leaders who were elected and who resigned as delegates-at-large when the state convention voted to instruct the delegation for Roosevelt.

In making their resignations they charged violation of a "gentlemen's agreement," by which they declared the Roosevelt managers had assured them that the delegates-at-large would be uninstructed.

Governor Hadley replied to the declarations of Mayor Kreismann and Chairman Morris in this connection by asserting that he had not been a party to any so-called "gentlemen's agreement."

The eight delegates-at-large, each with a one-half vote, follow:

Gov. Herbert S. Hadley, Jesse Tolerton of Bronson, Walter S. Dickey of Kansas City, Fred Essen of Clayton, John H. McNeeley of St. Joseph, John W. Tippin of Springfield and Alfred H. Spear of Chamois.

After the adjournment of the convention, a small number of Taft supporters met in a hotel and named four delegates-at-large to the national convention.

Memphis, Tenn.—Two sets of delegates to the national convention, both instructed for Taft, were elected by opposing factions at the Republican convention of the Tenth congressional district of Tennessee.

REWARDED FOR BRAVE DEEDS

Thirty-five Heroes and Heroines Are Remembered by Carnegie Commission at Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Carnegie hero commission has just made thirty-five awards to heroes and heroines. To date there has been 8,230 applications, 6,454 have been rejected and there are 1,138 pending. Of the last awards eight were to Ohio people, ten to Massachusetts, three to Illinois, six to Texas, two to Virginia, one to Pennsylvania, and two to Colorado. To date Massachusetts leads the list of heroes by a large margin and a majority of the lifesaving was done in the water.

FARMER IS BLOWN TO PIECES

Wealthy Man and Two Little Sons Caught by Premature Explosion of Dynamite.

Montpelier, Ind.—George Gaskill, a wealthy farmer living four miles east of here, was blown to pieces and his son, Ralph, 9, was fatally injured when a quantity of dynamite which the farmer had been using to blast stumps, exploded prematurely. Another son, Russell, 6, was severely injured, but will recover. The boys were watching their father work when the explosion came. Ralph's legs were blown off and he was injured about the face and head.

The younger boy was cut and bruised.

GENERAL GRANT IS BURIED

Interment at West Point With Full Military Honors After Services at Governor's Island.

West Point, N. Y.—Gen. Frederick Dent Grant, late commander of the department of the east, was buried here with full military honors April 28.

The last services over the body of the dead general were simple in the extreme. An army chaplain offered a short eulogy, a salute of 13 volleys was fired and the body was lowered into its last resting place, an underground reinforced concrete vault.

The funeral services were held in the chapel at Governor's Island in the morning. Then the mahogany coffin was placed on an artillery caisson and taken to South Ferry, and from there by train to West Point.

Buckeye Man Is Honored.

New York City.—Elbert H. Baker, publisher of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, was elected president of the American Newspaper Publishers association at their annual election here. Benjamin Bridgman of the Brooklyn Standard-Union was re-elected vice president and J. S. Bryan of the Richmond (Va.) News-Leader, secretary. W. J. Patterson of the New York Evening Post was re-elected treasurer. H. L. Rogers of the Chicago Daily News was elected a member of the board of directors.

Girl Knocks Out Opponent.

Saginaw, Mich.—In a private gymnasium, fitted up in one of the most prominent residences in Flint, with only one woman and a man as referee present, Myrtle Haverc, 19, of Flint knocked out Mabel Williams, 22, of Grand Rapids in the seventh round of a scheduled ten-round fight and won the girls' championship of Michigan. The two fought with eight-ounce gloves and under straight Queensberry rules. Friends of the winner picked her up on their shoulders.

---

NECK-AND-NECK RACE IN BAY STATE

TAFT AND TEDDY RECEIVE ALMOST EQUAL VOTE, ACCORDING TO INCOMPLETE RETURNS.

CLARK BEATS OUT WILSON

President Wins in Boston, But Smaller Towns Overcome Lead and Place Roosevelt Along Side of His Opponent.

Boston, Mass.—Taft leaders at a late hour conceded that Roosevelt had captured the eight delegates-at-large from Massachusetts. The outcome of the fight for the 28 district delegates will, however, be in doubt several hours. Returns now indicate that Taft will get two delegates in the First congressional district and two in the Second, while Roosevelt will get two in the Fourth. Returns from 711 out of 1,080 election precincts gave Republican preferences:

La Follette, 1,330.
Roosevelt, 43,483.
Taft, 48,239.
Delegates-at-large: Baxter (heading Roosevelt group), 45,441; Crane (heading Taft group), 40,030.

---*-

Boston, Mass.—Returns from presidential primaries held throughout the state were so incomplete at a late hour that it was impossible to say whether Taft or Roosevelt had captured the majority of the 36 delegates from Massachusetts to the national convention.

With only half the state tabulated the two aspirants for nomination were running neck and neck for presidential preference, while incomplete returns showed that they had also an equal division of district delegates.

Returns from 550 out of 1,080 election precincts gave:

Republican preferences:
La Follette, 766.
Roosevelt, 29,894.
Taft, 30,035.
Delegates-at-large: Baxter (heading Roosevelt group), 30,814; Crane (heading Taft group), 26,349.
Democratic preferences:
Clark, 19,706.
Wilson, 8,597.
Delegates at large: Coughlin (pledged to Foss), 18,419; Williams (for primary preference), 6,426.

The 11 congressional districts reported that meager returns appeared to indicate that Taft would carry about six. Taft delegates were known to have been elected in the Eleventh district. Taft was leading in the First, Second, Third, Tenth and Twelfth. Roosevelt was leading in all others except the Eighth and the Thirteenth. In the Eighth the vote at a late hour was tied. There were no returns from the Thirteenth.

In the state at large the preference vote for the precincts heard from gave Colonel Roosevelt 902 plurality, but his leading candidate for delegate had 11,650 and Senator Crane, who headed the Taft candidates, only 8,851.

Complete returns from the city of Boston gave Republican preferences:

La Follette, 219.
Roosevelt, 10,651.
Taft, 11,262.
Delegate-at-large: Baxter (heading Roosevelt group), 10,913; Crane (heading Taft group), 10,078.
Democratic preferences:
Clark, 11,300.
Wilson, 5,870.

The race between President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt which, on the showing on the preference of voters was a neck-and-neck affair for several hours, absorbed so much attention that the long lead of Speaker Clark over Gov. Woodrow Wilson was almost forgotten.

Clark swept the state by a vote of more than two to one. The full 36 votes of Massachusetts will be cast for the Missourian in the national Democratic convention at Baltimore.

Wilson Captures Delaware.

Dover, Del.—Woodrow Wilson captured the Democratic state convention here. Six delegates to the national convention were elected who will support him.

The delegates were not formally instructed. A unit rule was adopted, however, whereby they "are instructed to vote together on all matters before the convention in accordance with the wish of a majority of the delegation."

This was forced through by Willard Saulsbury, national committeeman, in Wilson's interest.

New Hampshire for Taft.

Concord, N. H.—New Hampshire Republicans climbed into the Taft bandwagon, the state convention which chose four delegates-at-large to Chicago instructing them to vote for the president until released. The four district delegates have already been instructed for Taft.

Some of the Taft men objected to sending the delegation with iron-clad instructions, but when it came to a line-up the Roosevelt men, who supported this contention, were defeated by the regulars.

Engineers' Strike Averted.

New York City.—The threatened strike of the engineers of 50 railroads was averted by the signing of an arbitration agreement between the two committees representing the railroads and the engineers. The arbitration committee will consist of seven members, one from the railroads, one from the engineers and the other five to be appointed by the two. If the two fail to agree on the five umpires, Chief Justice White, Commissioner of Labor Neill and Judge Knapp will be asked to make the appointments.

Steamship Sinks, 77 Die.

London, England.—Lloyd's agent at Smyrna cables that the steamship Texas of the Archipelago-American Steamship Co., bound from Smyrna to Mytilene, struck a torpedo at the entrance to Smyrna bay and was totally destroyed, 77 out of the ship's party of 140 being missing, while many of the rescued were badly injured.

The Texas was flying the Turkish flag and was carrying mail from Constantinople to the Levant.

The bay of Smyrna was extensively mined to keep out the Italian fleet.

---

THE QUIET HOUR

Basis of Worldly Happiness in Right Mind and Heart

By REV. E. P. MARVIN

A PROFESSOR in Princeton Theological seminary astonished us by saying that "nine-tenths of the happiness or misery of home life depends on temper."

Good temper is a sweet, kindly and benevolent disposition of mind and heart. It inclines us to be satisfied and pleased with the treatment we receive in the relative duties of life. It is an eminent and a comprehensive Christian grace.

"Be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you."

Good temper is a permanent state of mind and heart, back of thought and action. It is a consistent disposition to be pleased and to think well of others. It makes one sweet, cheerful and easy to get along with, so that we are satisfied with the surroundings and treatment, most of the time. If we have a good Christian temper we can find enough around us to make us contented and happy most of the time. Put on a smile and go out into the streets and see how many responsive smiles it will beget. The world looks bright from behind a smile.

What are we to think of those who always "live in the worst place in the world?" We can find friends anywhere if we show ourselves friendly. A bee sucks honey where spiders suck poison. Do not be irritable and do not irritate others. Avoid the weak and sore spot in your neighbors and imitate the magnetic rather than the nettle.

Seek Only the Truth.

Open your eyes to the truth, the beautiful and the good around you, and see if you cannot be sweet. If you carry a shoulder bag with the faults of others in front and your own behind, just turn it around. Forget self in your absorbing appreciation of others and your devotion to their welfare. Imitate him who "came not to be ministered unto, but to minister." The noblest man is the servant of all, according to Christ.

"Peace and good will toward men" will make us unwilling to believe evil reports or to circulate them. Madam Rumor is a liar and we should be slow to believe her reports, which are false or distorted. Her stories grow marvelously. We should be very credulous of good reports and incredulous of evil reports, especially concerning good people.

"Trifles light as air" are to the scandalmonger "confirmations strong as proofs of Holy Writ." Some one says, "For embittering life, for breaking up communities, for destroying the most sacred relationships, for devastating homes, for withering up men and women, for taking the bloom of childhood, in short, for sheer gratuitous misery-producing power, this influence stands alone." Life and death are in the power of an ill-tempered and uncontrolled tongue. It "outvenoms all the worms of Nile." More fall by the tongue than by the sword. Is it not well to follow the example of medical doctors—examine the tongue? Read the scathing satire of St. James on the tongue, chapter 3: 1-10. "Behold how great a matter a little fire kindleth." A friction tongue, like a friction match, may set a city on fire. "The hand that kindles cannot quench the flame." "But I take it all back." You cannot take it all back. The assassin takes his dagger back from the heart, but not its deadly work.

All of us have suffered enough to appreciate this. "A lie will travel from coast to coast while truth is putting on its boots." Whosoever circulates scandal should be held responsible, like those who circulate base coin. Do not let any one make your ear a sewer for scandal. A dog that brings a bone will carry a bone.

Forgetfulness for Wrongs.

Be radical concerning right and wrong, but be wise and amiable. Be open for explanations that may palliate evil. A mistake is not a lie, and eccentricity is not sin. Cultivate the grace of forgetfulness for all wrongs and remembrance for all kindness, and so make memory a fount of joy and not of tears. Suppose some one does not like you very well, probably you like yourself too well. Take care of your character, and let God take care of your reputation. Live the lie down.

A man basely slandered showed such good nature and even joy, that he had to explain himself by saying, "I am so glad it is not true!" Learn from an enemy where your faults are. Do not chase scandal. If you try to talk it down or retaliate, you may be like the bird that rushes to put out the fire kindled by the hunter for a snare, and only fans it to consume her. Return good for evil and you got more than "even." If the report is true, confess it, and forsake the sin. If false, pray to be kept from it. If influential, expect criticism. Only characterless people escape censure. Birds peck at the fairest fruit. The best apple tree on my way to school in childhood was all but clubbed to death. The woe of the Gospel is upon you if all men speak well of you; and benediction if you are reviled and persecuted. Always forgive, never retaliate, and never ask an apology. Do not ask what people say about you. Respect God's judgment first, that of conscience next, and of the world last. Do not stumble at a straw and forsake your church and your God.

Let the benefits you receive be engraved on marble tablets, never to be effaced. Let injuries only be written in sand, to be washed out by the first wave of passing time. "Be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you."

---

The Lost Treasures of the Spanish Main

Gold and Jewels Still Waiting to be Found by Some Modern Adventurer

By Buffington Phillips

COPYRIGHT BY THE RIDGWAY CO

BILLIONS of dollars' worth of treasure lie today where men of the past centuries have lost or buried it. History teems with accounts of sacks of cities, caches of the stolen treasure-troves concealed from invaders, millions hidden by pirates and buccaneers, wonderful mines of gold or silver found and then lost, and treasure-ships sunk in shallow waters.

Little of it has ever been recovered; the average man prefers to work for a few dollars a week.

But the history of the hundreds of treasures, some of them well known and rich in narrative, some of them but vaguely chronicled, is something of absorbing interest to the man with the true spirit of adventure in his blood.

More gold and silver was produced from the newly discovered Western Hemisphere by the early Spanish and Portuguese adventurers than the world had ever known in its history. The Spanish Main reeked with it. The Indians, from Mexico to Peru, had so much that they had no use for it. Shipload after shipload went to England, Spain and Portugal. Pirates and privateers raided the ports and the galleons. Governors often cached the treasures of a city to save them from the raiders, bishops and priests hid the wonderful solid gold altars, railings, vessels and so forth, to keep them safe. Often the governor was slain or captured, perhaps removed, and in many cases the clerics suffered similar fates.

Hundreds of millions have been recovered, but the sums remaining unfound are so vast as to be staggering.

It is of those unrecovered or only partially recovered that I write, giving all the facts that I have been able to find, hoping to start the seekers on to the quests. Some of it seems so easily recoverable that one could go and almost lay one's hands on it; more of it would require patient effort, digging, draining, diving, searching; still other portions will be found only by the rarest chance as the clues are too vague.

There is one astounding store of gold the history of which is so clear and definite and the obstacles to recovery so slight that I will state its claims first.

On the Cundinamarca plateau in the Republic of Colombia is a little pond a quarter of a mile across. In the exact center of this pond superstitious Indians dropped gold in fiber bags in such quantities that [illegible] run up to hundreds of millions, perhaps seven billion dollars worth. One chief dropped [illegible] pounds in one day to save the life of a sick daughter, and the votive process went on uninterruptedly for hundreds of years. It is easy to see how stupendous the treasure must be and how difficult to estimate accurately.

The bulk of the definite information concerning the lake comes from the journal of Fray Pedro Simon, a Jesuit missionary who dwelt among the Chibcha Indians near the lake for many years and witnessed the one incident cited.

At the time of the conquest the lake was called Guatavita, "Caretaker of Life." The Indians believed that in the lakes and springs dwelt the sub deities, and all the tribes in northern South America believed that in this wonderful little pool, with its clear cold springs and beautiful shores, dwelt the deity, who had power to save and heal. Gold was to be found everywhere. Its sole use was for decoration and religious or superstitious offerings.

Even today they still hide the secrets of the deposits, appearing in the towns with little leaf baskets the bottoms of which are covered with gold, which they use to buy all the print-cloths, arms, food and baubles that make up their simple needs; then they go away to their huts in the mountains. When the Spaniards first came the Indians laughed to find the white men so eager for what they deemed of so little value. But when they saw the white men killing and torturing their brothers, wives and children they grew silent and ever since have hidden all their knowledge of gold among themselves. An Indian who leads the way to an Indian mine signs his own death-warrant.

Fray Pedro Simon's account of the lake says that it was one of a chain, that it was so small that two fiber ropes could be stretched across it, marking it into quarters. They crossed in the exact center. Rafts were moored on shore, and the Indians coming from afar laden with gold would heap it on these rafts in fiber and skin bags, use the ropes to guide the rafts to the center and then throw in the gold, an old and sacred man of the tribe or family reciting invocations to the spirit of the lake.

What I have related has been common property among men interested in treasure-seeking, and parts of the facts have been printed both in America and England, but this is the first time that all the known facts have been given. There is today on the plateau a lake called Guatavita, but it does not answer Fray Pedro Simon's description.

On the 15th of April, 1643, there set sail from what is now Colon the Spanish galleon Santa Marta, commanded by a master-at-arms called El Tigre de Joasco, and bearing vice-governor Hernando Arojas y Alencon, with a considerable company of wounded and fever-broken Spanish soldiers, a scattering of priests and some business travelers.

She was headed for Cadiz and Vigo. Her cargo was almost entirely gold to the value of about $25,000,000.

It was not supposed that any one aboard was aware that there was anything extraordinarily valuable aboard, except the master, Governor Arojas, and two priests of the ship's company. Some one organized a mutiny among the returning soldiers and sailors and, while the ship was heavily armed to defend herself against pirates or privateers, she was very easily taken over by her own crew some time during the first week out.

Two boatloads of prisoners were abandoned on the sandy shore of the palisadoes off the harbor of Kingston, Jamaica, but El Tigro de Joasco and Governor Arojas were not among them, and somewhere in the chinks of history their fate has slipped through and been lost.

The marooned people were very quickly picked up by small boats and landed in Kingston and a little privateer by the name of Warbington hurried in pursuit. The record of what transpired during the chase and the fight is not clear—is even too vague to be pertinent, but a month later Warbington sailed into what is now New York harbor and reported that he had fought the Santa Marta twice and been worsted, but had followed her to the Windward Passage, as it is now known, and north to the islands now bearing the name Fortune Islands, given them by reason of this very happening.

Here the crew cached the treasure, as they could not enter any important port and account for themselves and could not enter a small port and dispose of their hoard. It is positive that in these islands the cache was made, because when the Santa Marta reached Puerto el Principe shortly thereafter she was discharged. In the Fortune Islands was the only place she could have sent the treasure ashore.

The governor of Puerto el Principe was about to arrest the crew on suspicion of their having committed piracy, when they put to sea, and later the hulk, burned to the water's edge, was found near Cape Maysi. The men were never heard of, but, as they were quarreling and fighting among themselves in Puerto el Principe, it is logical to suppose that there was a second mutiny with much bloodshed, that the ship was fired and that those who did not jump into the sea were burned to death.

Two other galleons were robbed that same year by mutinous crews, but the treasures were safely landed by the mutineers, one crew at Lisbon and the other at Oenoa. These must not be confused with the Santa Maria affair.

The Fortune Islands are quite small, are inhabited almost solely by Bahama blacks, are almost out of touch with the world, though but four days' sail from New York and one from Nassau or Havana. From the charts it may be seen that there is but one spot where the Santa Marta could have anchored to put ashore so heavy a cargo, and there ought to be little difficulty in locating the cache on the low-lying island. So far as I know, there has never been any attempt made at recovery.

There are many, many alluring sunken treasures on both coasts. Many of these are so familiar as to need but the merest mention.

Large sums and great effort have been expended to recover the millions in California gold of the old Golden Gate, definitely located on the Mexican coast.

Admiral Francis Drake's Marigold carried the bulk of his spoils up to the time of her loss on the west coast near Piedranegra.

In 1697 Admiral De Pontis with a combined fleet of royal ships and colonial privateers, attacked, captured and sacked Cartagena and departed in two sections, the last ships being the treasure-bearers. They were intercepted by the English and one was blown up by a shot into her magazine and sank in the harbor, another went ashore near by, and a third was beached on Cisne Cay. To recover the treasure, location can be effected through a study of the British admiralty records, and at least one of the three should lie in shallow water.

The so-called Captain George H. Boynton, by all odds the greatest adventurer of modern times, would have made the records of Drake, Morgan and De Ruyter look pale and sickly had he lived in the good old days. Until his death in Brooklyn some months ago at an advanced age he carried the knowledge of a number of treasure-troves, the richest of which is an unnamed galleon in a Venezuela harbor.

Before leaving the subject of the buccaneers, another sunken treasure should be cited. In 1686 a Captain Phipps of the British navy learned of a sunken buccaneer vessel with a great treasure aboard on the shore or near the Tortugas and was sent by James II of England to effect recovery. He found the treasure, removed only a part of it and then sailed away owing to the approach of two Spanish men-o'-war. He was about to return when the revolution of 1688 broke out and he was deterred. In the admiralty archives are all details of this uncompleted task. What was easy for Captain Phipps should be still easier with modern methods.

For the past twenty years Mexican antiquarians have been expecting the announcement of the finding of a vast treasure in the State of Puebla. The third royal Spanish viceroy after Cortez succeeded in torturing from the chiefs of a tribe in Jalisco the secrets of the hiding places of all of the tribal store of gold and silver, and by great efforts brought it to Tacuba, where it was concealed during a period when the suzerainty of New Spain was more or less uncertain. A dummy treasure-train was organized and started for Vera Cruz, and the word went forth that it carried the treasure. Some weeks later the real treasure-train of one hundred and eighty mules set out with only the usual small guard.

In some way the word got abroad, and the train was attacked by a mixed force of adventurers and Indians at a point within sight of the white tops of Popocatepetl and Ixtaccihuatl. The defenders of the treasure succeeded in escaping with the loss of five mules and their burdens, but while passing through a gorge on the route of the old trail, now followed more or less closely by the Mexican railroad, they decided it was best to cache the treasure.

A cave in the gorge was chosen and three hundred and twenty bags of gold and silver, containing several million dollars' worth, depending on how much more gold there was than silver, were stored away, while the train preceeded to Orizaba. Some fifteen miles from the site of the present town the same band again attacked the train and killed nearly all the guard. Since the development of the region in which the cave must lie has begun, its discovery is only a matter of time, and it might be effected with comparative ease. There cannot be many gorges, and caves are not frequent. The chances for finding the right one are rather strong. It has never been attempted.

No small spot on the face of the earth has been so productive of treasure-hunting adventure as Cocos Island off the coast of Costa Rica.

The west coast pirate Bonita before his death insisted that he had planted more than two million dollars in gold, silver, jewels and plate on the island, but his specific directions were lost by his ignorant executioners.

A party of Mexican political refugees, several of them of the famous Romero family or its connections, fleeing from the wrath of Santa Anna in 1848, planted under a stone arch on the island more than one million dollars, the revolutionary fund with which they expected to gain control of the government.

The third treasure is the greatest and most important. There is a little doubt as to whether it is located on Cocos or is in the Galapagos group off the coast of Peru. The traditions all say the latter place, but after a digest of all sources of information I am convinced that Cocos is the spot.

Among the smaller treasures of which there is record it is well to mention the seven large cannon filled with gold pieces by the pirate Villazor and buried on an island at the very southernmost part of the Bay of Campeachy, the reported cache on the top of the eminence immediately north of the city of Santiago de Cuba, to be reached only by a difficult trail starting in near Dos Caminos, the mysterious and probably non-existent Havana municipal treasure, said to have been assembled at the time of the English attack and concealed within the ramparts of Morro Castle so effectually that it was never found again.

---

Rapacious Pike

The pike's reputation for cruelty and voraciousness is such that it has been popularly dubbed the "water wolf." It is probable, however, that many species of sea fish are equally, if not a great deal more, rapacious.

Large dogfish, congers, pollack, cod, and bass are especially ferocious, while halibut, will very often seize and kill other large fish. An English angler was "playing" a large conger when a huge halibut swam up to and savagely bit at it—a proceeding that cost the halibut its own life for on its making for the wounded conger a second time the boatman contrived to gaff and haul it aboard.

There have been many examples of pike being found dead, choked by their own species, and these fish not infrequent attack another pike that has been hooked by a fisherman.

True Specific.

Here at last is the cure for seasickness for which decksloads and cabinloads of pale and helpless sufferers have been waiting, lo! these many years.

Select a large tree, preferably an elm or a maple with low-hanging branches, a lilac or even a gooseberry bush will suffice.

Lie full length in a hammock on the shady side, or, if the grass is tall, a hammock is unnecessary.

Place the right hand under the back of the head—be sure not to place it on the forehead—and shift your position so as to keep in the shade.

Whenever you feel an attack of seasickness coming on while on shipboard, ask the captain to let you off, and find the necessary ingredients to fill this prescription.

Clip this and paste it in your hat. Otherwise, you may not be able to remember it when you need it.—Chicago Evening Post.

---

SOCIALISTS NAME EDITOR FOR GOV.

C. E. RUTHENBERG, OF CLEVELAND SOCIALIST, WILL HEAD STATE TICKET.

WOMEN ARE ALSO NOMINATED

Despite the Fact That Ohio Has Not Accorded Equal Suffrage, Six Ladies are Among Those Nominated by the Party for the Various State Offices. Vigorous Campaign Will be Waged this Fall.

Columbus.—C. E. Ruthenberg, editor of the Cleveland Socialist, will head the Socialist state ticket this fall. He was nominated for governor on the third ballot by the Socialist state convention, in session at the Federation of Labor hall.

Albert Polwell of East Liverpool was nominated for lieutenant governor.

On the first ballot the following vote was cast for candidates for the nomination for governor: C. E. Ruthenberg, Cleveland, 32; Harry D. Thomas, Cleveland, 24; Max Hayes, Cleveland, 16; George Storck, Lorain, 16; Thomas Clifford, Cleveland, 15; Dr. D. R. Kinsell, Columbus, 11; Ivan Harris, Canal Dover, 4; William Bessmer, Cleveland, 3.

On the second ballot all but the four leaders were eliminated. Ruthenberg got 44, Hayes 19, Storck 23, and Thomas 35.

On the third ballot Hayes and Storck were dropped, and Ruthenberg defeated Thomas 65 to 60.

The names were placed in nomination without speech making Saturday morning for candidates for governor and other state offices. Rev. Frederick Guy Strickland, chairman of Saturday's session, would not permit speeches or even mention who the candidates were as they were being nominated.

Allen Cook of Canton; Scott Wilkins, Socialist mayor of St. Marys; William Patterson of Toledo and Strickland of Dayton, nominated for governor, declined.

Clash Over Women

The names of six women were placed in nomination notwithstanding the fact that women are ineligible to hold office in Ohio. They were: For auditor of state, Josephine Bates, Toledo; for state school commissioner, Mrs. G. A. Storck of Lorain; Mrs. Mary Kuhn of Findlay and Mrs. Anna Swan of Canton, for clerk of supreme court; Miss Anna Maley, Columbus, for elector; Miss Lotta Burke of Cincinnati.

Frank Prevey of Akron, whose wife is a member of the state executive committee and a delegate to the National Socialist convention, advised against the nomination of the women because, he said, the secretary of state would not permit their names to go on the ballot and the party finally would be compelled to name men to fill their places.

Prevey's speech brought a reply from Miss Burke, who called attention to the fact that a proposal to enfranchise women would soon go before the voters of Ohio, and who said the women might be entitled to hold office before the next election. In order to avoid complications, it is likely that the women will not be nominated.

Many For Congress

Harry D. Thomas, constitutional delegate, was placed in nomination for congressman-at-large along with James Henderson, president of the Columbus Federation of Labor, E. L. Hitchens of Cincinnati, a prominent labor union man, Bert Nichols of Mansfield and Hiler D. Moore, constitutional delegate from Zanesville. Moore's name was later withdrawn when it was brought out that he was not nominated for constitutional delegate by the Socialist party, but by the Grangers' organization. He is a Socialist, however.

LIVED WITH NECK BROKEN

Fell Through Elevator Shaft Three Stories—Body Was Discovered by Clerk.

Columbus.—After displaying a most remarkable vitality in the face of injuries which included a broken neck and internal injuries of a serious nature, Gwendolyn D. Rose, aged nineteen, who fell three stories through the elevator shaft at the hardware store of Cussins & Fearn, 4850 West Spring street. Her death occurred in 19 hours at the Protestant hospital, where she was taken by the police ambulance shortly after Frank Hott, shipping clerk, discovered the body at the bottom of the elevator shaft.

WOMEN JOIN STRIKERS.

Canton.—A hundred women armed with clubs joined male strikers and went to the rescue of Mrs. J. Gomboni when special officers arrested her on a charge of being an agitator in the Metropolitan Bark company's strike. A riot followed, in which the officers opened fire. The mob returned the fire and wounded a Cleveland private detective. The officers put Mrs. Gomboni into an automobile and escaped to the city prison. Local police made 31 arrests.

ALLEGHENY WINS FUND.

Meadville.—Enthusiasm ran high over the successful closing of the endowment campaign which brings Allegheny College an additional $500,000. The general education board of New York offered to give the college $100,000 for additional endowment in celebration of her 100th anniversary on the condition that the college raise $400,000 before April 24. Meadville raised over $30,000 and the students nearly $4,000. This places college out of debt.

---

BANOSTINE BELLE DE KOL

Queen of Dairy World.

NEW QUEEN OF THE DAIRY.

Banostine Belle De Kol Holds Record as Producer of Butter-Fat.

East Claridon.—With a record of 1,058.34 pounds of butter fat produced in one year, Banostine Belle De Kol, a five-year-old Holstein Friesian cow owned by Dan Dimmick & Bro., East Claridon, Ohio, becomes the new "Queen of the Dairy World." This wonderful cow produced during the year 27,404.4 pounds of milk testing 3.86 per cent fat. This means over nine gallons of milk per day, or enough to supply 37 families each with one quart of milk daily. If made into butter, her fat production would equal 1,322.925 pounds of butter, or over three and one-half pounds per day for 365 days. This is all the more remarkable because it was made without her being dry at all before freshening. No other cow in the world has ever produced such an enormous amount of butter-fat in a yearly test and only one other has ever exceeded Banostine's milk record.

The official records of Banostine Belle De Kol are as follows:

| Length of Record Days | Milk Lbs | But fat Pct | But fat Lbs |
|---|---|---|---|
| 7 | 672.5 | 3.67 | 24.617 |
| 30 | 2,828.0 | 3.50 | 98.987 |
| [illegible] | [illegible] | [illegible] | [illegible] |
| 90 | 7,856.8 | 3.61 | 283,543 |
| *7 | 492.1 | 4.31 | *21.195 |
| 365 | 27,404.4 | 3.86 | 1,058.34 |

*This seven-day record was made eight months after freshening. Banostine Belle De Kol was bred, reared and developed by Dimmick & Bro. at Maplecrest Farm. She is a strong, vigorous cow of wonderful capacity and will weigh in the neighborhood of 1,500 pounds. She is the daughter of Banostine Belle, who was a granddaughter of Euphrasia, a cow of the greatest foundation stock the breed has ever produced, and which was brought to Geauga county about 40 years ago. The sire of Banostine Belle De Kol is Friend Hengerveld De Kol Butter Boy, all of whose A. R. O. daughters have records of 20 pounds or more. Friend Hengerveld De Kol Butter Boy is a son of De Kol 2's Butter Boy 3rd, and is showing himself to be the greatest son of that great sire.

During the time that Banostine Belle De Kol was in test she received nearly, if not all the time, more or less ensilage and alfalfa. When available she received roots and a mixed grain ration the foundation of which was bran and oats. The heavier feeds were varied frequently according to the condition of the cow and that which seemed best at one time did not seem best at other times. She was also fed some dried beet pulp, especially when fresh roots were not available. Her grain ration from the first was gradually increased to 25 pounds, or a little more, but later reduced to as low as nine pounds per day. As near as can be estimated, the average amount of grain fed was 12 or 14 pounds daily. She also received, when it was available, green corn with the stalks and also green clover and any other green feed that might be available, including feed from the pasture. Banostine Belle De Kol has given birth to three calves, this record having been made after the birth of the third calf. All of her calves to date have been heifer calves.

Dimmick & Bro have in their herd two other cows, stable mates of Banostine Belle De Kol, all daughters of the same sire, that have made excellent records. Daisy Grace De Kol holds the world's junior four-year-old record of 942.795 pounds of fat and 21,718.3 pounds of milk produced in 365 days. High Lawn De Kol has a yearly record of 998.340 pounds of fat and 26,592.5 pounds of milk. These three Holstein cows have produced a larger amount of butter fat in one year than any other three cows the world has ever produced, their average production of fat being 1,006.49 pounds, which is equal to 1,258.11 pounds of butter 80 per cent fat.

These tests were made under the careful supervision of the dairy department of the Ohio State University. The cows were tested by nine different persons and were watched at times day and night so that the records are fully verified.

INDICTED MAN ESCAPES

John Fitzgerald Takes a French Leave From Infirmary

Columbus.—John Fitzgerald, who was recently jointly indicted with George Rowe for forgery, escaped from the county infirmary and could not be located for arraignment in criminal court. Fitzgerald suffered from typhoid fever while at the county jail and was transferred to the infirmary where he might receive constant treatment. He seems to have convalesced rapidly.

DIES FROM APOPLEXY

Springfield.—Coming to this city to attend the funeral of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Patrick Griffin, 93 E. Pleasant street, John Griffin, 70, of Delaware, O., took a cab for his son's residence, but died on the way from apoplexy.

Jumping down from his seat on arrival at the house, Frank Cooper, the driver, opened the cab door and thinking the man was asleep tried to arouse him, but discovered that his passenger was dead.

---

FREE ADVICE TO SICK WOMEN

Thousands Have Been Helped By Common Sense Suggestions.

Women suffering from any form of female ills are invited to communicate promptly with the woman's private correspondence department of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established a confidential correspondence which has extended over many years and which has never been broken. Never have they published a testimonial or used a letter without the written consent of the writer, and never has the Company allowed these confidential letters to get out of their possession, as the hundreds of thousands of them in their files will attest.

Out of the vast volume of experience which they have to draw from, it is more than possible that they possess the very knowledge needed in your case. Nothing is asked in return except your good will, and their advice has helped thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, should be glad to take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. Address Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

Every woman ought to have Lydia E. Pinkham's 80-page Text Book. It is not a book for general distribution, as it is too expensive. It is free and only obtainable by mail. Write for it today.

Even a woman never learns to sneeze gracefully.

Garfield Tea keeps the liver normal. Drink before retiring.

The hot air treatment for financial ills is seldom a curative.

In the Dark.

"Has that boy of yours who graduated from college last year found a job that suits him yet?"

"Nope. He's still looking for one."

"Where's he looking?"

"Well, I don't just know. He seems to do most of his looking nights."

Getting Americanized.

It does not take long for America's future citizens to adopt American styles. He had just landed at the Battery and was toiling up Broadway with his big canvas-covered trunk upon his back. A bright orange tie set off his crisp black locks, and a long, heavy ulster flapped at his heels. But, crowning glory of all—perched on his head, and toyed with by the biting winds that swept in from the sea, was a brand-new American straw hat—a fitting crown for a citizen in a country where every man is a king.

Missing the Point.

Representative Rucker of Colorado, apropos of a tariff argument about sugar, said to a Washington correspondent: "Oh, well, those men don't see my point. They miss it as badly as the old lady missed her son's.

"'Mother,' a young man said, looking up from the Bulletin, 'would you believe that it takes 5,000 elephants a year to make our piano keys and billiard balls?'

"'Make our piano keys and billiard balls!' cried the old lady. 'Well, I always understood elephants where intelligent creatures, but I never knew before that they'd been trained to make piano keys and billiard balls.'"

THE OLD PLEA

He "Didn't Know It Was Loaded."

The coffee drinker seldom realizes that coffee contains the drug, caffeine, a severe poison to the heart and nerves, causing many forms of disease, noticeably dyspepsia.

"I was a lover of coffee and used it for many years, and did not realize the bad effects I was suffering from its use. (Tea is just as injurious as coffee because it, too, contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee.)

"At first I was troubled with indigestion. I did not attribute the trouble to the use of coffee, but thought it arose from other causes. With these attacks I had sick headache, nausea and vomiting. Finally my stomach was in such a condition I could scarcely retain any food.

"I consulted a physician, was told all my troubles came from indigestion, but was not informed what caused the indigestion. I kept on with the coffee, and kept on with the troubles too, and my case continued to grow worse from year to year until it developed into chronic diarrhea, nausea and severe attacks of vomiting. I could keep nothing on my stomach and became a mere shadow, reduced from 148 to 118 pounds.

"A specialist informed me I had a very severe case of catarrh of the stomach which had got so bad he could do nothing for me, and I became convinced my days were numbered.

"Then I chanced to see an article setting forth the good qualities of Postum and explaining how coffee injured people, so I concluded to give Postum a trial. I soon saw the good effects—my headaches were less frequent, nausea and vomiting only came on at long intervals and I was soon a changed man, feeling much better.

"Then I thought I could stand coffee again, but as soon as I tried it my old troubles returned and I again turned to Postum. Would you believe it, I did this three times before I had sense enough to quit coffee for good and keep on with the Postum. I am now a well man with no more headaches, sick stomach or vomiting, and have already gained back to 147 pounds." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Look in pkgs. for the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Lake County Herald

PAINESVILLE, OHIO

A DEMOCRATIC NEWSPAPER

TELEPHONE NO. 75

PUBLISHED THURSDAY OF EACH WEEK

Entered in the Postoffice at Painesville, Ohio, as Second-Class Mail Matter.

Advertising Rates

DISPLAY

| | |
|---|---|
| Per Inch—First Insertion | 20c |
| Per Inch—Each Additional Insertion | 10c |
| LOCALS | |
| Per Line—First Insertion | 10c |
| Per Line—Each Additional Insertion | 05c |
| Want Column—Three Lines, three weeks | 25c |

M. L. Harter }
R. A. Tuttle } Editors and Proprietors

Call For Democratic County Delegate Convention

The following call is made under authority of a majority vote of the Democratic County Central Committee of Lake County.

Three delegates and three alternates to the various Democratic State, District, Judicial, Congressional and Senatorial Conventions to represent Lake County shall be chosen at a County Delegate Convention hereby called to meet in Painesville City Hall Saturday, May 25th at 2 p. m.

The above named delegates shall be chosen by one set of delegates to said County Convention which shall be apportioned one delegate to 50 votes or major fraction thereof cast for Gov. Harmon November, 1910, as follows in the various Precincts of the county:

Painesville, Ward 1 [illegible]
Painesville, Ward 2 [illegible]
Painesville, Ward 3 [illegible]
Painesville, Ward 4 [illegible]
Painesville, Precinct F [illegible]
Painesville, Precinct G [illegible]
Perry [illegible]

and one delegate for each of the other precincts, a total of 29 delegates to be chosen at the May primaries according to law.

The County Central Committee is also called to meet at the above named time and place for organization.

F. D. MALIN,
Chairman.
E. A. M[illegible],
Sec'y.

SENATORIAL CONVENTION

Resolution fixing the time and place of the Convention.

Resolved that the Democratic delegate convention to nominate a candidate for State Senator for the 24th and 26th State Senatorial district of Ohio to be held at the Democratic Club Rooms in the Arcade Building in Akron, Ohio, July 6th, 1912 at 10 o'clock A. M.

Resolution determining apportionment of said convention.

Resolved that the ratio of representation in the convention to be held at the Democratic Club Rooms in the Arcade Building, Akron, Ohio on the 6th day of July, 1912, to nominate a Democratic candidate for State Senator of the 24th and 26th Senatorial District of Ohio shall be as follows:

To each of the counties composing the said 24th and 26th Senatorial District of Ohio, namely Ashtabula, Geauga, Lake, Portage and Summit, one delegate and one alternate for each five hundred votes and fraction of two hundred and fifty votes or more cast for Judson Harmon for Governor by said counties at the election held on the 8th day of November 1910.

Resolution providing for selection of delegates.

[illegible]

We the undersigned Chairman and Secretary respectively of the 24th and 26th Senatorial Democratic Committee of said district of Ohio hereby certify that the above and foregoing are true and correct copies of the resolutions duly adopted by a unanimous vote of the said committee duly and regularly held pursuant to call at Kent, Ohio on the 6th day of April 1912, at which meeting a majority of the members of said committee were present.

E. A. CORBIN,
Chairman.
CHAS. W. DICKERSON,
Secretary.

JUDICIAL CONVENTION

Resolution fixing the time and place of the convention.

Resolved that the Democratic delegate convention to nominate a candidate for circuit judge for the seventh judicial circuit of Ohio be held at the Secor Hotel in Toledo, Ohio on Wednesday the 5th day of June at 1:30 o'clock P. M.

Resolution determining apportionment to said convention.

Resolved that the ratio of representation in the convention to be so held at the Secor Hotel in Toledo, Ohio on the said 5th day of June 1912, to nominate a Democratic candidate for judge of the seventh judicial circuit of Ohio shall be as follows:

To each of the counties composing the seventh judicial circuit of Ohio, namely Ashtabula, Belmont, Columbiana, Carroll, Geauga, Guernsey, Harrison, Jefferson, Lake, Mahoning, Monroe, Noble, Portage and Trumbull, one delegate and one alternate for each two hundred votes and fraction of two hundred and fifty votes or more cast for Judson Harmon for Governor by said counties at the election held on the 8th day of November 1910.

Resolution providing for the selection of delegates.

[illegible]

JOHN DOYLE,
Chairman.
E. A. CORBIN,
Secretary.

JUDICIAL CONVENTION

Ashtabula, Ohio, April 3, 1912.

At a meeting of a majority vote of the Democratic Judicial Committee of the common pleas district comprising Ashtabula, Geauga and Lake Counties, that a delegate convention be and is hereby called to meet in Ashtabula, Ohio, City Hall, June 1, 1912 at 3 P. M. Central Standard time to nominate a judicial ticket for said district to be voted for at the coming November election and each county shall be entitled to as many delegates in said convention as is entitled to have by law in the coming state Convention, viz Ashtabula, 6, Geauga 2, Lake 3, who shall be chosen according to law as the several county committees shall determine.

E. A. CORBIN,
Chairman.
F. D. MALIN,
Sec'y Judicial Committee.

Call for State Democratic Convention

Pursuant to the order of the Democratic State Central committee, notice is hereby given that the convention of the Democrats of the state of Ohio to nominate candidates for state offices to be voted for at the November election, 1912, will be held at Toledo, Ohio, on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 4-5 1912. Each county will be entitled to one delegate and one alternate for each 500 votes, cast for Judson Harmon for Governor of Ohio, at the November election, 1910, and one additional delegate and alternate for the remainder of votes exceeding 250.

The apportionment of delegates and alternates in the convention shall be as follows for Lake County:

Lake ........ 8
Total delegates ........ 952
Necessary to choice ........ 477

The Democratic State Central Committee at a meeting held in Columbus on Tuesday afternoon, March 19, 1912, adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, that for the purpose of ascertaining the Presidential preference of the Democratic electors of Ohio, and of selecting six delegates-at-large and six alternates-at-large, to the National Democratic Convention, called to meet at Baltimore, Md., on the 25th day of June, 1912, a state wide Presidential preference primary be held on the 21st day of May, A. D., 1912, during the same hours and at the same polling places wherein other primary elections are held on that day.

The candidate who shall receive the largest number of votes at such primary election shall select the names of six delegates-at-large, and six alternates-at-large, Democratic electors of the State of Ohio, to be by him presented to the Democratic State Convention for its ratification.

E. W. HANLEY,
Chairman.
JOSEPH H. HARPER,
Secretary.

HOW MONOPOLY WORKS

A fine example of how the railroads of this country "put on the screws" is revealed by a study of the statement of earnings issued annually by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, one of the anthracite coal carrying roads. The following figures show the charge, per ton mile, of hauling anthracite coal and general merchandise, over a period of four years:

| | 1911 | 1910 | 1909 | 1908 |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Coal (cents) | 0.83 | 0.83 | 0.86 | 0.86 |
| Merchandise | 0.67 | 0.69 | 0.70 | 0.70 |

These figures show that the railroad gets more for hauling coal than it does for hauling merchandise, and it is ridiculous to suppose that it costs the railroad any more to haul a ton of one kind of material than it does another. A ton is a ton after it is once loaded onto a freight car.

The only explanation for the higher coal charge is that all competition has been suppressed in the coal carrying trade, whereas the roads are still forced to fight each other for their merchandise patronage. Coal is charged all the traffic will bear, and it will bear a great deal because the railroads control the coal fields and the transportation, and fix the tidewater price by agreement among themselves.

WHAT WILL HE DO?

Will President Taft have the nerve to veto the Democratic bill to cut the tariff rate on wool?

Schedule "K" places a rate of 141 per cent on wool fabrics, 165 per cent on cheap blankets and 113 per cent on flannel underwear. An article worth $5 seeking entry into this market would be saddled with a duty of $7.05. Such rates are staggering proof of the greed of protectionists. They were not written into the law for the purpose of increasing the government's revenue but were designed instead to increase the profits of the wool manufacturers.

President Taft has declared these rates to be "indefensible." In the face of this admission will he have the nerve to block the honest attempt of the Democratic House of Representatives to give the people relief?

AN ASTOUNDING CONDITION

The supplementary report of the Stanley investigating committee shows that 23 men—officers and directors of the steel trust—are in absolute control of corporations representing a capitalization of $35,521,143,000. These men, through interlocking boards of directors virtually control all the great railroad systems, street railways, express companies, telegraph companies, steamship companies, the large industrial corporations, a system of powerful banks and trust companies, and insurance companies.

The total wealth of this nation is only a little over three times the sum that these 23 men control absolutely. Twenty three men in control of more wealth than 30,000,000 of their fellow American citizens! Isn't this a fine condition of affairs to exist in a Republic?

"My little son had a very severe cold. I was recommended to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and before a small bottle was finished he was as well as ever," writes Mrs. H. Silks, 29 Dowling Street, Sydney, Australia. This remedy is for sale by all dealers.

Poet Can Live on Atmosphere.

Some of the dull, utilitarian minds of the world are sometimes at loss to know how the seemingly improvident poet can dive on what appears to be a very meager income. Stupid things! They have not the comprehension and delicious imagination to perceive that the true bard can warm himself by his own poetic fire and secure his food and drink from his mince-Pierian spring.

Soda Water From Tablets.

Bohemia has what is called "soda bonbons." The "bonbons" are tablets of two kinds, acid and alkali, and one pair is sufficient to produce about half a quart of soda water.

The Reward.

I am to see to it that the world is better for me and to find my reward in the act.—Emerson.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

By Tom, Dick and Harry.

Local Ballot Recalls Exacting Times.

(By A. G. Smith)

Herewith we hand your readers a bit of local antiquity, a sample of the "short ballot" which has survived "the ravages of time" and doubtless the recollection of almost every voter now living. Though the date of its issue and the result at the polls, are not to be had without considerable research, there is something still familiar in the names of the several candidates which comes down from a former generation. The heading of the ballot is particularly interesting since three little words record how the political pot boiled way back in the "thirties."

The ballot is as follows:

No Secret Societies
For Senator,
Uri Seeley
Representative,
Isaac Gillet
Treasurer,
Sylvester N. Hoyt
Commissioner,
Amos Cunningham
Assessor,
Josiah Jones

A fragment of history, much condensed may here be inserted in full explanation of the "strange device" just noted.

William Morgan (1775-1826) was born in Culpepper Co., Va., and is said to have served under Gen. Jackson at New Orleans (1815) settled first in Canada, afterwards removing to Batavia, N. Y. In 1826 shortly after the news had spread that he in conjunction with one David Miller were about to publish a book exposing the secrets of Freemasonry disappeared and was never afterward seen. It was alleged that he was kidnapped and murdered by Masons.

He was traced to Fort Niagara and said to have been imprisoned and refusing to forego the publication of the book or to take an oath of secrecy was drowned in Lake Ontario. His disappearance caused profound excitement throughout the north and resulted in the forming of the anti-Mason party and the nominating of William Wirt for President at Baltimore in 1831, which was the first Presidential nominating convention ever held in the United States.

MYSTERY OF LAKE BAIKAL

Body of Water Remote From Ocean Contains Many Organisms Apparently Marine.

The riddle of Lake Baikal in central Asia, is similar to that of Lake Tanganyika, in central Africa. In both cases a large body of fresh water, remote from the ocean contains organisms apparently marine. Both lakes, again, contain a very large number of species not found elsewhere. Lake Baikal contains numerous salmon and seals as well as three species of herring. It also contains a few mollusks of apparently marine forms.

One of the most remarkable features of the lake, perhaps, is that, although it is frozen over for about five months in the year, the animal life is extremely abundant and varied. This may be partly accounted for, perhaps, by the existence of hot springs.

One of the latest attempts to answer the riddle of Lake Baikal is that of the Russian investigator Berg. Of the 33 specimens of fish found in the lake he finds that 14 are peculiar to it, while 19 have a wide distribution in Siberia and Europe.

Many of these peculiar species are without near relations anywhere. Of the mollusca 66 per cent. are peculiar. Berg does not think the facts demand the hypothesis that the lake was once marine. He believes that it has always been fresh and that the fauna peculiar to it have had a twofold origin. A part has originated in the lake itself during the long ages of its existence, and the rest is a portion of the prehistoric fresh water fauna of Siberia which it has preserved.—Harper's Weekly.

PUPILS PREPARED FOR HIM

Member of School Board Finds They Need No Lesson in Pronunciation From Him.

The member of the board of public education who was visiting one of the schools in the primary department had made a little speech to the children on the importance of correct pronunciation. Picking up a chalk crayon, he wrote the word "heinous" on the blackboard.

"To give you an example, boys and girls," he said, "I wonder how many of you know how to pronounce that word."

"Haynus!" shouted the children in concert.

"Miss Guernsey," said the visitor, turning suspiciously to the teacher, "how did you know I was going to try them on that?"

"I didn't know it, Mr. Judson," she answered, "but I am something of a crank on pronunciation myself, and we have frequent drills on words. You will find that these children know how to pronounce exquisite, despicable, demoniacal, misconstrue, coadjutor, naivete, sacrifice, genealogy, program, gerrymander, discipline, parasite, caoutchouc, exemplary and hilarious, together with many others that do not occur to me just now."

"Yes," said the official visitor, uncertain whether to be crestfallen or elated, "that those youngsters don't need any lesson on pronunciation from me, anyhow," and he took his hat and departed.—Youth's Companion.

Bad Exercise.

Exercising a bad temper makes it worse and pulling a leg is likely to cause shortness.

TAFT MEN OUT FOR ROOSEVELT

Leaders In Two States Explain Changed Attitude.

Tidal Wave That Is Sweeping the Candidacy of the Colonel to Success Is Daily Growing in Volume—Strong Declarations for "T. R."

Washington, April 27.—Many supporters of Mr. Taft have within the last few days changed their allegiance and henceforth will support Colonel Roosevelt. Leaders in two states, Kansas and New York, have declared themselves for Colonel Roosevelt, and from several of the southern states letters have been received telling of defections from the Taft forces.

The tidal wave that is sweeping the candidacy of Colonel Roosevelt to success is daily growing in volume, and no better exemplification of the sentiment felt by political leaders throughout the country is to be had than the statements in two letters received by Roosevelt leaders. One is from former Congressman Charles B. Law of Brooklyn, N. Y., now sheriff of King's county, and the other from J. M. Simpson, former United States internal revenue collector, chairman of the Kansas Republican state central committee, and for years a wheelhorse of the Republican organization in that state. Both of these men, up to a short time ago, were supporting Mr. Taft.

Former Congressman Law writes as follows:

"President Taft's pleasing personality and his undoubted honesty of mind and purity of character very naturally predisposed in his favor those of us who knew him personally and who believed generally in the policy of renominating a president who had acceptably served one term. But as the contest between the president and Colonel Roosevelt has progressed, it has become painfully apparent that there is good ground for the charge made by Colonel Roosevelt that the president does not trust the people and is unwilling to leave his candidacy in their hands. Instead of directing his appeal to the people and trusting them to find a way to accomplish their will, he has obviously been sceptical either of the good will of the people or of their ability to have their way, and has deliberately chosen to rely upon the political machines headed and controlled by men of the type of Penrose and Lorimer to grind out delegates to the national convention.

"The logic of the situation is as clear as it is disagreeable to those who personally admire the president. If nominated, he will owe the debt of his obligation to those upon whom he relied for his delegates, and the interests they represent. Personally obnoxious as this obligation may be to the president, it will be real and he cannot escape its influence.

"Colonel Roosevelt, with characteristic courage, has gone over the heads of the big machine bosses and has made his appeal direct to the people themselves, to whom alone he will be under obligation if nominated and elected. With what effect this appeal has been made can be seen in Illinois and Pennsylvania, where it became an issue whether the machine was to have its way or whether the people were to have their way. There never can be but one result to such a contest where fair and reasonable opportunity for the expression of the popular will is afforded. This remarkable situation has developed to such an extent that even the friends of President Taft must in fairness admit that the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt would be the greatest demonstration of the reality of popular rule this country has yet seen. Unfortunately there are some good men who either fear or do not believe in genuine popular rule."

Mr. Simpson in his letter says it would be suicide for the party to nominate a man of the weakness of Mr. Taft. His letter in full is as follows:

"The success of the Republican party at the polls next November is so far reaching and means so much to the American people that no man's ambition and no man's personal interests should for a moment be considered when the party's success is in danger.

"Wherever by direct popular primary public sentiment has been uncovered, north, south, east or west, the weakness of President Taft has been undisputed.

"President Taft lost the confidence of the American farmer when he made common cause with the Democrats and used all the power of his administration to force through congress the so called Canadian reciprocity agreement which would have cost the producers of this country millions of dollars annually, had it been ratified by Canada.

"It is pitiful. Moreover, it is suicide for the party to go into the November elections with a man of this weakness at its head.

"I doubt if there is another American living who stands so high in the esteem of his countrymen as Theodore Roosevelt.

"I most earnestly hope that all former differences of opinion will be dropped and that Republicans of Kansas will rally to the support of Roosevelt, whose nomination will make absolutely certain the success of that great party that stands with traditions and its magnificent organization for good government."

The Dingo.

The dingo is a species of wild dog found in Australia, and is to that country what the wolf is to eastern Europe and the coyote to America. Hunting in packs, he is a perpetual menace to Australia's chief industry, the breeding of sheep. Owing to his cunning and swiftness the dingo is able to hold his own in central Australia, and is likely to do so for a long time to come, notwithstanding the fact that a generous price is set upon his head by the government.

DON'T get the idea because this is a big bank, that we don't want your account unless you have a large amount to deposit.

We welcome small accounts and give them painstaking attention.

PAINESVILLE OFFICE

The Cleveland Trust Company

SAVINGS BANK

W. R. RADCLIFFE, Mgr.
W. C. TISDEL, Chairman

French Dry Cleaning

Eliminates the soil from the finest and most delicate garments without loss of color or shrinkage and

Cleans Your Garments Clean

We French Dry Clean in a superior manner. Prompt service and prices the lowest consistent with first class work.

Painesville Dry Cleaning Co.

CHAS. FINK, Mgr.

Phone 219 R 109 South St. Clair St

PAINESVILLE, O.

Work Called for and Delivered.

Report of the Condition

OF

The Dollar Savings Bank Co.

at Painesville, in the State of Ohio, at the close of business April 18, 1912.

RESOURCES

[illegible]

LIABILITIES

[illegible]

I, W. E. Radcliffe, Treasurer of the above named Dollar Savings Bank Co., do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

W. E. RADCLIFFE,
Treasurer.

STATE OF OHIO, COUNTY OF LAKE.
Subscribed and sworn to before me this 25th day of April, 1912.

GUY WYMAN,
Notary Public.

NOTICE

Sealed proposals for printing the ballots and all necessary blanks for the primary election to be held in Lake county, May 21st, 1912, will be received by the Board of Deputy State Supervisors of Elections of Lake county at the office of said board up to Thursday, April 25th, at 10 a. m. Specifications will be on file at the office of said board on and after Wednesday, April 23, 1912.

Each proposal for printing must be accompanied by a bond executed in due form by the bidder with at least two good and sufficient sureties satisfactory to the Board of Deputy State Supervisors of Elections in a sum double the amount of his bid conditioned for a faithful performance pursuant to contract of such printing as may be awarded to him and for the payment as liquidated damages by such bidder to the Board of Deputy State Supervisors of Elections of any excess of cost over the bid or bids of such bidders which the Board of Deputy State Supervisors of Elections may be obliged to pay for such work by reason of the failure of such bidder to complete his contract, the bond to be null and void if no contract is awarded to him. No bid unaccompanied by such bond shall be entertained by the Board of Deputy State Supervisors of Elections.

E. G. HUNTINGTON,
Chief Deputy.
CHARLES E. BOOTH, Clerk.
Painesville, O., April 16, 1912.

LEGAL NOTICE

Roger B. Sherman, whose place of residence is unknown, is hereby notified that Charlotte Brooks Sherman has filed her petition against him for divorce and restoration of former name in the Court of Common Pleas of Lake County, Ohio, and that said cause will be for hearing on or after May 25th, 1912.

CHARLOTTE BROOKS SHERMAN,
By HARRY T. NOLAN,
Her Attorney.
Painesville, Ohio, April 8, 1912.

Simplified Spelling.

"We find in the letters we receive," said the correspondence clerk, "some marvelous examples of simplified spelling, some of these unconsciously phonetic, some evidently deliberately intended, some that, though they serve their purpose wonderfully, verge on the comic. For instance, we received yesterday a letter from a man who starts off in this way:

"What ix would follow—" and so on.

"Of course, the meaning of that was perfectly plain, but the bookkeeper and I had to smile over it for a moment, and when we showed it to the stenographer he said that the man who could write words like that ought not to stop at simplified spelling, he ought to go right ahead and invent a new shorthand system."

Finical.

"I am told that your new play is drawing crowded houses and that you turn hundreds of people away every night."

"That is merely newspaper misrepresentation, sir. We don't turn anybody away. We tell them in the kindest possible manner that every seat in the house is sold, and they turn away themselves. These lying journalists make me tired!"

If He Is Unsuccessful.

A woman usually likes to let other people know that her husband is "on speaking terms" with prominent men.

Baby's Advantage.

A baby is tolerably helpless, but he has one advantage—he doesn't have to listen to the foolishness grown men talk to him unless he wants to.

ORDINANCE 866

An ordinance to regulate the use and operation of motorcycles and motor bicycles on, upon or over the streets of Painesville.

Be it ordained by the Council of the City of Painesville, state of Ohio.

Section 1. From and after the passage of this ordinance it shall be unlawful for any person or persons, firm or corporation to run, operate, propel or drive, or cause to be run, operated, propelled or driven on, over, or upon the streets or highways of the City of Painesville any motorcycle or motor bicycle, the motive power of which shall be electricity, steam, gasoline or any source of energy other than human power, except under the following restrictions and regulations:

Section 2. Every motorcycle or motor bicycle shall—at all times when run, operated, used or driven upon the streets or highways of the City of Painesville be provided with a good and sufficient brake which brake shall make it possible to check any forward or backward motion, and a suitable bell, horn or other audible signal, which shall be rung or blown by the operator whenever in approaching any street intersection he shall be riding not more than one hundred or less than thirty feet distant therefrom and to warn other vehicles and drivers upon the highways of his presence whenever there is danger of collision or accident.

They shall also be provided with all other appliances and apparatus such as sufficient condensers to prevent the unnecessary escape of steam or vapor, or improved mufflers to stop any unnecessary noise in the operation or management of said vehicle upon the highways.

Section 3. No person in charge of any motorcycle or motor bicycle shall run, operate, propel or drive the same on, upon or over any public street, alley, highway, road or driveway in the business portion in the City of Painesville at a rate of speed greater than eight (8) miles an hour, and in all other parts of said city the rate of speed of said motorcycles or motor bicycles shall not be greater than fifteen (15) miles an hour.

Section 4. No person while running, operating, propelling or driving any motor cycle or motor bicycle over any public street, alley, highway, road or driveway shall carry any other person or a passenger except at the rear of the operator on a suitable seat provided for that purpose.

Section 5. No person in charge of any motorcycle or motor bicycle shall run, operate, propel or drive the same on, upon or over any sidewalk adjacent to any street, highway, road or driveway in any portion within the corporate limits of the said city of Painesville.

Section 6. Motorcycles or motor bicycles shall always exhibit during the period while in use, from twilight to dawn a suitable lamp showing a white light visible within a reasonable distance in the direction towards which the motorcycle or motor bicycle is proceeding.

Section 7. No person shall run, operate, propel or drive or cause to be run, operated, propelled or driven any such motorcycle or motor bicycle within the limits of the City of Painesville without first obtaining a license from the City Clerk. The fee for such license shall be One Dollar and Fifty Cents ($1.50) which shall be deposited in the general fund of the city. These licenses shall be granted annually but they shall expire on the [illegible] following the date of issue. It shall be the duty of any applicant for such license to furnish the City Clerk his name and address with a brief description of the motorcycle or motor bicycle to be registered including the name of the maker, factory number, style and motor power. Thereupon it shall be the duty of the said City Clerk to file such statement in his office, to register such motorcycle or motor bicycles in a book kept for that purpose and assign it a distinctive number. The City Clerk shall also furnish to each of said applicants for license under this ordinance a plate of such design and pattern as the City Clerk may prescribe containing the number to be assigned to said motorcycle or motor bicycle, said number to be in Arabic numerals, white on black ground, each not less than three inches in height and each stroke to be of a width not less than one half of an inch, which plate shall be rigidly attached and displayed at the rear of such motorcycle or motor bicycle in such manner as plainly to be visible at all times.

Section 8. Any person violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be fined not less than Five Dollars ($5) and not more than Twenty-five Dollars ($25) or imprisoned not more than ten (10) days or both.

Section 9. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and legal publication.

Passed April 15, 1912.

ELBERT F. BLAKELY,
President of the Council.
Attest:
FRANK L. KELLY, Clerk.
Approved April 15, 1912.
WYNNE S. SMITH,
Mayor.

ORDINANCE NO. 870.

Ordinance to provide for the issue of bonds of the City of Painesville in the sum of One Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($1500) to purchase additional equipment for and to extend the lines of the Electric Light Department.

Whereas the City of Painesville, State of Ohio, heretofore by a formal resolution of the Council thereof has determined certain indebtedness to be an existing, valid and binding obligation of the corporation.

Now, therefore, be it ordained by the Council of the City of Painesville, State of Ohio, two-thirds of the members elected thereto concurring.

Section 1. That it is necessary to issue and to sell bonds of the City of Painesville in the amount of One Thousand and Five Hundred Dollars ($1500) as herein set forth to purchase additional equipment for and to extend the lines of the Electric Light Department.

Section 2. That under the authority of Section 3939 of the General Code of the State of Ohio, authorizing the issue of bonds by municipal corporations bonds of the City of Painesville, Ohio, be issued in the amount of One Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($1500) to purchase additional equipment for and to extend the lines of the Electric Light Department.

Section 3. That said bonds shall be designated Electric Light and Extension Bonds, shall be of the denomination of Five Hundred Dollars each, shall be numbered 589, 590, 591, shall be dated October 1, 1912 and shall mature as follows: No. 589 on October 1, 1919, No. 590 on October 1, 1920, No. 591 on October 1, 1921. Said bonds shall be payable at the City Treasurer's office in the City of Painesville, State of Ohio, and shall bear interest at the rate of four per cent per annum, payable semi annually at the same place.

Section 4. Said bonds shall express upon their face the purpose for which they were issued and a citation of the law and ordinance by which they were authorized. They shall be prepared, issued and delivered under the direction of the Finance Committee of the Council and the City Auditor. They shall be signed by the Mayor of said City and by the City Auditor and sealed with the corporate seal of said City. Said bonds shall be recorded in the office of the Trustees of the Sinking Fund and shall bear interest as aforesaid.

Section 5. Said bonds shall be first offered at par and accrued interest to the Trustees of the Sinking Fund in their official capacity. If the Sinking Fund Trustees refuse to take any or all of said bonds at par and interest, then said bonds not so taken shall be offered at par and accrued interest to the board of commissioners of the Sinking Fund of the City School District. If said Board of Commissioners also refuse to take any or all said bonds at par and interest, then such of said bonds as are not taken shall be advertised for public sale and sold in the manner provided by law but not for less than their par value and accrued interest.

Section 6. That the proceeds from the sale of said bonds except the premiums and accrued interest thereon shall be placed in the City Treasury to the credit of the Electric Light Fund and shall be disbursed upon proper vouchers to pay for certain equipment and to extend the lines of the Electric Light Department and for no other purpose.

Section 7. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and legal publication.

Passed April 29, 1912.

ELBERT F. BLAKELY,
President of Council.
Attest:
FRANK L. KELLY,
Clerk.
Approved April 29, 1912.
WYNNE S. SMITH.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

State Highway Department,
Columbus, Ohio, April 26, 1912.

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Commissioners of Lake County, at Painesville, Ohio, until ten o'clock A. M., May 10th, 1912, for grading and paving with a bituminated concrete the Madison Southern Road in Madison Township, said County. Length 7465 feet or 1.41 miles; width of pavement 12 feet; estimated cost of construction $11978.08. A draft or certified check for $200 shall be deposited with each bid. The successful bidder shall be required to give bond for an amount equal to the contract price, for the faithful performance of the obligations within the contract. Date set for completion August 1, 1912.

Plans and specifications are on file in the offices of the County Commissioners and the State Highway Department.

The State Highway Commissioner reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

JAMES R. MARKER,
State Highway Commissioner.

Insurance Of all kinds

FIRE, LIFE, AUTOMOBILE, AND LIABILITY INSURANCE

Twenty-five of the strongest and safest companies represented and all losses promptly paid.

E. D. BARBER
The Insurance Man.

FIRE INSURANCE
REAL ESTATE
ABSTRACTS
AND LOANS

A. M. WARN
P. O. BLOCK

HAVE YOUR STATIONERY EMBOSSED
Initials, Crests, Monograms,
Engraved to Your Order,
Stamped in Gold or Color, also Illuminating.
The Educational Supply Co., - Painesville
128 South State Street.

DR. E. L. NORTON and DR. H. D. RAND
DENTISTS
Nitrous Oxide Administered
Office hours: 8 to 10 a. m., 1 to 5 p. m.
Telephone, Main 494.
Cor. Main and St. Clair, Painesville

MARTIN A. TUTTLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Painesville, Ohio,
Postoffice Block.

H. T. NOLAN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Pioneer Trust Bldg. Painesville, O

MORLEY & WARREN,
GRANITE AND MARBLE WORKS
Painesville, Ohio
The Best Stock and First-class Work
Cor. State and Washington Streets

BURGESS GRANITE WORKS,
Cor. State and Erie Streets.
We give Eagle Stamps

We are the only dealers in Lake, Geauga, Trumbull and Portage counties authorized to sell the celebrated White Bronze monuments with the greatly improved finish

Johnson
Custom Tailor
125 N. State St.
WE DO SANITARY STEAM CLEANING AND PRESSING.

SEND $2.00
For a Gallon of this
Good Whiskey
Equal to $3.60 grade. $6 Whiskey at $3 per gallon.
Duffy Malt Whiskey Per Bottle . . . . 89c
Guckenheimer or Golden Wedding Rye
$2.69 Per Gallon
2 Gallons $5.00
All high grade, guaranteed liquor at reduced prices. Sent in plain packages to any address.
A. Cohn, Wholesale Liquor Store
5819 ST. CLAIR. 4 doors East of 55th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

We have as competent a corps of artists as can be found anywhere—men who grasp the salient points of the subject and make others see them

The Eclipse Electrotype & Engraving Company
Cleveland

The Complete Establishment

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

---

Farmers Take Notice

We sell Fertilizers for every crop. Don't plant your potatoes, corn, tomatoes, onions, grass and grain or any other crop without using some fertilizer as it will surely pay you according to the proportion used. I say this from my own personal experience. We sell the best I know of at a reasonable price.

Also Drain Tile any size.

THE PAINESVILLE COAL FEED & SUPPLY CO.
Successors to Cote Coal Co.
114 and 306 North State Street
PAINESVILLE, OHIO

Where Cleanliness Reigns

Quality Groceries Await You Here

Our Prices Please and Are Worth Watching

Adapted to the saving pocket book

There's a reason for our growth

THESE WILL PLEASE

Elliott & Ruhling

Notice of Presenting County Road Petition

Notice is hereby given that a petition will be presented to the Commissioners of Lake County, at their next session June 3, 1912, praying for the laying and establishing of a County Road on the following line, to-wit: Beginning at centre of road running easterly from Lane Station to South Ridge at a point between E. O. and J. L. Shepard's running north across the Cleveland, Painesville & Eastern and the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern right of ways thence easterly along the north side of said L. S. & M. S. Ry. across lands owned by E. D. Shepard, J. D. Thompson, J. H. Brown, J. V. Huskell, E. R. Morehouse and Mrs. Marion Beaton, intersecting road running north from South Ridge called Maple Avenue. The width of said road to be not less than 40 feet.

H. R. HOLCOMB and others.

The Eureka

POOL PARLORS and SMOKE HOUSE

SOFT DRINKS, CANDIES and a Full Line of CIGARETTES

ELECTRIC PIANO for the amusement of all patrons

J. H. MATHEWS, Prop.
116 So. State St., Painesville, O.

LOW ROUND TRIP
Homeseeker's Rates
Via Nickel Plate Road
to points in the
West, Northwest & Southwest

Good going on the 1st and 3rd Tuesdays of the month. Liberal return limit and "Stop over privileges.

Get full information of Agent or write J. C. Molenbacker, D. P. A., Erie, Pa.

Low Round Trip Rates
Nickel Plate Road
Portland, Seattle Tacoma
and other North Pacific Coast & Northwestern Points on certain dates in May, June, July and October.
Los Angeles, Oakland, San Diego
on certain dates in April, May, June & August.
San Fransisco
on certan dates in April, May, June, July, August & October
J. C. Molenbacker, D. P. A., Erie, Pa.

Mentor Wall Paper Store
NEW STOCK ON HAND
Besides a Large Assortment in Books which I would be pleased to show you
R. M. CASE

HAVE YOUR FIRE INSURANCE WRITTEN AT HOME
We represent one of the Largest and Best Companies
The National Fire Insurance Co. of Hartford
R. M. CASE & CO.

TEACHERS EXAMINATION

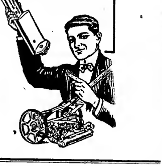
The Lake County board of examiners will offer examinations for teachers' certificates on the first Saturday of each month in the year 1912. If first Saturday falls on holiday examinations will be held one week later. Boxwell pupils will be examined the third Saturday in April and the third Saturday in May, 1912. All examinations will be held in the old High School building, Painesville, beginning at 8:15 standard time.

By order of the board.

J. R. ADAMS, Clerk.
Painesville, Ohio.



High grass or low grass, it's all the same to
COLDWELL LAWN MOWERS
You can adjust them instantly.
Just turn one screw and the large cutting knife is brought to any desired angle with the bottom cutter. We guarantee every Coldwell Lawn Mower.
The experience gained in forty years of lawn-mower-making goes into its manufacture.
A "Coldwell" keeps out of the scrap heap—it's a mower without a "kick."
The Doolittle Bros. Co.
RELIABLE HARDWARE

Painesville's Leading Drug Store.
Registered Pharmacists in attendance at all times.
The Corner Pharmacy
J. G. DAVET, Proprietor.

A. A. CALLENDER
ALL KINDS OF
Light and Heavy Draying
FURNITURE AND PIANO MOVING A SPECIALTY
Home Phone—Main 291    Bell Phone 143-R

TRUBY COAL CO.
COAL and COKE
LIME, CEMENT, SEWER PIPE, TILE, ETC.
BOTH PHONES 21

MENTOR

After all, we are having rather a backward spring, trees are just beginning to break out in leaf and the soft maples are a tender green that really is good to look upon. Word is being passed along, that all sorts of fruit buds are killed, even the strawberry plants themselves, in many places, and are having to be reset. Peaches and pears have all gone up the spout, as have also the Rambler Roses of which there were a great many beautiful specimens in our village.

Farmers and fruit-growers are very busy these days with spraying machines, the buds being just in the proper stage for the annual dose which will have to be repeated in most cases, after a few weeks and before the petals fall from the blossoms.

Mr. Samuel Whiting together with his youngest daughter, Mrs. Will Morley and her two children, Mary and Frank, are expected to arrive at home the last of this week from wintering in Florida.

Mr. Herbert Van Cleve of Upper Claremont, New Jersey, was in our village last week on business.

Mr. John Code of Willoughby, spent Sunday here with his wife at the home of her father, Mr. Frank Corning at the Center.

The handsome house at the east end of the village, built some years ago by Mr. G. C. Viall of Painesville for his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Viall, and afterwards the property of Mr. E. E. Aldrich, since passing into the hands of his daughter, Mrs. Ed Barber, is now for sale, we understand.

Dr. Todd of Cleveland was here last week, with a view of again locating here, and was after a house to rent.

Mrs. William Eddy spent a short time on Wann Hill last week, as the guest of Mrs. S. K. Waite.

The Eastwick block has been finished below and already rented to A. A. Sawyer for Post Office and music store purposes, and the east half to Mr. Clark Bradway, we understand for a general store. The second floor is to be finished off in seven rooms for housekeeping purposes.

The report that Mr. W. S. Ackley was very sick, and that Dr. Lewis and Mrs. Lewis had been called home from the South on that account, has been corrected by the family, Mr. Ackley being in usual health.

Mr. and Mrs. Myrth Cole have been recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crosby in Painesville.

Mr. Carl Hagenberger has been spending some weeks down at Cambridge Springs in Pennsylvania, has returned somewhat benefited in health.

Mr. Franklin Murray has been in Indianapolis, Ind., this past week or ten days visiting a niece living there and other friends, and has just returned.

The last Miscellany Club of the year is to be held at the home of Mrs. Ella Heath in West Mentor on Wednesday afternoon of this week, when the officers for another year will be chosen, and there will be the usual good things to eat. Roll call to be responded to by "Farewell quotations."

Mr. and Mrs. John Oliver have returned from spending the winter in the city, and are getting their beautiful country home in readiness for enjoying the summer. Mr. Oliver has built a most lovely home on the old Jenkins property, on the street that runs south from the Disciple church. The house is one of the most artistic in this part of the state and was fully three years in the building.

Many of our people are still on the sick list, and our two doctors are quite busy. There seems to be a regular epidemic of whooping cough which fortunately is not very violent or wouldn't be, if the old weather would warm up somewhat.

Mr. N. C. Frost is still a captive having been very ill, having had grippe with some other things mixed in, and is still confined to the house.

Miss Eleanor King together with her niece, little Eleanor King, are also both on the sick list. People who never had a cough in their lives are complaining that now they surely have one, and what is worse, can't get rid of it.

We were much pleased to learn that the members of the W. C. T. U. at the county convention held here last week, were planning to furnish a rest room on the new Fair Grounds, such a place would be very much appreciated, especially by all the women who attend the Fair.

Miss Julia Conlan of Glenville, formerly of Hudson, spent a few hours last week with Mrs. Harry King, a former neighbor.

Mrs. Delia Tyler Corning, widow of the late Nelson Corning, whose home is now with her youngest daughter in Collinwood, is spending a week or so down here with her son Mr. Frank Corning and his family at the Center.

The family of Mr. W. P. Murray came down from the city last week, and are now at home for the summer or probably until sometime in November.

Mr. Leonard Miller has just bought the front corner lot on the new street opposite the residence of Mr. E. E. Cadle, and has been planting out many trees there, leaving a place for a house sometime.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lytle and young son, Paul, left here on Saturday for an extended trip to the Pacific Coast, and will be away until rather late in May, going on the "Shriner's Excursion."

The one all-absorbing topic of conversation has been the fate of the "Titanic," some of our people declaring they never wanted to go over to Europe after this, and others, that it would not be so bad, if only people were contented not to "rush" across the big pond, but would take a couple of weeks for the trip across, so as to stop when fogs arise, thereby indicating the nearness of icebergs. Quite a number of Mentor-folk have been across, and some thrilling tales are told when a few friends get together and begin comparing experiences.

Mrs. Lyman Ferry and Miss Lois Carroll were both guests of friends in Willoughby last week.

Some of the folks here go up to Lakeside hospital every week to see Dan McCarty, and more than one has brought back the word from the attending physician that recovery has been made possible by the pure blood and good habits of the wounded boy. It is hoped by some of the sober older people, that great good may come out of the unfortunate affair, and that more than one lesson will be learned.

Mrs. Earl Woodruff of Collinwood and her little daughter, Helen, are now visiting her brother, Mr. Frank Corning and his family during the week.

The Conference held by the county W. C. T. U. in the Methodist church last week, was very much enjoyed by some fifty members who spent the day together here, having both dinner and supper and many a little visit. Mrs. A. D. Carleton was elected Co. Supt. of the Young People's Branch. As to the contest there were seven contestants, but a young colored girl from Fairport, named Viola Smith, carried off the prize, and everybody seems to be satisfied that she had fairly won it. An excellent paper entitled "License and Prohibition" by Mrs. Fuller, another most excellent paper on "Votes for Women" by Miss Sackett of Columbus and an address by Miss Sackett on "The Call to Citizenship" were the main features of the day.

You will look a good while before you find a better medicine for coughs and colds than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only gives relief, it cures. Try it when you have a cough or cold, and you are certain to be pleased with the prompt cure which it will effect. For sale by all dealers.

HIS NICKEL WELL INVESTED

Yonkers Bachelor Once Helped a Newsboy and Reaped His Reward Nine Years Later.

"Excuse me, mister," said a boy of about fifteen years to a man at a Yonkers street corner, "but I've lost my money and I can't buy my papers. If I had a nickel I could get a start and make 50 cents before bedtime."

Although the boy's clothing was soiled and tattered, his bright eyes and regular features made a good impression on the observant middle aged bachelor. But he was skeptical.

"If I give you a nickel," said he, "you'd only spend it, probably in a foolish way. I've had experience with boys."

"I'll spend it all right, mister, but the money would go for papers."

The man gave the boy a nickel.

"Now, I'm only lending you five cents," was his warning as the boy hurried away.

"All right boss," cried the boy. "I'll give it back to you tomorrow on this corner at six o'clock."

"I'll be here," said the man.

So they separated. Both kept their promises. The nickel was returned. That was nine years ago. Now the boy is a married man of twenty-four and he has a good position in Yonkers. Their conditions are reversed. Owing to illness and injury the bachelor has been out of employment for six months. Long ago his savings were exhausted. Long ago he would have been in want if a friend had not found where he lived. This friend also found that the bachelor was in debt and provided medical assistance. More than that, he paid the bachelor's board for 15 consecutive weeks and he has not stopped yet.

"What are you doing that for?" his wife inquired.

"Reason enough," he replied. "When I was a newsboy that man helped me when I was broke. Now, if necessary, I'll go broke for him."

The friend was the former newsboy.

The Treacherous Hens.

A story which was doubtless invented to illustrate the thoroughness of Prussian rule wherever the Prussian black and white has established itself, is repeated in E. A. Brayley Hodgett's book, "The House of Hohenzollern."

The strict devotion to duty of the Prussian disciplinarian has not always contributed to his popularity. The estimation in which he has generally been held by conquered neighbors is illustrated in the famous joke about the Hanoverian farmer's wife—after the annexation—and the inquisitorial Prussian gendarme.

"Well," the gendarme is made to say, in truly terrible admonitory accents, "are you all good Prussians here? No Hanoverian nonsense, eh?"

"Oh," the trembling old woman replies, "we are all good Prussians now—all except the hens."

"The hens? What do you mean?" roars the gendarme, sniffing hidden insubordination.

"Ah," says the old country wife, "they will persist in laying Hanoverian eggs, always white and yellow. I cannot get them to lay black and white Prussian eggs."—Youth's Companion.

Misunderstanding Inevitable.

Does anyone expect to go through life without being misunderstood? We are sometimes misunderstood—and hear of it; we are frequently misunderstood — and never know it.—Humphrey J. Desmond.

Swedish Court in Days of Bernadotte.

If Lady Kilmarnock were to wear Scottish dress when she arrives in Stockholm she would be like the wife and family of our ambassador there 80 years ago, who were afterward told by the maids of honor that they mistook the tartan for a livery of the servants and wondered when the ladies would appear. Court dress when Bernadotte was king was sometimes black and sometimes gray or white, but it always included a particular slashed sleeve, and the master of ceremonies fetched the minister to court in a glass coach. In winter both the king and the queen had a habit of turning night into day. She went out driving after dark and dined after the play, and he undermined the health of his ministers by engaging them all through the night or summoning them at 3 in the morning. And sometimes the king remained in bed for weeks at a time fearing poison, and sustaining himself largely on apples in consequence.

Iceland Education.

Icelanders are now famous for their high standard of education. Every child of ten in this remote little land can read and write, neither abject poverty nor excessive wealth is seen, and crime is rare, and the latest step in the evolution of this remarkable people is the founding of a university at the capital.

Large Finds of Pure Metal Unlikely.

Men have found a mass of native copper weighing 420 tons and they have discovered a chunk of pure silver weighing one and one-half tons but the largest nugget of gold that has yet been seen weighed only 190 pounds. And gold seekers are informed that larger finds in the future are unlikely.

THE MARKETS.

Buyers are Paying for

| | |
|---|---|
| Wheat | 1 19 |
| Rye | 95 |
| Corn | 84 |
| Oats | 56 |
| Baled hay per ton | $22 $26 |
| Baled straw per ton | $11-$13 |
| Butter, No. 1 dairy | 30 |
| Eggs | 15 |
| Lard (home rendered) | 12 |
| Pork, dressed | 9 10 |
| Chickens | 12 14 |
| Veal | 10 11 |
| Beef, dressed | 9 12 |
| Tallow, per pound | 05 |
| Potatoes | 1 20 |
| Honey | 18-19 |
| Maple syrup, per gal | 90 $1 00 |

Retail Price for

| | |
|---|---|
| Flour, Royal Patent, per sk | 1 80 |
| Flour, Golden Eagle, per sk | 1 60 |
| Flour, Elevator, per sk | 1 60 |
| Graham Flour, per lb | 04 |
| Corn | 92 |
| Oats | 64 |
| Corn Meal | 1 90 |
| Chop feed, straight corn and oats | 1 80 |
| Midlings | 1 65 |
| Bran | 1 60 |
| Baled straw, cwt | 80 |
| Butter, creamery | 39 |
| Butter, dairy | 35 |
| Eggs, per dozen | 20 |
| Potatoes, per bu | 1 60 |
| Potatoes, per pk | 40 |

NEW GOODS AND NEW FIXTURES
WE AIM TO CARRY THE VERY BEST IN
Staple and Fancy Groceries
WITH A STOCK OF
Cigars and Tobacco
In keeping with all other lines. We shall appreciate your trade and will endeavor to please.
BURR & RUST
CORNER STATE AND MAIN

Painesville's Leading Planing Mill.
DRESSED LUMBER IS LIKE A DEAD DOG.
The bark is all off. You'll find no bark to our lumber, although we do a good deal of barking about it. We have the stock, and feel justified in barking. When you want the best lumber, bark up this tree, and you'll find it.
S. L. MALIN & SON
"Focus on Lumber."
Phone 127

A. D. McLEAN
FIRE INSURANCE, REAL ESTATE
SINGER SEWING MACHINES
All makes of machines cleaned and repaired.
135 S. State St. :: Painesville, Ohio

A REMEDY FOR EVERY ILL IN THE NYAL REMEDIES
—at—
PARK'S PHARMACY
"The Nyal Store"

SPRING STYLES
ARE NOW READY
for your inspection. Our values cannot be equaled elsewhere. Our line is complete of Clothing, Dry Goods, Ladies and Men's Furnishings Notions, Boots, Shoes Etc.
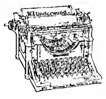
M. HOROWITZ.
WICKLIFFE, OHIO. Cuy. phone 67-R
All our goods guaranteed. Prices reasonable.



The Largest Typewriter Sale in History.

Ten Thousand Underwood Typewriters

have been sold to the Western Union Telegraph Company for use in all offices throughout its vast organization

All Telegrams, Night and Day Letters in the future will be typewritten on the Underwood.

Every well known writing machine was carefully considered by the purchasing committee and the Underwood won from the standpoints of practical utility and mechanical construction.

"The machine you will eventually buy."

Underwood Typewriter Co., Inc.

822 Huron Road    Cleveland, O.

The GIRL from His TOWN

by Marie Van Vorst

ILLUSTRATIONS by M. G. KETTNER

COPYRIGHT 1910 by The Bobbs-Merrill Company

15

SYNOPSIS.

Dan Blair, the 22-year-old son of the fifty-million-dollar copper king of Blairtown, Mont., is a guest at the English home of Lady Galorey. Dan's father had been courteous to Lord Galorey during his visit to the United States and the courtesy is now being returned to the young man. The youth has an ideal girl in his mind. He meets Lily, Duchess of Breakwater, a beautiful widow, who is attracted by his immense fortune and takes a liking to her. When Dan was a boy, a girl sang a solo at a church, and he had never forgotten her. The Galoreys, Lily and Dan attend a London theater where one Letty Lane is the star. Dan recognizes her as the girl from his town, and going behind the scenes introduces himself and she remembers him. He learns that Prince Poniatowsky is suitor and escort to Letty. Lord Galorey and a friend named Ruggles determine to protect the westerner from Lily and other fortune hunters. Young Blair goes to see Lily, he can talk of nothing but Letty and this angers the Duchess. The westerner finds Letty ill from hard work, but she recovers and Ruggles and Dan invite her to supper. She asks Dan to build a Home for disappointed theatrical people. Dan visits Lily, for the time forgetting Letty and later announces his engagement to the duchess.

CHAPTER XIV—Continued.

"Why, the old duffer is as happy as a house afire," said the boy. "Not to boast, I've done the whole thing up as well as I know how. I've got him into that health resort you spoke of, and the girl seems to have got a regular education ideal. She wants to study something, so she's going to school."

"Go on talking," the actress invited languidly. "I love to hear you talk Montana! Don't change your twang for this beastly English drawl, whatever you do."

"You have though, Miss Lane. I don't hear a thing of Blairtown in the way you speak."

And the girl said pensively: "I wish to God I [illegible] through! I wish I'd never changed my speech or anything in me that was like home."

And the boy [illegible] forward eagerly exclaimed: "[illegible] do you mean that? [illegible] how [illegible] London [illegible] about you! Why, if you ever go back to Montana they will carry you from the cars in a [illegible] through the town."

She waited until she could control the emotion in her voice.

"Go on telling me about the little girl."

"She was so tickled [illegible] to give the money up to me and I guess it will draw interest for her all right."

"Thank you," smiled the actress, "you are terribly sweet. The child got Higgins to let her into my dressing room one day after a matinee. I haven't time to see anybody except then."

Here Higgins made her appearance in the room, with an egg-nog for her lady which after much coaxing Dan succeeded in getting the actress to drink. Higgins also had taken away the flowers, and Letty Lane said to Dan:

"I send them to the hospital, they make me sick." And Dan timidly asked:

"Mine, too?"

This brought a flush across the ivory pallor of her cheek. "No, no, Higgins keeps them in the next room." And with an abrupt change of subject she asked: "Is the Duchess of Breakwater very charitable?" And Blair quickly replied:

"Anyhow she wants you to sing for her at a musicale in Park Lane when you're fit."

Miss Lane gave a soft little giggle. "Is that what you call being charitable?"

Dan blushed crimson and exclaimed "Well, hardly!"

"Did you come here to ask me that?"

"I came to tell you about 'our mutual poor.' You'll let me call them that, won't you, because I happened to be in your dressing-room when they struck their vein?"

